The McLean Home has on hand 17 caskets of various grades, including one of special order in metal that is the finest ever shown in the Panhandle; as well as robes, suits, etc.

A feature of Womack's is their burial benefit association in which all adult members receive a $150 funeral at death, including a casket, choice of robe or suit, embalming, chapel tent, sound equipment, printed funeral notices, acknowledgement cards, etc., comparable with much higher priced funerals.

W. C. Shull, manager of the McLean branch, has been busy this summer about the house and grounds as is evidenced by the green lawns, flower beds and other ground improvements.

Mr. Shull says that visitors are welcome to visit the home at any time and that such visits are advantageous to the visitor in that acquaintance may be made of the various services offered before the need arises.

Dr. H. C. Bolton, executive secretary of the Florida State Baptist Convention, is doing the preaching and McLean Baptists who have attended the services say that he preaches the old-fashioned gospel in a very forceful manner.

The McLean church will have Rev. Dee Cates of Plainview as guest preacher next Sunday.

People Urged to Bring Anything They Want Sold

The first of a series of monthly auction sales and dollar days will be held Monday, Sept. 22, beginning at 1:30 p. m.

The sale will be held on the vacant lots back of Puckett's Grocery and will be conducted by Col. T. C. Bowden, who has a number of similar sales going in the Panhandle.

Farmers are urged to bring in anything they want sold, as are others. There is no restriction; whatever is brought in will be put up for sale at no cost to anyone.

The cooperating merchants who are making the sales possible have a page advertisement in this paper and are offering special bargains for sales day, so that all who attend the auction may have an opportunity to take advantage of dollar day bargains.

"Anything from a setting of hatching eggs to a farm tractor, used car, or prize livestock, can be brought to this sale and will be auctioned absolutely free."

"Not only is the sale an advantage to sellers," stated Col. Bowden, "but it is of real value to buyers, affording them an opportunity to secure something they want or need at their own price."

Editorial

So you want friends, eh? You want to be able to walk down the halls and streets and have people nodding and smiling and addressing you by your pet nickname? Not a bad ambition in itself.

But to have friends you must first be one. Simple, isn't it? The people you meet aren't going to go out of their way to speak to you if you are a pickle-puss. You aren't liable to be invited to parties and fraternal meetings if your neck is so stiff you can't turn it toward your neighbor.

It may come a little hard at first, but crack your face open with a good old country-style grin as you wander down the hall today. Don't laugh out loud as you look at a person, although you may be tempted, but do smile, and speak.

For the person you thus favor only looks wonderingly at you, chances are it is through surprise. Tomorrow repeat the performance and, (this is guaranteed; if it doesn't suit, return and get your money back) chances are your smile and greeting will be matched.

Tigers Win Opening Football Game 25-0

A three Tiger team took to the field last Friday evening and defeated the White Deer Bucks to rout the team of a 25-0 victory.

Playing on a sodden field that was like a ball slippery and difficult to handle, the Tigers took command of the situation soon after the start of the game and did not relinquish it until the end of the time.

In the first few minutes of play, the Tigers' John Kelly Lee went to the enemy line standing up for the goal of the evening. The play was made by Joe Cooke, who made a 45-yard run that was very fine, and was one of the blockers of the evening.

The longest run of the game was made by Kelly Lee when he took the ball on his own line and swished thru the line for a 75-yard thriller.

The final tally of the game showed some very fine blocking by Kenneth Dyer.

The Tigers will meet the Phillips team again on the home field, Friday night. Phillips is generally considered to be the toughest opponent the Bucks, but the brand of play exhibited by Coach Cox's team is hard to beat even by the more aggressive team, according to local opinion.

Reserved Tickets to Games by Girls

Tickets for reserved seats for the six home games of the McLean football team are on sale. Tickets may be secured either from members of the cheer squad, or at the bank, who has charge of the ticket office.

The bank, who has charge of the ticket office, stated that last year's reserved seats were sold out very early.

There are more home games expected to be sold out very early.

The six home games this year are: Sept. 12, White Deer; Sept. 17, Wellington; Oct. 17, Wellington; Nov. 14, Clarissa; Nov. 14, Shamrock.

Ag Boys to Raise Pigs and More Pigs

The agriculture classes of McLean high school have a good prospect for this year with an enrollment of 61 boys, according to C. J. Magee, instructor.

Members have 51 registered Poland China, Chester White and Berkshire pigs as their projects. Several sows will farrow a little later. They expect to have on feed approximately 75 pigs which will be shown in the spring at the Amarillo and Fort Worth fat stock shows. They will also feed out 25 hogs for these shows.

