C. O. Greene, second vice president of the McLean Lions Club, presided at the luncheon Tuesday in the absence of other officers.

Club attendance was light on account of several members attending a Lions convention at Lubbock.

The club voted to send one-half the tall twister's fine money each month to the crippled children's fund at Amarillo for the next six months, in place of one-third as formerly.

CALDWELL'S BREAD RATED HIGH

According to a report from the American Institute of Baking in Chicago, Caldwell's Golden Krust bread made a total score of 93 in an analysis last, as compared with an average test for the past three months of 92, of all breads analyzed. The highest individual test during the period was 95.5.

The institute is an independent concern and any baker may have his bread analyzed correctly from a food texture and flavor standpoint.

Caldwell's bakery enjoys an enviable reputation on pastry and "home recipe" cakes, also.

Messames Ella, Sammie and Eric Cubine, and Miss Dorothy Cantrell were in Pampa Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Witt Springer visited in Pampa Sunday.

Claude Williams visited relatives in Austin last week end.

Grand Jury Report

To the Honorable W. R. Ewing, Judge of the 31st District Court of Gray County, Texas:

We, the Grand Jury, respectfully submit our final report of proceedings and actions taking during this term, as well as our recommendations and commendations, and upon final approval thereof would respectfully request that we be finally discharged.

We have been in session 16 days during this term, and have diligently searched for and made inquiry into all infringements of the law or possible violations of our Criminal Statutes, and after careful deliberations and considerations of all facts submitted to us we have seen fit to return 38 indictments, of which eight were misdemeanors and 30 felonies.

We have tried to follow the splendid instructions given us in charge by you, especially in regard to carefully considering the evidence before voting an indictment, as we believe that though we might have used a little more time in our deliberations than was absolutely necessary in every case, yet the results obtained have justified us, in our opinion. We have tried at all times to be particular to develop each case as best we could in the Grand Jury Room, thus eliminating cases where there was no chance for conviction. We mention this on account of the fact that we wanted you to know that your conception of what our duties were when you charged us at the beginning of this term have been followed out and that we heartily subscribe to the same.

We would call especial attention of the different officers over the County to faulty search warrants. A defective search warrant is not only a waste of both energy and money, but causes the offender to feel that he has outwitted the officers. We would suggest that more diligence be used in drawing search warrants.

We have inspected the jail and find that our Sheriff's Department is keeping it in excellent condition. We want to commend the Sheriff for his wise selection of a very able corps of Deputies; they seem to be men of honor and ability, the like of which any county should be proud.

We have gone into County affairs and we would recommend that the commissioners have prepared an inventory of all county property and have the same properly entered upon their books for a permanent record.

We have returned a number of indictments charging violations of the liquor law. And practically all of them have been tried in this term of Court and have resulted in most instances in a verdict of "Not Guilty." This condition is very discouraging to the officers, whose duties call for the enforcement of the prohibition laws of the State, the same as other laws. However, we believe that this is due to the present status of Public Opinion and the unsettled condition of state and national Prohibition issues.

We wish to highly commend our District and County Attorneys for their able assistance in all matters brought before the Grand Jury for their consideration.

Respectfully submitted this the 23rd day of May, 1933.

M. K. BROWN, Foreman.

Cheese Factory Might Solve the Market Problem

By Dr. A. A. Tampke

We people must find a channel through which home commodities can be profitably marketed, and a creamery or cheese factory is one of the best means of converting whole milk into products that can be stored, transported and sold to distant markets. This also would open up a means of consuming the home grown grain, roughage and green feed and perhaps cottonseed or its products in the local community with greater profits. In turn this would mean more employment on the farms, more employment due to the factory, and a weekly payroll to many people of McLean. Since cotton is grown extensively, perhaps it would later result in a cottonseed oil mill, thus furnishing cottonseed meal at home. Also, this land is good for the growing of sugar cane. Perhaps the syrup can be used in the dairy ration in place of shipping in the old black strap syrup. Thus it could possibly result in many avenues opening. Then growth and prosperity might be established in McLean.

If all the business men, chamber of commerce, Lions Club, farmers and patrons were willing to cooperate in such an enterprise, we might see great progress for McLean some day. We recognize the fact that oil might bring prosperity temporarily, but dairy farming could be made permanent. Where you find dairy farming carried on properly, especially where feed grows plentifully, we always see a prosperous people.

Efforts have already been made whereby proper firms or individuals are soon to make necessary surveys and investigations regarding the possibilities. Let's talk of new ways to help McLean over the depression.

NO BIDS ON GRAY CO. ROAD CONSTRUCTION

No bids were received at the date set for letting contracts for topping the McLean-Pampa highway, at the meeting of the commissioners court Monday.

Inability to sell bonds at this time was the reason advanced by interested contractors.

