Mayor Boyd Meador has proclaimed next Thursday, Nov. 27, as Thanksgiving Day for the citizens of McLean, in line with the governor's proclamation for the same day.

This is the traditional date for Thanksgiving and the one that has been customarily observed at McLean all along. It is understood that this will be the last year when any confusion will result in the observance of Thanksgiving, as it is agreed that the attempted change in date did not have the effect sought.

Boy Scouts to Meet at Pampa Thanksgiving

Boy Scout Day for the Adobe Walls Council will be held in Pampa this year on November 27. It was announced this week by the local council office.

Last year, scouts of the Adobe Walls Council participated in the Boy Scout Day at Canyon, at which West Texas State College was host to the scouts from the Llano Estacado Council also. For 1941, however, the activities committee of the council felt that a full program for the day could be provided at Pampa, headquarters city of this area.

All registered scouts, scouters, cubs and cubmers of the 15 counties covered by the Adobe Walls area are to be guests for a full day of fun provided by Pampanos. The program follows:

- 9 a. m. Registration by troops and packs at council office.
- 10 a. m. Parade through business district of Pampa.
- 11 a. m. Free picture show at LaNora Theatre.
- 12:30 p. m. Free barbecue provided by junior chamber of commerce.
- 2:30 p. m. Borger-Pampa football game. Tickets provided by Pampa school district. Between halves of the game there will be a mass flag ceremony in which all scouts, cubs and leaders present will participate.
- Current registration cards must be shown to gain admittance to the day's events. In the case of units which have just registered, or re-registered, and which do not have their current cards, identification cards will be provided by the council at the 9 o'clock registration period.
- Over 1200 scouts and cubs and their leaders are expected to attend this first annual Boy Scout Day for the council. Troop committeemen and pack committeemen are encouraged to aid unit leaders in providing transportation to Pampa for the boys.
- If any scout or cub is in doubt as to his registration, he is urged to contact his scoutmaster or cubmaster so as to determine his eligibility to attend Boy Scout Day.

Red Cross Roll Call Makes Good Progress

Waste Paper to Be Collected by Scouts

The Boy Scouts of America have again been called upon to serve our national government in a national waste paper conservation program and the two troops of McLean, 25 and 26, are cooperating in this emergency.

Due to the shortage of waste paper, this governmental appeal has been made, and the scouts request the cooperation of the entire community in preserving all types of paper accumulations for their drive beginning Monday morning, December 1.

Clean newspapers, magazines, miscellaneous paper and clean rags are acceptable matter and will help the housewives dispose of accumulations and also prevent fire hazards, and at the same time help in the national defense program. Anyone beyond the bounds of the city, having an accumulation for disposal, may call either of the scoutmasters, Don Alexander or C. O. Huber, and provision will be made to immediately gather their materials.

Lions Vote to Boost Attendance

With only half the members present at the Lions Club luncheon Tuesday, it was voted for each Lion present to be responsible for the attendance of another Lion next week or pay a fine of 25c. It was also voted for each Lion to pay for his meal, whether present or not.

Those present were: Acting Boss Lion Emory Crockett, Secretary W. C. Shull, Boyd Meador, C. O. Greene, John W. Cooper, W. E. Bogan, C. M. Carpenter, W. W. Boyd, Winfred Massay, Creed Bogan, Joe Dowlin and T. A. Landers.

McLean Tailors Improve Shop Front

MRS. GRACEY HONORED

A number of friends and old acquaintances went to Alanreed Monday for a visit with Mrs. Gracey at the home of her daughter, Mrs. S. T. Greenwood.

Mrs. Gracey, with her husband, settled in what is known as the Gracey community in Wheeler county. She is now an invalid, but retains a cheerful disposition.

Among those in the visiting party were Mesdames Mittle Story, Mattie Graham, Eva Rogers, Arthur Erwin, Era Kibler, and Sam Kunkel.

Supt. C. A. Cryer is attending the State Teachers Association at Houston.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mertel are visiting at Lubbock this week.

The Red Cross roll call campaign is making good progress in McLean. The roll call committee was fully organized and began intensive work Tuesday morning, and will continue to work until Thanksgiving Day in the effort to secure the membership of every man and woman in the McLean trade territory.

The national body has set McLean's quota at $375 this year, the first time that a stated quota has been set, other than voluntarily accepting a quota each year. This year's quota is larger than has been raised here in some years, which is the reason for the intensive effort now being put forth.

The committee will appreciate the cooperation of everyone in reaching the quota set for us this year.

Mrs. E. J. Lander is chairman of the roll call committee.

The McLean Flower Shop is now open in the Rice-Cousins building with Miss Verna Rice in charge.

The shop is a branch of the Shamrock Floral Co., and will be in position to handle any kind of order for flowers.

TIGERS MEET THE SHAMROCK IRISH TEAM HERE

The Tigers will meet the Shamrock Irishmen at Tiger Field Friday night to determine the district championship.

This final game of the season was thrown into the championship by the withdrawal of Lefors on account of an ineligible player on the Lefors team.

