Uplift Elevates Land Masses of Present Day Gray and Donley Counties

WRITER'S NOTE: Time went on. Nature decided upon a change. As the Mesozoic era came into being, the end of the Permian period which marked the close of the Paleozoic era, we witness startling changes both in climate and creation. This article the writer tells of the bones of dinosaur life, rocks with impressions of plant life, etc., which have been found in Gray and Donley counties. Illustration here is artist's conception of a giant flesh eating dinosaur.—Ray E. Colton.

THE BEGINNING OF THE MESOZOIC ERA

What is today the eastern portion of the Texas Panhandle and the local geographical areas of Gray, Donley, DeWitt and adjoining counties, has undergone many geological periods. The strata and soil of these counties, radiating from such focal points as McLean and Alanreed, fossils remains of each period have been found. South of Alanreed in Donley county, one of the recent finds is that of two teeth of a giant carnivorous dinosaur. These teeth were taken to Canyon College, and have been classified as being representative of life which existed here during the Mesozoic era. This era is known as the "age of reptiles," followed the Paleozoic era in geologic sequence. It opened with the Triassic period and closed with the Cretaceous period. As the Triassic period started about 150 million years ago, an upheaval occurred here, which had the tendency to force upward the submerged land masses, cause a gradual recession of the main body of water of the sea, and to replace the water with lakes of various sizes, around the shorelines of these lakes, of which once existed in the central portion of Donley county near Alanreed, there grew giant palm trees, ferns, orchids and other specimens of tropical botanical specimens. Evidence of this one time tropical vegetation is established by the beds of rocks and shales in the area south from Alanreed, which contain the impressions of plant life which could only have been nourished to maturity by a climatic condition which assumed tropical intensity.

Contemporaneous with the opening of the Mesozoic era, namely, the Triassic, there appeared in what is today the eastern portion of the Texas Panhandle, a species of giant reptiles which were known as dinosaurs. The name as derived from the Latin, means "terrible lizard." The dinosaurs were cold-blooded, air-breathing reptiles ranging in size from three feet up to 80 feet. Some of them were smooth-skinned, while others were armored and covered with bony plates. Some had hundreds of teeth, while others were toothless. Tyrannosaurus Rex, "king of the tyrant lizards," who is shown here in the artist's conception, was the greatest of the flesh eaters. Today a few teeth of the portion of a vertebrae and some loose bones, remain as mute evidence that this great 47 foot reptile once inhabited the jungles and swamps which covered Gray, Donley and adjoining counties in prehistoric Mesozoic times.

It is noted in an examination of the fossil remains of this and other dinosaurs, that the soil of this part of Texas has been instrumental in preventing destruction of the remains. The finds which have been made by parties under the direction of Dr. C. Stuart Johnson of the Department of Anthropology and Paleontology of the West Texas State College at Canyon, establish beyond any doubt that this "life" was once numerous here.

The theory of the demise of these giant reptiles, now represented by a few fossil remains, is that a climatic change during the end of the Cretaceous period which closed the Mesozoic era, caused a destruction of the plant life upon which such plant-eating dinosaurs as Triceratops and others subsisted. Deprived of their subsistence, these types died off locally. The giant flesh eaters soon followed. There has been no dinosaurs since.

SOFT BALL LEAGUE

By J. W. Dotson
Goldsmith's Official Rule:
Rule 3, section 7-1. A shoe shall be considered official in softball games if it is: (a) made with either canvas or leather uppers or similar material, or rubber soles with or without soft rubber cleats; (b) made with uppers of leather or similar material with hard rubber cleats extending not over 3/4 of an inch from the sole of the shoe; (c) made with uppers of leather or similar material with metal spikes, providing the spike has blunt edges all around and does not extend more than 3/4 of an inch from the sole of the shoe.

2. Track or any sharp spikes are illegal and will be barred.
We must endeavor to protect every player of the softball league, especially the younger players. In order to have better protection and avoid possible injuries, I am asking that all players leave off shoes with metal spikes. We have had good sportsmanship in every game played during the season. I sincerely hope that each player will endeavor to cooperate in the change we have made in the rules.

Mr. Maisel's statement follows:
"Not having been a politician, and having listened to the claim of many that new blood is desired in the sheriff's office of Gray county, I am herewith placing my candidacy for sheriff before the people.
"I have been a resident of Pampa for eight years, and during the time have never failed to answer when called upon for civic duty, sometimes to the detriment of my business and family. My record of community service has been one of untiring assistance without compensation on behalf of fellow citizens.
"I was born Aug. 12, 1898, in Galveston, Texas, and served with the U. S. forces in France during the World War.

