Revival Pleases Communicants of McLean Churches

(Editorial)
One of the best revival campaigns ever staged in McLean closed with Sunday evening's services.

The campaign was entered into simultaneously by the Methodist, Presbyterian, Church of Christ, Church of the Nazarene and Baptist churches, holding evening services at their buildings, and morning services at the American Theatre, with the various pastors taking turns preaching the morning hour.

Not only has each church reported finite benefits, but the whole community was touched in a way never before experienced here.

A feature of the services was that high pressure advertising campaigns were staged, yet each church was crowded with good crowds at each service, with standing room only at the end of the morning services.

No collection was taken for any minister, but general collections at each church were very satisfactory. A comparison with the usual high pressure campaign was the fact that money was taken from town and many were added to the church that will mean much to the religious life of the community.

The idea of a simultaneous campaign has been advocated by the press in editorials, and by several of the local ministers for the past several years, but things were not so favorable until this year. Much of the credit for the idea this spring comes, perhaps, to Rev. Sharp of Methodist Church, who suggested the idea of the cooperative morning services; which seemed to be the key to the situation.

The ministers are appreciative of the splendid cooperation given by the iness men, who closed their stores for the morning services, and all those who so whole-heartedly cooperated in the meeting.

The campaign attracted visiting ministers from other towns, and in several instances similar campaigns will be staged in other towns.

COUNTY MUSIC FESTIVAL MAY 1 AT PAMPA

Directors of music from Lefors, Pampa, McLean and Hopkins met at Webb school Saturday to plan the Gray County Music Festival, which will be held at Harvester Park, Pampa on May 1, at 8 p. m.

This festival is given as a part of the centennial program, and will be participated in by all schools and communities in the county. Four hundred high school and four hundred elementary school children are expected to be present from McLean.

No admission charge will be made, no competition is expected. The festival is given merely for the furance of the love of music and community spirit.

A massed band composed of all schools of the county will be used. There will be four music directors. The festival will begin by the singing of "America" and closed by "The Star-Spangled Banner," both group singing.

Three divisions of chorus singing school children, primary, junior and senior, are arranged.

McLean representatives at the Webb school were Miss Aline Mallow, director; and W. A. Foster, Jr. for director.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Petty of Vernon and Miss Martha Noel of White Deer visited on the former's uncle, Luther, and family Wednesday.

Mr. E. Wharton, W. W. Boyd and F. Ledbetter attended court at Pampa Wednesday.

Mr. T. E. Yeldell and children of Lefors visited in the E. J. Winfield home Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Harding and Mrs. E. E. Mactor were in Pampa last Friday.

Mr. Andrews of Canyon spent the week end with home folks here. He was accompanied by Pat Falls.

Mr. Johnston went to Arlington Sunday to visit his parents.

Mr. Wood made a business trip to Pampa Saturday.

Mr. Kirby was taken to a Pampa hospital last week.

Mr. Kirby of Wheeler visited here over the week end.

District Court Session Disposes of Many Cases

Courtesy District Clerk Frank Hill, the following is a brief summary of business transacted in the 31st Judicial District Court during the January term which convened Jan. 6 and adjourned March 14:

Civil business—22 civil cases dismissed; 21 civil orders entered; one cause removed to Federal Court; 9 compensation judgments entered; one case concerning the removal of disabilities; 10 civil judgments entered; four divorce cases dismissed on motion of plaintiff; 43 divorces granted; one case concerning a neglected child; one case of dependent children which involved five children; five cases tried before a jury; one hung jury; and four injunctions.

Criminal business—one special venire of 115 men drawn; 19 indictments returned (9 felonies and 1 misdemeanor); 6 pleas of guilty before the court; 3 pleas of guilty before a jury; 9 criminal cases tried before a jury; 13 convictions in criminal cases; 2 verdicts returned by jury of "not guilty;" and 13 cases tried with defendant charged with driving an automobile upon the public highways while intoxicated, which resulted in 12 convictions and one verdict of "not guilty."

The court empaneled 209 petit jurors during the term.

SIGMA GAMMA STUDIES TEXAS

Using as a topic, Texas and Southwestern Lore, members of the Sigma Gamma heard the first of a series of three programs on Texas, at their regular meeting Monday evening.

The meeting was held in the home of Miss Frances Noel, with Miss Mildred Bessire as hostess.

The program was led by Miss Aline Mallow, who gave some interesting superstitions concerning cotton, taken from the book, Texas and Southwestern Lore.

The Cowboy and His Songs was discussed by Miss Odessa Kunkel who, assisted by Mrs. Bob Thomas, sang "Home on the Range" and "The Cowboy's Dream," accompanied at the piano by Miss Aline McCarty.

Myths of the Tejas Indians was given by Miss Ruth Hess, and Miss Vera Hamilton gave some early Texas legends.

The hostess, assisted by Misses Noel and Hamilton, served delicious refreshments to the following: Misses Lillian Abbott, Clara Anderson, Nona and Jewell Cousins, Pansy Harris, Ruth Hess, Elizabeth Kennedy, Odessa Kunkel, Aline Mallow, Aline McCarty, Margarte Mertel, Eunice Stratton and Floy Wynn.

CLEAN-UP WEEK SET

According to a proclamation by Mayor Davis, the first week in April has been set as spring clean-up week. The city will furnish trucks to haul off all trash as usual, and all citizens are urged to cooperate.

PTA STUDY POSTPONED

According to Mrs. W. L. Campbell, president of the PTA, the meeting of the study group scheduled for Friday afternoon of this week has been postponed until Friday afternoon of next week.

Miss Vera Carpenter of Lefors visited her brother here over the week end.

Vernon Johnston went to Hobbs, N. M., last week end.

H. E. Franks and family of Endee, N. M., visited here last week.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Paige of Lefors visited in McLean Saturday.

Joe Allison of Plainview was in McLean Thursday.

Jim Bradley of Dozier was in McLean Thursday.

Judge C. E. Cary of Pampa was in McLean last week.

Bennie Watkins was in Groom last week.

L. S. Calaway was in Pampa last Thursday.

W. B. Upham made a business trip to Shamrock the first of the week.

Miss Kennedy Honored by County Council

Miss Elizabeth Kennedy, retiring president, was honored at the meeting of the County Council of Parent-Teacher Associations last Saturday, by being presented with a life membership in the PTA. Supt. Fisher of the Pampa schools made the presentation speech, in which he said that the communities and the county need efficient leaders who are willing to serve for the good of all. Miss Kennedy responded with a talk of appreciation for the cooperation given her the past two years.

The meeting was held at the Webb school, and the following officers were elected for the next school term: President, Mrs. L. L. Morse; vice president, Mrs. Emmett Catlin; secretary, Mrs. P. L. Appling; treasurer, Mrs. C. R. Ogden; historian, Mrs. A. L. Burge.

Plans were announced for the centennial music festival to be held in Pampa on May 1.

The next meeting will be held at the Back school in October. The January meeting will be at the Sam Houston school in Pampa.

DECLAMATION TRYOUT TO BE HELD THURSDAY

The final tryout for the grade school interscholastic league declaimers will be held next Thursday night at the regular meeting of the PTA.

Pupils who will be in the final tryout are: Berniece McClellan, Opal Thacker, Bennie Mae Wade, Mattie Lee Wilson, Thelma Jean Dishman, Inez Stanley, Nettie Jean Shoemaker, Robert St. Clair, Damon Wade, Jack Wallace, James Fulbright, Evey Glen Fulbright, Arthur Reece and Oran Back.

Preceding the declamations, there will be a story telling tryout for pupils of the second and third grades. Pupils who will take part in this are: Ann Bogan, James Carpenter, Harold Lee Meador, Mary Katherine Brooks, Martha Joyce King, Nella Mae Graham, Laura Ruth Glenn, John Floyd Campbell and James Hinton.

In a recent contest for sub-junior declaimers, Billy Carpenter won first for boys and Mary Lee Abbott first for girls. The PTA will present medals to these winners, as well as to winners in the other divisions.

Tryouts for other league events have either already been held or will be held within a few days, and winners will be announced in next week's paper.

HIGH RATING FOR CITY DRUG

In the City Drug Store's advertisement on another page will be found the rating given this firm by the state sanitary inspector, the highest rating possible to obtain.

The inspector said that if all cold drink stands, cafes and groceries in McLean will make this grade, the state health department will be glad to put the town on the approved list and recommend to centennial visitors that they stop here for supplies.

A complete list of McLean's grades will probably be mailed to the Board of City Development at an early date.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Rice, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Rice left Tuesday afternoon for Moody to attend the funeral of the latter's brother-in-law, C. C. Hatter, who was killed in a car wreck Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Bingham and son, accompanied by the lady's mother, Mrs. M. W. Watkins, were in Amarillo Friday.

Mrs. H. C. Shoemaker and daughter were in Pampa Saturday.

T. N. Holloway was in Pampa Friday.

Mrs. Era Kibler visited at Clarendon and Lella Lake Sunday.

W. B. Weathered of Pampa was in McLean Monday.

Miss Mannie Abbott of Pampa visited in McLean Friday night.

Dry Election Sustained by District Judge

McLean and Alameed will remain dry, according to a ruling by Judge Firing of the 31st Judicial District Court, in the contest suit filed by B. H. Blair against the county attorney concerning the recent election.

The precinct boundary question was the basis of the contest, the plaintiff contending that the boundary of the precinct has never been correctly defined. The county attorney argued that the election contest should concern only happenings on election day and that the boundary question would have to be attacked in some other way.

Woodie Green Fatally Burned at Farm Home

Woodie Green lost his life in a fire that destroyed the farm home at what is known as the old Bailey place, near Heald, Tuesday night.

