TRAPPER MAKES GOOD

Tom Fowler, official trapper for Gray county, recently employed by the commissioners court, who is making the base of his operations in the Back community, had caught 32 coyotes up to Saturday night.

Mr. Fowler is running a line of traps 50 miles long and is working under the supervision of County Agent Ralph R. Thomas.

The trapper uses an anchor on his traps, allowing the animal to wander until the anchor catches on something, revealing the animal's favorite haunts. One coyote became caught in river debris and was drowned.

The county pays part of the trapper's salary, and the federal government pays part.

Odd—but TRUE

Superintendents and Principals Meet in McLean

The Gray County Superintendents and Principals Association met here last Thursday evening, with a banquet served at the high school building by the home economics department under the direction of Miss Joellene Vannoy.

Supt. G. C. Boswell was toastmaster and the table was decorated with cut flowers, the menu cards representing ripe pumpkins.

George Colebank gave the invocation, Prof. Ben Guill gave a dramatic reading taken from the play "What Price Glory," Prof. J. W. Dillard gave a chalk talk, and Miss Luella Jones played a piano solo.

Dr. H. W. Finley of McLean was the principal speaker, bringing a paper on "Periodical Health Examinations" that caused a lot of favorable comment.

Mr. Boswell distributed a health article from the State Medical Association, following Dr. Finley's address, saying that the McLean school is the only one in the state to ask for and receive the pamphlet.

John B. Hessey, county superintendent of schools and president of the association, took charge of the business meeting, asking for discussion of the advisability of the repeal of the 6-year scholastic law. Messrs. Sanders, Meek, Hessey, Bays, Boswell, Paige, Wilson, Landers and Finley; and Mrs. Vannoy all spoke to the proposition, all but one favoring the repeal.

The meeting closed with a moving picture given by the representatives of the Hopkins district, who brought the machine used in the Hopkins schools for visual education.

Alnreed was chosen as the next meeting place, the meeting to be held some time in February.

Among those present from McLean were: Messrs. and Mesdames W. E. Bogan, George Colebank, H. W. Finley, G. C. Boswell; Messrs. F. P. Wilson, T. A. Landers, John Harding, J. H. Bodine; and Mrs. John B. Vannoy.

TEACHERS HONORED AT POT LUCK LUNCHEON

A pot luck luncheon was served at the high school building Monday noon, honoring the teachers.

The affair was a surprise, none of the teachers being advised of the visit of their friends until cars began to arrive.

The lunch was spread in the home economics room and a large number of patrons gathered for lunch with the teachers.

Supt. Boswell expressed the appreciation of the teachers for the luncheon.

The luncheon was sponsored by the P. T. A. room mothers and other patrons of the school.

Team Wins Fifth Place Kansas City

Texas Represented by McLean Judging Team

Dr. Tampke's meat judging team won 5th place at the American Royal Livestock Exposition at Kansas City last week, competing with teams from 31 states, and placing about 20 points under Illinois, first place winner.

Bert Carpenter, member of the team, placed 7th high individual with 44 1/2 points out of a possible 50.

The McLean team was handicapped by not having any previous work in competitions, as all they know has been taught here at McLean by their instructor, with local butchers cooperating. The Illinois team, which has won first place for four years, enters many state and regional contests each year.

The McLean team was assigned meat judging by state officials on account of winning a free trip to Kansas City, and to lessen the work of the state livestock judging team.

The McLean team won 9th place at this show last year.

GRAY COUNTY CALVES WIN 11TH AT SHOW

Gray county calves won 11th place at the Kansas City show last week, in competition with 202 calves from seven states.

Jim Farley's calf won, 18th place with a prize of $30, and Billy Wilson's animal placed 29th with $20 prize.

These calves were the only entries from Texas in this division.

HILL CHILD INJURED

Robert Cecil Hill, 5 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Hill of Alnreed, was seriously injured Saturday about 3:30 p. m. when he placed a 22 calibre cartridge on a rock and struck it with a hammer, the bullet entering the abdomen, but fortunately not penetrating the intestines. The boy found the cartridge in the sewing machine drawer and wanted to see what would happen if he smashed it.

The injured boy was taken to a Pampa hospital where the bullet was removed.

Mr. and Mrs. Dillard, Mr. and Mrs. Paige attended the superintendents and principals banquet held at the McLean high school last Thursday night. A number of the members were not present, but an interesting program was presented and a very good time enjoyed by all.

The second six-week period of this year comes to a close this week. The examinations were held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Reports will not be handed out to the children until after Thanksgiving holidays, at which time the parents will receive further notice in this column and in the local paper. We feel that the work being done this week is very good, in spite of the fact that a large number of the students have been irregular in attendance. Most of the cotton is out now, however, and the attendance is increasing, so that the work for the ensuing six weeks should be much more satisfactory than that of the past.

The Alanreed P. T. A. will meet Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 23, instead of their regular meeting date, as there will be no school on that day. Some special numbers have been arranged for the entertainment of the group, and we hope that there will be a large number attend.

