HOSPITAL CONSTRUCTION CONTINUING . . . Workmen are making good progress on construction of the new hospital facility in Muleshoe. Although wet weather has slowed construction a little, construction of the facility continues at a good rate. Completion date is expected to be almost a year and a half from now, with the general contractor being The Herman Bennett Co. of Brownwood.

Tulia Dumps Mules

How do you start out when Mule pride was really stung by Hornets? Well, statistics don't really tell the tale. If you take into consideration the Mules had more yards on the ground, and more yards in the air, and just one less first down than the Tulia Hornets, yet lose in their first shut-out of the year, then what made the difference?

Hard playing football! The Hornets buzzed into town and they decided the Mules wouldn't be easy. During the first half of the Friday night game, the Mules and the Hornets played defensive ball. No one moved the ball too far or too well, until just before the half time when with just :24 on the scoreboard clock, Larry Anderson, halfback for the Hornets slammed through from the two and at halftime the score was 7-0. Joe Garza kicked the extra point.

Since the Hornets knew the Mules would be taking to the air, they played an excellent pass defense, and regardless who was the intended Mule receiver, only five out of the 16 attempted passes connected. At the same time, the Hornets played a good ground game, taking only six times to the air and completing two of their passes.

Boosters Plan Name Signs For Athletes

Approximately 60 Muleshoe Athletic Boosters met Tuesday night at 8 p.m. in the Muleshoe High School cafeteria. Officiating at the meeting was Ed Northcutt, president.

The group decided to put signs in front of all varsity athletes' homes identifying their place of residence.

Coach Lester Kirkland explained defensive plays and signals. He had several of his defensive linebacks give demonstrations of the plays used in Muleshoe. Coach Murphy reported on scouting Tulia's games the previous Friday night.

According to Coach Cumpton's report, Robbie Young broke his wrist in the Tuesday night practice and will be unable to play for a few weeks. He showed color film of the Muleshoe-Cooper game and everyone could see what a great loss was sustained in the loss of Robbie Young. The game film showed all 34 varsity players in the game against Cooper.

The Booster Club said they would like to remind everyone that an ad in the football program includes a membership in the Muleshoe Athletic Booster organization and that all members are invited to hear the coaches' reports on progress, injuries and upcoming games. They report that a number of women are attending the Athletic Booster meetings and this is a sure sign of support for the football team.

Mules as late in the third Don Burgess, in a quarterback position went around the right on a bootleg play to put the Hornets second six points on the board. Garza failed in his second attempt for an extra point after the Hornets received a five yard penalty for being offside.

Coming into the fourth, the Mules continued to hold the Hornets, yet at the same time, were held back and after making a desperate goal line defense and pushing the Hornets back from the four yard line out to the 15 lost the ball on their own nine to Tulia on a high snap from center to the punter. The halfback for Tulia, Mark Buchanan, went in on a two yard play to

Reese-Mahon Debate Asked For Muleshoe

Local politics are on the upswing with the mailing of two letters during the past week.

Muleshoe School Superintendent Neal B. Dillman wrote letters to incumbent 19th District Congressman George Mahon and to his opponent, Jim Reese of Odessa, inviting both to debate in Muleshoe.

The dates suggested by Dillman included October 16, at 8 p.m. in the Muleshoe High School auditorium or October 23, also in the auditorium. Both dates are on Saturday.

The superintendent wrote the letters on September 10 and by Saturday, September 18, had received no answer to the request.

Rain Slows Corn Harvest Benefits Wheat, Cotton Needing Sun

A sneaky rainstorm which hit Muleshoe shortly after 10 p.m. Wednesday dumped one and one-half inches of rain in the city and brought corn harvest to a standstill. Spencer Tanksley, Bailey County Agricultural Extension Agent, said corn harvest is definitely delayed for some five to seven days in the wet fields around Muleshoe, where up to three and one-half inches of rain fell in the downpour.

Although some corn may have been knocked down in high winds which accompanied the rain for awhile, most corn will not be affected except for the delay in harvest, he added.

Hot sun would help, said Tanksley, although the sun came out hot and bright Thursday and Friday, weather was still damp and steamy, and the skies threatened to add additional moisture to the already wet fields.

Needmore was in the rain path although south of Needmore no rain was received. Heaviest amounts were west to the West Camp Area and north into Parmer County.

Cotton also needs hot, hot weather, emphasized the county agent adding that if the wet, cool weather continues through the month cotton producers will be in serious trouble.

