BOY PUTS TOWN IN DARKNESS FRIDAY

About dusk last Friday evening a boy threw an iron rod into an electric circuit near a point where it leaves the light plant, causing one of the wires to burn in two and fall across the street, and as a result most of the town was in darkness until repairs could be made.

This careless act not only caused a loss of revenue and expense to the light company, but stopped all business in the town, inconveniencing the merchants and their customers and the people in their homes, and could have caused a serious injury or death, had anyone made contact with the wire in the street.

This incident should serve as a warning to boys who throw rods, rocks and other missiles at the electric light lines, poles or insulators. These acts on their part are usually thoughtless and are done with no thought to injure people or damage property, but the boys should be impressed with the fact that very serious damages and injuries may result from their carelessness and thoughtlessness.

Lion Cobb announced the Red Cross roll call off to a good start with teams lined up for the business district and plans made to cover the residence section of town. Lion Cobb said that McLean's quota is 300 members and that it is confidently expected to reach that number.

Mastodon Tooth Unearthed at D'Spain Farm

What is thought to be a mastodon tooth has been unearthed at the gravel bed on the T. J. D'Spain farm. When the tooth was struck the workman thought it to be an old root of a tree, and broke it in four pieces with a pick to get it out of the gravel, but it was found to be ivory in a nice state of preservation. The tooth is curved along the whole length and is 7 1/2 feet long and eight inches in diameter at the large end, tapering to about three inches at the small end.

Mr. D'Spain says he will bring the tooth to town and place it on display, and later offer the relic to the college museum at Canyon.

"I Want to Know"

By D. A. Davis

Why the barbers charge baldheaded men as much for a haircut as they charge men with enough hair on their heads to pad a sofa pillow.

How come Amarillo to find out there is a gap in highway 66 near Jericho that is unpaved, and when it rains it gets muddy.

Why do we small men have to pay as much for a pair of overalls, a suit of clothes, hat, or pair of shoes as the man that is as big as an elephant.

Why 99% of us humans have got intellect enough to know right from wrong, still 98% do wrong when we could just as easily do right.

Why 75% (so they say) of the people who have been put to work under the NRA are "wimmin" and girls, at an average salary of from $13.00 to $15.00 per week. Why don't they give the men and boys a chance to go to work and earn enough so the "wimmin" can stay at home and make good homes, wives and mothers, what God intended for them to be?

How many boys and girls would marry and settle down to providing good American homes if they were given the jobs with sufficient salaries to provide them homes and a wife? We have several "wimmin" clerks in McLean whose jobs could be given to their husbands or sweethearts and the ladies given the job of home-making. I don't mean anything disrespectful, because the "wimmin" and girls are fine folks, but what I want to know is why not give the men a chance.

If it is so disgraceful for boys and girls under 16 to work in factories and sweatshops (and it is), why don't the farmers be paid enough for their cotton to keep their children out of the cotton patch.

Are the ones that are objecting to the NRA all "dead cats" or a lot of them live tigers of Wall Street and other places who refuse to cooperate with the government's program, that is causing so much delay and unrest among the masses. And if NRA fails will it be the fault of the poor people or the "captains of industry"?

Why don't we do our best to get our boys to at least complete their high school education instead of quitting and leaving it all up to the "sweet girl graduate." Why are graduation classes composed mostly of girls these days, and why are there more girls attending business colleges than boys? What I want to know is why don't the boys prepare themselves for business and let the girls prepare themselves for home-makers? What in the world are all thinking about, any way?

Why are the moving picture houses of our neighboring towns flooding McLean with circulars and advertising paid for by the business men of these towns. Do they belong to the NRA? Haven't we got a good picture theatre in McLean? And don't Mr. Adams need your patronage and our merchants need your business, and can't our home town paper use a little more advertising? Is this not unfair competition? Who was it that said the NRA was going to stop all unfair competition, any way?

