McLean's Teams Win First Places Quail and Amarillo

INVESTIGATE PRIVILEGED CASE

Cryer, of the McLean team, was reported the Pampa team dropped, and the coming Jericho gap celebration and Landers and community sales and invitation from the sales club to attend. The sales immediately followed.

Prof. C. J. Magee's P. F. A. teams won first places at the Quail and Amarillo fairs.

The poultry team composed of Wilson Shaw, Howard Burr, and Perry Masterson, made a total score of 931 at the Quail fair; and the dairy team composed of Maurice Wilkins, James Lee Rice and Wilbur Wilson, won first at Amarillo with a score of 653. The Tucumcari, N. M. team placed second with 649 points, and Panhandle third with 639.

Competition was keen at Amarillo, some 20 teams entering the contest, the largest number in the history of the fair contest. Maurice Wilkins was the high man in the contest.

The poultry team placed 5th at Amarillo. The dairy team judged at Quail, but their standing was not given.

The dairy team judged Holstein and Jersey cows, heifers and calves at Amarillo, several different classes being provided for the competing teams.

COMMUNITY SALES OPENED TUESDAY

The first of a series of community sales, arranged by Carl Hefner, got off to a flying start Tuesday afternoon, with the sales pavilion filled with buyers.

Col. I. S. Jameson opened the sales with a talk, later calling upon the News editor, President Witt Springer of the BCD, W. K. Wharton and Carl Hefner for talks.

A number of out-of-town buyers were present and bidding was brisk. These sales will be held each Tuesday afternoon and only a small commission is charged. The pavilion has been newly arranged for the convenience of the patrons and the big sales ring has plenty of comfortable seats facing the ring, for spectators.

MRS. GETTING ENTERTAINS

Mrs. Edward Gething entertained the Lefors Stitch and Chatter Club at her ranch home in the Webb community Tuesday evening. Embroidery and games were indulged in and a full course chicken dinner served.

Among those present were: Misses Ruth Darnell, Hazel Cooper, Myrtle Lilly, Sinclair Rice, Mildred Materson, Ariel Williams; Mesdames Sam Cleland, Jewel Gilbert and Elma Hagler, all of Lefors.

Guests from McLean included Mrs. S. W. Rice, Mrs. John B. Rice, Mrs. Alma Turman and Miss Texola Harlan.

Most of McLean is in Amarillo today (Thursday) for McLean Day at the Tri-state fair.

Prof. C. H. Leeds has the high school band in Amarillo, and a radio program with music and talks by McLean entertainers is part of the program.

Tigers Winners With 28-7 Score from Lakeview

The McLean Tigers won the first conference game of the season at Tiger Field last Friday evening, playing the heavier Lakeview eleven to a 28 to 7 score.

On account of the inclement weather, only some 300 persons saw the Tigers take the ball and advance on first downs to make the first score of the game. The Eagles evened the score in the second period, but the Tigers took charge in the third and ran up three extra scores. The last period was scoreless, with the odds in favor of the Tigers.

In a conversation with a fan, following the game, it was said: "The Tigers showed a marked improvement over their Pampa game. The powerful offensive machine of the Tigers made its first threat for the district championship. With Lasswell and Braxton making two touchdowns each from the halfback position; Bogan's powerful end runs always netting a first down, and accurate passing and receiving, the Tigers have a fair chance to be district champions again. When Bogan is able to take his thumb out of the steel cast, the Tigers will have a great triple-threat man."

"George Watson, quarterback, did a good job at his position. He scored every time he got within 20 yards of the goal line."

"The Tigers will be potent foes for the district title again if a few positions on the defense can be remedied."

BEAUTY OPERATORS MUST HAVE LICENSE

According to Mrs. McAdams, inspector for the state board of cosmetologists, who was in McLean last week, all beauty operators must have a state license. A shop license costs $10.00 per year and the operator's license $3.00. Operating without a license carries a fine of $100, a 90-day jail sentence, or both, and each day is a separate offense.

A drive against unlicensed operators is planned at an early date, states Mrs. McAdams.

CHERRIES BLOOM HERE

Mrs. J. W. Kibler has a cherry tree in bloom at her residence, that is reminiscent of spring. The tree was a mass of bloom last spring, but a late freeze destroyed the fruit. The tree has put out new leaves with the blossoms this fall.

Lilacs are also blooming at the Kibler home, and Rev. Cecil G. Goff, Baptist pastor, reports lilacs blooming at the parsonage. A red bud bush is in bloom at the News editor's farm.

Mrs. Kibler, who is a prominent member of the Garden Club, has a yard of dwarf coccumb that is attracting a lot of attention, the bronze foliage combined with the dark velvety red of the blossoms giving a very striking appearance to the yard.

SINGING CLASS TO MEET

According to President Fred Staggs of the McLean singing class, the regular monthly meeting will be held at the First Presbyterian Church next Sunday afternoon, beginning at 2:30 o'clock.

President Staggs says everyone interested in music has a cordial invitation to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Davis, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Paige of Lefors, visited Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Davis at Panhandle Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cleek and Van Brawley were in Panhandle last Friday to attend the ball game between Panhandle and Hereford.

O. G. Stokely visited his daughter, Mrs. W. P. McDonald, and family at Tulsa, Okla., last week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Gibson of Alanreed were in McLean the first of the week.

Albert Bruce, landscape architect, of Amarillo was in McLean Tuesday.

GENE HOWE (Old Trick) President of the Amarillo Tri-state Fair Association

FOOTBALL GAME CHANGED TO FRIDAY AFTERNOON

This week's grid game has been changed to Friday afternoon, when the Tigers will meet Mobeetie on the local field. The change was made so local fans could attend the Shamrock game in the evening.

The Mobeetie eleven promises a tight game, and the old time scores of 50 or 60 to nothing are probably a thing of the past. Coach Clinton Meek has only been at Mobeetie some four weeks, but his team is considered one of the best that school has ever had.

One of the strongest teams in the district beat Mobeetie 31-0 this season, with Mobeetie threatening to score several times.

According to statistics, Mobeetie has a much stronger team than Lakeview that gave the Tigers a battle last Friday night.

It is expected that Coach Meek will probably use short punt and Notre Dame formations with lots of lateral passes.

The game will be called promptly at 3 o'clock, and Coach Allen has the Tigers well primed for the fray.

Biggers of Lefors and Holston of Shamrock will be the officials.

SCOUTS TO ATTEND FAIR

The Boy Scout Troop No. 25 is to make a trip to the Tri-state fair in Amarillo Saturday. This trip is sponsored by the McLean Lions Club. The troop will make the trip in the new school bus. Arrangements have been made to take boys who are not scouts, but each will be asked to donate a small sum to the scout fund.

All boys interested in making the trip will please notify R. L. Floyd or Norman Trimble. The bus will leave the ward school at 8:30 Saturday morning and return late that night. Be sure and notify one of the afore mentioned if you wish to be sure of a seat in the bus, as only a limited number will be able to make the trip.

The group will also see the Amarillo football game if there is a demand.

The trip will be in charge of Martin Murdock, scoutmaster.

RECEPTION TO TEACHERS

A reception to the faculty of the McLean schools was given at the First Methodist Church Wednesday evening by the Women's Missionary Society of the church.

A pot luck supper was served after the reception.

Mrs. Laurence Bourland and Mrs. June Woods attended the Amarillo fair Wednesday.

Mrs. J. P. Dickinson returned Saturday from Texola, Okla., where she taught a two months' summer school.

Barbecue, Program Celebrate Jericho Gap Completion

FENCE AT CEMETERY NO. 1 PROJECT

At a meeting of the cemetery committee, with the mayor and architect, a fence around Hillcrest cemetery was declared the first thing needed in the efforts to bring the plot under perpetual care. After the fence, a water line is needed and a paved street from the business district.

Plans were discussed, looking toward making the whole thing a Federal aid project, with the thought of park improvement, a city hall and added street improvement as a part of solving the unemployment problem this winter. A roller is needed for the streets and also needed to roll the grass at Hillcrest.

Discussion showed that more and more people are being sold on the idea of perpetual care, and funds for this purpose are to be raised from the sale of lots, those on the avenues being priced higher than those in less desirable parts of the cemetery.

Funds for this summer's care are to be asked from present lot owners.

Those present at the meeting were Mayor D. A. Davis, Architect A. L. Bruce, Chairman W. A. Erwin, Committeemen E. L. Sitter and T. A. Landers.

PIONEER CLUB MEETS WITH MRS. C. BROOKS

Mrs. Claude Brooks was hostess to the Pioneer Study Club last Thursday afternoon, in a delightful study of the Great Romances of Literature.

Mrs. J. W. Butler was leader, and roll call was answered by naming a famous love heroine of history.

Mrs. Cecil G. Goff talked on the Romances of the Bible; Mrs. S. A. Cousins on Romances of Fiction; Mrs. Butler on Love Lives of Real People That Brought Tragedy, and Mrs. C. O. Greene Love Lives of Real People That Brought Happiness.

Miss Samantha Stanley, club guest, sang a solo.

Among those present were: Mesdames Thurman Adkins, C. B. Batson, Creed Bogan, W. E. Bogan, Willie Boyett, J. W. Butler, S. A. Cousins, C. A. Cryer, H. W. Finley, Cecil G. Goff, C. O. Greene, John Harris, J. B. Hembree, T. A. Massay, Roger Powers, J. H. Sharp, Claude Brooks, and Miss Stanley.

