Nazis Employ Giant 'Pincer' Maneuver In Drive to Cut Russian Supply Line; Federal Agents Arrest 29 Persons In Largest U. S. Roundup of Spies

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

The figure in the lower left corner of the picture is an R.A.F. pilot, who floats on a rubber dinghy, dropped by the land plane overhead. The aviator, after being shot down by Nazis, was spotted by the English air sea rescue service, who radioed the high speed launch, shown just as it reached the scene. The plane hovered above, until rescue was completed, then sped away upon another mercy mission. These dramatic events are almost a daily occurrence in the battle of the Atlantic.

REDS: Fighting Hard

In spite of empty communiques from both Russian and German sources on the progress of the war on a 2,000-mile front between the two former allies, one thing was evident, that the Russians were fighting with all their might and main, but that they were being relentlessly pushed back before the fury of the German mechanized onslaught.

Bit by bit and piece by piece the picture began to be seen, despite the fact that both sides were baring war correspondents from the scene.

The huge front was divided into four general parts, the far northern, the northern, central and southern. On the far north there was no discernible activity. This was the part which Germany hoped to invade by means of her occupation of Norway.

The northern front really began with the Finnish-Russian border, that part of it which lies to the southeast and separates old Finland from the road to Leningrad. Here the fighting was severe, but apparently was mostly in the air. Another portion of this front lay somewhat to the southward, and included the states of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, and the Germans moving from East Prussia, were invading these territories only recently taken over by Russia, and were slowly forcing the Russians back into their own territory.

Here the fighting was extremely severe and the Russians were forcing the Nazis to advance slowly, where at all.

The greatest Nazi advance was on the central front, with the rail center of Minsk, reputedly a "life-line" of Russian supply between south and north armies, as the prime apparent objective. Here the Germans were claiming their greatest successes, and on the basis of meager dispatches, they had indeed covered the most mileage in this district.

Yet most observers believed the Ukraine, the southern front, was the one the Germans coveted most. Yet it was on this front that almost no advance had been made, the Russians claiming to hold the Prut river, which was still a considerable distance from old Russian territory.

Thus the old Nazi "pincers technique" was evident, as it was obvious the Germans were trying to divide the Russian defending armies into two parts, and drive southward to surround and encircle the Ukraine defenders, and to do the same via the Baltic states with the northern defenders.

MORALE: The Mental Side

As to the propaganda releases, which contained much more space and information than did the official news, there was every indication that both sides in the Russo-German war believed strongly that the other's inner morale was weak.

There were dozens of stories from Russian sources telling of Nazi soldiers and aviators laying down their arms, saying, "we don't want to fight against the Communists."

The Germans, on the other hand, did not make such claims, but took the line of telling the world what brave and foolhardy fighters the Russians were, and by telling stories of "stands to the death" to paint the picture of an army suffering defeat after defeat, and letting its soldiers fight even inside of burning buildings until all were killed.

The purpose of each of these types of stories was to impair morale. This caused many observers to feel that the outcome of the war might well hinge on a breach in the morale of either side.

Great Career Ends

Sad news to the world of music was the death of Ignace Jan Paderewski, world famous musician and Polish patriot, who died in New York of pneumonia at the age of 80. The great pianist was ill only a few days. His long career was one of continued brilliance. At 9 he was a child prodigy and at 18 a professor of music. An accomplished concert pianist at 27, he later became a world recognized statesman and first prime minister of a free Poland.

PLANES: In Syria

Enthusiastic reports were beginning to come from Australians in the R. A. F. in Syria and northern Africa concerning the performance and maneuverability of American-built planes.

These reports constituted an oddity, however, with regard to the bombers and fighters. From northern Africa came glowing accounts of the performance of Martin-built bombers on the ever-growing strength of Britain there.

The bombers were fast, the sights were unusually good, and they were wreaking havoc with Nazi and Fascist planes in the air and on the ground.