A CORRECTION

An error was made in the American National Bank statement as of Nov. 2, 1933, published in last week's issue of The News. The last line should have read: "We owe no borrowed money and have cash reserve of 48% of total deposits," in place of 40% as printed.

THE TIGERS

And are we proud of the Tigers! As you know, the Tigers went to Berger last Friday night and completely routed the class A Berger Bulldogs to the tune of 25-0. The Tigers played in the Bulldogs' territory almost all the game and the enemy never threatened to score. The game gives the Tigers quite a bit of prestige in class A as well as class B competition. The scoring was well divided between the ball toters, with plenty of excellent blocking from the line. Berger's comment on the game was this: "McLean showed us how a class B team could run over a class A team."

Thus far no game has been scheduled for next Friday. A game with the class A Plainview eleven is scheduled for Friday week, however. Coach Rush says that he likes these class A eleven.

TIGERETTES

The Tigerettes did not go to Berger as a group, but those who so desired went and yelled for the Tigers.

Social groups were selected and places were given to each group for entertainment. Group 2, consisting of Mary Emma Back, Annie Belle Kinard, Geraldine Bowen, Sybil Young and Marie Landers, entertained the club with a delightful party on Tuesday evening. The party was given in the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Landers. Thanksgiving motifs were used and "bunco" was enjoyed until the delicious refreshments stopped the games. Members of the club, Miss Kennedy, sponsor; Miss McCarty, assistant sponsor; and Dorothy Jean St. Clair, accompanist, enjoyed the social.

The December social is to be a party given by the Tigerettes in honor of the football boys.

The fifth and sixth grades entertained in chapel this week. Miss Pettit read the scripture lesson from the fourth chapter of Proverbs. The assembly sang America the Beautiful and The Eyes of Texas.

The fifth grade rendered a little playlet, "A Hasty Cure," in which a boy pretended to be ill in order to avoid going to school, but decided that going to school was preferable to taking medicine.

The sixth grade presented a short play, "City Cousins." The country children thought that they would appear terribly ignorant to the city cousins, but to their surprise they found that they knew many things which their cousins, reared in the city, did not.

Mrs. W. E. James and Vesta Grace were visitors to the morning exercises. More parents and patrons of the school should take advantage of the opportunity to see what the children are doing in the school, by attending these Tuesday morning exercises.

While Alanreed is not entering inter-scholastic competition this year, the boys will play several games with the neighborhood teams and teams close by.

ILLITERACY IN THE U. S.

Did you know that illiteracy had increased in the United States from 1% in 1900 to 4% in 1930? Yet here is a great movement throughout the United States to put the educational system back to the 3 R's and much argument as to the value of education.

The Alanreed P. T. A., which has not been organized this year, will meet Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock for organization. Various things have prevented the earlier organization of the association, but we hope to do some effective work this year as soon as organization is completed.

An Appeal to the Taxpayers of the McLean Independent School District of McLean, Texas

At this time the school district has a large amount of delinquent taxes.

We know that this has not been on account of refusal to pay, but has been owing to the distressing times we have been going through—it has been the policy of the board to be as lenient as possible in the matter of tax collections, knowing that many simply could not pay.

The school has assumed certain obligations, such as bonds and interest, and the maintaining and running of the school. Many of these obligations are past due.

It now becomes necessary that we make some effort to collect delinquent taxes in order that we may meet our obligations, as they cannot be carried indefinitely. At this time of the year when our crops are being marketed, we urge you to pay your taxes—now, before penalty and interest are added.

Any erroneous reflection upon the character, standing or reputation of any person, firm or corporation, which may appear in the columns of this paper will be gladly corrected upon due notice of same being given to the editor personally at the office at 210 Main Street, McLean, Texas.

Rev. Crow has many friends outside of his own congregation who regret to see him leave McLean. He has been active in civic and community affairs and has been ready at all times to lend assistance to any worthy cause. We are glad to commend him and his good wife to the citizens of Claude.

