MRS. BUSH IN STORM

The News is indebted to Mrs. S. N. Bush, who was Miss Vella Wilson, for a copy of the Hidalgo County Independent that contains a full description of the gulf storm that swept the Valley recently.

The velocity of the wind was as high as 125 miles per hour in some places and for some 25 or 30 hours the wind did not drop below 100 miles per hour, causing wreck and ruin all over the Valley.

Old timers claim that this was the worst storm ever encountered there, citizens having their houses blown away, being surrounded by water and having to wade and swim for miles carrying their children in their arms through the swirling waters, battling for their lives through a world of darkness and chaos.

Only one thing was spared that would have lent additional terror to the situation, there was no lightning or thunder during the storm.

The work of clearing away the debris and rebuilding the towns was under way as soon as the wind and water receded.

A. booth ever shown at the fair, ranked highest in judging contests by placing first in poultry and second in dairy. Although the amount of cash premiums is not yet known, it is estimated that McLean's share will by far exceed last year's awards.

The outstanding feature of McLean winnings was taking home the large trophy as their permanent property as a result of winning it the third time in five years of stiff competition.

McLean accomplished something in this contest that never before occurred, by having 1st, 2nd and 3rd highest scorers in the entire contest, and also 1st, 2nd and 3rd highest scores in examination on the American Standard of Perfection of poultry.

The necessity for reading is greater now than ever before.

Wisdom must be earned, it cannot be conferred on anyone.

Regrets for yesterday's mistakes should not blind us to today's opportunities.

You can confer a favor by voting now and marking your ballot for Red Cross officers.

Again we pause to remark that The News is the only paper that cares a darn for this community.

Nobody gets anywhere by waiting; it is better to do things wrong than never attempt to do anything.

Women buy over 80% of all retail goods sold, and the best way to reach women customers is to advertise in the home paper.

Fall cosmos are in bloom and buds are showing on the chrysanthemums, a sure sign that we will soon be worrying over the empty coal bin, or the higher gas bills.

Good government is the product of a well informed citizenship; this is true of local government as well as national, and the well informed local citizen reads his home paper.

It is claimed that it takes adversity to build character. If this is true, the world should be a better place than it was during the boom times of '29.

Merchants are in a position to know about peddlers' statements, yet we wonder why they sometimes place so much credence in printing peddlers. In practically every case the home printer can give better service and better work at a live-and-let-live price. And at the same time the home man gives you a chance to get your money back, while the peddler's printshop never spends any money in our community.

Eld. Andrews, Church of Christ minister, asked the News editor last week where we find so many good jokes to print in The News. Eld. Andrews said that The News carries more good jokes than any paper he knows and he gets a great deal of pleasure each week reading the jokes.

The News gleans jokes from most everywhere, and every once in a while we are complimented on them. The jokes are edited just as is every department of the paper, and none are carried that are not calculated to please a large number, if not all, of our readers.

Several of the larger mail order houses maintain a staff of workers whose duty it is to read weekly papers and ascertain where the local merchants do not advertise. These towns are immediately flooded with catalogs, because they are virgin territory and the mail order houses have learned that they can do good business in such towns.

Not only does advertising in the home paper pay merchants in increased sales, but it also keeps out competition, for those looking for locations in any line first ascertain if there is a live merchant in that line in the town, and this is always learned by scanning the columns of the local paper.

HOME ECONOMICS

The home economics department sold ice cream at the football game Friday. The proceeds from this sale will help to meet some of the expenses of the department.

Work by the first year class is progressing nicely.

The second year class is studying the sections and preparation of different cuts of meat. A trip to the market will be made soon.

DONATION TO LIBRARY

The P. T. A. voted to donate $10 to the high school library. It was decided that this would be of greater benefit than prizes each month. The library is in need of new books, consequently this donation is greatly appreciated.

VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURE

The McLean vocational agriculture boys won 35 ribbons, besides winning the poultry cup for the third consecutive year, at the Amarillo Tri-state fair last week. In the club division of agriculture exhibits they won four third places and one second in grain sorghums. In the club poultry division they won eight first places, five second places, and three third places. From the general division of agriculture exhibits the boys brought home three first place, five second place and three third place ribbons. The poultry team is also to receive a ribbon for winning first as a team and two ribbons for first and second high point individuals, who were Arthur Ray Ledbetter and Charles Finley, respectively. Sim Rhodes will receive a ribbon for second high point individual in dairy judging.

THE TIGERS

The Tigers carried on their tradition last Friday afternoon when they soundly trounced the Turkey Turks in the first conference game of the season. The Tigers are proving themselves a serious foe to all contenders for district honors.

At present the Tigers are working diligently in preparation for the next game which will be with the Shamrock Irishmen, the night of October 13, at Shamrock. The Irish are strong contenders for district honors and the game promises to be exciting. It will be the first night game for the Tigers.

The Tigers have no game scheduled for next Friday, so they are giving all their attention to the Shamrock game. They will go to Shamrock next Monday night for a workout on the lighted field.

SENIORS ORDER RINGS

The senior class has placed an order for class rings to be delivered in the near future. The rings selected were of a beautiful design and could be ordered in solid gold or a combination of gold and silver. Orders for 31 rings were made. As an incentive for the class in getting deposits, the company is giving to each student who gets his deposit in before Oct. 15 a beautiful bracelet or belt buckle.

ASSEMBLY EXERCISES

The program for the assembly period at the high school on Tuesday morning was presented by the Baptist Church. Sherman Crockett called the assembly to order and turned the meeting to Rev. Goddard who conducted the program. The scripture that he read was "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches, and loving faith rather than silver and gold." The following musical program was well rendered and enthusiastically enjoyed:

- Negro Spiritual—Male quartet.
- Vocal duet, "Swing Low Sweet Chariot"—Mesdames Lochridge and Thomas
- Instrumental duet—Jesse Dean and Willie Louelle Cobb.

GUILTY

By O. L. D. Timer

The sun comes up every morning at his usual time; the moon completes his usual cycle every twenty-eight days, and the north star keeps his constant position in the northern heavens while the other stars continue their daily journeys round and round. The rains descend and the winds blow and the seasons come and go and seed time and harvest continue as in ancient times. Every species of animal reproduce and live their accustomed number of years and all nature seems to go on as was intended when it was created and set in motion.

Man, and man alone, is the only part of creation that has failed to carry on as usual.

I see in the papers where we have a larger carry-over in wheat and cotton, and millions of people half-clothed and half fed. The poor man lays all his troubles onto the rich man for getting hold of all the property and money, and the rich lays all his troubles onto the poor man because he spent his high wages foolishly and lacked the ambition and foresight to lay by for a rainy day (or a dry day, in West Texas). The man who has a good home and a good job or a small going business is better situated and more sensible than either the rich man or the poor man. He is what you would call the happy medium, for he hasn't enough money that he dreads the robbers or kidnapers and has plenty of stuff around to keep the wolf from the door.

It seems unjust to take too much of a man's stuff for income tax and discourage thrift and industry, and yet it seems unjust to not give a man with a hungry family all the work he can do, even if he has wasted his money.

I contend that the happy medium is the only way out. But when you try to get the rich man to not be so craving and less oppressive he will utterly ignore you and continue to chase his favorite phantom and leave a large fortune for one or two spoiled kids to fuss over; or, if you advise a poor man to cease spending his money foolishly and begin to lay away something for emergencies, he will retaliate with, "You can't take anything with you when you die." The man that lives sensibly and conservatively and pays for a home and has a little reserve is the only man who is not guilty of causing the depression, and the rich man and poor man are both parties to the suit and equally guilty. They remind me of an oversize ear of corn and a small impoverished nubbin in the same field. How much better would be three normal ears of corn instead of rich man, happy medium and poor man. Uniformity is a great thing in an army, a bunch of livestock, and in a nation of people. Abraham Lincoln said, "A nation cannot exist half free and half slave," but can a nation exist 5% rich, 10% moderately fixed and 85% poor? And if they can exist, won't it be amicable existence?

