Less Seasoning Would Be Real Cause for Thanksgiving

BILLY WILSON WINS TRIP TO 4-H CONGRESS

Billy Wilson, 14 year old Gray county 4-H Club boy of McLean, through his feeding operations during the past four years has won a trip to the National Boys' 4-H Club Congress to be held at Chicago, Dec. 1 to 7, according to County Agent Ralph R. Thomas. This trip is offered by the Santa Fe Railway to state winners who live in counties touched by their lines.

During the past four years Billy has sold 11 baby heaves and five lambs to the value of $1054.77, and has received $164.00 in prize money. He has shown calves at the community shows at McLean and Pampa, at the Panhandle baby beef show at Amarillo, at Lubbock and the Kansas City Royal, being well up in the money at each show. At the present time he has five calves on feed for the Panhandle baby beef show next spring.

The total expense on the animals sold, including the purchase price of the eleven calves and five lambs, was $322.80, making a net profit of $531.97.

S. S. CLASS ENJOYS DINNER THURSDAY

Members of the Friendship Sunday school class of the Baptist Church, taught by Mrs. Cecil G. Goff, enjoyed a dinner and social at the church basement last Thursday evening. Some fifty members and guests were present.

A BIRTHDAY PARTY

A surprise party honoring the birthday of Miss Gwynne Carpenter was given last evening in the home of Miss Marie Landers.

Candy was made, and a lovely gift and cake were presented the honor. Those present were: Gwynne Carpenter, Modelle Beasley, Ava and Eva Swafford, Juanita Carpenter, Lois Bowen, Wilma Sue West, Mavis Brewer, Rebecca Hess, Eula Payne Foster, Catherine and Mary Alice Patterson, Marietta Young, Bessie Mertel, Marjetta Ewing of Estelline, and the hostess.

COTTON REPORT

Census report shows that there were 964 bales of cotton ginned in Gray county from the crop of 1935 prior to Nov. 14, as compared with 1,037 bales ginned for the same period of 1934, according to R. H. Wilson, special agent.

GOOD RAIN FALLS

One of the best rains of the year fell here Monday night, something over an inch of moisture falling slowly to give one of the best seasons seen here in a long time.

COLLEGE PRESIDENT INTERESTED IN TIGERS

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 25, 1935. Mr. T. A. Landers, Publisher of the McLean News, McLean, Texas.

Dear Mr. Landers: I have become so much interested in the McLean Tigers that I cannot wait to get the news, through your paper, of the game last Friday between the Tigers and the Shamrocks.

I am therefore sending you this letter by air mail with the request that you kindly send me by return air mail the result of the game.

Undoubtedly your city will take some special and appropriate means of showing its appreciation of the splendid reputation and publicity that McLean has received through the exceptional football skill of the Tigers. Whatever is done in this connection, I would like to get in on it.

Your newspaper has interested me so much in the McLean Tigers that I regard them as my home team. I therefore want to do something to express my appreciation of their interest and skill.

Give me the news by air mail in regard to what is going on.

Yours very truly,
R. J. McLEAN, President.
Detroit Commercial College.

LETTERS TO SANTA CLAUS

The News will be glad to print all letters to Santa Claus that are handed in in time.

The first letter was mailed this week by Jimmie Batson. We want to assure Jimmie that his letter was forwarded to old Santa, who is able to decipher any kind of writing.

Plans are now in the making to have old Santa Claus visit McLean some time before Christmas with a gift for every child. Full announcement of which will be made in this paper just as soon as plans are completed and date set.

SINGING CONVENTION SUNDAY

The Gray County Singing Convention will meet at the First Baptist Church in McLean Sunday afternoon, beginning at 1:30 o'clock.

A number of singing teachers, quartets and special musical organizations are expected to be present, and everyone is invited to attend.

PWA ALLOTMENT GRANTED

According to J. E. Lynch, of the McLean board of education, the PWA loan asked for has been granted.

The money will be used for remodeling the grade school building and erecting a football stadium.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Haas and son of Texola, Okla., visited in the J. C. Payne home one day last week.

MEADOR ENTERTAINS AT TURKEY DINNER

Boyd Meador, Phillips 66 wholesale agent, entertained the Phillips employees at McLean, Alanoed, Keller-ville and Denworth, with a 6 o'clock turkey dinner at the Meador Cafe Monday evening.

Mr. Meador made the principal address of the evening. Among those present were: W. K. Wharton, S. A. Cousins, Andrew Watkins of McLean; John and Bradley Pulfer of Alanoed; E. M. Jones of Kellerville, and Forrest Hupp of Denworth.

The sale of Phillips products has enjoyed a phenomenal growth in McLean since Mr. Meador took charge of the wholesale department, and their new Polymerized gasoline is pleasing motorists more than any recent improvement in motor fuels.

PIONEER STUDY CLUB STUDIES CANADA

Members of the Pioneer Study Club met last Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. J. B. Hembree for a study of Canada, with Mrs. C. O. Greene as leader.

Roll call was answered with cities of Canada.

Mrs. J. W. Butler discussed the Geographical and Historical Survey, National Parks of Canada was given by Mrs. Greene.

A description of Nova Scotia and the Gaspé Wonderland was given by Mrs. H. W. Finley.

Mrs. Roger Powers discussed Winter Sports of Canada.

This was the first of two lessons on Canada, the second of which will be given on December 5th, at the home of Mrs. H. W. Brooks, with Mrs. Butler as leader.

Mrs. C. S. Rice was a club guest at Thursday's meeting. Delicious refreshments were served by the hosts.

have you met—

LIONS ENJOY GOOD PROGRAM AT LUNCHEON

An enjoyable program was given at the Lions luncheon Tuesday, opening with an instrumental quartet played by Lion Cobb, Prof. Leeds, Jesse Dean Cobb and R. L. Floyd. This number was encored, the music being especially enjoyable.

Lion Meador spoke on automobile accidents, excerpt of his speech appearing in another column.

Rev. J. H. Sharp, pastor of the First Methodist Church, was presented as a visitor, and spoke on living vs. existing, stressing the Lions' spirit of service to others.

Lion Cryer made football announcements, praising the cooperation of the businessmen, school, pep squad and band in the games.

Attorney Claude Williams of Amarillo also made a short talk.

Other visitors included County Agent Ralph R. Thomas of Pampa.

Lion Tamer Andrews paid a tribute to Supt. Cryer's handling of the football situation.

Lion Meador announced the chamber of commerce meeting for Monday night.

MAY CHANGE HIGHWAY NAME TO WILL ROGERS

Highway 66, "The Main Street of America," may have its name changed to the "Will Rogers Highway," if plans now in the making are carried out.

The change in name will be one of the major topics discussed at the annual convention of the transcontinental highway body in Amarillo, December 9.

The highway passes through Will Rogers' home town and traverses country synonymous with Will Rogers' first love, the cattle industry and the wide-open spaces of the West.

It is expected that the road committee from the McLean chamber of commerce will be in attendance at the convention.

JERICHO GAP PAVING CONTRACT IS LET

The paving contract for the infamous Jericho gap on highway 66 was awarded last week to Field Bros. of Lubbock, on a bid of approximately $100,000.

The grading of the strip has practically been completed and the laying of the caliche base is expected to begin about December 20.

The contract for topping with asphalt will be awarded in time for work to begin in early spring.

When this gap is completed, the highway will be completely paved from Chicago to Amarillo, and only a few gaps remaining west to Los Angeles.

S. S. CLASS IMPROVES ROOM

Members of the Fellowship class of the Baptist Sunday school, A. R. McHaney, teacher, met last Thursday evening for the purpose of making improvements on their class room.

The room was plastered and ceiled and a door put in, adding much to the appearance. Varnishing and papering will be done later by members of the class.

The ladies of the class served refreshments of cocoa, sandwiches and cake, to fifteen.

A TURKEY DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Campbell and Miss Robbie Howard entertained at six o'clock turkey dinner last Friday evening, honoring out of town friends who were here for the football game.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Curg Williams and Bruce Nance of Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. John Haynes, Mrs. Carill Sloan and Carol Wood of Pampa; Messrs. Lenard Howard and Bob Markum of Childress.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Regal of Amarillo, Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Bidwell of Tucumcari, N. M., visited the ladies' parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Sparks, Thanksgiving day.

Mrs. George Humphries returned Wednesday from a Pampa hospital, where she underwent a minor operation. She was accompanied by Mr. Humphries and Mrs. E. J. Windom.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Benson of Shamrock visited the lady's parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Greer, Sunday.

Tigers Played Tie Game with Shamrock Friday

Seven to seven was the final score in the McLean-Shamrock game played on Tiger Field last Friday night, with the Tigers having the advantage on first downs and penetrations.

The teams were pretty evenly matched, with the odds in the Tigers' favor, as the Shamrock score was made on a break of the game, while the Tigers earned theirs.

Some 3,500 fans saw the game which was admitted by experts to be as good as any class A or college game ever seen for thrills and close plays.

Shamrock's half back, McIntyre, who had been reported too ill to play, was in the starting lineup, as was the full first string of the Irishmen, with the exception of W. Rook.

Ordinarily the game would have been awarded to the Tigers, as they kept the Irishmen on the defensive most of the time, and won on first downs and penetrations, but an agreement before the game to pay no attention to anything but the score, necessitates playing the game over for a definite decision.

Following much discussion in both towns, it was finally agreed to play the game at Pampa Friday afternoon of this week, beginning at 3 o'clock.

The west side of the stadium has been allotted to McLean.

Some roughing was indulged in in the game last week, several McLean players being injured, some of whom will probably be out of the game for the remainder of the season.

CULTURE CLUB ENJOYS DINNER

The members of the Culture Club honored their husbands at dinner Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. McHaney.

Mrs. O. E. Lochridge gave the official welcome, and M. C. Davis offered the invocation.

After the feast, "42" furnished the amusement for the remainder of the evening.