INTEREST SHOWN IN BAPTIST ACTIVITIES

By Pastor Troy A. Sumrall
The daily vacation Bible school is well attended, and growing interest is our encouragement. The fine cooperation of those who have been asked to serve on the faculty has never been excelled. A definite word of appreciation to these will appear in next week's paper, with a general report of the school.
About 100 children were made happy Wednesday when, through the courtesy of John Cooper and D. M. Davis, they were treated to all the good lemonade they could drink, which will be enjoyed again Friday.
The young people's revival is also well attended on the part of the young people. There are a number of adults who are not coming who should attend every service. The young people have charge of the service and we adults are expected to help in any way possible. Very little can you develop youth by not supporting them in Christian service.
Thursday evening a demonstration of soul winning will be given by Misses Ermadel Floyd and Frances Landers. If you don't know how to win a soul to Christ, come and see this demonstration.
The school and revival will close in joint session Friday evening.

PAMPA CELEBRATION TO NOT CONFLICT HERE

Charlie Maisel, chairman of the Pampa chamber of commerce 4th of July celebration, was in McLean Wednesday and worked out plans with E. C. Crews, manager of the McLean celebration, so that the two programs will not conflict.
Pampa called off all of their program scheduled for the day; however the fireworks will be given as scheduled at night.

HURST FOR SHERIFF

In making my announcement for Sheriff of Gray county, subject to the action of the Democratic Primaries, I feel it unnecessary at this time to go into the history of my life since being a citizen of this county. In 1925, with my family, consisting of Mrs. Hurst and my two daughters, I moved here. I have lived here continuously since. For the past four years I have been acting as Chief of Police of the city of Pampa.
Upon my record as a peace officer and a citizen, I respectfully submit myself to the voters of Gray county, and ask their help and support in promoting me to the office of Sheriff. I believe that my experience as an officer working, during the past four years worked on and ferreted out some of the major and minor crimes unfortunately occurring in our county, and diligently familiarizing myself at all times with the duties of being a peace officer, qualifies me to render the kind of service in the Sheriff's office that the good people of this county require and deserve.
A little later in the campaign, I expect to make a more full announcement of my candidacy, and in the meantime will endeavor to see personally all the citizens, if humanly possible, between now and the date of the July primary. At this time, I earnestly solicit the help and vote of every citizen in our county, promising the people of Gray county that, if elected to the chief law enforcement agency of this county, I will faithfully, fully, and to the best of my ability, perform the duties of the Sheriff's office with vigor, fairness, and honesty.
Respectfully submitted,
ART HURST.

Mr. Hurst was a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Gray county, in 1938, and polled quite a nice vote in this part of the county.

Grandma Rogers Honored on Her 96th Birthday

Mrs. Martha A. Rogers, known to all her friends as "Grandma," was the honoree at a family reunion and birthday celebration at her home in the Heald community last Saturday.
Mrs. Rogers was 96 years of age, and the table was graced by a huge birthday cake containing the right number of candles, surrounded by plenty of fried chicken, ham and other comestibles to feed 100 people.
The celebration was an all day affair, holding over Sunday for many of the relatives, some 67 of them registering for the occasion. Some from as far as California were present. Several intimate friends were also present.
A feature of the occasion was a growing plant that was brought into the room covered with bills of large denominations, as well as a plate full of coins. Many gave 96 pennies and others larger amounts, besides many other gifts to "Grandma" from the five generations present.
Several talks were made and old-time songs were sung. "Grandma" made what was admittedly the best talk of the day.
Mrs. Rogers has been a loyal member of the Methodist Church since the age of 12. She has heard 3,600 sermons in the past 49 years, since she began keeping count. 75 of them being in the past conference year. The greater share of her time at present is occupied in religious activities. She is living with her granddaughter, Mrs. Nida Green, but spends much time visiting her other relatives.

BLANSSET FOR SHERIFF

Lon L. Blanscet announces his candidacy for sheriff of Gray county, subject to the Democratic primary July 23. In so doing he withdrew his name from the list of candidates for commissioner of precinct 3.
In making his announcement, Mr. Blanscet stated that he had not entered the race prior to this time because of his personal regard for the late Sheriff Earl Talley, who was a candidate for reelection. In the past week, Mr. Blanscet said many friends of both had urged him to withdraw his candidacy for commissioner of precinct 3 and to file his candidacy for sheriff.
Mr. Blanscet has been a permanent resident of Pampa since 1927. He served Gray county as its sheriff for two years, 1931 and 1932, and believes that the experience gained during that time and before and since fits him for the office.
"I promise the citizens of Gray county a fair and honest administration if elected sheriff," Mr. Blanscet said.

"Death Headed North"

By FLOYD GIBBONS Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO EVERYBODY: Now this is the story of an adventure that almost any one of us might have got into. Anyone who has ever ridden on a railroad train has taken a chance on finding himself in just such a terrifying situation.

Fent Barrett is an actor. He had just finished a run in a successful musical show on Broadway not long before he starred in the thriller he is going to tell us about now.

Fent left that night for Washington, and in Washington he got aboard the train for New York—the train that was to carry him right smack into the most thrilling moment of his life.

Fire Started in the Wash Room.

It was a hot day, the first of August, 1928. Fent decided to ride in the smoker where he could take his coat off and be comfortable.

