The British government (Chamberlain, Runciman and Baldwin) apparently has a different idea. That may be for trading purposes. These conciliatory moves France is making do not mean she is getting big-hearted.

Gettin' Ready for The Big Meeting

News Glimpses At Preparations Being Made Throughout The Region For W.T.C.C. Convention Here May 11, 12 And 13

Maury Hopkins, convention manager, inherits an Irish instinct for wisecracking.

Don't Write 'Em The Gentlemen of the Press (some call those guys gentlemen) wrote Hopkins for advance copies of speeches West Texans would read during the convention.

Private Rooms Taken All hotels report capacity registrations. Private rooms are going fast.

Open Thursday Convention offices in the Jordan building will not be opened until the first morning of the meeting, Thursday.

President Enroute President Wilbur Hawk will likely arrive here Tuesday evening or Wednesday morning. He is driving down from Amarillo to preside over the fifteenth annual convention.

45 In Contest For the first day in more than a month, there were no entries in the My Home Town Speaking contest Tuesday. Forty-five have already been listed as aspirants for first honors.

Record And Carter Jimmy Record and Amon G. Carter, managing editor and publisher of the Star-Telegram have made reservations for the convention. But they are coming to enjoy the affair, not to report it. Special Staff Correspondent Boyce House, who arrived Monday night, will attend to that.

Recalls Visit House vividly recalls a visit to Big Spring 20 years ago and mentions several landmarks. Pointing out most of the attractions of Big Spring of twenty years ago, he cautions, "But that doesn't make me an old timer around here."

Secret Out Shine, Phillip's secret sin is out. Already he has been at the chamber office waiting Hopkins for copies of West Texas Today, official publication of the regional chamber, which carried Shine's by-line article, and what is more engaging, his picture.

Something Wrong Shine also wanted copies of the issue bearing a pencil sketch of a sand storm to "show some folks I know up north what a sandstorm looks like." Always the connoisseur, he added critically, "there's one thing wrong with the picture. I don't see any tumble weeds piled up against a fence post."

Band Committee Instructions to bands were arranged Tuesday by Chairman of the Band Committee B. F. Robbins and Hopkins. Musical units will be used at opportune moments and places, according to the schedule.

Max Bentley To Arrive Max Bentley, managing editor of the Abilene Reporter-News and the man responsible for rise of West Texas Today from a second rate publicity organ into a condensed, readable magazine, will arrive here for the convention Wednesday evening.

Staff 'Reunion' The entire official staff of the regional chamber will be here Wednesday evening. It was announced from headquarters Tuesday.

Optimism There has been a sudden rise of optimism at headquarters as convention time nears. There is the strange talk of selling all registrations printed and anxiety at not being able to procure more. But if such a thing should happen, more could be obtained on a moment's notice.

Work In Rank Of Esquire Scheduled For K. P. Meet At the Knights of Pythias lodge meeting this evening work in the rank of Esquire will be put on and a report made by members who attended a district meeting in Lubbock last week.

Exercises For Elementary School Graduates To Be Held Here May 19 May 19 will be county wide school rally and seventh grade graduation day.

All pupils in rural schools promoted from elementary grades to high school will be addressed by District Attorney George Mahon at the Municipal Auditorium.

Rally day will center around the city park where an old fashioned picnic will be held. Later a parade will wind through the downtown section.

He is a native Texan, was born in San Angelo, reared at Sweetwater and is well known to many Big Spring people.

Oil Men To Have 'Hanging Out Place' During Convention, With Exhibits By Refining And Supply Companies

Oil men here for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention will have their own "hanging out place," thanks to a suggestion of Bruce Frazier, who was asked to arrange it, and readily complied.

The store building at Third and Rannels streets in the Douglas hotel building will be devoted to exhibits by oil companies, refining companies, oil field supply firms.

The exhibits, by Cosden Oil company and the Lincoln Tank company, had been spoken for early Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Frazier said that any firm wishing to exhibit space which will be free, should see J. C. Douglass, owner of the hotel and building.

The place will be arranged so that oil men may make it a gathering place, with special interest added by having the exhibits there.

