Red Cross Annual Election Tonight City Council Refers Gas Question to City Attorneys

Action Taken on Gas Issue

Attorney General Asked to Hasten Decision

Action was taken by the city on the reduction in gas rates by the McLean Gas Company, by referring the matter to attorneys, at the regular month-long meeting held Friday afternoon. The secretary was also requested to the state attorney general and that action on the injunction of the railroad commission's decision be speeded up, if possible. The state railroad commission upon the city's rate of 30c, but the city secured an injunction in district court at Austin, restraining the commission's order being put in effect, which has kept the 50c in force. The franchise was recently granted to W. Humphreys of Amarillo for gas, which must be piped into the city by the last of this month, as an extension of time is granted by the council. It is understood that two other companies are waiting the outcome of the new franchise, to figure with the city on 30c gas.

F. Stewart Drops Dead at Home Tuesday

F. Stewart, aged 60 years and months, fell dead at his home Tuesday morning from dilation of the heart. The deceased had been apparently well as usual and had passed through the kitchen, lit a cigarette, and went out in the yard to crank his car. About three minutes later Stewart saw the body lying on the ground where he had fallen under the front of the car, without ever starting the engine. Mortician C. S. Rice was called, and funeral services were held at the home the next morning, conducted by Rev. Jno. H. Crow, pastor of the First Methodist Church. Interment was made in Hillcrest cemetery.

Bourland's Chickens Have "Jake Leg"

F. H. Bourland, former McLean banker, now a New Mexico farmer, in a letter to Dr. A. A. Tampke, states that his chickens have "jake leg" and asks the doctor for a cure. P. T. A. MEETING

Rev. W. A. Erwin spoke on the Bible in the Public Schools. "You cannot have morality without religion," said the speaker. "Exclude religion from education, and you have no foundation on which to build character. Education has not decreased the criminal class, but given him more power. If the schools do not teach morality, many children will go without." A piano solo was given by Luella Jones, and a reading, "The Twins," by Clyde Carpenter. Supt. Boswell spoke, endorsing Rev. Erwin's remarks, and then commented on this year's report cards. During the business session, reports were given by the committee chairman, and plans made for a Halloween carnival. The County Council of P. T. A. at Laketon was mentioned. A motion carried that ladies who attend P. T. A. meetings wear cotton dresses. Mr. Marvin Hall of Alanreed was in McLean Thursday.

Officials of Chapter to Be Elected

Miss Ivy Hendricks, Representative, Here

The regular annual election of Red Cross officials for the local chapter will be held at the city secretary's office tonight (Thursday), according to an announcement by Chairman Reuben R. R. Cook. The election is usually held a little later in the season, but Mr. Cook has thought it advisable to elect officers while Miss Ivy Hendricks, field representative of the national Red Cross is present. Miss Hendricks arrived in McLean Wednesday and has been familiarizing herself with the needs since that time. She will be present to address the meeting tonight. The annual roll call will be held next month, the proceeds of which will be used to pay the expenses of a Red Cross school nurse, a tentative contract having already been signed for the nurse. Mr. Cook has served as chairman the past year, with Boyd Meador as roll call chairman; making enviable records in their respective offices. Full reports of their activities will probably be given at tonight's meeting. Miss Hendricks will outline the distribution of free clothing and flour under the auspices of the Red Cross, and is anxious that as many as possible attend the meeting, the ladies of the community being especially welcome. Anyone interested in welfare work, school nursing service, or anything sponsored by the Red Cross, will be welcome at the meeting, regardless of membership in the local chapter.

GOVT. BORROWERS MAY COLLATERALIZE COTTON

G. L. Geesey, field inspector for the government crop production loan at Pampa, was a visitor in McLean Tuesday, and in a conversation with the News editor, said that all loans must be paid by the 30th of November, or the farmer may collateralize his cotton, putting it up at 9c, as security to the government, and having until March 1st, next year, to sell the cotton, after which time the secretary of agriculture will take charge and sell it. Mr. Geesey says that Gray county farmers will apparently take care of their loans when due.

"Speedy" Watkins has bought a Hampshire gilt for his club work. Dr. Tampke says that other boys are planning to buy registered gilts, and it is hoped that they will all buy the same breed. These pigs are being secured by Dr. Tampke for only a little above the market price, paying 4c per pound for them.