Rich man, poor man, beggar man, thief; doctor, lawyer, bachelor, chief; all are guilty, with but few exceptions.

As for myself, I will plead guilty to being a bonehead as charged and ask for the mercy of the court and for the lowest penalty the law allows.

LESSON IN JOURNALISM

It is a commentary upon the interest of people in individual human fates and problems, however remote geographically, that the newspapers took space recently to tell the public that a certain unnamed, obscure, unemployed miller got a job in faraway Managua, Nicaragua.

What makes news? New York City has few unemployed millers. But it has several hundred thousand unemployed carpenters, bookkeepers, buttonhole workers, etc., etc. Why the great interest in an unemployed Nicaragua miller?

First, because he was a blind miller. Second, the job was a night job. An English coffee planter needed a man to grind corn at night to make tortillas for the laborers in the morning. A seeing miller would burn kerosene. The blind miller would not. He got the job and gained anonymous notice in New York newspapers.—New York World-Telegram.

HOW TO RUIN A BOY

If a boy has a heritage of good health, good common sense and a taste for the better things of life, he has no need of an inheritance of cash. In fact, in so many cases the money actually brings about the ruination of young men and boys. Money is a handicap to a normal boy. He can have more fun without it than he can with it.

Good advice for parents is not to create too much wealth for coming generations. Instead of aiding them to enjoy life the parents may actually be forcing their descendants to languish in prison cells. Children should be willed something of importance—good examples, health, character, willingness to work, and other things that matter. Money, beyond enough to pay for necessities, is of so little value.—Ingham County News, Mason, Mich.

Nothing was ever brought to a success that was not advertised up to the handle. Take the NRA, for instance. Suppose the government had not seen the wisdom of making NRA popular by the means of advertising the big thing before the people today. Suppose the men at the head of the relief movement had merely stuck a few items regarding the movement on the windows of the White House. Just as logical as carrying on business in that manner.—Higgins News.

Father—"The thrashing I am going to give you, my son, will hurt me more than it hurts you."
Son—"Then I suggest, dad, that you be as easy on yourself as possible."

JUST FOR FUN

EACH TO HIS TASTE

A young city girl was vacationing in the country and became friendly with a farmer boy. One evening as they were strolling across a pasture they saw a cow and calf rubbing noses in the accepted bovine fashion. "Ah," said the farmer boy, "that sight makes me want to do the same." "Well, go ahead," said the girl, "it's our cow."—Boston Post.

NO, SIR, NOT FOR HER!

Miles—"Your wife drives her own car, doesn't she?" Stiles—"Oh, yes." "Does she pay any attention to those 'Stop, Look and Listen' signs at the railroad crossings?" "Well, I believe she sometimes stops and looks—but to tell you the truth, I don't think that anybody or anything could make her listen."

A NEW PROBLEM

Teacher—"What is half of eight, Frank?" Frank—"Which way, teacher?" "What do you mean, which way?" "On top, or sideways?" "What difference does it make?" "Well, the top half of eight is two, but half of eight sideways is three."

FAIR START

Squashtown Fire Chief—"Yep! We put out the fire just ten minutes after we got there!" Drummer—"Had it got a good start on you?" Chief—"Had it! Why, when we got there, there wasn't nothing left but the cellar."

NO TARIFF PROBLEMS

Teacher—"What are the products of the West Indies?" Boy—"I don't know, sir." "Come, come! Where do you get sugar from?" "We generally borrow it from the neighbor next door."

DON'T TRY IT ON THE GENERAL

A STRANGLING EFFORT

Visitor—"What do you think of capital punishment as a crime deterrent?" Warden—"Well, none of the men we have hung has ever been known to commit another crime."