A cartoon in last week's issue of the Saturday Evening Post pictured two peanut vendors with the same size machines, the same grade of merchandise, and both members of the NRA, but one man had a small whistle (advertising being the whistle of business), while the other had a large whistle on his roaster, and you can guess which man was getting all the business.

School athletics are the show window of the schools, but there is a growing tendency to make physical education a part of the curriculum and see that every child has a chance to take the proper exercises. This is an end to be desired, and when that times comes there may not be so much spectacular stuff for the edification of the sport-loving public, but there will be a useful part of the child's education attained that will mean much in after life.

THE "BUY-NOW" WORM TURNS

Mr. Featherstone came home the other night with a big bundle of purchases and a broad smile on his face, and said to his wife: "You remember, Ethelberta, how you bought for me a half-dozen 40-cent shirts, two 10-cent neckties, six pairs of socks for 50 cents and a 59-cent hat last week, so I could be well stocked up with clothes for the next year."

"Yes," answered Mrs. F., "and the money was mighty well spent. Those things a year from now will cost three times as much."

"Well," responded Mr. F., still smiling, "I decided to return the compliment. I have just bought for you a bolt of green and red checked dressgoods. There's 80 yards in the bolt and it cost only six cents a yard. The clerk told me there was enough to make your dresses for several years. I also bought you a hat at a wonderful bargain—only I did better than you did, for I paid only 39 cents for it." Tableau!

WORSE THAN USELESS

Some of the people of Levelland have been stung by a carnival company that carried some gambling devices. Some of their citizens were hit for $100 or more; many for a smaller sum, and the carnival manager was brought back and fined, and returned some of the money to the citizenry. And some of the citizens were in turn fined for their participation in the gambling. Our people may think the Brownfield city dads are hard on them by not letting such amusement (?) outfits come here, but the Herald thinks they are acting the part of the wise. A carnival takes out many dollars that are needful to the community, and leaves only a bad taste in the mouths of the people. In other words, a carnival is worse than useless to a community.—Brownfield Herald.

Mrs. A. (on their return home from the party)—"Do you realize what you did?"

Mr. A.—"No, but I'll admit it was wrong. What was it?"

TO THE POINT

An advertisement in a Kentucky paper tells about as short and snappy a story as we have seen in a long time. It reads: "Anybody found around my chicken houses in the night will be found there the next morning."

We have often wondered just how a preacher feels who maintains an acquaintance with some of his members through meeting up with them only at a civic club.—Donley County Leader.

To test your caliber, ask "Have I bitterness in my heart?" Bigness and bitterness never go together.—B. C. Forbes.

Your Children's Eyes
by Providing Correct
Lighting for Their Studies

Proper attention to lighting detail is important to school children's health. Eyesight is priceless—something that once lost cannot be regained. Yet in many homes, otherwise modern, children are allowed to study under faulty light which eventually impairs their eyesight.

Give your lighting fixtures an inspection. Do they produce shadows or glare? Are the lamps large enough to give sufficient light for easy sewing and reading? Do you have enough lamps so that one can be placed by each living room chair, at each end of the divan?

temple dedicated to the Unknown God. It is supposed that during a plague the people felt that there must be a god they did not worship, and with whom they were not acquainted. Not knowing what god it was, they honored one they did not know. Paul based his message on this God. He told them that the God he worshiped was the God they did not know. Paul made one of the most wonderful orations ever uttered by the mouth of man. He began at the beginning concerning the facts that God had created man and was his Lord. From that he went to man, his purpose, and his dependance, salvation, man's accountability, and the assurance found in Christ.