Shriners Of City To Fete Other Nobles

Big Spring Shriners will entertain out-of-town Nobles here for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention with a banquet at 1 p. m. Friday at Masonic Temple.

More than 125 members of Hella Temple, Fort Worth, will come from that city in full uniform and with the Temple Drum and Bugle Corps.

Many other visiting Shriners are expected to be here and all will be guests at the banquet to which all local members are invited.

Official Band To Evolve Final Round-Up Of Preparations

Big Spring will top off preparations for the W.T.C.C. convention Wednesday at 8 p. m. at the Municipal Auditorium when a city-wide pre-convention "pep" rally will be held.

Anton Gypsy band, official West Texas Chamber of Commerce band under direction of Jimmie Thornhill, will be present to furnish music and entertainment for the occasion.

Breezy comments and speeches will be interspersed with band numbers and announcements. Certain groups will be assigned certain tasks.

While the meeting is scheduled to top off spirit of local citizens which has already reached a high pitch, van of a large army of delegates is expected to participate in the rally.

Big Spring, the town which conceived the slogan of this year's convention, is planning to be the first to go "Full Steam Ahead."

Watchman Shoots Self In Bank At Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, (UP)—A verdict of suicide was returned by Justice Walter Prichard in the death of Ted Lewis, 46, former Sheriff of Denton county and ex-ranger, found dead in a washroom of the continental national bank here.

The body was sent to DeLoe for burial. Lewis had been employed as a bank watchman since March. Lewis was found shot to death, his pistol in the wash basin, last night by two policemen. They had been sent to the bank when D. E. Hobbit, chief bank watchman, phoned officers a man and his wife were fighting in the bank.

Lewis, whose duty began at 6 p. m., arrived about 8 p. m., according to B. J. Howington, building watchman. Mrs. Lewis followed him in, Howington said and wanted to know where he had been.

In a quarrel that followed, the wife was seen to slap Lewis' face. The body of the former officer was found a half-hour later.

Detective A. C. Howerton of the homicide squad, defeated by Lewis for Denton county sheriff in 1929, said the officer, "seemed despondent" during a conversation last week.

Lewis was Denton's sheriff from 1928 until 1930, joined the Texas rangers and served until last January.

Eddie Cantor Draws Large Ritz Crowds

Largest crowds of several months have been drawn to the Ritz theatre the past two days by Eddie Cantor's new picture, "The Kid From Spain."

Some of the most ingenious and beautiful scenes ever screened afforded a wonderful background for Eddie's wisecracking, singing, dancing and acting.

The most highly trained chorus ever assembled for a picture, according to reliable reports, is the group of girls appearing with Cantor.

The picture was to be shown Tuesday for the last time.

CAPE COD HOME OF KIDNAPED MCMATH GIRL

This is the Harwich Port, Mass., home of Mr. and Mrs. Neil C. McMath, wealthy parents of Margaret McMath, 10, who was kidnaped from her school a few miles away. The parents, leaving every avenue open for free dealing with the abductors, agreed to remain at home unguarded awaiting their commands. (Associated Press Photo).

TODAY and TOMORROW

By WALTER LIPPMANN Accusations of Bad Faith

A very large number of American private and public obligations contain a clause calling for payment in gold dollars of present weight and fineness. In failing to fulfill this clause the American government is being charged with a breach of faith. This is serious business. The honor of the government is its most precious possession and when it is impugned, as it is today, by reputable persons at home and abroad, the accusation must be faced squarely.

could be enforced has not been raised. But in the February crisis it was raised. The movement got under way in which holders of gold obligations, which meant not only the bond holders but bank depositors, began to exercise their legal right to demand gold. Nobody knows accurately how great is the total of obligations payable immediately in gold, but it can not be less than ten to twenty times the gold stocks of the country. It thus became absolutely impossible to meet the gold obligations and specie payments were suspended by the President.