BROTHERLY ATTITUDE

She—"I cannot marry you, as I do not love you, but I will be a sister to you." He—"Fine. How much do you think our father is likely to leave us?"—Vart Hem (Stockholm.)

Wilfred—"I've decided to speak to your father this very night." Ginfred—"Don't do it. This morning he broke his glasses and cut himself while shaving. Then he missed a train. He had a tire blow out and him on a bad road. The doctor has just sent him a bill for my operation and for supper mother gave him tripe and onions—which he can't resist, but which always make him sick. Better wait a day or two, darling."

1st Partner—"I have a suggestion to make, and that is that we employ women as bill collectors."

2nd Partner—"I don't see how that would help us."

1st Partner—"Well, if a woman is as good at running bills down as she is at running them up, the idea ought to be a winner from the start."

Mrs.—"I want one of those new military hats, they're only $25."

M.—"I can't afford that, and besides, I don't see why you want a military hat, you're not going to fight."

Mrs.—"I am if I don't get the hat."

Shopper—"It's so hard to find just what you want!"

Weary Clerk—"Yes, especially when you don't know what it is."

Every player in the game of life holds a winning hand at some stage of the game.

HIGHWAY RED

Filling Station Attendant—"Here comes another I. W. W. customer." Patron—"What's that?" Attendant—"A motorist who wants only Information, Wind, and Water."—St. John Telegram.

WINS HIS BLUE EAGLE

The lawyer called his clerk and said to him: "Smith, you have been employed by me for five years. To mark my appreciation of this you will henceforth be addressed as Mr. Smith."—Judge.

MISSED THE TRACK MEET

Teacher (to wayward Johnny)—"Tell me what you know about the Caucasian race, Johnny." Johnny—"I wasn't there; I went to the football game instead."

SYNONYMS

A Wichita (Kans.) woman called at a local bookstore the other day, the Eagle says, and asked for a "book of cinnamons" which her daughter required for her school work.

Artist—"This is my latest picture, 'Soldiers at Work. It's very realistic.' Friend—"But they aren't at work." Artist—"I know. That's the realism."

ECONOMIC STRATEGY

"I see she's let her hair go dark again." "Yes—off the gold standard."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

MONEY MATTERS

Jack—"Women don't interest me. I prefer the company of men." Jill—"Why don't you say you are broke, and be done with it?"

NO CONFESSION

Teacher—"Correct this sentence: 'It was me that spilled the ink.'" Pupil—"I wasn't me that spilled the ink."

Many men seek fortune in order to be independent; they should rather seek character, the only true source of independence.

The wise person is the one who trains himself to do more than one thing well, thus providing additional outlets for his abilities.

ORDERS IS ORDERS

A firm advertised for a stenographer and next morning was overwhelmed with applicants. The office boy was told to admit no more.

Shortly after this an aggressive lady arrived, and pushing her way past the others, demanded to see the boss. By this time the office boy had grown deaf to all protestations, and had but one answer: "Not today, madam," he said. "But I'm his wife." "Not today, madam," was the inextorable answer.—Boston Transcript.

Experimenters are testing devices for cooling the atmosphere in dwelling houses. Have they tried the arrival of a big crowd of relatives along about dinner time when there is nothing in the house to eat?—Boston Transcript.

KEEP PLENTY OF RESERVE

The pinch of depression came to the small town slowly. Recovery likewise will come slowly. There are going to be seasonal ups and downs in the return to better times. We'll be smart to keep plenty of gas in the reserve tank.—Wisconsin Press.

they arose, Saul was blind and they had to lead him into the city. God then appeared to Ananias, told him where Saul was, and directed him to go visit the man because he prayed. Ananias went to Saul, called him brother, placed his hand upon him, the scales of blindness dropped from Saul's eyes, and he was as soon as possible baptized. He had fasted for three days, but he was so anxious to obey the Lord that he was baptized before he ate. He then went about proclaiming the Gospel he had come to destroy. There must have been great joy among the Christians of Damascus to know that the man who had come to arrest them and carry them back to their death in Jerusalem had been converted and was testifying to his glorious conversion.