The train bowled along over the countryside, without any interruption, and without any hint of the drama that was to come.

The Whole Wash Room Was Roaring With Flame.

Elizabeth, N. J., and the porter, with a large bundle of old newspapers, had just gone into the men's wash room.

"That porter," says Fent, "had been in the wash room only a few seconds when suddenly he came leaping out into the aisle. As he did, I saw the reflection of flames on the highly polished door. The porter made a desperate attempt to close the door, but by this time the whole wash room was roaring with flame, and he was beaten back."

Fent jumped to his feet. He was one of seven men in the car including the conductor and porter. Before he could get out of his seat, the flames were almost on him, and he had barely time to grab his coat and brief case and dash to the rear of the car.

Couldn't Stop the Blazing Train.

Meanwhile, with all the windows open, the blaze spread through the car like wild fire. As Fent reached the rear of the car he looked back, just in time to see the conductor reach for the signal rope to stop the train.

"We all crowded back to the rear platform," says Fent, "and divided three on each side. The porter had climbed over the iron gate and was hanging to the back end of the train for dear life. By this time half the car was on fire, and with us in the last car and the train doing sixty-five miles an hour, it certainly looked bad."

"One of the passengers became hysterical and the conductor had a hard time trying to keep him from jumping off the back end of the train. We were all choking and almost overcome by smoke and the fumes of burning paint and varnish. I felt myself getting panicky and dropped to my knees and put my nose to the floor, trying to get a good breath of air."

The fire was all through the car by this time—streaming right down the aisle and shooting out the door onto the rear platform. Fent felt something move beneath him. It was that iron lid which covers the steps. The porter had loosened it and was motioning the three men who were standing on it to step back so he could swing it open.

All Jumped at 30-Mile Speed.

The porter screamed to them not to jump. The flames crowded them harder now, and Fent was kept busy dodging broken glass and tongues of fire that licked back at him through the rear windows.

And then—the brakes went on. The train started to jerk and slow down. It slowed from sixty-five to fifty to forty. When it was going about thirty, Fent jumped, and the rest of them followed.

"I was thrown up against the bank," Fent says, "but I wasn't badly hurt. A few scratches and bruises—but I was too glad to be off that burning car to pay any attention to a little thing like that."

By that time, the car we had been in was just a red-hot steel frame. Not a window or a seat left. And they were having quite a time trying to disconnect it from the rest of the train because the steel was so hot the brakemen couldn't touch the couplings.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for June 26

SHARING SERVICE WITH THE LIVING CHRIST

LESSON TEXT—Mark 16:1-8. GOLDEN TEXT—And they went forth, and preached everywhere, the Lord working with them.

Easter again? No, the calendar does not say so, nor have we forgotten that we observed Easter ten weeks ago, but quite properly we study the resurrection story again today.

It is "difficult to think or write about the living Christ without using superlatives. Our lesson for today brings before us the most important truth that the world has ever heard—"He is risen"; a speaks of the worst thing in the world—"unbelief"; and it presents the world's greatest commission—"Go . . . and preach."

I. The Transcendent Truth (v. 1-8).

"Ye seek Jesus, the Nazarene, who hath been crucified; He is risen. He is not here" (v. 6).

The world anxiously awaits news, and, hoping almost against hope, it longs for good news. This is the good news—the Gospel—the all-important tidings that the Son of God who had taken upon Himself not only the form of man, but the sin of mankind as well, who had tasted the bitter death of Calvary's cross, could not be holden of death, but breaking its bands asunder had risen from the dead.

This truth becomes the chief burden of the messages of the disciples as they soon went everywhere proclaiming the Gospel.

II. The Impassable Barrier (v. 14).

"He upbraided them with their unbelief and hardness of heart, because they believed not."

While we marvel at their short-sighted unbelief, shall we not ask ourselves what hindrances we have placed in God's way in our own lives?

III. The Supreme Commission (vv. 15, 16, 19, 20).

"Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to the whole creation" (v. 15). "And they went . . . and preached, the Lord working with them and confirming the word" (v. 20).

The great commission of Christ is still the "marching orders of the church," but how slowly we have marched. The writer of these notes was recently startled by statistics revealing anew the fact that "Christian" America is rapidly returning to the status of a mission field.

The command of Christ is that we should go to these pagan communities in our own land with the gospel, and surely it is our double shame that there are still lands where Christ has never been preached, yet, tribes that do not even have a word in their language for the blessed name—Jesus!

Select Good Company. When a man lingers in the neighborhood of sinners he may expect to be tempted.

Try Again. The diligent searmer after truth will not be deterred by many disappointments.

Key to Success. There is only one key to success, and that is perseverance.

A Hundred Hens

By T. C. Richardson, Secretary Breeder-Feeder Association

I have found that 100 hens is the right number as a farm flock," says Mrs. Greer Creager of Harger county, Texas. "I can take care of that number without interfering a great deal with my other duties, and they pick up a large part of their feed around the house. I usually buy or hatch 300 eggs, sell off the roosters at frying pan prices, and sell the cull pullets down to the 100 best ones for next winter's flock. They are bringing me several dollars a week in egg money."

