

TOURIST TIPS: PREPARING THE CAR

By C. W. Wood

Millions of motorists will take to the open road this summer for vacation trips. Some will start with no preliminary preparation of their cars, others will make sure before hand that all is well mechanically. The chances of enjoying a 100% pleasurable tour are strongly with those who carefully groom their cars for the trip. In fact, "tune up before you tour" is advice that, if followed, will do more than any other one thing to make a motor trip a real pleasure trip.

Many drivers who use their cars daily for only a few miles in their regular routine, with never any trouble do not realize that a car that seems to work well in the city may be quite unfit to undertake long-distance trips. Little faults that need correction remain unnoticed through months of ordinary driving; when the car is suddenly called upon to work at full power over long periods, these little faults may develop into bigger faults that detract largely from the fun of motoring.

Both safety and pleasure are at stake when vacationists start out without having their car carefully inspected and its faults corrected. The principal safety items, of course, are brakes and steering—and in most cases simple adjustments are all that they may require. Good tires are required for both safety and pleasure. All lights should have good bulbs, and headlight beams must be properly adjusted. New windshield wiper blades are not costly, but are of much value when needed.

For comfort and uninterrupted pleasure, everything should be done that will guarantee continuous travel without enforced halts. A motor tune-up is one of the best of precautionary measures. The battery should be checked carefully, and the generator charging rate adjusted for long distance running at good speed. A complete change of lubricants in crankcase, transmission and rear axle is recommended and, of course, a thorough greasing of the chassis. Shock absorbers always are subjected to severe use on a vacation trip over strange roads, and should be adjusted before the departure.

For some strange reason, vacation motorists are always greatly surprised to find that cars that have seemed all right at home "heat up" as soon as they get out on the open road. They have overlooked the fact that the faster the run and the heavier the pull, the more heat the engine develops, and that the cooling system that was good enough for runs to the office and the country club, may not be up to the job of carrying off several times as much heat on a long climb in the mountains. To function properly, the cooling system must allow free circulation of the water, which calls for a clean radiator and good rubber connections, with renewed or tightened pump packing. Highly important, too, is the proper adjustment of the fan belt, which on long, fast runs must carry a far greater load than in city driving.

Incidentally, bodies that seem dead silent on city boulevards often reveal an astonishing variety of squeaks and rattles when the car really gets going. It will add a lot to the vacationist's happiness if he will have the body belts tightened, door hinges and catches tightened and oiled, and everything made snug.

There will be more motor touring this year than ever before. And there will be a lot of pleasure for millions of tourists—especially for the drivers who carefully groom their cars for the trip before they start.

TO RAKE OR NOT TO RAKE

Disposition of lawn clippings after mowing the lawn presents a perplexing problem inasmuch as some advise letting them lie and others say to remove them. As a matter of fact, either plan may be right. If the clippings are short they make an excellent mulch when the grass is not too thick. On the other hand, if the turf is dense and thick the clippings are best raked up since they tend to smother the grass, not to mention their unsightly appearance.

A straggle little house cat was the cause of the death of one woman and injury to three others. Joe Harrington attempted to throw the cat out of his car while driving along a Texas highway. Pussy dug her claws in his arm, causing him to lose control of his car which crashed head-on into another.

Disbelief that the warmth of a person's hand would make mercury rise cost a New York lad the sight of an eye. William Hill tried it with an open tube. The mercury leaped upward and struck him in the eye.

Mrs. Earl Graham visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lang, at Shamrock Friday and Saturday.

IT WAS NOT A LIONS CLUB

It is told of a certain London club famous for the stiffness of its members. The young man was a very new member of the club, having been introduced by an ancient uncle. He dined at the club for the first time on his next visit to town, and no one spoke to him. The members sat about their tables in stony silence. Finally he mustered his courage and spoke to the old man next to him. "I wonder if I could trouble you to pass the salt, sir?" The old man's eyes filled with tears and the younger one, thinking he had in some way offended him, hastened to apologize. "Oh, it isn't that, young man. I am deeply touched. I've been a member of this club for forty years and you are the first one who has spoken to me."—Lions Bulletin, North Toronto, Ontario.

Haven Mowry firmly believed lightning would not strike twice in the same place. Recalling that it had one struck his tractor he failed to dismount from the machine during a Pennsylvania thunderstorm. But it did strike again, knocking him to the ground and inflicting painful burns.

Considering how fine this railroad transportation is nowadays, you can't travel any cheaper. Fares lowest in history—substantial savings on round trip tickets. So why not take the train? It's safer. It's more dependable.

You can't beat the improved travel comfort in coaches and sleeping cars. It's a good thing movies don't have such restful seats—most folks would sure fall asleep.

Ever hear about the new Free pick-up-and-delivery of less than carload freight? It's a great convenience to shippers and receivers alike. Western railroads pick up at the door, ship by fast freight, and deliver to door at no extra charge.

Railroad trains are running on faster schedules these days. Seems like the iron horse wants to show these new streamlined diesels that he can step out, too. Both passenger and freight schedules have been speeded up.

What's more, the railroads believe in "safety first." Last year not one passenger was killed in a train accident on western railroads.

Talk to your local railroad agent. He's full of information about traveling and shipping.

We are proud of railroad achievements, appreciate the public's good will and increased patronage, and pledge continued progress.

MORE MEALS RECOMMENDED

Mothers who prohibit children eating between meals and those who oppose the midnight snack are on the wrong track, according to Yale physiologists. After studying a specific group of people of varying ages they have concluded that efficiency is chiefly a matter of eating—not how much but how often. They recommend that the regular amount of food be spread over at least five meals a day. Their studies indicated that efficiency remains above normal level for only two hours on two meals a day; four hours on three meals; five to six hours on four meals, and seven hours on five meals.