Mr. Green was in town until late Tuesday and was alone at the home when the fire caught.

The fire was not seen by neighbors until the house and contents were practically destroyed.

The remains were taken to Wheeler early Wednesday morning, pending funeral arrangements.

CITY GARDEN CLUB MEETS 7:30 TONIGHT

A meeting of the McLean Garden Club will be held at the city hall tonight (Thursday), beginning at 7:30 o'clock, according to Mrs. D. A. Davis, president.

A bulb and seed exchange will be conducted at the meeting, and everyone interested is invited to be present and take part in the exchange and discussions, regardless of membership in the club.

COOKE CHEVROLET CO. HANDLES FRIGIDAIRE

The Cooke Chevrolet Co. has a number of the new model Frigidaire refrigerators on display at their show rooms.

The new models are equipped with the "Meter-Miser" and built-in Food-Safety Indicator. They are marvels of convenience and economy.

See advertisement on another page.

SCHOOL ESSAYS SHOULD FORWARDED AT ONCE

According to Judge Ivy E. Duncan of Pampa, chairman of the Centennial Advisory Board, all school essays intended for the Centennial contest should be graded and the winning essays sent to his office at once.

O. K. GROCERY IMPROVES

The O. K. Grocery and Market has arranged the front and cash counter in the store, making a much more convenient arrangement for their customers.

Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Tinnin and daughter visited in Pampa Sunday. Their granddaughter and niece, Little Peggy Earline Tinnin, returned home with them for a few days' visit.

Mrs. H. M. Humphreys visited at Shamrock Saturday.

Charlie Thut of Pampa was in McLean the first of the week.

O. E. Lochridge and family visited in Panhandle Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Giles and daughter visited at Lefors Sunday.

Cryer Addresses Lions; Texas History Week

McLean Lions heard a talk from C. A. Cryer, superintendent of the McLean schools, on Texas history as a part of the state-wide observance of Texas history week, at their meeting at the Meador Cafe Tuesday.

Supt. Cryer used as a subject, "Did you know?" giving many interesting facts about the state. Texas history is now a course in the high schools of the state as a part of the centennial celebration. Teas condemned the old Mexican rule because public schools were not adequate, but it has taken the state 100 years to raise from 48th place in the union to 39th.

At the old time dances a number of pairs of boots and shoes were bought and while one set was dancing the others would wait for the chance to use the footwear, as the common shoe was the moccasin, not suitable for dancing.

John Jones and J. A. Meador were presented as new members of the club. Rev. W. A. Erwin was reinstated as a member, and T. J. Coffey and Ralph R. Thomas were visitors.

PANHANDLE BAND TO GIVE CONCERT HERE

The Panhandle high school band under the direction of C. W. Beene will give a free concert in the high school auditorium Friday evening, March 27. In addition to selections by the band, the program will contain a number of solos by various members of the band.

Most of the soloists are winners in the national contest, on their respective instruments. They are also members of the National Clinic Band, an organization of outstanding school musicians of the nation which convenes annually at Urbana, Ill. These boys have the honor of being the only Texas boys to be placed in this band.

All music lovers are invited to attend this program, which is given free of charge.

CITY POLITICS ARE WARMING UP SLIGHTLY

The impending city election to be held the first Tuesday in next month is developing a little interest as names are being filed at the city hall.

Three aldermen are to be elected this year, and to date, the names of two candidates, O. G. Stokely and Boyd Meador, have been filed by their friends.

COUNTRY CLUB ELECTS

The McLean Country Club has become an entirely new organization, with new rules and a new set of officers.

D. A. Davis was elected president, M. D. Bentley vice president, C. S. Rice secretary-treasurer, Ruel Smith, Boyd Meador and D. M. Davis directors.

Under the new setup the membership will be limited to 35 members, and fees and monthly dues promptly collected from each member. It is expected that under the new plan the club will own the present course free of debt within some four years' time.

Mrs. Luther Petty visited Mrs. Geo. R. Reneau and daughter, Miss Mary, at Heald Tuesday, and attended the Wheeler County Demonstration Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Sparks made a trip to Pampa Saturday, the lady visiting her niece, Mrs. E. L. Norman.

N. H. Greer went to Amarillo Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Adams were in Amarillo one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Greene visited in Amarillo last week.

L. S. Tinnin was in Shamrock last Thursday.

Guy Hill of Shamrock was in McLean Tuesday.

Boyd Meador was in Pampa the first of the week.

A. B. Hibler made a business trip to Pampa Saturday.

M. Gibson of Alameed was in McLean Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Andrews visited in Amarillo and Canyon last week.

Avalon Theatre Opens Wednesday, Blaze of Glory

The beautiful Avalon Theatre, just being completed by Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Adams, owners of the American Theatre, will open in a blaze of glory next Wednesday and Thursday nights with one of the most popular releases of the season, "Follow the Fleet," with Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams have built a modern show house with the thought of the comfort and pleasure of their patrons first. New upholstered chairs, new lighting arrangements, new carpets, new mirrors, new drapes, new RCA High Fidelity sound equipment and tile floored rest rooms are features of the new building.

The foyer of the building is decorated in marble and the modernist front gives a beautiful touch to that part of Main Street.

The new theatre is equipped to give McLean people just as high class entertainment as can be found anywhere.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams have an enviable record for high class entertainment, and they have booked a number of the best pictures obtainable for the new theatre.

The American Theatre has been a valuable asset to the business life of McLean and the new theatre is something that the whole community may well be proud of.

The show will begin promptly at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday and Thursday, and free souvenirs will be given to ladies and children who register their names at a table in the foyer.

There will be no increase in admission prices.

McLEAN GIRLS WIN VOLLEYBALL GAMES

The McLean grade school girls' volleyball teams won games from the Pampa and Alameed high school teams in recent matches. Each match was determined by a series of five games. Against Pampa, the McLean girls won three games and against Alameed they won four.

Miss Harris, McLean coach, used two complete teams in each match, and it was only when the second team was playing that either the Pampa or Alameed girls were able to win.

The McLean girls who played were: first team—Flore Holt, Berniece McClellan, Fabrice Galloway, Cleo Ledbetter, Opal Thacker, Naomi Hancock; second team—Berniece Combs, Opal Tedder, Gwendolyn Koen, Marie Euday, Adeline Riddle and Gloria Moon.

JUNIOR MUSIC CLUB

The Junior Music Club met Monday afternoon in the music studio at the grade school, with 11 members and four visitors present.

Members responded to roll call by giving short sketches of the lives of composers.

Patsy O'Rourke and Shirley Ray Glass were the best players in their respective groups.

Jimmy Batson received the prize for having the most reward seals for the month.

Dainty refreshments of ice cream and cake in St. Patrick colors were served by the host and hostess Jimmy Batson and Patsy O'Rourke.

A. A. Callahan and J. B. Pettit returned Thursday from Mineral Wells, where they had been for treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Vaughan of Amarillo visited in the M. H. Patterson home Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Fowler and daughter, Miss Marjorie, visited in the M. H. Patterson home Sunday.

George Hawthorne of Lefors was in McLean Sunday.

Godfrey Cadra is a new reader of the home paper.

G. C. Nicholson was in Memphis Monday.

Cal Weaver made a business trip to Pampa Saturday.

Mrs. Will Glass of Alameed visited in McLean Saturday.

E. J. Jr., and Johnnie Windom visited relatives at Lefors Sunday.

Mrs. Frank Crisp and daughter of Alameed visited in McLean Saturday.

SYNOPSIS

Kerry Young, a lad of seven, is prepared to flee the burning lumber camp of his benefactor, Jack Snow, who took the youngster to live with him at the death of Kerry's mother. Tod West has instructed Kerry to come with a file containing the camp's funds should it be endangered. Flames attack the office, and Kerry, hugging the precious file, and Tod race to town. Tod acts queerly. At the bank the file is found empty and Kerry is blamed with taking the wrong one. Snow, his headquarters and money gone, is ruined, and soon thereafter dies, leaving Kerry to the Poor Commissioner. Kerry suspects Tod and swears to even the score. In a St. Paul office Kerry, now in manhood, and an expert woodsman, learns of the whereabouts of West. Kerry rescues a lovely girl from a scoundrel, who proves to be West. Tod threatens to pauperize the girl, Nan Downer. She thanks Kerry and tells him of the robbery, and murder of her father and of Tod's advances. She is operating a lumber tract which her father had purchased from West. Kerry makes camp. At the general store in West's Landing, he finds Tod engaged in a poker game. Jim Hinkle, timber employee, loses heavily. Kerry exposes Tod's cheating and disarms him. The crowd is unconvinced of Tod's duplicity. Kerry identifies himself to West, who denies knowing him and advises him to leave town. Nan tells Dr. Ezra Adams of Kerry's rescue of her from Tod, and of West's threat. Ezra, who is coroner, visits Kerry, and appoints Kerry coroner's clerk. Suspicion of the murder had rested on Holt Stuart, employee of Downer, and upon Jim Hinkle, who was cleared by Tod. The doctor has the fatal bullet and the serial numbers of the stolen bills, one of which has just been paid to Adams. It came out of the poker game. Tod orders Jim to run Kerry out of town. Kerry discovers he is being spied upon by a breed. Jim comes to Kerry with a warning to clear out. Nan hires Kerry. Young rescues Jim's daughter from drowning. While in the water, Frank Blunjay, the breed who had spied on Kerry, had tried to drown Kerry. Young settles with him. Kerry sees that Holt loves Nan. Jim meets Kerry, and after thanking him for rescuing his child, confesses he knew Tod was crooked.