PTA MEET NEXT WEEK

The regular meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association scheduled for tonight (Thursday) has been postponed until next Thursday evening, according to Mrs. H. C. Rippey, president. The change was made on account of so many being at the Amarillo fair.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Payne and little granddaughter, Betty Jo West, accompanied by Mrs. Payne's sister, Miss Harriet Sink, visited in Shamrock Sunday.

Rev. W. A. Erwin and Laurence Bourland went to Amarillo Wednesday to attend the Amarillo Presbytery which met at the Central Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. J. P. Dickinson and Miss Madge Landers visited in Sayre, Okla., and Shamrock last week end.

Mrs. R. P. Cunningham was called to California this week to the bedside of her sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman White and son of Pampa visited in McLean over the week end.

Little Warren Goff underwent a tonsillotomy at a Pampa hospital Monday.

Mrs. J. H. Sharp and daughter, Miss Ora, were in Amarillo one day last week.

Elmer Decker, Miss Lucile Stratton and Mrs. Laura Byerly visited in Amarillo Friday night and Saturday.

McLean is the place and October 9 is the date when the big celebration honoring the completion of the Jericho gap on the Will Rogers highway will be given.

A program consisting of talks and music will begin at the Lone Star Theatre at about 1 p. m., followed by a motorcade over the gap, returning to McLean for a barbecue for visitors, and then the football game in the evening.

The program and barbecue will be an invitation affair, all towns along the route from Oklahoma City to Amarillo, and others, being invited to have representatives here and take part in the festivities. Several bands will be here for the afternoon.

Details of the program are yet to be worked out. A meeting of local chamber of commerce officials with the Amarillo chamber of commerce highway committee, with Carl Hinton, secretary of the Amarillo body and national secretary of the Will Rogers Highway Association, in charge, was held in Amarillo Saturday, another meeting being scheduled for Thursday afternoon of this week.

The Amarillo C. of C. voted to assist in financing the affair, donating $50 out of their treasury, and other towns are expected to assist.

The Jericho gap has received so much unfavorable publicity that it was thought desirable to have the celebration in order to let the motoring public know that the road is completed.

At the Amarillo meeting it was stated that a motorist in New York, who stuck in the mud at the gap last year, wired the Amarillo C. of C. asking about the condition of the road this year, before beginning a trip to California. A McLean man had a tire patched in Chicago, and when the filling station man asked what part of Texas he was from, he immediately mentioned the gap. Other instances were mentioned, showing that even as far as Montana tourists have a bad opinion of the road, due to happening to travel this road in wet weather.

Amarillo representatives at the meeting Saturday found it hard to believe that the gap was really finished when the McLean delegation told of making good time on the route through the rain that morning.

Besides Mr. Hinton, Wade Blumer, chairman of the Amarillo highway committee; T. E. Johnson and Charles Green, members, were present.

McLean's delegation consisted of Witt Springer, W. E. Bogan, Boyd Meador, C. O. Greene, W. W. Boyd, Thurman Adkins, W. K. Wharton and T. A. Landers.

A similar committee visited Oklahoma towns Wednesday, Oklahoma City promising a delegation of 100 people, including the famous Girls Kiltie band, Oklahoma's finest. The Oklahoma City C. of C. will pay 50c per ticket to the barbecue for every person in their party.

Other Oklahoma towns promised from $10 to $20 each toward expenses of the barbecue.

Those contacting Oklahoma towns were C. O. Greene, Witt Springer, W. W. Boyd and Jesse J. Cobb.

Vester Smith, who was a delegate to the Amarillo Presbytery Wednesday, was elected as a delegate to the Presbyterian Synod that meets at Dallas, Oct. 9.

Toll Moore and family have returned from a trip to Dallas and other places.

Mrs. Toll Moore and sons, Alton and Hobart, visited in Poffales, N. M., last week.

S. R. Jones announces the removal of his insurance office to the McLean Gin.

Mrs. Sallie Smith and father, Mr. Franklin, went to Dallas the first of the week.

Mrs. C. S. Rice and daughter were in Amarillo the first of the week.

Mrs. W. B. Upham and son, Dwight, were in Shamrock one day last week.

COOPERATION NEEDED

Mrs. W. L. Campbell believes that any parent familiar with the Parent-Teacher Association would be willing to see organization discontinued in the school system. And yet, who has worked in any educational system that success means anything to two people cannot do that is required to carry out. I realize church work is first, and place it first — but parent-teacher work comes before our club work. Only club work benefits only oneself, while our participation in the PTA benefits not only our own children as well, but we do not intend to sponsor money raising projects this year. We do wish to sponsor a started cooperation between parents and teachers for the utilization of our children. We want parents to become acquainted with teachers. So come to PTA, small dues (only 25 cents) prepared to take any position capable of filling.

BIRTHDAY DINNER

Nelson Anderson gave a 6 dinner Saturday, honoring her birthday. Guests were Mrs. Gilbert Bryan and baby.

Mrs. D. A. Davis spent night in the home of their daughter, Mrs. R. E. Paige, at Lefors.

L. S. Tinnin and daughter in Pampa last week.

Payne of Lefors visited home the first of the week.

Maine Is Captured by the Republicans

MAINE, the "barometer" state, is back in the Republican column at least so far as its state ticket is concerned. The G. O. P. captured the United States senatorship, the governorship and three congressional seats. Senator Wallace H. White, Republican, defeated Gov. Louis J. Brann, who sought to unseat him. Lewis O. Barrows, Republican, won the governorship by a substantial majority over F. Harold Dubord, Democrat.

The vote cast broke all records for size and interest in the election was intense. The state had been visited by both President Roosevelt, as he returned from his vacation cruise, and Gov. Alf M. Landon, the Republican Presidential nominee, who made speeches there only a few days ago. Colonel Knox, vice presidential candidate on the Republican ticket, also had canvassed the state. Brann, who was elected governor in 1932 and re-elected two years later, was the first Democrat to hold that office in Maine and was personally popular. White was elected senator in 1930 after ten years in the house of representatives.

Communism Is Denounced by Pope Pius

POPE PIUS XI may be physically weak, as recent reports say, but age and illness have not lessened the vigor of his opinions and his way of expressing them. In greeting and blessing some five hundred Spanish refugees who were received at Castel Gandolfo, the holy father, took occasion to denounce strongly the "mad" forces of Communism which, he declared, menaced, in Spain and elsewhere, "the very foundations of all order, all culture and all civilization." He urged the constituted authorities of all nations to oppose "these great evils with every remedy and barrier that is possible" and prophesied that there will be utter chaos if "those who have a duty in the matter do not hasten to repair the breach—if, indeed, it is not already too late."

The pope spoke especially of the situation in Spain, but said the crisis there is "a school in which the most serious lesson is being taught to Europe and to the whole world—to a world now at last wholly steeped, ensnared and threatened by subversive propaganda, and more especially to a Europe battered and shaken to its very foundation."

For forty minutes the pontiff spoke passionately, his voice at times broken with emotion, and his address was transmitted by radio to all the civilized world.

Reichsfuehrer Hitler, too, took another hard whack at the Communists at a ceremonial tribute to the World War dead in Nuremberg. Before 120,000 uniformed Nazis and 50,000 others he boasted of Germany's armed strength and shouted: "Our old enemy, bolshevism, is vanquished within Germany, but still active around her borders. But let no one be deceived. We are ready at any hour. We all have one wish—to maintain peace—but with it goes one firm decision: Never to surrender Germany to that enemy we have come to know so well."

If Hitler, as some think, tries to lead the coming five-power Locarno conference into forming an anti-Soviet alliance, he will be firmly opposed by France. Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos says so, and declares France will under no circumstances abandon her military pact with Soviet Russia.

According to Pravda, authoritative newspaper of Moscow, Hitler plans to attack and partition Czechoslovakia before he embarks on a war against the Soviet Union.

Benito Mussolini and his cabinet appropriated large sums to build up Italy's army, navy and air forces to greater strength and planned to carry on vigorously the campaign for self-sufficiency in raw materials.

It looked as if the dove of peace was preparing to leave Europe, and as relations between Japan and China grew more strained every day, she probably will have to take refuge on the western continent.

British Workers Reject Alliance With Reds

BRITISH organized labor will have no truck with the Communists. The trades union congress at Plymouth rejected, by overwhelming votes, three resolutions favoring the formation of a "popular front" alliance with the Reds, similar to the combinations that captured the governments of France and Spain.

In this action the workers were largely influenced by the fiery words of Sir Walter Citrine, international labor leader, who has just returned from a visit to Russia. Said he:

"After years of derision of the principles of the Socialist movement, after abuse of unions as the pillars of capitalism, we now have the curiously incongruous spectacle of Communist organizations wanting to come into our midst and be a part of the movement they have so derided."

"I do not know whether you are so credulous as really to believe that there is a sincere conversion to the principles of organized labor. However, for myself and the national council of labor I say without hesitation that the single, simple explanation of the tactics of the Communist movement today is the obvious, albeit failure that has accompanied attempts to capture the Socialist movement for Communist principles."

San Sebastian Captured by Spanish Rebels

THE Spanish rebels scored their greatest victory to date when they captured San Sebastian, capital of Guipuzcoa province and famous Bay of Biscaya resort. Santa Barbara fort, dominating the city, was first taken and the city's war council then decided to abandon the place, despite the opposition of the anarchists. The more conservative Basque nationalists prevented the rebels from burning the city, only a paper factory and two residences being destroyed, and the defending forces retreated toward Bilbao, accompanied by thousands of civilians and foreigners.