SMOOTH LEMONS BEST

It is the amount of juice that counts in making lemonade. This explains why such a drink may taste weaker or stronger although the usual number of lemons may have been used. A thin-skinned lemon yields the most juice. These are most readily detected through their smooth skins and many pores which indicate thinner skins than those with rougher skins and fewer pores.

PROVIDENCE

chapter of the Gospel of Luke we read of the catch of fishes. The Lord with temporal power not permit to Peter to go into the deep, and let him fish for a draught. Luke was to fish in shallows during board daylight.
The Lord said to Peter:
"And when they had enclosed a great net, the Lord provided temporal gifts but also he preached to Peter and told them of the way to inherit eternal life. This instance reminds us in the Book of Providence will not suffer the righteous to perish." As of Christ the apostle especially provided for food. His soul was not receiving soul provi-ence is not limited. All to be provided for spiritual food. He is all be saved eternally.

The soul is available from Scriptures, a source with supply. If one cannot obtain a copy of the Holy Bible is available even in editions in the time one can say that the price is so high priced that it is prohibitive. The Lord has other means for supplying with spiritual food.
Very good. Even the blind can get the Bible in raised-letters. Chapters of Scriptures available on gram-mophone. Sermons based on Bible can also be heard on radio. (We are not referring to modernistic sermons of instead their hearers to hell).
is a liberal provider for our souls. Let us make use of our golden opportunity while we may.

To put off with our Bible study to another day may prove to be too late. Those that are lazy and wicked will be cast away by the Lord. That is the alternative of which we must be aware. Scripture says, the Lord "casteth away the substance of the wicked." On the other hand, "The Lord will not suffer (permit) the soul of the righteous to perish."
Two alternatives. What is your choice?

MOODY, STAR SALESMAN

Soon after the D. L. Moody colportage books were issued, Mr. Moody sent the students of the Institute in all directions selling them, and thereby earning their way in school. He would hold experience meetings to see how they were succeeding. Most of them soon learned how to sell.
Here is how Mr. Moody met the excuse of one who couldn't.

"Mr. Moody, I am very glad these other fellows have been able to make it go, but I couldn't make it go."

"You couldn't make it go?"

"No, sir."

"Well, I can tell you why you couldn't make it go."

"He picked up a colportage book from the desk. Major Whittle was sitting in one of the chairs right in front of Mr. Moody.

"You went into the office, and you said: 'Please, sir—I have—have—some—books—here I am trying to sell. —Wen't—you—buy—one?' And the man told you to get out. He had no time to bother with a man like that. Wasn't that the way?"

"Yes, that was about the way,"
said the student.

Mr. Moody said: "I will show you how to do it. 'Good morning, sir.
Here is a book of Spurgeon's sermons. Spurgeon was one of the greatest preachers in the world. We are selling these books at 15 cents apiece, or two for a quarter. Won't you take them?' (reaching them to Major Whittle).

Major Whittle jumped up and,
fumbling in his pocket, said: "Yes,
yes, wait until I get a quarter."

Mr. Moody stood for a moment speechless, and then he laughed until the tears rolled down his cheeks, and the Major sat down and laughed as heartily as Mr. Moody.

BANK NIGHT PHILOSOPHY

We spend 25 cents for a 1 to 65,000 chance on a bank night prize of $1,250; and then begrudge spending that same amount of money for a sales aid which would give us a 1 to 10 chance of making a commission of $5 to $1,000.

We quit early and stand in line, or buy a ticket at noon, to be sure of "getting in" when the rams amount of foresight and planning to be sure of "getting in" to see a prospect would give us a 1 to 30 chance of closing some business.

We spend hours and days composing a slogan or writing a one-hundred word "essay" on a chance of being one of the winners in a contest at tracting several hundred thousand entries; when the same amount of effort spent on wording an approach human interest story (which could be used over and over again) would net real money in our pockets without Lady Luck having a thing to say about it.

We stay up until midnight making a list of three-letter words because we might win a $5 prize—one hundred fifty thousand other Americans think the same thing about themselves—and then were too weary to go thru the prospect file and make a list of good prospects for the next day's work.

In other words, the reason most of us don't succeed is because we don't work hard enough on the right things.

Old Acquaintances of Douglass and All Ministers of Panhandle Vouch for His Character

We, the undersigned citizens of Carson County, certify that Curtis Douglass has lived among us during the past eleven years and that he is a citizen of good morals and good repute, capable and well qualified to serve as State Senator. We present him to the people of this district as one of our most active civic workers who has the support and confidence of the citizenship of this section.

Any citizen is requested to communicate with us at our expense if such citizen desires intimate information concerning the character and habits of Mr. Douglass.

"No Man Can Serve Two Masters"

CAN A STATE SENATOR PROPERLY REPRESENT THE MASSES OF OUR CITIZENSHIP AND BE THE ATTORNEY FOR THE FOLLOWING CORPORATIONS?

|---|--|
| 1. Great Southern Life Insurance Company | 10. Post Dated Oil Company |
| 2. Shell Petroleum Corporation | 11. Associated Natural Gas Corporation |
| 3. Columbia Fuel Company | 12. The Mert Oil Corporation |
| 4. Humble Oil and Refining Company | 13. Buckeye Gasoline Company |
| 5. Phillips Petroleum Company | 14. Aeroline Gasoline Company |
| 6. Continental Oil Company | 15. Piney Oil and Gas Company |
| 7. The Cargray Corporation (Hagy, Harrington and Marsh) | 16. Magic City Oil and Gas Company |
| 8. Safety Casualty Company | 17. Pioneer Oil and Gas Company |
| 9. Smith Brothers Refining Company | 18. Shamrock Oil and Gas Company |

These 18 corporations listed above may be authenticated from newspaper dispatches, state railroad commission hearings and court records. And yet the Senator says he has not collected $500 from corporations in 25 years of practice. These names listed are documented, and there is a reason to believe that there are many more corporations the Senator represented.