Both McLean and Shamrock teams lost to Lefors during the season, being the only losses to be rung up against them. The withdrawal of the Lefors team leaves both of them at the top of the conference with the same rating.

All seats at Tiger Field have been reserved for the game and most of them are already sold as interest mounts in the contest.

One of the largest crowds ever to assemble here is expected, as it is the final game for the district and most school teams are through for the conference year in all nearby districts.

The Tigers and Irishmen are traditional enemies and always put up a good fight for the fans, regardless of championship laurels, but with the added impetus of the championship at stake, it is expected that the teams will rise to new heights.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Edward C. Wayne

Stalin Sees Nazi Collapse Within Year As Hitler Challenges British Invasion; Japanese Get Warning From Churchill Against Involvement in War With U. S.

EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

After a lengthy debate in the senate, that body passed the bill authorizing the arming of U. S. merchant vessels and following the 50-37 vote, the photographer got this picture. It shows left to right Sen. Millard Tydings, against the bill; Allen W. Barkley for the bill; Tom Connally for the bill and Bennett Champ Clark who was against the bill.

HITLER: Talks Boldly

Adolf Hitler, exuding confidence with the passing of another of the anniversaries of the "beer cellar putsch," and having been congratulated on his excellent health and appearance, had made another address to his backers in which he defied the world.

The "Fuehrer" declared that he had created a united European front against communism, that the eastern front's successes were assured, and he dared England to attempt an invasion from the west.

"I have made such preparations in the west," he declared, "that the British can step up at any time."

"If the English choose to undertake an offensive, whether it is in Norway, on our German coast or in Holland, Belgium or France, we can only say 'step up, you will leave faster than you came.'"

Two years ago a bomb had wrecked the hall minutes after Hitler walked out of it. The assembled crowd did not know until the last minute this time whether he would appear or not.

He scorned direct reference to the might the United States was hurling into the picture, saying his orders had increased many fold the armament potential of Germany since the start of the war.

The speech ignored the unrest in Europe, the halting of the blitzkrieg in front of Moscow and Leningrad, the announced intention of the Finns to quit the war on Russia soon, the passage of the neutrality act revision bill by the senate, the recent utterances of Roosevelt and of Churchill.

There was no reference to the enormous German losses as outlined by Josef Stalin, nor to the growingly heavy attacks on the Reich by the Royal Air force of Britain.

He boldly declared his armies could defend Germany and all of occupied Europe, "despite American threats and plans for gigantic armament." He was cheered to the echo.

STALIN: Celebrates

The anniversary of the October revolution was celebrated in Moscow with Stalin himself reviewing troops in front of the grim walls of the Kremlin, with hordes of Russian fighting planes wheeling overhead and less than 50 miles away the Red armies battling to hold back the Nazi hordes.

The Germans had boasted that the Russians would have been beaten to their knees long before the annual great Soviet holiday. Instead Stalin was in his country's capital city, reviewing the troops in the customary fashion, despite the war.

He declared that the Germans had lost 4,500,000 men in killed, wounded and captured since the start of the invasion of Russia, admitted that most territory had been lost while "Russia stood alone" against the invader, but promised his people that Germany was beaten and within a year would collapse under the weight of "its crimes."

There was a bitter note in Stalin's talk as to the lack of full British cooperation, though he did give thanks for the aid that had been received.

Yet there was a great deal of calm confidence, and he expressed his nation's willingness to fight on, come what may, until the collapse of Germany, regarded by him as inevitable, would take place.

PICTURE: Red Front

The ever-dubious picture of the Red front against the Nazis had begun to clarify itself somewhat, the general view being that the Russian armies were somewhat in jeopardy on the southern sector, though rapidly assuming the offensive in the north and central portions.

CHURCHILL: And Roosevelt

As Hitler and Stalin were celebrating anniversaries, and each predicting the future with confidence, each from his own standpoint, Churchill hailed that "glorious warrior Stalin," told Britons that the entry of the U. S. naval vessels into the war left Britain no longer alone, and predicted that England had been rendered, by this aid, "once more masters of our own fate."

In another statement he warned that should the U. S. be forced into war with Japan, Britain would join in the fight against Nippon "within the hour."

Roosevelt, beset by strikes and threats of labor troubles, also meeting a determined challenge of his policy in the senate debate on the neutrality act revision, issued an appeal to labor to work for the national defense, and to place labor quarrels to one side.

There had been a momentary lull in sea-losses, though the dead in the Reuben James disaster had risen to 101. This loss stood as a silent speech-maker in the senate halls during the neutrality act debate, and was being used to show the people the all-out necessity of naval aid in America in "delivering the goods" where needed.

NEUTRALITY: New Phase

The relatively close senate action on the neutrality act revision did not change the situation as regarded the outcome, which meant the death of the final two parts of the measure placed in it at the beginning of the war at the insistence of the isolationists.

Their final fortresses had now fallen, and with the navy's range extended to every port in the world, and with American merchant vessels ready to move, armed for their own protection, into those same ports, the de facto complete entry of this country into the naval battle was considered a certainty.