The municipal governor, Antonio Ortega, and his staff boarded a yacht to go to new headquarters at Zumaya, about 15 miles west of San Sebastian. The new line of defense was established at Orrio.

Farmers Will Meet to Plan Conservation

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE WALLACE is arranging a series of community meetings of farmers for the purpose of laying out the "agricultural conservation program" for next year. He said the AAA planned the meetings in the farm areas in order to discuss crop insurance and possible maximum limits of benefit payments to each farm. He explained the program aimed at providing "greater abundance for the average American home," and should "help to check soil erosion, improve fertility, encourage better land use and maintain farm income."

Fleet Will Maneuver in North Pacific Waters

BACK at his desk after an illness of six months, Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson immediately made an announcement that will be of deep interest to Japan.

The annual fleet maneuvers, which last May were shifted to the Canal Zone as a conciliatory gesture to Japan, will be held next year in North Pacific and Hawaiian waters, and probably the Tokio press will yelp again.

With the announcement Secretary Swanson asserted Japanese plans to retain coverage submarines and destroyers involve a "violation" of the London and Washington naval treaties, which are to expire December 31 by Japanese abrogation. He followed up his charge with the statement that the United States has completed plans for two new battleships and is prepared to begin construction "at a moment's notice."

The fleet maneuvers, officially designated as "fleet problem No. 18," will be held during late May and early June. The area of operation, it was indicated, will be the triangle between the Aleutian Islands, Hawaii, and Seattle, where the fleet problem of 1935 was conducted. Vessels and planes probably will work as far west as the Wake Islands.

Armament of the new battleships is at present limited to 14 inch guns, but Admiral William H. Standley, chief of naval operations, said frankly that if Japan does not agree to this limitation by next April, "the sky is the limit."

Sabotage on American Warship Revealed

OUR navy's intelligence department has discovered that a recent small fire on the cruiser Indianapolis while she was being overhauled in the New York navy yard was caused by the driving of phonograph needles and nails into an electric cable; and other suspected sabotage on war vessels is being investigated. The work on the cruiser was being done by civilian employees and Capt. Charles A. Dunn, industrial manager of the yard, said the placing of the nails in the cables was "undoubtedly" a deliberate attempt to damage the cruiser.

Workers Undernourished, Says the A. F. of L.

IN ITS monthly survey of business the American Federation of Labor asserts that, despite increased industrial profits, there is widespread undernourishment among the wage earners. It adds that industry can well afford to raise the wages of the workers.

A study of employed workers' incomes in North Atlantic cities, the federation said, showed that only 26 per cent met the (income) requirements for an adequate diet, while 30 per cent did not have enough food to meet minimum requirements.

Asking "what income will assure a satisfactory food budget for a family of four?" the survey said:

"The figures for Detroit indicate that families with less than $1,900 a year, for father, mother and two half-grown children, do not spend enough for food to buy the adequate diet at moderate cost."

Says Foreign Power Hired Him to Shoot King

GEORGE ANDREW McMAHON, on trial in London for drawing a revolver on King Edward during a parade last July, made the astounding assertion that he had been hired by representatives of a foreign power to shoot the monarch and they agreed to pay him 150 lbs. The man already had been acquitted on two of the three charges against him when he made the confession. It will be remembered that instead of shooting at Edward, he threw his revolver toward the king, who was mounted.

On the third charge, of unlawfully producing a pistol near the king with intent to alarm his majesty, McMahon was given one year in prison.

Discord in the World Power Congress

HUNDREDS of delegates, from many nations, were present when the third World Power conference opened in Washington, with President Julius Dornmueller in the chair. Prospects were good for a useful discussion of the problems connected with the industry, but discord crept in early in the proceedings. At a round table debate on public regulation and ownership of utilities, M. P. Davidson, representing Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York, said the only way to reduce electric rates is by threatening public ownership. Three prominent private utility men promptly "took a walk," and John C. Dalton, manager of the County of London Electric Supply, criticized Davidson's talk as a "tirade."

The discussion started in connection with a paper by John E. Zimmerman, president of the United Gas Improvement company, who held that power "yardsticks" such as the TVA and Boulder Dam cannot be compared with private utilities unless operating conditions are similar. Such yardsticks, he said, will lead to competitive methods already proved "wasteful and unsatisfactory."

In papers taking the opposite view, Prof. William E. Mosher of Syracuse university, and James C. Bonright of the New York State Power Authority, held that public competition with private companies is "indisputable evidence" of declining faith in regulation.

Magnus Johnson, Former Senator, Dies
MAGNUS JOHNSON, who came from Sweden as an immigrant about forty years ago and made himself a power in Minnesota politics, is dead of pneumonia at the age of sixty-five. Johnson was an early enthusiast for co-operatives and for the Farmer-Labor movement and served in both houses of the Minnesota legislature. In 1923 he was elected United States senator to fill out the term of the late Knute Nelson. Defeated for the governorship in 1926, he retired to his farm, but in 1932 he was elected to congress. He was defeated for re-election in 1934 by Harold Knutson, and in the primary last June lost the farmer-Labor gubernatorial nomination to Elmer Benson.

Brazil's Babassu Oil Worries Dairymen
AMERICAN dairymen are protesting vainly to Secretary of State Hull against the reciprocal trade treaty with Brazil which, they assert, is seriously injuring the industry by encouragement of the manufacture of imitation butter. Under the treaty Brazilian babassu oil, unknown in United States markets prior to 1935, now is being used at the rate of more than a million pounds a month for manufacture of a butter substitute.

Mr. Hull referred the protests to Assistant Secretary Sayre, who pointed out that the provision for free importation of the nut and oil was authorized by congress in the trade agreement act of 1934. He added that the success of the program was of vital interest to the American dairy farmer, "who has more to gain from the re-establishment of prosperous domestic markets for his products through the restoration of an abundant foreign trade than by a policy of excluding even the most remotely competitive products."

BRISBANE THIS WEEK

For the Pacific States A Good Example It Sold for $700

The Pacific states should interest themselves in air defense, apart from the national government.

When a committee of rich men from New York called on Abraham Lincoln, told him how much money they had, and urged that he send a good battleship to do nothing but protect New York city, his reply was that if he had as much money as they said they had, he would build a battleship for himself.

The west coast states, California, Oregon, Washington, co-operating perhaps with their vigorous neighbors of Vancouver, and other points above the Canadian border, might well have a few flying ships of their own, a sort of militia.

San Francisco, where they combine patriotism with plenty of money, and great civic pride and energy, might well start the idea of a Pacific coast flying force. That need not be very expensive. A hundred machines to begin with, a hundred plucky young fliers, practicing the gentle art of flying at night, and dropping bombs, practicing especially mimic warfare against other flying machines, would constitute an admirable object lesson to the rest of the country.

And if California, in San Francisco for instance, should start a little flock of one hundred machines, Los Angeles could be relied upon to hurry in with two hundred, Seattle and other coast cities also.

Such machines need not be a total loss. In the first place, many young gentlemen with rich fathers, not knowing exactly what to do with themselves, extremely anxious to find work worth while, and preferably dangerous, would delight in each equipping his individual machine, for the service of the Pacific coast and of Uncle Sam, as the nobles in the old days delighted in equipping each his regiment, or his fighting ship, for the service of the king.

Two hundred or three hundred high-powered, swift flying machines, directed by quick and courageous American brains, would be worth more to the safety of the Pacific coast than a hundred battleships. For the fighters that come, if they do come, will fly miles above the battleships.

They would come less gaily, less confidently, if they knew that trained fliers awaited them.

Hideyo Noguchi, who gave his life to fight yellow fever in Africa, will inspire many men. He was born of a proud, warlike race, intensely self-centered, for 2,000 years a hermit people. The loyalty of a Japanese was to family, clan, above all to the emperor representing his race. The rest of the world was nothing to him.

Born one generation after Japan opened her doors to the world, Noguchi felt the new spirit of the times. He was loyal to family, clan, emperor, race; but he was devoted chiefly to all human kind.

From boyhood to the last, through poverty and many perils, he studied how to wipe out disease. He discovered the germ of yellow fever, developed serums to prevent the fever or cure it, led in the work that has driven it out of America and will soon put an end to it throughout the world.

Yellow fever killed countless millions of all peoples. Noguchi's skill and devotion have saved the lives of millions, too many to estimate, most of them foreigners to whom his forefathers would have paid no attention, calling them heimin, or no-folks.

Noguchi's self-sacrifice to human welfare sets an example that is sure to be followed. Perhaps, in time, most men will see that it is better to help one another than to kill or even rob one another.

It is said the Hackensack Indians sold to the white men for so many bars of lead, and some finery, worth altogether $700, land on which now stands the entire city of Newark, N. J., and a great deal of land beyond.

The poor Hackensack chief, with his $700, couldn't buy today enough land for a tight grave at the corner of Broad and Market streets in Newark. Land goes up wonderfully.

Doctors at Kansas City report that birth control information so much discussed does little good to the poor, and has caused an "alarming slump in child bearing among educated families."

That is how reform works, usually. But since 90 per cent of human beings worth while come from poor families, providence may be working in its usual mysterious way.

What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

U. S. Lags Behind.

HOLLYWOOD, CALIF. — What I saw at the national air races in Los Angeles set me to thinking. It's a dangerous thing—thinking is—and nearly always upsetting to the peace of mind.

I'm thinking that no longer is the navy our first line of defense nor the army the second line. I'm thinking that the chief peril—and the chief security—from that peril—is in the air now.

And of all the great powers, we are the most woefully behind in the matter of airplane protection. It would take us two years to make our air force as strong as it was four years ago. It would take infinitely longer than that to make it as strong as the present footing of any country which conceivably might attack us.