PANHANDLE FARMERS!

What would you have done if you had not received your wheat, cotton and other checks under the AAA? Did you know that Senator Small was one of the co-authors of Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 4 which petitioned the Congress of the U. S. not to pass the Agricultural Act for the farmer (See Senate Journal, page 24, 117th Regular Session 43rd Legislature, 1933).

SENATOR SMALL WAS ABSENT WHEN IMPORTANT LEGISLATION WAS VOTED UPON FOR EITHER PASSAGE OR DEFEAT AT THE FOLLOWING SESSIONS OF THE LEGISLATURE, AS FOLLOWS:

5th Called Session, 41st Legislature, 1930, ABSENT 95 times. Regular Session, 43rd Legislature, 1933, ABSENT 275 times. Regular Session, 44th Legislature, 1935, ABSENT 265 times. 1st Called Session, 44th Legislature, 1935, ABSENT 54 times. 2nd Called Session, 44th Legislature, 1935, ABSENT 81 times.

In connection with the above absences, Senator Small and his supporters say that he was never absent when important legislation affecting this section was voted upon. The voters' attention is called to pages 29, 30 and 31, Senate Journal, 2nd Called Session, 44th Legislature, wherein Senator Small was absent five times when the Senate was voting upon amendments to Senate Bill No. 1, which was a bill on the question of old age pensions.

Senator Small has accused the friends of Curtis Douglass of attacking Small's record instead of dwelling on the virtues of their candidate; we admit that we are waging a campaign on Small's record, for that is the MAJOR reason we want to replace him.

In the small square house where the dynamo stood greasy and unresponsive, Bryn detached a pair of overalls from a peg on the wall and climbed into them. "Now," he said, when Gary had given him the pathological history of the electric plant, "if you'll go and prepare a large and delectable dinner, and leave me alone in my glory, I'll see what's to be done, Gary."

There was, as Bryn had suspected, nothing seriously wrong with the engine of the electric plant. He opened the cocks to drain out all the old oil, cleaned the connections, and made a note of the few parts it would be necessary to replace. Before the motor was started, he decided, it would be wise to inspect the connections at the house. He removed the greasy overalls, hung them on the peg.

He went to the kitchen and got a drink. Gary was shelling peas. All morning, as Bryn knew, he and Deborah had spent making strawberry jam; and now every window-sill was filled with small ruby jars which caught and held the sunlight.

"Where's there a ladder?" he asked. "Out on the edge of the orchard," Gary told him. "But you better be careful of it. It isn't as good as it might be."

Bryn went out behind the house and followed with his eye the line of the electric wires as they crossed the trees and the brook. He went out to the orchard, lifted the ladder lying half-hidden in the grass, carried it back and propped it up against the wall of the house, beneath the place where the wires entered. Trying each rung cautiously, he went up the ladder.

As he reached the top he turned half-around as he took the pliers from his pocket, and was just in time to see Deborah emerge from her retreat down near the bridge. He did not look at her, but went busily to work, whistling blithely, attacking the wires at their point of connection with the house.

There was a sudden ominous cracking which Bryn scarcely heard; he was listening for Deborah's footsteps on the path beside him, wondering whether to look down and smile or to continue absently with his work. He was spared the necessity of making a choice; for, a moment after the unheeded warning, the rung upon which he was standing collapsed into splinters, and Bryn fell neatly through. He heard Deborah scream; the puppy barked furiously; and then he dropped into oblivion.

He awoke, a few moments later, with something cold dashing across his forehead, and the sound of Deborah's voice saying in a whisper, "More, Gary, get more, quick!" The sound of footsteps. Bryn lay motionless, collecting himself. He was not hurt. He knew he was not hurt. The grass was thick, here, and he had broken his fall; his head had probably been whacked just hard enough to put him out for a minute or two. He did not open his eyes. Deborah was beside him. She put her hand on his forehead, lifted the wet hair back from his brow.

She bent over him. "Don't die," she whispered like a breath. "Don't die, please don't die."

He moved his head faintly, and lifted his hand. He would find here . . . with his wedding ring on it . . . he would hold it firmly, and tell her . . . her little white hand . . . he groped for it.

Something soft and light fell on his cheek, a delicate gentle touch. He caught his breath and held it. The touch came again, gentle, on his cheek, at the side of his mouth. He threw off his pretense of weakness, put his hand up quickly, opened his eyes, his heart thumping; and found himself clutching with both hands the puppy, nosing him in an anxiety of curiosity. Deborah was gone.

He got up with the puppy under his arm and strolled grimly around the corner, to meet Gary, wild-eyed, approaching with a brimming dipper of water.

"You aren't hurt, sir?" Gary gasped breathlessly. "Aren't you hurt?" "Not a scratch," Bryn replied. "Sorry to frighten you."

"Well, that is good," Gary said with heartfelt emotion. "I got a terrible fright. And Miss Deborah was coming to the house and saw you fall. She . . ." he stopped.

"She what?" Bryn asked calmly. "She's crying."

Evening came on again; dinner was served in the dining room, brighter now with a host of tall tapers. Grandmother was happy tonight, gay and light hearted. When dinner was over she wanted to go for a little stroll.

It was a glorious night. The moon had already risen, and hung, a huge silver lamp, just over the top of the lowest hill. The sky was deep blue. Grandmother leaned on Bryn's arm; Deborah was on her other side.

"Very nice night," Bryn said for mally.

"Yes," Deborah agreed after a moment. She glanced up at him in the moon light, but his face was cool and unmoved. Wordless, she followed his lead, walking quietly beside him. They went slowly down along the brook.

They were almost at the end of the path. He had not spoken. She lifted her head. "I'm . . . I'm sorry you fell and hurt yourself," she said in that delicious low voice with the tiny break.

