TRANSITORY

By O. L. D. Tiner

In studying history and observing important events for nearly half a century, it seems that few things are as stable or fixed as existence, the course of the last half century has been the same long enough to become monotonous. As I came to existence, the basques, hoop skirts, bustles and rats for pompousness were just going out and that reminds me of the time when some boys got to kicking a stone around like a football and there was a young girl in Nantucket who had a bustle as big as a bucket, and some naughty billy goats walked right up behind her and tucked it.

Just about the time we all get used to a style, custom, or method of doing things, somebody comes along and shakes us play house down and we shake up to find our methods and machinery are all obsolete and we have to drop out of the procession or change with the times. In changing from one state of existence to another, we are in about the same shape as when Henry Ford was when he changed from his model T to model A. If a person can't readily adjust himself to these changes he is not transitory out fixed and he will be compelled to take the consequences, good or bad.

In Elk City, Okla. is a fine thing to be transitory in methods and customs, but where principle, conscience and virtue are concerned, it is better to be fixed, even as Daniel was when he was cast into the lions den.

It seems that parents are undergoing a transition from a governing state of existence to a governed state, for I can remember when children feared and obeyed their parents out from close observations of late the reverse is coming true, and when the children get the parents under control the home will be in a state of stable equilibrium, but until then it will be transitory, and that is an awful state for parents to be in, not knowing whether to give orders or take them. May one or the other soon acquire perfect control and relieve the nervous tension. The same condition applies to capital and labor, and in Russia the transition seems to have already occurred and labor is ruling with a whip hand. Strange things are happening to governments, to families, and to individuals, and from these events we may readily conclude that we are in a transitory state of existence, and reminds me of the old song, "We don't know where we are going, but we are on our way."

"Our Potential Criminals" Is Lions Subject

"Our Potential Criminals" was the Socratic League program given at the Lions Club luncheon Tuesday noon with Lion Tamer Claude Williams leading the discussion.

The Boss Lion, Witt Springer, D. A. Davis, C. O. Greene, Reep Landers, Boyd Meador, Rev. Cecil G. Goff, Jesse J. Cobb and W. E. Bogan spoke on the subject.

Discussion showed the value of home influences and the almost impossibility to overcome the wrong kind of home influence in a boy's life. The value of the boy scouts and similar organizations was mentioned.

Local boys "gangs" were deplored and efforts to influence boys to become useful citizens was pointed out. The boys and girls committee of the club was asked to cooperate with the county welfare board in juvenile cases.

The question of the White Cross Seal campaign was discussed, as the campaign for crippled children has been one of the major activities of the club since its inception.

"Beginning with the session 1934-1935, standard four-year high schools, in addition to meeting fully the requirements heretofore set up for a four-year high school of the first class, shall in filling vacancies and new positions with beginning teachers, employ only teachers in their entire system of schools—including elementary schools, junior schools and senior high schools—who are graduates of universities, colleges, or state teachers colleges, with classroom assignments in their respective fields of preparation.

At the same time principals and superintendents of such schools hold at least the baccalaureate degree from a reputable standard college or university, and shall have successfully completed at least eighteen semester hours in the field of educational administration; provided, however, that principals and superintendents now in service, but who do not hold such a degree or have eighteen semester hours in the field of educational administration, must make progress toward those two objectives by completing at least eighteen semester hours in a standard college or university every three years.

THE POUTING PROPHET

(Concluded)

When Jonah was released from his living prison he went to the town he was told to visit. He went in a very bad frame of mind, however, for he thought himself terribly abused. When he reached Nineveh he cried out against the city for three days, saying that within forty days the city would be overthrown. He is one of the most successful evangelists I know of. He converted that city. From the king down there was genuine repentance. He should have been very thankful for his success, but he was not.

When he knew the Lord had determined to spare the city, he got mad and said the Lord was making him a liar. He thought more of his reputation than he did of the lives of the thousands in the town. In a great huff he went up on a hill and waited. He wanted to see if the Lord would vindicate him at the expense of the city.

While he waited there consumed of his futile anger, a gourd vine grew up to shade him. He was very proud of the vine. But one night a worm ate at the root of it and the next day it withered so that there was nothing to keep the sun off his head, and he fainted.