Gray county has about $40,000 cash to put into the proposition and it is now hoped that help may be secured from the R. F. C. funds to finish the road, which is being damaged every day the topping is delayed.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF TEXAS

S. J. R. No. 3. BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. That Article IX of the Constitution of Texas be amended by adding thereto a section to be Section 3, which shall provide:

Section 3. (1) Holding the belief that the highest degree of local self-government which is consistent with the efficient conduct of those affairs by necessity lodged in the Nation and the State will prove most responsive to the will of the people and result to greater economy and efficiency in their local governmental affairs, it is hereby ordained:

(2) Any county having a population of sixty-two thousand (62,000) or more according to the next last Federal Census may adopt a County Home Rule Charter, to embrace those powers appropriate thereto within the specified limitations hereinafter provided. It further is provided that the Legislature, by a favoring vote of two-thirds of the total membership of both the Senate and the House of Representatives, may authorize any county, having a population less than that above specified, to proceed hereunder for the adoption of a Charter; however, if such authorization is by such authority hereunder must be published in one or more newspapers to give general circulation in the county affected, not less than once per week for four (4) consecutive weeks, and the first of such publications shall appear not less than thirty (30) days next prior to the time an Amendment heretofore may be introduced in the Legislature. No County Home Rule Charter may be adopted by any county save upon a favoring vote of the qualified electors of the county affected county. In elections submitting to the voters a proposal to adopt a Charter (unless otherwise provided by a two-thirds vote of the total membership of each House of the Legislature) the votes cast by the qualified electors residing within the limits of all the incorporated cities and towns of the county shall be separately kept but collectively counted and the votes of the qualified electors of the county who do not reside within the limits of any incorporated city or town shall be separately kept and separately counted and unless there be a favoring majority of the votes cast within and a favoring majority of the votes cast without such collective cities and towns, the Charter shall not be adopted. It is expressly forbidden that any such Charter may in any way affect the operation of the General Laws of the State relating to the judicial, tax, fiscal, educational, police, highway and health systems, or any other department of the State's superior government. Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to authorize the adoption of a Charter provision inimical to or inconsistent with the sovereignty and established public policies of this State, and no provision having such effect shall have validity as against the State. No Charter provision may operate to impair the exemption of homesteads as established by this Constitution and the Statutes relating thereto.

(3) A Charter hereunder may provide for the continuance of a County Commissioners Court, as now constituted to serve as the governing body of a county to operate hereunder; or, may provide for a governing body otherwise constituted, which shall be elective, and service therein shall be upon such qualifications, for such terms, under such plan of representation, and upon such conditions of tenure and compensation as may be fixed by any such Charter. The terms for service in such governing body may exceed two (2) years, but shall not exceed six (6) years. In any event, in addition to the powers and duties provided by any such Charter, such governing body shall exercise all powers, and discharge all duties which, in the absence of the provisions hereof, would devolve by law on County Commissioners or County Commissioners' Courts. Further, any such Charter may provide for the organization, reorganization, establishment and administration of the government of the county, including the control and regulation of the performance of and the compensation for all duties required in the conduct of the county affairs, subject to the limitations herein provided.

(4) A Charter hereunder may provide that Judges of County Courts (including that County Court designated in this Constitution), and Justices of the Peace be compensated upon a salary basis in lieu of fees. The jurisdiction of the County Court designated in this Constitution, and be confined to that general jurisdiction of a Probate Court which, where is defined in this Constitution. The office of Justice of the Peace may be made elective or appointive. Other than as herein provided, no such Charter shall provide for altering the jurisdiction or procedure of any Court. The duties of the District Attorney and County Attorney may be confined to representing the State in civil cases to which the State is a party and to enforcement of the State's Penal Code, and the compensation of said attorneys may be fixed on a salary basis in lieu of fees.

(5) Save as hereinabove provided, hereinafter otherwise provided, such Chartered within the limits expressed therein, may invest the governing body to be established for any county electing to operate hereunder with the power to create, consolidate or abolish any office or department, whether created by other provisions of the Constitution or by Statute, define the duties thereof, make the same elective or appointive and prescribe the term, qualifications and conditions for tenure in any such office; save that no such Charter other than as hereinbefore authorized, shall provide to regulate the status, service, duties or compensation of members of the Legislature, Judges of the Courts, District Attorneys, County Attorneys or any office whatever by the law of the State required to be filled by an election embracing more than one county. Existing herefrom nominations, elections or appointments to offices, the terms whereof may not have expired prior to the adoption of this Amendment to the Constitution, adopted hereunder may be in effect (save as to those offices which must continue to be elective, as herein elsewhere specified), all terms of county officers and all contracts for the giving of service by deputies under such officers, may be subject to termination by the administrative Charter of the county, under an adopted Charter so providing, and there shall be no liability by reason thereof.

(6) Any county electing to operate hereunder shall have the power, by Charter provision, to levy, assess and collect taxes, and to fix the maximum rate for ad valorem taxes to be levied for specific purposes, in accordance with the Constitution and laws of this State, provided, however, that the limit of the aggregate taxes which may be levied, assessed and collected hereunder shall not exceed the limit or total fixed, or hereafter to be fixed, by this Constitution to control counties, and the annual assessment upon property, both real, personal and mixed, shall be a first superior and prior lien thereon.

(7) In addition to the powers herein provided, and in addition to powers included in County Home Rule Charters, any county may, by a majority vote of the qualified electors of said county, amend its Charter to include other powers, functions, duties and rights which now or hereafter may be provided by this Constitution and the Statutes of the State for counties.

(8) Any county applying for hereunder shall have the power to borrow money for all purposes lawful under its Charter, to include the refunding of a lawful debt, in a manner conforming to the General Laws of the State, and may issue thereof its obligations. Such obligations, other than those to refund a lawful debt, shall not be valid unless authorized by a majority of the qualified voters of the area affected by the taxes required to retire such obligations, who may vote thereon. In case of county obligations, maturing after a period of five (5) years, the same shall be issued to mature serially, fixing the first maturity of principal at a time not to exceed two (2) years next after the date of the issuance of such obligations. Such obligations may pledge the full faith and credit of the county; but in no event shall the aggregate obligations so issued, in principal amount outstanding at any one time, exceed the then existing Constitutional limits for such obligations and such indebtedness and its supporting tax shall constitute a first and superior lien upon the property taxable in such county. No obligation issued hereunder shall be valid unless prior to the time of the issuance thereof there be levied a tax sufficient to retire the same at its maturity, which shall not exceed the then existing Constitutional limits.