Attending were: Messrs. and Mesdames O. E. Lochridge, M. C. Davis, Bob Thomas, C. H. Leeds, Wayland Floyd, Harris King, W. W. Boyd, Dwight Upham, Chas. Wilson, A. R. McHaney; Misses Margaret Glass, Ermadel and Beth Evonne Floyd and Marjorie Lochridge; Paul Kennedy.

The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Harris King, at which time the Christmas program will be given.

THANKSGIVING DAY QUIET AFFAIR HERE

Thanksgiving Day begins quietly for McLean as we go to press this (Thursday) morning. Several are preparing to attend the football game at Pampa, others will eat their Thanksgiving turkey around the home table, with hunting and other diversions for the afternoon.

McLean merchants extend Thanksgiving greetings in a full page advertisement in the home paper, containing a little preachment that should provoke thoughtful consideration by all of us.

GIRL SCOUTS MEET

The girl scouts held their regular meeting on Nov. 21.

The minutes were read by Virginia Webba. The roll was called and answered by a scout law. Fabrice Galoway was welcomed as a new member.

Mrs. Thacker planned a program for the next meeting. Each member is to give a speech on one of the scout laws.

After the meeting adjourned, candy was made.

S. S. CLASS TO HAVE SOCIAL

The Dorcas Sunday school class of the Baptist Sunday school, Mrs. A. R. McHaney teacher, will have a Christmas social at the church basement Friday of next week, at 2:30 p. m. There will be a tree and members will exchange gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D'Spain of Lubbock visited relatives here over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Ballard and baby visited in Pampa Saturday.

With the good season in the ground, right now is the very best time to set trees and shrubbery. Evergreens, especially, can be set now and enjoyed all through the winter months.

Thanksgiving day brings to all of us time to think of our blessings, and at this particular time we have cause for thankfulness that we live in a country that is not preparing for war, as most of the world seems to be.

Of the 1,400,000 pupils in Texas schools, 80% are in the grades. Hundreds of them will never enter high school. This fact is interesting to educators who are beginning to see the wisdom of giving the best attention to the child in his earlier years.

The Vega Sentinel suspended publication last week after 26 years in the home town. Not long ago Estelline lost its newspaper for lack of support, and Texola, Okla., is another town that has been a newspaper graveyard.

The loss of its newspaper is the most serious thing that can happen to any town, for in most cases it marks the beginning of the end of progress in the community; but a newspaper must have the support of the town if it is to continue.

Communities owe a debt to the home paper and those who support it, and the few who for various reasons put things in the way of the paper's success can see very plainly the error of their way when the paper quits.

It is to be hoped that if, and when, times get better, and some other editor attempts to establish a paper in these towns, he may have the cooperation of everyone, which will mean better times for all; for it is a well known fact that if the paper cannot make money, very few other lines of business can.

MISSION TO JERUSALEM

Text, Ezra 7:6-10; 8:21-23.
Golden text, "The hand of the Lord is upon all them for good week Him." Ezra 8:22.

On Sunday we studied about the mission to Jerusalem. The people were different. They completed and dedicated the temple in the year 516 B. C.

The Babylonian king Darius appointed him as the governor of the province. He and Zerubbabel were the ones who stirred the people for the rebuilding of the temple in the days of the captivity. Following the completion of the temple there was a period of eight years for which there is no record. What the people did and how they fared is not known. His- tory has a very vivid picture for the empire during this period.

The mighty kingdom at- tacked twice to conquer Greece and failed in each attempt. Darius died in 486 and Xerxes I. succeeded him. Ten thousand Greeks gathered to defend their land. In the battle of Marathon, Darius lost 6,400 men and the Greeks 192. In 480 Xerxes I. gathered an army of several hundred thousand men. He landed his men on their great fleet and marched across the isthmus, only to have his army defeated and destroyed at Salamis. His army sustained a crushing defeat at Plataea.

It seems certain that the Hebrew people, especially in Judah, took no part in these wars. They had settled themselves for peaceful pursuits. How- ever, there is no record of their life during this sixty year period. It would appear that the people in Jerusalem needed a man who could interpret the laws of God. It seems to have been during this period that the peo- ple began placing an abnormal em- phasis upon the sacrifices God had commanded. They also seem to have lost the feeling that all rela- tions thought and relationships must be centered about the temple in Jerusalem. This had been more or less a part of the worship of Jehovah. With their return to Jerusalem they had placed an abnormal em- phasis upon many parts of the wor- ship of Jehovah which was the in- herency of Pharisaism, legalism and ritualism.

God moved the hearts of the king of Babylon, Artaxerxes, and Ezra the high priest of the Hebrew people in Jerusalem, toward the need of a great spiritual leader in Jerusalem. Ezra was a deep student of the laws of God with a keen spiritual insight concerning the heart of the will of God. The king issued a decree con- cerning the returning of Ezra. All the Hebrews who desired to were to be permitted to accompany him. They were to have provisions. Ezra was given the right to call upon the king's treasurer in Syria for all the funds necessary to carry on his work. He was to give no proposed use of the funds before receiving them, and was to give no account of the use of them until they were used. We may well be assured that Ezra had been a very capable man to the king, and ex- ceedingly trustworthy. Such should be the case for all those who follow God. What a shame and disgrace that the world cannot depend so completely upon the integrity of all God's followers.

Ezra called the people to a place outside the city walls. Those who desired to return to Judah with their friends were present. When the company was assembled to start, Ezra found that there were no Levites in the group for temple service in Jerusalem. A messenger was sent to the school of the Levites. The ap- pointment was made and answered by a large number of young men. Ezra was then ready to go, except for one thing. The king had offered him a part of his army to escort him, but Ezra had answered that he was ready to protect his own. Therefore the great man proclaimed a season of prayer. God heard them and cared for them. Thus entered the second group into Jerusalem on their return from captivity.

Ezra was a great student. Dr. Hays says, "He was a priest and a scholar. The Jews say that he col- lected and collated all the copies of the law he could find and published an accurate edition of it, with all the prophetic books, historical and po- etical, and so made up the canon of the old Testament." It is no wonder that he succeeded in establishing a permanent and lasting religious and spir- itual reforms among God's people.

SERMONETTE

By Rev. Stephen M. Tuhy
Lutheran Pastor, Oviedo, Fla.

Vol. 2. No. 46.
Text: "O give thanks unto the Lord; for He is good: because His mercy endureth for ever."—Psalm 118:1.

THANKSGIVING DAY

The little things in life count a great deal. Many a time we forget to say thank you, and especially at times when the courtesy would mean a great deal. Let us consider the following illustration:

"The steamer Lady Elgin was sink- ing. It was a chilly evening in early September. She was brilliantly lighted and loaded with excursionists. She had almost reached Chicago, but before help could be put out she would be gone, and the crowd upon the shore watched her, powerless to help. But not all of them were helpless. Two brothers, students in a theological seminary, plunged thru the crowd with a rope in their arms. Nat, the elder, a powerful man and a trained swimmer, leaped into the waves. Inch by inch he fought his way through until he reached the ship and climbed aboard. A moment later he plunged back with a woman in his arms. The hauled him in, choking and cold, but still strong. Again he plunged in, and again and again. Seventeen women and children he brought to shore. At last he sank exhausted. Yet still the cries rang in his ears. After a bit he raised himself and again plunged in. Again and again. Twenty-three human lives Nat Spencer saved before his strength entirely left him. For weeks he lay delirious. The twenty-three whom he had saved scattered to their homes. The bodies of the three hundred who were lost had been tossed up by the waves, the nation had begun to forget the tragedy. But the twenty- three whom he had saved, surely they did not forget? Surely they were grateful? This is the simple truth about those twenty-three: Not one of them ever came back to thank Nat Spencer for what he had done. Not one of them even wrote him a letter. Nat Spencer went out into life an invalid, having given his strength for twenty-three people who did not so much as say thank you."

It is only proper that we thank our fellow men for their favors and courtesies. But above all we should thank the Lord for His manifold blessings each day. "O give thanks unto the Lord; for He is good: be- cause His mercy endureth for ever."

If not for the merciful Lord of heaven and earth what would become of us? Does He not give us our daily wants and necessities? And, the most important thing of all, does He not give us spiritual life? Does He not give us faith? Does He not offer to us eternal life and salvation from sin and death? Surely we have a good reason to give thanks unto the merciful Lord.

Especially on this national holiday, Thanksgiving Day, should we look back on the years of plenty and thank our Lord. We should be thankful even for the days during the economic crisis because during that period of time the Lord has shown to us that He is the Lord from whom cometh all help; He is the One who only can give us the proper help in all trouble. We must firmly rely upon Him, pray to Him, and, lest we forget, thank Him for everything. Let us thank the Lord and He will bless us even more than heretofore.

PAROLE BOARDS

There appears to be a disposition to ignore the parole board act, in a number of counties. While this movement to restore the morale of the man who has served sentence for some crime devolves upon the shoulders of busy men and women, none the less it affords an opportunity for service hardly less important than that a great physician exercises in restoring health to a diseased being. Necessarily no glamour attaches to such a service, it is an up-to-date application of the admonition "let not thy right hand know what thy left hand doeth," since such help to be effective must be "done in secret." Governor Allred has asked the co- operation of the service clubs in this work, and it affords us pleasure to remind our helpful people, that a rare opportunity for worthwhile service beckons them to become in- terested in that work. — Falfurrias Facts.

A home-town newspaper always stands for the good things in any community. No worth-while move- ment succeeds without the newspa- per's support. A worth-while news- paper can accomplish much good and usually does, but seldom does an individual appreciate it. If newspa- pers charged for the space they de- vote to boosting a community, the publishers could soon retire. Yet the publisher profits no more from com- munity progress than does the av- erage citizen. — News-Plain-Dealer, Sparta, Ill.

THANK YOU, AMERICA,
for more than a Million cars in 1935

This year Chevrolet has two very good reasons for saying, "Thank you, America."
One reason is that people have bought so many Chevrolet cars that production for the year will reach 1,040,000.
And the other reason is that they have placed a record number of orders for new 1936 Chevrolets during the first few weeks they have been on display.