CHAPTER VII—Continued

Another pause. Then, "Yes!"—in a whisper. Something unusual here. "And you figure I am in danger now; and you figured the same way this morning. Then the change is all in you, Jim? In your... your attitude, I might say?" "I guess that's gettin' close to it." Young scratched his head and took a deep breath. "It's a little deep for me," he laughed. "I must confess I don't understand what could have happened to make you feel low about giving me a warning you thought necessary for my own good, and—"

"Ain't it what a man thinks that counts more than what he does?" In Hinkle's voice was a sort of passionate plea for understanding. "Yes; I guess you're right." "You see, Young,—grasping the front of Kerry's slicker and looking quietly about,—I didn't want to come to you today! I knew you caught Tod dead!" crooked, even if I didn't dare let on to him 'nd the rest. But I had to make you think I didn't owe you anything. That's what makes me feel like a skunk!"

"Oh, I see. . . . Yes, I see how it is. . . . So it was necessary for you to make that play this morning. That it, Jim?" "Almost reluctantly, the man said: "Yes; that's it." "I'd say that was a queer fix for a man to get himself into." "I told you I wasn't any good." "But you were wrong. You are some good; a lot of good, I'd say. If you weren't, you wouldn't be waiting for me here tonight to try to fix up what you've broke!"

"Well. . . . It ain't nothin'. It's all I can do." Young shook his head. "No, you can do quite a little more. You can tell me, for instance, why you thought it necessary to believe what West said instead of what your eyes told you." "He amounts to a lot around here, Tod West does." "And you don't dare cross him?" "Not much. . . . God, Young, if you only knew!"

self in a position where you could look any man in the eye and say what you think and feel?" Jim laughed harshly. "As if I could! And what if I tried?"—desperately. "What if I tried? You think I want to find myself locked up and—?" His intentness had overridden his best judgment. "Go on, Jim. Locked up. For what?" The man was adamant, refused to talk, so gently, firmly, Kerry began arguing, urging for confidence, playing on the fundamental decency in Jim Hinkle's heart.

"I can't! I can't!" he burst out. "You don't know Tod West! Why, to get what he wants he'd as soon charge an innocent man with murder as not! There! I've said it!" "Murder?" "Yes, murder! If I'd try to get out of doin' what he wants me to do, they'd have me in jail like that,—snapping his thumb,— "and charged with killin' Miss Nan's father!" "But you were suspected, weren't you? I've heard the story."

"Yes, I was. And if it hadn't been for Tod West, Nat Bridger, the sheriff, 'd've took me sure as hell!" "But when Tod told them he played cards with you—"

"That settled it."

"And if you had been playing cards with him all that evening. . . . Then why has he got anything on you?"

A long moment of silence followed.

"Because all I know about what happened that night is what Tod told me," said Hinkle at last.

Young gave a long-drawn, "Oh-h-h!" After a moment he added: "So that's it."

"Yes, that's it!"—desperately. "That's it, and he's bearin' down on me 'nd holdin' it over me like a club!" "That sounds goofy, Jim. He all-bied you out of suspicion. He's on record with his story, isn't he?"

"But a man with his standin' can admit that he told a certain kind of lie 'nd get away with it, can't he? He could go to 'em 'nd say that he didn't think, at the time, I had anything to do with th' killin', so he went to the front for me; but that it's worried him since and that things 've happened to make him believe that, mebbe, I might not be as straight as he thought I was last November. He could do that, couldn't he?" "Yes, he could; of course he could. But how would that put you in wrong with the sheriff?"

"All he'd have to tell 'em," Jim said, "was what he swears to me 's the truth 'nd they'd put it on me just as sure as hell!"

"You mean that you weren't at West's house that night? That you didn't play cards with him that evening?"

"That's What Makes Me Feel Like a Skunk!"

"Where was you, Jim? He was pleasant enough but he had a look in his eyes he'd never had before and I want to tell you his grin went through me like a knife!"

"I didn't know where I'd been. Young, I knew I'd been wanderin' round somewhere with a rifle. I knew I'd been awful dam' mad at Cash. I. . . . I just didn't know anything more than that!"

Hinkle strained to swallow, his breath quick and audible.

"I lost what little head I had, I guess. I went down on my knees to him; I begged him to tell me where I'd been, how I come there. I was scared, I tell you!"

"He told me to brace up. He didn't know where I'd been, he said. He'd found me wanderin' along the siding late in th' evenin'."

"Nobody knows just when Cash was killed but, as West tells it, that was probably some little time afterward. He set there and figured it all out. The ground was froze hard as iron; there wasn't any snow except in the timber. Whoever did the job left no sign, and if it wasn't told around that I'd been out alone, drunk, and with a loaded rifle, nobody'd suspect me. So he said he was always ready to go to the front for a friend, and framed up a story 'bout my playin' cribbage with him. . . . In his room, upstairs, where he had a stove."

Kerry's mouth was a bit dry. The significance, the possible implications of this confession, put him in a fever. "I ain't no killer, Young! I never wanted to hurt a man, serious. I've figured and figured over this thing. It's most drove me crazy sometimes! I was pret' sore at Cash but. . . . God, Young, I wouldn't 've killed him, sober; I wouldn't 've done it!"

He ran an unsteady hand over his face.

"And no one knows that you did." Young, with a host of ideas and theories and suspicions crowding his mind, wanted to be alone, now.

"It's fine of you to act this way, Jim," he said. "I'm not going to forget it. And don't you worry. I'm going to be here for. . . . for quite a while, perhaps. Who knows what'll develop? About the best thing that you could have done for your own good was to tell someone just what you've told me tonight."

"You won't whisper it?"

"Not to a soul!"

Hinkle drew a breath of relief.

"Well, I'll be gone, then. I. . . . I'll see you again. And about Elsie. . . . God, Young, you'll never know!"

CHAPTER VIII

Now as Kerry Young walked on alone through the fine rain, that mental snarl which Jim Hinkle's confession had occasioned straightened out into this simple fact:

If Jim had not a lawyer-proof alibi to absolve him from suspicion in the Downer matter, then the whereabouts of Tod West on that fateful night were also open to speculation.

Hinkle was no killer. Despite the man's misgivings of self, Kerry was convinced that, drunk or sober, he would will no serious harm to even his worst enemy.

And last night, Ezra had said, the first piece of money from the Downer lot had made its appearance; had made its appearance in a poker game in which Tod West sat cheating.

He stood still, digesting these simple but perhaps astounding implications.

If West had not played cribbage with Hinkle, he might have been anywhere that November evening. If West were in possession of the money for which Cash Downer had been murdered, that would be a fact to arouse the official interest of a coroner's clerk, for certain.

And, added to these, was this item; that Tod West had been going armed for no one knew how long.

He walked on after that motionless interval, recalling things that Ezra had said last night. The old physician had the bullet which had slain Nan's father. A thirty-eight, he had said. . . . a thirty-eight. And last night he had held West's automatic in his own hand, had ejected the loads from it. He had given no heed to the size but, thinking back, the cartridges seemed to be no larger, at least, than thirty-eights.

Slow, yes, West's suspicions of Ezra's activity must not be aroused. And another thing; it was as important to locate that money, were it still in the country, as it was to pin the guilt of murder on the individual who had taken Cash Downer's life.

If he could determine the caliber of that pistol, for instance; if he could get possession of it and send it and the bullet to a crime-detection laboratory where ballistic experts could determine whether or not it was the weapon which had done murder. . . . That, he knew, would not be conclusive evidence. But it would perhaps tell him whether or not his hatred for West had been an unwarranted influence in rousing all these suspicions.

An idea occurred to him.

Leaving Tip to guard camp—he set off retracing the way he had just come.

But even before he was crossing the trestle his rage began to ebb. More was at stake than his personal feelings, he told himself. This man West was no child. Perhaps he was a murderer and a thief; if so, to recover what he had stolen, to bring him to answer for the greatest of crimes, would necessitate slow and careful movements.

Boats and canoes were beached on a shelf of gravel below the Landing. Kerry made his way there and stood listening. The buildings of the Little town were dark, now.

Above, loomed the small depot;

across the way from it was West's house. West might be there now, but no lights shined in the windows. . . . He would wait.

It was not long before his ears detected the sound of a cautiously wielded paddle, and he stooped behind some bushes for complete concealment. A prow grated; a foot splashed in water; a man grunted as he lifted a canoe. Young could see, but remain unseen. He saw that large bulk of a man deposit the canoe carefully, bottom up, then turn abruptly and make his way up the bank.

Kerry did not follow at once. And when he did slip noiselessly to the depot and around the corner he was rewarded by a glow of lights in windows across the way.

He crossed the street, melting into the shadows about the house, taking up a position at one corner where he could peer through a window.

Tod West was standing there, putting light wood into the fireplace. That done, he crossed the room to a cupboard, took from it a whisky-bottle and drank deeply.

Now He Could See West Plainly.

He stood for a moment close to the fire and then began undressing. His shirt came off first. As he turned, Kerry could see the pistol holster strapped to his side. Off came the paces and then the breeches and the man stood in his underclothes, drinking again from the bottle. He drank deeply. . . . too deeply, Kerry remarked to himself, for a man with a past to keep hidden.

The firelight was not so brilliant now. The birch wood evidently was dozy. A great bank of dense white smoke sucked into the throat of the chimney.

But the master of the house was either satisfied with the fire or else considered that he had more important things to do. He took the bottle from the mantel, and shaking his head as though muttering to himself, made his way slowly up the stairs.

Kerry slipped along the end of the house and reached the rear just as a shaft of light shot out into the spruce thicket there. The light came from a dormer window set in the gently pitched roof. Stepping away from the wall, Kerry could see West's head and shoulders behind the panes.