(9) Such Charter may authorize the governing body of a county operating hereunder to prescribe the schedule of fees to be charged by officers of the county for specified service, to be in lieu of the schedule for such fees prescribed by the General Laws of the State; and, to appropriate such fees to such funds as the Charter may prescribe; provided, however, no fee for a specified service shall exceed in amount the fee fixed by General Law for that same service. Such Charters as to all judicial officers, other than District Judges, may prescribe the qualifications for services, provided the standards thereof be not lower than those fixed by the General Laws of the State.

(10) Subject to the express limitations upon the exercise of the powers by this subdivision to be authorized, such Charters may provide for or omit to provide for governmental and/or proprietary functions of any city, town, district or other defined political subdivision (which is within the boundaries of the county) to be transferred, either as to some or all of the functions thereof, and yielded to the control of the administrative body of the county. No such transfer of powers or functions may be effected, unless the proposal is submitted to a vote of the people, and, unless otherwise provided by a two-thirds vote of the total membership of each House of the Legislature, such a proposal shall be submitted as a separate issue, and the vote within and without any such city, town, district or other defined governmental entity, shall be separately cast and counted, and unless two-thirds of the qualified voters cast within the yielding defined governmental entity, and a majority of the qualified voters remain in the county of the county, favor the proposed merger, it shall not be effected. In case of the mergers hereby authorized, without express Charter provision therefor, in so far as may be required to make effective the object of the proposed merger, the county shall succeed to all the appropriate lawful powers, duties, rights, procedures, restrictions and limitations which prior to the merger were reposed in, or imposed upon, the yielding governmental agency. Particularly, it is provided that the power to create, fund, indebtedness and to levy taxes to support thereof may be exercised only by such procedures, and within such limits, now are, or hereafter may be, provided by law, to control such appropriate other governmental agencies were they to be independently administered. Such mergers may be effected under proposed contracts between the county and any such yielding governmental agency, to be approved at an election as hereinbefore provided for. In order to increase governmental efficiency and effect economy the county may contract with the principal city of the county to perform one or more of its functions provided such contracts shall not be valid for more than two (2) years.

(11) In cases of partial or complete merger of the government of a city operating under a Home Rule Charter, or the government of a county operating hereunder, those city Charter provisions affected thereby shall cease to control, and the county Charter provisions shall control. When any embraced incorporated city or town elects to merge its governmental functions with those of the county under the provisions hereof, such Charter may provide for defining or redefining the boundaries of such city and towns, such boundaries may be extended only to include those areas contiguous to such cities as are urban in character; and as are urban in towns and for the benefit thereof the county, in addition to the primary city and county tax herein authorized, may levy and collect taxes upon the property taxable within such city or town as defined or redefined, within the limits authorized by Sections 4 and 5 of Article XI of this Constitution, (or any Amendment thereof) for incorporated cities according to the population provided that no tax greater than that existing at the time of such merger or for any added purpose shall be imposed upon any such city or town unless authorized by a majority of all voters of such city or town.

(12) Areas urban in character though not incorporated, under appropriate Charter provision may be defined as county, provided, however, that no portion of the county shall be defined as an urban area unless it has sufficient population to entitle it to incorporation under the then existing laws of the State; and no such urban area, when created, shall be vested with any taxing or bonding power which it would not possess if it were operating as a separate incorporated unit under the then existing Constitutional and Statutory provisions of this State; and providing further that the government of such areas shall have and exercise all powers and authority granted by law to the governing bodies of similar areas when separately incorporated.

Likewise such Charter may provide for the governing board of the county subject to existing Constitutional and statutory provisions to define, create and administer districts, and have and exercise the powers and authority granted by the constitution and laws relative to the same.

(13) No provision of this Constitution inconsistent with the provisions of this Section 3 of Article IX, shall be held to control the provisions of a Charter adopted hereunder, and conforming therewith. Charters adopted hereunder shall make appropriate provision for the abandonment, revocation or amendment thereof, subject only to the requirements that there must be a favoring majority of the vote cast upon such a proposal, by the qualified resident electors of the county; and no Charter may forbid amendments thereof for a time greater than two (2) years. The provisions hereof shall be self-executing, subject only to the duty of the Legislature to pass all laws (consistent herewith) which may be necessary to carry out the intent and purpose hereof. Further, the Legislature shall prescribe a procedure for submitting to decision, by a majority vote of the electors voting thereon, proposed alternate and elective Charter provisions.

Section 2. The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to the qualified electors of the State at an election to be held throughout the State on the fourth Saturday in August, 1933, at which election all ballot shall have printed thereon the following:

For the Amendment to Article IX of the Constitution of Texas, adding Section 3, providing authority for the adoption of a Home Rule Charter by the voters in counties having a population of sixty-two thousand (62,000) or more, to effect more efficient and economical government within such counties, and to authorize mergers of separate governmental agencies within such counties, as may from time to time be authorized by vote of the people therein.