Well, we could always lock the stable after the horse was gone—if the stable hadn't been blown flat.

Rules for Long Life.

A JAPANESE doctor has landed with the word that, by following a few simple rules, a fellow lives to be 240 years old. He didn't say, but I figure this applies only to those of us who never go motor-ing.

The principal rules are to sleep on a hard mattress with a metal pillow and learn to wriggle like a goldfish. Whether, in time, the beginner sprouts gills and a fantail is not stated, but it sounds plausible.

I've already spoken to a tinsmith this morning, made a few experimental wriggles. My intentions might fool some people, but I don't believe they'd fool a goldfish, unless he'd been drinking or something. I'm afraid my finning was faulty. Besides, I didn't feel any too dignified—greeting the dewy dawn by behaving goldfishishly.

War Names Confusing.

NOT content with coining eighty or ninety separate different and confusing names for the opposing forces in Spain, the correspondents have gone and thunk up a plum bran' new one—extremists. Maybe, though, the point is well taken. The dispatches would seem rather to indicate that quite a number of persons over there have lately shown a tendency to verge toward the extreme.

And picking out the various parties mixed up in the French political mess—that's another tough job. Only today I ran into this one—left-centerist. It sort of suggests Ty Cobb in his palmy days, covering the outfield. But—that couldn't be because the French don't go in for baseball. They prefer dueling as being just as exciting.

I must say it's discouraging just when, by following the news from Paris, I'm beginning to get the Reds unscrambled from the Pale Pinks, and the Mauves from the Heliotropes, and the Holy Rollers from the Merry Widows, to have this added complication bust right in my face. Looks as though I'll have to start it all over again.

How to Reduce.

EVER since the day when I was known among friends as Thyroid Deficiency Irvy, the human detour, I've fought the losing fight against overweight.

I tried dieting and became the best friend the American spinach industry ever knew, yet had only to turn my head to brag and I regained, practically instantaneously, what I'd lost. I exercised until I had the jitters, but when I'd taken off half a pound, it bounced right back while the doctors were reviving me.

But now I've found the absolute certain cure for reduction. It's working in a moving picture with little Jane Withers. When she sets the pace you can track yourself back home by your own perspiration. Another engagement with Janie and I could be rented out as my own living skeleton.

Has Memories of Valencia.

IT'S hard to concentrate on pen-nant fights in the big leagues when we read of war-racked Spain, with 100,000 already dead.

I hope the lovely old city of Valencia has escaped the common ruin. Seven years ago I was traveling around and about over three continents, and at every stop had listened morning, noon and night, to the song "Valencia."

So a friend and I made a pilgrimage to the town in which presumably, the thing originated, and Valencia turned out to be the one spot on the map where nobody had ever played that tune or sung it or hummed it or whistled it, or even heard of it.

It was indeed a relief. So we stayed a week. The sherry-and-egg before luncheon was also quite good—all but the egg!

WHEN CHILDREN GO TO SCHOOL... Southwestern PUBLIC SERVICE Company... When children go to school their activities require a constant supply of fresh clean clothing. This means either big wash days or frequent wash days. Electric washers are designed for heavy duty. Large washings can be done with little effort. Simply place the clothes in hot water from the spigot, add soap and plug the motor into the nearest convenience outlet. Many new models have pumps which empty the water into the sink when you are through. It is easy to always have plenty of fresh clean clothes when there is an electric washer in the home.

"My dear, you are more than welcome," Grandmother said warmly. "Any friends of Bryn's are our friends, too, and our home is always open to them. And I am delighted to hear you discussing details of modern society. I am sure your talk will be a liberal education for Deborah, and help her to establish herself more easily when she goes out into Bryn's world with him."

Pilar's black eyes rested momentarily on Deborah. They were quite expressionless. "There will be no difficulties for Deborah," she said tenderly. "She is so adorable that she won't need to make the slightest effort. Every one will fall in love with her at first sight."

"Just as Bryn did," Sally added, and looked fleetingly at Pilar. "Just as Bryn did," Pilar repeated, but her mouth tightened a little, Deborah saw, at the corners.

"How long are you planning to stay, Pilar?" Madeline said evenly. "Are you going home for the yacht races?" "I really hadn't considered it. I wasn't sure I'd be invited to stay, you see."

Grandmother gave a little sigh. "I am so thankful that when Deborah does emerge into society she will have dear Bryn to take care of her. He understands so well what her life has been, and he is so thoughtful and loving. It takes a great load off my mind to have him so."

"Bryn has always been a dear," Pilar agreed at once. "I don't know what I should ever have done without Bryn," she went on. "For years, now, he has been my staunchest comrade. No matter in what difficulty I found myself, there was always Bryn, and he brought me all his troubles and joys as well. It delights my heart to know that he is happy."

Deborah did not move. Grandmother lifted her eyes and looked at Pilar frankly. "You modern girls are so honest and open," she said. "In my day a girl would never have dared to make such a statement about a man. She would have been afraid of being misunderstood."

"Misunderstood?" Pilar murmured, flicking open the lighter. "In my day," Grandmother explained, "there were few young men such as our dear Bryn, so handsome, so eligible in every way, so fine. If a girl had been his friend always, as you have been, my child, then she would have been expected to marry him, and indeed, she would herself have expected to marry him. I do not quite understand the new camaraderie which allows of such close friendships without any thought of marriage or romantic love. In my day, so queerly uncontrolled was human nature then, the sort of friendship you mention would have been potentially dangerous if either the girl or the man—particularly the man—married elsewhere."

Pilar's eyes narrowed the faintest trifle against the light as she looked at Grandmother. Grandmother was sitting up a little straighter than Deborah had seen her sit for some time, and there was a little pink in her cheeks. But her eyes as they met Pilar's were calm and kind, and Deborah pushed away the thought that Grandmother suspected something and was taking her own way to combat the hint of danger.

Pilar rose and stood for a moment, tall and lissome and full of grace, beside the door. She was smiling. "Customs are very different now," she murmured, and begged to be excused, and went out through the door.

There was a little silence when Pilar was gone. Deborah looked up from the puppy to find Grandmother stitching away placidly again, her eyes on her material, and Sally and Madeline looking at each other with steady meaning. Sally and Madeline didn't understand. They didn't know what it must have been like for Pilar to love Bryn, to have loved him for years, and then to have him suddenly marry another girl. They didn't know what it meant to love Bryn. Simon and Tabby were all right, of course, and perfect darlings, but they weren't Bryn. Deborah's eyes burned, and the bad lump came back in her throat.

There was a knock at the door. It was one of the maids, wanting Deborah. The cook would like her orders, the maid said respectfully. Deborah went out and shut the door behind her.

Deborah stumbled down the hall toward the kitchen. In her mind's eye she could see herself sitting on the wall the other night, with Bryn leaning close beside her. She remembered what she had wanted to do. Bryn's face was so close, and he was such a dear; she had wanted to take his face between her own two palms and bend down and put her cheek against his forehead. She had almost done it when he said . . . "Deborah, do you like me . . . at all?" But now she was glad she hadn't done it, because he wouldn't have wanted her to. It was Pilar he loved. He had said so. He had told her how dearly he loved this other girl . . . and if she hadn't been so blind she would have seen instantly that his telling her of the other girl was sure proof that he didn't love her, Deborah.

And if he did love Pilar so dearly, then Pilar was a very lovely person. Madeline and Sally didn't like her, but they didn't understand. And Bryn's heart must ache, now, to think that he was shut away from Pilar for so long; and Pilar must be suffering dreadfully.

When she was finished in the kitchen, Deborah went up the back stairs swiftly and along the hall to her room. Someone came lightly along the hall, and she caught her breath lest it should be Bryn. But it was, instead, Pilar; and she was in search of Deborah, for her own room was down in the other wing with Grandmother's. She glanced in through the open door.

"Ah, there you are, sweetie," she said. "I wondered if you'd run away. Where've you been?"

"I was down in the kitchen," Deborah explained, praying that her voice sounded as usual. "Then I came up to get some embroidery. I find myself with no work at all to do these days."

Pilar was watching her. "You are refreshing," she sighed. "But really, Deborah, you must begin to make some changes in your life, or you will be completely bewildered by Bryn's gay world. Bryn travels pretty fast, dear."

Deborah sat down slowly, with the Italian embroidery in her hand. She fingered it absently. "Hasn't Bryn explained it all to you, Pilar?" she asked at last, lifting her dark eyes.

"Explained what?" Pilar asked, after a moment.

"I know he . . . hasn't told the others. Sally, or Madeline. I don't think even Tubby knows. I'm not quite sure why he hasn't. For a while I thought it was on his own account, but now I think he has been doing it for me, so that I wouldn't feel so queer and left out."

"I don't know what you mean," Deborah looked at her. "You know that Bryn couldn't be in love with me," she said.

Pilar did not move. Not by a flicker did her expression change. Her eyes were black and fathomless.

"Not in love with you?" she repeated.

"Surely you know, Pilar?"

"Even if I did," Pilar said softly, "you wouldn't expect me to . . . mention it, Deborah?"

"No," Deborah said after a moment. At Pilar's words her heart had fallen like lead. So Pilar did know. Bryn had told her.

"Bryn, of course, is a gentleman," Pilar said. "He does not tell any more than is necessary."

"No," Deborah said again. "But I can tell you, Pilar. I can explain to you."

"I was . . . hoping you would."