The man raised the bottle to his lips for a fourth time and then, evidently placing it on a table, unbuckled the strap of his shoulder holster and put it down.

Alone in the darkness, Kerry let one eyelid droop and cocked his head. That pistol might be a most important item in his own official life. But how to get possession without having West know where it had gone?

A clump of small birches grew close to the rear wall of the house, their trunks almost touching the low eaves. Hand over hand, he went up the saplings and hitched himself to the wet shingles, stretching out on his belly.

Now he could see West plainly. The man was sitting in a chair, the whisky bottle in his hands, and as Kerry gazed at him he began shaking his head from side to side as though in sorry and solitary debate. The pistol, Kerry saw, was hung in its holster over the back of a chair.

The wind sent heavy smoke from the chimney rolling down across the man prone on the roof.

West drank once more, and whisky trickled over his chin. His movements, replacing the bottle on the small table, were uncertain. He rose and groped for the hanging light-bulb, hit it, set it swinging, captured it and then fumbled for the button.

Night shut down suddenly and bed-springs creaked as a heavy body fell upon them.

Kerry was within feet of that weapon. And he had a plan to get hold of it.

He rose from his position on the shingles and began making his way along the roof, cautiously. After he had passed the window he went more rapidly and as he gained the ridge he stood erect.

The chimney belched great volumes of smoke. Off came Young's jacket, now; over the flue opening it went, and he crouched against the masonry, waiting.

Down in the maw of the fireplace, feeble flames died from orange to blue and then expired in the rolling smoke which, cut off from escape above, flowed out and filled the living room. It drifted up the stairway and into the upper hall, growing thick and thicker as the punky birch smoldered. Along the hallway it rolled, and into the room where a man lay, breathing heavily, still muttering to himself.

Maybe Peace, After All Building in a Big Way A Level-Headed King One Strike Method

The real war news from Europe—it sounds like peace news—is that England has refused France's request for immediate assistance in forcing Germany's armies from the Rhineland. England even hints that France may be partly to blame.

Arthur Brisbane are not inclined, in the language of the day, to "stick their necks out."

The United States is doing and spending in a big way. The Public Works administration says more than $1,000,000,000 worth of projects have been completed, with $2,200,000,000 of other work still under construction. Twelve hundred millions have been spent for materials, all involving labor; $629,000,000 for wage payrolls, by PWA. Organized labor presents a building program of $500,000,000 to occupy the idle building trades.

If money holds out, and the inflation bonds keep their value, this will be remembered as the building age.

A level-headed young man is the new English king. After seeing the new giant Cunarder named for his mother, walking seven miles up and down in it, he visited the slums of Glasgow, called the worst and "reddest" in England. Some ultra "left wing" city councilors refused to be presented to him. "That's perfectly all right," said the king. "Tell them I'll come and have tea with them instead." This he did. Two thousand ship workers cheered and called him "Good Old Teddy."

The king, who visited individual tenements, knocking at the doors, patting babies on the head, keeps up with the times. No English king did that before.

There are different ways of handling strikes, depending on public officials. At Akron, Ohio, a strike of milk drivers disturbs consuming families and producing farmers.

Herman E. Werner, public prosecutor, says coldly: "Anyone who interferes with milk deliveries will face guns, and the order will be 'Shoot to kill!'"

Acron has 16,000 men out of work; too many, at one time, for that sized place, and the city is tired of it.

How many millions would be killed, gassed, bombed, ripped to pieces by shrapnel and machine-gun fire before Hitler or the nation back of him could be persuaded that he is not a reincarnation of Frederick the Great, or Napoleon?

This time a murderous war would be deliberate. No grand duke heir to an imperial throne has been murdered to supply the spark.

The Department of Commerce cannot explain the Arkansas air crash, on January 14, that killed 17. It says some passenger "may have incapacitated the pilot or interfered with controls."

The local sheriff says somebody inside the plane fired a kind of pistol. Bullet marks were found.

Let air passengers before embarking pass before the electrical device that reveals instantly a pistol or any other metal object. No decent passenger would object. Guns and knives might well be "parked" on entering a plane.

Japan is the question mark in the war situation, but just Japan would not deliberately antagonize all her customers and friends in western Europe by striking at Russia, in a war interesting to all of them.

It is probable that Japan this time, as in the last war, would send "observers," thoughtful and silent, to watch the white races cutting each others' throats.

Mrs. Akeley, who used to help her husband hunt lions and gorillas before he died, has been to Africa on her own account and reports that in south East Africa natives cling to their old ways and methods; nothing will change them.

The chief who is sick wants a witch doctor to come, howl, dance and tell him that he has been bewitched into swallowing a small crocodile, which is biting his insides.

Next summer, Chicago entomologists will watch 50,000,000 mosquitoes, after they have been dyed red, green, yellow, blue and brown, and learn how far mosquitoes can fly.

The treasury finds that in the first eight months of this fiscal year it has accumulated a deficit of $2,410,000,000. The country took in $2,348,000,000 and spent $4,758,000,000. In prosperous times, the country's total income is $90,000,000,000; but when will those "times" come back?

S. S. LESSON

By Rev. Cecil G. Goff, Pastor First Baptist Church

JESUS TEACHES TRUE VALUES

Lesson text, Luke 12:22-31. Golden text, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and His righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you." Matt. 6:33.

Dr. John L. Hill gives the following outline of the twelfth chapter of the Gospel of Luke:

vv. 1-5 Wholesale advice about hypocrisy, fear and speech.

vv. 16-34 Values concerning the chaff, fool, ravens and lilies, and placing first things first.

vv. 35-40 Lessons in preparedness for servants concerning equipment, dressings, and watchfulness.

vv. 41-48 Stewardship, faithfulness, and watchfulness.

vv. 49-50 Serious reflections, divider men, short-sighted discerners, wise film of SARDIS.

vv. 51-52 Suggestive emptiness of materialism, folly of anxiety, and eternal valuation.

The above is an excellent outline of the chapter. All but a very few lines in the entire chapter are words of the Master as He taught His disciples and followers concerning the value of values.

Jesus saw the need of teaching concerning the real value of the things of this world because He knew man nature. Jesus knew that the possession of property or things of this world upon which men might depend are the strongest things that separate men from God and from following the paths of living that God has marked out as the righteous paths of life.

When men begin feeling the exultation of possession of the world's goods as a usual thing they are lost to God and His service. There are thousands who, because they hold none of this world's goods in their grasp, have given their whole life and attention to its acquirement and have no time for God and the higher things of life.

As Jesus stands before His disciples with a multitude, likely numbering in the thousands, surrounding Him in the attempt to hear the new and marvelous teachings. Among many good things Jesus taught the first part of the chapter was the fact that the follower of Jesus need not fear Him who can destroy only the body. The one who feared is he who can destroy both body and soul. He then taught concerning the Holy Spirit, how that individual who speaks against the Son of Man may be forgiven, but not so the one who speaks against the Holy Spirit. He follows this by teaching that the follower of the Master who is mistreated may be assured, even though he may be before the authorities, will have the presence of the Holy Spirit to assist him.

Jesus then tells of the man with a wonderful crop. He had been prospected for several years. His barns were already full and he had no place to put his present crop. He counsels himself and comes to that ordinary conclusion to tear down his barns and build new and larger ones.

He is so satisfied with his progress that he very confidently assures himself that he need have no worry from that time on. He has enough of this world's good to guarantee his personal independence on an ordinary level. The only term God did think of that would adequately describe such a man was "fool." God gave him the answer.

This is what He based His following teaching concerning the values of this world on. Men spend their time worrying about how they are going to become independent of the world and circumstances. Why should they worry? After they have been faithful doing their duty toward God and doing for themselves, God will see that they have the things necessary for life. He did not say that men should be loafers and expect God to feed them with manna dropped from heaven, but he expects men to seek to do those things that will please God in his daily activities and God will see that he and his family are cared for.

Man can give his whole mind and attention to acquiring the position of money and property and have no time for God. Jesus says that the man who will spend some of his time serving God with only time, but not money and possessions, will be a better man than the man who spends his whole time acquiring the position of money and property and has no time for God. Jesus says that the man who will spend some of his time serving God with only time, but not money and possessions, will be a better man than the man who spends his whole time acquiring the position of money and property and has no time for God.

Text: "I say unto you, that likewise joy shall be in heaven over one sinner that repenteth."—Luke 15:7a.

THE VALUE OF A SOUL

Scientists tell us that the human body is composed of the following chemicals: iron, sugar, carbon, water, iodine, phosphorus, oxygen, nitrogen, hydrogen and lime, all of which in a two hundred pound body are worth only one dollar at market prices.

This leads us to ask: Did Jesus Christ, the true Son of God, come into this world visibly to redeem the bodies of people worth only one dollar or fifty cents? An animal's worth even less. But nowhere in the Bible do we read that Christ came to redeem animals. What, then, makes the difference? We know that animals do not possess immortal souls. People only are given the breath of life, an immortal soul which no human can destroy.

A human body, even if it would be worth one red cent at market prices would be worthless without a soul. Jesus came to save souls. They are valuable. One soul cannot be purchased with all of the gold and silver in the world. One cannot redeem the soul of his brother or sister. Only the crucified Christ can save. That was His mission in this world. Even the angels of the Lord rejoice over the soul of a converted person. Scripture tells us: "Joy shall be in heaven over one sinner that repenteth." Jesus wants all to be saved. He does not delight in eternal damnation of a wicked person. "For I have no pleasure in the death of him that dieth, saith the Lord God; wherefore turn yourselves, and live ye." Ezekiel 18:32.