There is no question concerning the power of God unto salvation. There never was a more insistent persecutor than Saul. But God needed him with all of his background to become His greatest disciple. God did not force Saul to become His disciple, but rather presented the truth of the Divine plan of salvation to him, and he was honest enough to accept it and turn from all of his previous conceptions to the preaching of the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

It naturally took a great deal of changing of beliefs, conceptions, and training to preach the Gospel following his strenuous persecution of the Christians. Consequently, Saul spent a three year period in retirement in Arabia. He probably spent this time in studying the Scriptures anew and communing with his new found Master. He then came preaching with mighty power.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning
If you feel sour and sick and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.
For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.
If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.
It takes these good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.
But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Insert a minute. See at drug stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

MOULDERS OF CHARACTER

"When earth's last picture is painted and the tubes are twisted and dried," as Kipling says, the country newspaper editor, otherwise known as the small town editor, is going to be glorified. He is going to have a reserved seat in "Press Row" in the golden city and blazoned in light against the jasper walls we will read, "Earth's Moulders of Character."

When you have finished reading this preface, dig out the current issue of your home town paper, that is if you live in a small town; turn to the editorial page. In nine times out of ten you will read editorial comment on the vexed questions of the day which are masterpieces of journalism. The flow of language and the best and finest ideals are expressed. The country editor stands squarely behind a clean and wholesome community. He is the character builder of his community. As a rule he is not dominated by higher influences. He is unafraid and pro-truths the truth as he sees it.

Fifth and dirt find very little space in the small town newspaper. Here we find constructive thought put into print, fit for the boy and girl to read. This editor is an unassuming man, generally a mild mannered man. He is wise in the ways of the world; more frequently than otherwise, he is a family man. His family consists of one wife and maybe several boys and girls. He gains a true perspective of life through watching the pitfalls of others. He burns the midnight oil in an earnest endeavor to solve the problems of his community. He must of necessity be a veritable Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde; acquiring many roles as he mingles with church men and politicians, honest men and crooks. You might meet him in church or at the show, his mission is for a given purpose. In the archives of his brain are collected all manner and sorts of information. This brain acts like a sieve, filtering out all the fifth and dirt and rendering to the community wholesome and constructive thought.

Yes, the small town editor is one of the nation's greatest assets, playing many parts in the affairs of men and fools, but to see the real man, you must meet him in his back garden on a Saturday afternoon, unshaven, with a hoe in his hands and dressed like a hobo; when like Puck he will say, "Oh what fools we mortals be."—Gazette, Inglewood, Calif.

THE SAFETY VALVE

When Luck has gone and left her card

To say she won't be back, When every car I start upon Seems bound to bounce the track, When everything I do or say Is turned into a hoax, I grab my favorite paper And read a few good jokes.

When this is that and that is this, And all things run cross-cross, When I feel sharp and also flat And no one knows who's boss, When with volcanic turpitude I vainly gasp and choke, The day is rescued only by The reading of a joke. —Anonymous.

A large number of Cooke county farmers were hunting cotton pickers last week and could not find them. If it was announced here that a car load of Red Cross free flour had been unloaded, it would take half a dozen policemen to keep the able bodied men from running over each other. A lot of people were born with the idea that the world owes them a living.—Gainesville Signal.

Friend (to movie house manager)—"Well, how's business at your theatre?" Manager—"Why, man, we turned people away at last night's show."

Friend—"G'wan; you don't mean it." Manager—"It's perfectly true. There were only eight people who came to the performance and we figured it would save money to give em their money back and call the show off."

Judge—"Why did you strike the operator?"

Prisoner—"Well, sir, I gave him a telegram to send to my girl and he started reading it. So of course I ups and gives him a punch."