From the high school, Miss Georgia Fae Tipton will give a history of Thanksgiving. Mary Fannie Steger will give a reading, and Leon Steger a chalk talk.

A two day holiday has been declared for this week. There will be no school Thursday and Friday.

At the last meeting of the superintendents and principals organization of the county, an invitation was extended for them to meet at Alanreed the next meeting. A vote was taken and the invitation was accepted. The date was left open and will be announced at a later time. This is the first time for Alanreed to entertain the association.

The second monthly weight and height measurement record for the school children was made Monday afternoon of this week.

IT'S UP TO YOU

Life is a horse
 With a bridle and bit;
 It will drive you
 If you don't drive it.

The fourth and fifth grades entertained in chapel this week. A Thanksgiving program was presented. It consisted of the following numbers:

- Scripture reading, Psalms 100.
- "A November Song"—Six children.
- Reading, "Friends"—Two boys.
- Song, "The Pilgrims Came"—Six children.
- "Thanksgiving Dinner"—Sixteen children, each wearing masks to represent some part of a dinner.

GRADE SCHOOL NEWS

The fifth grade is very glad to have Neil Hill, who has been absent several weeks, back in school again.

Ernest James of the fourth grade and Wilsie Blakney of the fifth made 100% in spelling last week.

The fourth and fifth grades wish to express their appreciation and sincere thanks for the pleasant surprise given us Friday afternoon by our room mother, Mrs. Wilson Blakney. We were served delicious popcorn balls and apples. After having taken several examinations during the day, we had a delightful time the ten minutes just preceding the bell.

Orval and Thelma Abbott of the third grade were absent Wednesday and Thursday of last week on account of sickness.

Walter Hill of the third grade and Shirley Bell Hill of the second grade returned to school Friday, after being absent since the third week of school.

James Bryant was absent Monday. The second and third grade room has begun on their chapel program which will be given after Thanksgiving.

The second and third grades are proud of their room mother, Mrs. Clyde Easterling.

We completed our sixth issue of the sixth grade news last week and have the seventh issue at press, to be out this week.

W. E. James, Jr., wishes to know why a baby sneezes seven times, and on what side of the house a yew tree grows in California.

We have Sybil Hill and Perry Hunt back in school after a week's absence. We are glad to have them back, and hope that Perry may feel energetic and get to school on time.

Faye Pettit and W. E. James made 100% in spelling last week.

We have a new good English poster up, entitled "Fill up with Good English and Travel up Life's Highway." The idea is rather clever. Come in and look it over.

Among the many things for which we are thankful on this Thanksgiving are: Health, sound mind, good parents, comfortable homes, clothing, food, opportunity, an education—and two holidays.

Next Sunday's Lesson

STEWARDSHIP OF LIFE

By Rev. Cecil G. Goff
 Golden text 2 Cor. 8:5. Lesson text Mark 1:16-20; Acts 26:12-19.

From the standpoint of stewardship to God, the stewardship of life stands as the primary item. God first wants the man. Unless one gives himself first to God, his gifts are not pleasing to God, for they are compromises on the person's part. When a man actually gives himself to God with no reserve—is willing that God should guide his business, his pleasure, his home, his thinking, and all his possessions, he then has given his all to God. Most men are willing to give God their souls, that He might save them, but they want to keep the strings on business, pleasure, reading, thinking; in fact, all of the activities of life. The story in 1 Cor. 8 reveals that the Macedonian Christians sacrificed far beyond his expectations. It was because they had previously given themselves to Jesus Christ. Therefore, what most men called sacrifice was a pleasure.

Mark 1:16, 19. When John the Baptist was cast into prison, Jesus withdrew to Galilee and made His home in Capernaum. There, just out of that city along the shore, Jesus saw the fishermen in their boats. Four of them Jesus recognized. He had talked with them down in Judah, near Jordan (John 1:35-43). They also knew Him because they had heard His word before returning to Galilee (John 2:2, 12, 22; 4:8). The four, Simon, Andrew, James and John, were close to the shore casting their nets. The men were fishers by trade.

v. 17. Jesus had made up His mind concerning the fact that He wanted these fishermen to become His disciples. So He called to them and asked them to leave their nets and follow Him. Most of us never stop to think what that call of Jesus meant. "Fishermen were not wealthy men. No doubt they were as most of us today—to eat meant that they must work. Economic circumstances were far more difficult then than they have been in the past two years. History reveals that hunger, unemployment, small wages and high taxes oppressed the people to an unbearable point.

And under those circumstances Jesus was calling those four men to leave their work. He was not asking them to give Him a day of their time, but rather every day—every year—by faith to trust Him for something to eat, wear, and a place to sleep.

v. 18, 20. Imagine the questions that arose in the minds of those men. Imagine what they faced. Just imagine what you would face if God called upon you to make such a decision. Jesus didn't give them time to make any sale of their nets, even. He called upon them to come and leave all, as you would leave your farm or business today—just as it stands.