The Lord wants all to be saved. He wants all to turn away from sinful ways and to repent. Christ brought salvation to all, but not all are saved. That is not the fault of Jesus. Those that do not accept Him as their personal Savior are not saved. "He that believeth not shall be damned." The souls and bodies of the unbelievers shall be tormented eternally in hell fire. On the other hand, the souls and bodies of believers in Christ shall be in the mansions of the heavenly Father. "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." Mark 16:16. There will be no opportunity for anyone after death to repent and believe in Jesus. Repent today. We know not when we shall leave this world. The spark of life can be snuffed out very quickly in an automobile accident, or even in an accident in one's home.

His Apology

At an agriculture dinner a son of the plow sat beside a woman of title, a friend of the squire, and while discussing turnips and potatoes, he upset a plate of tomato soup on his neighbor's dress. She kept down an impatient exclamation and merely remarked: "What a pity!"
The farm worker looked at the stains and said with a resigned sigh: "Ah, it don't matter. I don't like that stuff, anyway."—Birmingham Post.

Otherwise Nothing

Four-year-old Maurice was so quiet his mother became suspicious of his whereabouts. Finally she found him sitting on the floor, perfectly still, doing nothing.
"Maurice, what are you doing?" she asked.
Maurice flung her an impatient glance, and exclaimed:
"Can't you see? I'm only living!"

No Need to Hurry

A mother and her little daughter hurried into church, thinking they were late. The organist, however, was still playing the voluntary.
"It's all right, mummy," said the child, "it's only the signature tune."—Calendar.

The dear old lady smiled at the little girl who had been left in sole charge of the confectioner's shop.
"And don't you feel tempted to eat one of the cream buns, my dear?" she asked.
The little girl was quite shocked.
"Oh, dear, no!" she replied. "That would be stealing. I only lick them."

Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE?

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN.

He will tell you that before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate Bayer Aspirin among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this.

You can get Genuine Bayer Aspirin at any drug store— simply by asking for it by its full name, BAYER ASPIRIN. Make it a point to do this—and see that you get what you want.

Therefore the Demand Americans always want to see good oratory, yet they get little.

GAS-MAKING STOVE COOKS MEAL FOR 2c

Amazing New Invention of W. C. Coleman Brings All the Modern Conveniences of City Gas to Homes Beyond the Gas Mains

Economically-minded housewives will share the enthusiasm of W. C. Coleman, inventive genius, for his new gas-making stove which cooks a meal for 2c or less.

The new Coleman Range will do the family cooking at a cost below that of coal, wood or kerosene stoves, and do it quicker and better.

This remarkable new Coleman Safety Range Lights instantly just like gas. Makes its own gas from ordinary lead-free gasoline. Its patented, fuel-saving Band-A-Burners are easily regulated to cook or bake as desired for frying, boiling, baking or broiling.

Mr. Coleman uses Everdur Metal for the fuel tank, a big safety feature. Everdur metal will not rust or corrode.

In addition to providing every cooking advantage of the finest city gas range, Mr. Coleman's new Range adds beauty in the kitchen by distinctive styling and pleasing color effects in gleaming porcelain enamel finish.

Readers of this paper wishing full information about these wonderful Coleman Ranges will receive illustrated literature and a valuable Stove Check Chart by addressing a postcard to W. C. Coleman, Dept. WU-235, Wichita, Kansas—A-1.

Hitler Rearms Rhineland; Other Nations Protest

EUROPE'S dogs of war were growling ominously and tugging at their chains, but those chains, being forged in England, seemed likely to stand the strain. Reichsfuehrer Hitler brought on the new crisis by his abrupt and dramatic action in denouncing the Locarno treaty and remilitarizing the Rhineland. He first informed the ambassadors of the countries signatory to the pact as to what he intended, and then delivered a ringing speech in the hastily summoned reichstag, eloquently defending his action.

At the same time Hitler was sending into the formerly demilitarized strip along the Rhine some 25,000 troops of all arms. This he declared was a "symbolic" army, and in his public utterances he asserted that Germany was not thus making a warlike move and did not desire war, but was determined to defend herself. He upheld his unilateral abrogation of the Locarno treaty on the ground that France had already violated it by making a mutual assistance agreement with Russia, which pact is pending in the French senate. To show his desire for peace, he offered a plan which includes: A demilitarized strip of German, French and Belgian land; a 25-year non-aggression treaty among Germany, France and Belgium, with Great Britain and Italy as guarantors; inclusion of the Netherlands in the system of pacts; and air pact with the western powers; a non-aggression pact with Germany's eastern neighbors, including Lithuania; and return of Germany to the League of Nations after her equality is established and her sovereignty restored.

Reaction in the capitals of Europe was quick and in some cases almost violent. Premier Albert Sarraut of France appealed to the League of Nations, asking that sanctions against Germany be applied. He also called a meeting of the signatories to the Locarno pact. In a radio address he warned Hitler that France would not stand for his action, and asserted that the reichsfuehrer's new plan was not at all acceptable. Meanwhile there was intense military activity along the eastern frontier, and within a few hours the Maginot line, that wonderful system of border fortifications built since the World war, was completely manned.

Italy's position in this squabble was interesting. Called on by France to support the protest against Germany, Mussolini took full advantage of the situation to get all he could for his own cause. He promised to stand by France and uphold the Locarno pact if the league would slacken the sanctions that were imposed on Italy as a result of her Ethiopian adventure. Poland gave assurance that she would carry out faithfully her obligations under the Franco-Polish accord; and the nations of the little entente not only promised support but warned France that if she did not bring Germany to time they might be forced to abandon their alliance with France.

Now it devolved on Great Britain, real arbiter of peace or war, to define her stand. France demanded full support in return for the assurances she had given when trouble impended in the Mediterranean. The British statesmen refused to get excited over the affair and it was left to Capt. Anthony Eden, youthful foreign secretary, to set forth his government's position. After consultation with Prime Minister Baldwin and others of the cabinet, Eden appeared before the house of commons and declared that any attack on France or Belgium in violation of the Locarno treaty would force Great Britain to go to their assistance. He added, however, that he was thankful to say there was no reason to suppose "the present German action implies a threat of hostilities."

Eden said he had already protested to Ambassador Von Hoesch against the military re-occupation of the Rhineland, telling him the effect on British public opinion would be deplorable. "The abrogation of the Locarno pact and the occupation of the demilitarized zone," declared Eden, "have profoundly shaken confidence in any engagement in which Germany may in the future enter. It strikes a severe blow at the principle of the sanctity of treaties which underlies the whole structure of international relations."

Eden indicated Great Britain was willing to consider Reichsfuehrer Hitler's proposals for new peace covenants. Belgium joined France in the appeal to the League of Nations, and a session of the league council was called for March 13.

Senators in Washington who expressed any opinion were unanimous in saying that the United States must be kept out of any European war, regardless of developments.

Power Plans of TVA Blocked by Court

PLANS to furnish TVA power to the city of Knoxville, Tenn., under a plan to be financed with PWA funds were blocked by a temporary restraining order issued by the District of Columbia Supreme court.

The order was granted on the petition of the Tennessee Public Service company which contended its $4,000,000 investment in Knoxville would be rendered practically worthless, if the government brought cheaper power into the city.

Also in the District Supreme court, 65 producers of soft coal attacked the Guffey coal control act as unconstitutional in its entirety on the ground that it invades the rights of the states and deprives producers of their property without due process of law.

Seizure of Telegrams to Be Investigated

THE senate adopted a resolution introduced by Senator Borah requiring the federal communications commission to make a full report on its "alleged seizures" of private telegrams for Senator Black's committee on lobbying.

Senator Stelwer of Oregon attacked the doings and methods of the Black committee, contending the rights of citizens were being infringed. Mr. Black made a heated defense.

Move Toward Peace in Italo-Ethiopian War

THROUGH its committee of thirteen the League of Nations approved to Benito Mussolini and Emperor Haile Selassie to consent to immediate negotiations for an end to hostilities and a definite re-establishment of Italo-Ethiopian peace. Though consideration of the proposal by his cabinet council was delayed a few days, Mussolini accepted the plan in principle as a basis for conference. It was made plain that Italy would not take the initiative and would retain occupied territory.

Haile Selassie accepted the proposal without reservation. In recent days his armies in the northern sector have been routed in big battles and have lost many thousands of men, and the Italians have penetrated far toward the interior of the country; and in the South the invaders were preparing for a rapid advance.

Back of the league's appeal was the standing threat of extension of sanctions to include an embargo on oil. This suddenly brought about a situation rather disconcerting for the league. Dr. Giuseppe Motta, Swiss foreign minister, gave a warning that if the oil embargo was applied his country might feel it necessary to leave the league in order to preserve its neutrality if the consequent threatened war in Europe resulted. Motta pointed out that if Italy quit the league and hostilities ensued, Switzerland, through her membership in the league, would appear in Italian eyes as a party to a hostile coalition.

Koki Hirota Forms New Cabinet for Japan

KOKIHIROTA, former foreign minister, formed a new ministry for Japan and submitted the names to the emperor. He, besides being premier, takes the foreign minister's portfolio. Lieut. Gen. Count Juichi Tarauchi is put in as minister of war and Admiral Osami Nagano as minister of navy. Military leaders insisted that Hirota "show a proper recognition of the gravity of the times and the necessity for renovation of Japanese foreign policy," and to this demand he yielded somewhat.

Hirota issued a statement saying that "the present empire situation requires independent and positive readjustment of our foreign relations in order to liquidate this emergency."

Hachiro Arita, new Japanese ambassador to China, told the press in Shanghai that "it is fundamental that China recognizes Manchukuo and that the other North China questions should be settled on the spot."