The Curtiss-built Tomahawk fighter planes also came in for unstinted praise, not only on the North African front but in Syria as well.

But the Vichy French had the same Martin bombers that the Free French and British had in Syria, so it was Tomahawk against the U. S. heavier planes there.

The reports of victory were still optimistic in Syria, however, the airmen reporting that the Tomahawks shot down the U. S. Martins quite as well as they did the Junkers, Heinkels and Capronis in Africa.

"The fire power of these fighters is terrific and they have all the speed you want," said the pilots.

NOBODY: Satisfied

The passage by the house military affairs committee of a report condemning a long list of persons and agencies as having bungled the national defense showed a puzzled public that apparently nobody was satisfied with the way our preparations were being managed.

The house committee attacked the administration, the defense advisory commission, the army, the navy, OPM, the maritime commission and the state department and Secretary Ickes.

The President, it said, had been too prone, when new problems arose, just to name another board, with the result that endless complications and confusion had arisen to slow progress.

And harking back to the President himself, it was recalled that he, too, had declared himself far from pleased with the way things were going, just a day or two before the house committee reported.

William Knudsen, head of OPM, reported defense production lagging; Leon Henderson, price control man, was pegging the prices of tires and tubes and threatening in other directions; the maritime commission was displeased with the ship owners and Secretary Ickes was having a hard time with the nation's oil men.

Defense plant heads, seeking places for their workers to live near their work, were falling out with the federal housing men, and it was hard to find anybody that was pleased with anything in the defense set-up—giving the press and speakers who were opposed to the New Deal handling of the whole show plenty of material for their attacks on its policies.

FIELD DAY: For Britain

As the Germans, led by Hitler in person, turned their backs on England, the British were having an aerial field day, running day and night air raids with minimal losses in men and ships and dealing out terrific blows to Nazi and occupied territory.

But the Britisher in the street was not satisfied. There was a growing demand for invasion of the Nazi-held lands. This spread far beyond the "man in the street" angle when one general suggested that the time had come for "hit and run" attacks on coastal points as a sure method of wrecking the Nazis' entire build-up for an attack on the British isles.

The general, J. F. C. Fuller, said he understood the British had amphibian tanks, and that if they did have them, now was the time to use them in cross-channel invasion attempts.

Woolknit Swim Suit Should Be Included in Vacation Plans

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IT IS very evident that women are becoming increasingly impressed with the value of swimming for health and beauty. Not only do crowded beaches at seaside and lake resorts testify to the enthusiasm felt for water sports, but many inland towns have created attractive and pretentious modern swimming pools that offer infinite enjoyment to their communities. Then too, most private estates have picturesque swimming pools where guests may indulge in water sports.

Which all goes to show why smart bathing suits together with a goodly supply of beach togs and accessories have become a positive "must" in the plans for the summer vacation. As to this season's swim-suit fashions, they surpass all that has gone before in way of smart, versatile fabric, clever styling, eye-appeal in color and all the dramatic accents that add to the picture of Miss America as she takes off for a merry swim on a summer day.

Outstanding news in regard to current swim-suit trends is the strong revival of woolknits and woolknit fabric for both sculptured form-fitting types and that which is ultra chic this season—the suit that is cunningly dressmaker styled. New to the scene this summer is the jacquard woolknit suit such as is shown to the left in the illustration. Note the sleek front-paneled skirt in shadow plaid of brown and green on yellow. The back is cut very low for sun-tanning.

Bright red and white diagonal striped woolknit fabric makes the smart slenderizing princess (a favorite styling this season) bathing suit pictured to the right. The V-neckline is banded in the solid red knit, continued into cross straps at the back. Panties are separate so there is nothing to break the flattering smooth line of the suit. Machine woolknits that look like handknits are also staging a big comeback in simple sculptured type such as adept swimmers love to wear.