God no doubt had been working in the hearts of those men, because it did not take them long to make up their minds and hearts. As Mark characteristically puts it, "straightway" they left their nets and followed Jesus. They gave up their business and all that they had in order to give themselves to Jesus. How ashamed we ought to be when we let our church and other parts of God's work suffer because we have not given ourselves completely to Him, and will, therefore, not give our time, energy and money.

Acts 26:12-14. Paul stood before King Agrippa. He was a prisoner of the Roman government, and was telling this Roman ruler about his marvelous experience of conversion.

Paul had started to Damascus with authority to arrest and bring to judgment all of the Christians he found there and on the way. As he journeyed there fell upon the caravan at mid-day a bright stunning light which cast all of them to the ground. Jesus spoke. He spoke not in the Greek, which would have seemed most natural and which all of the company would have understood, but in Paul's native tongue and the tongue of God's chosen people—the Hebrew.

v. 15-18. Paul knew who spoke to him. It was Jesus whom he persecuted. Jesus had appeared to Paul to call him to the service of the very thing he had been fighting. Jesus called upon him to give up every ambition he ever had. Jesus asked him to give up his very ways of thinking. Jesus asked him to give up every earthly connection he had ever made. Jesus asked him to start anew for Him.

v. 19. So Jesus asks many of us. Paul said that he was not disobedient to the heavenly vision. And we know the great sacrifice Paul made, finally forfeiting his very life. How many times there comes to our hearts the call of God to a service or to shoulder a responsibility for Him or His church and we, unlike Paul, and unfaithful, say "No." Let us give ourselves first, that we may please God.

WE HAVE THE PEP!

Who said the grade school children were not loyal to the Tigers? Football was in the air all day Friday, and it had not blown away Monday morning. Below are a few reports of the reactions of our pupils before, during, and after Friday's victory:

Julia McCarty: Friday morning every child in grade school was so scared that McLean would lose the game. That afternoon the first period in a history contest, we were divided into groups, Tigers and Irishmen. We chose sides, and Mrs. Back was the referee. She would give us a history question and if we could answer it we made a touchdown. At the end of the period the score was: Shamrock 20, McLean 19. Of course we did not want the score to be that way in the real game. And it wasn't!

Paris Hess: I was scared—afraid that the Tigers were going to lose. I ran to the field, waiting for the Tigers to come out. When they came I jumped up and down. When the game started, I thought that Shamrock had some very big players beside ours, but hoped the Tigers would be better and beat them any way. When the game was over, I was so happy! The score was 29 to 0, and "hamrock couldn't say, "Hurrah! We beat!" We had it on them this time.

Joe Billy Bogan: Friday morning all I could think about was what was going to happen that afternoon. We got out at 2 o'clock. I ran out to the football field. The game started in about 20 or 30 minutes. During that time I couldn't stand still anywhere. I couldn't see some of the time. I thought it would never be time to start. I was afraid that someone would get hurt. After the game, I surely was glad that we won 28 to 0, and no one got hurt! Not so bad for a little town like McLean. D. V. Nicholson: I could hardly wait for the game to start. I was just thrilled to death when they started to kick off! When Shamrock started holding them, my heart sank and nearly got a touchdown, I was scared! When they penalized us, I just knew that we would not get a touchdown that time. I was afraid McLean would get penalized for making so much noise that they could not hear the signals.

HISTORY SCRAP BOOKS

The 6A history class began this week to make a scrap book—"Texas under Six Flags." Mr. H. W. Brooks furnished the book. Thank you, Mr. Brooks.

The 6B class is making a different kind—"Know Your Own State." It will be divided into sections and a pupil has been appointed as captain for each section. They are: Early history, Jesse Dean Cobb; motto and flower, Anna Dell Sligar; poems, Spencer Sitter; interesting places, Jeff Coffey; important cities, Leta Mae Phillips; important men and women, Stanton Gardner; industries, R. L. ... animals, W. C. Stotts; education, Margaret Kennedy; transportation, Shirley Johnston.

A TRIP TO KANSAS CITY

Billy Wilson, a 6A student, gave a report on his trip to Kansas City. It was enjoyed so much by the English class that it was repeated in assembly Friday morning.

Billy left early Wednesday, Nov. 9th. He reached Kansas City the second day. The second day following, his calf won 29th place, winning a $20 prize.

THINGS USED FOR FUEL

4B Health paper by James E. Finley Wood was first used for fuel. From the early times men cut and sawed wood from the forest. They cut it into fire wood lengths and split it. Next coal was used for fuel. Coal is dug from the ground. Coal comes from plants and animals that have been buried in the ground for years and years. The middle Atlantic states have for a long time been our leading coal section. In later years we have coal mining in the southern states. A short time after, we began to use oil. Oil also comes from plants and animal life. Wells are dug in the ground to get the oil. The middle Atlantic states are also great oil producing states. Oklahoma, Texas and California are perhaps the leading oil states of the union. Coke is also used for fuel. It is made from soft or bituminous coal. We use gas for fuel, too. We have two kinds of gas, natural gas which comes from the ground, and artificial gas. Electricity is used in many ways, also. We, too, use wood alcohol, which is made from wood, and is poisonous to man if taken into his system.