"There has been no change in Japanese policy in China as a result of the recent Tokyo incident," he declared. "Japan will carry out the three principles of Koki Hirota, former Japanese foreign minister, requiring that China eliminate anti-Japanism, co-operate economically with Japan and Manchukuo and co-operate in the elimination of communism within China and along the borders."

President Closes Norris Dam Sluice Gates

ON the third anniversary of his inauguration President Roosevelt pushed an electric key in the White House which set in motion machinery that closed the sluice gates of the Norris dam in the Tennessee Valley project. This signaled the completion of that part of the vast work on the Clinch river.

Free Rein for Al Smith in Party Convention

JAMES J. FARLEY, chairman of the Democratic national committee, let it be known that the party chieftains would make no effort to keep Al Smith out of the national convention in Philadelphia if he is elected a delegate and presents proper credentials. And once he is seated, there will be no attempt to keep him from speaking his mind. Administration leaders, it was represented, believe Mr. Roosevelt will dominate the convention so completely that no attack by Smith or anyone else on the New Deal can have any considerable effect.

Heroic Army Aviator Killed in Crash

LIEUT. ROBERT K. GIOVANNOLI of Lexington, Ky., hero of the spectacular bombing plane crash during army tests at Dayton, Ohio, last October, was killed in a crackup of his army plane at Logan field, Baltimore. Giovannoli's single seated pursuit plane lost its right wing coming out of a glide and hurtled down in a crazy spin from an altitude of less than 500 feet. It rolled over after hitting the landing field and was demolished.

House Committee Busy With New Tax Program

CONGRESSMAN SAM B. HILL of Washington and his subcommittee of the house ways and means committee took up the heavy task of determining how the new revenue of $1,137,000,000 called for by President Roosevelt should be raised. Treasury officials recommended that an average tax of 33 1/2 per cent should be levied on undivided corporation profits and a tax of 90 per cent on all refunded or unpaid AAA processing taxes. In this the fiscal experts followed the suggestions of Mr. Roosevelt. They told the subcommittee that the proposed corporation surplus tax would yield the government $620,000,000 annually. The president has estimated that this amount will be needed to finance the new farm program and the soldier bonus.

Rep. S. B. Hill

The so-called "windfall" tax on processors who successfully challenged the AAA in the courts, it was believed, would yield another $200,000,000. This will be used to reimburse the treasury for losses suffered as a result of the Supreme court's invalidation of AAA. There remains an additional $317,000,000 which it is proposed to raise through excise taxes on a wide range of farm processors.

Chairman Hill said the experts and the members of the subcommittee were agreed that the tax on undivided surplus should not apply to banks and life insurance companies. There was wide divergence of opinion concerning this tax among leaders in congress. Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, Democrat, for instance, declared himself against it as an unnecessary additional burden on business and indicated he would support, instead, a plan to tax the income from federal securities now exempt. Senator Borah, Republican, also Republican, denounced it as "confiscatory." Senator King of Utah, Democrat, and Representative Knutson of Minnesota, Republican, were moved by the program to demand immediate cutting down of federal expenditures, and in this Mr. Borah concurred. Speaker Joseph W. Byrns and Majority Leader W. B. Bankhead professed to see no difficulties in the way of the proposed measure.

Chain Store Practices Hit by Two Bills

SENATOR BORAH and Senator Van Nuys of Indiana, the latter a Democrat, introduced a bill directed against certain practices of the chain stores. The measure would make it unlawful for any person engaged in commerce to grant any discount, rebate, allowance or advertising service charge to a purchaser over that available to the purchasers' competitors. It also would prohibit sales "at prices lower than those exacted by said person elsewhere in the United States for the purpose of destroying competition or eliminating a competitor."

Co-operative associations would be exempted from provisions of the measure. Violators would be subject to a $5,000 fine and a one-year jail sentence. The so-called Robinson-Patman anti-monopoly bill, also aimed at chain stores, will be passed by the senate before very long, according to a promise made by Senator Robinson to a mass meeting of 1,500 independent merchants who went to Washington to lobby for the measure.

Boom for Landon Is Progressing Well

GOVERNOR LANDON'S boom for the Republican Presidential nomination is progressing in a way that must be pleasing to his supporters. Kansas Republicans in a state convention pledged him the state's 18 delegates to the Cleveland convention, declaring him to be "the best-fitted candidate." That Kansas should support its governor is natural and expected, but he also is garnering a good many delegates elsewhere, and endorsement in some states where the delegates are uninstructed.

Slip and Pantie Set Made in Quick Time

PATTERN 9662

Slip comfort is written between the very seams of this slip and pantie set that's dedicated to smooth fitting and easy making. They're within everyone's reach, and their low cost makes them an out-and-out economy. The slip does a nice job of molding the figure, with its fitted bodice and all-in-one straps that can't slip. The neckline's cut low enough in back to allow it to be worn with your lowest cut frocks. And could anything be smoother than waistband panties which lie flat? A non-shrinkable rayon or crepe is nice.

Pattern 9662 may be ordered only in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3 1/2

SENIORS DISCUSS TYPES OF INVITATIONS

Monday a committee was appointed to select the invitations for the seniors. Although no certain one was selected, the idea of the class concerning an invitation was revealed and that type is trying to be located.

"YOU WOULDN'T FOOL ME"

Lately the seniors are saying "You wouldn't fool me." for that is the name of the annual senior play presented by a cast taken from the members of the senior class. In this play they really "wouldn't fool you." It is going to be good—a real comedy from start to finish. You will laugh your sides sore over the horrible tangle the characters get caught in. You will scream with laughter when you see Larry Cunningham asking to marry Gwynne Carpenter when he thinks he's getting Duella Mann. James Emmett Cooke is the "goat" of the play, but he stutters so much he can't do anything about it.

Can you imagine Ora Sharp as one of those soft negro maids; Marie Landers as a grandmother; Larry Cunningham playing the part of a sophisticated actor; Gwynne Carpenter and James Emmett Cooke secretly married; Charles Finley as Frances Landers' husband and Duella Mann's father; how in the world Frank Kennedy could be a champion "fixer," and Harold Rickard could be anybody but Harold—much less Gwynne's father? If you want to see how these situations work out, remember to see the senior play on May 3. All it is in it.

Guess who? The busiest man in M. H. S. likes nothing better than to tease somebody; good on making speeches; likes good jokes and always wears a smile.

RICE WINS FIRST ON CALVES

Many McLean boys took fat calves to Amarillo last week. Over 200 calves, besides sheep and hogs, were shown. James Lee Rice won first prize in group of five. His group was highly complimented.

In the junior class, Billy Wilson won third place. He was the first boy to take his calves to the show.

Every boy sold his calf at auction for a good price. Boys from McLean who took calves were: Billy Wilson, James Lee Rice, Paris Hess, Maurice Wilkins, James Corbin and Wilbur Lee Wilson.

McLEAN STUDENTS RECEIVE STATE-WIDE ATTENTION

You remember that on March 2 all Texas patriots observed the 100th birthday of the grandest and largest state in the Union. The day was not declared a holiday, but seemingly every true Texan's heart was warmed with feeling of accomplishment and pride as the centennial day dawned and as the day progressed there was still nothing done about celebrating that memorable day in our school. Reluctant to let the time pass without doing anything to celebrate, eight of our senior boys took part of the afternoon off to observe the birthday of our fair state. Since their parents would give no written excuse for their absence from school, the boys resolved to ask the governor if it were wrong to leave off their studies on so important a date as the centennial day. The governor answered them thus, in a written letter to one of the boys: "My dear friend: I have the letter of March 4, signed by you and your schoolmates, and have signed and am returning the excuse which was enclosed for eight of you boys taking the afternoon of March second off to celebrate Texas Independence Day.

"With every good wish, I am, Sincerely yours, James V. Allred, Gov. of Texas."

SENIORS MAKING PLANS FOR CARLSBAD TRIP

Monday afternoon the senior room mothers met at the high school and discussed preparations for the trip to Carlsbad Caverns which the seniors are expecting to make April 24.

JUNIOR REPORT

The junior class met one day last week and selected their class rings for next year. The rings are to be delivered to the school the first of September. Very beautiful rings with the school monogram on them were selected.

LIBRARY BOOK LOST

Occasionally the library loses books, but we've lost one now that we need and one that we prize. Will you bring it to the library if you see it anywhere. The book is one of the J. Frank Doble collection recently purchased, and is entitled "Texas and Southwestern Lore." —Librarians.

GIRL SCOUTS REORGANIZE

The girl scouts met last Thursday and reorganized. The new lieutenant is Miss Elizabeth Kennedy, and the patrol leader is Shirley Johnston. They have decided to meet only twice a month, the second and fourth Friday nights. The meetings will be held in the homes of the members of the club.

The new officers are: Shirley Johnston, patrol leader; Helen Sharp, second patrol leader; Vada Appling, secretary-treasurer; Leta Mae Phillips, reporter.

The girl scouts are starting their work differently this time and hope to be more successful.

HOME ECONOMICS REPORT

A large number of attractive and very well made play suits for pre-school children have just been completed by the second year students. Commercial patterns were available for these garments, but most of the girls did not accept the pattern as it was pictured, but worked out some changes in the style of the pattern, giving the garments individuality and originality. The beauty of these garments is found in their simplicity, the color schemes and the decorative stitches that were used. This group of garments range in price from 35c to 96c. A display of the suits and dresses will be found in Stubblefield's store. We would be very glad to have you see the work.

