MRS. McHANEY ENTERTAINS AT LIONS LUNCHEON

Mrs. A. R. McHaney entertained the Lions Club at Tuesday's luncheon with a chalk talk. Mrs. McHaney gave the history of the writing of the poem "Let Me Live in a House by the Side of the Road," painting the picture while Mrs. Cecil G. Goff played the musical accompaniment and read the poem.

Lion Goff acted as Lion tamer and presented Mrs. McHaney and Rev. N. U. Stout as club visitors.

Lion Cryer made announcement of the purchase of a school bus and its accompanying problems.

Lion Meador announced the new trades day plan and declared McLean day at the Amarillo fair 'off' on account of having no band director.

COUNTY TAX RATE RAISED

Gray county's tax rate has been raised six cents over last year, now being set at $1.04, on account of the paving bonds for the McLean-Pampa highway. However, the state tax has been cut 15c, which will mean a net decrease for the taxpayer.

SHERIFF SHOT AT

Sheriff Earl Talley was shot at several times Monday morning after receiving a call to a place near Pampa, one of the shots striking a headlight on his car. The sheriff returned the fire.

Two arrests were made in connection with the shooting.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Callahan and son visited the Amarillo fair Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Marshall visited in Fort Worth and Mineral Wells last week.

Mrs. S. R. Kennedy and son, Milton, visited at Wichita Falls over the week end.

Floyd Gibbons Joins News Staff Writers

Floyd Gibbons, famous Headline Hunter, joins The News staff of writers this week.

Mr. Gibbons will contribute a weekly feature on the "Adventurers Club," which has proven sensationally popular in the Eastern dailies, since beginning only a few weeks ago.

In creating this feature, Gibbons has introduced a new slant on adventure writing. Instead of featuring the numerous adventures he has had as a headline hunter, he is telling the true stories that some friend or contributor has sent to him, and they are all the more thrilling and filled with reader-interest because they happened to every-day people.

"I'll tell you what I mean," Gibbons writes. "Just the other day an old man living in New York wrote me about his adventure with a harpooned whale forty years ago. Well, that was the biggest thrill in his life. And the very same day a kid in Long Island wrote me about saving the life of a baby while coasting down a hill toward an icy lake at sixty miles an hour."

Obtaining Mr. Gibbons as a contributor to the home paper is a distinct "scoop," for his articles, like his voice over the radio, have a distinctive punch that has come to be associated with everything he does.

This feature, with Brisbane, McIntyre, Pickens and others puts the home paper at the top of the list when it comes to writers of international reputation.

Features like The News is publishing cost real money but is only a part of the paper's policy that nothing is too good for its readers.

RECENT BRIDE IS SHOWER HONOREE

Alanreed, Sept. 18—Mrs. Harrison Worsham, who before her recent marriage was Miss Mabel Crisp, was honored recently by a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. J. P. Elms and Miss Willie Dee Hall, at the home of Mrs. Elms.

During the social hour Santa Claus came from the east instead of the north, in autumn instead of winter, walking and carrying baskets instead of riding in a sleigh drawn by reindeer, and presented Mrs. Worsham many lovely and useful gifts. After the gifts were opened and admired by everyone, refreshments of delicious cocoa and chocolate brownies were served.

Guests present were: Mrs. T. E. Crisp, Miss Sybil Hill, Mrs. Bradley Fulfer, Mrs. Odol Hill and daughter, Mrs. Mug Castleberry and daughters, Mrs. Oscar Goodman and daughter, Mrs. Jeannie Chapman, Mrs. A. W. Brewer, Mrs. J. J. Palmer, Mrs. Marvin Hall, Mrs. Harry Quill and daughter, Mrs. Oscar Bell, Mrs. S. L. Ball, Mrs. R. C. Patty, Mrs. P. L. Roby, Mrs. Robt. Crisp and daughters, Mrs. F. R. Crisp, Mrs. Gibson and daughter, Mrs. Hulon Bell and daughter, Mrs. J. P. Elms and Miss Willie Dee Hall.

Those sending gifts were: Miss Lulu Maye Dunkle, Mrs. C. T. McMurry, Mrs. S. T. Greenwood, Mrs. S. R. Loftin, Mrs. J. T. Blakney, Mrs. W. E. James, Mrs. A. H. Moreman, Mrs. W. W. Whitlatch, Mrs. D. L. Hall, Mrs. W. J. Ball, Miss Juanita Ball, Miss Marguerite Crisp, Mrs. Everett Hall, Mrs. John Wardlow, Mrs. Betty Brown, Mrs. Wm. Dillard, Mrs. C. P. Hamilton and Mrs. Palmer.

BOGANS HAVE FINE PEACHES

The News editor's family is indebted to City Secretary and Mrs. W. E. Bogan for the finest plate of peaches seen this year.

The fruit came from a seedling tree that came up in the Bogan yard, and leaves nothing to be desired in color, size, texture and flavor.

Mrs. Ida McMurry of Amarillo visited her sister, Mrs. C. A. Gatlin, last week end.

Witt Springer went to Austin Monday. He was accompanied by Spud Lynch, who entered state university.

R. H. Ruth, of the state highway department, of Pampa was in McLean several days last week.

Deputy Sheriff Scott Tennin and Jas. F. Heasley transacted business in Alanreed Friday.

Becoming Sports Frock With Jabot Is "The Top"

PATTERN 2341

It is not easy to find a sports frock that plays No Favorites when it comes to showing up the imperfect figure. But here's one that flatters, regardless, by the very simple device of a rippling jabot collar. But notice that our designer has not sacrificed one whit of the tailored chic and easy freedom the sports frock needs. The pleated sleeve for arm action—pleats in back bodice and skirt for freedom. Here is just the most perfect model for one of the lovely new plated satins that are being shown in such delicious pastel shades. A tie silk would be lovely and any number of cottons are available for a simpler version. Accent with matching buttons.

Pattern 2341 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32. Size 16 takes 3 1/2 yards 36 inch fabric. Illustrated, step-by-step sewing instructions included. SEND FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE. Address orders to the Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 248 West Seventeenth St., New York City.

AND THAT'S THAT

Husband—Will you miss me when I am away.
Wife—I guess I will. You've always been too good a dodger at home.

Well Preserved
Visitor—Your grandpa must be pretty old.
Granddaughter—Yes, grandpa's ninety-six.
Visitor—And has he all his faculties?
Granddaughter—All 'ceptin' his hair.

No Doubt!
City Boy—How did you like shoeing that mule?
Country Cousin—Oh, I got a big kick out of it.

Thrifty Man
"Isn't that lawyer a rather extravagant man?"
"By no means! I've know him to make one suit last for several years."