It is now asserted that gold should nevertheless be paid on one type of gold obligation, namely Federal government notes, to one class of creditors, namely foreign owners of such bonds. Those who take this position do not argue that all gold clauses in all obligations should now be enforced. They know that it is impossible. They do not take the position that all gold obligations to foreigners including those owned by states, municipalities, corporations and private debtors, should now be discharged in gold. They know that it is impossible. They do not take the position that all Federal gold obligations, including the currency, should now be redeemed in gold. They know that it is impossible. They do not take the position that all foreign holders of federal gold obligations, including holders of American currency, should now be paid in gold. They know that it is impossible. They base their charge on dishonor on the fact that the government is refusing to give a preference to one class of creditors, namely foreign holders of Federal bonds, over all other classes of foreign and domestic creditors.

That is a narrow base on which to impugne the honor of the American government. The charge would not have been made, I think, but for a misunderstanding of what the British government did after it suspended the gold standard. Thus the New York Times quotes an announcement made by Britain in September, 1931, that the decision will, of course, not affect obligations of His Majesty's government or the Bank of England which are payable in foreign currencies.

The opportunity for Britain to display that superior virtue which the Times thought it was talking about never existed until the United States asked for the gold standard. The British have been paying their dollar obligations in dollars. What else could they pay dollar obligations in except dollars? But now the question does arise whether they will pay henceforth in gold dollars or in depreciated dollars. The Times can begin to draw comparisons.

Border-Line Beer Cases Out; Judge Tells Jury To Ferret Dishonest M. D.

DALLAS (UP)—Judge William H. Atwell instructed a federal grand jury called to session here not to consider "border-line" beer cases and to ferret out dishonest doctors or persons influencing doctors to issue liquor prescriptions in violation of federal statutes.

He interpreted a "border-line" beer case as one where the alcoholic content of the liquor was near the 3.2 per cent allowed by law. The federal jurist told the jury members there were other courts where "border-line" beer cases could be heard. He said a report that beer had 3.2 per cent alcoholic content should be ignored by the grand jury and no indictment returned.

"There are other forums, other courts, in which they can prosecute these border-line cases," he said. "This court doesn't want them. It is expensive and doubtful to indict or to prosecute such cases."

The jurist showed some knowledge of home brew when he added: "Consider the possibility of an increase in the alcoholic content of the beverage after its seizure. Homebrew sometimes increases its alcoholic content after an officer makes an arrest and seizure. Be sure, before you indict, that the analysis proving it to have been surely and certainly over the 3.2 per cent was made immediately after the seizure and not when several days had elapsed."

Judge Atwell warned the jurors to a change in laws regulating the writing of liquor prescriptions by physicians. He counseled "It certainly means jail for the dishonest one, more liberty for the honest doctor."

Meat, Potatoes and Gravy

MANY a meal is built around these three standbys—meat, potatoes and gravy. Invariably they are the first dishes that come to your mind as you plan your dinner. But in spite of their hunger-satisfying and nourishing qualities, this time-honored triumvirate can become monotonous unless it is supplemented by other dishes. However, it is often a problem to find these "side dishes" in your own head. Of course you can quiz your neighbor, or ask the members of your family what they would like. But even this source of information is often lacking in ideas.

The thing to do is read the advertisements in your newspaper. Every day your local markets display their food-stuffs on those printed pages. You'll read of new vegetables and fruits that have "just arrived." Your appetite will be aroused by the tasty creations of national food manufacturers. With pencil and paper you can make your market list and menus before you step out of the house.

Speaking of monotony, consider this. There are 11 different cuts of beef, 9 cuts of veal, 7 of lamb, 10 of pork; there are at least 20 different breakfast cereals sold in every store, 16 different canned vegetables, 6 canned fruits, a dozen or more canned meats and fish, numberless varieties of cakes and crackers. Why should there be monotony in meals with such a variety of foods available at your store and so many of them advertised in your paper?

Woman, Found Burned Hours After Blaze Extinguished, Buried

DALLAS (UP)—Funeral services were held here for Mrs. Richard Meriwether, daughter of a prominent East Texas family, who died in a fire which swept the palatial family home Saturday night.