TURKS DEFEATED BY TIGERS

The Tigers ran wild last Friday when they downed the Turkey Turks 69 to 0. The Tigers showed some nice team work. In the first quarter the Tigers made four touchdowns and one extra point. Ellison made one touchdown, Dowell one, and Crockett two and scored the extra point. In the second quarter C. Christian made one touchdown. Crockett made two and scored another extra point. In the fourth quarter West made one touchdown and A. Christian one, with Robinson scoring the extra point.

The long runs by Crockett and Dowell were made possible by good blocking and interference by the team. Just before the whistle blew for the last quarter, a very beautiful slow punt was kicked by Cash.

There was a nice crowd out for the first conference game.

The next conference game will be Friday of this week when the Tigers will meet the Quitaque eleven on our gridiron.

M. H. S. AGGIES

It looks as if we were going to have a big time, folks. Bert Carpenter, the F. P. A. president, has appointed a committee. These boys will plan a social for some time in the near future.

Our Future Farmers of America Club is increasing daily. We have about sixteen members who have already paid their dues. It is important that the boys pay these dues, for it will make them eligible to win a certificate of merit that is offered by the State Department for unusual achievement in various agricultural activities. Forrest Switzer won one of these honors last year.

The boys are working on the various teams, especially the meat judging team, the members of which are going to Kansas City on Nov. 11. We hope they will win some of the honors offered there.

HOME ECONOMICS

The home economics reporter announced that the V. H. E. Club would meet on the second Thursday of this month, but due to the fact that the P. T. A. meets on that date, we postponed the meeting until the third Thursday, which is this week. From now on the club will meet on the first and third Thursdays of each month, and everyone who has taken, is taking, or intends to take home economics is invited to become a member.

The home economics classes have been reviewing for six weeks examinations. The second year foods class served an informal buffet luncheon last Wednesday. The menu was as follows: Meat loaf, tomato sauce, potato salad, corn bread sticks, cherry cream pudding, cocoa.

GIRL SCOUT REPORT

The Girl Scouts met at the home of Juanita Wade Thursday afternoon at 3:30. The subject of the meeting was giving a sick person a bath.

After this profitable lesson was over, the hostess served watermelon to those who were present. New members are welcome.

Short History of Texas—Ruth Hess.
 Interesting Texas Cities: San Antonio, Bert Carpenter; Galveston, Beth Word.

WHAT IS A LEAD PENCIL?

By Fred Wayne Harris
 We think a lead pencil is a long piece of lead covered with soft wood, but the inside of our pencils is made from graphite, which was discovered in England. The graphite is too soft to make pencils, so it has to be mixed with clay and ground to a fine powder. This is then mixed with water till it looks like a black cream. Then it is ground for a long time, and part of the water is drained off. This leaves a thick dough which is put into a press that has a hole in it as large as a pencil. It is pressed out, making a strip of black lead. These strips are put out to dry and cut into pieces seven inches long for pencils. They are then put into a hot oven and baked for several hours.

The wooden coverings are made from red cedar wood which has been cut into proper lengths and glued to the lead.

THE STORY OF PAPER

By Loyce Landers
 Chinese people were the first to learn how to make paper. It's a very strange story. They watched the wasp make her nest. She first took a bite of wood and chewed it into pulp like paste, and smeared it on her nest. After this became dry, it was something like paper.

Thousands of years ago the people of Egypt made paper out of a papyrus plant that grew along the banks of the Nile. They cut this plant into strips, then placed them side by side. They placed another layer on this in the opposite direction. They then put a heavy pressure on it to make it stick together. When it dried it made a good piece of paper.

Greeks and Romans soon learned to make a writing material from skins of calves, kids, and lambs. But toward the end of the fifteenth century a paper mill was set up in Germany.

Today paper is made with modern machinery. It is made from linen, cotton, wood and old rags. Without paper, the history of the world would be different today.

Mrs. Arnold Steger resigned as secretary of the organization, and Mrs. Greenwood was elected to fill the vacancy.

Several short talks were made by members, after which the meeting was adjourned.

An intensive health program is being effected in the Al-anreed schools. Permanent records will be made of all health information concerning each child. A height and weight record is being made of each child each month. Other tests will be made and results recorded as soon as possible. We expect to conduct a physical examination with the aid of a doctor as soon as most of the pupils return from cotton picking.