Against the Amendment to Article IX of the Constitution of Texas, adding Section 3, providing authority for the adoption of a Home Rule Charter by the voters in counties having a population of sixty-two thousand (62,000) or more, to effect more efficient and economical government within such counties, and to authorize mergers of separate governmental agencies within such counties, as may from time to time be authorized by vote of the people therein.

Each voter shall scratch out one of the above listed clauses on such ballot, leaving unscratched that particular clause which expresses his vote on the proposed Amendment to which it relates.

Section 3. The Governor of this State is hereby directed to issue the necessary proclamation ordering an election in conformity herewith to determine whether or not the proposed Constitutional Amendment set forth herein shall be adopted, and the Governor shall have the same published as required by the Constitution and laws of this State.

W. W. HEATH, Secretary of State. (A Correct Copy) 21-4c

The Legislature shall enact laws to enforce this Section, and may from time to time prescribe regulations and limitations relative to the manufacture, sale, barter, exchange or possession for sale of vinous or malt liquors of not more than three and two-tenths per cent (3 2/10) alcohol content by weight; provided the Legislature shall enact law or laws whereby the qualified voters of any county, justice's precinct, town or city, may, by a majority vote of those voting, determine from time to time whether the sale for beverage purposes of vinous or malt liquors containing not more than three and two-tenths per cent (3 2/10) alcohol by weight shall be prohibited within the prescribed limits; and provided further that in all counties in the State of Texas and in all political subdivisions thereof, wherein the sale of intoxicating liquors had been prohibited by local option elections held under the laws of the State of Texas and in force at the time of the taking effect of Section 20, Article 16, of the Constitution of Texas, it shall continue to be unlawful to manufacture, sell, barter or exchange in any such county or in any such political subdivision thereof, any spirituous, vinous or malt liquors or medicinal bitters, capable of producing intoxication or any other intoxicant whatsoever, unless and until a majority of the qualified voters in said county or

Time and again I am told--by my own organization and by others--that I penalize myself by quality.

Friendly critics protest our putting into the Ford V-8 what they call "twenty-year steel." They say such quality is not necessary; the public does not expect it; and that the public does not know the difference anyway.

But I know the difference. I know that the car a man sees is not the car he drives--he drives the car which the engineer sees. The car which is seen, comprises beauty of design, color and attractive accessories--all desirable, of course. The best evidence that we think so is that they are all found on the Ford V-8.

But these are not the car. The car proper, which is the basis of all the rest, is the type of engine and its reliability; the structure of chassis and body, ruggedly durable; the long thought and experiment given to safety factors; the steady development of comfort, convenience and economy. These make the car.

A car can be built that will last two or three years. But we have never built one. We want the basic material of our car to be as dependable the day it is discarded as the day it is bought. Ford cars built 15 years ago are still on the road. It costs more to build a durable car--but two items we do not skimp are cost and conscience. A great many things could "get by"--the public would never know the difference. But we would know.

The new Ford V-8 is a car that I endorse without any hesitancy. I know what is in it. I trust our whole thirty years' reputation with it. It is even better than our previous V-8. It is larger, more rugged and mechanically a better job all round.

I readily say this in an advertisement because I know the car will back it up.

JUST FOR FUN

As the end of the school term passes near, the pupils returned home his mother chanced to be entertaining some callers.

"Well, Charles," said Mrs. Billings, "did you get a prize?"

"I didn't exactly get a prize," responded Charles, but I got a horrible mention."

"What's that I smell?" inquired the lady from the city as she sniffed the air.

"That's fertilizer," answered the farmer.

"For the land's sake!" exclaimed the lady.

"Yes, ma'am," assented the farmer.

Wife—"Darling, do you trust me?"

Hubby—"Trust you, my precious—certainly I do. What in the world prompted you to ask such a question?"

Wife—"Well, I notice that the pocket in which you keep your money is fastened up with a safety pin."

Traffic Cop—"What do you mean, young man, by letting your car wobble all over the road? Why don't you use both hands?"

Young Man (with his girl beside him)—"But, officer, I don't dare let go of the wheel entirely, you know."

Miss Coy—"I see where a man married a woman for money. You wouldn't marry me for money, would you, Lionel?"

Lionel—"No, not for all the money in the world."

Grandma had heard someone say that the mails had been very irregular lately. "The males irregular!" she exclaimed. "It was just the same in my day—no trustin' 'em."

Hubby—"Well, darling, I've just had my life insured for $5,000."

Wife—"That's nice. Now I shan't have to keep telling you to be careful, every place you go."

Specialist—"You are suffering from nerve exhaustion. I can cure you for $1,000."

Patient—"And will my nerve be as good as yours then?"

Phoebe—"Isn't it fine that Dr. Hurt has such a large practice?"

Man—"Yes, it's so large that when a patient has nothing the matter with him he tells him so."

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING BEST

The merchants' bureau of a Washington town recently conducted a survey to find out just what caused people to buy things, and, incidentally, what kind of advertising paid the best dividends. Local newspaper advertising won again. The results of the survey follow:

1. Local newspapers, 30.
2. Attractiveness of window display, 26.
3. Friends' opinions as to where to purchase, 16.
4. Circular letters and catalogues from mail order houses, 5 each.
5. Handbills, 4.
6. Billboards, 3.

The merchants of Auburn, N. Y., recently made an extensive survey by asking their readers "What type of advertising attracts you most?" and the result should not hurt the cause of newspaper advertising.