Designers are turning out perfectly charming suits dressmaker-fashioned after the manner of the ballerina type of waffle pique centered in the group. Note the coin dot banding. Dot trimmings are very smart this season. Floral prints and various cotton weaves make front page fabric news for swim suits and beach togs. The more audacious the coloring, the more daring the patterning, the smarter! This is especially true of the gay and fascinating Hawaiian prints now so fashionable. The sarong drape skirt in exotic prints with bra top showing bare midriff is a leading style. Novelty types are often styled with "grass skirts" inspired by Hawaiian native design. A lei necklace of flowers added, is the final glamour accent.

Bathing suits of elasticized fabric are to be had by the score. The newest thing in these types is two-color effects done in white with bright colored godets or inset vertical bands. Allover shirred lastique insures a sculptural figure fit. Bright applique of gorgeous flowers on white jersey is especially effective with a long matching beach cape. There are endless cunning dressmaker-styled gingham shantung and crinkled seersucker suits. In knits and lastiques girls love the suit that zips up the back from the waistline to give a perfect fit.

Chic Plus Glamour

In a blaze of glory, lovely neckwear comes into its own this season. Women of fashion are enthusiastically playing up the vogue with appreciation of what magic frothy, snowy lingerie touches perform in way of accentuating feminine charm. Fine lace insertion, tiny tucks, dainty lace edging and eyelet embroidery combine for sheer femininity in this dainty collar and cuff set designed for the new V-neckline. In fine permanent finish Swiss organza famous for its washability, this set provides a practical way to add glamour to a simple frock.

Cool Summer Outfits

Of All Black Are New

You can dress in all black from head to foot and still look cool and summery. This is the miracle style creators have wrought. Briefly outlined the plan is sheerest of sheer black frock, hat of black sheer, gloves of the lacy sort and black stockings so cobwebby sheer they are almost transparent. The newest black sheer dresses are finished off with edgings of fine black lace. This use of black lace trims is being played up to the point of being recognized as a most important vogue. Not only are dress-up black sheer frocks feminized to a most fascinating degree with lace frilled at throat and sleeves, on pockets and here, there, and everywhere to add glamour but the movement has been taken up by milliners who either make the entire hat of lace or trim with it. Big brims edged with lace frills are one of the new and entrancing lace expressions.

Enormous Brims Versus The 'Pretty' Little Hat

The problem is up to millady whether she will go hatted this summer in the flattering little frivolous flower concoctions she loves to wear or whether she will top her costume with a hat of enormous brim and look chic and sophisticated. Each type is attractive and the fashion-right way is to include both in this summer's wardrobe of hats.

He never dug post-holes all day When Sol was shooting heat his way; He never combined wheat or rye When temperature was super-high;

He never worked up on the stack A-forkin' chaffy oats straw back; He never worked a single day Up in the mow a-pushin' hay;

He never shoveled wheat up in An elevated granary bin; He never pushed a scythe, immense, A-mowin' weeds along the fence;

He never ran a small-grain header, A cultivator, or a spreader; He never rose at three at morn To drive the horses from the corn;

He never even hoed tomatoes Or built a bridge, or bugged potatoes; He never walked behind a plow Or milked a wild and wooly cow;

He never wore out shoes and feet, A-keepin' chinch bugs from the wheat; He never fought cutworms that chewed

His early corn in manner rude; He never had to work and strain To finish hayin' fore the rain;

He never worked 12 hours a day With stock, and grain, and beans, and hay, and then go home, all tired and sore, and do barn chores two hours or more; He never greased a wagon wheel, argued with a planter reel;

MY FATHER, WHO PLANTED THESE TREES

By Fred Lape

Being a man who looked into the years, He always planted trees upon his land;

Pines in the wood-lot corners, willow spears Set in the swamps in early spring, a stand

Of butternuts along the creek. He grafted Wild seedlings in the pastures, apple and pear.

It looked as if a minded wind had wafted Strange seeds over his land and dropped them there

To hold their own against the native growth. He sleeps among them now, but they live on.

They are himself, his dreams, that flourished both For him and others after he had gone.