MRS. HARRIS' ROOM

Our room mother, Mrs. Sam McClellan, visited our room last Thursday and treated us with candy. On Friday Mrs. King came to see us, bringing another sack of candy. We surely enjoyed their visit and treats. 100% spellers: Hallie Nell Sligar, Fairlee Koen, Lorene Spears, Bennie Mae Wade, Vernon Ruff, Willis Bear

MRS. SLIGAR'S ROOM

We weighed again the 21st. Many children show satisfactory gains and no losses were reported. All the children in our room are drinking milk, and we feel sure this is partly responsible for the gains. There is not a child in our room at present who is dangerously underweight.

For hand work this month we are making booklets shaped like a bottle. These are filled with pictures of good foods for children, and each child's book contains his weight chart for the year.

Among those from Pampa who attended the football game here Friday were: Siler Faulkner, Charlie Thomas, John Hesse, Sherman White, A. C. Post, W. H. Lang, Carl Bostrom, George Briggs and Harry E. Hearn.

M. D. Bentley, D. A. Davis, E. L. Dingler, Vester Smith, John C. Hines, H. C. Rippey, Reep Landers, Dr. H. W. Finley were in Pampa Friday.

100,000 FAMILIES HELPED BY RED CROSS

Press in All Areas Met by Giving Food, Clothing and Other Aid.

More than 3,000,000 families through the nation were given relief of various types by the American Red Cross in the past winter, to aid them in their distress caused by unemployment, disaster or other misfortune. A major relief task, due to unemployment and other unusual conditions in the bituminous mining counties in many states, was met by the Red Cross chapters alone, or participating with other agencies, in these 143 counties. The Red Cross aided 90,000 families through giving groceries, school supplies, clothing, flour and other necessities to combat privation.

Wheat, milled from government wheat and given to the Red Cross by Congress, was given to 15,000,000 persons during the period from March 8 to June 30, 1932-33, and Red Cross chapters will give cotton clothing, made in government cotton turned over to the Red Cross for distribution.

The Red Cross faces the busiest winter since the days of the World War. It is organized in virtually every one of the 48 states in the United States, and will co-operate with all agencies to meet distress wherever it occurs. The flour has proved of great value, and the cotton clothing will be widely distributed.

While carrying on nation-wide these employment and other relief measures, the Red Cross also was engaged in its regular peace-time activities in public health nursing, service to ex-service men and their families, teaching home hygiene, life saving and first aid. The Junior Red Cross, composed of almost 7,000,000 school children, also aided in the support of the society's relief efforts, and the children aided others of their age in practical ways—mending sewing and food canning classes, and were of great assistance in chapter relief work.

While the wheat and cotton were given by the U. S. Government, no money was provided to pay for the necessary work entailed. The Red Cross will meet this expense of almost $20,000 from its treasury. Citizens aid by joining as members of the local Red Cross chapter during the roll call from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day.

Prolonged drought caused the Red Cross to go with help to 58,000 families in the northwest. Here in 144 counties in North and South Dakota, Montana, Nebraska, Washington and Iowa the Red Cross spent $1,980,000 from its own treasury to feed and protect people through the winter and spring.

Other grave disasters were floods in the southeastern states, where the organization spent $192,000 from its treasury and $56,000 local contributions to help 22,000 persons.

More than 50,000 people were homeless from floods in tributaries of the Mississippi river and again the Red Cross faced a long relief task, aiding these people. The national organization gave $103,000 and local contributions were $19,000.

The Red Cross always maintains a state of readiness to meet these sudden emergencies, and funds and other essentials to this work are supplied, in part, by the annual roll call, held each year from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day. Every citizen can support this worthy activity through joining as a member in the local Red Cross chapter.

Red Cross to Enlist Great Army of Members to Fight Distress

Last year 4,094,459 men and women joined the American Red Cross as members during the annual roll call, Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day. A peace-time army even greater than this will be needed in 1932-33 to support and carry on the nationwide relief work of the Red Cross. There are 3,629 Red Cross Chapters and they have 10,000 branches.

Huge Task of Nurses

Red Cross public health nurses, who work in hundreds of communities, are meeting the greatest demands in history for their services, due to the depression. Visits to maternity cases, protecting the health of infants and children, and aiding mothers in distress due to unemployment of the bread-winners have taken them into thousands of homes. The nurses made 1,247,000 visits to or on behalf of individuals, and inspected 949,098 school children. More than 53,000 adults were instructed in home hygiene and care of the sick.

Blind Readers Get Books

Books in braille for reading by the blind are made by women under Red Cross direction. Last year 2,513 such books were produced in single copy and 2,528 in double copies. Fiction, biography, history, economics and school books were among those printed in braille. The Red Cross gives them to libraries for free distribution to blind readers.

SHAMROCK APPRECIATES McLEAN SPORTSMANSHIP

Shamrock, Nov. 19, 1932. G. C. Boswell, Superintendent of Schools, McLean, Texas.

Dear Sir: I witnessed our game yesterday with your high school football team. You have the best high school football team I have ever seen in action. We lost because you had the better team. I have talked with our players since the game and they tell me they had never played against a team before who played as clean a game as did your boys yesterday.