Out of 221 replies received, the vote was as follows:

- Newspaper advertising, 173.
- Window displays, 86.
- Friends' opinions, 46.
- Circular letters, 10.
- Mail order catalogues, 8.
- Handbills, 4.
- Highway bills, 4.
- Radio, 2.

The Comforts of the American Home

It is a well-known fact that, home for home, the American household has more comforts and conveniences than that of any other nation.

In foreign lands the modernized dwelling is found only in the better sections of the larger cities.

In America, even in remote rural districts, you find the radio, the vacuum cleaner, washing machines, up-to-date heating systems, telephones and numberless labor-saving appliances.

There is a well-kept look about residence, store or outbuildings with an atmosphere of prosperity and content.

Did you ever stop to realize why this is so; how this condition was brought about?

It is largely due to advertising. And a big share of the credit belongs to newspaper advertising.

Stop and think how many of the foods you eat, the things you wear, and other articles entering into your everyday life, you first heard of through newspaper advertisements.

You will then realize what a part they do play, or should play, in your daily life.

Read the advertisements in the newspapers regularly and thoroughly, if you are not already doing so. They mean more to you than you can tell.

It is hard to believe in better times, when lawmakers are trying to undo all constructive legislation on moral questions.

The doctors in convention in Fort Worth recently, decried the idea of state medicine, but we note that they are in favor of state control of medical licenses and think that the state should be very particular as to what school of medicine is recognized.

It's a funny thing that the disciples of old man Mahatma Gandhi are described as young women of white races.

Hero worship may be all right, but it does seem that young women could find better characters than a half-naked old Indian to reverence.

A raise in prices does not always bring in more money, as witness the falling off in postal receipts since 3 cent postage was adopted. Getting the postal department out of the printing business would take a large share of the deficit off the taxpayers' backs, but repeated efforts to secure favorable legislation to get the government out of private business does not seem to have any effect on politicians.

The various amendments to be voted on in August by Texas voters will be found in this issue of the home paper, and it will be well to familiarize ourselves with the provisions of each one, in order that we may cast an intelligent vote.

There was a time when it was practically impossible to get an amendment to the State Constitution adopted, but now the trend seems to be to adopt any kind of proposed legislation, without regard to possible consequences.

Rev. Erwin of the First Presbyterian church calls our attention to the problem of finding something for boys to do during vacation, and advances the idea of each boy having some garden work to do.

There is nothing more healthful, or anything that adds more to the family budget than a good garden. There is plenty of vacant land that can be secured by any boy who wants to spend pleasant and profitable hours during the vacation season. It is understood that several boys are already thus employed and others should be interested.

Advertising money saved now is money wasted. Markets must be bought the same as anything else, and just now a market for your goods can be bought cheaper, on account of fewer advertisers competing for it. The basis of all great fortunes was made in times like this. When the other fellow gives up is time to lay plans for future profits.

Newspaper advertising reaches the customer at a favorable time, when he is comfortable in his home during a period of leisure after the turmoil of the day.

Consistent advertising in the newspaper proves that it must be profitable, else there would not be so much money invested in it each year.

The home newspaper is the most effective advertising medium at the command of any merchant. Handle good merchandise, tell the truth in advertising, and the newspaper can help you sell it.

Seldom a week passes but that we are asked to give some publicity to try and correct something or other, and this week several have asked the editor to say something about damage done by town cows.

We have listened to several accounts that would indicate that something needs to be done about the matter. One man had his garden damaged about ten dollars' worth by a loose cow, to say nothing about losing some tender plants that cannot be replaced this season. This same man has a cemetery lot, and the same day a cow stepped on some graves and ate a lot of flowers at the cemetery. Next morning a loose cow driven by a boy on horseback ran through the garden, trampling three rosebushes down and tracking the lawn. Both cow and rider ran across another lot just seeded, leaving a wrecked trail behind them.

Another man who lives near the railroad property reports staked cows getting loose and wandering around the home, catching the tie chain around small trees and damaging them until they have to be removed. All these things have been going on for years, regardless of city and state laws, and are, perhaps in all cases purely accidental, yet the results to the gardens are just the same as if the cow had been deliberately herded on others' property.

Cows should be securely staked, where they cannot do any damage, if their feed must be secured in this way, and certainly a drug store cowboy should not be turned loose on horseback after a cow in the city limits, unless he has a rope attached to the cow.

This article has no reference to stockmen bringing cattle to town for shipment, for they generally have enough riders to protect property; however, we have heard stockmen complain that the city did not furnish a proper street over which to bring in cattle for shipment.

As to loose cows being herded or staked in the cemetery, there is no sound argument in favor of this practice. The city of the dead is not supposed to be a cow pasture, and the efforts of those who have loved ones resting there, in trying to beautify the place, cannot have much effect as long as animals are allowed to destroy in one day what it has taken months to establish.

It would be a nice thing if the city would use the money obtained from the sale of lots and make a permanent fence around the cemetery, if the practice cannot be stopped in any other way.

Dogs are not so numerous now that the marshal is killing all found without tax tags, and most people seem to be obeying the chicken ordinance, but loose horses and cows still threaten any property owner who tries to beautify his place.

Sending such animals out in charge of small children who are not capable of staking or herding them properly, may be one trouble, and this could be easily corrected in each case.

With just a little thoughtfulness of the rights of others, there would be no occasion for complaint, and surely there is no one who would try to justify the destruction of another's property.

She—"I'm in an awful fix. My husband has received an anonymous letter telling him of something I did before we were married."

He—"Then the best thing you can do is to confess and have it over with."