The body of the victim was discovered hours after the burning home had cooled and after search had been instituted at the request of the woman's son, Thomas Ware Scott, away from the house at the time. The woman's faithful dog died beside her. Firemen found the two bodies side-by-side, the two apparently seeking an exit from the house when overcome by smoke.

The fire was discovered shortly before midnight. Four companies from Dallas attempted to reach the building which is set off from the Walnut Hills roadway by a quarter-acre estate. A traffic jam caused by spectators delayed the arrival of the fire-fighting apparatus and they were further hampered by low pressure of water.

Scott did not learn of the fire until early Sunday when he returned home after midnight after attending a dance in Dallas. Mrs. Meriwether was borne in Mexico, moving here with her parents at an early age. Her husband, until his death three years ago, was president and general manager of the Dallas Railway and Terminal company. He died from a heart attack on a train inbound to Dallas from St. Louis.

The town of Teague was named after an uncle of Mrs. Meriwether. Her mother, Mrs. J. R. Teague, resides at Santa Monica, Cal. She was advised of the death by telephone and boarded an airplane for Dallas. The funeral services for the 48-year-old woman was held here from the home of a sister, Mrs. R. V. Holland. Besides her mother, sister and son, Mrs. Meriwether is survived by a brother, John R. Teague, Jr., also of Santa Monica.

Frank Norris Offers Proof Of Beer Lobby Charges Made In Talk FORT WORTH, (UP)—Proof of charges made about Texas "beer lobby" in a speech before the state senate Friday night was offered Monday by Rev. J. Frank Norris, Baptist minister here.

Norris said he understood Rep. George W. Winingham, Mexico, will offer a resolution asking for investigation of the charges. The minister wired Rep. Winingham he is ready to furnish a list of witnesses of drinking parties in which Texas lawmakers participated, to offer proof of a big and active beer lobby, and proof that representative has received large amounts of money from breweries.

HOUSTON MAN SUICIDE HOUSTON, (UP)—The body of Ben M. Levy, 52, real estate man who committed suicide Saturday in Tucson, Ariz., arrived here and funeral service will be held Tuesday from his residence. Levy, who has been ill, drank poison and shot himself. He left a note directing that his body be sent to Houston and attached a signed check with the amount left blank to cover expenses. He is survived by his widow, a son and three daughters.

Roosevelt Committed To Invoke Inflation Bill Powers To Raise Commodity Prices To Fair Level

By FREDERICK A. STORM

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Roosevelt stands committed to invoke the powers of the inflation bill if necessary to restore prices to a fair level.

He coupled this promise with assurance he would seek to prevent a speculative boom that "will lead us into another tailspin."

In a public review of his policies Sunday night Mr. Roosevelt also promised the government would assist industry in co-operative supervision designed "to give the industrial workers of the country a more fair wage return, prevent cut-throat competition and unduly long hours for labor, and at the same time to encourage each industry to prevent over-production."

Answering the question as to whether he would use the great powers being granted by Congress to expand credit and currency and cheapen the dollar, the president defined his policy as follows: "The administration has the definite objective of raising commodity prices to such an extent that those who have borrowed money will, on the average be able to repay that money in the same kind of dollar which they borrowed."

"We do not seek to let them get such a cheap dollar they will be able to pay back a great deal less than they borrowed. In other words, we seek to correct a wrong and not to create another wrong in the opposite direction."

Industry has picked up, he said, railroads are carrying more freight, farm prices are better, "But I am not going to indulge in issuing proclamations of over-enthusiastic assurance. We can not ballyhoo ourselves back to prosperity."

"I am going to be honest at all times with the people of the country. I do not want the people of this country to take the foolish course of letting this improvement come back on another speculative wave. I do not want the people to believe that because of unjustified optimism we can resume the ruinous practice of increasing our crop output in the hope that a kind providence will find buyers at high prices. Such a course may bring us immediate and false prosperity, but it will be the kind of prosperity that will lead us into another tailspin."