Representative Bloom indicated that the full authority of the bill might not be used at once, might never be used. He said: "The situation is tense throughout the world. This is true both on the Atlantic and the Pacific. It is better to have the power which the repeal gives the President and not to need it, than to need it and not to have it."

This seemed to be the attitude of many members of congress who were not anxious to see American ships in danger-laden and belligerent ports, but who deeply felt the need of an all-out American effort and the means to make it so if necessary.

PACIFIC: Threat Closer

The Clipper flight of special envoy Kurosu to the United States apparently to make a final effort to "clarify" the Japanese position on the Pacific brought only gloomy predictions in Washington as to the mission's probable outcome.

Japanese position in the Orient and the British-American stand seemed poles apart, and little likelihood of betterment in the situation.

In fact, there had been a report "on excellent" authority that plans were well advanced for joint British and American action in the East.

There was sudden talk of "appeasement" when it was announced that the United States would withdraw its marines from the Orient, yet this had been promptly scotched by Secretary Hull, who stated that this was a long-considered policy and had nothing whatever to do with Japanese-American relations.

Both Britain and the United States had placed Japan on notice that neither nation would stand for any further expansion of the Japanese domain, and this apparently went for Siberia as well as for Indo-China.

Biggest Naval Bomber Launched

The world's largest flying boat, the navy's new 67-ton four-engine patrol bomber, slipped down the ways at the Glenn L. Martin plant at Baltimore, Md., in colorful ceremonies heretofore reserved for surface vessels. The ship is capable of carrying a bomb load to Europe and return, non-stop. Mrs. Artemus L. Gates, wife of the assistant secretary of the navy for air, was sponsor of the ship which was christened "Mars." Many notables, including Rear Admiral John H. Towers, were present. Photo shows the huge aerial battleship after launching.

Over the Hill Lie Russian Troops

In the lee of a hill a motorized division is awaiting the command to attack the Russian positions on the other side, somewhere in the U.S.S.R. Infantrymen, not shown, were used in collaboration with the panzers in this attack on Russia's mighty mechanized army which has been making a heroic effort to stop the onrushing Nazi war machine.

British Take Old U. S. Submarine

The Union Jack is raised to the jackstaff of the old U. S. submarine R-3, as she is transferred to the British navy at the Groton, Conn., submarine base, under terms of the lend-lease act. Another sub, the S-25, which had been refurbished and put in top condition by the U. S. navy, went to the Polish navy at the same time. The R-3 is a 600-tonner of 1918 vintage.

Japanese Exodus on West Coast

There was weeping in "Little Tokyo," Los Angeles, as hundreds of Japanese who have lived here for years boarded busses for San Francisco, where they'll sail back to Japan on the S. S. Tatuta Maru, victims of the international crisis. Photo shows the Japs sadly waving farewell as the busses left.

Commander H. F. Cape, captain of the U.S.S. Salinas, the 16,600 ton oil tanker which was torpedoed while on convoy duty near Iceland. The tanker made port without loss of life or serious injury to its crew.

Morning Ride

Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, hero of the British advance in Africa last year against Italian forces, is shown in riding attire similar to the riding chaps used on western plains of the U. S. He is wearing his yellow sweater and is giving sugar to his horse after a ride, somewhere near the Iran border.

After sinking a British freighter, a U-boat surfaced and photographed a few of the survivors. Here a lone survivor stands on a raft, looking hopelessly about him.

Home Economics Girls Attend Area Meeting

Representatives of the 1, 2 and 3 home economics classes went to an area meeting with their sponsor, Miss Idell Gaddberry, at Amarillo Saturday.

Reddie freshman

You know, Frances Sitter was going to help me write my column last week but she had to flit off to town by way of Abilene. I heard Reddie had a good-looking "cousin" in Abilene. But I bet he's not half handsome as Pat Cobbs' "cousin," you, Tommy?

I know of a, oh, what would you call it, a secret admirer of yours, and if you will just come and ask me, I'll tell you who it is. It might be sort of embarrassing to print it.

Remember McMullen is going into town, too, when Frances Hardin goes. We hear she's staying in the play but I think it is to delay the final parting.

Doesn't Bonnie Bell look like you? I suppose you know why, if you don't I guess I'll just tell you—Oran's home.

The last time we had chapel I got hit by Mary Lee Abbott and she does she have pretty eyes. I'll ask her if she will be my friend. I don't think Patsy Price hates me any more.

Bill Miller, I know a girl that likes you, but I can't tell you her name. I will tell you her initials.

They are Pat Ballard. Bill Miller has been christened a new nickname, Jitterbug, and he has been calling Margie and Pudsy.

Master Race Enters Lap for Students

Students around the course and on some stretch now that is the students may look at the men. Two six weeks have come on, and the die is pretty well for success or failure for the men.

It doesn't mean "finale" for any means, however. A man very easily be pulled over the "C" group in the last six and a failure can take off that spit on his hands, and come in with flying colors and steam, if only he will.