I want them to receive from Shamrock our sincerest congratulations. The sportsmanship displayed by your football team and the people of McLean was splendid indeed. Such type of inter-high school relationship tends to inspire confidence into the building up of fair play.

With best personal wishes, I am, J. B. CLARK, President, Shamrock Independent School Dist.

SIXTY DISASTERS IN 1932 ADD TO NATION'S DISTRESS

Red Cross Spends $2,760,000 To Help Victims of Catastrophes.

In a year of great misfortune caused by economic depression, in which the American Red Cross assumed heavy burdens of relief for the unemployed, the organization also responded to emergency needs in 60 disasters in the United States and its insular possessions.

During the twelve months ending June 30, 1932, the Red Cross gave aid to 75,000 families totalling 338,000 individuals, with expenditures of $2,760,786. These people were in distress because of drought, flood, forest fire, tornado, snowstorm, mine explosion, or other similar great disaster.

SHRUBS FOR SPRING BEAUTY TO BE PLANTED THIS FALL

There are many reasons for setting out shrubs in the fall instead of waiting until spring. The one reason, however, that is most convincing—the one that changes fanciful musing to eager activity—is the pleasant anticipation of the picturesque garden that will be yours next year.

Shrubs are the backbone of the planting, so give them first consideration when you plan the development of your outdoor living room.

Can you imagine spring coming and going without lilacs to cast their spell over your garden? If you haven't several kinds of this gracious old friend, plant them now. The lilac (syringa) season is all too short, but by proper selection of varieties you can extend their blooming period several weeks.

Most familiar of all is the ever-popular syringa vulgaris with its lovely clusters of sweetly scented purple flowers. Syringa vulgaris alba is a sister variety that grows slenderly upright and has blooms of white instead of purple.

Closely following are the Chinese and Persian varieties. Syringa persica and syringa chinensis (the latter is also known as syringa rothomagensis, the rozen lilac) both have unusually large plumes of exquisitely perfumed blossoms.

Syringa villosa is a later flowering type, as well as syringa josikaea, which forms a large bush with rather small, faintly scented blooms of heliotrope color.

The common lilac is perfectly hardy and does well under the most unfavorable conditions. Of course, if it is given plenty of sun and is planted in good soil it shows its appreciation with increased beauty. The other varieties, however, need a better soil in order to make a successful start, and they like an occasional feeding of bone meal or manure.

Another shrub that will be a charming feature in your planting is the flowering almond. Like the lilacs, the flowering almond is a very pretty dwarf bush. Early in the spring, even before the leaves have dared to venture forth, the brave little flowers join the spring symphony of color. The blossoms put one in mind of roses, except that they are smaller and smugly close to the branches.

Flowering almond can be had with either delicate pink or pretty white flowers and for early bloom in the shrub border, you will find it especially valuable.

A shrub that will add still another color to the border is golden bell (forsythia). Its flowers also appear before the leaves, and their sunny golden color seems to light up the whole garden. The earliest blooming member of the family is forsythia intermedia. Forsythia suspensa has long, slender, trailing branches and is adapted to foreground filling, while the tallest grower, forsythia tunnel, makes an excellent tall hedge.

Surely the longing for an abundance of spring loveliness in the garden is reason enough to plant some of these interesting shrubs this fall.

MAN

Man is of few days and full of trouble. He laboreth all the days of his youth to pay for a gasoline chariot, and when at last the task is finished, lo, the thing is junk and he needeth another. He planteth corn in the earth and tilleth it diligently, he and his servants and his asses, and when the harvest is gathered into the barn, he oweth the landlord eight dollar and forty cents more than the crop is worth. He borroweth money of the lenders to buy pork and molasses and gasoline, and the interest eateth up all he hath.

He begets sons and daughters and educateth them to smoke cigarettes and wear a white collar, and, lo, they have soft hands and neither labor in the fields nor anywhere under the sun. The children of his loins are ornery, and one of them becometh a lawyer and another sticketh up a filling station and maketh whoopee with the substance thereof.

He goeth forth in the morning on the road that leadeth to the city, and a jitney smiteth him so that his ribs project through his epidermis. He drinketh a drink of whoopee juice to forget his sorrows and it burneth out the lining from his liver. All the days of his life he findeth no parking place and is tormented by traffic cops from his going forth until he cometh back. An enemy stealeth his car; physicians remove his inner parts and his teeth and his bank roll; his arteries hardeneth in the evening of his life, and his heart bursteth trying to keep the furious pace. Sorrow and bill collectors followeth him all the days of his life and when he is gathered to his fathers the neighbors sayeth: "How much did he leave?" Lo, he hath left it all. And his widow rejoiceth in a new coupe and maketh eyes at a young sheik that slicketh his hair and playeth a nifty game of golf.

Woe is man! And from the day of his birth to the time when earth knoweth him no more, he laboreth for bread and catcheth the devil. Dost he was in the beginning, and now his name is mud.—Rotary Punch.