Here in Athens Paul met a new attitude toward his message. The group that heard him informally left when he had finished. Many had come because they were merely curious, and gave it little thought. Some turned away with scorn upon their lips, for the idea of the resurrection was repulsive to both Epicurians and Stoics alike. Others desired to hear him further, while some believed. There is the record of a number saved during the ministry in Athens. One was a member of the council. Another was a woman by the name of Damaris. A church was established but there is no record that Paul ever returned to Athens. He never mentioned the church there or his experience in the city, and so far as we know, never wrote to the church. Some have tried to suggest that this was Paul's only missionary failure, but the recorded results indicate a marvelous success, rather than failure.

YOU AND I

"When we separate the word BUSINESS into its component letters—B-U-S-I-N-E-S-S—we find that U and I are in it. In fact, if U and I are not in BUSINESS, it would not be BUSINESS. Therefore, if BUSINESS is to remain BUSINESS, we must keep U and I in it. Furthermore, we discover that U comes before I in BUSINESS, and that the I is silent—it is to be seen, not heard. Also, the U in BUSINESS has the sound of I, which indicates that it is an amalgamation of the interests of U and I, and when they are properly amalgamated, BUSINESS becomes harmonious and altogether profitable." — Willis Parker, Monrovia, California.

SCHOOL SPORTS

By the Railbird

The McLean Tigers invaded the stronghold of the class A Borger Bulldogs last Friday night and emerged the victor with a 25-0 score. The game was by far one of the fastest and most thrilling that the Tigers have participated in this season.

Dowell, Tiger flash, was injured and played only part of the game. Tolliver turned in another brilliant performance, as did Christian and Stratton. Stratton intercepted a Bulldog pass in the last quarter and raced almost the distance of the field to score standing up.

A BIRD'S EYE-VIEW—The Tigers have showed a great improvement since the early part of the season and will probably see some service against the best teams in the lower division of class A before the close of the month.

As far as known at this writing the Tigers will remain idle this week and prepare themselves for an anticipated battle with the Plainview eleven—another class A foe.

THE LOWDOWN—Apparently the class B competition is not so good, not so good. Our own Tigers have to get the needed opposition—or is the Bird wrong.

Well, if you don't think that the grid race in district 2 has reached the heights of ridiculousness, consider this—Wellington and Clarendon are the only two class B teams that have held the Bengals to a less than 50 point score during the entire season, and yet the team which the Tigers defeated 52-0 is on the verge of clinching the sectional title. You laugh! It's not so funny.

I'VE CHANGED MY MIND

It has been said that it is a woman's prerogative to change her mind. So much the better for the woman.

There is an old proverb which characterizes the man who does not change his mind. I do not remember just how the proverb runs, or who the sage responsible for it may be. But the characterization, as most of you probably know, is not creditable to the man whose mind remains constant.

At a luncheon club which I frequent, there are two men, experienced and in a measure, successful in business. For years, these two men, sitting opposite each other at a large, round table, have been on opposite sides on every important matter under discussion and neither has ever been able to change the opinion of the other. These men, adhering obstinately to a point of view, are of the adamant type who never change their minds or their methods. Each, no doubt, considers himself strong, and masterful in standing firmly against the onslaught of the other.

They confuse strength with stubbornness.

So does the mule—Delectus, in Heavy Stuff.

KEEPING FARM HELP SATISFIED

"I see you have kept the hired man you now have quite a long time. Timothy," remarked Al Falfa when they met at the creamery. "How do you manage to do it?"

"Yep, I'm keepin' him all right now," answered Farmer Hay.

"He seems satisfied, too—you haven't given him your farm, have you?"

"No—but I did everything he asked me to. Let him work only four hours a day and eat with the family. He got to complainin' of the dull evenin's, so I let him and my daughter have the car and go to town to the movies every night, and footed the bill."

"That ought to satisfy him."

"Yep—but it didn't. He complained of his room fronting on the barnyard, so I got my son to trade rooms with him. Then he seemed more settled for a while."

"I notice you've cut off your whiskers, Timothy."

"Yep—that's another of my hired man's ideas."

"How's that?"