She—"That's just it. He won't let me see the letter and I don't know what to confess."

Judge—"Are you positive the prisoner is the man who stole the auto?"

Witness—"I was positive until that lawyer over there started to cross examine me and threaten me. I saw the prisoner steal the auto—but now I'm not sure that I didn't do it myself."

Major Biatak—"And there we stood, in the heart of the jungle—that huge panther and I only two feet apart, each staring into the face of the other."

Miss Caustic—"How dreadful that must have been for you both!"

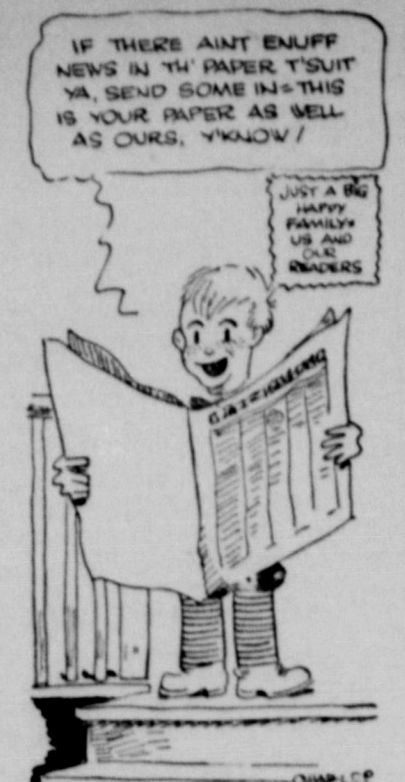

Sam—"Did you have any luck when you went shooting?"

Henry—"I killed 17 ducks in one day."

"Were they wild?"

"Well, no, not exactly, but the farmer that owned them certainly was."

It's Time to Move Forward

Commodity prices have reached higher levels. Retail prices are beginning to show an upward trend. Active buying in many lines is getting under way. And why not? People are weary of the word depression, and would like to resume normal living conditions.

All indications lead to the conclusion that to further delay purchases will mean paying higher prices later on. Buy the things you need now. Local merchants are ready to serve your requirements. Let's get going again. It's time to move forward.

Sunday's Lesson

By Rev. Cecil G. Goff

Lesson text, Mark 13:33-14:9. Golden text, John 15:14.

Jesus was in the evening after a hard day of teaching and discussion in the temple on Tuesday, Jesus went with His disciples back to Bethany. The way they stopped on Mt. Olivet. They had just left the splendor of the temple, and as they stopped to rest out from the city, they saw the beauty of the Eastern sunset. Jesus no doubt stopped here for a purpose. He spoke of the destruction of the temple just as they left it, and His disciples were curious as to His meaning.

The temple upon which they looked was not the one Solomon had built. There had been three completely new ones, and this was the third. The first, built by Solomon, stood until the destruction of Jerusalem by the Babylonian army in 586 B. C. The temple stood for four hundred years. It had been out of use as a place of worship for Jehovah. Many times it had been stripped of much of its wealth even by the kings of the Hebrew nation. Many times it had been restored to its proper use after long desecration, but finally it was left in ruins, along with the rest of Jerusalem, by Nebuchadnezzar. In 333 B. C. Cyrus, king of Persia, conquered the Babylonian Empire and a year later made a decree sanctioning the return of the Jews and the rebuilding of their temple.

The building was begun about 536 B. C. and dropped soon because of opposition. In 520 B. C. the construction was again begun and completed without further delay, although without difficulty. This temple stood then until the time of Herod. It was many times profaned, and finally destroyed by Antiochus Epiphanes, but renewed by Judas Maccabeus. It had been built on the same spot as the temple of Solomon. It was not, however, as large, as beautiful, or as great a display as the original one. Very little is actually known of its exact description.

Herod became king of Palestine in 37 B. C. Soon after he came into power he built the fortress Antonia which included an amphitheatre north of the temple. Later, to lay the fear and anger of the Jews, he decided to build a new temple building. The Jews mistrusted him, and it was necessary for him to gather material first and begin the work around the standing temple before they were satisfied to have their old temple building torn down. Herod began the work by employing ten thousand skilled workmen for the task, about 19 or 20 B. C. The temple proper was completed in a year and a half, but the general structure required this host of workmen for a period of eight years. Then the building was not completed. The work was considered as going on for a period of 46 years, according to John 2:20. And history tells us that some workmen were kept in the temple until 64 A. D., just six years before its destruction. The entire structure had a perimeter of 4260 feet, covering the space of 26 acres. It was entirely surrounded by a wall 4 1/2 feet high. From this wall on at least three sides was a terrace elevated some 12 or 14 steps to the first level of the actual temple of worship itself. This portion of the temple general containing the courts was surrounded by a wall 60 feet high and 7 1/2 feet thick. The first floor level inside the wall was elevated some 22 feet above the outside level, making the inside of the walls about 30 feet high. These walls were built of white marble. Inside them, each court level, the court of the women, the court of Israel, and the court of the priests, were each terraced higher. Finally, in the latter court, elevated above all the rest of the structure, was the temple proper, in which stood the Holy of Holies. This part of the structure was not only built of white marble, but was also covered with heavy plates of gold. Such was the grandeur of architecture and beauty upon which Christ and the disciples looked, and of which the Master had prophesied there would not be left one stone upon another.

