REVERSAL

By O. L. D. Tiner

was driving his car into the yard. Another man stopped and asked him why he was doing so. He replied, "I am going to vote for the repeal, and I want my actions to harmonize with my words."

American reads from left to right. The Chinaman reads from right to left. One man builds his house on a hill, while another builds in the lowest place. The one who pays one man to show him how to raise more stuff and another man to plow his land and pays them to plow.

was criticized at home for not doing so much, and he hadn't more to say to town when a man was looking at him. "That old fellow is too stingy to eat enough," said another man. "He is distressingly dry," said a third. "We sure do need a rain," said Mr. Jones. "My crop is fine and won't need rain for some time yet."

The government is in the pen for making men turn around and permits men to get rich making beer. The people want Hoover's prohibition, and next year they will have Roosevelt and liquor.

Man gave her boy a scolding for playing on the porch and throwing peach peels off of the porch. When he got off the porch he saw his peeling on the porch. He real bawling out. The boy said to his mother, "You remind me of old hardshell doctrine of 'you damned if you do, and you damned if you don't.'" You send a jury send a man to the pen and then turn around and sign his name to get him out.

Man was tickled to death to see a man elected to public office and in less than a year he was denounced like Demosthenes denounced the people of Macedonia. A boy put on his pants and chased a rabbit, but he couldn't catch him. He pulled off his pants and put them on hind part and went out and caught his rabbit for the rabbit thought he was going the other way.

Eighty-seven Cone Johnson attended the state for liquor and Joe Johnson for prohibition, and in 1909 Cone Johnson was an ultra dry and Cone Valley was dripping wet. One man said, "When I could get liquor I wouldn't want it, but when they said I couldn't get it I am going to have it very regardless." That man is contrary to sleep sound and won't say anything that agrees with him. A woman ached because her husband got up early, and when he slept she threw a bucket of water on him and then she complained about not kissing her, and when he felt for her and kissed her she slapped him in the face. Poor fellow, he wished it would come a tornado to blow him away and when a storm came up he grabbed a quilt and made a caprock. One man said he would have a man to enforce the law when the sheriff sent one down to the pen and he signed up a petition to do away with the law so on, ad infinitum.

A. A. Tampke and family and Wade and youngest daughter returned from a two weeks visit to relatives in Jacksonville and San Antonio, in East Texas, where they had a very pleasant vacation. They report very hot and sultry weather while there, which was broken by nice rains last week end. Crops suffering much, due to droughts several months. They indicated it is always a happy pleasure to get back home and enjoy the cool Texas weather.

Frank R. Phillips and family spent Tuesday in McLean, en route to the Chicago fair. Prof. Phillips, who is head of the vocational department of the West Texas Teachers College, burned out a tire in his car as he entered the section and was held over until tires were made.

COUNTY AGENT WARNS FARMERS ABOUT COTTON

County Agent Ralph R. Thomas warns farmers not to plow up cotton until an individual order is received from the county agent.

Some farmers have been reported plowing up their cotton on the strength of the plan going over, but each one is treated individually, and many things can happen before anyone's farm is OK'd by the government.

Mr. Thomas has received a wire stating that emergency permit blanks may be used by farmers to secure permit from the county agent to destroy cotton without having to wait the formal acceptance of the contracts. However, no farmer shall destroy cotton until the contract has been approved and permit issued by the county agent.

Gray county farmers signed 4481 acres to be destroyed and will receive in cash $45,031, with $9,000 additional to those who took options, based on the present price of cotton.

The annual summer revival will begin Sunday at the First Baptist Church, with Rev. A. F. Johnson, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Borger, doing the preaching.

Rev. Johnson has held eight revivals in his own church in the past seven years, with 2500 additions to the church during that time, the Borger church leading all Panhandle churches in number of baptisms last year. In all of Rev. Johnson's experience as pastor, he has averaged more than one addition to the church for each sermon preached.

The Borger church has 1511 members, and Rev. Johnson is speaking to the church an average of eight times each week. His services as evangelist are much in demand, and Pastor Cecil G. Goff of the local church considers it fortunate to secure Rev. Johnson for the annual revival.