Attention to business, with a minimum of work and a minimum of attitude, will be demanded of those who find themselves in the eight ball at this time.

Wish to extricate themselves that very undesirable and unattractive position.

mental kinks may be jerked your thinking apparatus, but pay dividends in the long run if you are man or woman to come across.

REVIEW

The students at McLean high aren't the only ones that display styles around our campus. The faculty dresses, too.

Miss Cousins, our ever-faithful English teacher, wears a black and white checked two-piece dress with black oxfords.

Mr. Magee, the guy who is trying to teach these boys how to be farmers, and can't milk a cow, wears a khaki shirt and blue flannel trousers with brown oxfords.

Miss Terrell, the modern miracle on our campus (we are told that he was an A student), wears a grey wool sport dress with three-quarter length sleeves, and black patent leather sandals.

Our own dear Professor Whitfield characterizes himself by wearing a bright red tie with a brown tweed suit and white shirt. His shoes were supposed to be brown.

LADS AND LASSIES

JOYCE FULBRIGHT
Joyce was born in McLean, August 19, 1925. She attended school at Elida, N. M., Lefors, and McLean.

Her hobby is collecting miniature shoes. She likes Ronald Regan and Bette Davis as actor and actress. She likes "Marie Antoinette" best of all movies. She also likes red-black hair, blue eyes, red finger nail polish, black leather jackets, ruby rings, and the song, "Rosary."

She has no dislike. Her ambition is to ride an elephant in India and go to a Kentucky Derby.

MARIAN WILSON
Marian was born December 21, 1924, at McLean. She has attended only the McLean schools. Her one hobby is making good grades, which she always does. She likes Spencer Tracy as an actor and Olivia De Havilland as an actress. "Flight from Destiny" is her favorite movie. Marian likes blue colors, chocolate, and dislikes people who tell her lies just for the fun of it. Her ambition is not to be a school teacher.

Speech Play Monday Evening

"His Ozark Cousin," a three-act farce comedy, will be presented Monday evening Nov. 24, at 7:30, in the high school auditorium by McLean high school students, according to Lloyd Whitfield, speech instructor.

The play, which concerns the antics of a family in Arkansas who decide to turn "hillbilly" for the enlightenment of their snobbish New York relations, has been declared a very entertaining bill of fare by other producers.

The cast, which includes twelve characters, will be assisted by a trio which will sing during intermissions. This trio, under the direction of M. J. Newman, consists of Ruth Strandberg, Alice Billie Cortis and Ruth Franks.

Cast members include Frances Sitter, Erey Fulbright, Earl Humphrey, J. B. Waldrop, Mary Evelyn Foster, John and Carl Dwyer, Otto Reimer, Mary Lee Abbott, Frances Hardin, Bobby Crisp and Dorothy Cecil.

Price of admission to the play will be 13c, plus 2c tax, for children; and 22c, plus 3c tax, for adults.

ARE YOUR Bowels Stubborn?
Then try kindles! First of all you can't expect them to act unless you give them a chance. Most people make sure to get 3 meals a day. But they never think of giving their bowels a regular time (daily) for evacuation.

If you've neglected YOUR bowels until they finally become stubborn and unwilling to act, ask your druggist for ADLERKA. It is an effective blend of 5 carminatives and 3 laxatives giving DOUBLE action. Gas is expelled and bowel action follows surprisingly fast. After that, make up your mind to give your bowels 5 or 10 minutes' time at regular hour, daily. Your druggist has ADLERKA.

Ex-Mayor Jimmy Walker Sure Knew His Politics

During Jimmy Walker's last campaign, his opponent repeatedly charged him with corruption. He never affirmed or denied it. "Why do you let him get away with those accusations?" asked an advisor. "What good would it do?" said Walker. "It would only build him up. But one thing I would like to ask him—what was he doing in Waterbury last July?" "Was he there at the time?" "I have no idea," answered Walker. "But if I asked him that, he could deny it until he was blue in the face. A lot of suckers would still think there was something fishy about him and Waterbury."

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Wastes Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work and move impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery. Symptoms may be nagging headache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, stinging, or too frequent urination. There should be no doubt that proper treatment is wiser than neglect. "All the Traffic Would Bear"

There was a time in America when there were no set prices. Each merchant charged what he thought "the traffic would bear." Advertising came to the rescue of the consumer. It led the way to the established prices you pay when you buy anything today.

IT'S YOUR LIFE!

How to meet driving emergencies: When a tire blows out—if a tire bursts, do not apply the brakes nor throw out the clutch until the car has lost almost all its momentum. A front tire blowout may cause you to lose control of the steering wheel unless you are holding it firmly. In the case of a blowout of a rear tire a sudden application of the brakes at high speed may cause the car to turn over.

When right wheels strike a soft shoulder—in this emergency a fast-moving car is likely to swerve and turn over. The driver should hold the steering wheel tightly, remove his foot from the accelerator, and allow the engine to reduce the speed of the car to a safe point before he applies the brakes, throws out the clutch, or attempts to steer back onto the hard surface.