JAMES
GREAT CHRISTIAN LEADER

Text, James 1:1-17. Golden text, James 1:1-17. Blessed is the man that endureth temptation: for when he is tried, he shall receive the crown of life which the Lord hath promised them that love Him. James 1:12. James, the brother of our Lord, was the brother of Jesus (James 1:19). Herod had, early in the history of the Jerusalem church, killed James the apostle. (Acts 12:1-2). James the brother of our Lord, was of course only half brother of Jesus and James, the brother of our Lord, was older than James. During the time the brothers of Jesus believed on Him (John 7:15). After the resurrection of Jesus appeared to his brother James (1 Corinthians 15:7). We should help to believe that at that time James surrendered to Jesus Christ.

James became a stalwart Christian. He speaks of him as an apostle in James 1:19. This was likely because he could have met the qualifications of an apostle even as Paul had those qualifications. But James the brother of Jesus was not one of the original twelve apostles. Nevertheless, he became the leader of the Jerusalem church and remained so for years. Paul speaks of him as one of the pillars of the church, in James 1:29. It was James who led over the conference in Jerusalem when the brethren of Antioch sent messengers down to discuss some matters concerning the law and the law, and it was he who summed up the discussion before the final decision (Acts 15:13-21). It was James who officially received the message concerning his release from prison (Acts 21:18). Thus we reason to believe that this half brother of the Master, James, was for years the leader or pastor, or elder of the Jerusalem church.

Children are also to get a good religious education. The fathers are to see to that. It is up to them to see to it that their sons and daughters attend church, Sunday school, Bible classes, young people's organizations within the church, vacation Bible school, and also have good religious books, and above all, to read the Bible diligently with them at home.

Scripture tells the fathers: "But bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord." If the children are disobedient they are to be admonished and shown the right path. The parents, and especially the fathers, are to show themselves good examples to their children so that in their old age they may be blessed by their children instead of being cursed, neglected and deserted.

The responsibility of all parents is very great, especially in providing the proper training in spiritual life and vocational life. Parents, "bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord."

SERMONETTE

By Rev. Stephen M. Tuhy
Lutheran Pastor, Orlin, Fla.

Vol. 2 No. 37

Text: "And ye fathers, provoke not your children to wrath; but bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord."—Eph. 6:4.

TRAINING NECESSARY FOR CHILDREN

As the head of the home and family, every father is to provide for the training of his children. Two kinds of training are necessary, secular and spiritual.

Secular training, education, is compulsory in many states up to the age of sixteen or eighteen. We cannot get around it. Our present standards in the United States demand a good training in secular subjects which are taught in the public and private schools.

Two years ago Senator Copeland stated: "As for my own view of the value of education, I can think of no other possession so important. To my mind it means more to the individual than anything else he might get out of life. It is obvious that I regard the depression, as it relates to education, one of the most serious symptoms of the economic disease. Education and health are the two things that make it possible for anybody in America to succeed. Nothing can be more calamitous to the growth and genius of our country than serious curtailment of our educational privileges."

It is up to the fathers of our nation to see to it that the children get a good education, that they enjoy all possible privileges of receiving training for their future work and citizenship. There should be no "curtailment of our educational privileges."

Fathers have their special duties. If they neglect them they will not only invoke the wrath of their children but also the wrath of the Holy and Just God. Scripture says: "And ye fathers, provoke not your children to wrath."

Children are also to get a good religious education. The fathers are to see to that. It is up to them to see to it that their sons and daughters attend church, Sunday school, Bible classes, young people's organizations within the church, vacation Bible school, and also have good religious books, and above all, to read the Bible diligently with them at home.

Scripture tells the fathers: "But bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord." If the children are disobedient they are to be admonished and shown the right path. The parents, and especially the fathers, are to show themselves good examples to their children so that in their old age they may be blessed by their children instead of being cursed, neglected and deserted.

The responsibility of all parents is very great, especially in providing the proper training in spiritual life and vocational life. Parents, "bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord."

SENIOR REPORT

The seniors met last Wednesday and selected their class ring. The "Centennial" ring was selected. The rings are expected to be here about the last of October.

The class met again Friday and elected the following room mothers: Mesdames Chas. E. Cooke, H. W. Finley, T. A. Landers, T. H. Andrews and A. W. Brewer.

The seniors had a watermelon feast Tuesday night at Fowler's Ranch. A good time was reported by all.

JUNIOR REPORT

The juniors selected the following room mothers for this year: Mesdames A. B. Christian, M. Mertel, I. D. Shaw, W. W. Wilson and S. W. Rice.

The junior nominees for the student body officers are: Averill Christian, president; Hershel McCarty, vice president; Marietta Young, secretary.

The juniors had a get acquainted social Tuesday night for all new members of the class.

SOPHOMORE REPORT

The sophomore officers were elected as follows: president, Kid McCoy, Jr.; vice president, Shirley Johnston; secretary, W. L. Shelton; treasurer, Bill Webb; orderly, Harry Barnes, Jr.; parliamentarian, Jesse Dean Cobb. Miss Abbot was reelected as sponsor.

HOME ECONOMICS NEWS

Sixty-one girls have enrolled in first year home economics and 33 in second year, making a total of 94, which is a small increase over the enrollment of last year. New students are coming in each day, and we are expecting to have 100 in our department this year.

The first year girls have completed a unit of work in personal relationships. A new unit of work in personal grooming and clothing will be started this week. The class will study materials and patterns suitable for their first problem, and they will select the ones they will use. Construction and actual laboratory work will begin next week.

The second year girls are studying food preservation. Thirty-eight pints of vegetables were canned during the two laboratory periods last Friday. The class is planning to can fruits and make jellies this week. A new unit of work on marketing will also be started this week.

The clothing laboratory has been equipped with new chairs which are very comfortable and a great improvement over the old ones. We feel very fortunate in receiving them. Several new books will be ordered for our library which will be very useful and helpful in our class work. Plans for a home economics club are being discussed with the students, and we are looking forward to the organization of a worth while and interesting club.

AGRICULTURE REPORT

The McLean agriculture boys attended the Tri-state fair dairy judging contest. Kid McCoy was high man and Bill Webb the other team member. James Lee Rice, W. L. Shelton and Morse Ivey were alternates. McLean placed fifth in dairying. McCoy's rating was 369 points. Bill Webb was next with 352 and Joe Hefner third with 344.

TIGERETTES

The Tigerettes are surely behind the Tigers. As yet the official uniforms have not been chosen, but the girls go on just the same with just as much vigor. New songs and yells are being added to an already long list. Whenever and wherever you see the Tigers, just look for the Tigerettes. We'll be there!

FRESHMAN REPORT

We have selected Miss Mallow and Mr. McGee to be our sponsors. For other officers we elected Billy Cooke for president, Vesterlee Smith for vice president, Dorothy Sitter for secretary, Eugene Stewart for treasurer, and Ermadel Floyd for reporter.