The gold embargo and refusal to meet contracted payments in gold on government bonds, much criticized abroad, were necessary to put creditors on an equal basis, protect the country's monetary reserves and prevent threatened panic, Mr. Roosevelt said. Explaining that between 90 and 100 billions of public and private obligations call for gold payments, he pointed out this country's gold supply would meet demands of only one out of every 25 creditors if all should demand gold.

Enforcement—Not Repeal

THE SERPENT IN CIVILIZATION

"God pity the women and children of the poor if this nation pays a billion dollars tax on light wines and beer," said Dr. Joseph A. Stevenson of Philadelphia, director of the Department of Moral Welfare, Presbyterian Board of Christian Education, in a vigorous attack on the wealthy protagonists of prohibition repeal made at a special meeting held in the First Presbyterian Church of Carlisle, Pa. "Business can not prosper apart from the patronage of the wage earner. The wage earner can not buy bread and beer with the same money. If the beer wagon business on a street the milk wagon will do less. We defy the liquor traffic to produce any economic good in the United States who will risk his professional standing by supporting the contention that liquor traffic is economically beneficial." Dr. Stevenson spoke on "The Serpent in Civilization," pointing out the truth that it is inadvisable to raise children and serpents in the same garden. "The hopeful fact has been made clear in history that the snakes lose out in the battle with humans," he said. "Alcohol is the undomesticated serpent in civilization. The underlying philosophy of prohibition has been that this serpent has forfeited its right to live in a progressive civilization. The cemeteries, morgues, police courts, hospitals and insane asylums carry the record of this serpent. Alcohol was banished because of this record. Now it wants to come back on promises. Alcohol has been tied inseparably with poverty, ignorance and crime. Let the Church of the Living Christ not forget that the greatest enemy of King Jesus is King Alcohol."

Deep-Rooted Grievances Of Nations Complicate President Roosevelt's Attempt To Vitalize Conference

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
WASHINGTON (UP)—A globe-circling series of irritations are interpreted here as adding to the difficulties of President Roosevelt in his attempt to inspire vitality in the world economic conference next month. They extend from the far east to western Europe and down to South America. Combined, they have the effect of tending to isolate the United States in a network of real or fancied grievances. These situations are stubborn and deep-rooted. Some are of long-standing. They become more plain now as the echoes of the communiques of the Washington visits of MacDonald, Herriott and other world statesmen die out and the hard realities reappear. As President Roosevelt strives to win the cooperation of other powers in the world conference, these situations are being worked over one by one in the hope of improving the general feeling which will be so important in determining the fact of the London meeting. The most important of these situations may be summarized as follows: Japan, whose economic delegates are en route to the United States, feels keenly resentful of the efforts of the previous administration to block the conquest of Manchuria. In addition, Japanese statesmen have begun agitation to revise the naval ratio to obtain equality with Great Britain and the United States in place of the present 5-5-3 ratio. Underlying Japanese feeling is a long standing resentment at the exclusion of Japanese immigrants, which is construed as an affront. Russia had expected prompt recognition from the new administration. This has not been forthcoming and Russian representatives have not been asked to participate in preliminary Washington conversations to the world economic conference. Germany is viewing with apprehension the apparent disposition of the United States to work out a consultative pact which would tend to support the status quo in Europe. In addition there has been much resentment in Germany over American protests as the treatment of Jews by Hitlerites. England and France, because of recent turns in the economic situation, have been thrown more closely into each other's arms and against the United States. Not only are both manufacturing to bring about debt reductions, but America's abandonment of the gold standard has led to a financial alliance between the franc and the pound for mutual protection. Likewise both have shown hesitation about joining in a proposed tariff treaty. Italy, while as sympathetic with American objectives as any country, is nevertheless alert to help along debt revision.

Fort Worth Pitcher And Pal Suspended
FORT WORTH, (UP)—Manager Walter Holke of the Cats was looking for a right-handed pitcher following suspension of Charley Biggs. Biggs was suspended indefinitely and fined $50 and Joe Norris, erratic second baseman, drew a similar fine when he failed to get in bed until after Saturday midnight. On the books, the punishment was made for breaking training rules. Off the books, it was reported Biggs and Norris had been carousing around in an automobile, crashed, and walked into a hotel lobby to find Holke for a reception committee.