"I didn't hurt myself," Bryn said calmly. "Sorry to cause a commotion." They reached the end of the path. Bryn turned. Deborah hesitated, but, after a second, turned beside him. Half-way to the house she hesitated. "It was . . . kind of you to remember tobacco for Gary," she said. "I didn't realize why he wasn't smoking."

Bryn did not reply. Almost back at the house, she spoke again. Her voice held a hint of desperation. "It . . . it is a lovely night, isn't it?" she said.

"I think it's a little chilly," Bryn replied. "Do you suppose your grandmother thinks we've been out long enough now?"

"I'm Sorry You Fell and Hurt Yourself."

She stopped and looked up at him. And as he looked down at her, she turned away with a little droop in her shoulders, and left him.

Deborah stood against the stone railing of the balcony, surveying the changes taking place in her little world, and was thoroughly miserable. Everyone seemed to be in a conspiracy against her. Grandmother was very happy; her cheeks grew pinker every day, her appetite had improved. Grandmother, of course, thought that Deborah was happy too. She didn't begin to realize how empty life was now, and how lost and forlorn Deborah was beginning to feel. It hadn't occurred to her that this dream of hers which had come true had never been Deborah's dream.

Yes, Bryn was making Grandmother happy; but that was frightening. Because, at the end of the year . . .

And one couldn't dream of making a bargain with him to continue the play acting until . . . until Grandmother didn't need anyone any longer. That would be years and years, Deborah hoped. And he had his own life to live, his own career to carve out, his own . . . well, his own girl to marry.

Deborah fell to wondering what his own girl was like. She would be beautiful, of course, and probably tall and queenly, instead of little and childish. It was difficult to understand what her circumstances were that she would allow him to make money for her in such a strange way. If she were wealthy, surely they would have been married whether he had money or not. If she were poor, one would think that she would have been willing to marry him and share his difficult times with him. There must be something about her that Deborah didn't understand.

Deborah moved suddenly from the balcony railing and went inside her own pretty bedroom; and there she flung herself on the bed and cried miserably into the silver and violet spread.

After a long time she sat up and dried her eyes. There wasn't anything to cry about. What if they had laughed at her? She would never see her, and the girl would never see her. As for the man, they were as distant from each other as any two people could possibly be, who had to act at intervals an affectionate little comedy. The other night she had tried, it was true, to be friendly. She had tried to apologize for not accepting his assistance with better grace, to tell him how sorry she was that he had been hurt while trying to help her; and he hadn't allowed her to be friendly. He had been cold and unresponsive, and she hated him for it. But it was better for him to be so. Far better. There wasn't anything between them but the relation of an employer to a servant; he had said so himself.

She got down from the bed and tiptoed to the door. No one was about, she knew that. The maids had been here for two days, and the cook as well, but they were all down in the living room with Gary, putting it in order.

Deborah went through the back door and down the path to her old play-house.

What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

War Debt Hangovers

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.— In summarizing governmental finance for the fiscal year, Secretary Morgenthau doesn't even list the thirteen thousand millions of dollars owed to us by defaulting foreign nations.

But Americans at large won't forget. If you doubt this, wait till one of these debtor countries gets in a fresh jam and turns to Uncle Sam for succor—and, brother, you can spell that last word the other way and still be right.

We didn't know what we were getting into when we stuck around too long after the fighting ended in 1918. Makes me think of a colored labor battalion who went on the loose at Brest on Armistice day.

A hardboiled top sergeant rounded them up:

"Get to work on dem freight piles," he commanded.

"But de mess al done over," declared a spokesman. "And us boys only enlisted fur de duration of de war."

"Lissen," barked the sergeant, "de war may be over, lak you specifies, but fur sich ez you de duration ain't hardly started."

Woes of French Hotels

IF, OVER the woes of the French resort hotels, anybody catches me shedding a tear, it'll come out of an eyedropper and not from the heart. I'm thinking particularly of the romantic and soulful Riviera, which, under the surface, is just as romantic as an adding machine and soulful as a cash register.

There, where E. Phillips Oppenheim once delighted to "op" and the Yankee suckers rushed in, ready for their skinning—and never disappointed—is the original home of the deft short-change and the mastodontic overcharge. There I've seen many a mistake made in the bill and never yet one in favor of the customer.

Influenza Complications

SINCE the last bedside bulletin, so many souls have inquired, that I am offering a supplemental report on the work of the wrecking crew.

First I cracked an ear drum. (Cries of "Whose?") Then this clinging California influenza moved slightly south by west within your correspondent's area. So now I've fallen into the hands of a throat specialist.

A fine fellow—but easily satisfied in the matter of entertainment. His idea of a sprightly conversation is to hold down my tongue with a spoon and have me say "ah." What I claim is, when you've heard one "ah," you've heard 'em all. But he fairly hangs on my words. There's a gleam in his eye I don't like. He's beginning to crave my tonsils.

Taking Political Sides

TODAY some entirely fair-minded patriot who is snuggled up close to the throne or hopes soon to be, proclaims: "Landon is as synthetic as a rubber duck. Roosevelt is the only hope of an imperiled people. What price a constitution when we can have frankfurters?"

Tomorrow another gentleman, who likewise is as unbiased as a spiefence, bursts forth with something like this:

"Re-elect Roosevelt and your country forever is wrecked. Landon alone can save our threatened institutions. A real statesman. He eats in the kitchen and hates to wear neckties."

Meanwhile, Mr. Roosevelt remains calm and seemingly confident. Governor Landon remains calm and seemingly hopeful.

The Two Opposing Camps

ON THE Republican side there temporarily is a lull. Incredible though it sounds, Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., is not getting ready to run for anything. Later reports may change this.