Mesdames Chas. Cooke, J. E. Lynch, Vester Smith, Jim Back, George Colebank, E. L. Sitter, D. C. Carpenter, Thacker, B. F. Gray, W. H. Blevins, J. C. Payne, Bogan, Peb Everett, Zane Smith and Finley have been nominated for our room mothers. We hope they will accept. The reason for so many room mothers is that there are 115 freshmen.

CHAPEL

In chapel Tuesday morning we voted by secret ballot for the student body officers. There were four in the run-off: for president, James Emmett Cooke and Averill Christian; for secretary, Marie Landers and Marietta Young.

Others receiving votes for president were: Marie Landers, Charles Finley.

Any druggist will get the REV PRESCRIPTION for you.

THE STUDY HALL

It's fun to sit in the study hall and answer "here" at the teacher's call.

It's fun to hear her yell at some kid for doin' somethin' he never did. She'll yell at us and rout 'n rave 'Till she's red in the face--when we don't behave.

We all write notes--and poetry, too. Then sit and wonder what she would do if, by some mean trick of fate, we got them hid just a little too late. Now, I ask you, what would you do if the teacher caught up with you?
—Eula Fae Foster.

CAN YOU IMAGINE?

The world will come to an end when Katherine Belew is without gum. Bobbie Lynch isn't raving about boy friends.

The class president is on time. Joe Hefner is sitting still. Elizabeth Combest is studying. Wilson Shaw isn't "popping off." J. T. Graham isn't combing his hair. Hershel McCarty isn't writing letters.

Porter Chilton studies history. Morse Ivey courts a girl. "Hookey" Stratton isn't flirting. Noel Andrews is a senior. Jess Finley isn't a cowboy. Mr. Loter doesn't love his wife.

Senator Long Assassinated by Political Opponent

HUEY P. LONG, United States senator and political dictator of Louisiana, is dead, the victim of an assassin's bullet. As he passed through a corridor of the state-house in Baton Rouge, where the legislature was passing more laws to solidify his control over the state, he was shot once through the body by Dr. Carl A. Weiss, Jr., of Baton Rouge, one of the "King-fish's" political opponents. The assassin was immediately shot to death by the senator's ever present bodyguards.

Long was hurriedly taken to a hospital and eminent surgeons were summoned. They found the bullet had gone through the base of the right lung and passed out of the back, puncturing the colon and causing internal hemorrhage. After the wound had been cleansed, two blood transfusions were given, the blood being supplied by Lieut. Gov. James A. Noe. Mrs. Long and her daughter Rose were brought from New Orleans and sat at the senator's bedside.

The surgeons and physicians worked unceasingly to save Long, but his strength steadily waned and shortly after 4 o'clock Tuesday morning, about thirty hours after the shooting, he passed away.

The motive of Doctor Weiss, an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, apparently grew out of the high-handed political methods of Senator Long in Louisiana. The position of his father-in-law, District Judge B. H. Pavy of Opelousas parish, an anti-Long leader, is jeopardized by a law introduced in the present special session to gerrymander his district. The law would put the home of Judge Pavy in Landry parish.

In August, Senator Long told the senate that at a conference in the Hotel De Soto in New Orleans last July 21 his foes had discussed a plot to kill him. He presented excerpts from what claimed was a record of a sound recording device revealing the plot.

Long's opponents laughed at this story, just as they always have ridiculed his practice of having an armed guard accompany him everywhere.

Political leaders of all parties expressed their deep regret for the assassination of Senator Long. His devoted followers in Louisiana and elsewhere mourned his death. He had been one of the picturesque figures in America's political life, creating innumerable enemies but persistent in advocating his ideas which appeared fantastic to most citizens. A Democrat, he had broken with the administration and often bitterly attacked President Roosevelt and the New Dealers. It was the belief of many that he intended to become the Presidential nominee of a third party comprising his own "share the wealth" crowd and various other groups dissatisfied with the policies of the old parties.

Efforts of Statesmen to Prevent War in Africa

MUSSOLINI tacitly consented to the appointment of a committee of five nations by the League of Nations council to handle the Italo-Ethiopian embroglio, and after protest agreed that Great Britain and France should be among the members of that body. The other members are Spain, Turkey and Poland. Senor Salvador de Madariaga of Spain is the chairman, and he and his associates at once began the task assigned them. Each country is represented by its chief delegate, being besides Madariaga, Eden of England, Laval of France, Rustu Arras of Turkey and Josef Beck of Poland.

The assembly of the league began its sessions in Geneva, bringing to that city many of Europe's foremost statesmen, and it was a certainty that the assembly would be definitely hostile to Italy and ready to consider the imposing of penalties on Italy the moment any overt act occurs. The Italians hoped to prolong the inquiry by the committee of five until after the adjournment of the assembly, and their opponents were building up a solid front, preparing for the application of sanctions against an aggressor as provided for in article 16 of the league covenant. Baron Aloisi told Captain Eden that the African campaign would not begin while the assembly was in session.

In two speeches in Rome Mussolini gave indication that he would not be diverted from his purpose to conquer Ethiopia. Though in one he said "the Italian people want peace provided it is accompanied by justice," in the other he declared "we shall march straight on." The Ethiopian government announced that "telegrams from the northern frontier show that the Italians are making important troop movements on the Ethiopian and Eritrean frontier, indicating an early offensive against Ethiopia." Accepting the advice of his "brain trust," which includes Everett A. Colson of the United States, Emperor Haile Selassie instructed his representatives in Geneva to reject all solutions thus far offered by the powers for settling the quarrel with Italy. These are a tripartite mandate over Ethiopia, as suggested by France, with the League of Nations guaranteeing Ethiopia's independence and territorial integrity; France's proposal for an Italian protectorate similar to that of the British in Iraq, and an international police force similar to the one that occupied the Saar before its restoration to Germany.

Aloisi Presents Italy's Case Against Ethiopia

BARON POMPEI ALOISI, cold and sarcastic, stood up before the League of Nations council in Geneva and presented Italy's case against Ethiopia, denouncing that empire as utterly unworthy to be classed with civilized countries. In addition to his speech, he laid before the council a long memorandum detailing the alleged conditions of slavery that still prevail in Ethiopia and the participation of its government in the slave trade. This memorandum was elaborately documented.

Addressing the council, Aloisi said in part:

"The Ethiopian government does nothing to make itself worthy of belonging to the community of civilized nations. Even today that country has to be represented by European advisers in order to make its voice heard in the League of Nations.

"The Italian government considers, in these circumstances, that a state such as Ethiopia cannot have either equality of right or equality of duties as compared with civilized states. To claim that members of the league are required to observe rules of the covenant in their relations with members who have always and constantly been outside those rules is contrary to all the principles of right and justice."

To the press correspondents the baron was even more explicit. "You have heard the Italian thesis," he said. "That is final, Italy has asked nothing, not even the withdrawal of Ethiopia from the league. From now on Italy will play a passive role here. We are not going to discuss anything with Ethiopia, but we will discuss Ethiopia with the league."