Mrs. Otto Oehnhaus of the same county agrees with Mrs. Creager. Mrs. I. B. Ray of Wilson county says practically the same thing. So does Mrs. Schneider of Hays county, and "Pat" Geisselbrecht, Clifton banker, backs them all up with the statement that "a farm flock of chickens is the safest security; if they get into large numbers it takes more time and special attention than most farmers and their wives can give them, and are less profitable per hen than in the farm size flocks which make a part of their own living by picking up what would otherwise be wasted."

Each of the ladies quoted have the usual household duties of a well-ordered farm—housekeeping, cooking, butter-making, etc. They all buy carrier mashes and other special mixed feeds as needed, since no farm produces all the elements of a first-class chick or laying ration. But—and here where the farm flock shows its great advantage—there is waste grain, green feed, insects and plenty of room for healthful conditions for a hundred hens where 200 would be on a deficiency diet.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Boehning of Madison county have one of the most modern homes in the county, and all the electrical gadgets they want. They have reared a family of six, who are now out in the world on their own

LONG, STERN CHASE

"The world is a very small place," said the bore, as he took his seat in the smoking-room of the village inn. "Now listen to this: "Last year in Paris I met a man who lives in the same street as I do. Later on I met him in Venice, then in Rome, again in Alexandria, and, finally, I crossed the channel with him on the way to England. Now what do you think of that?" "Well," said the fed-up listener in the corner, "why didn't you pay him what you owed him in the first place?"—Stray Stories Magazine.

Dad Could Use a Loan

The rich young man approached the girl's father with some savings. "Er—er I suppose, sir," he began, nervously, "that you are aware I have been making advances to your daughter?" Father patted him on the back. "Yes, and now what about her poor old Dad, eh?"—Montreal Star.

Mrs. Fiery was born with a temper like gunpowder. "Tell me, dear," said her husband, after one of her outbursts, "how it was I never discovered this unhappy weakness of yours during our courtship days? However did you restrain yourself?" "Well," replied his wife, "I used to go upstairs and bite pieces out of the top of the oak dressing-table."—Stray Stories Magazine.

An Effort

"What is the chief river of Egypt?" "The Nile," answered Rebecca, brightly. "That's right," said the teacher. "And what are its tributaries?" "The juveniles," answered Rebecca.

Son, or Sun?

A little boy wrote in his diary: "Got up at seven. Went to bed at eight." His teacher suggested that "Rose at seven" would sound better; would, in fact, "be quite elegant." So the child erased the entry and briefly chronicled: "Rose at seven. Set at eight."

She said, turning to look up at Don: "That verse about the shining palace is an invitation, and if it is, I'll take it." Don's face was a picture of surprise.

There was no reason to think he would not be amenable to the suggestion that there was a vast amount of interesting material on their own West. Don planned a series of articles called "Seeing America First," submitted the idea, and waited impatiently for the ver-portion to the size of the kitchen. "But we don't live in the kitchen," Nora retorted. "And I ain't ever heard o' anybody livin' in a ball room, either," snapped the old man.

He was a frequent caller, as was the notary at the Pampa. The latter had a standing invitation to Sunday dinner, which was quite as likely to be served on the beach as in the banquet hall. Afterwards he would find his way into the big living room and browse among the books, sometimes reading aloud from his beloved poets to Nora, sometimes reading from "Peter Rabbit" to the boys.

"He's as good as a grandfather," said Don one Sunday afternoon when he found the old man with both children in his lap; and then wished he hadn't spoken because Nora's face clouded at the words. The summer drifted by. September came, and with it the chance Don was hoping for, something he had kept secret from his wife fearing to cause her disappointment should it not work out. For Nora had hinted to the little boys that Santa Claus might possibly bring them a "baby sister," and Don was determined that their mother should not be dragged to Europe if such a step could be avoided. He knew that the "Letters from Cape Town" had proved even more popular than the American editor expected.

The natural enemy of the crow is the hawk. Blackbirds, bluebirds, swallows, and at times robins, will fight them viciously. However, the crow is smart—smarter than most of the feathered world—in that he will fight only when backed by a company of his kind. Virtually all other birds and animals hunt alone. The crow will feed alone, but when trouble arises he begins cawing for help and a whole platoon of his companions is soon on the scene to help. Because of these gang methods, however, the crow furnishes excellent sport for the shooter because he is easily decoyed.

Anyone armed with a crow call can have excellent sport calling and shooting the black robbers. There are several ways in which to hunt them, advises a writer in the Chicago Daily News.