When going too fast around a curve—every time a curve is rushed centrifugal force acts to push the car off the road. When the driver realizes he is going too fast, his first thought is to apply the brakes. This is dangerous and makes the car more difficult to control. The brakes should be used before reaching a curve.

When going down a steep hill—before starting a dangerous descent a car should be put into second or if the hill is long and very steep into low gear. If further retardation is necessary, apply the brakes intermittently. To stop a car on a steep grade, the brakes should be applied gradually up to the point of locking the wheels.

BLAME "POOR SPORTS"

Game Warden Marth stated that sportsmen—poor sportsmen—are the cause of all of these "Posted" signs one sees throughout the country, and of which a lot of fuss is about.

These signs have been erected, Mr. Marth said, because some sportsmen abused the privileges the land owner extended them in slaughtering game and exceeding the game limits by breaking windows and forgetting to pay for them, by cleaning game in tanks, leaving the refuse in them to foul the water so that the cattle refuse to drink, by shooting toward houses, by leaving gates open and causing the land owners to spend several days in rounding up stock that had been carelessly let out, by killing stock—thereby forcing the land owner to put up his Posted signs and causing real sportsmen to suffer for the misdeeds of a few poor sports.

Sad words, but true words. Think it over, sportsmen!—Victoria Advocate

Any newspaper man in Texas, or elsewhere, as to that, may go over town and write up a long string of local or personal news items. After he has done this, go around and ask most everyone about what to publish and what not to publish. There will be objections to the publication of EVERY news item by some one or more; therefore, the poor editor can go back to the printing office and mail his paper out BLANK—not a single item of news in it. That is just what he will do if he follows the instructions of those who say, "Don't put that in the paper. And, too, every one of them can be legitimate news items, news that everybody is interested in and want to read about.—Claude News.

The Salem (S. D.) Special believes in giving its job printing customers what they want, particularly if they insist on it. So recently it printed a wedding announcement for the groom from which the following lines are selected:

"—announces that he finally got hooked by—" "The hitchin' took place at the—" "—wedding dance—with a small fee of 10 cents—that's to keep out the riff-raff." "And it wasn't just one copy, either—it was 200.

In the mind of him who is pure and good, will be found neither corruption nor defilement nor any malignant taint. Unlike the actor who leaves the stage before his part is played, the life of such a man is complete whenever death may come. He is neither cowardly nor presuming; not enslaved to life nor indifferent to its duties; and in him is found nothing worthy of condemnation nor that which putteth to shame.—Marcus Aurelius.

You often ask me, Priscus, what sort of person I should be, if I were to become suddenly rich and powerful. Who can determine what would be his future conduct? Tell me, if you were to become a lion, what sort of a lion would you be?—Martial.

IMPORTANT BUSINESS

Lost on a backwoods road a motorist suddenly came upon a regular traffic jam of wagons and ancient automobiles, apparently centered about a tumbledown cabin.

"What's going on here?" he asked. "Well, Bill's mother-in-law got ticked by a mule and they're burying her today," drawled a bystander. "Must have been a mighty popular woman," said the motorist. "Well, tain't that so much," said his informant, "ceptin' Bill's gonna auction off the mule after the funeral, and most o' these fellows come to bid on it."

Armistice Day reflection: "World war I ended too soon. The German people did not suffer the pain, anguish and destruction which they lashed out to their neighbors. Until they suffer as others have suffered they will not oppose present or future war lords." Figure this out and see if the writer is not about correct. War is hell, but until the aggressors feel the pangs of this hell they will not be particularly interested in avoiding future wars.—Canyon News.

Berlin is the slave market of the world, according to President Roosevelt. Yet there are labor leaders in the United States who are doing everything in their power to make it possible for Hitler to win. If such a thing should occur, these same labor leaders would either be little Hitlers in the United States, or would be entirely without power, since Hitler outlawed all labor organizations.—Canyon News.

There is too little of the idea of personal responsibility; too much of "the world owes me a living;" forgetting that if the world does owe you a living you yourself must be your own collector.—Theodore N. Vail.

"We have been married a year and never quarrel. If a difference of opinion arises, and I am right, my husband gives in."

"But what if he is right?" "That has not yet occurred."

Mrs. E. H. Kramer and son visited relatives at Childress Sunday.

Mrs. L. L. Palmer of Alanreed was in town Saturday.

PERFUME FIXATIVES

Skunks and muskrats are now being "milked" of their offensive secretions to supply fixatives for the manufacture of perfumes, the American Chemical Society reports. Other standard fixatives, such as musk, civet, ambergris and castoreum, have been made scarce by war. Chemically treated, fixatives act like butter in a refrigerator, absorbing and blending the scents used in perfume.

MENTAL IMMATURITY

Statistics of marriages and divorces in Texas lead one to the conclusion that about one marriage out of three leads to the divorce court, which is about twice the divorce rate of the country as a whole. Apparently Texas has too many young people who don't know their own minds.—Quannah Tribune-Chief.