Organizing the speaking bureau for the Democrats, Chairman Rayburn does not list among the chosen orators the name of his most distinguished fellow Texan. In vaudeville it breeds a laugh when the second half of the sketch makes the wrong answers, but politics is something else again. Can it be that Uncle Jack Garner has become the Gracie Allen of his sex? Only they do let Gracie talk!

A writer who isn't taking sides wonders at length whether the homespun suspender-wearing qualities of Gov. Landon can overbalance the melodious and limpid lines of President Roosevelt. For this problem the appropriate musical accompaniment would seem to be, "Poet and Peasant."

Pinafore for Little Girl

Pattern No. 1910-B

The clever cutting of this useful pinafore is shown in the small diagram beside the little girl. You will see at once that this frock requires no seaming and of course the feature which so greatly intrigues children is the butterfly which forms the pocket.

Notice how simple it is to put on, merely slipped over the head and tied at each side. Mothers find it a great help because it can be used as an apron over a frock, which must be kept clean, or worn instead of a frock. The panties to match are an asset—they have the comfortable French yoke top and stay snug but never bind. This attractive design made in cotton, percale, gingham, calico, or lawn would be effective with contrasting binding and colorful embroidery on the butterfly pocket.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1910-B is available for sizes 2, 4, 6, and 8. Size 6 requires 1 1/2 yards of 35 inch material plus 7-8 yard for the panties. Send fifteen cents in coins.

Send for the Summer Pattern Book containing 100 Barbara Bell well-planned, easy-to-make patterns. Exclusive fashions for children, young women, and matrons. Send fifteen cents for your copy.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., 367 W. Adams St., Chicago, Ill.

All Around the House

Cut all dead blossoms from garden plants, cultivate soil and water plants frequently during the dry hot weather.

Potatoes to be French fried will be more crisp if allowed to stand in cold water for half an hour before frying.

Waterlilies grow best in a garden pool that is not too clean. They like sunshine and seldom bloom in shaded places.

If you use slip covers on your furniture, remove them occasionally and look for moths. Moths get into the tufts of furniture and multiply rapidly.

If the rind is left on a ham it will boil or bake more rapidly.

Green vegetables will retain their natural color if cooked in an uncovered saucepan.

When lighting a birthday cake always light the candles in the middle first and those on outside last.

Chamois gloves will be soft and pliable if a few drops of olive oil are added to the water in which they are washed.

Promise of Rains and Cooler Weather for Drouth Areas

...WITH a recession of the ex...tremely high temperatures
...promised and the prospect of rains,
...some measure of relief was in sight
...for the sun-parched drouth areas of ...the Great Plains. Rains which fell
...in portions of the Northwest revived
...scattered areas. But for day after ...day a record-breaking heat wave
...had brought temperatures ranging ...from 90 to 114 from the Rocky ...Mountains to the Appalachians.

...Twenty-three states, eight of ...them in the South, were listed as ...suffering in some degree from the ...drouth. Ten of them—North and
...South Dakota, Montana, Wyoming,
...Minnesota, Missouri, Tennessee,
...Oklahoma, Virginia and South
...Carolina—were already in a critical
...stage. Five others—Kentucky,
...Georgia, Alabama, North Carolina
...and West Virginia—were borderline ...cases. Eight others where the full
...severity of the drouth had not yet
...been felt were: Nebraska, Wiscon...sin, Iowa, Michigan, Illinois, Kan...sas, Indiana and Ohio.

...The sweltering heat and drouth
...spread into Canada. The prairie
...provinces of Manitoba, Saskatche...wan and Alberta—Canada's bread
...basket—had begun to suffer like ...their neighbors in the United ...States. Except for scattered local ...showers, there had been no rain
...from Ontario westward to the ...Canadian Rockies since June 16.

...With the full extent of the dam...age in the "dust bowl" area of the ...Northwest not yet known, the fed...eral government made plans to ...deal with a long-range disaster.
...President Roosevelt, taking personal
...command of the relief program
...in Washington, announced that he ...would make a personal tour of the ...drouth-stricken areas within the ...next few weeks.

...The President announced that ...the federal government had pre...pared a comprehensive plan where-
...by 170,000 out of 204,000 farm fam...ilies impoverished by the drouth in ...the Northwest would be given im...mediate cash assistance. He de...clared that he will make his trip
...after the relief program has had an ...opportunity to get under way.

Green-Lewis Rift Brings Labor Crisis

...AS THE long-awaited campaign
...to unionize the nation's steel ...industry was under way, one of the ...most serious crises in the history of ...the American labor movement arose
...when strife broke out between Wil...liam Green, president of the Ameri...can Federation of Labor and John L.
...Lewis, president of the United Mine ...Workers of America and head of the ...Committee for Industrial Organiza...tion, who has promoted the union-
...ization drive in the steel industry.

...Meeting in Washington, the exe...cutive council of the American Fed...eration of Labor considered the ...matter of suspending eight national ...and international unions on the ...ground that these eight unions
...have begun the formation of a rival,
...or dual labor federation.

...John L. Lewis announced that he ...would not respond to a summons
...of the executive council to answer
...charges that he had violated the ...federation's policy by trying to or...ganize 500,000 steel workers into ...one big industrial union instead of
...into several unions divided by ...crafts.

Threat of Farm Strike Worries French Nation

...WITH the threat of a farm
...strike hanging ominously over
...France, riots in French cities and
...street clashes between the leftists
...supporting the popular front social-
...ist regime of Premier Leon Blum
...and rightists who oppose it added
...to the unrest. The government ...made anxious efforts to dissuade
...farm workers from going on a ...strike for higher pay and better
...wages.

...On five farms near Paris striking
...farm hands had actually oc...cupied the land. While this was a ...localized situation, it was fraught
...with dangerous possibilities be...cause the area affected not only
...provides most of the French capi...tal's fresh vegetable supply but is ...an important wheat growing re...gion as well.