The boys who prefer will sell their finished hogs on the local market. The boys should make a nice profit on their hogs because they bought when they were cheap, Magee said.

Boys who have registered brood sows are Bill and Joe Reeves, Gayle and Don Montgomery, Carl and John Dwyer, Johnnie Chilton, Val Morris, Kenneth Davis, Bernard McClellan, Joe Hill, W. C. Kennedy and J. B. Waldrop.

The McLean F. F. A. chapter will have its first meeting Thursday, Sept. 18. Officers will be elected during a week end encampment at Lake McClellan, 22 miles west of McLean, Friday afternoon.

Frank Buck Has Nothing on Biologists

Frank Buck, with his "bring 'em back alive" antics, has nothing on the students of the biology class according to Miss Mary Lou McIlhany, instructor.

Armed with their trusty cameras these intrepid hunters stealthily creep through adjacent fields and pastures in search of such fearsome game as bunnies, terrapins, weasels and woodchucks. Such mammals as are cornered forfeit their images to science.

In other words, these students are collecting pictures of various woodland inhabitants and classifying them as a part of their semester project.

Some of the less blood-thirsty students are making blue prints of leaves, and slides of cell tissue. Some other students are building home aquariums under general class supervision and help from Miss McIlhany.

Chas. E. Cooke, who has charge of the department, stated that last year reserved seats were sold, and there are more home games this year than last year.

He is expecting to sell about 200 reserved seats.

There will be six home games this year: Sept. 12, White Deer; Sept. 19, Phillips; Oct. 17, Wellington; Nov. 14, Clarksville; Nov. 21, Shamrock.

Entertained at Breakfast

Chas. E. Cooke entertained the McLean football squad at breakfast at the home of Mrs. Sewell Cox, with a luncheon on Wednesday, Sept. 10.

The game was held in the back yard of the Cooke home. Approximately 25 members of the squad were present.

Ag Boys to Raise Pigs and More Pigs

The agriculture classes of McLean high school have a good prospect for this year with an enrollment of 61 boys, according to C. J. Magee, instructor.

Members have 51 registered Poland China, Chester White and Berkshire pigs as their projects. Several sows will farrow a little later. They expect to have on feed approximately 75 pigs which will be shown in the spring at the Amarillo and Fort Worth fat stock shows. They will also feed out 25 hogs for these shows.

The boys who prefer will sell their finished hogs on the local market. The boys should make a nice profit on their hogs because they bought when they were cheap, Magee said.

Boys who have registered brood sows are Bill and Joe Reeves, Gayle and Don Montgomery, Carl and John Dwyer, Johnnie Chilton, Val Morris, Kenneth Davis, Bernard McClellan, Joe Hill, W. C. Kennedy and J. B. Waldrop.

The McLean F. F. A. chapter will have its first meeting Thursday, Sept. 18. Officers will be elected during a week end encampment at Lake McClellan, 22 miles west of McLean, Friday afternoon.

Frank Buck Has Nothing on Biologists

Frank Buck, with his "bring 'em back alive" antics, has nothing on the students of the biology class, according to Miss Mary Lou McIlhany, instructor.

Armed with their trusty cameras these intrepid hunters stealthily creep through adjacent fields and pastures in search of such fearsome game as bunnies, terrapins, weasels and woodchucks. Such mammals as are cornered forfeit their images to science.

In other words, these students are collecting pictures of various woodland inhabitants and classifying them as a part of their semester project.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK—From somewhere deep in Sybil's Cave in Washington comes the whisper that the government has secretly called in Maj. Yardley Again.

This is highly interesting in view of Major Yardley's frequent predictions that the state department would have to set up new listening posts, and carry on where he left off, in the event of war or even the threat of war.

Major Yardley was so expert as a de-coder that, knowing no Japanese, he could catch Japanese double-talk on the air, and de-code it. When Henry L. Stimson was secretary of state he didn't like either espionage or counter-espionage and thought no decent nation should have anything to do with it.

Hence, Major Yardley's secret "Black Chamber" in New York, which must have been something like the lair of Cagliostro, was summarily closed and the major was fired. Then he wrote his book and its repercussions were such that congress passed a law against his writing any more of the same kind.

In this book, he included de-coded messages showing how Japan had been giving this country the grand run-around during the Washington arms conference. It almost caused a cabinet crisis in Japan and made our state department reach for its smelling salts.

Herbert O. Yardley, a native of Washington, in his youth a telegraph operator for the war department, became a code expert and was transferred to the cryptographic bureau just before our entrance into the first world war.