He said that just during the past week he had noticed several bolls of cotton beginning to open, although the major part of the cotton is still in the green boll stage.

Tanksley said that the soil moisture content is finally getting to be to the stage that could be called adequate, and even with the delay getting back into fields, is an asset.

Some 60 percent of the winter wheat crop has been planted, and the added moisture is definitely an asset to that. Alfalfa is presently at a standstill; five to six percent of the 1976 corn crop has been harvested and vegetable harvest is approximately 50 percent complete, with tomatoes, cucumbers, peppers and cabbage being harvested at this time.

Moisture may be creating slight problems in the corn added the county agent, who also said that there is nothing new in the corn except the southwest corn borer is beginning to show up, along with some charcoal rot in some area. Foliaging insects are beginning to be in evidence in some fields, including caterpillars, army worms, spider mites and greenbugs, it has been suggested by Tanksley that producers of grain sorghum start watching their fields as grain sorghum is not ready to be harvested for some time yet.

One major problem to crop up this year has been mosaic which has hit several fields of bell pepper. This disease has been in pepper crops in the valley, but this is the first time for it to be in fields on the South Plains.

Tanksley explained that mosaic is a virus disease transferred by insects from weeds. It results in reduced yields, although it affects not all plants. He said the problem was rather severe in one or two local fields, but good peppers were produced in the area.

Pepper plants affected at a very young age are from a reduced yield to no yield and if the plant is affected after some development, only a reduced yield is noted. There is no prevention now, although research is being conducted for mosaic resistant plants.

Since no one on the South Plains had ever seen mosaic, researchers and plant pathologists were brought in to check the fields and they were here working nearly two weeks ago.

The disease was confirmed by a plant specialist from Hidalgo who is researching the disease.

This year, there are between 200-300 acres of bell pepper in the area which was a great increase over last year.

YOU CAN BANK ON IT!

Bill Loyd, President Muleshoe State Bank

Certificates of deposit - called CDs - are much like a regular savings account in that they, too, are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC). The CDs, like savings accounts, are insured up to $40,000 by the government-sponsored agency.

More important, there are no uncertainties when money is invested in a bank CD. There are a number of ways that the average investor can get into the money markets, but all of them entail some degree of risk. There are no risks in CDs.

All so-called mutual funds, even those that invest in short term Treasury bills, have some sort of transaction costs involved, but with bank CDs there are no added charges. And, while it may take many days to liquidate a fund, CD money is available on demand at the bank, subject to penalty if there is an early withdrawal - before the maturity date of the CD.

Thus, a bank Certificate of Deposit can be an attractive investment on both a short or long term basis.

Soil Conservation Plans Plant Center Field Day

Plans are complete for the field day to be held at the Soil Conservation Service plant materials center at Knox City Thursday, September 23, a local conservation leader said today.

Jerry Wenmohs, SCS district conservationist at Muleshoe said guided tours are planned through the 92-acre center starting at 8:30 a.m. They will run continually until about 3:00 p.m.

To get to the center, Wenmohs said you go north of Knox City on Highway 6 about 2 miles, then turn left on FM 1292 for 2 1/2 miles. There are signs at both the turn-off and the center, he said.

Wenmohs also said Knox City has a 3,200-foot allweather runway near the plant center for those wanting to fly to the field day in private or chartered planes. Transportation from the airport to the center will be furnished by the Knox City chamber of commerce.

Grass seed dealers, seed growers, conservation district directors, research workers, wildlife enthusiasts, livestock producers and others interested in the search for better plants are invited to attend. The center serves both Texas and Oklahoma.

Grasses which are attracting wide interest at the center include a superior switchgrass for use in Texas and Oklahoma; a desert strain of sideoats grama; a southern strain of sand lovegrass; a western wheatgrass selected for bottomlands and waterway plantings in west central Texas; and a blue grama selection adapted to the red soil of western Oklahoma and Texas.

Forbs (broad-leaved, herbaceous plants), native legumes, and woody plants relished by wildlife and livestock are also being evaluated at Knox City. Such plants may have great value, especially for deer, turkey, quail, dove, songbirds, and other wildlife when used in mixtures with range and pasture plantings.

Forbs which appear most promising include selections of englemansdaisy, maximilian sunflower, bushsunflower, and showy menodora. Legumes under evaluation include trailing wildbean, least snoutbean, prairieclover, and western indigo. Woody plants being grown at the center include littleleaf leadtree, Texas kidneywood, and wild plum.