Masters Graham Reeves and Leon Steger, erstwhile "knights of the cotton patch," are in school again this week.

Misses Ruth and Darrel Parker visited with Miss Ruth Palmer this week end.

GRADE SCHOOL NEWS

Roy Kiser missed school Friday in order to help his father get his new place of business open.

We are glad to have Perry Hunt back in school after his seige of cotton picking.

The 4th and 5th grades gave the program in assembly last week. Emma Lee Guill read a passage of scripture from Matt. 5, after which Miss Pettit led in prayer. The following numbers were given in the order mentioned: a song, "Whistle Mary," by two girls; a Riley program consisting of a little dialogue and three readings from James Whitcomb Riley, given by seven children; and a song, "Billy Boy," by Ernest James.

The program was concluded with a short "pep" rally led by the high school athletic coaches.

Norma Rue Bryant of the 4th grade made 100% in spelling last week.

We are glad to report that our first six weeks examinations are over and only two of those present in the 4th and 5th grade room failed on more than one examination this first period. The teacher is very well pleased with the work that the majority of the students are doing. Ernest James was ill and absent from school last Monday.

Ray Reeves, who has been out picking cotton, is back in school this week and is taking examinations and making up some of the work he missed.

Tommie Ernest Woods and Margaret Fulton's attendance for the past six weeks has been 100%.

The 1st grade students show a real interest in nature study. They have collected everything they can find to study. They are now booklets on the study of insects. Unusual talent for singing discovered in a 1st grade child, Jessie Joe Gibson.

Mrs. J. G. Davidson and daughter of Ramsdell were in McLean last week.

ROSES THIS FALL

Fall are both considered planting times for roses, but the season is so short that more gardeners are counting their roses in fall. From a point of weather conditions, an ideal time to set out in most cases the weather is also more complete than in spring, and diseases are thus avoided. Fall-planting has an opportunity to themselves in their new when spring arrives they place for roses where water stand after rains, and one exposed to full sunshine part of the day. Trees or hedges are valued on the north and west sides of the roses away from the root systems of these larger roses do well in almost any soil if well fertilized, drained and the rose beds prepared some in advance of planting so that they will be firmly settled. Dig and at least 18 inches deep, and about one-third its bulk well-rotted cow manure, or a quantity of other manures. If special fertilizers are used in the manures, follow directions on the packages. If the rose beds be located in a place that is damp or soggy all the drainage will be necessary.

Types to Plant

They differ so very much and vary from garden to garden so that it is difficult to recommend special varieties. Not all do well. Some are very shy bloomers; some are naturally small plants; but all of them have some virtue which has made them desirable. Roses are so sensitive that even the poorest soil more than pays for itself by the bloom it produces the first season. And, besides, the interested gardener always wants to try new and different things each year.

the roses that are almost certain to do well, there are: Gruss an der Rhine, Lady Alice Stanley, Mrs. Field Christie-Miller, Mme. Butterfly, Ophelia, Mrs. Aaron Ward, Mrs. Red Radiance, and Willow. These are not the best roses in the world; they are merely the "doers" and, in general, succeed where others may fail. Those that are most for their extreme beauty and fragrance are: Jonkheer J. L. Kabiner, Auguste Viktoria, Mrs. Alice Stanley, Los Angeles, Mme. Edouard Herriot, and de Georges Pernet, Willowmere and William F. Dreer.

before the hybrid teas were created the most popular roses were known as perpetuals. They are extremely beautiful, with very large flowers and quite large bushes, but most of them bloom in June only, or have an occasional flower afterward. Because they are so extremely hardy, and because they withstand weather much better than the perpetuals, they are still much grown in the colder parts of the country, and some rose enthusiasts prefer them to any other type. They should be planted in beds, the same as hybrid teas, but they need a little more space to develop.

Spring is the ideal time to plant roses so that you may have them in bloom on time to set out during the planting weather.

Winter Protection

Round the earth up around autumn-planted roses and when it has frozen, covering of straw manure or other material should be applied to protect against thawing and winter heaving. The netting or branches to hold this covering in position. Do not cover the beds with wet, soggy manure, or use a dense covering which will smother the plants. The beds should be kept dry and shaded from the winter sun.