"It is up to the members of the league council to decide whether they want to expel Ethiopia or expel Italy."

Reactions to President's Letter Are Various

REACTION of American business and financial men to President Roosevelt's latest public statement that his basic program has reached substantial completion and industry will have a breathing spell ran the gamut between mild hope and downright unbelief. Those who permitted themselves to be quoted were generally extremely cautious in their expressions, but there was usually a vein of skepticism in their remarks. Wall Street brokers were gladdened by a spark of trading at higher prices, but bankers were more than doubtful, and economists insisted that a balanced budget, which wasn't mentioned in the President's letter to Roy Howard, publisher, was a prime requisite.

Silas Strawn, former president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, said: "Business men generally will say that the improvement in some lines of business has been in spite of, rather than because of, the activities of the administration."

Politicians regarded the letter as Mr. Roosevelt's opening of his campaign for re-election, and praised or decried it according to their party affiliations. Frank Knox of the Chicago Daily News, a potential candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination, called it "just another promise" and set forth the many campaign promises which Mr. Roosevelt has failed to keep. Senator Black of Alabama said the statement was "a wonderfully clear explanation of his program, its original aims and its execution. It should be a call to those engaged in business to co-operate in further national progress."

Howard had written the President that many business men had become convinced that there could be no real recovery "until the fears of business have been allayed through the granting of a breathing spell to industry and a recess from further experimentation until the country can recover its losses."

In a long letter the President replied that the legislative program of his administration had reached substantial completion and "the breathing spell of which you speak is here—decidedly so."

Campus Swank Via Knitted Fashions

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

FOR thrills that set your blood tingling to your very fingertips, for enthusiasm that goes skyrocketing to the heights, see the new fall knitted fashions. They are simply grand! Never has a more fascinating chapter been written in knitwear style history.

As to the college girl who is assembling her go-away-to-school wardrobe there is no more direct road to take to arrive at campus swank than via the knitted way.

The new knits are in a riotous color mood. Their bright and handsome hues are as richly colorful and fascinating as the autumnal background against which they are silhouetted. Then, too, pronounced patternings in a bewildering array of checks, plaids and stripes animate the scene in striking display. As to the styling of the new knitted costumes, designers are doing it with incomparable chic and charm. See the three modes illustrated and be convinced.

There is no doubt about the atmosphere of unusual, outstanding and undeniable style that surrounds this trio of chic autumn knits. Consider the spritely checked three-piece suit pictured to the right in the group. It is a stunning affair. It is the sort that is destined to prove the college girl's delight. For that matter every woman will realize in this model her dream come true as to the type of fall costume she has been visioning for about-town wear. Just the thing for motor-ing and traveling.

This entire ensemble is carried out in a hairy soft yarn in a close jacquard knit. For the knitted suit the latest is a luxurious three-quarter swag coat such as styles this outfit. A sensible and graceful mode this, since it enables the wearing of this three-piece until well into the winter season. We see also in this model a fetching example of the plaid-with-plain vogue which is being so widely exploited.

Typical of the many chemises for spectator sports that are seen wherever women of fashion gather, is the ravishing three-piece suit centered in the picture. Both skirt and blouse are plain, providing a perfect foil for the colorful striped jacket. Peeping out at the top is the jaunty blouse, tie knitted in a wide drop stitch. The frog fastening identifies this model as a last-minute creation in that the very newest fashions have these military-looking accents. It is also worthwhile noting that the skirt is finished with a selvae hemline which prevents it from sagging. A pert knitted hat with brim smartly angled at one side completes the ensemble.

What could be more unmistakably style-convincing than the tailored knit outfit to the left? The double-breasted jacket is cut according to best masculine tradition with wide lapels and straight neat fitting sleeves. Across the back is a yoke from which emerges a yovush shirred fullness. A hairy yarn is used for the plaid knit coat as compared to a smooth soft zephyr for both skirt and blouse. The latter sports a crew neck and an initialed pocket. This clever tailor is knitted in stunning color combinations.

A most important style point to remember in selecting your fall knit outfit is that soft zephyrs closely knit and worked into figure-clinging "lines" are the new order of the day.

SUEDE SUITS

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Here's a newcomer—the suede suit. They are stepping out this fall in the most fascinating colors fancy can picture. To attract the more, they are made of suede as soft and supple as fabric and as delightfully wearable, being comfortably and pleasingly lightweight. In the model pictured the skirt has interesting panel inlays and three buttons which unfasten to allow freedom of action. Roomy pockets, wide revers and a fine finesse in tailored detail give to this handsome jacket suit an air of unusual distinction. As to the colors for the new suede jackets and blouses, suits and accessories, they are simply fascinating.

MILLINERS SHOW NEW USE OF VEILS

Milliners have taken liberties with the classic lines of hats this season with the result that some interesting and amusing new features have appeared. An entirely new use of veils has been shown and, by the way, veils have been getting coarser and coarser until they somewhat resemble fish nets.

A little sailor is shown in white program which has been stiffened to give shape to the brim which stands out at the sides and tilts slightly over the forehead. A coarse veil of black silk is attached at the center of the crown and falls in back somewhat in the manner of bride's veil. Another in coarse straw is shaped like a Mexican sombrero with an upturned brim all the way around. A fish net veil extends over the crown to the edge of the brim where it is dotted with small pompons.

Dramatic Berets Show Up on Autumn Fashion Scene

Those big berets of velvet or pliant felt, made in thrilling rich dark colors, came onto the fall style scene early, but they will be still in good order when we get into our first warmish tweeds and flannels.

They set off a cotton sports dress with a refreshing dash for the present, but they will be the handiest kind of ensemble when we begin to wear all the strange new colors which autumn models are promising.

For a peek at coming tweeds shows muddy violets and sulphurous greens on the way, and plaids made of most unusual combinations—schemes that demand just the right accent in hat and blouse to show them off. These berets have the color, and they are becoming to almost any type of coiffure, besides.

Hoods, Pantalettes

Many hooded dresses and coats are shown in Paris; also some trousered sports and street skirts. Some designers even show satin evening pantalettes instead of petticoats.

EVERYDAY NEW YORK

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK—Thoughts while strolling: How many can spell cerebral hemorrhage offhand? A description of the Normandie: A palace with the gassy. The veteran editor John Phillips. First of the bread-and-milk dietists. Bluest of the masculine blue-eyed: Harry Hannister. Memory: Harry Lauder's pathetic song sketch of the half-witted Scotch boy: I'm the Softest of the Family.

Whatever became of J. P. McEvoy? Will Cuppy has a quick hiccup name, too. And Babe Ruth a cinch face for the sculptors. Difficult to realize the boyish Alfred Vanderbilt is now the leading turfman.