Seed or rootstock are collected from promising plants, then are grown and evaluated at Knox City, Wenmohs explained.

Those that show the most promise for solving certain problems are then grown under field conditions on farms and ranches of soil and water conservation district cooperators. Selections that prove they can solve a specific problem while being superior to other strains available are then released by conservation districts to commercial seed growers. These producers then grow seed and sell it to the public.

Grass strains proven and put into use by SCS include Selection 75 kleingrass; El Reno, Uvalde, and Vaughn sideoats grama; King Ranch bluestem; green sprangletop, and Greenville switchgrass.

Wenmohs said SCS plant materials work developed ways to harvest and plant most of the range grasses being planted in Texas and Oklahoma today.

Some of the groups who cooperate with SCS in its plant materials work in Texas include Agricultural Research Service, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Texas A&M University, Texas Tech University, Prairie View A&M University, Abilene Christian University, U.S. Air Force, U.S. Corps of Engineers, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, and soil and water conservation districts.

After many years and lots of misdoings the commodity industry is getting federal regulation. The top officials of the five New York City commodities exchange will meet with the members of the Commodities Futures Trading Commission this week in Washington. The purpose of the meeting will be to "improve operations in the less than a year or face federal regulation." The commodities exchanges in Chicago are next on the list. These exchanges handle 70 percent of the commodities transactions worth $676 billion a year. The Chicago exchanges are also larger, to a greater extent better managed, and self regulated.

The New York City commodities exchanges are consolidating into a single trading center in the new World Trade Center. These exchanges trade coffee, sugar, cocoa, cotton, precious metals, potatoes, (there's a story!) and copper. Only two of the five exchanges audit members and the boards of directors of all five of the exchanges are heavily dominated by traders, tending to make them something of private clubs in their approach to disciplinary problems with members. A tremendous amount of unpleasant publicity hit the New York Mercantile Exchange when potato traders failed to honor contracts last spring. Potatoes dominate the Mercantile Exchange trading activity and potato traders dominate the board of directors of the exchange. One member of the commodities Futures Trading Commission was quoted as saying that if more outside directors were on the Mercantile Exchange Board perhaps the potato debacle would not have happened.

Basically the CFTC wants a better program of disciplinary actions with members, audits of members, tougher rule enforcement and better record keeping. The commission is also calling for new and improved rules and procedures designed to protect the public, the investors and traders.

Miss Carpenter, Bennington Exchange Wedding Vows

MR. AND MRS. PAUL BENNINGTON

Miss Donna Sue (Susie) Carpenter, of Levelland, became the bride of Paul LeRoy (Butch) Bennington of Levelland in a 4:00 p.m. double ring ceremony, read by Rev. Bobby Gordon of the Lee Street Baptist Church of Dimmitt, August 21, 1976. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donnie R. Carpenter of Stegall and Bennington is the son of Paul Bennington of Canton, Ohio.

They were married in the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Lewis Wakefield, of Dimmitt. There was a garland of greenery with a single bow and wedding bell, decorating the picture window, where their vows were exchanged.

Given in marriage by the bride's brother, David Lynn Carpenter, the bride was attired in a dress and headpiece made by her mother. The dress was of candlelight white, imported polyester organza, over matching candlelight white satin. She had a long train sewn into the overskirt featuring a twelve inch ruffle at the bottom, and trimmed with re-embroidered Chastillie edging at the top of the ruffle.

The edging had seed pearls sewn in each rose. The empire bodice was done in the same edging. The long sleeves and ruffled collar was edged in lace and pearls, complimenting the dress.

The headpiece was covered in candlelight white bridal satin and matching lace, sewn with pearls and glass beads. Her fingertip veil of two tiers and floorlength veil of one tier was made of silk illusion.

Her bridal bouquet was a full cascade made of white sweetheart roses, carnations and baby's breath, with long blue and white ribbon streamers.

Something new was the bride's dress and veil; something old and borrowed was a locket belonging to her aunt, Mrs. Lewis Wakefield, (a family heirloom); and something blue was her blue garter. The bride also wore pennies minted in the year of her's and the groom's births, in her shoes.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was Mrs. Mark Bridinger of Clovis, N.M., aunt of the bride. The bride's attendant was dressed in a long formal blue brocade, satin dress. The empire waisted dress was complimented with a matching bow in front and a corsage of feathered carnations.

