

The Yard Beautiful

By R. O. Monosmith, Landscape Architect, Oklahoma A. & M.

DID YOU KNOW:

1. That one of our state nurserymen grows red yucca (Hesperaloe englemanni) from seed by the thousands and has shipped them to practically every state in the Union? This fall a shipment will be made to England.

2. That American holly and deciduous holly (both found in the woods of Oklahoma) have separate male and female trees? The female tree produces the attractive red fruit, but the male tree must be present to produce the pollen that fertilizes the female blossoms. A state nurseryman is collecting plants of deciduous holly from the wild, and tagging the male and female trees—selling them in pairs—a Mr. and Mrs. Deciduous Holly, by golly.

3. That one of Oklahoma's nurserymen grows 77 different varieties of apples and can identify the variety by the leaves and twigs? This task isn't too easy when the fruit are on the tree—but to accomplish this feat without the fruit is something! It is interesting to know that this nurseryman came to Oklahoma many years ago from the north to identify apple trees in a large Oklahoma nursery that were badly mixed up. He liked the state so well that he stayed.

4. That Oklahoma grows millions of young apple trees that are sent all over the world—to points where apples will grow?

5. That large state nurseries propagate a number of deciduous shrubs with the aid of a buzz saw? Bundles of branches from dormant plants of Yew, Spirea, Privet, etc., are gathered in January and February, these are run through the buzz saw, cutting them into small sticks 8 or 10 inches long—then set in the fields where a surprisingly large number of them grow.

ONE is for young figures, one for mature. Both of these dresses are smart and new in fashion, and both are pretty enough to wear when company comes, as well as for working round the house. Each has a convenient pocket. These designs are delightfully easy to make, even for beginners. Each includes a complete and detailed new chart.

If You Wear Misses' Sizes.

Make yourself the charming, full-skirted dirndl-type frock with shirring at the waistline, on the shoulders, and on the nice big pocket. Everything about it is very young and attractive—especially the snug basque top, square neckline and tie belt. In a gay print, with ricrac to match, this will be one of your most flattering cottons.

If You Wear Women's Sizes.

Then you'll want the slenderizing dress, built on classic shirred lines, with a plain, slim-skirted skirt. Fullness beneath smooth shoulder pieces gives it correct fit over the bust. Notice there is a slight blouse at the waistline, for freedom of action. That narrow roll collar, finishing the V-neck, is becoming to full faces. This, too, will be pretty in any tubfast cotton that you like, trimmed with ricrac.

1567 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 14 requires 4 1/2 yards of 35-inch material; 9 yards of ricrac to trim; 1 1/2 yards ribbon for tie belt.

1529 is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 4 1/2 yards of 35-inch material; 2 1/2 yards of ricrac to trim.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Glenn A. Parks, Minister
The meeting being held at the Church of Christ, with Glenn E. Green, minister of the Church of Christ at Altus, Okla., doing the preaching, is well under way, with splendid crowds for each service.
The morning services are being held in the church building, and the evening services are being held on the lot near the building.
Brother Green is bringing some inspirational lessons for both of these services, and he cordially invites the people of McLean and surrounding communities to attend all the services possible during his stay with us. If you are not a Christian, you will learn what to do to become one, and if you are a member of the church you need the lessons that are being presented for your own soul's edification. So plan to come, we want you to do it.

SHORT COURSE TRIP REPORT

By Mrs. Luther Petty
Mrs. Jack Foley, representing the Eastside Home Demonstration Club, joined a group of delegates from other Panhandle clubs, at Shamrock July 12, for College Station to attend the short course for farm men and women.

Mrs. Foley reports the first session was a general assembly, where it was said "that women are doing a better job of forwarding civilization than men." It was also stated "the farm home is a cooperative institution based on the husband's having the right attitude toward the wife, and each individual cooperating together."
The next session attended was a lecture on getting your money's worth in textiles. It was learned that the careful buyer examines carefully the material or articles before purchasing.

A visit was made to the horse and cattle barns, where saddle, light and heavy draft horses were seen, and Herefords, Jerseys, Holsteins, Angus and Durham cattle being used for feed experiments.

After a Swiss yodeling program, a style show was given, styles since the early 19th century being modeled by farm men and women.

This was followed by Evolution of Dress. It was said "Each one should dress in harmony with his surroundings." Various designs of fall styles were discussed. Skirts, accessories and hair dressing was also discussed.

In Miss Neeley's lecture on Food for Thought, she said each mother owes her family the best that nutrition can offer when longer life and higher attainments can be had.