Song services will be in charge of Mrs. Goff, local choir director; and Jesse J. Cobb will direct the church orchestra. A male quartet will also have a part in the song service.

Pastor Goff says that everyone interested in the salvation of the lost and the ongoing of the Kingdom is invited to attend any, or all services.

Marvin Jones Speaker Pampa C. C. Banquet

Congressman Marvin Jones was the principal speaker at a banquet sponsored by the Pampa junior chamber of commerce and attended by some 250 people from all parts of the Panhandle, Tuesday night.

Mr. Jones spoke on the "New Deal" and insisted that this country had reached the lowest ebb in its history on March 4th, last, when people had begun to wonder if we had any government, and the dollar had hardening of the arteries.

In paying his respects to the Republican party, Mr. Jones insisted that Mr. Hoover is the original "forgotten man."

In speaking of the adjustment of the currency, Mr. Jones said the present situation is a temporary one, and that the issuance of money must be taken out of the hands of the international bankers and placed back in the hands of the government. "America was nearly wrecked by the strangle-hold of the money barons," said Mr. Jones.

In explaining the provisions of the farm relief bill, of which he was the author, Mr. Jones said that the farmers of the South have been slaves to the men who have controlled the cotton market, every since the civil war. "There has never been a time when the farmer has had an even break with industry," said Mr. Jones.

"There has never been in the history of the world an actual surplus of cotton or wheat; somewhere there has been a need of clothing, or food among the world's peoples, but our economic system of checks and balances has got into a jam, making an apparent surplus of these products. "High interest rates have eaten the life out of agriculture. The farm credit act will reduce interest rates for farmers, and is one of the most important pieces of legislation passed during this emergency. Men with money always schemed to keep interest rates high and keep people as near serfdom as is possible among a free people. There are no completely free people when they are burdened with debt," said Mr. Jones.

Mr. Jones insisted that merchants must not raise prices under the new industrial recovery act, until labor has a chance to recuperate; that each member of the commercial community must contribute his share toward the return of normalcy, and there must be no taking advantage of the other fellow. Gilmore N. Nunn of the Pampa Daily News presented the speaker. Several entertainment features were provided for the visitors.

Those present from McLean were: Lee Wilson, M. D. Bentley, W. E. Bogan, C. O. Greene and T. A. Landers.

Congressman Jones said in his Pampa speech that no man can make a success without friends.

Public opinion is becoming aroused over the lack of paving the McLean-Pampa highway.

Some 10,000 people were murdered in the United States last year, and 155 murderers received the death penalty.

The fact is that a law is good or bad, regardless of how it is enforced.

No complaints have been registered in some time on cows in the cemetery or city park.

Cows have been staked in yards of vacant houses in several places this year.

WHAT EVERY EDITOR KNOWS

There are always men and institutions who believe they are getting a square deal from newspapers.

Every newspaper editor recognizes the truth of that observation.

Human nature is the explanation. A person or persons greatly interested in a cause has an exaggerated idea of its importance.

There are exceptions, of course, but this is the rule.

No beautiful girl ever made a fool out of me.

Oh, I don't know. I think she is rather good looking.

WHY REPEAL THE 18TH AMENDMENT?

By Rev. Cecil G. Goff

At the time of this writing sixteen states have voted to repeal the 18th amendment.

Postmaster General Farley has set a new precedent as a member of the cabinet by "stump speaking" for the new twenty-first amendment.

In a speech broadcasted over the national radio hook-up, Mr. Farley reiterated some of the statements made in a Washington Associated Press dispatch of May 24.

In the first dispatch mentioned above, the statement was made, concerning the additional income tax in question.

Here is the trouble! There is an organization called the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

Who is it that is anxious to get rid of income taxes and corporation taxes? According to a statement of Mr. Farley, it is about five million of our people.

There are exceptions, of course, but this is the rule. That's one thing every newspaper editor knows.

Every business man in the U. S. ought to be up on his toes fighting beer and repeal with all the strength of his might.

Note: Next week there will appear an article showing the effect of beer and liquor on the tax situation in England.

A TOUGH PROPOSITION

An old newspaper man said this to us, not long after we started: "If a business man buys himself a pair of socks, that don't answer anybody's demand for socks but his."