The pinch hitter for magazine editors, Marion Gillespie. When a writer muffs an assignment they ring for her. The Indian phrase for clear water is a swell roll of the tongue: Kloss-muck-a-muck chuck chuck. A lot of authors are writing worse novels than Mary Pickford.

Slogan suggestions: "Share the Thrift of others." Baby talk name: Ootsie Oots of San Antonio. How many smarties know the present tense of the verb wrought? Nobody has filled Joseph Urban's shoes. For a dandy evening: A comfortable chair, a log fire and Opie Read discussing steamboat days.

Everybody that motors through Odd, W. Va., drops me a post card. But my favorite hick town is Hot Spot, Ky. Jolly Bill Steinke looks his moniker to a T. Rube Goldberg's sons have outgrown him, for goodness sake! Still another memory: The sticky door-knobs after a taffy pull.

From a cell in The Tombs: "I have come to the end of my rope but I have found a knot called hope."

There's an involuntary wince in passing that depressing gray pile that is the Tombs with its equally gloomy Bridge of Sighs over which jail-sweepings trickle to their doom from criminal courts. Especially at night when the bleakness is relieved only by one or two thin driddles of light. Often after midnight there jangles through the barred windows a shrieking blasphemy—like the eerie scream from a jungle. A soul in torment!

At the foot of a hill in Roslyn, L. I., is a serene colonial type of tea room with a Washington name and an early American decor. On the site Gen. Washington once breakfasted. I've often wondered the why of the charm of the Washington tea rooms. There are many in New York—France's Tavern for example—and dotting the New England countryside. I've never been disappointed in the food or service. Somehow all I have visited seem living up shinningly to a tradition.

The tear room is often locked upon as a sort of chintzy rendezvous where elderly ladies go for the surreptitious puff of a cigarette. The fact is, many experts of cuisine frequently prefer them when dining out. Helen Gould is a patron. Also Elsie De Wolfe, Ford Bond, Paul Whiteman, Fritz Kreisler, Charles Hanson Towne, Amelia Earhart and—of all people—Robert L. Ripley. Most of these have dined in famous restaurants all over the world.

The majority of tea rooms have lost their prim prissiness since repeal. They have their "cute" semi-circular bars and wine cards as varied as in the bon ton places. And the food is different—the final metropolitan link gastronomically with that vague phenomenon known as "home cooking." The last stand of poly-polies and Brown Betties.

Fannie Hurst, thinner than ever, has returned from Hawaii where she was the reigning and feted celebrity for several weeks. There are rumors in the literary world that her next novel will have the island as background. Hawaii somehow has been neglected as a locale, although in the past few years it has become one of the most colorful watering places. Running neck and neck with Monte Carlo and Palm Beach. Although a rigid quarantine of dogs has kept many away.

The customary morning hub-bub in our block had a five-year-old lost Henry as hero. He was found wandering along Third avenue by a colored janitor. The janitor took the lad with him on a chore before returning him to his parents an hour later. "I kept him with me so he wouldn't get lost worse," he explained.

Cormorant Fishing at Night
In Japan cormorant fishing is done usually at night. Torches are lit, and as the fish, attracted by the light, gather around the boats or rafts, the birds are let into the water. This method of fishing also saves bait, for in daylight fishing with cormorants it is necessary to attract schools of fish by pouring a large amount of bait around each boat.

At the present rate of automobile accidents, one out of every three persons is marked for death or permanent injury; and despite opinion to the contrary, most of the accidents happen on clear days, on good highways under excellent driving conditions, and very few of them due to any defect in the car or tires—just plain foolhardiness on the part of the driver.

Household Hints

By Jean Mueller

A young bride whom I happen to know never dared to have a roast when she was to have guests, as she wasn't certain that it would turn out at all well. Here is a menu, and a very good one too, that she always relied on:

- Breaded pork chops
- Scalloped potatoes
- Fruit salad
- Beans, peas or carrots (creamed)
- Biscuits and jelly
- Chocolate torte and coffee.

CHOCOLATE TORTE

- 4 eggs
 - 1 cup powdered sugar
 - 1/2 cup grated chocolate
 - 3/4 cup or less of cracker meal
 - 1 slightly rounding teaspoon baking powder
 - 1/2 cup chopped almonds
- Beat the egg whites and yolks stiffly. Fold together. Add the powdered sugar gradually. Add the rest in their order.
Serve with whipped cream.

GRAPE SALAD

For an attractive and tasty salad, spread a layer of cream cheese on the oval side of a half pear (canned). On this arrange small seedless green grapes to look like a bunch of grass. Serve on a lettuce leaf or tender trape leaves, with your favorite dressing.

ORANGE AND ONION SALAD

Cut a slice of orange and place on a lettuce leaf. Cut a thin slice of onion, and put on orange slice. Serve with salad dressing. This makes a very tasty salad.

An easily prepared and tasty main dish which can be made in the morning and put in the oven half an hour before serving, consists of:

- 1 1/2 pounds round steak (ground)
 - 1 pound onions
 - 1 can tomatoes
 - 1 package noodles
- Fry the meat until brown. Separate it in the pan when it is browned, take it out of the frying pan. Cut the onion in thin slices and brown in pan. As soon as the onion is brown add the meat. When they have cooked together for a few minutes, add the can of tomatoes.

Place a package of noodles in boiling water, and boil for twenty minutes. Drain and then add to the above mixture. Salt and pepper to taste. Bake about half an hour in a casserole.

A clove of garlic improves the taste.

ICE BOX PUDDING

- 1 level teaspoon plain gelatine
 - 2 tablespoons cold water
 - 1/4 cup boiling water
- When cool add 1 pint whipping cream. Whip real stiff.
Divide and to one-half add six macaroons grated.
To balance add one-fourth pound grated sweet chocolate.
Put in dish in layers. Let stand in refrigerator several hours.

DO YOU KNOW THAT:

- String beans will cook more quickly if the salt is not added until a few minutes before they are taken from the fire?
- Corks will not stick in the necks of small bottles containing cement, shoe polish, and glue, if the surface of the cork is rubbed with a little glycerine?
- Hot starch penetrates white clothes more easily than cold starch?

COOPERATIVE ADVERTISING

Many merchants, some of them in McLean, are accustomed to think of advertising as a means of taking business from competitors instead of looking upon it as a proper method of stimulating sales of the commodities advertised. This is being illustrated forcefully in many national campaigns where manufacturers of certain things have banded themselves into a national association for the purpose, not of fighting the other man's product, but of selling the consumer the machine that both make.

The same idea should apply to local advertising. Merchants who advertise in The McLean News do not necessarily compete for a minimum amount of business, which one must take from the other. Rather, it is true that their up-to-date advertising will create an impression throughout our shopping area and much business will come in—enough to give all worthwhile business a share.

Floyd Gibbons ADVENTURERS' CLUB

Hello, Everybody!