A 4-door Six-Cylinder Sedan for $510 sounded good to me. Today I'm driving a Standard Plymouth." "Safety-steel bodies... Rigid-X, double-drop frame. DARLING FOOL

BEGIN HERE TODAY
MENNA O'DARE, beautiful girl, is in love with BILL O'DARE, who belongs to one of the best families in the county. Menno works to help support her mother, her younger sister, KAY, and brother Mark. When Bill, an older brother, is arrested of the game where he works Menno goes to his aid. She gets in touch with CHARLES EUSTACE, handsome newcomer to town, who she is sure will help her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER VI
 Bill said, "I'm not bawling, see? She's all right. Sure, she's got a husband. What does that matter? She's just a friend of mine."
 Bill, blushing beneath his bright, Bill, pale and big-eyed.
 Menno touched his hand. "I know. But it will help - lots - if you can prove you weren't with that crowd last night."
 Bill sat his jaw stubbornly. "I'm not dragging any girl into this. Don't you worry. It'll all come out right. They're crazy, all of them. They know I had nothing to do with it."
 Menno stifled her exasperation. She must make him see what it meant to all of them.
 "All right then," she said steadily. "You don't care what happens to Mother?"
 She had made a dent in his armor - she could see that.
 "Don't talk foolish," Bill commanded her sternly. "You know I do."
 "Mother's sick," Menno told him. "She's hardly able to sit up, she's so worried. She won't eat. Dr. Waterman has given her some sleeping medicine."
 Bill stared, straight ahead. Menno, then, despairing, as Charles Eustace, detached and friendly, smoked his pipe and paced up and down.
 Suddenly there was a commotion in the outer room. A small whirlwind burst through. A slip of a girl with flying yellow hair shove extraordinary glances eyebrows.
 "Where is he?" she demanded.
 "Oh, Bill! What a sep you are!" Bill looked sheepish. The girl - she couldn't have been 20 - whirled about and stared at Menno and Charles Eustace.
 "Isn't he a nut?" she gurgled. "Acting like a movie hero just because he doesn't want to say he took 'em home from the Inn last night. These big boxes breezed up to our table and tried to get fresh and he told them to light out. That was all. Imagine Jimmy Garvan trying to say Bill had a 'confession' with them!" She mimicked the policeman with diabolical effect. She told Bill, "I gave Jimmy Garvan something to think about! Anyhow they've just caught the job was safe.

 Presently she was alighting from the car at her own door.
 "Don't forget about that dinner engagement," Charles Eustace reminded her with his faintly broad smile.
 She caught her breath. She had utterly and completely forgotten it.
 "I'll be here for you as I said."
 She rushed up the walk. "Mother, it's all right. They got the thieves - and Bill is free."
 Kay came out of the kitchen, a tea towel in her hand. Kay looked pale and sullen. "She's upstairs," Menno ran up, taking two steps at a time.
 "It's all been fixed. Bill stopped at the garage. He'll be home in a minute."
 Mrs. O'Dare was sitting up in bed, looking fragile and weary among the pillows. It was so strange to see her vigorous, active parent in bed during the day that Menno had to choke back an instinctive feeling of alarm.
 "No, she would not tell her about Angie Gillen just now. She needs that could come later."
 "Yes, I had some tea," her mother said in response to a question.
 "Why made it? Suppose you run down and have a bite yourself. You missed your lunch."
 Menno realized now she was hungry. Almost faint with it. It had been a trying, an unobscured, exciting day. She flung her hat on the bed, pushed back the damp ripples of hair around her white forehead, looked at herself in the glass with grave dissatisfaction. She experienced the inevitable reaction of the person who has been struggling for hours toward a goal and suddenly, unexpected, reaches it. What, she thought, did it all matter anyway? Life was just a harder and harder as time went on. Bill was on the bunk of an affair. Kay was disappointed. Her own affair with Don was going badly.
 "It's all so - so hopeless," she whispered to her image in the glass.
 Then she squared her shoulders. She had to be courageous for the others. She couldn't show the white feather. She went downstairs.
 "Kay! How about a cup of tea?" The younger girl, lovely even in her sultriness, in spite of the lines of dissatisfaction etching themselves about her charmingly mouth, rose from the sitting room couch.