The groom's best man was David Lynn Carpenter of Walforth, brother of the bride.

Music selections for the wedding was "The Traditional Wedding March". The organist, Connie Wakefield, cousin of the bride, was accompanied by Cindy Wakefield, cousin of the bride, on the piano.

The reception was held in the home of Mrs. Lewis Wakefield of Dimmitt. Those assisting in serving were Mrs. Lynn Carpenter, sister-in-law of the bride; and Cindy and Connie Wakefield, cousins of the bride.

Decorations at the wedding were the traditional three tiered column cake, featuring square filigree pillars between layers. A cherub fountain, amid white roses, decorated the bottom layer. Double rings among roses were featured on the center layer. The top was decorated with ornamental pedestals, bells and blue doves hanging on alternating pedestals. The entire cake sat on white ruffles and a mirror.

Punch was served from a crystal bowl and silver servers with the bride's bouquet decorating the table. The cake was made and decorated by Mrs. Laverly Blackman, of Rogers.

Miss Zackoski, Bell Are Married

Miss Yolanda Zackoski and Steven Bell exchanged double ring nuptial vows at 8:00 p.m. Saturday, September 11, 1976 in the Muleshoe Church of Christ with the minister Royce Clay performing the ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Zackoski of West Virginia and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bell of Muleshoe.

Vows were exchanged before a bridal arched candelabra flanked by spiral candelabras decorated by green foliage.

The bride was escorted and given in marriage by J.W. Roberts. She wore a traditional gown of white sheer eyelid embroidered organza, featuring a lace trimmed bodice with matching lace on the upper sleeve. Completing her ensemble was a net illusion veil accented with lace.

She carried a tapered bouquet of green spider mums, white stephanotis, and baby's breath.

Following tradition, something new was her bridal dress and veil; something blue, the blue satin and lace garter; something borrowed, a necklace belonging to Mrs. J.W. Roberts; and something old, pennies in her shoes.

Tammy Bruns was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Sheryl Stovall and Patty Poyner. The attendants wore identical dresses fashioned of apple green knit fitted with an empire waistline accented with white lace.

They carried nosegays of green spider mums, green daisies and baby's breath.

The groom's best man was Danny Blaylock. Groomsman were Larry Calvert and Tommy Clements. Preston Wilson served as usher.

ing of Jacque Baker, Gene Gable, Mrs. John Jones, Mrs. David Sudduth, Mrs. Kerry Moore, Mrs. Terry Fields and R.A. Bradley. The songs presented were, "Whether Thou Goest", "I Pledge My Love", "Faithful and True" and "May the Lord Bless You and Keep You".

Miss Theresa Hamilton presided over the bride's book.

The reception was held in the church fellowship hall where the newlyweds and parents greeted the friends and relatives.

The centerpiece of green spider mums, green carnations and baby's breath accented the table. The traditional three-tiered wedding cake served by Donna Zackoski, sister of the bride, was topped with white doves and greenery. Green sherbet was served from crystal appointments by Sharla Bell, sister of the groom, and Christi LeVeque, cousin of the groom. During the abbreviated week of September 7-10, the Mullettes worked extra hard toward accomplishing their goals before the season begins. have worked a long time to have this opportunity. I hope we can capitalize on our ability and accomplish our goals."

Shelly Dunham is a forward on the freshman team. She is the 14 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dunham. Shelly's activities include Student Council and the Future Teachers of America. Storyhour Brings A Suprise Attraction

Storyhour at the Muleshoe Area Library was well attended with 44 children present Wednesday morning. Young Home-maker's Club members Debbie Williams, Iva Noble and Deborah Noble conducted this storyhour. The children said the Pledge of allegiance as the flag was raised, and sang America.

They then went to the basement of the library where they sang songs, worked on their posters, listened to stories and saw a filmstrip. The theme of this was Community Helpers, the story was Where do you work and what do you do?; and the filmstrip was by Dr. Suess - Mr. Brown can Moo, can you? Will Lee was chosen to wear the "Happy Face".

For an added attraction "Big-Bird" was also present, and put on a show for the children. They were given a treat as they left the library.

It is very important that children know and are able to tell their name, who their parents are and their telephone number, or have this information on them when they come. This will help the people working at the library to have a better storyhour, and

Students Undergo Extensive Screening

In the current school year, some two million children will undergo hearing or vision screening in public schools as a result of a program instituted more than 20 years ago by the Texas Department of Health Resources.