...Due to heavy rains and hot ...weather the wheat has ripened at ...an abnormally rapid rate. Should
...a widespread strike of farm hands
...occur that delayed the wheat cut...ting only a few days, experts were
...of the opinion that the entire crop
...of the region would be lost.

The man who fails to mind his own business is seldom qualified to mind other folks' business.

Maybe one of the reasons women cannot keep secrets is because they tell them to their husbands.

The average man is the fellow who has to carry the tax burden, regardless of leaders or super-men.

Probably we will never see this side of Utopia, a club or church where the treasurer does not have to be a collection agent.

Regardless of how the election goes, we must all live together, and it will not make too much difference in most cases a few years from now. All this to say, we should remain friends whether our favorite candidate wins or loses.

We are in receipt of a letter from the Ford Motor Company's advertising agents who are using The News advertising columns, in which they state that Ford sales are constantly increasing in this territory—"a tribute in part, we feel, to the power of newspaper advertising."

The News has been selected as an outstanding advertising medium by the Western Railroads in their decision to advertise in the weekly newspapers.
 Western Railroads began an advertising campaign last year in the dailies and have branched out to the weeklies this year.
 Railroad executives do not buy advertising space as a matter of sentiment, but strictly as a business proposition, and only after a careful survey of the field and its mediums.

With all our boasted modern methods of transportation, the problem is not yet satisfactorily solved. While at McKinney last Sunday the editor was told of thousands of bushels of onions being hauled and dumped on the railroad right-of-way for lack of a market, and Dallas and Fort Worth retail markets were selling onions for a cent a pound, with the resulting increase in prices as the distance increases from the growers' fields.

 tion of agricultural products in the world's history. There have

Senator Small's Sour Gas Bill Wastes Panhandle's Natural Gas

Senator Small's Sour Gas law caused to be popped into the air approximately one trillion, seven hundred billion cubic feet of our State's natural gas. The market price on this gas at the mouth of the well is four cents per thousand cubic feet. This figures a loss of sixty-eight million dollars; in addition, this waste caused a gas pressure loss on adjoining oil fields, leaving millions of barrels of oil non-recoverable in the ground. It takes gas pressure behind the oil in order that oil may be produced.

For instance, one of the forty-three gas stripping plants near Pampa caused to be ruined two thousand acres of valuable oil land which will never be drilled. Before the stripping plants started, oil wells in this vicinity came in, averaging four hundred barrels per day.

The lease-holder now states the last few wells drilled on this tract came in on an average of from twenty to thirty barrels per well, the result of which prohibited the additional drilling for oil on any of this two-thousand acre tract.

This means that two hundred oil wells on which labor would have received five thousand dollars per well, totalling one million, two hundred thousand dollars which has been lost by labor.

This loss, bear in mind, is only one individual case. Therefore, just think what the other forty-two stripping plants operating over the entire Panhandle have done to our natural resources. Aside from the loss of our gas and oil, consider the loss that labor has suffered which will run into millions of dollars.

What does this mean to the schools, the taxpayer, the land owner and the public generally? Can Senator Small, who has been in the Senate EIGHT YEARS, call this TRUE conservation? Let the people rule, and Hello Everybody!

"Ten Tons of Chain"

By FLOYD GIBBONS
Famous Headline Hunter

HERE'S a detective yarn for you—a smuggling story, with all the good points of an old-time thriller, plus the additional good point every word of it is true. Maybe some of you boys and girls wondered what really goes on behind the scenes with the customs men.

Well, here's one of them to give us the low-down and spin us the story of an actual happening. He is John Lynch of New York city, a distinguished Adventurer, and a heck of a swell yarn spinner.

John barges right into his yarn without any preliminaries. "Well," he says, "it was back in 1914. I was discharged from the Fifteenth United States Infantry at Tientsin, China, and got a job with the Chinese Maritime Customs in that port."

"My duties were to search all ships, coming and going, for smuggled goods and it's not as pleasant a job as you might think, because it entails going into all sorts of odd corners and out of the way places during course of your search."

Customs Officers Ordered to Search the King Sing.

There you've got the whole picture in a nutshell. The picture, that is the average working day. But there's always liable to be a day that's a little different from the average and it's just such a one that John Lynch is going to tell us about now.

It was in 1916, two years after he had entered the customs service. John came to work one morning and took his instructions from the bulletin board. "Officers Mitchell, Galvin and Lynch," read a notice on that board, "will search S. S. King Sing before departure."

It was all in the day's work, and there was nothing in that order that caused any excitement. Mitchell and Galvin arrived a few moments later, and the three of them began getting together their overalls and caps. The King Sing was due to leave in half an hour, so they had to be fast. They went out to the ship and John began searching the fore-cabin crew's quarters while Mitchell and Galvin worked amidships and aft.

John Goes Sleuthing Into Anchor Chain Locker.

John prowled and poked around the crew's quarters, but he didn't find anything. Then he began looking for other hiding places in the fore part of the ship. He spotted a manhole that led down to the anchor chain locker, and that struck him as a likely place to hide contraband, so he lifted the cover and crawled down inside.

The anchor was down, and with it the fathoms of heavy anchor chain, so the locker was empty. But John noticed something that looked suspicious. Footprints—quite a bunch of them—on the floor of the locker.

Now the anchor chain locker isn't such a popular place aboard a ship. It's dark, and stuffy, and little frequented except by the anchor chain. There's something doing down here," John said to himself, and he began looking around in the darkness to see what he could find.

Shanghaied in the Bottom of the Ship!

Then—he found it. In the floor was another manhole leading to the bottom of the ship. He opened that and went down. In the compartment below, were several small wooden boxes. John picked one up and started to break it open, when suddenly he heard the rattle of chain above him. The crew were pulling in the anchor and the chain was pouring into the locker overhead.