PENNY TO USE NEWSPAPERS

It is reported that the J. C. Penny Company will again go back to newspaper advertising as its principal publicity. Bills and circulars at even a cheap quantity price could not force the doors of private homes and be received as the local paper with its vital news and views of the home community. It was found that when people pay from two to six dollars a year for their local weekly or daily newspaper, they do so because they want it. Bills and circulars at any price did not enter or get the attention of the whole family.

Considering the value of a list of people who pay for and want the local newspaper, plus the value of perfect distribution, with no waste, plus also postage paid, there is no form of advertising to equal that presented by the local weekly and daily press.—Pointers.

A good kicker on the gridiron has many friends, but a kicker any where else is something else again.

News items intended for publication should be handed in as soon as possible. Last minute news is always welcome, but anything that could be turned in early in the week should be in our hands at once.

We must ask the indulgence of our reporters and insist that if an item is covered in the school news, it should not be expected to be written up on another page of the same issue. It costs money to set type, and there is no good purpose served in carrying two identical items in the same issue of the paper.

There is only one way to lighten the tax load, and that is to spend less. The centennial amendment to be voted on next month is cleverly worded so that a favorable vote means that permission is given to spend tax money for this purpose, but this should deceive no one, for it is pretty well known that the chance to spend is generally all that is needed, and in this case would in all probability be taken as the expressed will of the voters that it should be spent. We are in favor of the centennial, but let the commercial interests of the state that would stand to profit most, pay for it.

In defending its position on high school football, the Inter-scholastic League states that by far the largest proportion of the schools in Texas have no football team at all; only 16 of the more than 800 high schools carry the football contest farther than a district or regional championship. In 10 of the 16 conference A districts, the championship can be determined in a schedule of four or less games; in four of the districts five games are necessary, and six games necessary in the other two.

The league deprecates the tendency to make money out of any school sport, as it is bound to result in disaster. Superintendents and teachers are not paid to be business agents for athletic clubs, and many other evils flow from perverting the true aims of school sports.

GOLF GOSSIP

By D. A. Davis

Well, folks, I'm in fairly good humor this week since I have not had to contend with Old Brindle Face lately. I've just about got over my mad spell. But just to put you city folks wise (the farmers already know it), I want to inform you that Old Man J. E. Lynch down at the Farmers Gin is the biggest liar in Gray county.

Old Tack says he had to quit playing golf in order to stall off his creditors. Next thing he will have to do, as well as us golfers here, is to get rid of our radios and automobiles so we can get in on the charity list this winter. I ain't got no radio, and the old bus has gone blue so folks, I'm in the front line for some charity which I am bound to have this winter.

I've been so busy the past two weeks checking up on you golfers I didn't have time to write anything last week. What I've been doing was to find out why most of our prominent golfers quit playing golf this past summer. Johnny Haynes was the first one this cub reporter (why do they call them cub reporters?) interviewed, and John said he lost the only ball he had left over from prosperous times, and would not find another one, so he had to quit.

But the rest of our golfers all reported they had been so busy they simply did not have time to play golf. Old Man Brooks said his business was simply so pressing that he simply did not have any time whatever to play golf. Bill Bogan reports that his office has been simply swamped with delinquent taxpayers trying to pay their taxes before the tax rate was decreased. And old Creed has been so busy writing insurance and collecting back school taxes that he was ashamed to look a golf ball in the face.

Donald Beall was so busy fixing up abstracts that he had to get old Wheeler Foster to help him. And Clint Doolen, the poor old boy, has about worn his fingers out writing orders for farm implements and filling out notes that he could not even play on Sundays.

Ed Lander reports that the railroads have cut in on truck competition so heavily that the Rock Island can't take care of their business and he has to close his office at 3:30 p. m. in order to catch up with his work by bed time. And Doc Campbell has made so many false teeth and pulled out so many rotten teeth that his game got so rotten he had to give up golf entirely.

Johnnie Back was working so hard distributing flour and food for the hitch-hikers and transients he simply had to lock up and help his wife work out the garden and mow the lawn. Our president was so busy receiving payments on our golf certificates that he had to stay on his ranch most of the time to keep from being overworked. And the caddies got so many tips at the start of the season they quit coming out because they did not need the money.

So all in all, it looks like Old Man Prosperity has returned and all we will have to do now is tell the coming generation what an awful time we had away back in 1930 and 1931.