Operating through the Maternal and Child Health Division, the hearing and vision conservation programs are part of a continuing effort aimed at ensuring accurate and complete screening of Texas's preschool and school-age children.

Workshops conducted over the state train public health nurses, school nurses and volunteers in the techniques of screening children for hearing and vision problems. Schools actually do the testing with equipment which they own. A limited supply of hearing testing equipment -- audiometers -- is available on loan from the Department on a temporary basis to school systems and local health departments which need equipment to start new programs on a pilot basis.

The schools report their screening results on a voluntary basis for compilation, and the record has been very encouraging.

Reports from the 1974-75 school year revealed that some 2.5 percent of children receiving hearing screening and approximately nine percent of those receiving vision screening were referred to medical specialists. These reports came from 850 school systems and involved 990,495 children in hearing screening and 1,399,552 children in vision screening.

Reports for 1975-76 are incomplete, but preliminary reports from 597 school systems show that hearing screenings numbered 877,285 children, and vision screenings numbered 1,114,888. For hearing, 2.32 percent were referred as a result of hearing screening, and 6.97 percent who received vision screening were referred to medical specialists.

Actual treatments from referrals numbered 9,223 for hearing and 39,809 for vision in 1974-75. The incomplete reports for the 1975-76 school year show 12,688 receiving treatments for hearing problems and 37,518 receiving remedial treatment for visual difficulties. The two-year figure disclosed 21,911 cases of hearing impairment and 77,327 cases of visual impairment.

Dr. Connie R. Yerwood, chief of the Bureau of Personal Health Services of TDHR, said more than 99,000 youngsters in our schools were given an improved chance of learning in the past two years alone by correction of their visual and hearing problems. And, she said, the figures will increase when all reports are in for the past school year.

"Children with hearing and vision losses are frequently regarded as slow to learn, inattentive, or vague. The child may be characterized as over-aggressive or under-assertive in school and is commonly found in the ranks of 'problem children,'" said Dr. Yerwood. In either case, she said, sensory and/or physical impairments forestall the full development of school-age children.

She emphasized that the screening programs being carried out across the state will not detect all medical problems nor identify all children with marginal impairments. But it allows the professional to follow up children found in need of further examination, evaluation and treatment.

The hearing program requires the use of very sensitive testing equipment, the audiometer. The Department of Health Resources operates another phase of the program -- calibration surveys to determine the condition of audiometers used for hearing screening. A special laboratory, using skilled technicians, has been established to test and adjust the Department's own equipment. In addition, calibration surveys are conducted on equipment used in the school surveys.

At a recent meeting, the Texas Board of Health Resources authorized purchase of a special mobile laboratory to be used in testing equipment throughout the state. This should be another major step in helping assure that our state's children will get the most from their educational experiences.

"A life insurance specialist should be on your team of estate planning professionals. We help keep more dollars in your family. Let's talk teamwork. Professionally."

The Church Building

This is only a building, but it is a special building for it is the worship place for God's people. It is a place where one may go to study and hear God's word preached.

"... faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God."

If there are unanswered questions in your mind... go... seek... and find God in his house

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Ford & The Veto

President Ford has exercised the power of presidential veto regularly in a contest with the Democratic Congress involving federal spending for two years.

The most publicized recent veto, overridden by Congress late in July, was aimed at a four billion dollar public jobs bill, a typical election-year sop to the unemployed—which won't help them much.

A close look at the bill, and what it can and can't do, shows why. About half the money is to be made available to states and cities for public works projects, such as sewers, etc. This kind of work demands skilled laborers for the most part. And skilled laborers are not currently suffering the high rate of unemployment confronting unskilled laborers.

The other money is not likely to be translated into very many jobs for unskilled laborers soon, and with the unemployment rate declining as the economy recovers, it will only involve perhaps 100,000 jobs or so, and most likely in 1977.

Finally, the country currently can't afford four billions for public works jobs. The budget is already far out of balance and the national debt has risen drastically in the last few years. President Ford's veto was based on these considerations. It was not a play for votes but a display of political courage.

Democrats, comedians and those looking for free handouts (paid for by others) have recently been quite free with remarks that the Ford job bill veto shows he doesn't care about the unemployed. Rather, it shows the President cares about all the 200,000,000-plus Americans, the country and its economic future.