"I don't want to go into detail," Deborah said. "I think I can tell you in just a few words. It was like this. I had to be married by my twenty-first birthday or lose my grandfather's estate. I went down to San Francisco to meet the man I was to marry. He was . . . I couldn't possibly marry him. And Bryn came along by accident, and saw that I was frightened, and I told him about it, and he offered to marry me instead. That's all."

Pilar straightened. "I see," she said, and then, "The day I came, Tubby dragged me away and threatened me with murder if I called Bryn by anything but Graham. The man you were to marry is named Graham?"

"Yes."

"Your grandmother thinks Bryn is the man?"

"Yes."

"And what happens next?"

There was a queer note in her voice, and Deborah looked up quickly. But Pilar's face had not changed, and Deborah's eyes fell again. "Nothing," she said. "We have to go on until the end of the year, or I do not get the money. The marriage must last for a year. And it must go on for Grandmother's sake, anyway, for that long. After that . . . I don't know what we shall do to explain to Grandmother, but there will be something. Bryn will be free, then, of course."

"You cannot get the money within a year?"

"If the marriage is not successful to that extent," Deborah explained carefully, "I do not get it at all."

"Your grandmother seems very fond of Bryn."

"She loves him," Deborah said, with a little catch in her breath. "He is wonderful to her. Even if the estate were not so tied, I don't see how we could be . . . divorced . . . before that time without breaking Grandmother's heart."

Pilar turned the ivory holder between her long browned fingers. "It seems rather a long time out of Bryn's life," she said. "A year."

"I know."

"I should think there might have been somebody else, Deborah. Somebody you might have paid for his name and his last year."

Deborah looked up again, but did not speak. Pilar was watching her. After a moment she said, "Of course, it's all very romantic, and you are really quite pretty. Any man would like to be the prince who awakens the sleeping beauty."

Deborah's eyes flew to the long oval of Pilar's face. Her own cheeks crimsoned furiously, and her eyes flashed.

Evil Eye

The objection which a high caste Brahman of India has to being seen eating by a low caste man is based on a belief allied to that of the evil eye.

Furred Suits "Must" for College

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

START your autumn wardrobe, Miss Collegian, with a fur-trimmed suit if you would underwrite for yourself a guarantee of being smartly and handsomely appareled throughout the coming round of campus and social activities. In fact the verdict handed down from the supreme court of high fashion declares a suit dramatized with lavish fur embellishment becomes an absolute "must have" this season for every woman and most especially for the college girl who would do the correct thing in matter of practical stylish daytime dress.

Since fur-laden costume suits are so outstanding on the current style program we are picturing a trio of last-minute models that simply radiate with style-significant details. These stunning ensembles were recently shown at a fashion revue presented by the style creators of Chicago in the wholesale district—a brilliant affair that intrigued a vast and appreciative audience to a point of high enthusiasm.

In these striking fashions three distinct trends are indicated—peplum, tuxedo (with reefer suggestion) and tunic. Generally speaking, the costume suit program for autumn and winter classifies into these silhouette influences.

The daring, flaring youthful peplum effect that distinguishes the colorful trottier suit to the left carries appeal to the slender figure. This snappy walking suit of imported wool in the new moss green is lavishly bordered with red fox, a color combination that tunes in superbly with a glowing autumn landscape. The blouse is of rich lame. The elegance of the material of which the blouse is made carries an important message in regard to the new fabric collections which foretell the use of most opulent and grandiose weaves for fall and winter fashions. Per example the latest move is to wear a waistcoat of costly brocade with the new suit as a happy diversion from the regulation blouse. As to evening velvets and satins and such they are superbly beautiful and "classy."

A tuscan wine costume of nubby wool is centered in the group. Here we have a jacket with fitted front and a spectacular lynx tuxedo front that dramatizes the picture. The very new and popular fur reefer fronts such as stylize both jackets and long coats are quite similar to the tuxedo treatment. The dress with the "tuxedo" jacket is of matching material. It interprets a new neckline and has a double pearl ornament fastening down the front. Speaking of leading colors the wine shades repeat their triumph with dark rich greens (spruce green's the new theme) contesting for first honor.

The costume to the right is of spruce green wool trimmed in mink-dyed kolinsky. Here we have the more-than-ever popular tunic lines. The tunic suit is a leader among leaders this season. The deep fur bordering is typical of the smartest fur treatments for fall. The matching muff and self-fur collar add a final touch of chic.

SHORT, FULL SKIRT

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Skirts shorter and fuller is the exciting headline flashed from fashion's realm for fall and winter. Another significant style message is that the new modes reflect a strong British trend influenced by the forthcoming coronation of King Edward VIII. All this as a prologue to the story of the dress here shown made of black spotproof transparent velvet with full circular Victorian skirt and a basque blouse trimmed in royal blue chiffon with metal coin dots—inspired by fashions popular in the days of Queen Victoria. We learn furthermore from the series of fashion revues presented recently by the Style Creators of Chicago in the wholesale outlet that the coronation theme reflects in street outfits as well as in the richly colorful and jeweled evening costumes, also that the red being used is strictly a British wine color and that a typical British tunic and cap influence is evidenced in new stylings.

DECORATIONS FOR HATS FOR AUTUMN

Judging by the forecasts of autumn millinery we are getting back to the days when a hat which wasn't trimmed wasn't considered as worthy of attention.

Autumn hats have all sorts of novel decoration, usually in a shade which contrasts so that there is no chance of overlooking the elaboration of detail. Bonnet-like shapes that look suspiciously like those great-grandmothers once wore are trimmed with pompons and perky ostrich tips. Tassels, silk cords and even spangle arrangements in several different shades trim more sophisticated models.

The alliance of different tones is as significant as the trend toward trimming. Novel fancies of ribbon in two shades of green appear on black felt models and those of very dark red shades. A soft raspberry tone is effective as a contrast for grayish blue.

Tunics Are Now Designed for All Types of Women

The vogue of tunics has reached the state where there are tunics designed for fat women, tunics for thin women, tunics for young and tunics for old. Woe unto the follower of fashion who happens to choose the wrong one.

Those flaring, knee length tunics which start from slender waistslines and shoot out in all directions are intended for the young and willowy creatures. The more they flare and the puffier the sleeves of the accompanying blouse the younger they are. Stylish slouts are permitted to adopt the tunic theme providing they select the straight line version.

Furs on Fall Suits

Rich furs are shown on fall suits of black, rose-rust, green, brown, and gay mottled woolen. Black is the leading color. Next come the rusts, greens and browns, quite a bit of Oxford gray and blues that lean toward gray or green.

It Doesn't Pay—

Doing Favors for Others With Thought of Return Disappoints

"THE older I grow the more I am appalled by the ingratitude, the complete lack of a sense of obligation on the part of our fellow human beings.

"With me the people who come first are always those to whom I have any obligation whatsoever. Anything that is done for me is constantly on my mind and I am on the lookout to repay. But look about you and you will observe the most inconceivable indifference on the part of most otherwise decent people to what they owe to others. Indeed the code seems to be to cultivate those from whom some advantage may be forthcoming and neglect those to whom we are indebted. The answer to it all is to put yourself out for nobody; it doesn't pay."

The above lament was received by an international writer of note, who answers as follows:

It must have been an unusually unfortunate chain of experiences that gave this woman such an unhappy slant on human nature. But certain it is that favors done with thought of return are bound to bring disappointment. In this busy, hectic world, people are likely to be rather casual about give and take. That does not necessarily mean that they are unappreciative. They are just not punctilious. Frequently a kindness makes its mark but time passes before occasion presents itself to show appreciation, or to reciprocate. After all, if we think enough of people to put ourselves out for them, as our reader says, there must be a certain amount of faith.

If we do things for others because we want to do them and find a certain satisfaction in the expected reward is something to be watched pot—very disappointing. In fact, it doesn't pay.

Curious Devices Used for Seeing After Darkness

It is presumed that man eventually toiled or played only during hours of sunlight. That when darkness came and the eyes could no longer see—he lay himself down to rest. Yet all the while, Nature, through volcanic and meteoric disturbances, through flashes of lightning, was trying to demonstrate to man its power to create light in the midst of darkness.

Fire was discovered, and man found he could prolong the day with the aid of firebrands, camp fires, torches. And firelight was sufficient for his needs. He had no books to read, no socks to mend, nor any night-time chores that required precise seeing.

Just when the urge for better light first exerted itself, history does not say. There are records of the existence of lamps as early as the Fourth century B. C., but it is presumed that lamps of one kind or another had been employed long before.

The earliest lamps of which we have record were saucer shaped objects with a shallow projecting spout which held the wick. A hole in the center of this disc-like lamp held a small quantity of oil.

So far as is known, there was no radical development toward better lighting until 1783 A. D., when Leger of Paris devised a flat ribbon wick and burner. Not long after, Ami Argand of Paris, perfected a glass chimney which, together with his new improved type of circular wick and burner, produced illumination far superior to anything ever before seen.

Then in 1880, Auer von Welsbach, a German, developed a burner, in which the combination of a mixture of air and gas or vapor, heated to incandescence a mantle, composed of thoria and ceria.

Welsbach's mantle was, of course, crude and inefficient compared to present-day mantles. But to Welsbach, should go much of the credit for making available to us today, the pure white light which is so easily and economically provided in modern pressure mantle lamps using gasoline and kerosene for fuel.

In fact, despite the birth of the electric lamp and its now manifold uses throughout the world, there are still many millions—at least five million farm homes right here in America, to whom the new pressure mantle lamps offer the best, most eye-protecting illumination available. In fact, the new lamps are said to produce light of up to 300 candlepower brilliance and of a color that more nearly approaches daylight than anything yet conceived. Men can read—wives can sew—children can study—all without injury or strain to the eyes, under the radiant daylight brilliance of modern pressure mantle lamps.