Chevrolet is indeed happy to say, "Thank you, America," and to pledge continued adherence to the manufacturing and service policies which have won and held the friendship of the nation.

"I wasn't embarrassed a bit," cause I sat on the seat behind him Cabler explained. "The passenger snickered a bit, but it didn't bother me. I felt sorry for Westphal in St. Louis, because we had to walk about four blocks to change trains. It was almost freezing and the wind was blowing strong."

New View of Canyon

A new view of the Grand Canyon of Arizona is obtainable from a high watch tower that was opened recently. It enables visitors to see down the chasm 5,000 feet to the river, and to get a view of the painted desert. Built of native stones collected from the surrounding country, many of them from Indian ruins found along the canyon's rim, the watch tower is a faithful replica of its predecessor, blending into the brink of the chasm and appearing to have stood there for centuries.

NO UPSETS

The proper treatment for a bilious child

ANY mother knows the reason when her child stops playing, eats little, is hard to manage. Constipation. But what a pity so few know the sensible way to set things right!
The ordinary laxatives, of even ordinary strength, must be carefully regulated as to dosage.
A liquid laxative is the answer, mothers. The answer to all your worries over constipation. A liquid can be measured. The dose can be exactly suited to any age or need. Just reduce the dose each time, until the bowels are moving of their own accord and need no help.
This treatment will succeed with any child and with any adult.
The doctors use liquid laxatives. Hospitals use the liquid form. If it is best for their use, it is best for home use. The liquid laxative most families use is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Any druggist has it.

Hello, Everybody!

"Thrilling—Almost a Killing!"

By FLOYD GIBBONS
Famous Headline Hunter.

I BUMPED into this story today from Mr. Bernard Bumpus, and I don't mind telling you boys and girls that Mr. Bumpus certainly was put over the bumps in what he tells us was the biggest thrill in his young life. Let's bump into it.

Bumpus bumped into adventure—excuse me, Bernard, for my Bumpus puns—bumped me off if I do it again—when he ran to the rescue of a friend he thought was about to be killed off—by robbers. And it was quite a rumpus that Bumpus bumped into—All right, Reader, I'll stop!

In 1934 Bernard lived in New Bedford, Mass., and worked in Wareham. He had a pal—an insurance agent—who used to run back and forth between the two places daily in his car and he generally took Bernard with him.

One evening as they met at their usual place for the home ride, the agent told Bernard that he had to make an important collection at the "Head of the Bay," which is about three miles through dense woods from Buzzards Bay.

Mr. Bumpus Figures He's Being Kicked.

As the men rode through the night the insurance man confided to Bernard that he was carrying a large sum of money with him and was glad that Bernard was along. He added that the place they were headed for was an isolated spot and a tough crowd—capable of even murder—hung out there.

Now Bernard says his pal was an inveterate practical joker, and he thought right away he was being kicked so he decided to hand the line right back to him.

"That's all right," Bernard said. "I'll take care of you. If anybody gets tough, why just whistle three times and I'll clean out the place."

That promise, Bernard says, seemed to reassure his friend, so nothing more was said until they drew up in the darkness before an isolated cabin lit only by a dim kerosene lamp.

The place was miles from nowhere and, despite the fact that Bernard thought his friend was joking, he had a strange feeling of uneasiness.

Bernard stayed in the car as the insurance man picked his way carefully toward the house.

"Don't forget the three whistles," he warned. Bernard smiled to himself and settled back in the car. Once alone, however, he began to think the situation might not be so funny after all. His friend, he knew, often carried large sums on collection days—and this spot looked about as ideal a place for a robbery as you could find. He made up his mind to play safe and be on the alert.

Mysterious Goings-On Reveal Themselves.

A few seconds after the insurance man had disappeared toward the back of the house, Bernard saw a huge man sink out the front door and make for the back.

The man carried a lantern in one hand and an axe in the other. As the lantern went around the rear of the house, Bernard heard something that drove all thoughts of a practical joke out of his head. A shot rang out from the rear of the place!

Bernard straightened up with a jerk and strained his eyes in the direction his friend had taken. He held his breath as he listened for the signal agreed upon. It was no joke now he knew—and then he heard the signal.

Three faint whistles came from the back of the house—whistles so faint that they might have been made with a man's dying breath!

"Believe me, I was scared," Bernard writes. "I didn't know what to do. Was it all a joke or had they shot and killed my friend? Should I start the car and drive for help, or should I run to his aid as I had promised? I was unarmed and felt that I would be helpless against them and yet it seemed cowardly to run away.

"Did I want to be a live coward or a dead hero? My thoughts probably took only a few seconds, but it seemed as though I was wasting hours of valuable time. I sat behind the wheel ready to start the motor, and then the next instant I had jumped noiselessly out of the car and, grabbing a big stone from the road, went creeping like an Indian to the rear of the house.

Mr. Bumpus Starts to Bump—With a Rock.

"The man with the lantern had his back to me—I sneaked up with the heavy stone held ready for a death blow. In another second that stone would crash into his skull! He didn't hear me as I made the last few steps in a jump."

Wham! The big stone came down with a dull thud! But it didn't come down on the head of the man with the lantern. No, sir-ree, Mr. Bumpus had bumped—there I go again—into another figure in the dark and the stone plopped to the ground harmlessly. A familiar laugh sounded in Bernard's ear, and as he looked sheepishly around the live insurance man explained everything.

The shot had been fired at a rascally chicken which had been caught red-handed robbing the chicken coop. The insurance man wanted Bernard to see the fun so he whistled.

"But the weak whistle?" Bernard asked. "New false teeth," the agent answered.

Wow! What a close call for the man with the lantern! And it just goes to show, boys and girls, how a little thing like a new set of teeth might bump off!

People of History Are Pictured on P. O. Stamps

A little more than five centuries ago Great Britain was on the way to conquering all France, but at the psychological moment the French army was imbued with a new spirit and, at the City of Orleans, won a great victory so that France was saved, notes a writer in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

At the head of the French troops there appeared, one day, a young woman in white armor, riding a great black horse. The French followed her bravely, and at Orleans she led them to victory.

Later the young woman, known to history as Joan of Arc, was captured and burned at the stake by the English; but her mission, that of saving France, had been accomplished.

Five hundred years after the deliverance of France at Orleans France issued a dark blue postage stamp of 50 cent's value. The center design pictured Joan of Arc on her horse, riding victoriously ahead of the French army.

Few of the greatest men and women of history have been omitted from postage stamps of the world. Among the rulers we find numerous portraits from ancient Egypt down to the present time. Ramesses II, Pharaoh of Egypt and Augustus Caesar of Rome are among the older monarchs.

In the field of science we have Copernicus, the astronomer, on a Polish stamp; Pasteur on a French stamp; Mendeleff, the chemist, on a Soviet Russian stamp. Among the musicians we find Beethoven shown on a German stamp, Dvorak on a Czechoslovakian stamp and Beethoven as well as Bruckner, Haydn, Mozart on stamps from Austria!

Japanese Renaissance

Perhaps the world's most astonishing revolution began in 1868, when Japan began reconstituting her Middle Age feudal empire into a modern nation. Englishmen were brought in to create a navy and build railways and light houses; Frenchmen to reconstitute the laws and train the army; Americans to organize education and the postal service; Germans to train medical men and organize local government.

Death From the Air Barring the Inventor The Republican Odds To Starve Italy

Warfare in Ethiopia consists largely in surprising the enemy in some narrow gorge or valley.

Arthur Brisbane

Incendiary and explosive bombs.

England really has free speech. On your soap box in Hyde Park you may say what you please, if you do not advocate crime.

But England does not like free speech from another country, through the ether. The British Broadcasting company will not let Marconi talk from Rome to Englishmen over the radio. He might convince them that it is preposterous to try to starve out Italy for doing in Ethiopia what England has done in many places. The ruling seems hard on Marconi, considering that he invented radio. Without him there would be no "British Broadcasting company."

Those that make betting a business are often sound in their political judgments. They are at least cold, calculating; sentiment does not cloud their vision.

On the Republican Presidential nomination the betting now stands:

Senator William E. Borah, 8 to 1. Governor Landon of Kansas, 10 to 1. Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, 15 to 1. Col. Frank Knox of Illinois, 15 to 1. Governor Hoffman of New Jersey, Ogden L. Mills, Senator David A. Reed, all 20 to 1.

Professional bettors agree that Governor Landon is gaining, and will probably lead the procession at 6 to 1 in a few days. Band wagon clubbers are more and more polite to Governor Landon.

The "sanctions" wall thrown by England and France around Italy, smaller nations co-operating, to "suffocate and starve Italy," as Mussolini puts it, is now complete. Two million young organized Italians protest against the effort to punish Italy for doing in Ethiopia what England and France have done to other, more nearly civilized countries.

H. G. Wells, aged sixty-nine, younger and more brilliant than when he wrote "Doctor Morran's Island" and "The War of the Worlds," now in America on his way to see Hollywood says, "The film is a finer art than the novel, stage or the opera."

Mr. Wells' open mind proves his youth. The moving picture is greater in its possibilities than book stage or opera, because it contains all three plus the marvelous power of photography.

Britain's ambassador is conferring with our State department concerning Japan's plan to seize Chinese provinces, containing 95,000,000 Chinese, 25,000,000 more than the total population of Japan.

If the Japanese could control, arm and use 100,000,000 Chinese in the air and on the ground, that would be interesting. But it would not be our business, and it is to be hoped that the British will not persuade our State department that this country ought to attend to it.

Spiritually, politically and otherwise important is the proposed "merger" approved by bishops of the three branches of the Methodist Episcopal church. Together, the Methodist Episcopal church, South, and Methodist Protestant church would number 7,500,000 members, the largest Protestant group.

Young men are coming back into fashion. Dr. Alan Valentine, only thirty-four, former master of Emerson college at Yale, is made president of Rochester university and starts well by denouncing the "hallyhood" of college athletics, football especially. He speaks with authority, not as a weakling bookworm, for he was a college athlete at Swarthmore, member of the Olympic team at Paris in 1928.