John picked up his lamp and started up the ladder. It was no use. Already, a ton or more of heavy chain was lying on top of the opening. He yelled for help until his throat was hoarse, but the noisy rattle of chain deafened all other sound. The ship got under way, and there was John, in that stuffy hole, facing a journey of five days and nights to Shanghai, with no food—no water—and dog-gone little air.

At first, he nearly went crazy. Then, as the hours and days dragged on, he got so he didn't care. The foul air drugged him into a sort of stupor. Hunger pains gnawed him inside, but he knew that wasn't the worst of his worries. The big problem was water. John would have given all his savings for just one big long drink of it in those dark hours.

Five Days in an Opium Smuggling Cache!

After a while, hunger and thirst roused him from his stupor and he began to look around the compartment he was in. He hoped he might find some way of getting out, but he was disappointed. Then, idly, he turned his attention to the boxes on the floor. He broke one open—and it was full of opium. His hunch about those footprints had been right. There WAS something going on. The opium in those boxes was worth a fortune.

Five days and five nights. Then they reached Shanghai. Overhead he could hear the anchor chain snaking out of the locker. Barely able to navigate, John climbed the ladder.

When he came to the second ladder, he almost fainted from weakness and thirst. He was all in when he tumbled out on deck. The first mate found him lying there and took him to his room. When the customs launch came, John told his story of the opium cache, and then he was sent ashore to a hospital for a much-needed going over.

"And I haven't been in a chain locker alone since then," he says. "It's not so bad when you have company."

Selling Hours by Bells

Common Practice on Ships

On shipboard, for purpose of discipline, and to divide the watch orderly, the crew is mustered in two divisions, the starboard (right side, looking toward the head) and the port (left).

The day commences at noon and thus divided: Afternoon watch, from 4 p. m.; first dog watch, p. m. to 6 p. m.; second dog watch, p. m. to 8 p. m.; first watch, 8 p. m. to midnight; middle watch, 12 a. m.; morning watch, 4 a. m. to 8 a. m.; forenoon watch, 8 a. m. to noon.

This makes seven watches, which enables the crew to keep them alternately, as the watch which comes on duty at noon one day has the forenoon the next day, and the men who have only four hours' rest one night have eight the next. This is the reason for having the dog watches, which are made by dividing the hours between 4 p. m. and 8 p. m. into two watches, notes a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Time is kept by "bells," rung every half hour and beginning with each watch (except the one series of "bells" runs through the two dog watches).

The time recorded by the bells is therefore as follows:

A. M. or Bells. P. M.	A. M. or Bells. P. M.	A. M. or Bells. P. M.
1...12:30	1...4:30	1...8:30
2...1:00	2...5:00	2...9:00

The tramp tapped on the back door and asked for something to eat. The housewife replied that she would give him food if he would earn the meal by clearing out the gutter. The tramp agreed, and when he had eaten his way through several sandwiches she came out with a reliable-looking hoe.

S. S. LESSON

By Rev. Cecil G. Goff
Pastor First Baptist Church

CHRISTIANITY SPREAD BY PERSECUTION

Lesson text, Acts 7:59, 60; 8:1-4; 1 Peter 4:12-19. Golden text, "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life." - Rev. 2:10.

The lesson for this week is concerning the persecution of the church in Jerusalem and of the Christians as recorded in the New Testament. Much may be said from a historical standpoint concerning persecution and of the "blood of the martyrs," but it is difficult for a people who have neither experienced nor known anyone who has experienced persecution to comprehend the meaning of the term. Our Christian forefathers were martyrs that the faith might be handed down to their posterity. And today, we, as their posterity, are little more than languidly holding to the faith with little thought of passing it on to our posterity. If there was one small part as much thought given to the record of Christian faith to be left by Christians to their children as there is concerning the estate in the material world we would be turning the world over for Christ.

Nevertheless it may do well for us to look at the Christian fortitude of those who have died for the faith. It was not long after the Master left the spread of His message in the world to His followers that some of them were called upon to give their lives for the faith. Stephen, a good deacon, was preaching. The members of the Sanhedrin became wrought up at the accusations he brought against them and the Jews. The result was that they stoned Stephen to death. Stephen could have saved his life, had he stopped preaching, but he was true to his message, and in a most Christ-like manner met his death. Thereafter Saul later known as Paul, led a wide-spread prosecution against the Christians. Many of them were placed in prison. Some were killed. Practically all the Christians in Jerusalem fled to other parts of the country. But as they went their mouths were not sealed. They went through the land preaching Jesus. And as a result there was a great revival of Christian faith, and many were won.

God has many times used persecution to further His cause. Persecution does a number of things concerning the work of Christ. The first and possibly the most outstanding thing it does is to take from Christians their dependence upon material things. In times of persecution they are usually deprived of most of their worldly possessions. This makes them completely, or at least more dependent upon God. Another thing it usually does is to separate the pretenders from the real Christians. No hypocrite or pretender will stand under persecution. Only those who are true Christians will remain faithful. This gives to the world the proper view of what true Christians are and will do. The world spends its time looking at the hypocrite in the churches rather than admiring the sterling characteristics of the true followers of Christ. In the time of persecution the world has the opportunity to see only true Christians.

We are admonished in the last Scripture given in the lesson text to rejoice and stand faithful through the persecutions that are to come. There are Christians in many lands who are today being called upon to make this sacrifice. But we are not in this country. Most of us will confess that we rejoice that there is no persecution to be faced today. But we are doing little about it. Likely there is less Christianity in the churches in this land "per square inch" than in the churches of like faith in any land upon the face of the earth. And there is as much idolatry in our fair land as in any land upon the face of the earth.

Ours is the one land that has been given to Christian people an unrivaled opportunity to live for Christ and send the Gospel around the earth. Instead, our churches are torn with dissension, selfishness, covetousness, and filled with worldliness until it is difficult for an observing person to tell where the church leaves off and the world begins. The average Christian of today is losing the greatest opportunity that has ever come to Christian people.