When he awakened, the Lord asked him if he did well to be angry, and he said he would be angry until he died. He was so thoroughly and unbelievably human in his moods that he is very amusing as we look at him protected by the years. He had pride. He wouldn't associate with just anybody. He'd go off by himself. That kind of pride is either conceit or cowardice. Then, too, he determined to get mad and stay that way. Did you ever see a fellow get mad at the weather? Or a mule? Or a golf ball? They're all about equally unmanageable. If you have ever been so foolish, or if you ever are again, just say, "Move over, Jonah, you have company."

SONYA

White Angel of the Navajos

VIVID with a dark Russian beauty, she was the self-appointed physician to the neglected Indian tribe. She rode weary miles to doctor a sick baby or to save a mother's life.

The Indians told her:
"There was a Blue Woman in the South once—she was all goodness—she makes her bogan in your heart."

Sonya's Eastern lover hated the Navajos because they kept her from him. But a lean, bronze-haired bandit with a wild light in his blue eyes understood them—and Sonya.

Set against the drone of sinister gray planes, Flame of the Border is a glamorous tale of the Romance that still rides in the West.

CHRIST'S STANDARD OF GREATNESS

Lesson text, Matt. 20:17-28. Golden text, Matt. 20:28.

In the beginning of the lesson for this week, Jesus is closing out His ministry in Perea and starting for Jerusalem to go through the great passion week and accomplish the final earthly necessities for the completion of God's great plan of salvation. He took His disciples aside to teach them concerning the coming tragedies. He had taught them before, but they had never realized the eternal significance of His teaching concerning His coming death, and even at this time they evidently did not realize the great weight of the coming events.

Jesus pictured for them as accurately as possible the things that were about to come to pass. He was to be delivered into the hands of the chief priests and scribes. He was to be condemned to death by them. He was to be delivered into the hands of the Gentiles to be mocked. He was to be scourged. He was to be crucified. He was to rise on the third day after His death by crucifixion. Any one of these things was enough to awake in the minds and hearts of the disciples deep thought and consideration. Instead, most of it passed thru their minds and on without lodging. This is revealed by the subsequent actions of the disciples.

Salome, the mother of James and John, the wife of Zebedee, came with her two sons to speak to Jesus. Salome was probably the sister of Mary, the mother of Jesus. These two disciples had been very close to Jesus, as is seen by their intimate presence on the occasion of the raising of the ruler's daughter and on the mount of transfiguration. They came bowing to Jesus, asking a special favor. The request was that one of the sons of Salome be placed on the right hand of Jesus and the other on the left when He established His kingdom. This, and the attitude of the other disciples, showed that they had not comprehended the significance of the Master's teaching concerning His coming trials.

To the question concerning their ability to drink of the same cup from which Jesus was to drink, they answered in the affirmative. This was no doubt because they had not yet comprehended concerning the "cup" of Jesus from which He was about to partake. They were no doubt sincere in their answer so far as they knew, understood and realized. Their understanding was like ours, sometimes, it was poor. Jesus then taught a mighty lesson concerning greatness.

Greatness was not to be dispensed by Jesus. The first places in the kingdom of God were presented by the Father to those who earned them; they were not appointive offices. All of this took place in the presence of the other ten. When they realized the thing that had been requested by the mother of these two, if not actually by themselves, they became very angry. This anger was undoubtedly not because the two had misunderstood Jesus or come to Him about such a thing at this crucial time. Rather, I believe, it was because they had not thought of doing the same thing, and that these two had beat them to a thing they would like to have done themselves. So in the end one of the disciples was as gully as the other one.

Jesus taught His lesson. Greatness as God sees it is not the same as men see it. Position, authority, wealth, power, and things that attend these constitute greatness as men see it. These are the things, although sometimes in a modified form, for which men give their lives. Many men sell all of their years in the attempt to gain one or more of the above named things, only to be bitterly foiled and to have sadly failed. They are all things that pass with the passing of time, things that are placed in coffins with the bodies of men; things that die with the dying of men.

But there is a way to greatness that is eternal greatness. The way Jesus announced is that he that would become great among you must be your minister, and whosoever would be first among you shall be your servant. They all realized that Jesus was the greatest among them and among all mankind. Yet they could not see that His greatness arose out of the fact of His suffering, His sacrifice and His humiliation. He was the Son of God and yet He had and was to suffer more than all the disciples could ever suffer. He came not that men might minister unto Him. He did not expect that of men. He came that He might minister unto men. He came that He might heal the wounds of men, to bind up their broken lives and to give to them the eternal water of life. He came that He might die for men where and how they could not die for themselves. Jesus came to make the supreme sacrifice for men.