I find them in the most unlooked-for places: A branch of apples showing red fruit among

Its russet neighbors, nut trees filling the spaces Along a stone-wall fence where seeds were slung

I always feel as if I'd chanced to blunder Upon him saying hello from these strange corners.

"I dropped something here once," he says. "I wonder If it is here. Can this be it. I wonder?"

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—The army could use a few top-flight Broadway playwrights, particularly those who have had war experience. But it already has its own David Belasco. Army Impresario Injects Realism Into War Games War games, to condition our new army of 1,400,000 men for real combat now provide the utmost in dramatic realism. There are machines to simulate faithfully the screaming of Stuka bombers; there will be the roar of gunfire—with blank cartridges, of course; there will be parachute attacks, machine gunning from airplanes, and every possible device to keep the boys from forgetting that "they're in the army now."

Gen. Lesley James McNair, chief of staff of general headquarters, a small, keen, alert man who seems omnipresent in the army camps, is the impresario in this the army's biggest and most serious venture in applied theatricals. He has had long experience in war games and has convincingly portrayed them as invaluable rehearsals for the real thing, not only for the instruction imparted but for the unconscious, reflex conditioning of nerves and sensitivity to the now heightened tumult of war.

When the nucleus of a general headquarters staff was formed July 25, 1940, General McNair was put at the head of it. That subsequently placed in his hands the intensified and expanded war-training maneuvers, far exceeding anything ever before attempted, and last September he took over the entire training program of the rapidly increasing army.

It is regarded as an undertaking of the utmost importance and President Roosevelt recently promoted the army Belasco from major general to the rank of temporary lieutenant general. His knowledge of war is by no means confined to make-believe. He fought with the field artillery in France and won the U. S. Distinguished Service medal and the French Legion of Honor. He is a native of Minnesota and was graduated from West Point in 1904.

THIS writer went to the wedding of a young woman friend a few weeks ago. The bridegroom was a tall, loose-gear, bespectacled young man with an enchanting grin and a thick thatch of brownish hair. The bride told us he was a scientist. We should have known that he was Russell Varian, the inventor, with his brother Sigurd and several other associates, of the Klystron radio generator which American technicians say is better than anything the British have in their new plane-spotting system and which has made blind-flying, in fog or night, like a trip around the block in a baby-carriage.

Russell Varian worked his way through Stanford, odd-jobbing for the professors. His brother Sigurd was a flight captain with the Pan-American Airways on Mexican and Central American routes. One day Russell got a letter from Sigurd in which Sigurd said he was tired of ramming around in fog and night and they ought to get together and work out a radio beam which homing planes could really follow. Russell thought that was a good idea, so Sigurd brought him his savings of $4,000 and the boys set up a workshop at Halcyon.

Their facilities just wouldn't do. Dr. David L. Webster, head of the department of physics, at Stanford, provided a laboratory, gave them effective aid in every possible way and made them research associates of the university, but the university could provide no funds. Sigurd's $4,000 dwindled to $47. The young men were living sketchily when the Klystron came through. A representative of the Bureau of Civil Aeronautics put them in touch with the Sperry Gyroscope Co. Sperry hurriedly plunked down a check for $25,000 and built a laboratory for Russell in Garden City, Long Island.

Russell came to New York. His radio beam had guided him straight to Miss Jane Martinson, a comely research worker in biochemistry, one of Miss Bessie Beatty's present radio team of "Betty and Bessie." It was a case of love at first sight on the part of both. Hence the wedding, just a fortnight later, in East Nineteenth street residence of Adolph Berle, now occupied by Miss Beatty. Bride and bridegroom, tireless hikers, had their out-togs ready for a long vacation and honeymoon tramp through England.

U. S. Youths Join R.A.F.

Hikes 20,600 Miles

Four years after leaving Venezuela, Julio Berrizbeitia, 19-year-old Boy Scout, arrived in Washington, completing his 20,600-mile hike. He carried a letter from the president of Venezuela to F. D. R.

for any room. Even the beginner will find this simple and pleasant to do.