The American Bankers association reveals the interesting fact that our banks hold fifteen thousand million dollars' worth of government bonds—in figures, $15,000,000,000.

Well might a most important official of the government say: "Inflation! We have it now, biggest ever seen, frozen in the banks. Wait until it breaks loose."

After the Tory election in England prices went soaring on London's stock exchange. Companies that make war weapons and materials were most buoyant. The masses had voted for more, bigger and better battleships and war, if necessary.

what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

Wales' Fancy Pants. SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—All is excitement in London. The prince of Wales has adopted a new style in trousers called the "straight outline."

With no desire to be morbid, I've gone into the fascinating details. I glean from the cablegrams that they touch the wearer in but one place, and only then if his royal highness is sitting down. When walking, he has to take two steps while the trousers are taking one. It's as though Slim Sumnerville swiped my things and was trying to escape with the goods on. I shall not follow the royal example. As a snappy dresser I never seem to get anywhere, somehow. George Ade once said no matter what I Irvin S. Cobb put on I still looked like Padisah, Ky., and when I read what the well-dressed man will wear I sorrowfully admit there's nothing correct about me except my back collar button and I'm not so sure about that. It's one of those plain bone ones—nothing flashy.

So I shall continue to stick to the garments enclosing me at the moment. They are, as you might say, my pre-depression pants. In youth they sheltered me; I'll not desert them now. Besides, I might be arrested.

Hollywood Hermits.

IF YOU'VE been to Movieland, you've seen our fur-bearing hermits. As true recluses, these gentlemen have the innate desire to avoid being conspicuous, which is ever characteristic of Hollywood. So they march the principal streets all day, with their long hair and their ditto whiskers waving in the climate, and wearing as few clothes as the law allows—and out here we allow few indeed.

There is a single member of the group who's different. He's just as woolly as the others, but he doesn't parade up and down. Nor will he tell you his name or the address of his cave, or where he came from or where he's going. Some think he has a secret past. But I think he has a great ambition.

It's my idea he wants to go down in history as the one who was not commissioned a colonel on the staff of the governor of Kentucky.

The Legacy of Youth.

IN THE brave days before '28 the future of an ambitious young graduate was assured. He sold bonds. Statistics show there was a salesman for every bond. Shortly thereafter, any fellow who owned a bond was his own salesman.

I still have some very beautiful ones which I'd like to swap for a pair of mess-gate cuff buttons, a skulch, a collection of postage stamps or what have you?

Then followed the dreary years when the youth in a dilemma had nowhere to head in—desperate, hopeless years. But now—now he needn't worry any more about a career. It's all fixed. He can step out of college right into a C.C. camp.

I am ashamed—trying to be funny over a most grim reality. It doesn't matter about our generation, the mad architects of this disaster. We're too numbed by blows, some of us, to start trying; too old, some of us, even to try; too stupid to admit that, by futile war, by association, by crazed extravagance, we laid this burden upon our children and our children's children.

We have sowed in folly; they must reap the bitter fruit.

The Return of Prosperity.

GOOD times are certainly coming back—at least to the fur business. I hear prices are so high that only the wealthier minks can afford their own skins; the rest of them will go through the winter wearing dyed rabbit.

I went to a party and nearly every woman there was up to her ears in ermine or chinchilla or silver fox or some other very exclusive peltry. There was one large lady who had on at least three kinds of expensive wild animals. If somebody had left the door open, her wrap would have stolen right back to the zoo.

It's fine prosperity is returning. Wouldn't it be grand if, instead of being visited on a favored few, it could be passed around?

Crooning to Oysters.

THE professional crooner has found his musical soul mate. It's our favorite Pacific coast delicacy, that winsome creature which is about the size of a suspender button.

A Seattle judge experimented on the harmonic affinities of shell fish. He didn't get anywhere with the clam, clams being proverbially dumb, but, working on our emming little native oyster, he first established its natural vibration, then found a note to correspond. Do that, and an oyster opens right up.

"They open easiest," says the discoverer, "when crooners are performing."

Now let's establish what form of animal life responds spiritually to a croonist.

NEW YORK.—Though the while struggling: Wonder if the anti-noise campaign will affect Cab Calloway? Helen Rowland spots married couples the way they lean on restaurant tables. He fun to go through Irvington's carrying a cane with a crook. You know, rake things off tables with a swish.

Long-ago look-alikes: Frank Munsey and James Gordon Bennett. What- ever became of con- tortionists? Keep an eye on that young Buddy Ebsen in the films. He's going places. Oscar Shaw is graying around the temples, too, as who is not? Vastly over-exploited book: "While Rome Burns."

One word description of Theodore Dreiser: Briary. Keen riddle boss: Ed Wynn. More people give Don Marquis' last name the kee than the correct quis. And how few pronounce Roosevelt with the proper Rose. Overheard: "That's a made-up lie." Most of Mae West's imitators excel the original. When Rudy Vallee signs "Rudy" it looks like a Chinese letter. Achmed Abdullah without his monocle, the uncouth person. Add industrious red-heads: Ann Grosvenor Ayres and Irene Hayes. H. N. Swanson, who thought up College Humor and was a school-mate of Gary Cooper, has become a literary agent, too.

How many remember the first revolving door at the old Waldorf? Whoops! Dandy name for a play. Kenyon Nicholson's "Swing the Lady!" Shivery Palm Beach window displays. Br-r-r! Dean of the ticket specs—Leo Newman. Only a few of the specs left. Only a few of anything left for all that.

Among the perpetual pegs upon which the larger crop of stories, some good but mostly so, are hung are Sam Goldwyn, Dorothy Parker, George S. Kaufman and Irvin Cobb. To Goldwyn is accredited the major dialect blunders, chiefly manufactured by Hollywood gag men. Every risqué tale that will send Aunt Het flying from the room is affixed to Miss Parker. And the acrid, stinging thrusts are bugled as Kaufman's. Not more than five per cent are correctly tagged. But to sponsor a tale so somehow gives it better introduction. To say that Miss Parker authored this or that is more likely to get a listener. And so on.

I have crossed the continent on trains with Sam Goldwyn an occasion or so and talked to him frequently. He has an accent he has never quite shaken off and slightly Heberfeldian, but I have yet to hear him express himself in the awkwardly ridiculous fashion so widely tittered. Indeed, he has a shrewd, trigger mind as his successful record proves. Crazy like the fox!

When a chug in Lincoln, Neb., burned a number of years ago it destroyed a batch of drawings collectors would prize today. Virtually every hymn book in the edifice was fly-leaved with the early art creations of the cartoonist Clare Briggs. His formative days, before going to Chicago, were spent there. During services Briggs furtively limned the parade—the new pastor, the bald choir leader, the Misses White's new milliner, the sanctimonious deacon, the plate passers and such. At the time they caused censure-for-sacrilege rebukes but somehow were never erased, and today would be treasured.

I remember Charles T. Hoge, Portland, Ore., editor, who chummed with Briggs during that callow period, telling of his return to Lincoln after his Chicago invasion. It had something of the pomp of Napoleon's arrival from Elba. New bridge work, cigars in two top vest pockets and wired dog-biscuits that kept his coat lapels just so. He attended his old Sunday school and no one paid attention to the stirring story of Joshua and the solar stasis. Their eyes were glued to Briggs's silk ribboned watch-fob with initials in cut-out gold.

Louis Sobol, who annotates Broadway antics for the Evening Journal, dedicated a recent column to a water wagon pledge. He discovered in zig-zagging the nightly trail, a drink here, another there and perhaps a chilled pint to commemorate the opening of a new Tony's, he was rolling in it down now and then comfortably melow. Many of our vallians have found you can't drink your Broadway and have it, too.

A visitor today was O. O. Oolon, who is one up on the late Otto Fott, for the letter o sweepstakes. He is a New Zealander and I told him the oft repeated tale of the many a'd producer, A. A. Aarons. Aarons, asked to spell his name answering a phone call began: "A.A.A." Snored the listener: "Smart eye, eh!" And hung up. Oolon didn't seem to think it devastatingly funny either.

Leaves Over 600 Living Offspring; 5 Generations

Over six hundred living descendants have been left by Ragnor Janssen, a widow who has 43 children, East Frisia, at the ninety-one years. The old lady's one husband and fourteen children of whom married young. In their turn an average of ten children apiece. These grandchildren married young in their turn, at the end of her life Frau Janssen could point proudly to five generations of offspring.

Her family, from children to great-great-grandchildren, was spread over the whole region and beyond.

Makes Hay While Moon Shines; Cures Toothache

This is the story—in his words—of how Jimmie Johnson, farmer north of Paris, Mo., cured a toothache:

"About two o'clock one morning one of my back teeth was giving fits. I couldn't sleep so I decided I'd haul a load of hay. Old Ben and I didn't like it much and old Ben gave me a kick in the pants while I was harnessing up. The kick sent a knife and some matches in my pocket and started a fire. I put fire out and hauled the hay. Toothache was gone."

WHY MILLIONS CARRY TUMS!

MILLIONS now know the smart thing to do is carry a roll of Tums, always. Heartburn, gas, and other symptoms of acid indigestion have a habit of occurring at unexpected times. You don't have to dread your stomach when harsh alkalies which physicians have long warned may make the tendency toward acid indigestion worse. Tums, a real scientific advancement, contain no soda or other alkalis. Instead a wonderful antacid that simply neutralizes stomach acidity, the balance point of the body's pH. Pleasant to eat as candy. Only 10c a roll. Put a roll in your pocket now!

Designers in a Mood for Pleating

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

PLEATS, pleats and nothing but pleats, is the message of many of the smartest fashions this season. Turn where one will in the realm of costume design, there's an orgy of intriguing pleated effects "carrying on." So let's keep up with the mode while we talk about pleats, pleated and being pleated.

French designers, especially, are not leaving anything unpleated that could, should and must be pleated according to their idea of things. Their pleated mood pertains to daytime fashions as well as those of highest evening formality. The all-over pleated gown reflecting Grecian inspiration is a highlight in evening modes. Evening capes to go with these lovely creations are also completely pleated in waistline or longer lengths. In daytime fashions the all-over pleated dress, has also been received with acclaim.