His formula for greatness is to follow in His footsteps. If we are to be great, we are to be great servants, ministers. Selfishness, covetousness and pride, which, in the eyes of men, constitute worldly greatness, are in the eyes of God an abomination, and have no reward other than condemnation. We condemn the disciples for seeking greatness at such an hour from the Master, but how much better are we when we give so much of our time to gathering those things about us that will fade with our passing; things that are valueless in the eyes of God. Men do not like to be ministers and servants, but it

CHEVROLET When you pay the price of a Knee-Action car, you naturally want genuine Knee-Action and all that goes with it. You want the new gliding ride at its smoothest, safest, and best. You want simple, foolproof, and trouble-proof construction—the huskiest, sturdiest front-end you can buy. And, of course, you want shock-proof steering—it is the natural companion of the gliding ride. You pay for these things, and you want them all—but you can get them, in the low price field, only from Chevrolet. The reason is simple. Fully-enclosed Knee-Action wheels are costly to build—so costly that only Chevrolet, world's largest builder of cars, can afford to make the necessary huge investment in new machinery—and still keep prices among the lowest of the low. Only Chevrolet has the resources and the assured volume of sales that permit this extra production cost. Chevrolet does it because Chevrolet believes that, to KEEP ON SELLING THE MOST CARS, YOU MUST KEEP ON BUILDING THE BEST. And judging from the popularity of the 1934 car, America agrees with Chevrolet. CHEVROLET MOTOR COMPANY, DETROIT, MICH.

The oil business looks better from a local viewpoint every week. We know how we lost the benefits of an oil boom some years ago, and we should be careful not to make the same mistake again.

The governor's race is off to a good start with no mud slinging for the present. It would be pleasant to go to the polls one time and vote our sentiments without issues, and men being so covered with mud that it is difficult to know how to vote.

The man who says—if there be any such—that he does not care what his children do, is wrong, for it makes a lot of difference to the community what anyone's children do. A parent can do a lot toward seeing that his children are of use to society, or become charges of the community, and he should take an active interest in what his children do, at home and elsewhere.

Texas enjoys the rank of fourth among the states in the production of fruits and vegetables, and only 35th in commercial canneries. There has been much talk of establishing a cannery at McLean, and most years' crops would justify a small plant, if properly handled.

THE LORD'S MONEY

Talk made at the Baptist men's meeting Tuesday evening by T. N. Holloway, on the subject, "How Much Money Should I Give to the Lord?" The Bible teaches that each and everyone is required to turn to the Lord one-tenth of his daily, monthly or yearly income, and as I understand it, it means not what he has left after paying all bills or expenses of daily or monthly living, but when one secures his month's earnings or yearly earnings, place into the Lord's work one-tenth and then use the balance to settle other obligations.

There is only one way to determine how much one should pay to the Lord's work, and that is to keep a daily record of all the money that comes into the Lord's work, and by this means you will know how much to set aside each paying time to take care of your Lord's business. This may be done by placing each dollar into the work through a savings account, and then when you check up at paying time of income, if it does not amount to one-tenth, then add the balance before meeting other expenses, and to our surprise we will be giving more than we have any idea that would be possible to place in this work.

It does not necessarily mean dollars, but our time and talent, and by turning some plan or budget we will be able to accomplish wonders in a month or year, the thing to do is to make some plans and live up to those plans. We make plans as the beginning of the year for certain things to be accomplished, such as preparing for three meals a day, clothes to protect us during certain seasons, and if we will keep close check we will be surprised to find our goals pretty well lived up to.

The same thing is true of the Lord's work. Plan to do so much work during the year for the Lord and make our plans to that end, and the amount of money will take care of itself, if we can secure the interest, as where our interest is, there also will be our means, and when we reach our interest and attention then the money matters will be divided up as required and will be more than enough to keep the Lord's plans in force, just as we do our daily preparations for the necessities of life, which we are very much interested in and never neglect. Without interest, all our life's program will be a neglect and a failure. Whatever we are interested in will gain our support.