He stopped with wonder dumb:

MOODY, BUFFALO HUNTER

One of the best story tellers associated with D. L. Moody in his early work in Chicago was F. G. Ensign, a Christian business man who was much esteemed by the great evangelist.

After we got through with a convention at Lawrence, Kansas, in 1868, related Mr. Ensign, Mr. Moody said: "I would like to see something of the plains."

So we took a trip out on the Kansas Pacific, which was finished about to Hayes City. There was a company of United States soldiers stationed at Coyote. The Indians were plentiful, and the buffaloes were a good deal more plentiful. We got out there early in the morning.

We started out. We must have walked four or five miles, and on our way back we came across a great herd of buffaloes.

"Well," said Mr. Moody, "let us get some guns, and go out and shoot some buffaloes."

I said, "All right." Neither of us was a very crack shot, I think. The soldiers hitched up a six-mule team, and we started. About two o'clock we came to a herd. The soldiers killed some, and they gave us some guns and told us to shoot at the buffaloes passed. We shot. Of course we killed them.

Before we started out, Mr. Moody said to an old settler, "What will you give us a pound for all the buffaloes that we kill?"

"Well," he said, "I will give you six cents a pound, live weight."

"Very well," said Mr. Moody, as sober as a deacon, "that's a bargain." We killed six buffaloes; we, that is, the soldiers did. We took off the hind quarters, and put them in the wagon and brought them back to the settler's office, and Mr. Moody said:

"I am ready to deliver the goods now."

"Why," the old settler said, "I had no idea you would kill any."

Mr. Moody began to unload them. The settler thought that he was dead in earnest, and was scared—he did not know what to do with so much buffalo.

"Well," said Mr. Moody, "we will get you let off if you will come over to the meeting."

Mr. Ensign tells us further that Mr. Moody held a meeting in an extemporized tent, and that settler was the most interested man in the audience.

FIRST PRODUCE BEST

Have you ever noticed how good the first mess of wild spring greens tasted? Or the first green peas or string beans from the garden? This is not imagination working overtime due to the welcoming change from canned to fresh food. It is a fact that the first product of any garden vegetable has the best texture, flavor and usually color. Moreover, contrary to the opinion of many, vegetables that grow rapidly are superior to the slow growers. And of course canned vegetables are more satisfactory when canned at their best.

NEWSPAPERS NOT TO BLAME

The trouble is that the Press is there to give news and what is news is practically always bad news. Crimes and scandals are news, but ordinary quiet, simple life is not news. What is the good of writing to the Press that all the inhabitants of Oxford are living perfectly peacefully and quietly? Famine is news, food is not; controversies are news, agreements are not news unless agreement happens to come at the end of a good exciting controversy.—Prof. Gilbert Murray, chairman of the League of Nations Union.

FARM LIFE BEST

The following are some excerpts from a recent radio talk over a 4-H club radio program by O. E. Baker, agricultural economist of the United States Department of Agriculture:

"I have a son now five years old, and I hope when he grows up that he will decide to be a farmer."

"I want our boy to be a farmer and live in what the Germans call an 'erbhof' or hereditary home, to which his sisters can return in times of depression, should they marry city men."

"The farmer has more and better food to eat than have most city people, and in times of depression he is more certain of a livelihood."

"The farmer has better health than city men and lives longer."

"The farmer becomes a wealthier man than the average city person."

"The farmer is more likely to rear a family and promote the welfare of the nation and the race."

CINDERELLA CENSORED

Quite recently an association of chiropodists demanded that the story of Cinderella be torn from the books, and discarded. Their objection was based on the assumption that the story set a bad example and encouraged girls to insist on shoes a size or two too small, thus encouraging foot troubles. If the demand of the foot specialists were complied with the story would have a big job ahead of them. The story of Cinderella may be found in nearly every country where printed texts are found. One enterprising author has gathered together 345 versions.

TIGHTEST KNOT OF ALL

When someone speaks of the marriage knot they are not just merely using a figure of speech; for a long time the tying of a knot has had an important place in the wedding ceremony. Carthaginians tied the thumbs of the betrothed couple together with a leather thong; the Hindu groom places a ribbon about his bride's neck and ties it in a knot; and the Parsees tie the hands of the groom together.

Vote for J. I. Downs
FOR SHERIFF OF GRAY COUNTY

He will close the gambling houses and run the gamblers out of Gray county. The working man will not lose his pay check to the crooked dice dealers. Gray county will then be a safer place to raise your children.

J. I. Downs' record is clean, as an officer in Gray county. There were no slot machines running in Pampa when he was chief of police and no open gambling games, and there will be none if you voters of Gray county cast your ballots for J. I. Downs for sheriff on July 25th.

A vote for J. I. Downs means a vote for law enforcement in Gray county.

J. I. Downs is honest and is obligated to no clique; he is running on his own record and there is not a black mark against his record.

If you voters of Gray county will elect J. I. Downs your sheriff, it will not be necessary for respectable citizens to have to petition the Grand Jury to "close up" dance halls that are a public nuisance.

J. I. Downs will cut the cost of the Sheriff's department and save the taxpayers several thousand dollars annually.

IN MEMORIAM

Jason Morgan, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Morgan, was born in Alpine, Texas, on October 13, 1905; graduated at the McLean high school; attended Clarendon College two years; then graduated at the Sul Ross State Teachers College at Alpine, and was working on a Master's degree at the Texas State University when death called him from his labors on earth, July 1, 1936.

School teaching was the work he chose and he pursued that profession constantly. His brilliant mind, his manly form, his Christian faith and clean moral life, admirably fitted him for the work he chose.

Everyone who knew Jason was his friend. We humbly submit to the will of God, but wonder why one so fine and useful was called away when the world could have been made better if he was here.