However, all-over pleating is only one phase of the subject, for the use of pleats is embracing every sort from the tiniest of sprightly pleated edgings which run hither and thither about hemlines and up and down, flanking each side of neat buttoned closings which sometimes extend from head to feet. Some designers there are who make a feature of pleated tiers and apron fronts and pleated sleeves.

The new fabrics are entering into the pleated conspiracy with a noble gesture. Most of them seem made just to be pleated—fairly invite one to pleat them. Take the all-silk black crepe which is so ultra smart for daytime dresses. It pleats to perfection. A statement that does not need a second telling after one glimpses the stunning gown in the center of the illustration. Pleated every inch of the way is this black silk crepe afternoon dress. The pleats are stitched down at the neck, shoulders and waist, giving a fitted well-groomed appearance to the frock. A green clasp at the throat and a suede belt in the same color provide bright contrast. This dress is the much talked-of Molyneux which is meeting with such outstanding success this season.

An effective treatment of wider pleats in a black silk crepe dress for the young girl, is pictured to the left. The pleats are stitched with tailored precision about the hipline and released half way down the skirt so as to slenderize at the same time that it provides a flared hemline. The bodice is a modified shirtwaist with tiny metal buttons in front.

Speaking of the new materials adapting themselves so readily to the pleated mode, the new silk lame weaves, many of which are sheer and tissue-like in texture, enter into the scheme of things with infinite grace. If you are wanting a lovely gown for prom gayety, here it is at the right in the group pictured. Shirrings and pleats go fifty-fifty in the instance of this ultra chic and adorable evening dress made of silver silk lame. The shirred top is held by narrow double straps, and the décolletage is outlined by a tiny band of pleats. The pleated theme continues in the skirt, held well in place by the crispness of the silk lame. The only trimming is the metal and jeweler buckle of the belt.

Among the pleated triumphs in evening fashions are the perfectly charming airy-fairy floating visions of silk chiffon, most lovely, perhaps, in white but which set your heart throbbing at faster pace in any of the new jewel colors or pastel shades. Sometimes only the skirt is pleated, but when it is, it's done so artfully it flutters out like a fleeting cloud or a mist enveloping the figure.

WEAR TO SCHOOL

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Is the "what to give for Christmas" problem beginning to disturb your peace of mind? If it's Junior or little sister you have in mind, the answer will be found in the picture. To be the happy possessor of a pig grain three-quarter length coat just like big brother's is enough to bring a big smile to any little boy. Little girls have a liking for leather coats, too, for no doubt they have heard their elders declare that leather's the thing for smart sports wear.

FUR CAPES RICHER; OF MANY VARIETIES

Fur capes are richer than they have been in years. Full-length evening models are made of strips of silver fox running from shoulder to hem—one very elegant one boasting twenty full-sized animal skins. Knee-length day capes are fashioned of mink, silver fox, dyed red fox or moleskin, while any number of shorter capes appear in astrakhan, nutria or broadtail. Occasionally the fur capes for day wear are cut with broad shoulders and little fullness below so that they hang straight, though more often they have some flare.

New Soft Wool Weaves Are Proving Popular Just Now

With wool increasing in fashion importance, and women's insistence on being comfortable indoors as well as out, something pretty definite has been done in this year's weaves for the interests of all concerned.

This year's domestic weaves are as soft as chiffon, warm enough for all normal purposes, and have taken on an additional silky finish, adding to wearing enjoyment.

Colors have never been more flattering. That day has gone when winter means somber tones, and the "little wool frock" to wear underneath the tweed coat or the fur sport coat may be as gay and colorful as one's temperament demands.

Whiter Blouses

White silk blouses should never be hung out to dry as it will yellow them. Wrap them in towels until ironing. If they become yellowed in spite of your precaution, use a little whitening in the rinse water.

Sharp Contrast

Paris is wearing black afternoon frocks with billowy white sleeves—a style becoming to many women.

Soft Corn Now a Grave Certainty

Ear Silage May Be Required to Conserve Maximum Feeding Value.

By PROF. H. P. RUSK, Head Animal Husbandry Dept., University of Illinois, WNU Service.

This is now certain to be the seventh soft corn year since 1909, with the amount of soft and chuffy corn ranging from 10 to 50 per cent of the crop, according to estimates of crop and live stock specialists at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

No class of live stock can utilize this soft corn as well as can cattle, and no method of salvaging the crop has been found superior to ear-corn silage. French silos or other temporary forms of silos may have to be put up on some farms to conserve the maximum feeding value of the immature corn.

Horses and mules offer scant outlets for soft corn, inasmuch as heavy death losses have resulted from feeding this class of live stock on damaged corn such as is found in almost every crib during a soft-corn year. Sheep are notoriously finicky about their feed and cannot utilize much soft corn except in the form of silage or as ear corn direct from the field before any spoilage has taken place. Hogs are better soft-corn users than horses and sheep, but trouble with scours and the inability of hogs to eat enough high-moisture corn to make feed gains have made soft corn unpopular with hog feeders.

As for the different methods of utilizing soft corn, the best one that was found in a long series of investigations at the agricultural college was ear-corn silage. Pasturing the soft corn in the field with cattle did not prove satisfactory. Shocking was dangerous, and cribbing was out of the question.

Silage made from the snapped ears, husk and all, kept as well as normal silage and made an excellent feed for beef cattle. There was practically as good feeding value in the dry matter of soft corn as in the dry matter of sound corn. However, because of the high moisture content of the soft corn, steers could not eat as much feed equivalent in that form as they could in the form of normally matured corn. Hence cattle fed soft corn do not gain as fast as those full fed on sound corn.

An acre of soft corn may have as much dry matter in the ears as an acre of mature corn. If this dry matter is conserved and properly fed, it will produce practically as much beef as an acre of sound corn.

Research Proves an Aid in Fighting Camelthorn

Because research showed a few years ago that some plants can "go into reverse" in carrying solutions through the vascular system—that is, absorb a liquid through the leaves and take it to the roots—the California department of agriculture has been able to combat camelthorn, a spiny leguminous weed which has invaded certain lands in the southern part of that state.

Jars are filled with a solution of sodium arsenite and placed at intervals in a patch of camelthorn. A handful of the growing plants is thrust into the poisonous solution and left there. The solution is carried through the leaves and stems into the long, fibrous roots. Because of the extensive root system, large areas of the weed are killed.

The camelthorn, says L. W. Kephart, weed specialist in the Department of Agriculture, came into this country chiefly in alfalfa seed from Turkestan. Despite the spiny stems the plant is grazed by camels in some parts of Asia.

Soy Beans for Horses

Horses and mules can best utilize the soy bean crop as hay rather than as grain, says Iowa State college. The grain is high in protein, hence should be fed in limited quantities, and then only when balance of ration is deficient in protein. Soy bean hay has proved satisfactory for horses when other roughage such as timothy hay or straw or corn fodder is used for 50 per cent of the roughage requirement. Soy bean straw has given good results as a wintering roughage for idle work animals when some oat straw and some grain is fed in addition.

Cattle Feeding Increased

The number of cattle shipped into the eastern corn belt in the first nine months of 1935 was the largest in 17 years, the United States Department of Agriculture reports. In the Western corn belt states where feeding was greatly reduced because of drought last year, there will be heavy increase this year, although due to a relatively short corn crop feeding operations may not be up to normal. With supplies of hay and roughage large and prices low in nearly all states, there is a widespread tendency to turn to cattle feeding to utilize available feed.

Wintering Bees

There are four requirements for good wintering of bees, states Elwood Montgomery, Purdue university entomologist: 1. e. a vigorous queen, a strong colony, sufficient stores and adequate protection. In this territory bees can be wintered out of doors. They should be carefully protected, he advises. Every hive of bees should be inspected. Weak colonies should be combined. Diseased colonies should be destroyed. Those with an insufficient supply of feed should be fed.

Household Questions

A little olive oil rubbed over paper that has stuck to a polished surface softens paper and makes it easier to remove.

Rings of canned pineapple browned and sprinkled with chopped green peppers and pimientos make an attractive garnish for steak, chops or roasts.

Sheer wool crepe in the brighter colors makes very attractive side draperies. They are lined with egg shell sateen.

House paints should not be exposed to the direct rays of the sun nor should they be placed near a radiator.

Always iron eun linens on the wrong side. Ironing on the right side robs them of their luster.

Varnished dark woodwork will have a fine gloss if washed with warm water and kerosene. Add a cup of kerosene to a large pail of warm water.

Fill ugly cracks in furniture with beeswax and then varnish over.

When pressing neckties, cut a piece of cardboard the shape of the tie and slip inside of it. Cover tie with a cloth and press with hot iron. There will then be no marks left by seams and hems.

Put the fork in the fat of steak when turning it. If put into meat, the juice will escape.

Gravy will not soak through the lower crust of a meat pie if the white of an egg is brushed over lower crust of pie.

When potatoes are baked in their skins the moisture in potato supplies the steam that makes the texture of the vegetable soft and mealy, at the same time preserving the flavor.

Some stucco walls may be washed with soap and water, but a coat of stucco sprayed over the whole surface is much more satisfactory than washing.

Duty Is That Which Is Done for Good of Others

What is duty? With regard to ourselves it is to be independent of the senses, and with regard to others, it is to be unflinching in giving help and support; help to live well, to will well, to wish well; help by agreement and by opposition, by giving and by withholding, by firmness and by compliance, by praise and by blame, by silence and by words, by what is pleasant and by what is painful.

Dwellers on the same earth, travelers of the same hour, and companions along the same road, we ought to help one another; and when we reach the resting place, we shall have first to render an account of what each has done for the happiness of the rest—for joy, or for goodness. A kind look will win its reward.

Quick, Complete Pleasant ELIMINATION

Let's be frank. There's only one way for your body to rid itself of the waste matters that cause acidity, gas, headaches, bloated feelings and a dozen other discomforts—your intestines must function.