MISBELIEFS

That only the ignorant are superstitious. That spilling salt is bad luck. That feather pillows are lightning insurance. That only poisonous mushrooms will tarnish a silver coin placed in the vessel in which they are cooked. That crossing the fingers will avert evil. That fish is a better brain food than bacon. That putting on a piece of wearing apparel backwards is a good omen. That handling loads produces warts. That stepping on an ant will bring rain. That fat people are always good natured. That good pictures, music and surroundings make a moral home. That an owl hoot means death. That dropping a knife or fork means company coming. That lightning never strikes in the same place. That a person falling from a great height is dead before reaching bottom. That rubbing a hunchback's back will bring luck. That an itching palm means money. That dew falls. That to sing before breakfast means cry before night. That picking up a straight pin means good luck. That getting out of the wrong side of the bed starts a day of crossness. That there is a pot of gold at the end of the rainbow. That tickling a baby will cause it to stultier. That only good people die young.

Entered as second class mail matter May 8, 1905, at the post office at McLean, Texas, under act of Congress.

The News editor acknowledges with thanks free tickets to the McLean-Canyon football game, compliments of the Canyon high school.

We all agree that tax-spending boards should employ home labor whenever possible, but we sometimes lose sight of the fact that supplies, from groceries to printing, should also be bought from home merchants who furnish the taxes and employ home labor themselves.

It is to be regretted that betting is done on high school football games, yet there seems to be no way to enforce the law against betting. It is no commitment to the team to have bets placed on it, but the team and school authorities should not be blamed for something they cannot help.

That advertisers attract trade to town has been proven by the series of Saturday bargains run by the merchants of McLean in this paper the past few weeks. The non-advertiser also profits by the increased attendance on our streets, but, of course, not as much as the man who offers the bargains.

Thanksgiving is the opening of the holiday season, and our thought now will naturally run to Christmas. It would be nice if everyone would do his Christmas shopping early, but despite the admonition repeated each year, many will wait until the last minute when things are picked over, and tired clerks' nerves are on edge, to make their purchases. News advertisers have good stocks of fresh goods priced lower than ever, and early buying would work to the advantage of all concerned.

Any number of so-called advertising schemes are peddled in the smaller towns now-a-days. Solicitors out of work take hold of most any old thing and try to put it across. In many cases they do sell their worthless schemes to merchants, but seldom does the scheme prove to be worth what is paid for it. There are tried and proven ways of advertising, of which newspaper advertising is best, that need no high pressure salesmanship to convince the modern merchant of the advantages of advertising.

Seldom a week passes that we are not asked to give a free notice to someone or something where admission is charged. A good rule to remember is that anything you charge the editor for must be paid for if mentioned in the paper. We also make a charge for obituaries, cards of thanks, and such things. If we ran them free, it would be the editor thanking or praising your friends for you, which would not be what was intended. We want to do as nearly like our subscribers desire as possible, but we must have a set rule on what is advertising and what is news matter.

It is difficult to tell just what pleases the readers of The News. A little over two years ago we added, at some expense, several features, with a few favorable comments. A month ago we discontinued those features and no one said anything. We wonder if our colored comics are of any value. They cost us too much to use if they are not appreciated, and they will be discontinued unless we hear from our readers. It is understood that local news is the backbone of the home paper, and we try to give our readers plenty of local happenings, and we would be glad to carry any features of interest, if we can learn what is wanted.

Thanksgiving Day is a great home-coming day in America, rivaling even Christmas in this respect, and while there are many things to dampen our thankfulness this year, if we only look at things as we wish they were, yet if we compare our lot with other peoples of the world, we have a lot to be thankful for.

Material things do not have much to do with human happiness after all, and the man who has the vision to see the good about him can find plenty of things for which to render thanks.

Most of us have a habit of thinking of those things that do not please us, and it is well to have at least the one day of the year in which to contemplate our blessings.

NEWSPAPER FOR EACH READ

The Manchester (England) Guardian finds upon investigation that the close of the eighteenth century the public newspaper room came under the ban of the law. In September, 1790, three proprietors of reading rooms in London were executed by the stamp office and fined $25 for allowing the use of their newspapers to the public. The stamp office desired a large amount from the stamps which then had to be fixed on every copy of a newspaper, and the judge decided that allow one paper to be read by several persons was circumventing the statute.

Summary of Preceding Chapters

Valerie von Strum demands Paul Onslow, head of the Slys delegation at the Geneva Peace conference, choose between her and her mother. He writes his resignation, she is strangled. Professor Onslow, a noted scientist, who has been attending Valerie's dinner parties that night, restores him to life with a machine of invention. Paul, who shows an extraordinary knowledge of events happening since his demise, tears up his will. He says he knows his father's secret. Karl Kranz, Valerie's former lover, suspected by the police of attacking Paul, enters.