A stuffed or live hawk or owl is an excellent decoy. The decoy should be placed in the open and the gunner should hide in nearby woods. Then he should blow his crow call lustily. He soon is rewarded by the approach of crows. Another method is to locate a roost, where the crows come in by the thousands for the night. This takes some time and quite elaborate preparations. Once the roost is located the shooter should watch the line of flight of the crows and build himself a blind in a woods or field in line with this flight. Then around the blind he should stake out decoy crows, silhouettes or stuffed imitations of the black birds. When the flight to the roost starts in the afternoon the shooter occupies the blind, calls lustily at the approach of the crows, and decoys and kills them much as a hunter kills waterfowl. Crows, conservation departments declare, are excellent eating.

Grant Not Interested in War Ulysses S. Grant, one of the strangest characters in all history, made a mess of everything he undertook till near middle-age, to become commander in chief of the Union armies and President. And perhaps the oddest thing in the odd story of an odd nature was his life-long distaste for the military life in which his reputation was made. He always disclaimed the calling of warrior, and when visiting Bismarck after the war he told the astonished Bismarck that he took no interest in military affairs.

Interlaced Stitches In Tones of Pink

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

PINK is the newest color in decoration. It is charming for embroidered mats and table scarves. The runner shown is palest pink linen embroidered in darker pink and deep rose. A pearl cotton embroidery thread, size 5, is used. Cut the mat or runner the desired size allowing 1 1/4 inches all around for hems. Turn the hems and sew them by hand at the corners. Now, embroider around the top of the hem with plain catch-stitching in pink as at A. Next, interlace these stitches with the rose as at B.

Three 1 1/2-inch squares are embroidered in each corner. Mark each square with a pencil. The method of laying the pink foundation threads is shown in diagram C. Bring the needle out at 1, place it in the material again at 2, and bring it out again at 3. Continue, following the numbers and weaving the stitches over and under as shown. Uncle Phil Says:
You'll Cherish the Smile
If you can make a person smile on you it is a greater victory than to make one laugh at your wit. It sometimes happens that the quest for gold leads to the land of guilt. Everyone has the right of free speech, but the higher up he is, the less he'll use it. Some are perpetually lamenting that they "are not understood"; and some are afraid they will be. But Not Angry Enough
Usually a man is quite angry at the circumstances that prevent him from doing his best. Who wants to be "logical" with those they love? "What passes for woman's intuition is often nothing more than man's transparency," says a critic.

HELP KIDNEYS
To Get Rid of Acid and Poisonous Waste
Your kidneys help to keep you well by constantly filtering waste matter from the blood. If your kidneys get functionally disordered and fail to remove excess impurities, there may be poisoning of the whole system and body-wide distress. Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be a warning of some kidney or bladder disturbance. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out. In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won country-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. A multitude of grateful people recommend Doan's. One of the biggest mistakes a man can make is to underestimate the intelligence of the other man.

Government checks now go into five million homes. Maybe here is a good argument for higher taxes.

One candidate for state office requests the newspapers to use his cut, a long story, and either personal or editorial comment on his qualifications. We would say that the nerve part of his qualifications is strictly in good shape.

Liquor interests points to the large amount of taxes taken from the drinker, and say that this sum would have gone to the bootlegger if prohibition was in effect. Inasmuch as the bootlegger is still very active, it would seem that the claim might lack some sincerity.

There are 182,652 taxing units in the United States, and the average worker receiving $100 per month pays around 15% of it in taxes, most of which is indirect. This is a good reason for opposing any kind of new taxes, regardless of what might be claimed for them.

The sale of liquor was going to cure all economic ills and lower taxes, and now they claim that a national lottery would do the same thing. Maybe we had better give up all the civilizing influences that man has attained and go back to outlawed methods for everything. Men ought to do a little thinking and comparing of past history before making rash statements.

HIPPOCRATES WAS RIGHT

When he saw his friends sniffing from colds, and their brows weighted down by leaden headaches, wise old Hippocrates, father of medicine, advised one simple cure—rest. Today a study of the 1,967 Harvard students who spent a total of 70 years in Harvard's Stillman Infirmary during the past 31 months, suffering from colds and respiratory infections, has just been published. Physicians subjected all those ailing students to every recognized cure for colds, from drugs to vaccines. The results of the study indicated that, after 2,400 years, old Hippocrates still has the right answer. The only reliable, thoroughly beneficial cure was found to be—rest.

"Now I'm Ready for Summer"

No more daily buying no more wasting of left-overs for this woman. No more worrying about whether this and that is still good—whether the baby's milk is really sweet—or whether or not there is ice enough to make cold drinks. For she has a big new electric refrigerator. It keeps everything in perfect condition until she wants to use it, lets her buy in quantity, and therefore makes shopping necessary only once or twice a week. And it makes all the ice she needs for cooling drinks.

You'll enjoy the summer a lot more if you have a modern electric refrigerator. Not only because you can have delicious ices and frozen salads, and dozens of crystal clear ice cubes for cold beverages, but because it will do for you all the things mentioned above, as well as save money on your food. When you buy your refrigerator out of income it practically pays for itself, because it saves money in so many ways. Come in now and get ready for summer by choosing the refrigerator that best meets your needs.