As to how much money I should give to the Lord, it is hard to say, as if I place my time and thoughts into the Lord's work my earning powers are increased and the more money I have to give then, and if my interest and belief is strong enough to believe that all I earn is the Lord's, but that only one-tenth is required as His part, then the division will be an easy matter to settle.

I sincerely believe that all we earn in life is a gift of the Lord and should be so treated, and that it is wrong to take that which justly belongs to Him as it would be to take what justly belongs to someone else. If we all would look upon the Lord's business in this light there would be no question as to the Lord's amount due Him, not necessarily money, but also talent and time.

DIFFERENCE IN SINNERS

Talk made by John W. Cooper at the Baptist men's meeting Tuesday evening, on the subject, "Difference Between a Sinner Lost, and a Sinner Saved by Grace."

Sin entered into the world through the transgression of Adam. As a consequence sin and death have passed down unto all men. Every man has inherited a nature inclined to sin. The penalty for this sin is spiritual death. We see the natural condition of man as related to God, in the New Testament the same—Romans 3:23, "All have sinned and some short of the glory of God." This is no exaggeration of the condition of an unsaved man, or lost sinner. He is "dead in trespasses and sins." We find these words in Eph. 2:1. The words of Jesus found in John 10:10, "I am come that they might have life," implies very plainly that there is no real life apart from Him. The last man bears all the signs of death, from a spiritual standpoint—unconsciousness, inactivity, and corruption. He is unconscious of all the realities of God's wonderful love and compassion for man—His holiness of character and His terrible wrath against sin. His spirit suffers the corruption of his deadly disease—sin.

We find in Eph. 2:2 that men who are not Christians do not serve God because they do not have a Godly nature, and by nature we serve the flesh and the world. They are servants of Satan, and will, unless they change, suffer the just punishment for sin. Their wages are death, and their end certain doom. This is the condition of a sinner lost.

The only remedy for the sinner and his sin is grace. There must be a reconciliation with God. In 2 Cor. 5:19 we find that God is a reconciler between man and Himself. Then, in Ezek. 18:32 we see that man must make his own choice as to his acceptance of God's offer, and God has no pleasure in his failure and death. Sinners lost are poor in spirit, bankrupt of virtue, and condemned to die. God is the Great Sovereign. He alone, out of His free grace, can pardon our guilt and give us life. And this is what He does when He saves us by His grace. There is no way to understand God's saving grace except in the light of His infinite love shown in the gift of His only begotten Son (John 3:16). Jesus was the mediator of grace, and the cross was its demonstration. We read in Eph. 2:8, "By grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves; it is the gift of God." It has cost man, who is the offender, nothing. God paid the penalty for us. Jesus gave His life a ransom for many. And the free gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord. Its acceptance means to become a new creature. We read in 2 Cor. 5:20, 21 that such a man's sins were borne and cared for by Christ. Therefore, the man, the sinner lost, becomes the sinner saved by the grace of God.

Then, in conclusion, we might say that a sinner lost is a sinner bearing his own sins—a sinner saved by grace is a sinner surrendered to God with Christ bearing his sins, and he bearing the righteousness of Christ.

LAME OF THE BORDER by VINGIE C. ROE...

CHAPTER I Lone Mesa

The girl, clinging to the face of the cliff, her booted feet barely catching the narrow ledge below, was fully conscious of the strain upon her arms. All the pain in the world seemed centered there. She knew that these hundred feet of space hung over her clear beneath her, that the sun cupped serenely above, and she endured with her mouth set in a grimace of pain, the dark eyes flaming upward at the face which topped the mesa's rim. This was a man's face, young and an old man's weathered as the land above, and as wild as a hawk's with long eyes that watched her painfully. Moreover, it was a drunken face—it had been ten minutes ago. Now it was sobering fast, and there was a gleam at its temples. "Go with one hand—please—catch the rope," its owner begged, for the love of God!

and had not given them a thought. There had been no thought in her when she flung her body out of the arms of the man who held her and over the edge of Lone Mesa—only the age-old terror of conquest, the high, fierce glare of white-hot fury at defiance which has filled the heart of woman since creation. She had essayed death as instinctively as she drew her breath, and had done it on the instant. The man, the tall, lean vandal of saddle and spur, who had ridden her own to the mesa's edge and lifted her bodily from Darkness' back, came back in her vision as he had come again and again on the ride home, in the "ratio with Rod. She could see the long blue eyes of him, wild with inner fire under their sleepy look. They had large pupils under their bronze-colored lashes and they were fierce and cruel, swift eyes that could change in a second from one vital expression to another.