To make them move quickly, pleasantly, completely, without griping. Thousands of physicians recommend Milnesia wafers as an efficient remedy for mouth acidity.

These mint flavored candy-like wafers are pure milk of magnesia. Each wafer is approximately equal to a full adult dose of liquid milk of magnesia. Chewed thoroughly in accordance with the directions on the bottle or tin, then swallowed, they correct acidity, bad breath, flatulence, at their source and at the same time enable quick, complete, pleasant elimination.

Milnesia Wafers come in bottles of 20 and 48 wafers, at 35c and 60c respectively, or in convenient tins containing 12 at 20c. Each wafer is approximately an adult dose of milk of magnesia. All good drug stores carry them. Start using these delicious, effective wafers today.

TIGERS AND IRISHMEN TO PLAY OFF TIE GAME FRIDAY

At a meeting of the district committee, composed of Supts. Gilmore of Wheeler, Burton of Clarendon and Chandoin of Quail; it was decided to call the game played between McLean and Shamrock which ended in a 7 to 7 deadlock, a tie game, and to have the game played over.

The school officials then got together and decided to play the game at Pampa Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

It was further agreed that should this game end in a tie, it would be decided according to interscholastic rules that apply to only inter-district games. This rule states that, should any inter-district game end in a tie score each team shall be awarded one point for each time it penetrates the opponents' 20 yard line. If this plan should fail to determine a winner, one point shall be awarded each time for each first down made. If the two teams are still tied after the first downs are counted, then the one that has gained the most yardage shall be declared winner. It is the duty of the referee to keep a record and his decision is final.

It was still further agreed that should the score be a tie in this game, the penetrations, first downs and yardage made in last week's game should be added to that of this week's game in determining the winner. This gives McLean a bit of the advantage, as the Tigers outpointed by each of the three methods, making 4 penetrations to 2, 9 first downs to 5, and 188 yards gained to 153.

The football committee of Pampa very kindly offered Harvester Park for the game, free to both schools.

Officials agreed upon for the game are: referee, Curtis, Dallas, Texas University; umpire, DiBolt, Dallas, Texas University; head lineman, Holton, Fort Worth, Notre Dame.

Tickets for the game are on sale at the drug stores and cafes.

TIGERS AND IRISHMEN PLAY 7-7 TIE FRIDAY

The football game between the McLean Tigers and the Shamrock Irishmen, played on Tiger Field last Friday night, was without question the most interesting and hardest fought game ever played on Tiger Field. Man who have seen lots of big college football declared that they had never before witnessed a more thrilling or harder fought game.

Shamrock won the toss and chose to defend the south goal. McCarty, acting captain for the Tigers, selected to receive.

The ball went directly to Stratton, who was standing on his 5 yard line. He returned to his 25 before being brought down. After making one first down the Tigers were held and forced to kick. Shamrock failed to gain on two attempts, and punted.

The first quarter was scoreless, but was not without its thrills. McLean worked the ball down to the Irishmen's 4 yard line and with four yards to go, the first three plays failed to gain, but the Irishmen drew a 5 yard penalty which placed the ball on the one yard line. Stratton hit the line twice more with all the force possible, but a stubborn defense wall put up by the Irishmen forwards failed to give way and the ball went over with the ball on the one yard line.

A short time later Wells, Shamrock right half, in some unknown and mysterious fashion, got through the McLean line and by all the secondary, but was run down and tackled from behind by Stratton, after he had made 45 yards. The next play netted 15 yards with Wells carrying the ball, but there the Tigers held, and the ball went over to them just as the quarter ended.

An Irish lineman broke through and blocked Stratton's punt, and Trostle raced across the goal for a touchdown as the second quarter opened. C. Rook added the extra point by a place kick to make the score 7 to 0 in Shamrock's favor. The score remained this until about the middle of the third period.

Stratton, the backbone of the McLean offense, catching the Irishman left end and half off guard, raced 20 yards around his left end for the McLean score, and kicked the goal for the extra point to tie the score 7-7.

While the score was a tie, McLean outplayed and out pointed in every other phase of the game, making 4 20 yard penetrations to 2, 9 first downs to 5, and 188 yards gained from scrimmage to 153; returned punts and kickoffs for 80 yards to 60; and punted 6 times for 140 yards, while the Irish punted 9 times for 267 yards. McLean drew 15 yards penalties, and Shamrock 25 yards. McLean was tackled for 23 yards loss and Shamrock for 37 yards.

The line-ups: Shamrock — ends, Usery, Grady; tackles, Trostle, Fuller; guards, Schonever, Mills; center, Brothers; halves, McIntyre, Wells; quarter, Davis; full, Rook; substitutes, Skidmore for McIntyre.

McLean—ends, Brawley, Nicholson; tackles, King, Kennedy; guards, Cooke Chilton; center, McCarty; quarter, Christian; full, Stratton; halves, Lasswell, Cunningham; substitutes, Roth, Watson, Wingo.

Officials—referee, Gilliam; umpire, Anderson; head lineman, Dennard.

LARGE CROWD WITNESSES McLEAN-SHAMROCK GAME

A crowd estimated to be 5,000 witnessed the Shamrock-McLean game on Tiger Field last Friday night. This was without doubt the largest crowd ever to witness a Tiger game. They came from miles around. It is reported that some even hitchhiked from as far as 60 and 70 miles.

The pep squads and bands of each school performed well and added much to the enthusiasm and excitement of the night. Between halves each side took its turn at entertaining the large crowd.

The Shamrock pep squad, clad in their beautiful green and white uniforms, and assisted by their school band, marched out on the field, faced the McLean side of the field, and gave some yells for the Tigers. They then turned to face the Shamrock fans, formed a shamrock, and sang and yelled for the Irishmen.

The McLean girls, assisted by their band, marched on the field, spelled out the word TIGERS, and gave some yells and songs.

Much favorable comment has been heard on the way the school officials, American Legion, boy scout, city and county officers, handled the enormous crowd.

ALANREED FACULTY WINS BASKET GAME FROM McLEAN

In a closely contested and hard fought basketball game, the Alanreed teachers took the big end of a 46 to 44 game from the McLean faculty Monday night in the local gymnasium.

Early in the first quarter the Alanreed men took an eight point lead which they managed to hold pretty well throughout the first half. The score at this point in the game stood 22 to 16 in favor of the Longhorn town.

McLean put up a strong defense and fast offense during the third period and took a two point lead just as the period ended, the score being 32 to 30.

As the final whistle blew, the score stood 36 all.

It was necessary to play three extra periods to untie the deadlock.

The same teams will play again next Monday night at 7:30. Troop 26 of the boy scouts will sponsor the game to raise some funds to help finance their toy making campaign.

The lineups of the teams, with the individual scoring, were as follows

Alanreed—Steen 20, Biggers 11, Dillard 12, Plaster 2, Little 1.

McLean—Loter 14, Murdock 12, McHaney 8, Dwight 6, Kennedy 4.

The Road to Better Health

By Dr. Robert Ambrose Elliott

SKIN ERUPTIONS

For the same reason that some people cannot eat strawberries, others cannot take quinine; and still others cannot wear clothing that has been colored with certain kinds of dyes. The delicate constitutions of a great many young children react to certain constituents of food or drink or possibly dyes in clothing to which their bodies come in contact even though they may not be wearing such clothing themselves—soaps used in cleansing their wearing apparel is very frequently responsible in causing terrible skin eruptions which test the skill of the very best skin specialists. Not only are infants and young children the subjects of these very troublesome conditions but adults are just as prone, especially those who had skin diseases when younger.

Not Always Due to Heat

Poisoning from poison ivy is characteristic and lends some light on the subject. When parts of the body are exposed to grass and weeds wet with morning dew so often causes a "breaking out" on the skin. Eruptions in hot weather are not necessarily due to the heat but in a big majority of cases is the result of the presence of weed or flower pollen in the air coming in contact with the moist surface of the skin, causing the eruption. People of this class will be noticed to be easy subjects of summer colds and almost always complain of hay fever at some time during the summer season.

Neutralization Necessary

The treatment is not so simple; again there is something in the system that must be neutralized. We

GOOD LIGHTING DOES THIS TO HIS HISTORY LESSON

DOES your child drowse over his history lesson... say it's dull and uninteresting? Try giving him plenty of good lighting and see what a difference it makes.

Innumerable tests have shown that school children make faster progress in their studies and that there are fewer failures when they study in rooms that are excellently lighted.

Try putting a 100-watt MAZDA lamp in his study lamp tonight. An ideal lamp for your child's homework or for your own reading or sewing is an I. E. S. Better Sight Lamp... the first low-priced lamp ever scientifically designed for better seeing.

Let one of our trained home lighting advisors tell you how good lighting can lighten every seeing task... and how to get the most from your present lighting equipment.

SYNOPSIS

Perilla Fairfax and Corey Malden are married the next day at Lovell's home. Long Island Sound. Gathered for the wedding party are Tony Gaskell, a lawyer; Hilda Sheldon, a nurse; and Pete Wilson and Mrs. Lovell's friends. Corey is very young, but it is a true love match. He is thirty-eight and Perilla thirty. Mrs. Lovell is a dressmaker and secretary. There is a dressmaker and Malcolm and Bob are sent to get the Tenney girls. When the girls are breaking up, Malcolm comes to a headache. Tony produces some white tablets, and nearly every one, including Corey. After the wedding Perilla tells her mother that Bob had repeated his threat that he would kill her, the bridegroom or her mother. She isn't lovable, then she says the door dead as she holds up in his arms. Alone, except for the chauffeur, and Sarah, her maid, Perilla has Boynton telephone her. She comes by plane with Malcolm. Lovell and Malcolm arrive. A physician says the death resulted from a heart attack. When Perilla arrives at the Malden home she is greeted by Madame Malden with, "You murdered Madame Malden with."

CHAPTER III—Continued

"Never, sir. If ever on the face of the earth a married pair were devotedly in love with each other, those two were. I am not the sort to cavil, but nobody could doubt the affection that showed in their every word and deed."