NEWS REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

The Poll Game—How Important? How Many Points? The Debates—

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Some politicians depreciate the importance of public opinion polls in forecasting election results. But a glance at the record of the polls in presidential elections for the past twenty-eight years proves they are valuable—but not infallible—indicators.

In 1948 most public opinion polls showed Thomas Dewey leading Harry Truman. Truman won. The polls—using their standard alibi—claimed the mood of the people changed in the last days before voting. Maybe.

Poll results often miss the mark a few points, so that if this year President Ford finds himself trailing Jimmy Carter by less than ten points come voting time, he still has a chance.

He also still has a chance because the popular vote doesn't determine the presidential election. That's decided by electoral votes, all of which in each state go to the winner. If Ford carries enough states to get 270 electoral votes, even if his popular vote margin in those states is small, he'll be President for four years. Carter might carry the other states with a popular vote lead of millions and still be the defeated candidate.

In the 1950's former Texas Congressman Ed Gossett tried hard to change this system—and almost succeeded. In his last effort, Senator Bob Taft was instrumental in blocking the constitutional amendment's adoption.

If public opinion polls show one candidate more than ten points ahead of another, chances are very high the leading candidate will win. No such poll projection has been disproven in decades.

This year the presidential candidates' debates will have a major effect on the polls. Carter zoomed to a 62-27 point lead after the Democratic convention Ford pulled up to within ten points after the G.O.P. convention.

So results this year are varying wildly. Either voters are not sure about one or more of the candidates or they are mercurial in their reaction to television's, and the candidates' impact. Fifteen-point changes in the odds over a period of two weeks is unusual.

The 1976 annual meeting of Plains Ginners Association will be held on Saturday, September 25, at the Lubbock Country Club in Lubbock from 9:30 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. according to the organization's secretary, Dixon White of Lubbock. Over 300 High Plains ginners and allied industry people are expected to attend.

The meeting will feature addresses by Texas' 19th District Congressman George Mahon; Donald A. Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock; Tony Price, Executive Vice President of the Texas Cotton Ginners' Association, Dallas, and Pete Brown, Southwest Area Supervisor of the National Cotton Council, headquartered in Memphis, Tennessee.

Bill McCasland of Lubbock, President, will give the annual report to the membership.

Congressman Mahon, Chairman of the powerful House Appropriations Committee in Washington, has served the people of the High Plains area in Congress since January, 1935. "Mr. Mahon for 42 years has been a moving force behind agricultural progress on the High Plains," said McCasland, "and we are both pleased and honored to have him for our program."

The ginners association will honor the Congressman with its first "Exceptional Service Award." No other individual has been so honored since the organization's inception in 1923, McCasland notes.

Johnson will review what PCG is doing and plans to do toward ensuring the future of the cotton industry on the High Plains, stressing the need for "total involvement and a united effort if the industry is to control its own destiny."

Price, whose statewide organization has kept ginner interests in the forefront as government regulations on air pollution and safety have been promulgated, will outline the latest developments and suggest practical answers to some of the problems that arise from air pollution control, Occupational Safety and Health Administration rulings, and other government regulatory activities affecting ginners.

The National Cotton Council is planning an intensive educational campaign in connection with a producer referendum scheduled in December of this year, and Brown's remarks are expected to center on information that will be used in that campaign. Cotton producers will vote in the referendum on whether to increase the $1 per bale they now contribute to Cotton Incorporated for that organization's research and market development activities.

Preceding the business meeting on Saturday will be the association's annual golf tournament, with players teeing off at the Lubbock Country Club from 9:30 a.m. to 11:00 a.m. on Friday, September 24.

SOME STRAIGHT TALK ABOUT

SMUT

There are two distinctly different kinds of smut in the corn fields of Parmer, Castro, Deaf Smith, Lamb, Bailey and Hale counties: common smut and head smut. Common smut has little, if any, economic significance. Head smut is the real culprit. Estimates are that it will reduce the yields of some fields by over 20%.

COMMON SMUT (Ustilago maydis), sometimes called boil smut, does not usually reduce yields. It is characterized by galls, bulbous growths which are at first covered with a glistening, greenish to silvery-white tissue. The galls may appear on any part of the corn plant including the exposed tips of healthy ears protruding beyond the shuck. The plant becomes host to wind or water-borne sporidia which stimulate cells in young tissue to proliferate.