The Sunday school class was singing, "I Want to Be an Angel." "Why don't you sing louder, Bobby?" asked the teacher.

"I'm singing as loud as I feel," said Bobby.

Officer—"Did you see a pedestrian pass this way a few minutes ago?"

Farmer—"No, sir. I've been a-work-in' this field more'n an hour an' ain't seen a thing but one solitary man pass an' he was a-foot."

Those anxious to invest in a going concern should make sure which way it is going.

Jig saws seem to have jiggered.

A FRIENDLY TOWN

A friendly, gossipy small town Of just about this size, Where everybody knows who acts the clown

And who bakes perfect pies, Where everyone knows who cheats at cards—

The stork's next stopping place— Which homes are proudest of their yards—

Who knits the finest lace, Where everyone knows who owes for rent—

Who makes the clearest jelly— Who is away and where they went—

Who holds his liquor well, At times of grief or sickness

We help and sympathize, We even like the folks we "razz"

In a town about this size, Oh, let me live in a small town

About the size of this, I wouldn't trade for all the world

A RAPID CHANGE ARTIST

A lawyer who was a very busy man was engaged to plead the cause of an offender, and he opened the case in his most virulent style, saying:

"I know the prisoner at the bar and he bears the reputation of being the biggest liar and cheat and the most consummate all-around scoundrel in seven states—"

There was a flurry in the courtroom and the attorney's partner hurried up and whispered in his ear that the prisoner at the bar was his own client. The attorney never changed the expression of his face, and then went on:

"As I have said, this man has the reputation of being an unmitigated scoundrel—but what great and good man ever lived who was not slandered by those around him and made the innocent victim of gossip and evil tongues?"

WHAT PRICE ACCURACY?

The shibboleth of Joseph Pulitzer is again brought to mind with the story where a reporter's imagination used on a robbery in Cologne, Germany. The reporter, even as you and I, increased the amount of loot in a robbery to such an extent that the wife of one of the burglars became suspicious.

Friend husband denied that he had "held out" and the indignant hausfrau decided that his partners had double-crossed him. Thereupon she notified the German gendarmes and gave the names of the other two men who had participated in the theft. They, in turn, were not strong-souled gangsters, and gave the name of their comrade.

As the affair wound up, all three were tried and convicted. The wife, who was responsible for the whole thing, saw her hubby off to prison.

In the present epidemic of kidnapping, the story might offer a suggestion. Double the amount of ransom paid by victims and maybe some virago who figured that her mate was "two-timed" in the negotiations would tell the whole story to the generally befuddled police.

Cheering with the reporter, and congratulating the authorities on their luck, one can only murmur, "What price accuracy now?"—Newsdom.

They are telling it here that some 50 bootleggers of Abilene have threatened to burn the beer dispensary on the line of Taylor and Shackelford counties, as it is interfering greatly with them in disposing of their wares of hard liquor. Whether this is true or not, we are not qualified to say, but it brings up that much discussed question of whether or not the bootlegger votes wet or dry. Personally, we have an opinion, and it is just this: From observation of this class of people and what we can gather from others, they don't generally vote at all—they have no poll tax receipt.

Two darkies were playing money when they got it. "What's dat?" inquired by "Man, you-all sitting ent," answered the first. "Go on, nigrah; you said dat's one ob de books in de

An Electric Mixer Is Never Out of a Job!

An Electric Mixer doesn't know the meaning of employment—if it isn't doing one thing to help you it's doing another even more helpful. It's the housewife's best friend—and even her husband uses it thankfully in making drinks that call for lemon or orange juice. Besides extracting fruit juices, the Electric Mixer mashes, whips, mixes, stirs, beats, and makes salad dressing. With a few inexpensive attachments it chops vegetables, grinds meat, opens cans, and sharpens knives. In short, it saves both time and work. A child can operate it—see it demonstrated once.