What's New in Swim and Beach Togs

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

TWO features stand out pre-eminently in connection with this season's swim and beach togs, namely the vast variety of materials in use, the other the fact of the dressmaker touch given their styling. It adds to the interest that gadgets in the way of costume jewelry tuned to sea and sand and outdoor themes usually complete the "picture" of each costume.

Citing a few of the smartest materials employed, first and foremost comes lastex, which is a boon to womankind in that it conforms to "lines" perfectly with a magic this-way, that-way stretching quality which solves the problem of clothes that fit, retain their shape and offer perfect comfort. The big sensation this season is the swim suit of black satin lastex with beach cape to match, completing the sense of luxury. Flower printed lastex ensembles also have their place in the style parade along water edge and sea line.

Other interesting materials employed for playtime clothes and wardrobes for water nymphs include celanese rayon moire, celanese rayon sharkskin, silk prints of fast color, linens in monotone or spectacular print and cottons so sturdy, so handsome, words fail of describing. Then there's wear-forever denim, and washable gabardine, so reliable when it comes to the wear and tear of riotous waves or strenuous mountain climbs.

Another feature that fashion spotlights is the use of striking color contrasts, perhaps in the way of playing up print with plain or the modernistic gesture of making the costume one vivid solid color boldly contrasted by another startling color on a sort of fifty-fifty basis.

The models pictured are typical of this season's swim suit and beach ensemble trends. Centered in the group you see a stunning outfit that tunes superbly to a statuesque figure.

This comely young woman is wearing black trunks with printed "bra" of celanese rayon sharkskin. A catalin fish pin on her hip answers the call for suitable costume jewelry.

To the right, fashion offers a new bathing suit ensemble that strikingly combines white with bright ocean-blue. The bodice top is blue with catalin fish pin by way of correct gadgetry. The blue beach coat with monk's hood of blue lined with white adds to eye-appeal. This very new and attractive ensemble is of celanese rayon jersey.

A very interesting costume, as shown to the left, uses blue and white cotton print for the beach cape lined with white terry cloth, worn over a loose-fitting white terry cloth suit. Accessory is white catalin Viennese stag horn bracelet with carved edelweiss. This costume won an award and is an adaptation of an Algerian man's costume from the Traphagen costume museum.

To supplement the list of materials smartly in use for beach dress and bathing suit, hopsacking should be mentioned. It is ranked along with sharkskin for shorts and slacks and shirts. Then there are the fascinating crinkle cottons that make such practical and attractive beach coats. Water, sun or sand dim not their beauty or colorfulness.

One of the cleverest ideas is the quilted floral cotton prints. A bolero of quilted print worn with matching printed broadcloth slacks together with a peasant kerchief of the same print is a happy suggestion. Try this ensemble, it's a winner this season.

ACCENT ON POCKETS

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

The more decorative and useful the pockets that your dress, jacket, suit or blouse proudly boasts the better. Here you see a pretty lassie framed in a background of apple blossoms wearing a white culotte outfit in new celanese rayon suiting fabric. This attractive playtime costume is pocketed to a nicety, each pocket enhanced with hand-run vari-colored stitching. Just because amusing gadgets are essential in the scheme of things this season, this outdoor girl pins a novelty catalin brooch at her throat in the shape of a college girl's cap with tassel.

WONDERS ARE BEING DONE WITH RIBBONS

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

After you have looked about at the new dress collections the thought stays with you that this is decidedly a ribbon season. Summer dresses are given a sprightly look with little bows here and there while ribbons galore, wide, narrow in one color or in mingled tones or tri-color gayety are swath and sashed about the waist with utmost artistry.

So utterly have designers yielded to the ribbon urge they are creating clever boleros entirely of ribbon and recently a leading Paris couturiere fashioned an entire dress of ribbon sewing it edge to edge for slender effect and for wide hemline letting the ribbon ends fly out loose over a silken foundation.

Lots of ribbons on hats this season, too, for bindings, bands and tailored bows and for floating streamers and bonnet ties are seen.

Frilly-Frilly Guimpes or Vestees Have Blouse Look

With the classic suit or the more softly tailored bolero-and-skirt costume you are expected to wear the daintiest, frillest blouse or guimpe or vestee you can find. Of course, if you expect to remove the jacket, it's a blouse you must have. However, with the jacket on, a lacy, fluttery crisp and sheer false front is just the thing. They cost less than a blouse and they are showing such fascinating ones in neckwear departments you will yield to the impulse to buy another and another—which, when you stop to consider, is a fine gesture in real economy.

Sailor Hats

The newest sailor hats have a wide range—from straw to oilcloth.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—France is beginning to think she has another Clemenceau in Premier Daladier, and she still has Marshal Philippe Petain, one of the few survivors of the great generals of the World War.

Two or three years ago, General Petain was counseling peace and conciliation with Germany. Now he warns the French people of their "serious situation in Europe," and urges them to consider realities.