CHAPTER 5

"Good evening, gentlemen," said Valerie. Then, apologizing: "I hope I haven't delayed dinner. My cab was up in traffic." International Boulevard, wasn't it?" asked Onslow. "I friend stared at him dumbfounded as he agreed. Satisfied that he had been no murderous anger when these two, the Commissioner and his cigar resignedly. When the others had gone down Valerie's guests, Karl remained behind with his friend, still insisting that he should know of the delay. His uneasiness increased as Paul presented him with a small paper in case of his death showed little interest in Valerie's party. When Karl had gone Valerie looked at the flower in his dress and put it in his lapel. Valerie was waiting for him at the top of the staircase, her eyes shining, smiling him. She reproached him for his tardiness. Then slipping her arm in his, she presented him to her guests. When dinner was announced and the company divided into partners and moved into the dining room, Valerie

"My dear—" "That's it—isn't it?" His arms moved out to embrace her and she thrunk away. "Don't touch me. I suppose, after your victory tonight, you'll go home—and they'll unveil a statue in your honor," sneering. "The GREAT PAUL ONSLOW—PATRIOT." "That's so much finer than any tribute I could give"—her voice broke—even though mine would have called you 'Father' . . . " Blind with anger she could not see that she was crucifying him. Only half hearing his tortured, "Valerie, don't"—she went on, "Oh, I wish that bullet this afternoon had taken both of us. I would have died thinking that you were—" "Don't—Valerie—don't," he cried, his arms going about the woman he loved. Then as quickly he realized the futility of that desire. He could only hurt her. He released her. As he did she checked her tirade. "Paul, don't be so strange," she begged. Then, "Darling, you can have Sylvaria and your career—but you must have me, too. I won't give you up."

Somehow he managed to steel himself to answer: "I should never have come between you and Karl. Your happiness lies with him." "My happiness is my own affair. You don't love me—that's all." She looked at him a moment, then whirled away from him. He watched her go. Then he gazed at his wrist watch. Six hours to live! Six hours of breath and the stars! Reckless bravado and despair rushed like a fire through him. He sprang into his car and loosed the whole power of the engine. The mad pace exhilarated him as he tore along the roads, entered the city and flashed through the streets. A tire burst—the car swerved crazily. Paul laughed. Then a lurch—a sickening crash—When Paul emerged from the wrecked car, bystanders muttered: "Only the devil could live through that." The daredevil smile was still on his face. Then the clock struck. An hour of his time had flown. The thought sobered him. He entered a church and walked down the silent shadow aisle, softly, so quietly that an old woman kneeling at the altar read truth in her eyes. He gave her some bills from his wallet. "Here, take these!" He bowed at her wonderstruck gratitude and left her. Outside, he adjusted his hat. He felt a hand on his sleeve. It was the girl. "Wait, when will I see you again?" He smiled sardonically. "Day after tomorrow, in the Rue Morgue."

Hints for the Household

By Betty Webster
HOUSEHOLD HINTS
Squab Trim
A novel way of trimming squab—truly an appetizing departure from the usual store of frills—is to use stuffed olives. That is, using the large stuffed olives by simply removing the fillings and placing the green olive caps on the bones. This also gives a tempting touch of color to the dish.

To Make Good Soup
Save all water that potatoes and vegetables are cooked in. It makes a delicious soup.

To Wash Lace Successfully
Add ammonia or borax to the suds that the lace is to soak in. This loosens dirt and lace washes easier with less handling.

COOKING HINTS
Cheese Dreams
½ pound grated American cheese. 2 eggs. Little cream, if too thick. Salt and paprika. Rounds of buttered toast. Method: Beat eggs light—mix well with cheese—add seasoning. Add cream if necessary. Spread on bread. Toast in hot oven. Serve immediately.

Lobster Omelette Souffle
Nice Luncheon Dish
4 tablespoons thick white sauce. 4 eggs beaten separately. Method: Beat eggs separately. Add yolks to white sauce. Fold in whites of eggs beaten stiff. Bake in a slow oven. Serve with lobster sauce.

Lobster Sauce
1½ cups thin white sauce seasoned with 1 cup lobster.

BAKING HINTS
Sponge Cake Pans
With sponge cake, angel food and all cakes that depend on air—do not grease pans.

Pie Crust
Where baking powder is used in pie crust, it is necessary to prick pie crust—with a fork before baking.

Ham Souffle
1½ cups milk. 1½ cups dry bread crumbs. 4 tablespoons melted butter. 1 cup cooked, chopped ham. 2 egg whites beaten stiff.

MICKIE SAYS—

THESE TWO CLASSES OF BUSINESS MEN—THEM THAT ARE BRINGIN' GOOD TIMES BACK BY STEADY ADVERTISING—AND THEM THAT SET BACK AN' LET 'EM DO IT!

Method: Scald milk. Pour hot milk over bread crumbs and let stand until soft. Add butter, ham, and last of all beaten whites. Season. Bake in buttered dish or dishes 20 minutes—in a moderate oven. Fill dish or dishes two-thirds full. Serve hot with cream sauce.