"Nearly the Last Round-Up"

By FLOYD GIBBONS
Famous Headline Hunter.

AVAST there, mates! I mean "Hold 'em, cowboy!" Gosh, I don't know what kind of lingo a sea-cowboy uses, but I know the kind I would have used if I'd been aboard the cattleboat, S. S. Winfredian, in mid-Atlantic, that wild March night with Peter Mullan and 700 head of plunging, terrified cattle.

Pete came so close to going on the Last Round-Up or to Davy Jones' locker that it wasn't funny. Incidentally the S. S. Winfredian has since slipped quietly down the stairs to Davy Jones' locker, so maybe she was just playing a rehearsal for Pete.

Cattleboats, Pete says, are not exactly floating palaces. In fact, they're generally made-over tubs.

The Winfredian was no exception to the rule. Her under-decks were just a mass of cattle stalls with a narrow passage—just wide enough to allow a man to pass—running the length of the ship.

Pete, two other greenhorn cattlemen and an underforeman were mired in the stalls on the ship, and this isn't such a bad way to earn a trip to Europe—unless you hit a bad storm. And then it's awful.

Old Ship Groans Under Waves.

The storm hit the cattleboat when she was out in the middle of the Atlantic ocean, and the old ship groaned, plunged and rolled on her beam ends at an alarming angle.

The crowded cattle—seasick and mad with terror—screaked and kicked at every pitch of the ship, and Pete says it was plain bedlam between decks.

But, storm or no storm, the helpless beasts had to be taken care of and Pete and his shipmates were right down among them doing the best they could. Monster waves plunged in through the open upper-deck hatch and the men and cattle swished around knee-deep in sea water.

Now if you've never been on a cattleboat you are probably wondering why they didn't close the hatch and keep the water out, but the trouble with that is that it also keeps the air out, and if you've ever been on one of those loaded beef ferries you know what that means. The stench and heat from the tightly packed steers would kill a man with a gas-mask on!

Giant Wave Threatens Death to All.

So the hatch was left open and the water poured in and the good ship waled in the high seas like a ham-strung calf at a rodeo.

It was four o'clock in the morning, Pete says, when the crisis came. The men were lading out fresh water to the frantic cattle when a monster wave slapped the weary side of the ship and Pete thought it was all over.

Pete was standing in the narrow passage-way with his mates when that wave struck. The ship keeled over to a 45-degree angle and flung the cattle in heaps to the port side of their stalls.

She paused there as though trying to decide whether or not to turn bottom side up, and then righted herself and dipped almost as far on the starboard side! Wham! Those tons of living steers shot-the-shoots across their stalls and hit the detaining bars with a deafening crash.

Some of the stalls held, but some of them didn't, and when Pete got to his feet and looked around him he forgot all about the storm, for coming right at him along the narrow passage-way WAS CERTAIN DEATH!

Now a stampede on dry land is about as dangerous a thing as you can find, and I for one don't want any part of it, but a stampede at sea—in a storm—is really something to write home about.

Pete says it was a sight he will never forget. The maddened steers—insane with terror—came splashing along the passage-way at amazing speed—tongues hanging out of their open mouths and eyes starting out of their heads.

Men and Cattle Caught in Death-Trap.

One of the leaders fell, but the rest never paused as they trampled him to death in the foam beneath their pounding hoofs.

Pete let out a yell and tried to get out of the way, but the foreman was in front of him, and the foreman was a fat man and his slow-moving bulk completely filled the passage-way.

Pete says he felt like a rat in a trap—those few seconds that he stood there unable to move one way or the other.

The foreman was an old-timer and when he hurdled over a barrier into a stall he saved not only his own life but Pete's, because as he jumped he felt the hot breath of the leading steer on his cheek.

Well, sir, jumping into one of those narrow stalls with a frantic steer for a cabin mate was like jumping from the frying pan into the fire.

Every time the boat rocked the steer would careening dangerously around—smashing against one side and then the other—with Pete doing his best to keep his feet.

One false step on that slippery floor and this story would never have been told.

Luckily for Pete and his shipmates not as many of the cattle had escaped as it seemed.

Sea Was Singing "Last Round-Up."

The following procession down the passage-way was only about ten strong, and when it passed the men all jumped back out of the stalls and waded after their charges.

That chase rambled all over the ship, and if you want some excitement, Pete says, try rounding up cattle on a ship at sea.

Every time the cowboys would corner one of the critters, why that floating pasture would turn on end and men and cattle would slide kicking into the scuppers. Those big waves, Pete says, sure seemed to be singing "The Last Round-Up" for him.

But the storm finally eased up and the cattle were rounded up and led back to their repaired stalls with no serious casualties to the men.

There were a lot of broken legs, however, among the steers.

The animals were destroyed to end their suffering, and as the good ship headed on her path they were buried at sea.

And so, boys and girls, ends the saga.

Odors of Many Blossoms Are Far From Agreeable

Throughout the ages, scents have exercised a fascination over mankind. In far-off days, says Tit-Bits Magazine, incense and frankincense were used in the temples of most religions. On a granite tablet at the base of the Sphinx there is still to be seen a representation of King Thothmes IV burning incense as an offering. It was the custom to prescribe certain perfumes in cases of illness. The smell of white violets was said to be good for the digestion, while a perfume made from vine leaves was supposed to keep the mind clear.

Scent-making methods today do not differ greatly from those employed long before history was written. Everyday flowers still form the basis of all really good scents, although synthetic preparations are sometimes used in cheap varieties. There are 4,900 varieties of flowers grown in Europe, of which only 400 possess any agreeable smell. More than 3,000 types of blooms are disagreeable in odor.

Huey Long Is Dead Power in Personality A Ship of Horror Bathub Danger

Huey Long is dead at forty-two years of age.

Arthur Brisbane

The world says: "How young, how pitiful, to die without full opportunity!" Everything is comparative, Alexander the Great, who died at thirty-two, was ruler of half the world at twenty-five; Keats died at twenty-six; Shelley at thirty. Today, men do not develop as rapidly as in old days, when Napoleon thought of suicide because he had done nothing at an age that found Alexander ruler of the world.

The death of Huey Long, regretted throughout a nation that loathes cowardly assassination, is important not alone because of Senator Long's powerful personality, but also because of its possible effect on the national election of 1936.

Senator Long is gone; his power ceases, as though he had never lived. Others will pick up the reins of power. In New Orleans and Louisiana; another will take his place in the senate. Efforts, futile, will be made to find "another Huey Long."

There is nothing left but the memory of a powerful man, again emphasizing Goethe's definition of "personality," "as the highest good fortune of early children."

France discourages crime, and really discourages it. The dreaded prison ship, La Martinere, is on her way to the criminal colony in French Guiana with 773 convicts, locked in eight strong iron cages in the hold, with iron bars, cement floors, wooden benches, hammocks, and overhead a criss-cross of pipes that would fill the cages with deadly live steam if mutiny broke out.