Mrs. Ross Intends To Learn Details Of Her Mint Job

WASHINGTON, (UP) — Nellie Taylor Ross' appointment as director of the United States mint caused considerable comment on the new place of women in American government. But as a matter of fact a woman has been running the mint for years.
 However, it appears Mrs. Ross is going to be about the first director of the mint in recent years who actually undertook to learn the job and understand all its details.
 Miss Mary M. O'Reilly, white-haired, slight of figure and extreme efficient, has been the guiding influence in affairs of the mint for more than two decades. The position of director of the mint has been considered a political appointment and most of the incumbents have been content to let Miss O'Reilly manage the government's three mints, seven assay offices and some $2,000,000,000 (B) in coinage about as she desired.
 Mrs. Ross' tenure of office may cover one of the quietest periods of mint activity. The authorization for war debt payments in silver, contained in the omnibus farm relief bill now awaiting final action, would mean an active silver-usage program if the silver payments reach the full $200,000,000 figure.
 Mrs. Ross was the third woman appointed to a place of prominence in the Roosevelt administration. The other two were Miss Frances Perkins as secretary of labor and Ruth Bryan Owen as minister to Denmark.

THE PERFECT GUM

PA'S SON-IN-LAW

Bill's first emotion was of joy, pure and simple. To have Bill free - vindicated - was enough. But she hated having to tell her mother of the state of Bill's affections. A married woman! Mrs. O'Dare, who had old-fashioned notions of propriety, wouldn't like that. In a town the size of Belvedere the affair amounted to a virtual scandal. Well, there was no use worrying about that now!

She fancied the few people they passed on the street glanced at them curiously. Well, the true story would be about soon enough. Still there would always be people to remember that Bill O'Dare had been arrested once upon a time. She couldn't help that. It was no good worrying about it.

Bill said suddenly, "Drop me at the garage a minute, will you?" Menno understood. He wanted to see Mr. Harnett, to know if his est places here (and has been for months) that she must cut her army for reasons of economy and efficiency. Her agreement for certain arms reductions therefore is less philanthropic than budgetary.

Our government did not blunder into refusing to pay foreign Liberty Bond holders in gold. It was forced to take that action. It knew well that foreign governments would raise Cain. But it could not very well explain to our own people that they should be paid in currency and foreigners in gold. Such a course would have been political suicide.

Treasury

They slipped the Under-Secretaryship of Treasury to Maryland liberal so as to keep the wolves quiet over there.

Even Mr. Roosevelt himself was annoyed by the Maryland criticism of his fiscal policies, particularly from the Baltimore Sun. That newspaper reaches every breakfast table here, including the President's. Many a Democratic dish of ham and eggs has been ruined by the recent anti-inflation editorials of the Sun. The outstanding critic of the original bank moratorium policy was Gov. Ritchie of Maryland.

The liberal gesture was astounding. Up to now nobody but a conservative has been allowed inside the Treasury by any administration. Liberals get jobs in other departments, but not in that one.

The move probably will not have the desired effect. The appointee Dean Acheson is a good man, but his Maryland residence consists of maintaining a summer home in a of holding companies by the Interstate Commerce Commission is aimed chiefly at the Allegheny and Pennrod Corporations. Stockholdings of these corporations in smaller key merger roads have helped to gum up the I. C. C.'s consolidation program. The commission can be expected to use its new authority with gusto.

Repeal of the recapture clause which provided that roads should turn over excess boom time profits to the government—will release a lot of funds now tied up in reserves. The roads owe $31,000,000 under the recapture clause—net assets but never paid. They have always contested the legality of the measure. Among the roads which owed large sums Chesapeake and Ohio was in for $47,000,000, Frisco for $19,000,000, Southern for $15,000,000 and Atchafalaya for $11,000,000. The government would have had a heck of a job collecting from Frisco.