You will succeed best when you put the restless, anxious side of affairs out of mind, and allow the restful side to live in your thoughts.—Margaret Stowe.

Click—Do you smile at your troubles as I advised you?

Women Turn Confidently to

CHERIE NICHOLAS
Nationally Known Fashion Authority

CONCERNING styles and fashions, women desire only that information which they know is authentic. They demand accurate reporting of the new clothing trends, with candid portrayals of the described garments through truthful illustrations. They seek the correct, the latest and finest—but never the bizarre, the extreme or sensational. They wish their fashion writer to speak of smartness and good taste, of what is practical for the average woman, and [a very important item] of garments and hats they can find in their own local stores and shops.

Small wonder, therefore, that women turn confidently to Cherie Nicholas, whose illustrated fashion articles appear regularly in this newspaper. Miss Nicholas tells what the nation's foremost designers and creators of fine styles decree shall be right for the weeks to come.

You will benefit greatly through reading these authoritative articles. Tell your friends about them.

There is sorrow enough in the natural way

Vanished Men

INSTALLMENT SEVENTEEN

THE STORY SO FAR: Six men traveled the Chibougamau trail and six men died. Later they were reported drowned. Murder is suspected. Garry Finlay, brother of one of the six: Red Malone, Mounted Police officer, and Blaise, half-breed guide, posing as surveyors, arrive at Nottaway to investigate. Isadore, rich fur man, is thought to have made a gold strike and aims to keep prospectors out. Later, they visit Isadore, rich fur man, at his magnificent home and meet Lise, his step-daughter. Finlay falls in love with her. They learn that Isadore's men with Tete-Blanche are hunting them. Several weeks later Lise went swimming with Corinne, her mother.

their agony. Demons and fiends screamed and bellowed in a mad cacophony of horror. At last a voice rose through the octaves to a wail which chilled the blood as it died over the moon-bathed forest.

As Lise followed Corinne into the house to change into a bathing suit she wondered how far she could trust her—how much Corinne really knew.

They paddled slowly up the shore of the lake. The nose of the boat slid into the sand. Dropping her blouse and slacks in the canoe and adjusting her rubber cap, Lise stepped out into the shallow water followed by Corinne. Walking out to her knees, Lise made a long, shallow dive and swam away, revelling in the refreshing coolness of the water.

"Don't go so far, Lise!" called Corinne. "Stay here with me! I'm afraid to go out there!"

Lise turned back.

"Great, isn't it, after this heat?" said Corinne, stretching on the sand. "Wish we'd brought our lunch!"

But the thoughts of the girl were of the rock a hundred feet away, at the edge of the beach. Had Finlay returned and left a note for her? And how was she to get it?

Lise waded out and plunged in again. Swimming in a wide circle she left the water opposite the quartz rock at the edge of the beach and casually walked past it. Her heart suddenly picked up its beat. The corner of an oldskin wrapper was visible. The letter was there!

She rejoined Corinne who said: "You know, this morning I asked Jules if he was going to bring charges against Finlay for murder when he went south. Do you know what he said?"

"I can't guess."

"He said it wouldn't be necessary."

"Meaning?"

"Why, that Finlay would disappear, I suppose. Lise, I'm afraid to stay here. I'm going to make Felix Blondell take me back with him. I want to get out of this and you should, too!"

Lise sat up. Her dark face was suddenly taut and desperate. "You remember what Jules told me about Felix Blondell?"

"Yes, it was rotten! And I think he meant it! He's as hard as stone. When Blondell comes, you sleep with a pistol under the pillow!"

"I will and I'll use it!"

"I believe you would. He's vile when he's drunk and you know how they'll drink. He's due in a week."

Lise was planning how to get the note unobserved. At last she had an idea. She rose, took her blouse and slacks from the canoe and re-arranging the neck band of her bathing suit dropped it around her hips.

"What are you doing?" demanded Corinne.

"My swim suit's not dry. I'm going to spread it on that hot rock."

Lise slipped the suit to her knees, leaped out, got into her slacks and sat on the blouse. Then she took the suit to the rock and spread it to dry.

When Corinne rose, turning her back, and went to the canoe, Lise reached under the rock and hid the wrapped note inside her blouse, which was tucked into her slacks.

On the way back to the post Lise did feel the wrapped note inside her blouse with every stroke of her paddle. It comforted her. Hurrying to her room, she opened it and read:

Dearest Girl:

We're back but they've been hunting us so hard that we haven't been in daylight. At least twenty men have been combing the shores hunting for us. We move only at night. I can't write what I want to say. This note might be found. I tell you where I am or meet me now. Next week look for instructions. Pack a bag with clothes and food for the word. Courage! All come out if you are brave and now you are. I'm still living those moments on your beach. I love you, Lise Demarais! If Blondell comes before you hear from me, write to be patient and wait for my message. It will be soon. Courage! I love you!

"Garry."

She threw herself on her bed and for sheer joy. He hadn't forsaken her! He loved her.