Miss Parmley led the singing and Miss Heulen talked on Woman's Place in Farm Finance, the family council being stressed. Next was Electric Wiring, in which government regulations for safety was stressed.

A sight seeing trip to Galveston climaxed the trip, after visiting the largest farmers cooperative market in the World, at Houston.

LIQUOR AND CRIME

From 1932 to 1937 the ratio of drunkenness per 100,000 population doubled. So says the Federal Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice.

The drunk driving ratio was 74.7% over 1932. Since 1932, under repeal, drunk driving has steadily increased, the percentages by years being 3.8, 16.4, 33.0, 48.7, 74.7. In 1937 the Federal Bureau of Investigation had reports from 1,098 cities with a population of 37,564,182.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation also estimates the total number of serious crimes in reporting a population of sixty million. All types of crime except murder and aggravated assault are increasing. The estimated total for 1937 is 1,415,816 major crimes, an increase of 6.2% during 1937.

CLARITY OF STATEMENT

A clergyman was once talking with one of his parishioners who attended church irregularly.

The man listened to the rector's admonishments and said: "My dear sir, I hear you talk oftener than you think."

Since then the bewildered clergyman has been trying to figure out whether the remark was a compliment or a subtle thrust at the kind of sermons he preached.

The incident suggests that statements should be very clearly expressed.—H. C. Walker in Acco Press.

"May I remind my colleagues that I came to Congress as a wet, advocating repeal. I regret to say today that the liquor interests of this country refuse to see the handwriting on the wall. They are indulging in certain practices that are bringing this country again toward the brink of prohibition. The application of these higher taxes proves the growing disfavor the industry is facing."
—Representative O'Malley of Milwaukee.

Noticed something rather amusing in the paper this week besides the political antics. The chamber of commerce manager of Mineral Wells—the city of beautiful baths—re-signed because of physical ailments. The only thing that could be more amusing is for a California manager to relinquish his post and move elsewhere because of the lack of golden sunshine.—"Hattergrams" in Big Spring Herald.

KILLING TOWN PAYROLLS

Willard Bright of the Seagraves News took his business men to task last week, along with the chamber of commerce and a civic club, for sending job work out of town, mostly to Brownfield, killing payrolls in their own town. The Herald has never solicited out-of-town job work, but takes it if it comes unsolicited, but we assure Willard it is not the Herald that is plowing up his potatoes. Whether or not his editorial, which we believe to be the truth, does any good, remains to be seen. However, we have found that most people do not like to be told of their faults.—Terry County Herald.

Some years ago, a man in Cincinnati died who owed a great many people a lot of money. In his will he said he had nothing to leave his creditors but his body and they could divide that up to suit themselves. When the creditors met and heard the will, one quickly made his claim: "I speak for his gall."

Fence Increases the Feed Supply

By T. C. Richardson, Secretary Breeder-Freder Association

It is easy to see an extra stack of hay in the barnyard, but many a potential stack escapes notice because it is scattered over the farm, in fence corners, along the branch, or grows in crop fields after they are laid by. No farmer would let it burn or blow away if he could see it all in one pile; he would reach for his shotgun if anyone threatened to take it away without paying for it. There is only one way to save such odds and ends of grain or forage, which is to let livestock do the harvesting. Whether it is crab grass in the cornfield, shattered grain in the oatfield, bermuda or native grass in unplowed nooks and crannies, it is meat, milk, or wool in the raw. A stock-tight fence around a single field so that it can be grazed may easily be worth more than an extra stack of hay in the barnyard. Not only is the feed worth more if grazed when green; not only is the labor of harvesting avoided; not only is feed saved which cannot otherwise be used; the humus is left on the land in the manure; every day that the animals feed themselves is one less day of serving it to them on a pitchfork. The time it will take to build a fence will shorten the chores for many a year. The division of the farm into three or four sections for systematic rotation of crops is the first essential of good farm management. The present agricultural adjustment act conforms to this principle of management in designating "soil depleting" and "soil conserving" crops, leaving permanent pastures and the remainder of the cultivated land in a different category. But crop rotations cannot be fully utilized to the best advantage without livestock and poultry; livestock cannot be kept most efficiently and economically unless they have access to each part of the farm whenever it supplies feed which they can harvest for themselves; and every field and pasture can be grazed only when it is properly fenced. It would be highly desirable to fence the entire farm at once, after carefully planning for convenience and permanency, but not every farmer can do this. Since we must set up a rotation system, however, to receive the benefits of the national farm act, and good business judgment requires that we make the most of the rotation both in the interest of immediate income and of permanent productivity, we can begin by fencing at least one field a year until the entire farm is subdivided. A few years ago, Jack Shelton added a farm flock of sheep to Lulling Foundation farm's productive capacity by the simple expedient of fencing in a creek which wound its way through the cultivated fields. Enough grass grew on its sloping banks and in its sharp bends to keep the sheep, and, incidentally, they kept down the weeds which formerly served only to seed the nearby plowed land. Not only the land is benefitted by rotation and livestock grazing, but livestock itself, especially hogs, sheep, and poultry thrive better when they can be "rotated"—shifted from place to place. This calls for hog-tight and sheep-proof fence, which may be either full cattle-high woven wire or woven wire 26 to 35 inches high with barbed wires above. There is not much difference in the cost if the barbed wire must be bought new. Before building permanent fences it is well worth while to sit down and plot the farm on paper. It is important that when the plan is completed every field will have access to water, and that they center as nearly as practicable to the homestead and barnyard in order to save time in cultural and harvesting operations. Let's fence at least one field this year. Get that extra stack of hay.