EDITOR THREATENS MOVE

Editor Van Stewart in a boxed article in his Ochiltree County Herald at Perryton last week, threatened to move a portion of the plant out of town to another location if the retail merchants of that city did not rally to the support of the Herald with additional advertising space. The Herald is one of the very best weekly newspapers in Texas and should receive one hundred per cent patronage from the Perryton merchants.—Miami Chief.

"It's four years since I was in this town," remarked the stranger to the waiter in a hotel, as he was walking out after finishing his dinner. "It looks just the same." "I don't find much change either," said the waiter, as he picked up the nickel the visitor had left on the table.

The manufacture of tourist trailers for automobiles has been growing so rapidly that experts within the past month have been predicting that 25% of the country's citizens will be living on wheels by 1956. They base their prediction on the rate of manufacture at this time. There are about 600 trailer-builders in the United States, all pretty busy. Unit prices range from $400 to $3,500, the latter price being for a swanky model.

Why Late Copy Is Omitted

The principal duty of any newspaper to the people it serves is to gather and properly disseminate the news of that people, along with a combined duty of sponsoring the best interests of its constituency.

The publisher of The News feels a weighty responsibility to the people of the McLean community to do this job in a manner that is satisfactory to the people and a credit to the personnel of this organization.

To carry out these duties efficiently, to uphold the standards of The News and to serve the people with the greatest degree of competency, considerable time is required in compiling the news, soliciting the advertisements, and doing the other work conducive thereto.

A good job cannot be done by this or any other newspaper organization unless it can have the full cooperation of everyone concerned. We want your news for publication, because the paper is not complete unless it carries all the news each time it is published, at least a greater part of it; but the same as is true with advertisements, we cannot handle your news adequately unless it is received early in the week, and there are times that news arrives in this office so late that space is taken up and we are forced to omit it.

Any thing that happens early in the week should be reported early, and NOT on the day of publication. This is requested in order that the printers may handle the last minute happenings properly. While the paper is published once a week, it takes a whole week to set the type for it.

Help us to make your home paper better and more worth while to your community. Your cooperation in submitting your news early is earnestly solicited.

S. S. LESSON

By Rev. Cecil G. Goff
 Pastor First Baptist Church

THE SPREAD OF CHRISTIANITY IN WESTERN ASIA

Lesson texts, Acts 1:8; 5:29; 20:35; 8:4; 26:19; 13:47; Rev. 2:10; Gal. 6:7; 5:13; 2:20; John 3:16; Mark 16:15.
 Golden text, "They rehearsed all that God had done with them, and how He opened the door of faith unto the Gentiles." Acts 14:27.

Following the return of Jesus to heaven, the disciples and followers who had remained true to Him continued in Jerusalem according to the command of the Master. They were fearful for their lives. Thus they remained in hiding, praying that God would care for them. They had little idea of the meaning of the teaching of Jesus concerning the coming of the Comforter, or the Holy Spirit. Therefore, the experience of the coming of the Holy Spirit was entirely new to them in every respect. However, the disciples did not stop to question such power for a moment. They immediately surrendered happily to the direction of the Spirit. And in this moment the Gospel of Jesus began to be spread.

For a time Jerusalem became the stronghold of Christianity. Persecution soon changed that situation. The Jews had the incredible idea that only a Jew could possibly become a Christian. Peter had been forced to show good reason to the Jerusalem church for having preached the Gospel to Cornelius, a Gentile. Even then the Jewish Christians felt that this instance was not one to be repeated. God scattered them abroad among the Gentiles. The love for God and fervor for the Master and lost souls overcame many of those scattered abroad and they began appealing to their Gentile neighbors. Before long there was word coming to the Christians in Jerusalem that many Gentiles were being saved. There came word that the outstanding Christian persecutor had been converted. It wasn't long until the church in Jerusalem sent some of their members to investigate the report that many Gentiles were being converted in Antioch of Syria. The leader, Barnabas, was so impressed that he sought out Paul, the converted persecutor, to assist him in the work in Antioch. He did not return to Jerusalem until there was a conference held there to determine whether a Gentile could be saved without first becoming a Jew. The conclusion of the council was that the Gospel was free to every soul that accepted Christ in repentance and faith and followed Him.

Barnabas and Paul went back to work. Not long after, God called Barnabas and Paul to go out into new territory to carry the Gospel story. God commanded the Antioch church to ordain them and send them forth. Thus began the great spread of the Gospel and the organization of New Testament churches in Western Asia. There are none who can doubt the fervor of those early Christians who faced unspeakable trials and difficulties—even to persecution, confiscation of property and being driven away from home to start all over again. This—all of it—they did gladly to live for Christ and give His message to lost men.

If those of our Christian forefathers were willing to carry on against the odds of those years two centuries ago, ought we not to be ashamed of the little we are doing to carry the Gospel message to the lost world today? We rest our weak security on the supposition that if we do our part today the time will come when the Gospel will reach the whole world. We forget that while we are doing our part today, expecting our posterity to complete the task, there is an entire generation, the eternal condition of which depends on us, and not our posterity. Our children and grandchildren will have as great a generation to care for as we. Every man, woman and child that passes from this generation without Christ is my responsibility. This generation to the uttermost ends of the earth, at home and abroad, is our responsibility. If we do not reach them, we will answer. One says Paul did not reach the entire world. No, indeed! But if modern Christianity with its numbers, wealth, power and strength were to give any small part of its interest to winning the world to Christ it could easily be done. We are playing at the job. If you do not believe it, count the pennies you gave to mission causes last year, divide it by 365 and find the daily effort you made for missions. See if your chewing gum bill did not exceed it. If Christians would place on mission efforts for ten years what they place on entertainments, the world around would be singing the praises of Christ.

Mrs. Snyder is past president of the Presbytery and gave a short talk on "Be faithful," stating that no matter what task we are given to do, do it faithfully and the work will gradually become easier.

Mrs. Chas. E. Cooke led the devotional for the meeting by reading Psalm 100, and roll call was answered with a Bible verse.

Women should not have their ears covered.

That was the warning given last week by Dr. Samuel E. Brown, assistant surgeon of the Brown and Ear Hospital in Brownsville.

Ear trouble among women, doctor, is frequently traced to the fact that they do not clean their ears to air and dry them.

His suggestion: "It is advisable for a woman to dress her hair so that the ears are exposed to both air and light every possible."

G. C. Nicholson was in McLean Saturday.

John Turner of Amarillo was in McLean the first of the week.

May we give you six dollars?

NOT in cash, of course. We're speaking of its equivalent. But here is something for you to consider: Every year this newspaper brings you at least three outstanding novels in serial form. Purchased as books each would cost not less than $2, making a total expenditure of at least $6 per year.

Like yourself, we could find plenty of uses for that $6. Some member of the family is always in need of a new pair of shoes or some other necessity. But at the same time your requirements for good reading material must be met. By accepting these three novels each year we feel you are treating yourself to real enjoyment, at the same time giving your purse a substantial boost.

These novels are a source of constant pride to us. Every year we select them from the season's most outstanding best sellers, offered in serial form by a large newspaper syndicate organization. We'd like to feel that you—as a subscriber—always look forward to reading the coming installment in the next issue. It gives us a great satisfaction to know that here is another reason why our paper is popular in the home.

You are invited to begin reading our novels now. These regular brief visits to fictionland will prove a delightful interlude from your work-a-day activities. And it will make us happy to know that you are getting enjoyment from them.

The Curse of Progress

Not This Time!
The bride of a few weeks noticed that her husband was depressed. "Gerald, dearest," she said, "I know something is troubling you, and I want you to tell me what it is; your worries are not your worries now, they are our worries."
"O, very well," he said. "We've just had a letter from a girl in New York and she's suing us for breach of promise." — Montreal Star.

Long Way 'Round
The "Fat Lady" of the circus was taking a walk one day and, hesitating in the middle of the road, was knocked down by a taxi. Luckily, she was not hurt, and getting up, she stormed at the Cockney driver.
"Why did you run into me, you fool. Couldn't you have gone around me?" she screamed.
"Sorry, lidy," was the reply. "I didn't fink I 'ad enough gasoline left."

The Fourth Degree

Third degree police methods have long been known in America, but South America has produced a new one that might be called—fourth degree.

Following the murder of two Scotsmen in a bank raid at Santa Cruz over a year ago, two men were arrested. But arrests were not enough. The police wanted their men to talk.

So they took one of them, Emilio Lajus, for a "death ride" in a plane. And what a ride!

After a few loops, "falling leaf" stunts, high-speed dives and other nerve-storming tricks, the man confessed—and liked it. As a result the police recovered $31,500 (about half) of the money.

If you feel...

- tired
- run-down
- nervous
- out of sorts

THERE is usually a definite reason for such complaints...so, now let's reason sensibly.

Don't try to get well in a day...this is asking too much of Nature. Remember, she has certain natural processes that just cannot be hurried.

Therefore, if you are pale, tired, lack a keen appetite, have lost weight and feel run-down...a frequent sign that your blood-cells are weak, with a tendency towards anemia—then do try in the simple, easy way so many millions approve—by starting a course of S.S.S. Blood Tonic to feel like yourself again.

Clean System Clear Skin

You must be free from constipation to have a good, clear complexion. If not eliminated, the wastes of digestion produce poisons and the skin must do more than its share in helping to get rid of them.