CHAPTER XVII

A yellow orange of a moon that shone above the indigo ridges beneath the waswanipi was full. The moon had arrived. Wabistan had heard that the medicine-lodge was in front of the great Medicine Stone in a clearing on a certain hill. It was one of the many where the old sorcerers had their spirits.

Let his tent close to de scrub, explained, "so he go in and dey not see him."

front but he will not let me near," said Blaise. "De shy and will not talk if you are close," he added grimace.

"And the Indians leave their canoes at the clearing?"

"Ah-hah."

"So we land on the opposite side of the island, behind the tent?"

"Yes."

"Then Garry and I wait at the edge of the clearing to back you and Wabistan up when the trouble starts?"

"You are in de bush by big Jack-pine. It will be black dere. Dey will not see you but you see and hear dem."

"Red," said Finlay, "this whole show is going to depend on the breaks we get. Blaise thinks it can be done. I'm not so sure, but it's worth trying. If it doesn't work, we're in a trap. We'll never get off that island. But unless something happens pretty quick we can't last much longer on this lake, anyway."

"You're right, chief," admitted Red.

"If Blaise is wrong, God help us! But what a dog-fight it'll be there in the moonlight!"

"It's one of the boldest and cleverest ideas I've ever heard of," said Garry. "We may have trouble justifying it at headquarters but we're committed now."

"I'll say it's an idea. But it may lose us our jobs, chief; and you close to promotion!"

"Our jobs won't be important if they bury us. Red. Tonight three of us were started murmurs of dissent. The voice went on.

"The white men were sent by the Fathers at Ottawa. Isadore fears them for he has broken the law and given whiskey to the Montagnais. If the white men are killed, the red coats will come and the Montagnais will be punished. The children are no longer sick. There was no Evil Eye. It was the lie of Kinebik, Isadore's servant. Why does he not answer? He is here in the tipi. He is afraid and is silent for he knows he has lied. Even now Tete-Blanche is here with whiskey to destroy the young men!"

There were startled murmurs of dissent. The voice went on.

"The white men were sent by the Fathers at Ottawa. Isadore fears them for he has broken the law and given whiskey to the Montagnais. If the white men are killed, the red coats will come and the Montagnais will be punished. The children are no longer sick. There was no Evil Eye. It was the lie of Kinebik, Isadore's servant. Why does he not answer? He is here in the tipi. He is afraid and is silent for he knows he has lied. Even now Tete-Blanche is here with whiskey to destroy the young men!"

The clearing was in a chattering uproar. In the murk Finlay and Red waited the outcome with drawn guns.

"My people, the true spirit has spoken and has gone! Why has not Kinebik answered? Have his words choked in his throat? Follow me and we shall learn!"

The old man strode boldly to the medicine-lodge. Crawling into it from the rear he re-appeared, dragging a limp shape. Wabistan rolled the body on its back. The moonlight shone full on the glazed eyes and the swollen face with protruding tongue of Kinebik.

The chief turned to those who had had courage to follow.

"Look, Montagnais, the lies of Kinebik have choked him! The spirit has punished him for speaking with a split tongue!"

Two men pushed through the circle of gaping Indians and bent over the conjuror. One of them, with white hair and features knotted with rage, turned to the group and cried in Montagnais:

"Montagnais, you are fools! Kinebik was strangled! It was the plot of the white men! They are here on the island! Hunt the men who killed Kinebik!"

"No!" shouted Wabistan. "It was the good spirit that choked the lies in Kinebik's throat!"

Instantly a milling mass of Indians surrounded Kinebik's body. There were cries of, "Kill the white men!" answered by shouts: "It was the work of the spirit! Kinebik was a false shaman!"

In the gloom at the edge of the clearing two men with cocked pistols listened. "Wabistan is safe!" said Finlay. "He doesn't need us now! Tete-Blanche will soon start to hunt us! We'd better meet Blaise at the canoe!"

They moved swiftly across the island but Blaise was not at the canoe under the steep shore. Finlay was cold with apprehension.

"What could have happened, Red? He should be here!"

"He's in trouble," said Malone.

"They'll follow the shore path soon, nosing for our canoe!" muttered Garry. "If they reach us, don't fire unless we're cornered. It will only draw the rest and we've got to get Blaise. God bless his foxy old bones! It was magnificent! He snuffed that shaman out without a sound!"

"Listen! They're moving this way now, along the shore!"

"You're right, Red! Stand by this path and we'll club 'em with our guns! Don't fire unless they come too thick! We must get Blaise!"

Brush snapped up the shore. The hunt had started. A dry stick broke directly behind Finlay and he whirled with raised gun. There was a low "Shish!" A hand touched his shoulder. "We move quick!" whispered Blaise. "De are close behind me!"

DIET OF LEGUME IS VITAL FACTOR

Can Detect Distress Signs When Food Is Lacking.

By E. F. DE TURK
(Professor of Soil Fertility College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.)