OH-OH!

With nearly a 600% increase in relief costs during the last four years, and with crime steadily rising, the American people cannot much longer defer reconsideration of the whole alcohol policy.

"The same people who voted so exuberantly against prohibition four years ago are now expressing impatience with the products of repeal."—Collier's Magazine.

Trees Grow in Semi-Arid Plains

No longer is it necessary that the Plains country be a vast, treeless expanse. Farmers are finding that adapted species attain a growth of 10 to 12 feet within three years if given the benefit of additional water and frequent cultivation. Water diverted from a roadway has been diverted to this tree site on one of the Soil Conservation Service demonstration projects.

GEORGE MARSH writes 'THE RIVER OF SKULLS'

An amazing new serial of the far North, a land where men fight nature and jealousy in their mad search for gold. Here lived Alan Cameron and John McCord, intrepid soldiers of fortune... here also lived Routh, McCord's daughter, who braved the Arctic's vastness rather than stay behind, alone. In "The River of Skulls" George Marsh visits a mysterious valley of the wastelands, where golden wealth awaited the man who could reach there... and return alive.

IN APPRECIATION

For the loyal support of my many friends who not only voted for me in the election last Saturday, but used their influence in my behalf.

For the confidence of the people whose votes placed me in the lead in my home county.

For the many expressions of confidence and assurances of continued support in the August 27th election.

I cordially invite those of you who did not vote for me in the last primary to join me and my friends in our drive to final victory. We are going "over the top" on August 27th and it will be a pleasure to have you with us.

While fatalities in automobile

most of them, but the drinking

And now an editor has declared that it was probably the delectable dish of blackeyed peas presented President Roose-

Governor Alfred. Well, all we have to say about it is that the President likes such provender much better than the News

The News editor is indebted to Supt. C. A. Cryer for copies of the Oakland (Calif.) Tribune

Well, we could tell the preacher that most of us do not want to know what the

More of Lace This Summer Than Ever

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

AN UNPRECEDENTED vogue for lace is recorded this summer. No longer is lace considered from the luxury and esthetic viewpoint only. Lace has become a tremendously practical factor in the realm of apparel wearable for all occasions.

So lace-conscious have we become, women of keen judgment are acquiring entire wardrobes that are for the most part fashioned of lace. This is especially true with those who travel, for, put to the test, lace stands up under the stress and strain of packing and unpacking, in fact of serving for general wear as well as any other fabric.

You can get laces that you can scarcely identify as lace, so fabric-like is their mesh. They tailor as perfectly as cloth and carry a sophisticated air about them. As for service, you'll be delighted with their practical wearableness. Then there are the handsome, washable cotton and linen laces that tailor so smartly in simple daytime dresses you will be wanting above all else at least one of these practical gowns.

So far we have been talking of lace from the practical standpoint. When it comes to reviewing the triumphs of lace from the esthetic side of the question we think the lovely evening ensemble to the right in the illustration tells the story more eloquently than any word-picture could do. This exquisite creation is of bottle green Chantilly lace, so delicately meshed it is like filmiest cobweb structure. A water green foundation with bands of crepe in rainbow colorings at the hem and bodice top of this slip reflect the spirit of joyous summer. The evening veil which has become a favorite headdress for formal occasion is of bottle green net with appliqued motifs of the lace.

A lace dinner and evening dress, such as is centered in the group, is almost indispensable in any woman's wardrobe. The short rounded bolero of matching lace, the full short sleeves as well as the easy fullness of the skirt are all features that make this dress distinctive and correct for both dinner and dancing. It comes in delectable colors in a new pattern of angel skin lace.