So for a clear, healthy skin, remember the importance of bowel regularity. At the first sign of constipation, take Black-Draught—the purely vegetable laxative. It brings such refreshing relief, and tends to leave the bowels acting regularly until some future disturbance interferes.

The staff for this year's editions of The Tiger Post has been completed and each reporter hopes to help make the school paper a success.

SENIOR RINGS ARRIVE

Many members of the senior class were smiling Tuesday morning as they displayed their new rings to the lower classmen. The ring pattern was selected last spring in order that the rings might be had early in the senior year. However, not more than half the students made the required deposit early enough to receive their rings in the first shipment. Those who make deposits now should receive their rings in October.

TIGERETTES SELL PENCILS

Members of the pep squad have been selling pencils this week. They are attempting to raise money to pay for uniforms which will be school property. The money from the pencil sales, with that made from the faculty play last spring, will finish paying for blouses and caps. The new uniforms will not be ready this week, but will probably be ready when the new band uniforms arrive. The pencils are gold color with the 1936 football schedule printed on them.

FRESHMEN COMPLETE CLASS ORGANIZATION

The freshman class completed their organization on Tuesday morning. The student officials and faculty assistants have been selected. They are: Home room teacher, Miss Sarah Truitt; class sponsor, Marcus Graham; president, Junior Woods; vice president, Billy Gregory; secretary-treasurer, Opal Thacker. The following room mothers have been selected: Mesdames McClellan, Koen, Blackerby, Andrews and Thacker.

J. Dyer, Kenneth Dyer, Jack Young, Walter McCord, Bobby Campbell and Earl Humphreys. Trombones, Earl Simmons, Donovan D'Spain, Herman Petty, Joe Reeves, Ercy Fulbright, Dale Terrell. Cornets, Joe Cooke, Billy Carpenter, Billy Ray Reeves, Billy Gething. Saxophones, Harold Rickard, Leta Mae Phillips. Baritone, Marvin Wehba. Basses, Francis Petty, Harold Petty, James Lee Rice. Altos, Jack Sanders, Zora and Nora Petty. Drums, Alonzo Henderson, Marquetta Payne, June Young, Edwin Ledbetter and Damon Wade. Flute, Wilma Holmes.

TIGERS DEFEAT LAKEVIEW

Last Friday night the McLean Tigers played good football for one quarter and defeated the Lakeview Eagles by a score of 28 to 7 at Tiger Field. It can be said of their opponents that they had the enthusiasm if not the football knowledge that is necessary. Both teams' defensive play was ragged during the game, with McLean at times dropping the Eagles for long losses. McLean took the kickoff and without losing the ball scored, with Braxton carrying the ball to pay dirt. Brister, Lakeview quarter, scored later in the game after Ls-well fumbled a high punt. As McLean had made their extra point after their touchdown, the score was tied, 7 to 7, when No. 56 bucked the ball over the necessary two yards for the extra point. The half ended with the score still standing 7 and 7, with Lakeview leading in yards gained. The third quarter was the only one in which the Tigers really gave promise of a high-gear ball team. They scored 21 points in the third quarter, which ended the scoring for both sides. Lakeview made one bid for a score that made most of the spectators think they deserved they deserved their six points, but it was called back because the end that caught the pass and ran for a touchdown was offside. The Eagles were not in very good shape and were getting hurt often, which slowed up the game very much. The game was fought in a mist that made the ball very slick and water-soaked.

On Wednesday evening the junior football team sponsored the picture show, "Fighting Youth," at the Lone Star Theatre. The purpose for the sponsoring was an attempt to make money for equipment for their team. They appreciate those who helped in this entertainment, and they will probably sponsor another in the future.

REV. ERWIN IN ASSEMBLY

At ten o'clock on Tuesday morning, Rev. W. A. Erwin spoke to the high school student body and faculty. He led in the singing of "America" and then brought his message in quoted poetry, each poem of which was a good sermon. Always a good speaker, Rev. Erwin left good thoughts for each person who heard him.

HOME ECONOMICS

Several new students have enrolled and have been welcomed into the home economics classes. Second year classes have finished the unit of work on food preservation. Thirty-one pints of fruit and vegetables were canned, at an average cost of 5 1/2 cents per pint. Twenty pints of jellies, fruit butters, preserves, marmalades and conserves were made, at an average cost of 16 1/2 cents per pint. A good supply and variety of canned and preserved products has been placed in the department for use during the year. The second year girls have been studying marketing and are now studying the local grocery stores. The third year girls began work on their special occasion dresses this week. Some very beautiful materials and attractive designs have been chosen. The first year girls are choosing patterns and designs for their first clothing problem, which will be the construction of some simple undergarment. The Future Home-makers met last Tuesday evening. Plans for initiating new members were discussed. It was decided that the dues should be 25 cents each semester. This money will be used to help defray club expenses. Money left in the treasury from last year's club paid the fee for the club to be affiliated. It was decided that every third meeting would be a social meeting. The club plans to make curtains and machine covers for the home economics laboratory.

GOOD POSTURE

By Josh Lee
 Good posture is an asset which very few possess. Sad to relate, the favored ones seem to be growing less. We see the fold all round us slumped down in a heap, and the way that people navigate is enough to make one weep. Some elevate their shoulders, some hollow in their backs, some stiffen up their muscles, and some just plain relax. The one who walks with poise and grace is a spectacle so rare that even on gay Broadway the people turn and stare. If you would cut a figure in business, sport or school, just mind the posture precepts, obey the posture rules. First: stand as tall as possible, without strain, and with ease. Now, just incline the pelvis at fifty-five degrees. The weight should be well forward, the line of gravity should fall, for so they tell us, in front of hips and knees. Don't thrust your head out turtle-wise, don't hunch your shoulders so, don't sag and drag yourself around, no style to that, you know. Get uplift in your bearing, and strength, and spring, and vim. No matter what your worries, to slouch won't alter them. Just square your shoulders to the world, you're not the sort to quit; it isn't the load that breaks you you down; it's the way you carry it.

SUNKISSED BACON

The Department of Agriculture is conducting a crusade at its Bureau of Animal Husbandry's experimental farm at Beltsville, Md., to eliminate sunburn in hogs. "Danish pigs introduced in the Middle West," explains J. X. King, of that bureau, "are fine except the sun blisters their white skin. We hope to solve the problem by crossing them with English blacks," which are decidedly brumette.

CLEAN-UP
 Until a short time ago there was no chamber of commerce in Talladega, Ala., an industrial and commercial community of 8,000 souls. In the past few months, however, the women of the town have taken matters in hand and organized one of their own. Believed to be the first organization of its kind in the United States, the Talladega women's chamber of commerce last week was looked upon by some as the start of a movement that may sweep the country. Already, Birmingham—a much larger Alabama city—has formed a similar group. Prime mover in the Talladega organization is Mrs. I. W. Elliott, who was elected president at the first meeting and who has since reported that the women's chamber now has more than 400 members, a paid secretary and rented offices. The organization's program in part: Cleaning up and beautifying the town, removing stray dogs from the streets, improving community health, forming an outdoor public theatre, reducing crime, bettering roads, and striving after industrial growth. Luke Graham made a business trip to Pampa the first of the week. Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Lander have returned from a trip to Dallas.

PROSPERITY
 More and more couples are getting married. They are also buying more. Thus, better times. The index of business has risen out the United States, and the capital is no exception. Since the bottom of the depression in 1932, marriages and divorces in the District have speeded up with the return of better business. Right now the marriage business in Washington is booming. The divorce courts are by no means idle. According to Mrs. M. ex, the local marriage business in 1935 was a big year at least and at the present rate it is to be much bigger. Last year sold nearly 7,000 licenses.

"No Dice"

By FLOYD GIBBONS, Famous Headline Hunter

THE moral of this story, boys and girls, is that gambling doesn't pay. Not that I need any story to convince me of it. I bet two bucks on a horse I thought would come in first at Joga, and the next time I saw him was two years later, pulling team calliope in a circus parade in Denver.

Well, it's risky business letting a horse invest your money for you, but half as risky as the chances Lieutenant Tommy Griffin, of the Seventh Infantry, Fort Wadsworth, N. Y., took when he started woody Luck that fateful July night back in 1922.

Lieutenant Tommy has gone a long way in the army since 1922. Then he was just plain Private Tommy, of the One-Hundred and Seventeenth field artillery, a national guard outfit of Goldsboro, N. C. The One-Hundred and Seventeenth was doing regular two weeks' field work at Fort Bragg.

It was a hot night, and some of the boys were holding cavalry covers on a blanket in one of the tents. For horses they were using white, spotted cubes, and those "horses" were galloping back and across the blanket in a way that would have scared an enemy army of at least six weeks' pay.

Tommy and Pal Are Attracted by Galloping Ivorys. Of course, an unsympathetic officer of the day might have suspected those fellows were shooting craps, but I'm going to take Tommy's word for it that those shouts of "Come on, seven!" that came from the tent were just the cries of excited rooters who wanted to see the Seventh win.

Tommy and a friend were coming back from an evening in a nearby town when they heard the boys cheering the Seventh regiment on. There was also a lot of encouragement being given to Big Dick, who, I presume, was the captain of the Seventh regiment, and Little Joe, who must have been the first lieutenant. The rooting attracted Tommy and his pal, and they dropped into the tent to see what was going on.

There were three men in the tent—a sergeant named Joe and two mates, Bill and John. The sergeant had been drinking, and he rolled the ivorys with a sort of grim determination. He had lost several bars, and Tommy could see that he wasn't taking it any too well.