The first year students have been serving breakfasts this week. The classes were divided into groups and each group had the responsibility of planning, preparing and serving a breakfast to a group of their class members. In this way the girls are learning to plan balanced meals at a very low cost, are acquiring skill in preparing and serving breakfast, are learning to solve problems of table service, manners, and etiquette, and are learning to understand and accept responsibility. The breakfast unit will be completed this week, and a new unit of work on luncheons will begin next week.

The Home Economics Club and the other home economics girls met Tuesday afternoon for a short hike and picnic. After the picnic, a club meeting was held. The club decided they would like to send representatives to the State Homemaking Rally at San Angelo in April. Plans were discussed and made for ways of making money to be used in defraying part of the expenses of the trip.

BAND REPORT

Efforts are being made to get new uniforms for the school band. The band is to go to Amarillo on April 30, May 1 and 2, for the annual contest.

Every bandsman who intends to go to Amarillo is expected to be regular and prompt at the rehearsals at 8:10 each morning.

"Oh, doctor," cried a wild-eyed man, "I'm dreadfully afflicted. hTe ghosts of my departed relatives come and perch on the tops of the fence-posts all around my garden when dusk is falling. I can look out into the gloaming any evening and see a couple of dozen spooks, sitting on top of the posts, waiting, waiting, waiting! What shall I do?" "Sharpen the tops of the posts."

The mistress of the house was going out of her way to find extra work for the maid. In the end the poor girl began to get fed up.

Just then the mistress entered the kitchen. "Mary," she said, "have you finished polishing the brass ornaments?" "Yes, madam," replied Mary, all but your rings and bracelets."

The policeman raised his hand and the woman motorist stopped with a jerk. "As soon as I saw you, miss," the policeman said, "I said to myself, 'Forty-five at least!'"

"Oh, no, officer!" remonstrated the woman angrily. "It's this hat that makes me look so old."

Floyd Gibbons ADVENTURERS' CLUB

Hello, Everybody!

"Maniac's Trap"
By FLOYD GIBBONS
Famous Headline Hunter.

HERE'S one from a fellow reporter—and by golly, after reading his yarn I am almost convinced that maybe there is a thrill or two in the newspaper business after all.

Charles K. Ulrich of Long Island City is the lad, and it happened on Sunday, January 26, 1913, while Charley was working as a reporter for the New York Herald. He was sent by his city editor to interview a man who had called up on the telephone and promised the paper the biggest "beat" since the Spanish-American war. Well, Charley doesn't know about its being the biggest beat, but it certainly landed him in the biggest mess of trouble since that war the fellow mentioned.

The address they had given Charley was in the sixth story of an apartment building in One Hundred and Twenty-second street. On the way up, he noticed that the negro elevator boy turned three shades whiter when he told him whom he had come to see. The boy said: "I hopes you has a good time with that bird." But Charley attached no particular significance to his cryptic remark.

As he approached the door, Charley heard angry shouts and oaths within, accompanied by the screeching of a parrot. During a lull in the shouting he heard sounds such as a man might make by beating a bird-cage with an iron rod. The sounds mystified Charley, but they didn't alarm him. If they had, he might have saved himself a lot of trouble.

Reporter Invited to Enter Room.

Charley rang the bell. A tall, stout man opened it. He was in his shirt sleeves and on his left shoulder was perched a parrot. He had a heavy stick in his right hand. His face was swollen, and froth flecked his pale lips. Charley thought he was drunk, but he explained his errand.

The Man Invited Charley to Enter.

The man invited Charley to enter and, grasping his arm in a vise-like grip, pulled him into the hall. He thrust him into a small parlor, locked the door and put the key in his pocket. Then, for the first time, Charley began to be afraid. This man was a lunatic—a big, strong, athletically built lunatic. And except for a small pocket knife, Charley was unarmed.

The man thrust the parrot into its cage and fell to beating the cage with a stick. The parrot shrieked at each blow. "You'll force me to kill you yet, Emma Goldman," the man shouted, and spat viciously at the bird.

There was no doubt in Charley's mind now. The man was a raving lunatic. He got up to go, but the man turned on him snarling: "Sit down, d—n you. I'll attend to you as soon as I've finished with Emma Goldman." Then he fell to beating the parrot's cage again, and Charley sat down. He had just remembered that the key to the room was in the lunatic's pocket.

Maniac Threatens Him With Death.

When the man had finished beating the cage he turned again to Charley. "I'm an electrical expert," he said suddenly. "I'm going to charge you with electricity to the gills."

Charley looked around wildly for some means of escape. There was none. "And what if I refuse to be charged with electricity?" he asked. The big man smiled coldly. Facing him menacingly he whispered: "Refuse and you die." You have your choice. The operation may kill you, but surely you won't mind sacrificing your life for science, will you?

A queer story of De Maupassant's flashed into Charley's mind—the story of a man who outwitted a homicidal maniac by humoring him. No, he said, he'd be glad to sacrifice his life for science. And then he feigned sudden illness and legged against a door. "I'm sick," he said. "You don't want a sick man for this operation, do you?"

"Certainly not," the man growled. "A perfectly sound man is needed." "Then," said Charley, "I think I'd better take a walk around the block and get some air. I'll be back in a few minutes and we can go on with the operation."

Wild Man Falls for Story.

"I think you're right," the man assented heartily. "But it's understood you must come back in five minutes. Do you agree?"

Charley nodded. The big man unlocked the door and followed him through the hall. "Remember," he shouted as Charley passed out of the door, "you're to be back in five minutes." He slammed the door, and Charley went down the stairs, three steps at a time.

Outside, he found a policeman and told him his story. Six husky cops were sent to the house with orders to arrest the madman. He fought them fiercely for ten minutes before he was subdued and placed in an observation ward at Bellevue hospital.

"Later," says Charley, "they removed him to Matteawan hospital for the insane, at Beacon, N. Y., and placed him in a strait-jacket. He died there some months afterward. In the room in which he proposed to conduct experiments on me they found a revolver and two large knives, sharp as razors. That he aimed to carve me into bits, once he had me under his control, was as certain as two and two make four. Thanks to De Maupassant's story, I escaped that fate."

Color Blindness Traced

to Variety of Causes

Color blindness, also called achromatopsia and daltonism, is the inability to distinguish certain colors or shades of color. Total color blindness, in which there is no perception of colors as such, but only of gradations of light and shade, is rare. The most common form, states a writer in the Indianapolis News, is that in which some bright colors, different in different cases, are confused with each other, though other colors are correctly perceived. Color blindness may be congenital (i. e., present from birth) or acquired. It is said frequently to be transmitted from grandfather to grandson, and is more common in males than in females. In the proportion of over three to one.

Acquired color blindness may be caused by a diseased brain or by a diseased or wounded optic nerve; but it appears to be unconnected with defects of sight and with retinal diseases generally. It is sometimes temporary, but even in such cases is usually recurrent in increasing acute degrees. The average eye distinguishes six spectral colors; an acute sense of color distinguishes seven. Color blindness, affecting one eye or both, has no known remedy. It must, however, be distinguished from mere ignorance of color names. A case of color blindness was mentioned in 1281, and others were noted in 1777 and 1779; but the most famous early instance—from which the defect was known as daltonism—was that of the English chemist, John Dalton, who in 1794, described his own case. Investigations during the Nineteenth century established the importance of color blindness, especially in the merchant marine and railway service; and tests were devised for applicants for such positions.

People Who Are Old!

Some people at eighty are actually younger, physically, than others at sixty or even forty. People who are really old are those whose bodies are no longer so strong or active as they were people who with their years have become worn, infirm, disabled or staid. For people in middle life or later, who are merely not so active as they were, the answer may be different.

what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

Corned Beef and Plagiarism

HOLLYWOOD, CALIF. — The luncheon of our Writers' Club, Inc., (Red Inc.) is a weekly function, with corned beef and cabbage and plagiarism charges. This week we had with us the leading fiction writer of the Pacific slope—Mr. Dargerfeld, the local weather forecaster.

Another guest was William A. Brady, the grand old man of the American stage, with great tales of the ancient days, when, to qualify as a trouper, one had to be a pedestrian. Before they asked you whether you could act, they found out what kind of a walker you were. But how many of those sure-footed California beginners counted crosses as they trudged into enduring fame?

Belasco and Tom Wise and Frank Bacon and Holbrook Blinn and Dave Warfield and many another.

We also welcomed some new members. We're very exclusive. There are groups here that'll take in people who even failed to make the Book of the Month club. But to join up with us, you must have written something significant—insurance or promissory notes or booster slogans. We're angling now for a distinguished new figure in the field of literature. He does sky-writing, by the way.

New Deal's 3rd Birthday.

THIS being the third anniversary of the New Deal, I was just thinking that, whether or not it lived through the early part of next November, its folks could never reproach themselves that they'd failed to give their darling babykins the best nursing money could buy. Just then who should rush in but Michael Strogoff, the curler of the czar, shouting that the U. S. marines had just landed with a contradiction of the terrifically exciting announcement made only yesterday by the same fellow who took the message to Garcia that time—?

Hold on, I'm getting all twinstled. What I'm trying to say is that one day the word for a palpatating planet was that Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., was positively going to marry Lady Ashley, whereas but 24 hours before, he positively was not going to marry Lady Ashley. Then finally he did it.

Main Street Ambition

ONE hears San Francisco would lure more inhabitants in an effort to overtake Los Angeles. But why?

And why do Americans get drunk on population statistics? It's their head-liest tippie. Every time Uncle Sam looses his census figures, some towns go into mourning because they haven't grown any faster and other towns have public dancing in the streets because a swarm of new people have moved in to make traffic congested and living inconvenient and pleasant neighborhoods crowded.