"You don't love me, that's all," said Valerie, turning away.

looked for Paul to take her in. She was astonished to see him leaving the room with the Marquesa Franseo on his arm. Puzzled and hurt, she went in with Karl.
At the table, her composure recovered, she set about placing her guests. "Monsieur Commissaire, will you sit here, next to me?" indicating the chair on her left. "And you, Professor, on Pama's left, and Karl, on Pama's right, and Paul—here—beside me."
"I was brought here with a message for you. Your son hasn't left you, mother. He's with you every day, loving you . . . watching over you. Some day you will be with him again. You and he will go on together . . ."
She watched him go, awe and wonder mingled in her look.
"Going my way?" he heard a woman's voice beside him as he walked toward the palace. He saw the pretty woman of the town who had accosted him earlier.
"I was arrested because of you," she said. "It cost me a five."
"I'm sorry I caused you trouble." "I'm answered sympathetically. "What can I do to make it up to you?"
The girl had expected a different answer. She stared at him. Then he caught his arm.
"Let's go in here."
They entered the glittering cafe before which they stood. Soon they were dancing. Suddenly Paul felt a hand in his coat pocket. He grasped it quickly. It was the girl's.
"Why did you do that?" he demanded.
"Because I need money," she answered defiantly. "What's money to you? Nothing. To me it means a chance to get away from all this!"
They had reached their table. He you specify.

SEVENTH GRADE AND FRESHMEN ENJOY PARTY

On Saturday evening the members of the freshman and seventh grade classes met in the elementary gymnasium for a few hours of fun. Many games such as flying dutchman, rabbit, I love my love, and three deep were played until a late hour. Delicious refreshments of pumpkin pie with whipped cream and hot chocolate were served by the room mothers of the two classes. A delightful time was enjoyed by all present. The room mothers who helped were Mesdames Rice, Foster, Wilson, Christian and Boswell. Other guests were: Miss Sinclair Rice, Mrs. Swafford, Mr. Boswell, and the home room teachers, Misses Kennedy and McCarty. About forty pupils were present for the fun.

FOOTBALL QUEEN ELECTED

The annual race for football queen ended on last Thursday morning. The proceeds were smaller this year than last year. The total amount collected was $29.18. This went to the football fund. Maxine Fowler, senior candidate, was elected by a small majority over other classes. Proceeds from classes was as follows: Freshman and seventh, $4.15; sophomore, $8.75; junior, $4.65; senior, $11.50.

At the opening of the Shamrock-McLean game on last Friday, Maxine was given the honor of making the first kick, but due to the excitement, she did not kick the pigskin very far. The seniors were proud of their victory and appreciate all help given them. They are backing the football club and wishing them success at Canyon.

IN ASSEMBLY

The second and third year classes had the honor and pleasure of serving a banquet for the superintendents and principals of Gray county on Thursday night of last week.

The table was very attractively set, with pumpkin shaped place cards and orange mint cups, which Mr. Harding made. The following menu was served: Vegetable soup, crackers, meat loaf, tomato sauce, mashed potatoes, English peas, glazed carrots, Waldorf salad, Parker House rolls, pumpkin pie, whipped cream, coffee, mints.

It is said that all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy, and our superintendents and principals have to have their fun. Immediately after the banquet was served, we were all entertained by a silent moving picture of Will Rogers.

HIGH SCHOOL FACULTY ENJOYS SURPRISE LUNCHEON

The members of the high school faculty were most pleasantly surprised with a very delicious luncheon which was served in the home economics department by a large group of patrons, on Monday. Everything palatable that one could wish for was set on the tables in the food laboratory. The luncheon was served cafeteria style. Much fun was had at the expense of the superintendent, who was completely shocked by the sight of so many people and so much food. A most delightful period of pleasant association was enjoyed by all present.

NIGHT SCHOOL PLEASURES

On Tuesday evening a night school, for the observance of all who wished to attend, was held in the high school building.

HOME ECONOMICS REPORT

On Tuesday morning the pupils and teachers enjoyed two treats in the assembly period. First, Mrs. Alvah Christian brought one of the most inspiring messages that has been brought to the high school this year.

Her subject was "Assets and Liabilities." She made very practical applications and left with the question, "Are you an asset or a liability?" She announced that the room mothers were going to surprise the room that had the greatest number of regular Sunday school attendants.

Next, the junior class presented a Thanksgiving playlet. The message that the play brought was that we should be thankful for the things we have. Those who took part were: Juanita Coleman, Emma Jean Ayer, Alice Hardin, Robert Brewer, Neva Flowers, David Flowers, Avalee Back, Archie Hibler and Sim Rrodes. This was an instructive and enjoyable play.

On Wednesday morning Rev. Erwin visited the chapel hour. He made a very interesting and inspirational talk. The members of the student body and all others who heard the message were glad of the privilege to do so.

TIGERS HONORED AT BANQUET

Mr. Boyd Meador honored the football team with a turkey dinner on last Friday evening. There was turkey with all of the trimmings. Mr. Rush, Mr. Boswell, Mr. Harding, and all of the boys except Neville Back and Kent Carpenter were present. Everyone certainly enjoyed the meal and had a most enjoyable time discussing the game. Mr. Rush expressed the appreciation to Mr. Meador on behalf of the team.

Mrs. Milton Carpenter takes advantage of one of our subscription clubs this week.