Oh yeah, I was just about to forget Carl Greene and Boyd Meador (meadow green or green meadow, either way you want it). Carl says he has been up in the air a-straddle of light poles so much he had to come down suddenly several times in order to take care of his business; and Boyd is still trying to get married, and is so busy at the job he has not yet discovered there is no use.

There is not but one thing you McLean folks are slow about, and that is in listing your oil stocks and preferred certificates with me for sale. Evidently you are satisfied to let the dividends pile up so you can leave a great fortune for your children to squander when you are dead and gone. I don't see no use in doing this because it won't be long until there will be other new stocks and bonds coming on the market that we will all want to buy, so we just as well get those old ones out of our way before the rush starts. I wish you folks would just drop in and list your oil certificates with me. I sure would like to know just how much money has been invested in this town in this kind of stuff.

Well, I have to admit I am some cotton price prophet. Do you remember what I said about the price of cotton a couple of weeks ago? How much did I miss it? And another thing. Understand, I hate to do it, but you just watch and see if cotton don't go down some more, and I'm awfully afraid some of you farmers who are holding your cotton for 8 or 10 cents are going to be awfully disappointed some of these days. Of course, I don't want anyone to think that I am trying to encourage you to sell your cotton, because I surely do want you to get every cent you can for it, and then that will be too little; but folks, cotton ain't going to improve none until other farm commodities advance, as well as stocks and bonds and livestock.

Sunday's Lesson

PROBLEMS OF THE MODERN HOME

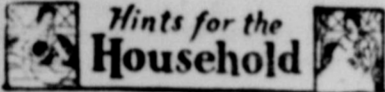

Rev. Cecil G. Goff
 Lesson
 Matt. 23:1-15; Eph. 6:1-9.
 The modern home is a private problem, but also a public one. The inner home life is portrayed in its activities. The fact that fifty per cent of the criminals are imprisoned, today are years of age is a greater shame to the homes of the passing than to our national ex-

God's word. (Eph. 6:1-4). "No one person can tell another how to run his family." Nor can the correction of children be accomplished in any one day, or by the same means, but it must be done day by day with wisdom given in answer to prayer and in "love which is faithful even unto the necessity of chastising."

Servants and masters, or rather slaves and owners, are also given strict admonition to treat other as becomes his Christian state. God sees no difference in a slave and an owner, provided both are Christian. One is as good and as worthy, so far as his possibilities are concerned, as the other.

Slavery has in the main been abolished today. The great trial now is between capital and labor. When both are Christian, there will be no difficulty.

The secret of making a Christian nation is in making the homes of that nation Christian.

Hints for the Household

By Betty Webster
HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Save Paraffin

Save all paraffin from used jelly glasses. Don't throw it away. That's being wasteful. Simply take each piece out of the used jelly glass and wash and dry it. Put away in a covered dish and keep handy for use again when needed.

COOKING HINTS

Hallow'en Cats

Make cats out of cheese.
 Method: Mold two balls of cheese—one a little larger than the other. Place smaller one on top of larger one. Then on top one—mark cat's face—eyes, nose, mouth and ears. A tall can easily be added. These are cute on salad plates.

Hallow'en Salad

This is a pretty way to serve fruit salad.
 Method: Take a pretty red apple. Hollow out center. Make a face on side. Fill with fruit salad.

Grape Juice Mousse

1 pint whipping cream.
 1/2 cup powdered sugar.
 Salt.
 1 cup grape juice.
 Method: Whip cream. Add sugar, salt and grape juice. Mix well. Put in a chilled mold. Pack and let stand 3 hours. This recipe makes 3 pints.

BAKING HINTS

Baked Lima Beans and Salt Pork
 Method: Cook lima beans until tender. Drain. Put in buttered baking dish. Place thin strips of pork throughout and on top. Season. Sprinkle little brown sugar over all. If very dry add a little milk. Bake in a moderate oven until strips of pork are nicely browned.

Baked Steak

2 pounds round steak.
 1 green pepper.
 1 lemon.
 1 onion.
 Little tabasco sauce.
 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce.
 1 cup catsup.
 1 cup hot water.
 Little flour.
 Pepper and salt.
 Method: Pound flour into steak. Put in a pan of hot grease. Brown well on both sides. Season. Add onion, green pepper, lemon, tabasco and Worcestershire sauce. Pour catsup and water over all. Cover. Place in oven. Bake 2 hours.