"Where were you educated, Boynton?"

"The man looked up quickly, but answered simply: 'At Columbia university, sir. But I didn't specialize, and the crash came, and I could get no position such as I wanted. So, as I am a mechanical by nature, I chanced upon this job with Mr. Malden, and I gladly took it. It leaves me a bit of time to read, and I don't expect to be a chauffeur all my life. Will you dress for dinner now, sir? It's getting on."

"Very well. One more question; are you loyal to Mrs. Malden, my daughter?"

John Lovell was looking straight into the other's eyes, and on Boynton's rather good-looking face he saw nothing but absolute frankness and honesty. But it seemed to him that Boynton quivered his eyelashes ever so slightly, as he replied:

"As I was to my master, sir. I had the most sincere respect and admiration for him, and, if I may say so, I have the same feelings toward his wife."

A little time later, a correctly attired, if somewhat bewildered gentleman went downstairs to the drawing room. His hostess awaited him, impressive looking in a dull, heavy robe of black.

A variety of cocktails was offered him, in which Mrs. Malden joined him, and he noted with relief that the effect upon her was pleasantly exhilarating.

"Your daughter will not dine with me, I understand," she said; "perhaps it is just as well."

"Nor shall I dine with you, madame, if you make any remark or observation that can be construed as a slight upon my daughter. I may as well tell you now that at any such remark I will leave your table. I regret extremely that I feel the necessity of saying this."

"You are outspoken, Mr. Lovell," and the bright, leamy eyes looked sharply at him, "but that permits me to be outspoken, too."

And then Pierre, the impressive looking French major-domo, announced dinner and stooped to assist his mistress from the room.

Lovell followed Mrs. Malden, and as he had anticipated, a sumptuous dinner, elaborately served.

"Mr. Garth is—was, my son's lawyer. I employ a Richmond man, to look after my legal affairs, which, naturally are not of great importance. My financial matters are in the hands of Mr. Garth, who is really the family lawyer, and has been for many years. Why do you want to know?"

"Because I want him to advise you that, if only for your own sake, you would better refrain from repeating what you said to Mrs. Malden. You must know that slander is severely dealt with, and you are quite liable to get yourself into real trouble, while trying to trouble my daughter."

"She isn't your daughter."

Lovell stared at her. "To me she is as dear as any daughter could be. She is very like her mother, whom I adore, and both my wife's children are to me the same as if they were my own. We will not refer to this again. Nor to the other matter, except this once. And I have to say only that if you again so much as hint or imply or suggest that my daughter could by any chance, accident or design, have had any hand in the death of her beloved husband, you will suffer the direst punishment this country deals out for such an offense, and I can assure you it is not a light one."

There was silence for a few moments, then Pierre entered, followed by Dillon, and the two men led Madame Malden from the room. She left without a word.

Lovell went to Perilla's rooms, and she stepped out on the balcony with him. She felt she could not talk freely, there were so many listening ears about. Lovell understood, and as they talked of various matters, he made, as he said, a route to follow when going home, which would be quicker than the one traveled coming down.

Perilla was not surprised when on his departure, after Sarah's return, he slipped a paper into her hand. Later, she found the note read:

"Do not be alarmed, Perilla dear, there is no real danger. But do not sleep in a room alone. I mean, let Sarah sleep in the dressing room adjoining your bedroom. Let no one come in, unless you know who it is, and then, no one but the little maid, or Madame Malden."

"Dad's all fussed up, Sarah," Perilla said, in a voice she tried to make jesting.

"Never mind Miss Perilla, you just forget it all and go to sleep. You've had a hard day, Lord knows, and you may have a hard day tomorrow."

"May I know I shall. And you know it, too, you old humbug."

It was not very long before Perilla was sound asleep, with the rest that comes after utter exhaustion. And after a time Sarah, too, fell into a deep sleep on the couch in the dressing room.

Neither awakened when the french window from the balcony was softly pushed open and a black-robed figure entered Perilla's room. But Perilla's quick hearing caught the sound of breathing and she opened her eyes to see some one leaning over her dressing table.

"Who are you? What do you want?" she said, quietly, at the same time pulling on a small light at the head-board of her bed.

The figure, startled, jumped backward, and Perilla went on, "Why do you come in stealthily, Madame Malden? Had you tapped at my door I would have opened it. I was expecting you."

"Expecting me, were you?" came the response, in that high, screeching voice she had used before to Perilla. "Expecting me to come to get a confession of your guilt?"

"No," said Perilla, in a calm, conversational tone, "and you may as well stop that nonsense at once. I didn't kill my Corey, my darling, and well you know it. You are nobody's fool, except your own, and that is going to bring you to grief. Now, listen to me. I married Corey, not knowing what his mother was like. Nor do I blame him for not telling me; in fact, I don't see how he could bring himself to tell me, now that I have seen you."

the whole business before your lawyer. Everything, mind."

"No, no," came the screeching again, and as Perilla jumped out of bed and held her captive, she called to Sarah to fetch the nurse.

"Find her somehow," she said, "if you have to rouse the whole household."

Sarah soon found her, sleeping soundly, and carried her off to Perilla. "One moment, Miss Seymour," she said. "Is Madame Malden subject to fancies? To imaginations?"

"At times, yes," the nurse replied. "Take her away, please, and ask her not to have them any more."

Perilla had just been awakened next morning when Malcolm arrived from the railroad station and she hurried downstairs to greet him.

"Wait a minute, 'Pril," he said, as he led her to a settee in the corner of the porch. "Listen here. Don't say a single word to anybody, which can be quoted as yours. I mean, confine everything you say to casual subjects, like the weather, the beauty of the place, the house, or the city of Richmond. But not a word of Corey, of any of us, of yourself, of anything personal. I can't say more now, but, remember."

Perilla well knew that when Malcolm adopted that tone he was in deep earnest, and she had no thought of disobeying him.

John Lovell joined them, they had a family breakfast, and then Perilla dismissed the servants.

"Did you learn anything in Washington?" she asked her brother.

"No," he returned, "except that we want to keep perfectly quiet, and get away from here and back to New York as soon as we can."

"Tell it all, Mal," said Lovell, "we must know. You can speak low, I doubt anybody is listening."

"Well, then," and Malcolm spoke in a low whisper, "there are hints, or at least, vague murmurs about 'Pril being alone with Corey in the room—you know. I think, so far, there is no harm done, but it is like a smoldering flame, a breath would set it off. I saw your two friends, Perilla, meaning Carleton and Carmichael, and they agree it will all fade away, if there is nothing more said or done. They tell me to beware of Farman, the little lawyer person down here. But Garth will be here by noon, so he'll handle that issue. You know him, Perilla?"

"Yes, he's a delightful man, and one of Corey's best friends."

"I'm afraid it's going to be difficult to decide what or who a best friend is. And here's another thing. Leave the old 'un to me. I've a notion I can fix her."

Perilla had just summoned the servants when Dillon came with a message for Malcolm. It was a command to visit the sitting room of his hostess at once.

Malcolm was not especially pleased at the tone of the message, but he went with Dillon at once, and was received by Madame Malden in her most pompous and antagonistic mood. Yet it seemed to Malcolm's watching eye that her glance softened just a mite at sight of the good-natured face, with its kindly and sympathetic smile.

CHAPTER IV

"How do you do, Mrs. Malden?" Malcolm said, cheerfully, grasping Madame Malden's hand with a hearty shake, before she could stop him. "I am Malcolm Fairfax, and I'm glad of an opportunity to talk to you. I think I can be of real help to you."

Corey's mother, who had become more and more amazed at this astonishing young man, began to look a little frightened.

"He gave the nurse one of his best smiles."

The two faded from view, and Malcolm drew his chair nearer to the old lady, who was now fuming with anger.

"There, there," Malcolm said, soothingly. "I told you I want to help you. Why get mad at that?"

"You are the madman!" she exploded. "What do you mean by addressing me in this manner?"

"Can't you even understand the meaning of words? My, my! What a pity! Now, I'm a good sort, and truly, I can help you. I have lots of influence. Listen here, now; where do you want to go? Just you tell me, and I'll see that you get there."

"Get where? I don't want to go anywhere."

"That's too bad, but you'll have to, you know—after—you know—after what you said."

Malcolm spoke the last three words in a thrilling whisper, and with an expression on his now solemn face, which betokened execrating sorrow.

"What did I say? I didn't say anything that I shouldn't!"

"Oh, piffle! Don't take it that way. That won't help you any. You many witnesses. Drop it. Now, here's where I come in. You must have a choice of places, and I can tell you that to be able to get your choice is a great thing—yes, sir, a very great thing."

"Choice of what?"

"Of places—places to go. I don't know the nicest ones down here; I know the New York ones, but I suppose you'd rather stay near home. So, out with it! Is there a good one near by?"

"A good what?"

"I—I, but you're dense. Look here, you're sane now, aren't you?"

"I certainly am."

"Well, lots of times you're not, and they've put up with it just as long as they can, but when you said that—you know—you spoiled the beans. Now, you've got to go—"

"Go where?"

"Good land, you're stupid! To an institution, an asylum for the insane, if you want it in plain English. Now, don't begin to scream—that won't get you anywhere. It will only add to the trouble you're in already. See? It'll just be another proof of your madness—"

Madame's hand was clapped over her mouth; she looked like one hypnotized.

"You see, it was the last straw when you said—"

"What did I say?"

"Poor lady! Don't you even remember? Well, it often goes that way. You said, again Malcolm's deep whisper had a tone as of utter condemnation, "you said—that Perilla murdered Corey! Corey, her beloved, her other self. You never saw them together—I have. Turtle doves—honey bees, sugar plums, orange blossoms—oh, never has been seen such real, real love. They were born for each other—but, pshaw, all this you know, all this can recall to you the love-making of your own husband, and then you hint, you say outright, that Perilla killed Corey! A long time they have suspected you of being mad, now they know it, you proved it on yourself. So, as I say, you must go—go—"

"Not to a madhouse—no, NO!"