GOOD LITTLE GIRL

The young fellow in the sleigh stopped to pick up a group of school children. It was so crowded that one girl had to sit on his lap.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Wilson and children of Pampa visited relatives here last week end.

Don't try homemade treatments or newfangled remedies! Take that good old Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic. Soon you will be yourself again, for Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic not only relieves the symptoms of Malaria, but destroys the infection itself.

The tasteless quinine in Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic kills the Malarial infection in the blood while the iron it contains builds up the blood to overcome the effects of the disease and fortify against further attack.

The twofold effect is absolutely necessary to the overcoming of Malaria. Besides being a dependable remedy for Malaria, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic is also an excellent tonic of general use. Pleasant to take and absolutely harmless. Safe to give children. Get a bottle today at any store.

A newspaper publisher over in Nebraska recently sent out an issue of his paper without a news item in it. All that the readers found were ads on every page.

Unaccustomed to such issues, subscribers called up in surprise and advertisers indignantly called at the office to inform the publisher that without reader interest their ads were of no value.

To their surprise the publisher produced copies of local all-advertising sheets, patronized by these same business men, and inquired how it came that newspaper advertising was so different. All of which simply recalls the fact that the newspaper which the subscribers wait for and which they read because of its reader interest, is the best advertising medium that can be found.

—Redfield (S. D.) Journal.

Misses Naomi and Mildred King of Shamrock visited in the Harris King home Monday.

Mrs. Margaret Callahan of Childress visited her son, C. P., last week.

WHY RATES DON'T COME DOWN

Once in a while someone asks, "Why haven't newspaper subscription rates come down with other things?" The answer is simple. Newspapers, whether large or small, have always been sold at a small percentage of production costs.

One Minnesota weekly that keeps an accurate cost-finding system, the Northfield News, finds that its production cost in 1932 per subscription was $15.33. Towards meeting that cost the advertiser contributed 85% and the subscriber 15%.

With the decline of newspaper advertising due in part to discouragement or loss of pep on the one hand, or to the substitution of other forms of advertising, such as "throw-away" bills or circulars, it would seem that a radical revision upward in subscription rates would be imperative, or many country weeklies will pass out.

Selling a town to its public has always been considered the particular job of the town, and to reverse the order and have the public pay the chief cost of its publicity organ would be a new deal, which probably wouldn't take well with the subscriber.

It's a problem that cannot indefinitely be solved by the existing method of having the newspaper carry the deficit.—Belle Plaine (Minn.) Herald.

Mrs. C. P. Callahan and Mrs. A. J. Windom were in Shamrock Monday.

SUCCESS OR FAILURE

Commenting on a recent editorial in The McLean News, the Higgins News says:

"The old miller of the Dee sang as he watched over his mill: 'I care for nobody and nobody cares for me.' Yet, for all that, the miller depended upon those who came to his mill to have corn or wheat ground. With his mill idle, his song would have been a different tune. Today we need more trading at home to keep the wheels busy. Every business institution in a town is a wheel that must keep on turning if the mill keeps on grinding. A small town that was hurt by a larger town, once tried this experiment: The people traded at home. Everything that could be bought at home was bought at home; everything that could be done at home was done at home. People who had for years patronized the other town turned over a new leaf and the home town was given the business; the community spirit was genuine and the business men upheld the slogan: 'Trade at home.' The result was that where before business was lagging and there was no enthusiasm and hustle, the tables had been turned and the town was a live number instead of a dead burgh that had to depend on the meager support given. Where there is the spirit of cooperation, there will be results. But where each man is for himself and the devil take the hindmost, there can be nothing but failure for business."

Lucile—"I saw Myrtle last night and we had the nicest little confidential chat." George—"I thought so; she wouldn't speak to me today."

"I hear Elsie had to take ether twice to get through her operation." "Yes, one to operate and the other to keep her from talking about it."

Man—"Lad, your daughter is spoiled, isn't she?" Lady—"No, that's just perfume."

"Dear, are you keeping our accounts up weekly?" "Yes, very weakly."

"The folks across the street must be away; they have no lights." "No, their daughter is having a party."