Whether it's nice or not, the exigencies of the time are such that the newly organized foreign broadcast monitoring service is now working a 24-hour shift, assaying about 500,000 words of daily foreign broadcasts.

DOWN in the valley he heard the train blow. So the farm boy in the North Carolina mountains hung up his hoe and followed the white plume of smoke to fame and fortune. Old Squirrel Gun Taught Tycoon to Draw Sharp Bead.

Young Thomas A. Morgan's muzzle-loading squirrel gun was an instrument of precision compared to the best article of economics and business at a time like this. His skill with the gyroscope brought him in touch with its inventor, Elmer A. # Vanished Men

By GEORGE MARSH Penn. Publishing Co. W. H. U. Service

THE STORY SO FAR: Bound for the Chibougamau gold country, six men lost their lives on the Nottaway river. Red Malone, Garrett Finlay, brother of one of the six, and Blaise, half-breed guide, arrive at Nottaway posing as surveyors.

Red's blue eyes twinkled as he watched Finlay read. "Some skirt snatcher—this boy!" he chuckled.

There were gleams of light in Finlay's gray eyes as he handed the letter to Malone. "Read that, Red, while I talk with Blaise." Drawing Blaise aside Garry gave him the gist of the message. "Is it a trick?" he asked.

"For sure!" came the guttural response. "Old trick! He bait you wid woman!"

Garry slowly shook his head. "Blaise, that girl's in trouble! She couldn't write that way otherwise. Let's see what Red thinks."

Malone's dubious eyes were still busy with the sheets of blue paper in his hand. At last he grunted: "Huh! That's a tough letter to dope at, Garry. I'd hate to trust a hair that black head of hers and yet she sounds like the living truth. If it's only a scheme to get you to beat on her, she can drill you, I'll be my hat to her, she's a genius."

"Red, I tell you she's desperate! Isadore couldn't prompt her to write that letter. It's real. It's a cry from the depths. But what can be the trouble there? I knew the night of dinner something worried her."

Malone thoughtfully scratched his head. His eyes wrinkled quizzically. "Garry, have you happened to see her only a stepdaughter? I wonder if—mebbe—he's been bothering her."

"I thought of that. It's possible Isadore. Let me read it again."

Garry went over the blue sheets faintly fragrant. Could that girl possibly act out a part like this? Yet his better judgment told him the letter was a decoy.

"Cool ruffian, this Isadore!" he muttered. "If he's behind this, he had her warn us of just what she intends to do, to make it sound like she's sized me up as a nut who'll fall for this maiden distress stuff. Well, he's right!"

When he had been fed, Louis Malone started back with Finlay's answer. It was "Yes!"

INSTALLMENT EIGHT

Finlay receives an anonymous letter suggesting that the six men were not drowned as reported. Suspicion prevails that Isadore, rich fur man, has made a gold strike and aims to keep prospectors out of the country at any cost. The three men start out on the Nottaway for the Hudson's Bay post. They visit Isadore in his magnificent home where they meet Lise, his pretty stepdaughter. She sends Finlay a note saying she is in trouble and asking him to meet her.

men start out on the Nottaway for the Hudson's Bay post. They visit Isadore in his magnificent home where they meet Lise, his pretty stepdaughter. She sends Finlay a note saying she is in trouble and asking him to meet her.

"Six men?" she gasped. "I've heard of only two!"

"Six prospectors have disappeared and two men have been wounded." Finlay smiled significantly.

"Your limp, that night!" she suddenly cried, her eyes wide with understanding. "You—you were wounded in the leg on the way here?"

"Yes."

"They ambushed you on the Nottaway! But you're all right? Oh, they'll stop at nothing! Do you understand now why I've got to get away?"

"Yes. What was Tete-Blanche doing there that night?"

"I don't know."

"Well, don't worry, we'll have you safe at Matagami by August."

She gave a deep sigh. For a space they smoked in silence while Finlay's thoughts were busy with the mysterious plane. Then he glanced at her. She was smiling at him through curious eyes.

"Charming gossip we're having on my bathing beach on this lovely July day!" she said ruefully.

Her mood had suddenly changed. The compelling charm of her dove from his head all thoughts of Isadore. A beautiful girl sat beside him, desirable, baffling. And in her slow smile was veiled challenge.

"You swim here often?"

Her eyes were busy with a trim moccasin toying with the sand. She raised them and her lip curled. "Fishing for an invitation to join the beautiful mermaids? If you are, you're distinctly not invited. We usually swim in our scales, you know."

She flung herself around, facing him, and impulsively took his hand. "What children we are!" she cried. "This is the second time I've ever talked with you, Garry Finlay, and I'm babbling like a sub-deb at her first big dance."