Jesus, resting there on Olivet's brow, prophesied concerning the things that were to come. No doubt the disciples did not understand at the time, but in years to come these words of warning proved most profitable to them. Jesus said that there should come those claiming the honor of being the Christ, who would lead away. There were to be wars and rumors of wars, earthquakes, famines, and these were only to be the beginning of travail, but the end was not yet. Persecution was to be the lot of the Christians. It was to be a time when that brother would give up brother to the law, and brother would give up son, even to death. Many horrors were to arise and the end would not yet be. But when the abomination of desolation came, (Luke said that such a time was to come when they see Jerusalem surrounded with armies—Luke 21:20) then the Christians were to flee. They were to wait for nothing. They were to take none of their possessions but to get as quickly as possible to the protection of the distant hills. This all came to pass not long after the crucifixion of the Son of God. Persecution came within a very short period, and grew to great proportions. In 70 A. D. the Jews revolted, the army of Titus surrounded the city, captured it, killed thousands of its inhabitants, destroyed the city and temple and left it in ashes. Indeed not one stone was left standing upon the other. But historical records tell us that so far as it is known not one Christian perished in the mad slaughter. The followers of Christ took their warning, and fled to Pella in the hills beyond Jerusalem, and were saved.

Christ then turned to His own second coming. He did not say when He would come. The signs were to be that the sun and moon would be darkened, the stars fall, nations would be disturbed, men would faint for fear, and all be power shaken. Which of these, so far as men can see, has not already come to pass? But Jesus did not place the emphasis on these, but gave a parable in which He emphasized the necessity of our ever being ready for His coming. We neither know or can know when the time will be at hand, but the blessing goes to those who are in readiness when He comes, whether it be tomorrow, or a century hence. When He comes it will be with such suddenness that the world will be surprised, and with such force that all men will recognize His coming as the final event of time, for it shall be as the lightning even from the east to the west.

It was yet two days until the feast of the passover. The rulers, the scribes, the priests and the elders, as well as the members of the Sanhedrin, had become anxious about this new leader who claimed to be the Son of God, and who was able to cleanse the temple without interference. Their only desire now was to put Him out of the way. They were afraid to kill Jesus on the feast day, for there would be too many people who might take His part. He had so far foiled their every plan. They were wondering how long He would be able to elude them. While Jesus taught concerning the destruction of Jerusalem, His second coming, the Jewish leaders were plotting to kill Him. And while they were yet plotting with no plan that would bring the Messiah in their grasp, Jesus went to the house of Simon the leper, and was anointed for the death they were to accomplish.

Jesus was in the home of Simon. No doubt He had earlier in His earthly career healed Simon of his disease. It is thought that possibly Simon was related to Mary, Martha and Lazarus. It is even supposed by some that he was the husband of Martha. This, however, is all conjecture. We are not told by Mark or Matthew who the woman was who anointed the head of the Master. It may have been that as they wrote the time was early enough to have brought Mary persecution, but long years after John tells us that it was the loving Mary of the Bethany home who did the anointing. The cruse, a box, or more probably a flask, was ordinarily made out of gypsum (sulphate of lime) which is translucent and very beautiful. The ointment was made from the spiknard plant which is now to be found only in the Himalaya Mountains. It was very sweet and highly prized, as well as very costly. The amount was the Roman pound of twelve ounces. The cost has been estimated all the way from $51 to $600.

At least some of those present immediately thought of the price that such a gift would have brought. Their excuse for such thoughts was that it might have been sold and given to the poor. Jesus rebuked them. Who had the right to stop one who was honoring Jesus or doing good in His name? Possibly one of them moved as though he would have snatched the jar from Mary's hand before all the precious ointment was spilled. Jesus quieted any wanton word that might have fallen from their lips by commanding them to let her alone. He commended her act as a good one.

He was about to be crucified and Mary had anointed Him for His burial. She had done it because of her love for the one who had raised her brother from the dead, and at whose feet she had sat to hear wonderful and marvelous teachings. The poor would always be present and needing services. After Jesus was gone, those so anxious to help the poor would have more opportunities than they would even desire to avail themselves of. Now the greatest fact of all history was about to take place. He, Jesus, was to be sacrificed for the sins of the people. Why should He not be anointed? How many times we place our hands to stop good deeds because of our ignorance, and own self interests. How Jesus yearns today to have the anointing of our complete love and service, and yet how many of us are too selfish to grant it to Him.

"CHEESY" GOLF GOSSIP

By D. A. Davis

Folks, I ain't as cheesy as some folks I know, but I am thoroughly sold on this "cheese idea" and while I am still a regular golf crank, I'm getting crankier and crankier all the time about a cheese factory for McLean, and from now on until we get that cheese factory started you will find me all mixed up with cheese and golf. And if it is necessary for me to delay a few golf games in order to talk cheese, I sure am going to do it, for as sure as you are born there is nothing we need more right now than a cheese factory; and if there is any possible way for us to put it over we will soon have plenty of cheese.

And while I was down at Houston I ate plenty of cheese, and folks, there is nothing that is better than good old cheese if properly mixed in with other things that I could mention, but hardly think it necessary. Right here I want to say that there is plenty of cheese being consumed these days. For instance, Swift & Co. at Houston are getting cheese by the tons from that cheese factory at Abernathy and they are not having any trouble whatever selling cheese, because as I said before, the demand for cheese is picking up, and after August 26th there will be plenty of places where cheese will be needed in Texas, because cheese is a very necessary article of food when it comes to eating Dutch lunches. I am hoping there is nobody who reads this article that is so dumb that they don't know what it takes to go with cheese to wash the cheese down; and if you want a little more information I want to make it plain that there is plenty of that cheese wash being consumed, and it is going to take lots and lots of cheese to balance the budget. And another thing about the cheese, if we make it ourselves we won't have to import all the ingredients that it takes to make up a nice Dutch lunch and really there will be no use importing even the cheese wash, because most everybody already knows how to make cheese wash, and all we will have to do to keep our money at home is to learn how to make cheese; so folks, let's all get busy and have that cheese factory running full blast by August 26th so we can live more and more at home.