All that the government actually collected from recapture was $15,000,000 which will now be paid back. The roads which did pay were all small ones and most of them were owned by U. S. Steel. Steel itself put up the money to keep its participation in the railroad business from public knowledge.

Norfolk & Western will gain $15,000,000 for its stockholders from the repeal of recapture. It will probably be the first road to pay an extra dividend in 1933. Earnings are running around $14 a share. The Pennsylvania—which controls the Norfolk—could certainly use the extra cash.

Union Pacific is finding its large investment in Baltimore & Ohio, Chicago & Northwestern, New York Central and other rail securities a handicap to profits. A dividend reduction from $6 to $4 is probable.

Louisville & Nashville will be setting pretty if Muscle Shoals plans come through. It will haul most of the construction materials. This road is extremely well managed and its net profit is already running above a year ago.

Illinois Central counts on getting a break from Chicago's World Fair. An increase of $10,000,000 in passenger revenue is estimated from this source. It would also profit from inflation as an important carrier of sugar, molasses, rubber and cotton.

The Mellons have substantial interests in Southern coal mines as well as in Western Pennsylvania. Southern coal carriers don't look so badly off after all.

NEW YORK
By James McMillin
Dollar—
Bankers say it can be told now that the Herriot delegation made strenuous efforts when they were here to arbitrate the currency battle between Britain and the United States. They suggested that stabilization at $3.50 to the pound would be fine for everybody. That sounded like money from home to the MacDonald group who were quick to say "yes." But the American response was a vigorous negative. The French were politely told that, having abandoned gold, we had no intention of being jockeyed for the sake of Europe's peace of mind—out of the trade benefits of a further slump in dollar exchange.

Important people here honestly believe that the success of inflation depends considerably on the continuing vigor of dollar raiders. They favor doing everything possible to encourage the drive. The point is that domestic prices will be determined largely by the exchange position of the dollar. This applies particularly to such basic export commodities as cotton and wheat.

No definite goal has yet been set to which the dollar should be allowed to sink. But most expert opinion agrees that somewhere between $4.25 and $4.50 to the pound would bring satisfactory progress toward domestic inflation. Beyond that point prices would probably get out of control.

Rails—
Railroad officials are downcast over one feature of the new rail program. The federal coordinator is to interest himself in "maintaining useful employment at a fair wage." That rather stymies some of the brilliant economy plans the managements have been working up.

NEW YORK (UP)—F. Worth Vines, American and Wimbledon tennis champion, has been elected president of the Pacific Coast Ping Pong Association. Lillian Kenkinson, 24, blonde, has applied to the license committee of the Illinois Turf Association for a jockeys license. Although a number of records were broken in the Drake Relay, the hero of the meet was not a record-breaker nor a university star. He was a Perry, Iowa, high school boy, who, rather than risk losing a relay race for his school, refused to slacken his pace and hoist his falling pants. He crossed the finish line with his trunks down below his knees.

Johnny Baker, whose field goal in 1930 enabled Southern California to nose out the Notre Dame eleven, has accepted an invitation to play on the Pacific Coast team when it meets a midwestern eleven at the Worlds Fair, Aug. 24. Jacques Fournier, the former big league first-baseman, is now selling insurance in Los Angeles.

The following announcement appeared in the classified advertising of a Birmingham paper last month: "On and after this date I hereby disclaim liability for any all debts contracted by my wife, Mary Elizabeth Chauman. (Signed) Ben Chapman. Gene Sarazen and Coach Frank Thomas of the University of Alabama, look enough alike to be twins."

Bobby Mitchell, 77, believed to be the first left-handed pitcher in the major leagues to throw a curve ball, died here recently—a pauper.

Wes Ferrell, ace right-hander of the Cleveland Indians, is ambidextrous. His southpaw strikes are nearly as fast and accurate as his right-handed ones.

Norman Bias, Marshall College star, beat Cottontail Rabbit at 100 yards the other day. The race was accidental, the cottontail jumping on the track just as Bias left his pits. The rabbit held his own for 80 yards and then tumbled.