"Over beyond Chee wash. There's a sick woman in a hogan, and I'm afraid she's going to die." A shadow passed across the girl's face, darkening it for a moment. "These Indians are so pitiful, Rod, so patient, so hopeless. And they are so poor. They make me fairly question destiny sometimes." "My darling! Why bother your dear head? What's one Navajo more or less?" "I wish you wouldn't talk like that, Rod," she said earnestly. "If you knew them like I do you couldn't. They are a lost people, that I grant you, who know they are lost, and they are like a gallant ship with its sails set and flags flying. You don't understand, Rod."

Match the Performance of the FORD V8 for 1934 against any Car at any Price

THE car that flashed down a Florida beach to the world's land speed record was powered by the V-type engine. The V-type engine knifed an Italian plane through the air at the record-smashing speed of more than 420 miles per hour. On the St. Clair River, the V-type engine swept a speed-boat to the world's record of 124.8 miles per hour. And that's the type of engine that powers the Ford V-8 for 1934. It's the only V-8 engine in a car selling for less than $2,545. That's why the Ford V-8 will streak down a highway at 80 or better. That's why it will purr along at 50 or 60 without the slightest effort. And why it is unsurpassed in acceleration by many high priced cars! Despite its power, the new Ford V-8 is the most economical car that Ford has ever built. The new Ford V-8 gives you the riding ease of free action for all four wheels—with the safety of strong axle construction. Before you buy any car at any price, drive the new Ford V-8.

Table with 2 columns: Features of Ford V-8 for 1934, Price. Rows include V-Type 8 Cylinder Engine ($1565), Straddle-Mounted Driving Pinion ($2350), Torque-Tube Drive ($1110), Floating Rear Axle ($1375), Welded Steel Spoke Wheels ($3200).

SERMONETTE

By Rev. Stephen M. Tuhy
Lutheran Pastor, Pakan Community

Text: "Enter into His gates with thanksgiving, and into His courts with praise: be thankful unto Him, and bless His name."—Psalm 100:4.

All people in this world are duty bound to praise the Holy Name of the Lord. All nations, people of all languages out of gratitude praise God's name. They are also duty bound to serve Him at all times. We are to "enter into His gates with thanksgiving;" we are to enter the portals of a house of God, be it a real church building of Gothic, Romanesque or Byzantine architecture, or be it a school building or a private home. Christ wants us to go to public worship; He wants us to gather together, for He says: "Where two or three are gathered in my name, there am I in the midst of them."

We are not to think that there is no spiritual benefit in worshipping together. We are not to forsake such gatherings. "Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is." Hebrews 10:25. We are to practice fellowship, learn the doctrines of the apostles which, in reality, are indirect revelations of the teachings of our Lord. We are to pray together and partake of the Sacrament of Holy Communion which is also known as the breaking of bread, the Lord's Supper, Holy Supper and the Eucharist.

The early Christians have set a good example for us in this respect, as St. Luke tells us in Acts 2:42. "And they continued steadfastly in the apostles' doctrine and fellowship, and in the breaking of bread, and in prayer."

Christians gladly "enter into His gates with thanksgiving, and into His courts with praise." They gladly hear the Word of Jesus Christ and permit it to dwell in them. Yes, they are mindful of the exhortation in Colossians 3:16. "Let the Word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom; teaching and admonishing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts to the Lord." Christians are also mindful of the exhortation of the Psalmist, "Serve the Lord with gladness: come before His presence with singing." Ps. 100:2. Also Ps. 98:1. "O sing unto the Lord a new song; for He hath done marvelous things." It is a wonderful privilege of Christians to participate in public worship. It is very pleasing to God to hear His children sing songs, Psalms and spiritual song in His court with praise. He is greatly pleased when they are "thankful unto Him and bless His name."

Daily, private worship is necessary. However, public worship is by no means to be slighted. That is also necessary. At public worship we hear a servant of God explain the Scriptures and guide us along in our spiritual development. Do you participate in public worship where the Word of God is taught and preached with all boldness, sincerity and undiluted truth? In order to hear the Word of God you must go where it is preached. "Blessed are they that hear the Word of God, and keep it." Luke 11:28.