No parole board sits in French Guiana. Each man ordered to the ship receives a new suit of clothes, a blanket, an extra pair of wooden shoes. That, with perhaps a few books and packages of chocolate for relatives, constitutes his wealth as, wrists chained, the convicts march, single file, up the gangplank, between rows of bayonets.

They go to prison, to stay in prison. It is a hard system, but being murdered on the American plan is also a hard system.

Within a few days two women, one past sixty, the other seventy years old, have been found dead in their bathtubs, apparently drowned. The slippery surface of a porcelain tub is dangerous for older persons. They should observe the greatest care; a slip, the head striking the edge of the tub, can easily cause unconsciousness, followed by drowning.

Rubber factories should make and extensively advertise rubber mats for the bottom of bathtubs, with a suction arrangement to prevent slipping.

While the League of Nations talks peace and arbitration Mussolini recalls his consuls from various places in Ethiopia, reminding you of the clergyman who had a call to a large city. His little daughter said, "Papa is in his library, praying for light, and mamma is upstairs packing."

The Douglas airliner, called the "Flying Laboratory," has just flown from Kansas City to Newark, N. J., through the "sub-stratosphere," which means about 20,000 feet up. At that height very "thin" air, with engine super-charged and propellers properly "tilted," makes high speed possible. The flight was 1,125 miles, nonstop; passengers wore oxygen masks.

Mr. Max Baer, of the Jewish race, will fight on September 24 Mr. Joe Louis, of the African negro race, and already $900,000 worth of the tickets have been sold. The price for a good seat is $25.

Mr. Baer, who gave a pitiful exhibition, not long ago, when he permitted his "heavyweight championship of the world" to wriggle off of the hook, now promises to "chase that boy (Joe Louis) out of the ring in two rounds."

Publicly Mr. Joe Louis gives an imitation of "Br'er Rabbit," and says little.

Maneuvers demonstrating French war power, as it stands today, convince European experts that France possesses "the strongest military machine in the world." She possesses, also, men willing to fight, as shown at Verdun and elsewhere.

The government, floating five hundred million dollars more of interest-bearing notes, rejoices because they are snapped up "in a day." Of course they are "snapped up" under prevailing conditions. Men with money are as glad to hide it away in government notes and bonds as men in a cyclone country are glad, temporarily, to hide away in cyclone cellars.

Old Fashioned Patchwork Quilts

Grandmother Clark's Patchwork Quilt Designs

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

From all indications quilt makers will be busy this winter making more quilts. Quilts are still very attractive for needle workers, and any suggestion on this work will be welcomed.

Patchwork Quilt making is much easier today than during Colonial days. Patches are more easily obtained. Diagrams and cutouts for patches and books of instruction are printed. All of these make the work easier and more quilts are being made.

Grandmother Clark's Book No. 20 on Patchwork Quilts contains 30 quilts with cutting diagram for patches, also several ways to assemble 12 and 18-inch quilt blocks.

This book contains information and diagrams for the quilts shown above and many other old designs. Send us 15 cents for this book No. 20 and receive it by mail.

Military Trend Is Seen in Latest Styles From Paris

Fashions have gone military—it's the Italo-Ethiopian "war" influence—said Carmel Snow, fashion editor of Harper's Bazaar.

Giving the first verbal report on the style trend evinced at the new Paris openings, Mrs. Snow said: "Do you want to know how you are going to look this winter?"

"In the daytime you are going to wear a suit. You will very likely have several suits, one with a loose jacket such as Mainbocher makes, only short. The skirts are straight and shorter, fourteen inches from the ground.

"The new dresses for daytime have a distinctly lower waistline—blouses and skirts! There are more blouses and skirts than dresses and jackets."

Mrs. Snow said it will be a marvelous season for long coats, covering the dresses entirely, even when belted; following the line of the figure.

She continued: "Color: Now as to day colors, black, impeccable black that Paris loves, is a favorite. It is a great year for green, mostly dark blue greens, smoky greens, olive greens—even black greens.

"For evening, there is more red than anything else—Italian red, yellow red, burgundy red, fuchsia, peonia red, but red in every shape and form. White evening things are everywhere, and there are some stunning black dresses.

"Fabrics: Lots of duvetynes. Silk crepe will be worn a lot, and dull satins for day. Lots of black satin for the evening, and lame galore."

New Type of Education

Many universities and private institutions now offer for adult students certain courses in which the real professors are children, two, three and four years of age. This new type of school may be called a nursery school, a child institute, a child research center or a preschool laboratory. It makes little difference what it is called. All such schools exist for the purpose of giving the elders an education.

In her article "Pupil—or Professor?" in Hygeia, Elizabeth M. Stal-naker explains how a group of nursery school children showed by their natural responses the right and wrong ways of training children and how they worked out in truly stimulating and enlightening manner various problems of community life.

Women Who Have Pains Try CARDUI Next Time!

On account of poor nourishment, many women suffer functional pains at certain times, and it is for these that CARDUI is offered on the record of the safe relief it has brought and the good it has done in helping to overcome the cause of womanly discomfort. Mrs. Cole Young, of Leesville, La., writes: "I was suffering with irregular . . . I had quite a lot of pain which made me nervous. I took CARDUI and found it helped me in every way, making me regular and stopping the pain. This quieted my nerves, making my health much better." . . . The Road to Better Health

By Dr. Robert Ambrose Elliott

RESISTANCE

Why resistance? In the sense of which I speak of it here is meant, just how well do you ward off disease? The degree of a very young babe's resistance determines his start in life and how well he will triumph over the diseases of infancy and childhood. Whether or not he is a healthy, rugged young man, and how many winters he will be able to endure to acquire three score and ten, his Biblical allotted time, depends upon resistance.

Build up Your Resistance

While the average life of an individual is much less, recent estimates go as high as 81 years. Not long ago the average was only 36 years, but modern developments in the care of infants and children, hygiene, anti-septics, dietetics and sanitary conditions have given us a longer lease on life and the figures bid fair to go much higher. At this season of the year it is important to build up your resistance against the invasions of the coming winter. Fortify yourself against winter colds which too often develop into pneumonia, and with its attending complications. Your insurance against these invasion depends entirely on the care you give yourself.

In addition to customary attention to personal hygiene and a watchful eye on the eliminative process, the skin, bowels and kidneys, we must also watch the building up processes. The human body is made up of various mineral elements, and these elements must be maintained in their proper proportions. The reason we so seldom see persons having perfect health is because these elements are not perfectly balanced. For instance, now is the time to store up organic iron. The fall fruits are especially rich in this element.