Common Friendship
Friendship is like rivers, and the strand of seas, and the air, common to all the world; but tyrants, and evil customs, wars, and want of love, have made them proper and peculiar. — Jeremy Taylor.

Fanaticus Americanus

The word "fan" comes from fanatic, which means, roughly, a guy who is frantically enthusiastic about something or other. As an enthusiast the American fan is second to none. The fan's act is as much a part of the game as anything which goes on inside the playing field. We introduce to you here some of the more rabid of the breed that happened to catch the eye of the camera.

If you wish to see the fan of fans go to Brooklyn. These Dodgerites tell Cincinnati Reds how they feel about it. Right: This lady fan does her razzing musically.

Female (Driver) of the Species Not So Deadly

Any wife who wants to challenge hubby's comments that the women cause all the accidents, has only to refer to "Here Today—" a safety booklet recently issued. She will find in it facts which prove that 92.6% of all fatal accidents last year were caused by male drivers and only 7.4% by women. In non-fatal accidents, 90.3% involved men, with women involved in but 9.7%.

Some of the sting in these statements will be removed when it is considered that there are many more men driving than women, but the record is still one for men to be ashamed of.

An analysis of the underlying causes might reveal that the belligerency of the men leads them into trouble whereas the timidity of women keeps them safe, but such an analysis has yet to be made.

The statistics seem to indicate that unless men soon mend their driving ways, it will be a woman's world in more ways than one—she may lay Old Mother Earth all to herself if male drivers continue to sacrifice their lives with such reckless driving on the nation's highways.

OTHER STATES CUT DOWN—NOT TEXAS

The forty-seventh Legislature has been the most extravagant in the history of the state. In the next biennium, Texas will spend approximately twenty million dollars more than in the current one, without taking into consideration the increase in social security financing. By the next session the general fund will necessarily be at least fifteen more millions in the red. Obviously, the forty-eighth Legislature will then have posed for it exactly the same problem that confronted the forty-seventh—with a huge deficit in the general fund, the new session will regard it as its plain duty to impose the taxes to fill the hole.

So far as The News is aware, Texas has the company of but two other states in failing to retrench. Most of our sister commonwealths have surveyed the critical international situation, recognized that the national defense bill by itself should dictate economy and have appropriated with restraint instead of spend thrift generosity. Oddly enough, the Texas Legislature which has given approval to almost erotic spending was elected, as was the state's chief executive, on an economy platform.

It is yet possible for the governor with discerning blue pencil to pave the figures down to a sensible total. The educational appropriation has already been approved. While there are many things in this that caution would charge, in general liberal support of education is a sound policy. The governor could and should check recklessness elsewhere. It would be in good order for every taxpayer to write him and tell him so.—Dallas News.

EACH TO THE OTHER

How lucky they
Who work and play
Together.

Who toil and laugh,
Of each a half,
Together.

Who onward stride
Side by side,
Forever.

Through good and bad,
Through gay and sad,
Forever.

Who love and live
And treasures give
Each other.

Who feast and fast,
To find at last,
Each other.

A truck driver was traveling, for the first time, through a rather remote region and stopped at a small restaurant to eat.

"Will you have sausage on toast?" asked the waitress.

"I never eat sausage," replied the truck driver.

"In that case, your dinner is over," the waitress replied.

Wouldn't It Be Great if You Had 500 More Customers?

There are a thousand people near your place of business, who use goods which you handle, but who don't buy them of you.

Why ?

EITHER your shop is not good enough to serve them,

OR, these folks don't know how good it is!

If it is the latter, why don't they know (or believe in) its ability?

Isn't it because you have not told them often enough, or with sufficient forcefulness?

THE NEWS is read by several thousand men, women and children hereabouts.

We will help you present the facts about your place, often enough and with the forcefulness necessary to convince the majority of these people, if you will let us.

Let's get together and capture that trade.