Offhand, I think of but one city whose ruling citizens mainly are content with things as they are—the lovely and fascinating city of Charleston. Elsewhere we appear to share with the red ants the mad passion to take on addition red ants until the anthill overflows and all the old resident ants are lost in the shuffle.

Feminine Bank Rolls

WHY can't people mind their own business? A merchandising expert, who probably was just sitting around the house during the cold spell with nothing to do except feed the stove, made an exhaustive inquiry to find out what American women carry in their handbags. He now reports that, in addition to gobs of other things including lipstick, cigarettes, hairpins and recipes, the average woman's pocketbook contains $6.74 in cash.

It was perhaps all right for the gentleman to satisfy his morbid curiosity. Where he erred was in making his discovery public. Just consider how busy the boys in congress will be, thinking up new taxes, when they hear about that much money still being in circulation.

Politicians Making Claims

IN CONGRESS these mad March days are being much used for plain and fancy claiming.

The Republicans claim the Democratic party is to blame for the recent bad times and deserves no credit for the better times now prevalent, the Republican theory being that the good fairies must have brought 'em.

The Democrats claim that such bad times as we've had since they moved in were really inherited from the final stretch of the previous administration, which, as they seem to recall, was one of the best times for bad times anybody ever saw.

If there are any little odds and ends of unclassified times floating around, both parties are willing for Senator La Follette to claim them for his very own.

Table mountain, near Cape Town, in Africa, is sometimes suddenly enveloped by a famous cloud phenomenon called the Tablecloth, very dangerous to climbers.

Make These Spring Accessories Colorful

PATTERN 1132

Just as soon as you complete one of this smart pair you can begin using it, for either is right for now, or Spring. Both are very easy to do, for the greater part is just plain crochet, with a simple shell stitch for contrast in hat brim, and on the purse. The rayon and wool mixture so popular now is an attractive yarn to use.

Pattern 1132 comes to you with directions for making the set; an illus-

Lady "Much Relieved" After Taking Cardui

Although they may be very active and apparently in good health, many women, at certain times, will do well to take Cardui. Mrs. F. T. Foster, of Greensburg, Ky., writes that she has "derived great benefit" from Cardui. "Before taking Cardui, I was weak and extremely nervous, and suffered from sleeplessness. This made me tired and worn in daytime. My back ached continually. Being an active woman, I did not want to continue in this condition. Having heard a great deal about Cardui, I found, after just a few bottles, I was much relieved. I continued taking Cardui and was so much helped.

Of course, if Cardui does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

Firestone PUTS THE FARM ON RUBBER

FIRESTONE GROUND GRIP TIRES

SPEED UP FARM WORK—MAKE IT EASIER—MORE PROFITABLE

HARVEY S. FIRESTONE pioneered and Firestone engineers developed a pneumatic tire which is the greatest contribution in recent years to more efficient and economical farming. Farmers using Ground Grip Tires on their tractors are saving more than 25% in time and fuel.

On all farm implements the Ground Grip Tire has proved of practical time-saving and money-saving value. Wagons, combines, mowers, sprayers, grain drills require up to 50% less draft to pull them. Hauling is speeded up. Plowing is done with more uniform depth. Vines and roots are not injured or cut, allowing closer planting and greater yield. Ground Grip Tires do not pack the soil and give greater protection to equipment.

It requires only a minimum investment to put all your equipment on Ground Grip Tires. With Firestone's new demountable rim and cut-down method of applying the rim to the original implement wheels, one set of tires will fit several implements. Tires can be changed quickly from one implement to another—you need only two or three sets for practically all your implements.

Firestone patented Gum-Dipped cords, with two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords under the tread, holding the patented super-traction tread to the cord body, made this great tire possible.

See the nearby Firestone Tire Dealer, Implement Dealer or Firestone Auto Supply and Service Store today—and in placing your order for new equipment, be sure to specify Firestone Ground Grip Tires on your new tractor or farm implement.

Listen to the Voice of Firestone featuring Richard Crooks or Nelson Eddy—with Margaret Speaks, Monday evenings over Nationwide N. B. C.—WEAF Network

A Bit o' Humor

A tramp rang a doctor's door bell and asked the pretty woman who opened the door if she would be so kind as ask the doctor if he had a pair of old trousers he would kindly give away.

"I'm the doctor," said the smiling young woman, and the tramp nearly fainted.

Mrs. NuBride—I don't want any more flour like that you gave me last week.

Groceryman—What was the matter with it?

Mrs. NuBride—It was so tough my husband couldn't eat the biscuits I made from it.

Naomi—I can't see what in the world she wants to marry that man Brown for. He has a wooden leg, a glass eye, false teeth and wears a wig.

Jimmie—It must be the feminine instinct that makes them hanker after antiques.

Tommy—Daddy, where is Atoms? I can't find it in my geography.

Father—I don't think there is any such place, son.

Tommy—There must be, daddy. This paper says an explosion blew two men to Atoms.

"Mama," said little Mary Lou, "if there are any men up in heaven why is that we never see pictures of angels with whiskers?"

"Well," responded her mother, "I guess it's because most men get there only by a close shave."

Candidate—Can any of you recall a time in my life when I was afraid to call a spade a spade?

Voice—No, and neither can anyone remember when you weren't afraid to take one in your hands and use it.

Alf Alfey—How long has that hired hand worked for you?

Rube Barbe—About two days, I guess.

Alf—I thought he had been here more than a month.

Rube—He has.

Satan—Why were you sent down here?

Shade—I invented the alarm clock. Satan—Fine! Take this pitchfork. I've been needing a vacation but I couldn't find anyone mean enough to take my place.

"Is your husband gone, Mandy?" "No, sah, he ain't daid." "Then, why are you wearing black?" "Kase he done nagged me so much. Ah's gone into mournin' for mah fust husband."

Ma—It's time we thought of Grace getting married she's twenty-two years old.

Pa—Oh, let her wait until the right sort of man comes along.

Ma—Why wait? I didn't.

Mrs. Peck—We have been married twenty years today.

John—Yes, twenty years we've fought—

Mrs. Peck—What?

John—"Life's battle together."

"I called in a store to see what time it was. The clock was there but it had no hands. I said, 'Your clock is broke'."

"No," said he, "the times are so hard, I laid the hands off."

Mrs. Smith—That Jones boy is terribly dirty. I wonder why they do not ever give him a good scrubbing?

Smith—Probably scrubbing would not do. He needs sand-blasting.

Diner—I suppose you wouldn't refuse a tip?

Waiter—Oh, no, sir!

Diner—Well, if you have any Takem Oil stock, sell it at once. It's going to drop.

Pilsen—Does Pillsley's wife play on her mandolin as much as she did before she was married?

Gartside—No, she spends most of her time now picking on her husband.

"Learn any new songs this winter, Bill?"

"Yes, I learned a hotel song."

"Hotel song? How does it go?"

"Something like this: 'Hotel me pretty maiden.'"

"The motorist that hits me will certainly be sorry," said the dusty pedestrian.

"Why?" asked the companion.

"Because I am carrying a stick of dynamite in my pocket."

Toni—Does Mrs. Gabber talk much?

Bob—Does she? You ought to see how sunburned her tongue was when she came back from her vacation last year.

STAMPS AS A PASTIME

The hobby of collecting stamps should be done for pleasure and not from some vague idea of an investment. There is an investment angle to stamp collecting but such can only be accomplished after years of detailed study and will involve much more work than the returns will net. There is so much to learn before anyone can make a business in stamp collecting that only those of many years experience have been successful. Even then it chiefly depends upon a commission basis for services received, as is the case of a real estate or some similar business.

The general run of stamps the collector may find do not have any real value. Their value should be measured by the pleasure the collector gets in acquiring them. The beginner may be greatly pleased over a number of the common stamps—to him they are of real value. But the same stamps might not be worth the time required to wash them by a dealer. Stamp collecting to many collectors is a priceless hobby. It removes from their mind many of the things which upset them and they are able to pass away many happy hours with their stamps.

There are many kinds of stamp collectors and there is no reason why one should attempt to duplicate the stamps of another. In other words, the novice collector should only collect stamps to fit in with his regular life. It is sometimes discouraging for the beginner to see an enormous collection which belongs to someone who has spent years acquiring, but it should be remembered that a collector with a modest accumulation of stamps quite often receives more pleasure from his stamps than the other person does with a room full of rarities.—The Chaser.

SKIRTS AND PROSPERITY

Some people profess to see in the length of women's skirts one of the country's best economic barometers. When times get better and there is general prosperity, they say, skirts get shorter. But when times get tight, skirts get longer. Whether there is anything in the rise and fall of skirts to indicate the general economic well-being, the fact remains that in 1928 and early 1929 women's skirts were the shortest in history—about 18 to 19 inches from the floor. After the crash in the fall of 1929 skirts suddenly became long enough to sweep the floor and women began wearing somber colors. When conditions began to improve skirts began to get shorter. As recovery has continued to round the mythical corner, skirts have gotten still shorter. And now the fashion experts have decreed that the daytime spring skirt hemline should be within six inches of the 1928-1929 high mark, that is, 12 to 14 inches from the floor. Colors are plentiful and combinations are gayer, too.—Pathfinder.

Mr. N. Peck—I never spoke a cross word to my wife but once.

Thompson—Quite remarkable, that.

Mr. N. Peck—Not so very. See that scar?

"When we were first married, my wife was always singing, 'Oh How I Miss You Tonight!'"

"Doesn't she still sing it?"

"No. Her aim's improved."

Ink stains on wall paper can be removed with solution consisting of equal parts of hydrogen peroxide and ammonia.

Myra—What kind of a husband would you advise me to get?

Jessie—You get a single man and let the husbands alone.