Anemia Sometimes Caused

The skins of grapes, dewberries, peaches, apples and pears, in fact all skin fruits which assume a rusty color shortly after being peeled are rich in iron. Iron is extensively percent in the blood corpuscles, in fact, its absence in the blood is responsible for that dreaded disease—anemia. Once the iron is reduced to such an extent that it is impossible to restore in part or whole, the stage has arrived known as pernicious anemia. By careful watching this stage may be avoided. Liver contains iron, hence, the various liver extracts are given to supply iron to restore the blood to its proper "blood count."

The matter of calcium another element; iodine is another of importance and when combined with calcium makes one of our most important combinations. These elements are essential now and are best in the organic form, that is, when procured from some living form of animal or plant life. Many pages could be written on "elements" and again, soon, I will write further on the subject.

HAVE YOU SEEN THIS HAT YET?

The greatest comic artist in the world was at work a few days ago and he drew a caricature of a woman's hat. The picture was so funny that he leaned back and laughed at it himself. A man dropped in and this man gave one look at the sketch and went into a regular fit of hilarity. Then the artist's wife happened to come in. She looked at the picture critically, and smiled a peculiar smile.

"Do you like it?" inquired the artist, expecting to be squelched.
 "Like it?" she replied. "Of course I like it. It's the dearest, sweetest, loveliest, ugliest, darlinest little hat I ever saw in all my life. Why do you waste your time drawing horrid comic pictures when you are capable of designing beautiful things like this? I'm going right down and have my milliner make me one just like it—before any of the other women get the idea."

And she did. She wore the new hat at a party the other day and all the women asked her where she found such a dream of a hat. Such a demand for those hats has sprung up that the women's hat factories in Baltimore, St. Louis and other feminine centers are working four shifts a day to try to supply the trade. The news has spread like wild-fire and dealers all over the country are wiring frantically where they can get some of the new hats. They are receiving replies stating that their orders will be filled just as soon as they can be reached—which may not be for several weeks. Multitudes of women, therefore, will have to suffer and make their old hat do a while longer. This is too bad, but it can't be helped.—Pathfinder.

WILLING TO HELP

Mother—"Jimmie, I wonder if you can find a boy of about your size who would like to mow the lawn and have it looking nice for Sunday?"
 Jimmie—"I don't know, mother—but I'll go around to the other boys' houses and see if I can find one."

The editor of the Bingtown Bugle received a letter from an indignant subscriber whose name had been included in the death column instead of the marriage column. "I don't want your paper any longer," he told the editor.

The editor wrote back: "That is O. K. with me. I wouldn't make it any longer even if you wanted it so, because in that case I would have to buy a new press. The present length just suits me, and I am glad to hear that it suits you."

Miss Mae Helm, assistant corporation counsel assigned to the District Juvenile Court at Washington, charges the government's relief program is causing many parents to shirk their responsibility to their children and that parents seem glad to turn their children over to public agencies.

The farmer was showing a girl boarder from the city around the farm. Suddenly she spied a group of calves in the field and exclaimed: "Oh, look at the little cowlets!"
 The farmer grinned and remarked: "Them is bullets."

Mrs. A. T. Young and daughters, Marietta and Dorothy Sue, visited relatives at Memphis Sunday. They were accompanied by Miss Thelma Young of Pampa.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Upham visited the Amarillo fair Monday. They were accompanied by the former's sister, Mrs. W. W. Boyd.

NO "RELIEF" FOR HIM

In the soft firelight, even the boarding-house sitting room looked cozy and attractive. The warmth and comfort thawed out the heart of the star boarder, Oscar H. Sidebottom. In a moment of exuberance he turned to the landlady, Mrs. Noodles, who was his only companion in the room. Claspng her calloused hand fondly and stealing his arm partially around her oversize waist, he murmured: "Will you be my wife?"

The woman did not start nor blush. No maidenly coyness shone in her clear, cold, hard-bolled eyes. Her heart-beats didn't increase even so much as one beat a minute. Calm and cool as one of her own home-grown cucumbers, or "cukes," as she called them, Mrs. Noodles thoughtfully and slowly replied: "Let me see. You have been here four years, dating from Labor Day. You have never once grumbled at the food. You have never failed to pay my bill promptly and without question. You have never thrown it up to me that you were thinking of moving to some other boarding-house where the grub or the beds would be better and the rates would be lower. No, Oscar, I am sorry, but I can't marry you. You're too good a boarder to be put on the free list."

SCHOOL BUYS BUS

The board of education of the McLean schools has purchased a bus to accommodate rural patrons.

The candidate was waxing warm. In fact he was just approaching the climax of his speech—which always drew loud applause. He drew himself up to his full height—which was five feet four—gave the table a terrific blow with his fist, and spouted: "I believe in trusting the people!"

"Great Scott!" yelled a depressed-looking little man in the audience. "I wish you would open a grocery store."

The fact that there are twice as many crimes committed by single men as by married men is proof enough that the terror inspired by the domestic authority is more potent than that exacted by the legal authority.

All the world's a stage, just as Shakespeare said—but most of us have to be content to work behind the scenes.

Who Pays for Advertising?

Does the advertiser pay? No.

Does the buyer pay? No.

Well, then, who does pay?

Answer: The advertiser's non-advertising competitors pay the bills.

This group is divided into four types:

The first type is he who says: "I don't believe in newspaper advertising." He pays and he pays dearly because daily would-be buyers pass his place on their way to his competitor's store to purchase advertised goods and service; his telephone orders are fewer than possible, and his mail orders fail to meet his expectations.

Yes, he helps pay his competitor's advertising, and he pays dearly, and during his idle business hours, he wonders why business is dull.

The second type is he who says, "I believe in advertising, but I can't afford it." He holds a dime so close to his eye that he can't see a dollar a foot away. He loves money and he wants to make more money, but he lacks wisdom. Yes, he, too, pays his share of his competitor's advertising through loss of customers.

The third type is he who says, "If I advertise, I must raise the prices." This type fails to see that it is better to sell a large volume of merchandise at a fair profit than it is to sell a smaller amount at a larger profit. He overlooks the fact that advertising will attract to his place new customers, many of whom will become regular customers, and he makes another mistake of overlooking the fact that only through volume buying, which means purchasing at greatly reduced prices, enables him to reduce the price of advertised goods instead of increasing the price.

The fourth type is he who thinks he can select a better medium than that of his leading newspaper. This type makes an error of judgment, perhaps because he is not fully informed. He doesn't know that through no other medium can a seller reach so many buyers at so small a person cost, as every day eager buyers are looking for advertised bargains in the leading newspapers.

The buyer of advertised goods does not pay the advertising bills. Why not? Because advertised goods are actually sold cheaper than non-advertised goods.

How do we know that neither the advertiser nor the buyer of advertised goods, pay for the advertising? The answer is the enviable record of the nation's most prominent business houses, those firms that have been in business year after year, many of whom advertise daily, attracting to their places the consuming public who have learned through experience that advertised goods are not only better than non-advertised merchandise, but actually cheaper, fresher and more satisfactory in every way.