Losing Sergeant Returns to Make Trouble.

The other two lads were in a jovial mood, though neither one of them had imbibed any alcohol. John had the dice and Tommy watched while he set a point, made it, and picked up his winnings. And it was right there that the friendly game began to take on a serious aspect.

Joe, the sergeant, claimed that John hadn't won the money and told him to put it down. There was an argument that got pretty hot for a minute, but in the end John put the dough back just to humor him, and the play was resumed. A couple more throws and Joe left, weaving his way unsteadily out of the door. But a few minutes later he was back again, a .45 revolver in his hand and an ugly scowl on his face.

Joe was looking for trouble. That much was plain to everybody. He began to accuse John of talking about him behind his back. His finger was tight against the trigger, and looking over, Tommy could see the glow of cartridge rims in the chamber of the gun. There was no talk about it. That gat was loaded.

Drunken Maniac's Bullet Wakes John Up.

Tommy didn't wait for any more. He made a leap for Joe and grabbed the gun. But Joe kept his grip on the revolver, too, and the air of them rolled over on the tent floor, fighting desperately for possession of the weapon.

Says Tommy: "I wasn't sure I could hold him long, and I yelled to John to go away. He just sat there looking at me. Then suddenly Joe pulled the trigger. There was a sharp crack that deafened me for a minute, and a bullet whizzed by my head and ripped on out through the top of the tent. I should have been scared then, but I wasn't. At that moment I was too excited to feel the effects of fear."

And still John sat calmly on his cot, watching Tommy wrestle with the drunken maniac. Whether he was dazed or scared stiff or just thought it was all a joke, Tommy never learned. But he sat there until another shot rang out, and this time the Bullet hit John in the hip. That broke the spell. John leaped to his feet and streaked out of the tent. Tommy says he's never seen a man run so fast in his life.

Tommy Stares Into the Muzzle of a .45.

Tommy was tired by that time—dead tired. Joe was strong as a bull, and he knew he'd never be able to get that gun away from him. "John was gone," he says, "and I didn't think Joe would shoot me. I took a chance and let him go. He got up, drunk and furious, and for a full minute I lay on the ground staring into the muzzle of the .45. That's when I did get scared. I have never seen a gun muzzle grow to look so large. I expected every second to be my last, and I began wishing he would shoot and get it over with. But no! He just stood there, fingers convulsing on the trigger, face purple with rage. Then all of a sudden he seemed to realize that John had gone, and he ran out of the tent after him."

That was the beginning of the end. In another ten seconds the whole camp was in an uproar. They caught Joe and took him to the guardhouse, and later they found Johnny and sent him to a hospital, where he spent several weeks getting over that wound in the hip.

And Tommy says that just about the time John got out of the hospital was when his nerves quieted down and his hair stopped standing on end.

Fygmy Hippopotamus

The pygmy hippopotamus is found only in a few lakes and rivers of Liberia, the Negro republic of Western Africa, although his ancestors in prehistoric times inhabited southern Europe, northern Africa, and the islands of the Mediterranean. The pygmy is not so well equipped for swimming as the giant hippo. His eyes are set in the side of his head, instead of on top, and his legs and tail are longer. He has a larger brain and spends more of his time on shore in dense jungle than in the water.

Colonial Dutch Ovens

The early Colonial American Dutch ovens were round, square, or oblong, with an open front. The round variety was often fitted with a spit turned by a handle on the outside, to roast meat. Otherwise the ovens were used for baking. The open side was set close to the fire, to receive the full heat. Usually they were constructed of tin which gave them the name of "tin kitchen" or "Dutch kitchen." The bake kettle, a covered receptacle on high legs to set over the fire, was sometimes called a Dutch oven.

Dust or Bait Is Army Worm Cure

Calcium Arsenate Used for Some Crops; Poison Bait for Others.

By C. H. Brannon, Extension Entomologist, North Carolina State College, WNU Service.

There are a number of methods of controlling the fall army worm. Dust calcium arsenate on crops not burned by this material; on other crops such as corn, beans and peas, apply lead arsenate dust to cover the plant thoroughly.

Small plants like alfalfa and crabgrass may be protected with applications of poisoned bait. This is especially recommended where the worms have almost destroyed the crop.

The bait can be made at home with one pound of paris green to 50 pounds of wheat bran. Add two gallons of molasses that have been thinned with water, and stir thoroughly. Then pour in enough water to make the bait crumbly, but not soupy.

Fifty pounds of bait is enough for five acres. Apply it broadcast in the evenings, and do not allow poultry or animals access to treated fields. Smaller amounts of bait can be mixed in the same proportion.

If desired, two pounds of calcium arsenate may be substituted for the pounds of paris green in the bait.

When the worms are migrating, they can be trapped by plowing a deep furrow at right angles to their course of advance. Shallow holes dug at intervals in the furrow and filled with gas oils or kerosene will kill the worms.

Where it is not possible to plow a furrow, a thin line of coal tar placed a little distance ahead of the worms will keep them from invading neighboring fields.

Famous Americans Urged Planting of Red Clover

Just who brought the first red clover to the New World is still a question, but records in the United States Department of Agriculture report that many men famous in Colonial history urged its growth.

As early as 1633, Lord Baltimore asked his settlers to bring good stores of clover seed, but there is no record that they did. William Penn in 1685 tells of success in growing English grass (red clover) and that Robert Turner, a wealthy merchant planter sowed "great and small clover."

Benjamin Franklin, about 1750, wrote that he had "seeded 30 acres to red clover in Philadelphia on the 23rd of August." Nearly 25 years later his "Poor Richard's Almanac" told of "An experienced method of sowing clover on barley."

George Washington in 1786 wrote that seed of red clover was obtainable "on easy terms" in Virginia. It was in these years—the reconstruction period after the Revolution—that extensive cultivation of clover began.

Water Hemlock Poison

Cicuta maculata, also known as water hemlock, is deadly poisonous to live stock. It has such a vile smell when the leaves or stems are broken that one would not expect live stock to eat any of it, but cattle will at times, and with fatal results, especially when the plant is full of sap. Children have been poisoned by eating the fleshy roots, which taste a bit like parsnips. This is a vile plant, which should be killed out or fenced in so thoroughly that no cattle can get to it. The flower heads look a little like wild carrot, but are larger. Most farmers know this plant in localities where it grows, but many do not know its poisonous qualities.—Rural New-Yorker.

For the Farmer

Skimping on protein for pigs wastes other feeds.

Farmers use 26 per cent of all trucks sold in this country.

Noxious weeds can be most easily destroyed during weather that is hot and dry.

According to a recent study, farmers commit less crime than men of any other occupation.

Under average conditions a bushel of corn, when on the cob, will occupy about two cubic feet.

Turnips are largely used in England and Canada for feeding of stock. They grow best in cool weather.

Bone chewing in cattle is a sign of phosphorus deficiency in the ration. Feeding bone meal corrects the condition.

On an average, dairymen raise or purchase enough heifers to replace from one-fourth to one-fifth of their herds each year.

When the pasture becomes drier and the feed scarcer, the cow does not get as much to eat and additional feeding of grain is needed.

Making soil tests in each field and then setting down the results of the tests on a map of the farm will give a permanent record for use in a soil improvement program.

Household Questions

When making bread and butter pudding, sprinkle each slice of bread and butter with desiccated coconut instead of currants, and strew some on the top. This will make a change from the ordinary pudding and will be found very tasty.

Steaming is a good way to cook vegetables, as it reduces the loss of minerals and vitamins. It is also economical, because you can cook several different vegetables at a time.

If the stalks of broccoli are too thick, split them lengthwise before boiling, so that stalks will cook in the same amount of time as the buds. Broccoli should cook for 20 minutes after water starts boiling.

Old hardwood floors do not require refilling when being done over. Apply two coats of thin shellac, re wax whole surface and polish. Floors should be treated in this way twice a year.

Be careful to wash all garden furniture before storing away. Nests built by insects in crevices in furniture are often overlooked. It is in this way insects often get into the house.

Instead of burning up withered stalks and plants, save them to lay over leaves used to cover flower beds. They prevent leaves blowing away. Burn these stalks and plants in the spring.

MISNOMERS

Every once in a while we come across terms that we use in connection with foods which are not correct, either in definition or in spelling. Yet, by habit, we have made them acceptable in some cases. For example, we call a tomato a vegetable, and yet, botanically speaking, it is a fruit. Perhaps that is why it is so generally accepted as an alternate for orange juice as a meal beverage.

Very casually we speak of garnishing a salad with "pimento," and yet how surprised we would be if we were taken at our word and the salad appeared with a dark powdering over it or with little dark seeds throughout. Pimento is the berry of the all-spice and is simply the technical name for the spice. Add one more "i" to make it pimiento, and you have the sweet Spanish red pepper used as a garnish.

When we commonly speak of tuna, without other qualification, we ordinarily think of a canned fish because that is the term by which we are accustomed to buy and speak of that popular Western sea food. However, this fish is truly tunny. Tuna, according to the dictionary, is the prickly pear, which is a common plant of the subtropical parts of the Southwest. This plant belongs to the cactus family and is mentioned by an English writer as the Indian fig. The French sometimes refer to it as the Barbary fig, the Spaniards know it as higos chumbres, and the Mexican peon calls it tuna. Its pulp is sweet and juicy, suggestively like cucumber, in flavor, and the juice will ferment to make a beverage. Nutritively tuna is comparative to fresh figs, oranges or cherries.—Food Facts.