"He complained that they tickled him every time I kissed him good night and put him to bed."

Jimmy—"Dad, I make a hundred in school today."

Dad—"That's fine. What studies were they?"

Jimmy—"Spelling and arithmetic. Teacher marked me 50 on each one."

The old-fashioned girl who used to be one the "square" has been superseded by girls who are on the "bias"—you know—buy us this—buy us that."

ON GETTING IN LINE

By Rev. Edward Worcester

"It is hard for thee to kick against the pricks." Acts 9:5.

Every well informed and thoughtful person comes to realize that a mighty force is operating in the world and lifting mankind to higher planes of life. This upward progress can be clearly traced through the pages of history, and every intelligent person feels that influence within himself urging him to climb higher. It is undoubtedly a Divine energy and moves the race as well as individuals in wave-like surges upward with subsequent regressions. Each wave reaches a higher point, and the backward movements never sink to former levels. This elevating power of God never relaxes, however, and is ever working to accomplish the divine purpose for man.

All who live and work in harmony with the Creator's plans are happy and successful, but those who antagonize them in any manner or degree, invariably suffer for it sooner or later. It is indeed hard for any man to fight against God, yet countless thousands in their ignorance are trying it every day.

Sometimes great adversity or heart-break is required to open our eyes to the truth, and induce us to get in line with the Divine purpose of upward progress.

Happy is the man or woman who lives up with the Lord voluntarily without need of the whips of trouble or sorrow. In this great upward work for mankind there is an important plan for you and me. Let us live up with God today, and determine to do our level best with any work in our hands right now. When that task is finished another will be clearly revealed before us, for all who work with God need never be idle.—The Chaser.

MAKE YOUR OWN CRACKERS

Soda crackers are as old as the hills, but if you go to your recipe book to find out how to make them you may look in vain. So many of our readers asked for a soda cracker recipe that we decided to print one. Then when we began to look around for such a recipe we found that nearly all recipe books overlook this tidbit. Finally, though, we found one, and here it is. We hope your crackers go well with your tea. It may help the taste if you remember that you are eating the cracker trust.

The ingredients needed are: four cups sifted bread flour, two cups warm water, one-half cake yeast, two tablespoons warm water, one teaspoon baking soda, one tablespoon salt, one-third cup melted lard and three more cups sifted bread flour.

First you sift the flour once and measure the four cups. Then soften the yeast in one-fourth cup of warm water, combine with the remaining water and add to the flour, beating well. Cover this mixture and let it stand in a warm place over night.

In the morning add the baking soda and salt dissolved in the two tablespoons of warm water. Add the lard and beat well. Then add the other three cups of flour gradually, mixing until smooth after each addition. Cover and let rise again until double in volume. Then turn on to a lightly floured board and knead until dough is smooth and elastic, and is not sticky to the touch. Now divide into small portions and roll each out into a thin sheet. Cut with a wavy cutter and pick each one well with a fork. Bake in a hot oven (about 500 degrees) until a delicate brown.—Pathfinder.

"So you love my daughter?" said the old man.

"Love her" the young man exclaimed passionately; "Why, I would die for her. For one soft glance from those sweet eyes I would hurl myself from a lofty cliff and perish, a bruised mass on the rocks below, but glad enough to have had a chance to sacrifice myself in her name."

"Well, you can't have her," said the old man. "I'm something of a liar myself, and one liar is enough in a small family like ours."

The new farm hand was from the city and his experience was limited. The farmer started him to milking. In half an hour he came back to see how the new man was getting along. He said to him: "Well, friend, you've learned something you never knew before, haven't you?"

The city man looked into the milk pail, which had only a few spoonful in it, and replied: "Yes, I've learned that the person who says a cow GIVES milk is a liar."

Tip to young husbands on what to do with the bride's biscuits: Shellac them and sell them for office paper weights.

It's a mighty sturdy public building that stands until the last bond issue for its construction is paid off.