FASHION DECLARES FOR WHITE SUMMER

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

We grant that white is always a summer favorite, but this summer fashion is playing it up in a highly dramatic manner. Costumes are described in the fashion story as "white as snow" or of icy whiteness or white as fleecy summer clouds and so on. You appreciate the stupendous accent on white in fashionable gatherings where "white as a swan" capes and jackets; and boleros of marabout, fur or ostrich are the favored wraps, and where evening gowns float about in billowy masses of white net or chiffon or that which is late style—the pencil-slim draped sculpture-like. Then there are the new white taffeta frocks, "beauties," that they are.

For day there are numberless man-tailored suits of sharkskin and other fascinating wash whites, while the afternoon dresses of white rayon jersey compete in endless parade.

White lingerie has come in and is the wanted kind at present. And as for accessory whites, footwear, gloves, bags and details too numerous to mention make their bow on the fashion stage in pure white.

Top a Print Frock With Silk Coat in Monotone

Well-dressed women find appeal in the new summer costumes that top the print frock with a silk coat in monotone that repeats the leading color of the print. For instance wear with a brown beige and rose print dress, either a jacket or full-length coat of brown silk crepe. Or a red-on-white silk dress adds a bolero of red silk and there are red ribbon bow trims on the frock.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—Of wide public interest is the pressing problem of who's going to join or restrain Joe Louis. It has seemed that all they could do would be to match him against a threesome—possibly Farr, Paster and Baer. But now there is actually serious consideration of launching him against the huge, bulbous two-ton Tony Galento, the Orange, N. J., pub keeper who trains on beer and hot dogs. Tony has never been knocked down, but neither has a hippopotamus or a steam shovel.

Built like a couple of hogsheads, he is a morass in which assailants get swamped, like Japan in China. He fights with his mouth open, as if he were catching flies, which is disconcerting to his opponent, as is his flailing, free-style, generally scrambled attack. His defense consists mainly in his absorbent qualities. They cut him to ribbons, but never cut him down.

He has had about 70 fights. Dumping Nathan Mann marked his heaviest scoring in the ring. He has flattened Al Etore, Leroy Haynes, Charley Massey and quite a few not altogether negligible fighters, but, as yet, no maulers of championship specifications. For some of his fights he trained on applejack, but now says he has found beer is best.

In the little family gin mill and spaghetti palace, down by the railroad tracks, he shadow boxes for the customers and yells for a match with Louis. He says he would like to have it barehanded in the cellar, with $10,000 on the doorstep for the man who comes out. They have a two months' old baby, who, says his father, never will be a fighter or a barkeeper.

"Me—" says Tony—"they had to burn down the school to get me out of the fourth grade. I didn't know my strength and one of my spitballs knocked a teacher unconscious. I'll make this new guy behave and he'll grow up to be a professor or doctor."

Sir Patrick Hastings, counsel for Countess Barbara Hutton Haugwitz-Reventlow in her elaborate and complicated disagreement with her husband, is one of the most interesting front-page lawyers of London, usually a contender in any exciting international wrangle in which London's West End or New York's Park Avenue might be interested. He represented Mrs. Joan Sutherland in the slender suit which grew out of gossip about the Wallis Warfield Simpson divorce suit. It was he who got thumping big damages for Princess Youssouppoff, in the suit over the Metro-Goldwyn Rasputin picture. He won the fight for the Warner Brothers to keep Bette Davis from appearing without their consent.

In court, he has alluded to an episode when, hungry and footsore, he was turning his back on London, but was somehow flagged back again by an indulgent fate. He was trained as a mining engineer, fought in the Boer war and returned to London to precarious years in which he sparred for an opening. He was a journalist, a "leg man" around the grubbier of the police courts. In his attic lodgings, he studied law and was admitted to the bar—with nice going thereafter. He now has one of the largest professional incomes in England. He was knighted in 1923 and was attorney general in 1924.

He is widely and intimately known in social and literary circles, but draws no class lines in his professional work. One of his most spectacular cases was his defense of the Welsh miners in 1925. He moves into his middle sixties with no let-down in mind or person.

Sir Robert M. Hodgson is a shadowy but noteworthy figure in Europe's diplomatic underground, about whom a book may some day be written. He is Britain's go-between in delicate negotiations with Generalissimo Franco of Spain about the bombing of British ships. When he is on a government mission, it is an indication that some subtle business is on.

He had retired in 1936, but Neville Chamberlain called him back as a diplomatic pinch-hitter in this ship-bombing embarrassment. He is the son of an arch-deacon, of somewhat clerical men, and was in the consular and diplomatic service for many years. From 1924 to 1927, he was British charge d'affaires at Moscow. He is usually working quietly off-stage, never in the spotlight.