It is quite possible that rope-skipping is mainly accountable for General Petain being alive, trim, fit and active at eighty-two. He is an inveterate rope-skiper, ejected from his apartment in 1914, because he jarred the plaster from the walls. This writer's record as to that goes only to 1934, but, in that year, he was still skipping diligently. Joffre, Foch and Maginot, among the French, Von Mackensen, Ludendorff and Hindenburg among the Germans—non-skippers all—have passed, but Marshal Petain lives on, venerated by his countrymen.

It was he who said, "They shall not pass"—on February 5, 1916, to be exact. He was the savior of Verdun, and, in this connection, a deft historian might discover that rope-skipping saved France. The general spent a solid week in an Automitrailleuse without sleep, and the London Daily News commented at the time that no man who was not in perfect physical condition could have survived such ordeals. It was suggested that his energy and endurance had turned the tide of war.

He was born Henri Philippe Benoni Omer Joseph Petain, the son of a baker in Couchy a La Tour.

Man Mountain Dean, the wrestler, running for the legislature in Georgia, is after only one seat, but he will need three or four if he is elected.

Dean Girds for Ballot Bout
In retirement on his farm, near Norcross, he still weighs 317 pounds. It is a unique contest for him, with no chance for his running broad-jump attack, in which he hurls his body against his opponent.

His career seems to have been mostly his wife's idea. Born Frank Leavitt, in New York, known as the "Hell's Kitchen Hillbilly," he did a hitch in the army and thereafter engaged in some desultory wrestling and mauling as a Soldier Leavitt. Nothing much came of it, and he began placidly taking on weight as traffic cop in Miami, Fla. Doris Dean married him and began prodding his lagging ambition.

He started grappling again, in Boston in 1933, with fame still eluding his half-nelson.

Doubled for Film Star as Henry VIII

When a German promoter took him on a tour of the Rhineland. This was more successful, and brought him to the attention of Alexandre Korda, who needed a double for Charles Laughton as Henry VIII in the wrestling scene. Thus came the famous whiskers, an important detail of his wife's clever showmanship in the build-up of the Man Mountain. It was she who persuaded him to take the name Dean and who managed the histrionics which made him a fabulous creature. He was born in West Forty-third street in 1891, weighing 16½ pounds.

GEORGE E. Q. JOHNSON, the slight, self-effacing, bespectacled man who sent Al Capone to Alcatraz, is devoting his life to social betterment.

He wants to make cities less fertile soil for crime, and to that end, would flush city and country children back and forth, interchangeably, to the benefit of each, he believes, and the nurture of good behavior.

It was an United States attorney that he deftly enmeshed Capone in a silken spider-web of evidence, laboriously gathered and spun. The next year, Herbert Hoover made him a federal judge, but he stayed on the bench only a year and then went back to his law practice.

He broke the gangs in Chicago. His story of how he snared Capone, told before the senate judiciary committee, with its tales of trapdoors and secret panels, was Grade A melodrama, but he didn't make it sound that way. He is a modest man, with no instincts of showmanship.

C. Houston Goudiss Offers More Advice About Reducing

Describes the Perils of Unscientific Methods for Losing Weight

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

6 East 39th Street, New York City.

MY RECENT discussion of reducing in these columns brought many letters, indicating that the modern woman is, fortunately, weight conscious. This is an encouraging sign. For it shows that you are alert to the dangers of overweight, which not only destroys beauty but may indirectly contribute to heart disease, kidney disorders and diabetes, which take their greatest toll from among the heavyweights.

Guard Against Unscientific Reducing Methods
Some of these letters caused me great concern, however, because they indicate that in spite of my warning against unscientific methods of weight reduction, many women still cling to the idea that there is some magic in the various pills, powders, capsules, soaps, salts and mechanical devices that are sold at fancy prices and hold out alluring promises of speedy reducing without dieting or exercise.

It is bad enough that most of these fail to reduce. For they may delay the day when the victim of overweight will undertake a sound and scientific program of weight reduction that will effectively take off weight—thus improving appearance, benefiting health and increasing the chances of longevity. But what is far more serious is that some of these preparations may endanger health or cause lifelong physical impairment.

Dangerous Drugs

Drugging is particularly to be condemned, and no one should attempt to reduce by this method except under the advice and watchful eye of a physician. There are many invalids today who would be happy and healthy if they had not attempted to take some "reducing medicine" without consulting a physician.

One preparation that is still bought by foolish women—in spite of repeated warnings against its use—may even result in permanent blindness.

Almost equally objectionable are excessive purging—which may leave you a wobbly wreck—and fasting, which is even more dangerous to women than men.

Don't Diet Without Direction

A carefully regulated diet will not only maintain normal weight, but will banish overweight by forcing the body to burn its own excess fat as fuel. Having heard of this scientific principle, many women frantically and foolishly attempt to prescribe their own reducing diets—often with disastrous results.

There is always the possibility that one may omit calcium-bearing foods and thus impair the teeth, or leave out foods rich in iron and copper and interfere with the formation of the hemoglobin or red pigment in the blood.