HEAD SMUT (Sphacelotheca reiliana) is systemic, the plant being infected by soil-borne teliospores in the seedling stage. The outward signs of the disease are less conspicuous than common smut. It first appears when ears and tassels are formed. Tassels of infected plants usually appear to be covered with a reddish brown or black, spiny rust. Silkless shucks look as if they might cover a short, fat ear of corn but opening the shuck exposes a mass of black, worm-like teliospores or a tangle of bright green, leafy buds. Since head smut is soil borne and there is no practical chemical treatment to control it, we can expect infection to increase from one year to the next if conditions are right. This year's weather (dry and cool) was particularly conducive to infestations of both types of smut fungus.

WHAT ABOUT NEXT YEAR

For the most part, head smut occurs in fields that have been planted to corn for several years. It appears that farmers with a head smut-infested field have a choice for the use of that field next year. They can plant the field to another crop or can, with reasonable safety, plant corn hybrids that offer resistance to the disease. Pioneer has three excellent hybrid corn varieties that show strong resistance to head smut. One of these is well known to area farmers and is the most planted variety in much of this area... Pioneer brand 3306. Two other Pioneer varieties... 3184 and 3195... which were planted widely in this area for the first time this year, not only resist smut but have even greater yield potential than the well-known yield champion, Pioneer brand 3369-A.