"I never met one but I'm sure I'd love sub-debs." He leaned toward her. "Do you know how lovely you are and—how dangerous?" he said.

A warm undertone of pink pushed up over her neck and cheeks. She seemed suddenly confused. "It's growing late! I've got to go!" She was on her feet. "You'll take me to Matagami when I write? How can I thank you for daring to come? Oh, it's like a reprieve from a death sentence! I want to dance and sing!" She stood beside her canoe grasping her paddle. Her voice quavered: "Au revoir! Very nice and reckless man!" Her eyes danced dangerously.

"When you send word, I'll come!" he said, thickly. He slid her canoe into the water, turned and with a quick movement had her in his arms.

With a swift catch of the breath she flung back her dark head and smiled up at him. He kissed her hair and eyes and responsive mouth. "You sorceress!" he choked. "You've bewitched me! Courage, midnight eyes! I'll take you to Matagami. Good-by, Beautiful!"

She gave a low laugh as her arm tightened on his neck, and for a moment returned his kisses, then breaking away, leaped into the canoe and paddled off. Reaching the point, she blew a kiss with her hand and passed from sight.

His pulses drumming, Finlay stood at the edge of the water, groping for his mental balance. With her charm and changing moods Lise Demarais had played on his senses as a musician on a harp, run the gamut from laughter to tears. The hard-boiled Garry Finlay had been pliant in her hands as a willow sprout, but in the end she had left him wondering whether she was sincere or a consummate actress.

At the thought he glanced up and down the beach. The shore was deserted. Still under the spell of the girl who had paddled away, he started for the spruce point to meet the Peterboro. Again he felt her arms on his neck, her warm lips, looked into the dancing depths of her eyes.

He had reached a stretch of shore piled with boulders and had cut back into the bush where the walking was easier when the brittle snap of a dry stick stopped him in his tracks. His body stiffened while his right hand moved under his shirt to the stock of his .45.

"What's that?" he muttered.

Again there was a movement in the brush somewhere in front of him. Finlay slipped behind a spruce, his eyes stabbing the surrounding undergrowth. Then, from his rear, came a sound in the scrub and he flattened under the low branches.

"So it was acting after all!" A wave of remorse chilled him like a bitter wind as he lay beneath the overhanging boughs. Surrounded as he knew he must be—caught in Isadore's trap—his ears strained for movements of the men who hunted him while his thoughts hung to the girl who had so lightly led him to this.

me a home, education, clothes. But his word has always been law. Corinne and I live like children; are told nothing. He's so secretive. Why we're positive there's something queer going on here, now, at Waswanipi, but we don't know what it is."

Finlay was alive with interest. "Queer? What do you mean?"

"Every summer, in August, a plane flies down from the north. Later, it goes south but it carries no fur. Why should a plane fly here every August and go south empty?"

Garry Finlay, also, wanted the answer to that question. At last he had struck something. "That's strange!" he said, his face as impassive as wood. "It always comes in August, you say?"

"Yes. That's why I warned you not to stay here until August. I overheard Jules boast to Batoche that no prospectors nosing around here in August would ever see her. He thinks you're prospectors, you know."

"Then he's struck gold and wants to keep it a secret?"

"Corinne and I think so. We've an idea he ships the gold dust and nuggets in bags on that plane and doesn't want anyone to know about it."

"But why should it come from the Bay?"

"We don't know but he seems to want to hide the direction from which it comes. That's sure. He's nervous as a cat, then, won't even have Indians around the place?"

Finlay wondered what he had stumbled into. A plane from the Bay! What did that mean? Then he said: "Mrs. Isadore got the drugged wine intended for us. What did he intend to do—drop us in the lake?"

"No, I think he wanted to search you—learn who you were. I was so afraid something would happen. I wanted to warn you. Then I saw that hideous Tete-Blanche. After you left Jules struck Corinne for drinking that wine—struck her in the face. He was like a madman."

"Nice fellow! Of course he knows he can't last long at this game. Already six men who have entered

OVERCOMING THE ADVERSARY

LESSON TEXT—Revelation 12:7-12; 15:2-4. GOLDEN TEXT—And they overcame him by the blood of the Lamb, and by the word of their testimony; and they loved not their lives unto the death.—Revelation 12:11.

War! What a familiar word! Men are saying we should put an end to war. We wish it were possible, but as long as sin rules in the hearts of men, there will be wars; in fact, our lesson tells us of a greater war which is to take place in the heavens. The devil is busy not only on earth, but in the heavenly places, and wherever he is there is war. Only when Christ, the Prince of Peace, comes to reign will peace come to all the earth.