In simple chart form, the functions of each vitamin are explained, and there is a list of foods to guide you in supplying your family with adequate amounts of each of these necessary substances.

One of the most common and most serious errors is to omit all bread, potatoes and cereals, in the belief that carbohydrates are "fattening foods." Carbohydrates are required by the body in order to utilize the fats in the diet, and when reducing, they are also necessary to burn up excess fatty tissue.

Just as fire cannot burn without air, fat cannot be utilized in the body without the presence of starch or sugar. When the diet contains insufficient carbohydrates, fat burns incompletely, resulting in the dangerous acetone type of acidosis.

Counting Calories the Easy Way to Reduce

The one safe, sure and scientific method of getting rid of surplus weight and at the same time maintaining top health—is to consume a diet that is balanced in every respect, but to count your calories at every meal, making certain that you consume fewer calories each day than your body requires for its normal energy expenditure.

I will gladly send to every reader of this newspaper, a copy of my reducing bulletin. This includes a chart showing the caloric value of all the commonly used foods—plus a week's sample reducing menus. By following this scientific plan for weight reduction, you can easily lose from one to two pounds weekly. A more rapid reduction is not advisable. At that rate, you can lose from six to eight pounds in the course of a month—twenty-four pounds at the end of three months. That is a lot of weight to lose and will make a vast difference in your appearance and in the enthusiasm with which you greet your daily tasks.

The Film Stars' Method

This simple and scientific method of controlling the weight is the one used by film stars in Hollywood. It is essential that they keep slim and practically every important film player has a clause in her contract calling for a cancellation if she permits her weight to increase beyond a certain point. But at the same time, film stars must safeguard their health, for their work is the most strenuous of occupations!

Counting Calories Is Fun

In Hollywood they make a game of counting calories. You, too, will find it amusing, as well as beneficial to health and looks. And you will be rewarded by noting a drop in weight every time you step on the scales.

If Your Weight Is Normal Keep It That Way

It has been determined that the ideal weight—that is the weight that best promotes health and longevity—after thirty, is the normal weight for one's height at the age of thirty.

If you are approximately thirty and your weight is normal, you should send for my Calorie Chart and Reducing Bulletin and use it to help maintain your present weight!

If you are over thirty and overweight, you should not lose another day before sending for the bulletin so that you can begin at once to regain your normal weight by the safe, simple, scientific and

Questions Answered

Mrs. J. M. T.—It is impossible to generalize regarding the diet in asthma. This condition is due to allergy, and the symptoms are produced by different foods in different individuals. Almost all protein substances are capable of causing distress.

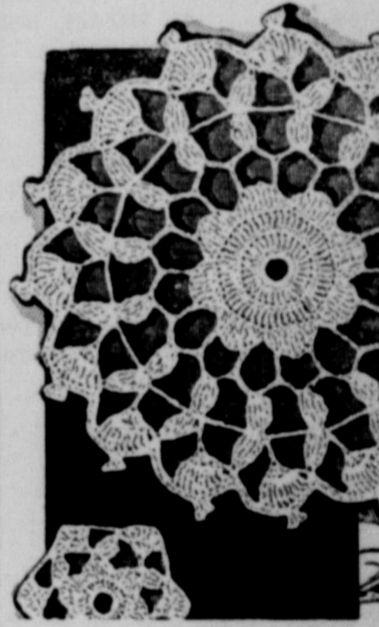

Miss A. G.—One tablespoon of cod-liver oil provides about 100 calories, which is equal in fuel value to one slice of bread, one medium potato, or three-fourths of a cup of cooked macaroni.

Miss L. T. B.—Though it lacks fat and vitamin A, skim milk is a rich source of calcium and phosphorus, and also furnishes high grade protein. A quart of skim milk, plus one and one-half ounces of butter is the equivalent of a quart of whole milk.

Mrs. G. B., Jr.—There is absolutely no truth in the false notion that aluminum cooking utensils may adversely affect health. Numerous experiments have demonstrated that they are perfectly safe.

HOPPER POISON DAYS OUT TO 3 PER WEEK

By Ralph R. Thomas, Co. Agt. Since there has not been enough demand for grasshopper poison bait at the McLean station to warrant mixing every day, it has been decided to mix only three times a week that is, Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

During the first four days of last week, only approximately 2,000 pounds of bait was sold out of this station which paid only a fractional part of the operating expenses. If the demand does not increase this week, it will be necessary for us to close this station entirely and for you to post your orders and get your bait out of Pampa, where we are mixing from 5,000 to 9,000 pounds per day.

In going over some of the pasture land and turn rows last week, I found that there are still numerous grasshoppers in the McLean area, and I feel that these hoppers should be poisoned at once before they go into the cultivated crops. Due to the fact that there is very little vegetation growing in the fields at the present time, the hoppers do not seem to have invaded the cultivated land to any great extent; therefore, it is very important to kill these hoppers before they invade the fields and eat up the young growing crops.