The Road to Better Health

BOILS

By Dr. William J. Scholes

Occasionally someone is so unfortunate as to have one crop of boils after another. Anyone so afflicted would like to know why the boils occur. They would also like to be informed on what can be done to prevent them. For the prevention of any disease consists of a practical application of our knowledge of its cause.

Boils are always caused by infection. The infection lodges about the hair follicles and in the oil glands of the skin. The germs responsible for the infection are usually of the kind known as staphylococcus. They either enter from the surface of the skin or are brought to it from some nest of infection in the system. The tonsils, the teeth, gums, nose and nasal sinuses are some of the places where nests of infection frequently occur. People who have diabetes are especially susceptible to boils and carbuncles. They lack resistance to infections in general.

Cleanliness Important

Among the preventives, cleanliness of the skin is one of the most important. The avoidance of irritation is another. The back of the neck is a place that is often irritated by the collar. Then, when one is unfortunate enough to have a boil, care must be exercised to avoid spreading the discharge to other parts of the skin. Painting the area surrounding the boil with a thin layer of iodine will help some. Care not to carry any of the pus to other parts by means of the fingers will help considerably.

The urine should be examined for sugar. Treatment for diabetes is sometimes necessary. And even though the urine contains no sugar, it is often advisable to cut down the amount of starch and sugar in the diet. Restriction of the carbohydrates (sugars and starches) is especially advisable if one is over-weight.

Any discoverable nests of infection in any of the place mentioned above should, of course, be cleaned out. This may end the tendency to boils and at the same time prevent the occurrence of other diseases.

You Eat the Waffle--- This Does the Rest

It's no trouble to make the most delicious waffles when you have an automatic chef to do the work. You make the batter and you eat the waffle—your new Electric Waffle Iron does the rest! It indicates when the iron is hot enough to pour in batter—and when the waffle is done to a turn. There's no greasing—no smoke—no unsavory odors. If you're not quite satisfied with the waffles you're making now—if they're not crispy and crunchy enough, let your Dealer give you a demonstration of the automatic waffle irons.

THE BRASS COLLAR SLIPPING

"Every time we are urged to be loyal to the Democratic party in Texas," says the Bonham Daily Favorite, "we think how well the Democratic party has rewarded the man who has been the greatest traitor to it. If the party is to reward the traitor and spurn the loyal patriot, why be loyal?" The Favorite's reference is to the candidacy of James E. Ferguson for the presidency on the American party ticket in 1920, and his support of the Republican candidate for United States senator against Mayfield in 1922.

The Troup Banner, edited by Henry Edwards, applauds the point made by the Favorite, and adds that "the day of the 'brass collar' partisan who would vote for a 'yaller dog' if the dog were on the ticket, is passing. . . . You may do as your sense of political decency and patriotic judgment may dictate; but, so help us God, we shall exercise our rights as an American citizen with a free ballot and an unfettered conscience—and vote now and always against Ferguson and all that Fergusonism stands for."