I. War in Heaven (12:7-9)

A clear, succinct, and helpful word on these verses is quoted from Dr. John R. Bradbury:

"The dispensational interpretation of this passage is that during the period of tribulation, which follows the rapture of the saints, as described in I Thessalonians 4:15-18; I Corinthians 15:51, 52, and other passages, there will be a war in heaven between Michael and his angels and the devil and his. Satan is not in hell now. It is wrong to teach that he is there. He is the prince of the power of the air. He rules the darkness of this world. He inspires wickedness in his domain and on earth. Against these conditions the Christian is solemnly warned to prepare (Eph. 6:10-18). When we say that Satan is in heaven, we do not mean the heaven of the immediate presence of God. The Bible speaks of different heavens and there is even a 'heaven of heavens' (I Kings 8:27).

II. Rejoicing in Heaven (12:10-12)

If we accept what seems to be the correct view; namely, that the woman of Revelation 12:1-5 is Israel, the nation in which the child (v. 5), who is Christ, was born, then it would appear that those who here rejoice in the victory over the dragon (Satan) would be the Jewish believers who will have come through great tribulation. At the same time it is quite appropriate to apply the truth of the passage to us who now find ourselves in conflict with Satan's powers.

The accuser does not hesitate to appear even in the presence of God to bring charges against us (see Job 1:6-12). But we need not fear him, for he is already judged (I John 16:11) and will (as we see in our lesson) one day be cast down to earth, and (as other Scripture reveals) will ultimately be cast into the lake of fire (Rev. 20:10).

But he is here now, a supernatural (but not divine) being, plaguing us, tempting us, accusing us. What shall we do about it? As to his accusation, we know we have a just and loving God and also have an Advocate to plead our causes before Him (I John 2:2). For his present attacks, our lesson gives the secret of spiritual victory in verse 11.

III. Victory on Earth (Rev. 15:2-4)

The scene of victorious rejoicing which we see here is evidently in heaven, but it is because of victory on earth. Here are those that have come through the horrible conditions described in Revelation 13, and have been victorious over the beast, in spite of his great powers.

They sing; that is the token of real victory, of a heart victory. Whatever loss they may have suffered, and whatever trials they may have gone through, they have "gotten the victory" (v. 2). They sing the song of Moses and the Lamb (cf. Exod. 15:1-21 and Rev. 5:9-14).

It is right that the redeemed of the Lord should sing, glorifying the name of God (v. 4) and magnifying His great and marvelous works (v. 3). Let us remind ourselves again that if we are Christians, we are on the victorious side. The glimpse into the heavens which we find in our lesson should give us the right perspective with which to view the troublesome experiences of life. God has a plan, and He will bring it to complete and victorious fruition in His own time and His own way.

Doctor Solves Mystery Of Missing Sweet Peas

An absent-minded woman had insisted upon being operated on for appendicitis.

Some time after her recovery she asked her doctor if he would mind telling her what he had found in her appendix.

"Well," said the doctor, "I may as well admit that yours was the most extraordinary case I have ever handled. I never found anything like it in an appendix before. You will hardly believe it, but I found several small hard seeds."

"Oh," said the woman, "that accounts for our having no sweet peas this year. I must have sown the pills."

Most of us do not especially appreciate a man of the "loose leaf" variety. We respect the man whose opinions differ from ours more than the man who agrees with everyone. "Loose leaf" politicians sometimes are successful in being elected to office, and we even have church members who claim that it makes no difference what church you belong to; but after all, most of the worth while things are accomplished by men of convictions who stand for those convictions.

The pastor of a church in a nearby town, who came to the Panhandle from another state, stated in a conversation with the News editor, that he has traveled some 8,000 miles recently to hold funeral services for friends in other states, with no compensation whatever, except that in one case he was given $10.00. It is strange that everyone connected with the holding of funeral services are their time and services, with the exception of the preacher. At least one burial association in the Panhandle is attempting to remedy this situation by setting aside $5.00 in each policy for the officiating clergyman.

Library News

By Mrs. Lady Bryant

The library board met Wednesday of this week. Miss Dorothy Staley, district librarian from Amarillo, was present. Plans were made to make a county-wide campaign for a county library. If steps had not been previously taken by the board for a county library, our assistance from the government would have been discontinued, as only 23 libraries in this district are now getting government assistance where there were at one time 99.

The government is giving the library about $700 dollars, furnishing a supervisor and library clerk. The records show the library owns over 800 books to date, and 645 "borrowers," on an average of 345 adult readers and 100 juvenile readers per month.