"Don't shriek. Be quiet. Not to a madhouse now, perhaps, but to an asylum—and then, you'll go on, you know. You can't stop, you've gone too far. You see, an accusation of murder is a pretty serious matter. Whew! I wonder if you know how serious! And you know in your heart Corey was not killed. You know it! Yet to satisfy a small, mean false impulse of—yes, you know of what—of jealousy, against this girl who was loved by your son, you accuse her terribly—too terribly to think of, and—your act, your words recoil on you and you will get the well-deserved punishment."

"You know all this is true. You know there are great and powerful ones in Washington—who are none too fond of you. Who loved Corey, but who would not raise a finger to save a jealous maniac from the madhouse where she already belongs. You know Perilla adored her husband, and that your accusation is rubbish. Yet you would willingly drag the old and honored name of Malden through the mud and mire of a silly murder trial, which could have but one result—Perilla's triumphant acquittal and your own infamy and degradation."

"John Lovell is not the man to take quietly an insult to his daughter, and I am not sure he has not already started on the matter of your mental responsibility. Now, you must see for yourself—if this is one of your rational days—that I am saying all this to you for your own sake as well as my sister's. I don't pretend to an entirely disinterested friendship for you, but I do stand ready to befriend you if you play fair with Perilla."

"Listen to this; it is short; you can learn it."

"Of what did Corey die, according to the doctor's certificate?"

"Of heart failure."

"What caused this heart failure? An unsuspected weakness of the heart? That was made out and signed by one of the most famous physicians in Washington, and do you dare presume to pit your feeble knowledge of physiology against his? Do you dare say he is wrong and you are right? Especially, as, when you said that fearful thing, you didn't know what you were saying?"

"No, sir—no, Mr. Fairfax," came a trembling voice. "What can I do to set matters right?"

"I fear it is too late for that. As I told you, those words of yours sealed your doom. I only came to offer my help in seeing to it that you got to the institution you preferred. It is not an easy thing to do—they are not pleasant places at best—"

"Oh, Mr. Malcolm, don't let me go! You have influence, you are kind-hearted, save me—save me, for Corey's sake, save me!"

"You should have thought of this before you denounced your daughter-in-law. But your lawyer, Mr. Farman, is coming soon. Perhaps he can find a way out."

"No, he can't—he is a nitwit. Oh, you help me! You are a fine young man, and Farman is a back number."

"But he knows you said that about Perilla, and he knows how serious it is."

Character, Ability Need for Rhodes Scholarship

The founder of the Rhodes scholarship was Cecil John Rhodes, an Englishman, who left most of his wealth to provide scholarships at Oxford university for both Americans and Britons. These scholarships are for a period of three years each and are granted to persons between the ages of nineteen and twenty-five. Chief qualifications are scholastic ability and character.

Students are selected by committees of ex-Rhodes scholars, who judge the candidates by record and interview. Each year there are 34 students selected from Britain and her provinces and 32 from the United States and her possessions.

Find Out

From Your Doctor if the "Pain" Remedy You Take Is Safe.

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it—in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains . . . and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

SCHOOL PROUD OF TIGERS

Everyone in McLean is proud of the fighting, loyal Tigers who so gloriously defended the honor of McLean high school in the hard tilt with the Shamrock Irishmen on Friday night. McLean high school believed that we could beat Shamrock, which we did, and everyone believes that we can do it again. It will take hard work, fiery determination and fighting spirit to defeat the Irishmen again, but the McLean Tigers are going to play just as good a game as they did last week.

In the game, which will be played in Pampa Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the Tigers will be doing their best. However, they cannot do it alone, and they will need the support and interest of every fan. LET'S SEE THE TIGERS BEAT SHAMROCK AGAIN!

Due to an agreement between the coaches previous to the game, the winner could be declared by score alone, therefore the game must be played again in order to choose the district winner, even though the Tigers did win otherwise.

PEP SQUADS ARE COLORFUL

The Shamrock and McLean bands and pep squads added much color and pep to the game Friday night. As is always the custom, the visiting pep squad performed first. They showed that they had drilled and practiced hard in order to form the shamrock for their team and the letters for McLean. The Tigerettes and McLean band spelled the word Tigers, then yelled and sang the school song. They omitted any formation for the visitors in order that Gordon Burch of Borger, who is considered one of the best drum majors in the United States, could perform with his flaming baton.

All of these cheerers yelled and played constantly during the game, trying to infuse the enthusiasm and pep into their teams.

SENIOR NOTES

At last the senior rings have arrived. The class thinks that they are the most beautiful rings M. H. S. has ever had, and it is believed everyone will think the same.

The senior class is glad to welcome a new member, Ora Sharp, from Stanton.

SENIORS WELL REPRESENTED IN FOOTBALL SQUAD

As evidence that the senior class is 100% for McLean high school in all of its undertakings, we cite you to the fact that 63% of the senior boys are participating in football this year. We wish to express our appreciation of the loyalty of these senior boys and assure them that the rest of the seniors are behind them wholeheartedly. Below we list the football players who are seniors: J. D. Back, Leonard Brawley, James E. Cooke, Larry Cunningham, Hershel Cupell, Charles Finley, Horace Johnson, Vernon King and Bill Roth.

SOPHOMORE NOTES

The sophomores welcome a new member, Will Foster, from Belen, N. M.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

The Home Economics Club met Tuesday evening of last week in the home of Mabel Back. The house was called to order by the president and the minutes were read and approved. The year books were discussed, and a chairman was appointed for the program committee.

A short program presenting amateur talent was given, and the prize was won by Jessie Mae Lynch.

A social hour which was enjoyable, followed.

MEET THE SENIORS

MICE HAVE WORK HOURS

In order to develop more effective methods of checking damage to fruit trees by field mice, Biological Survey scientists have done considerable prying into the daily habits of that rodent. Among other things they found that these mice have very definite hours for work each day. They are early risers and take to their runs at six o'clock each morning in search of food. They knock off, however, at 7:30, and there is then little if any traffic in the runs until 9 o'clock. At that time they begin work again and keep at it until 11. The afternoon is also split into two periods of work. The first is from 1 o'clock until 2, and the second is from 3:30 to 5.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Reeves and little daughter of Alanreed visited in the Charles Cousins home last Thursday.

Mrs. Callie Haynes and daughter, Mrs. Frank Rodgers, visited in Erick and Woodward, Okla., Wednesday.

D. C. Carpenter made a business trip to Amarillo last week.

Household Hints

By Jean Mueller

A good manager is the woman who can get a meal ready and not have one food overdone and another food underdone. Also, she can bring all the cold food to the table cold, and the hot meal to the table hot.

CHOP SUEY

1 lb pork shoulder
 1 lb small
 Fry out the pork fat and brown the meat in that until the broth has coked back into it again.

Take two stalks of celery, large, and slice them lengthwise all except the leaves. Cut up about two pounds of onions.

Add the meat and cook for fifteen minutes with two tablespoons of bead molasses. Just before removing from the stove, add about one-half bottle of Chinese sauce mixed with one rounding tablespoon of cornstarch. Serve with rice or shredded wheat.

Crumble the shredded wheat biscuits and put in a buttered pan in the oven until heated. Serve with the chop suey.

LEFT-OVER RICE

If you have any cooked rice left over when you serve chop suey or any other dish requiring rice, a very good way to serve it is as a pancake.

Add just enough egg to it to make it thin, as a pancake batter. Fry in butter and serve with syrup.

EGG FOO YONG

5 eggs
 1/2 cup shredded onions
 1/2 cup meat
 1/4 cup sliced water chestnuts
 1 cup bean sprouts

Chop the meat real fine. Cooked bacon, ham or cold roasted meat gives the best results. Beat the eggs thoroughly and add to the meat and other ingredients. Divide into six portions and mold into a soup ladle and pour into a shallow pan of hot lard. Brown on both sides. Serve with soy sauce.

DO YOU KNOW THAT:

1. When mashing potatoes you can make them light and fluffy by adding a small amount of baking powder?
2. Soap should never be used to wash steves, they should be washed in soda and water after using and hang them up to dry?
3. When pressing pleats in position in a skirt wire clips can be used very successfully?
4. Egg stains should be removed from table linen before sending to the laundry, by soaking it in cold water?

The McLean News is an outstanding weekly paper not only in Texas, but in the United States as well. It contains news, features, and departments of interest to every person in the county. An interesting editorial column gives you each week a vivid picture of the news within the news, and the regular news columns give the information you want to know. Community correspondents supply local news from each community in the county—besides comics, serial stories, Brisbane, McIntyre, Irvin Cobb, Floyd Gibbons, women's styles, Sunday school lesson, Sermonette, sports, etc.

You can save the price of an entire year's subscription to this paper by a careful study of the advertisements. With prices changing rapidly every day, the advertisements perform an important service in keeping you posted on prices. This is especially true of grocery advertising, and The News is the only medium in which grocery advertising appears every week. Furthermore, practically all of the advertising of McLean appears in The News. You need to keep posted on what the advertisements have to tell you.

J. C. Penney Stores

Urge Newspaper Advertising

Advertising department of J. C. Penney Co. recently sent sales argument in behalf of newspaper advertising to all its store managers as follows:

1. Do you want to be certain of reader interest? Then use the newspaper. Many a circular receives only a casual glance, while the local newspaper with hundreds of general news items is read thoroughly from first to last page.

2. Do you want representation in the same shopping window that other merchants of your town use? Then use the local newspaper. Women, the purchasing agent of the house, read newspaper advertising daily, whereas a circular is tossed into the waste basket without a glance.

3. Do you want fast action? Then use the newspaper. The ad that you run today, if it contains real merchandise news, will bring immediate results tomorrow. You can receive and sell out a consignment of merchandise with newspaper advertising in less time than it takes to prepare a circular.

4. Do you want to be recognized as a factor of importance in your community—a real home town store? If you do, use the newspaper, it undoubtedly is a strong factor in the building of good will and acceptance by the trade.