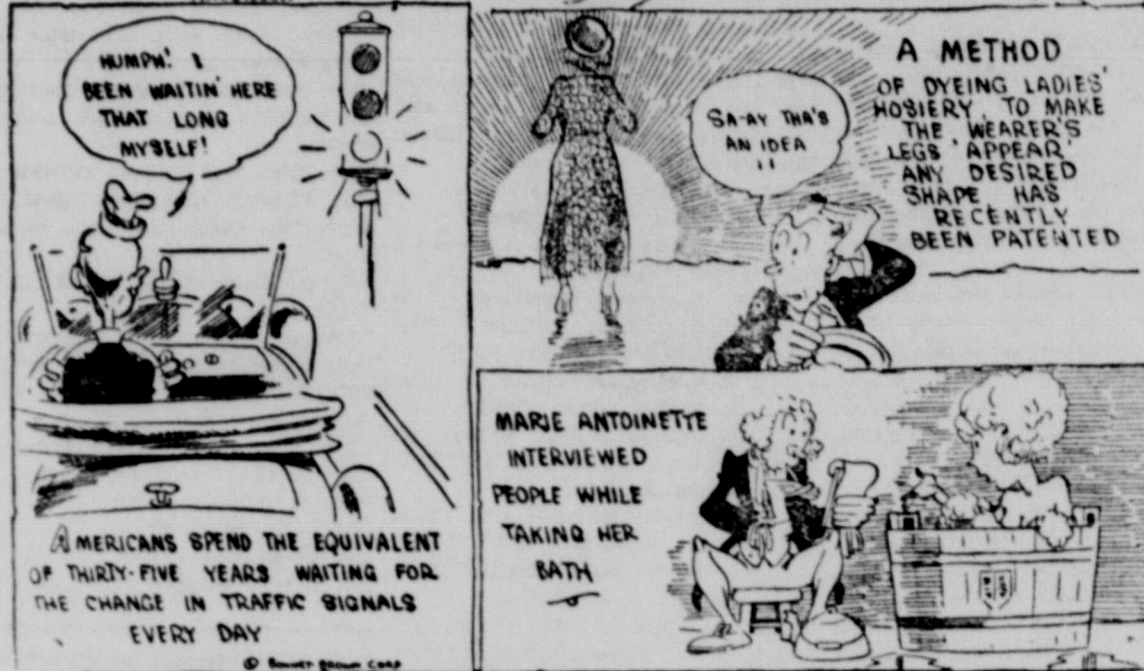

In the same section of the state, Homer M. Price of the Marshall Morning News, tells of an experience with a stalwart "party man." Price pictures him as saying: "It's hard to understand the ethics of politics. I am told unless I vote the state ticket straight I am a traitor and a renegade, and yet Governor Roosevelt in every speech he makes urges that it will be the patriotic thing for a Republican to desert his party and vote the Democratic ticket. He heaps eulogiums on Hiram Johnson and Senator Norris because they are going to bolt the G. O. P., and yet I am told unless I vote for a certain candidate for governor, whom I consider entirely unworthy, I am no Democrat, and party leaders hurl maledictions at me. Can you explain when a man is a patriot, and when a traitor?"

Editor Price then proceeds to answer the question as follows: "Here is my idea of a patriot: It's the man who loves his country more than he does his party, and a traitor is a man who knowingly votes for a candidate he believes will injure his country just because his party has made a nomination. What chance would Governor Roosevelt have if the Republicans all stuck to their party? There are at least five million more Republicans than Democrats in this country. If the rule of the brass collar party should prevail, the Democrats had as well not make any presidential nomination. The saving grace in our republic is the voter who thinks more of his country than he does of his party. I told my friend something like this, but he said that he would have to vote for the nominee. Which is all right with me, but I look at it differently."

All of which would indicate that the brass collar is slipping in North-east Texas. But it is not only in that section that Democratic editors are expressing such independence of the party yoke. In the Rio Grande Valley, for example, Editor Gilmore of the Weslaco News muses as follows: "It was a sad day for Texas when Ferguson was impeached. It was the most costly act any legislature any time ever put over. Ferguson would have passed from the political limelight at the close of his second administration, had he not been impeached. He had already done all the damage that he could have done. The impeachment made him a martyr. . . . Spokesmen for the legislative and impeachment move (against Sterling) state frankly, should the court action (against Ferguson) be stopped then the legislative action would be, 'for the people would not condone it,' or words to that effect. . . . To say the least of it: it is a grave situation for the general welfare of the state. No state can prosper and grow under such government. The people had better take heed and STOP THE WHOLE THING by process of elimination of both factions, and try another." In comment on which, the Pharr News, in the same county (Hidalgo), says: "Editor Gilmore is but reflecting the views held by many people in Texas, according to the opinion of Peter Molyneux in The Texas Weekly. Party regularity may hold enough anti-Ferguson voters in line to insure Mrs. Ferguson's election, in the opinion of the Dallas Journal, 'but a heavier percentage of defection from brass-collarism is certain to be recorded than in any year of our political history," it adds. "Organized opposition is already taking on formidable shape," says the Journal. "Strongly reinforcing it on election day will be thousands of quiet but determined voters with whom the best interests of their state will be a paramount consideration."—From Views of Our Views, in Texas Weekly.

RELIGION AND POLITICS

Again the howl goes up to "keep religion out of politics." Church members are being advised to keep their religion where, they argue, it belongs. Well, all we've got to say is that if religion is to be kept out of politics and out of all business association, it ain't worth keeping at home.—Stateline Tribune.