A RECOMMENDATION

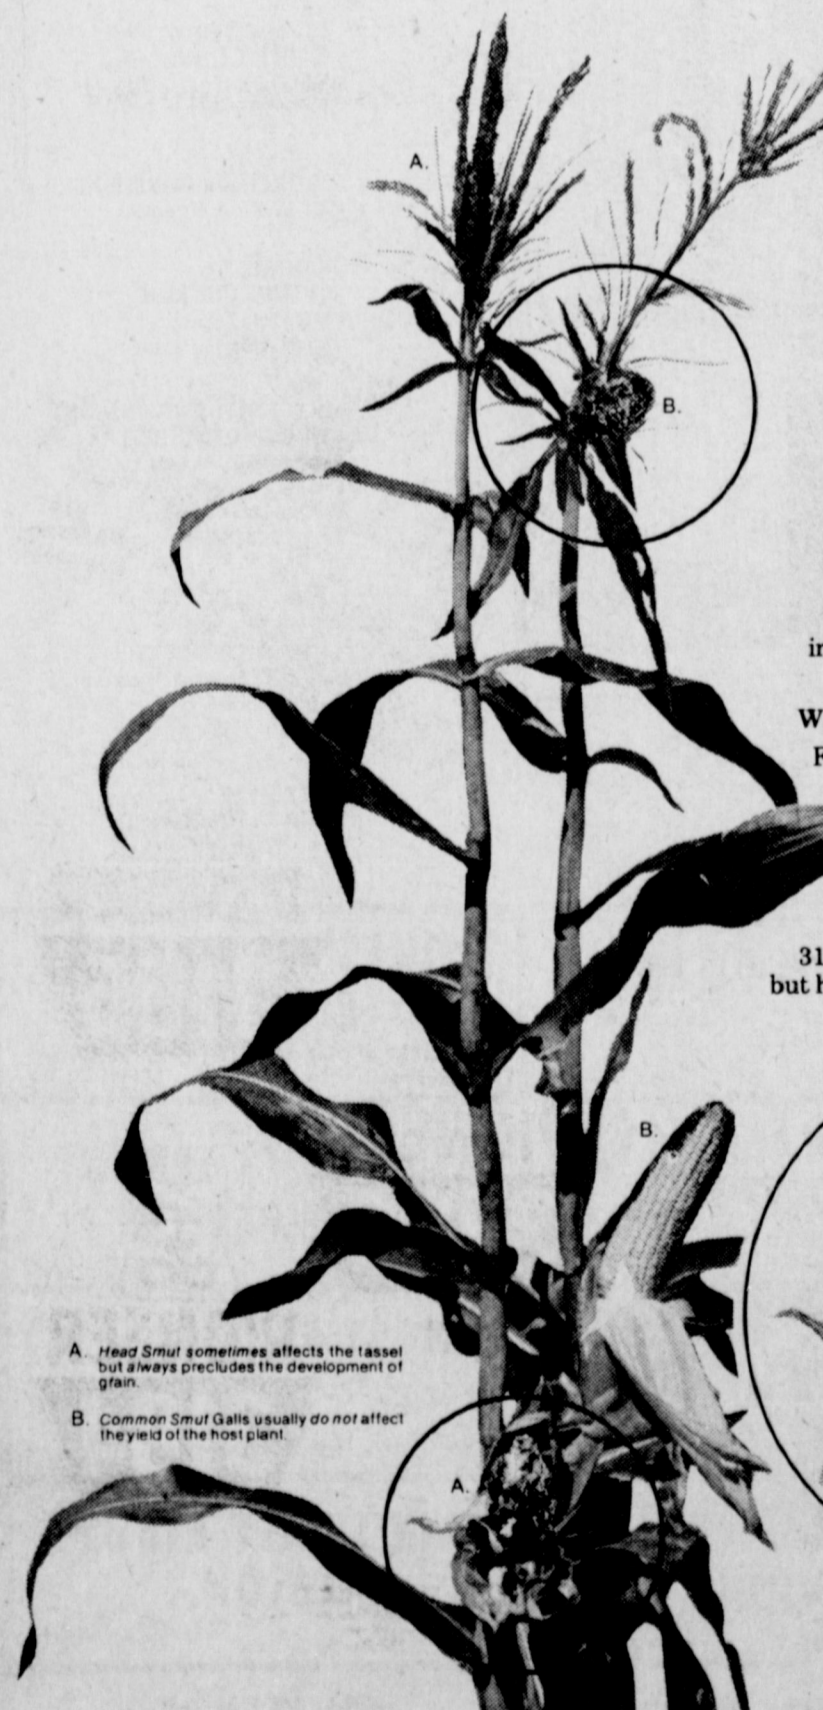

If you have a field that shows signs of head smut infections, plan to switch to one of the three Pioneer varieties that provide resistance to the disease and, at the same time, give you a shot at the best corn yield you have ever had.

Talk to your Pioneer dealer now about ordering Pioneer varieties 3306, 3184 and 3195. It makes a lot of sense to plant all three.

TEXAS HUNTING AND FISHING DAY SET

September 25 has been set aside by Governor Dolph Briscoe as "Texas Hunting and Fishing Day" in recognition of the contributions state outdoorsmen make to conservation.

Governor Briscoe along with the mayors of Amarillo and Lubbock are among the 50 top state administrators, 500 mayors, 237 congressmen supporting National Hunting and Fishing Day, which is celebrating its fifth anniversary. The announced theme for this year's NHF day is: "Making a Good Thing Better".

For nearly 40 years, sportsmen have paid a special 11 percent tax on their sporting equipment, providing conservation across the country with over $600 million, and they increase that total by nearly $50 million each year. During the next year, Texas will receive $2,235,800 for fish and wildlife restoration from this source.

Because of these sportsmen's interest in hunting and fishing throughout the vast and varied lands and waters of Texas, countless Texans along with other Americans have made great contributions to the many values of these outdoor activities. Texas sportsmen bought 1,051,834 hunting licenses in 1975 which accounted for six percent of the 16.6 million sold across the United States. License sales officials of the PARD received $5.8 million from combination hunting and fishing, resident hunting and resident hunting exempt licenses.

Anglers and hunters are vocal in seeking to keep our waters clean and our lands balanced for a great Texas agriculture industry which can also afford ample wildlife habitat.

Through organizations such as Ducks Unlimited, bass, and gun clubs, attention is directed toward the inestimable value of natural resources to mankind, and the dangers of its abuse.

All citizens are urged to join with anglers - hunters - conservationists in renewing our appreciation for and dedication to proper use of natural resources now and for future generations.

CRANE PERMIT REQUIRED AGAIN

Sandhill crane hunters will be required to have a special permit before hunting, shooting or harvesting these wintering South Plains birds this fall.

Valuable harvest information was obtained from last year's survey which was sent to permit holders at the close of the 1975 season. Figures show that Lynn County lead the nation in the number of cranes harvested during that season.

The 1976 sandhill crane season is open in zone A - October 30 - January 30, and in zone B - December 4 - January 30, 1977. The daily bag and possession limits are set at three and six, respectively.

This free permit is available by writing the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, John H. Reagan Building, Austin, Texas 78701. Please include your name, address and county of residence in the request.

Area Wrecks None Killed

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated two accidents on rural highways in Bailey County during the month of August, 1976, according to Sergeant Thurman Keffer, Highway Patrol supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in no persons killed and two persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for this county during the first eight months of 1976 shows a total of 27 accidents resulting in two persons killed and 20