It looks to me now as if we will be forced to increase our golf grounds to make it a 45 hole course, because we have 45 members, and each member wants the greens, fairways and tee boxes fixed different, so I can't figure it out any other way than to fix each member up with a tee box, a fairway and a green to suit each one. Folks, I've had plenty of perplexing problems to solve in my lifetime, but honestly I have never had anything so difficult to figure out in all my life. I honestly believe we have the biggest bunch of boobs that ever lived and the hardest bunch to please that belong to our club, and about the next thing you know Old Golf Gossip will get on his tin ear and tell somebody to go jump in the lake if you boobs keep on cramping and cramping. Why can't we all be brothers in this great fraternity and all stick together and each do his part and quit cramping all the time. If you want to know something, we have one of the best golf clubs in Texas and it is being run on a much cheaper basis than any other golf club in the entire world. And another thing, there is no golf club that has ever existed or ever will exist that can be run without a little money, and believe it or not, folks, we are doing quite a lot of work out there and are doing it without any money at all; and if some of you old crampers would quit cramping, dog-gone it, and do your pro rata part, blankety blank it, we would have one of the best golf grounds in the Pan-handle. So come on, boys, ding nab it, and kick in your part and let's all pull together and get thing out of the dumps and get going. Quit moping around and be a sport; get a little enjoyment out of life, because you ain't going to travel this way but just once, and if you miss anything as you go along this time it will be forever lost. Now go ahead and get sore at me if you want to. You didn't have no business electing me president if you didn't want me to bawl you out once in a while. Come around when I get my cheese factory running, and I'll give you a big hunk of cheese, you old reprobate, so you can tighten up a little more.

Now that I have bawled you out, I want to give you some of our plans that we are going to try to put over, and that is this. We are going to try awful hard to finish the greens this week and mow the fairways next week, and then try to get a match for Sunday, June 4th, with some of our neighbor clubs. I want you guys to get a little pep in your systems and see if you can learn to play golf by that time so we can make it interesting for your opponent. And at the same time we want to match up some of our lady golfers with the visiting lady golfers and show our neighbors that we have some good golfers among our "wimmin" as well as us men.

In closing, I must remind Dean Grover that we surely do miss him and that the golf tees are beginning to pile up in front of each tee box. Come back to see us, old boy, and remember the latch string is hanging on the outside of our doors and there will always be plenty of tees in front of each tee box and an occasional cigar in our vest pockets.

Folks, Old Brindleface is getting too many nicknames. Some of the boys are calling him the Kingfish, and I relent it.

BRIEFS

By A P ANGELLO

Better days seem to be dawning for an understanding between nations. It is not likely that war can be completely averted, but many a misunderstanding can be settled without the shedding of blood if the nations want to so do it.

The Furgersons say to the public that no attempt will be made to enforce either the laws of the state or the constitutional amendment forbidding liquor traffic. They would stand quietly by and see the constitution trampled under foot of lawless and degraded beer peddlers. Does Mrs. Ferguson's oath of office mean nothing to her?

The Attorney General has another idea about the matter. He claims that the matter will be placed before the public on August 26 of this year. Until the people change the law, he considers it his duty to enforce it as best he can. Even many who are fighting prohibition are fair and honest enough to agree with Mr. Allred.

The Texas Legislature has gone on a spree. It has become tired of the serene blue in the sky of our Texas statutes and has painted them over with the crimson of the sunset. In some instances it will mean the sunset of the day for honorable upholding of morality by our State Legislature.

Every legislator knows the evil of gambling, both on horse racing and boxing—or on anything else, for that matter. The existence of such things probably will always be. But for a state to recognize them as unquestionably right is to begin to plunge into moral decay which precedes all vice, immorality, instability, and finally state putrefaction.

Mr. Mooney is about to get a new trial. The unfairness with which he has been held a prisoner since he was proved innocent by the confession of the one really guilty has been equal, not to a modern Democratic State, but to the inhumanity of some foreign potentate of days long past.

Stocks are still going up, and prices in most all fields are beginning to climb. Before long printers will need an extra supply of the letters H, C, and L. Some of them may have only to dig them out from old post-war files.

T. H. Gatlin of Clarendon visited his son, C. A. Gatlin, last week end.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lynch were in Shamrock Sunday.

Judge Baxter of Pampa was in McLean Friday.

Mrs. Vigna Strandberg and little daughter were in Amarillo Saturday.

Mrs. Witt Springer was in Amarillo Thursday.

Conditions are so rapidly changing that we as business people must travel at a much faster pace in order to keep up with the ever-changing times.

Many merchants are already "sensing" the regaining of confidence in the buying public and are offering sound values in their merchandise.

Only last week, when we considered our condition most deplorable, one McLean merchant estimated that he had materially increased his sales from the use of newspaper advertising—evidently he had some confidence in the future.

To the merchant who has the vision to look forward will undoubtedly come success.