HOW to SEW By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

Grandmother's Prize Quilt.

IT WAS a great day on an upstate New York farm more than a half century ago. The biggest pumpkins, the finest apples and the sleekest live stock were being loaded to take to the Fair. Grandmother announced that she was taking her silk crazy patchwork quilt. The family disapproved. The quilt glowed with the richest taffetas and satins of "best" dresses of those they knew and loved. The whole neighborhood marveled over the variety of embroidery stitches and the artistry of the needlework. Yet, they all agreed it was not the sort of thing to take.

All that winter the red ribbons and blue ribbons, won by prize pumpkins and apples and farm animals adorned the mantel shelf. But Grandmother, placidly stitching away in her rocking chair, had tucked away in the pocket of her voluminous skirt, the only cash prize that anyone brought home from the Fair. Her crazy patch quilt is still a thing of beauty and a center of interest. It is perfectly at home in a modern living room today. Here is a corner of it and the leaflet offered herewith tells you how to make this kind of quilt and gives detailed instructions for dozens of stitches and combinations of stitches to be used for embroidering crazy patchwork.

NOTE: If you wish to use these weekly articles for reference paste them in a scrapbook, as they are not included in either Sewing Book No. 1 or 2. Book 1, Sewing for the Home Decorator, covers curtains, slipcovers, dressing tables; Book 2 illustrates 90 embroidery stitches with numerous applications; doll clothes and gift items. Order by number, enclosing 25 cents for each book desired. If you order both books, leaflet on making crazy quilts will be included free. Favorite Recipe of the Week

Freezer Ice Cream

1 qt. milk strawberry, lemon, or chocolate* powder (vanilla, maple, or chocolate* flavor) 1 pkg. ice cream powder (vanilla, maple, or chocolate* flavor)

Add milk very gradually to ice cream powder, stirring until dissolved. Pour into freezer can; place in freezer and pack mixture of crushed ice and salt around can (use 8 parts ice to 1 part salt.) Turn slowly for 3 minutes, then rapidly and continuously until frozen. Makes 1 1/2 quarts ice cream.

Any of the following may be substituted for milk in this recipe: 1 quart rich milk or light cream; 1 cup heavy cream and 3 cups milk; or 1 cup evaporated milk and 3 cups milk or water.

Automatic Refrigerator Ice Cream

1/2 pkg. (scant 1/2 cup) ice cream powder (vanilla, strawberry, lemon, maple or chocolate* flavor) 2 tablespoons sugar* 1 cup cream, whipped

Combine ice cream powder and sugar. Add milk very gradually, stirring until dissolved. Fold in whipped cream. Turn into freezing tray of automatic refrigerator and freeze as rapidly as possible. Stir when frozen 1/4 inch thick on sides and twice more at 20-minute intervals. Freezing time: about 3 hours. Makes about 3/4 quart ice cream.

*With the chocolate ice cream powder, use 1/2 package (scant 1/2 cup) of the powder and 4 tablespoons sugar.

For about 1 1/2 quarts ice cream, double recipe above, using full contents of package. Freeze in one or two trays 3 to 6 hours, depending upon amount of cream in trays and freezing speed of the particular refrigerator being used.

Oriental Citizens

The naturalization of Chinese and other Orientals is not permitted in the United States, but those born in this country are citizens on the same terms as any other natives of the United States. The Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution provides that "all persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the state wherein they reside."

Liberty From People

Liberty has never come from the government. Liberty has always come from the subjects of it. The history of liberty is a history of resistance. The history of liberty is a history of limitations of governmental power, not the increase of it.

Leadership

The McLean News is proud to be a unit of an industry that has proved its leadership among industries—and proud that it has become, itself, one of the leaders within that industry.

There are few weekly newspapers that can boast of the plant that the News enjoys. There are few towns the size of McLean that can boast a better newspaper. There are few newspapers that can boast of a more loyal list of subscribers. There are few printing plants of any size that can give better service. There are few newspapers in towns the size of McLean whose editor has been president of his regional press association. There are few newspapers whose local columns carry more names than does the News.

The News is acknowledged a community builder by hundreds of local citizens. The News and its editor have never owed a past due account. The News stands for better living conditions and is striving for what is best for the community at all times.

To the hundreds of men and women who read the paper each week; to the advertisers who assist in building community enterprises; and to those who patronize the News printing department, the News pledges continued adherence to its traditional standards, both in its products and its policies.