Legumes, like other crops, fly unmistakable distress signals when their diet lacks important plant food elements, observations made in the past cropping season indicate. Yet they frequently show these nutritional deficiencies by slow growth, rather than by any specific abnormalities of form or color. They are likely to produce undersized plants which are normal in appearance otherwise.

Ordinarily the early symptoms of plant food hunger take the form of changes in color. The most common color symptom results from chlorosis—or, loss of the green color. This may be followed by the death of the affected area. The chlorosis may consist of paling of the ordinary green color, or the appearance of various shades of yellow or even white dots and patches.

In general the lack of one or more of the three major plant food elements—nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium—will result in ill health for the crop.

Nitrogen deficiency results in slow growth of the legumes, a decrease in the branching of the plants and smaller plants at maturity. These may occur without the appearance of specific symptoms and have little value to the farmer or agronomist attempting a diagnosis. Severe nitrogen deficiency often causes mild chlorosis in which the leaves gradually become pale green with a yellowish tinge rather than distinctly yellow. The chlorosis usually spreads evenly over the entire leaf surface.

A lack of phosphorus manifests itself in slow growth. The legume plants remain small and undeveloped. Flowering and seed production tend to be delayed and a bluish-green tinge may develop in the leaves. But there are no specific symptoms that can be used with assurance for purposes of detecting phosphorus deficiency.

Of all the symptoms observable in legumes, those of potash hunger are probably the most outstanding and easily recognized.

Broad-leaved legumes such as the soybean show evidence of insufficient potash by irregular yellow mottling around the edges of the leaflets. The discolored areas soon merge, forming a continuous yellow border around the tip and along the sides, but rarely around the base. Death of the chlorotic area that first became mottled follows promptly along with a downward cupping of the leaf edges. Then the dead tissue falls out, giving the leaflet a ragged appearance.

Newspapers were ahead of radio, however, in getting at the question-and-answer mother lode of interest in their own field. It was in 1920, that Miriam Tichenor, a reporter on the New York Daily Mail, suggested to George T. Hughes, the city editor, the daily questioning of five or six citizens at random. Mr. Hughes started the feature and slugged it "The Inquiring Reporter." Under this and other titles it still carries on in many newspapers. This, however, is an opinion, rather than an information inquiry.

A NEW YORK doctor, a friend of this writer, says physicians who have made a life-long study of diet, nutrition and mass conditioning are wondering why physical training for defense is being organized by athletes, instead of specialists in physical fitness. Without disparagement to any of the persons mentioned, he cited Gene Tunney, Alice Marble and John B. Kelly, the last an undefeated oarsman, as examples in which eminence in athletics is substituted for precise knowledge of how to "toughen-up" America.

The discussion had to do with Mr. Kelly's current prescription of a "courage diet" for the nation, in which he says he has listed caloric and vitamin combinations which will enable us to lick our weight in wildcats.

Mr. Kelly, a former bricklayer and contractor, is chairman of the Philadelphia Democratic committee, and last August became director of physical training for national defense. He was formerly a Republican, and is veteran of much fast and intricate milling in both parties.

The tall and athletic "Handsome Jack" Kelly, as he is called, quit the Philadelphia public schools at the age of 16 and got a job in a brickyard. He was an ambulance driver in the World War, came back with a capital of $40 and opened his own brickyard. Twelve years later, at the age of 31, he was the Olympic single sculls champion, winning for America at Amsterdam. In 1926, he retired from rowing as the undefeated champion oarsman of the world. At the age of 52, he still rows five miles every morning.

In September, 1940, President Roosevelt saw an article "Handsome Jack" had written for a physical culture magazine and summoned him to lead the national "physical preparedness" endeavor. He now officially and formally heads this department and is working up plans for national mass calisthenics.

He is one of four eminent brothers, George, a playwright; Walter, the famous "Virginia Judge" of the stage; Patrick H., deceased in 1937, who was the builder of the Free Public Library in Philadelphia.

NEW YORK—When Parks Johnson and Wally Butterworth brought their pioneer quiz broadcast to New York city back in 1934, it took them just about eight weeks of diligent quizzing to get an answer to the question, "Where is Singapore?"

Quizzers Enriched In Plumbing the Minds of Demos

The other day the ninth anniversary of their Vox Pop program, the first outbreak of the growing quiz craze, now rampant on all networks, was celebrated. In an age of deepening uncertainty, people find great felicity if they happen to know how many toothpicks there are in a cord of birchwood—and sustenance for an ailing ego. Messrs. Johnson and Butterworth cash in a big way.

Parks Johnson is the son of a Methodist minister. He had been a captain in the World War, a newspaper reporter, a cotton broker, and in 1933 was running a one-man advertising agency in Houston, Texas. A client wanted a radio idea. Mr. Johnson quizzed himself at length and got the right answer.

He set up a microphone in the lobby of a Houston theater and began his quiz. At first he had a hard out one-dollar bills to lure participants but the "mike-fright" soon passed and Vox Pop quickly became a successful program.

Mr. Butterworth, former phonograph salesman, radio singer and announcer, came in later. Soon after they were established in New York their program was on a big network. In 1940, they carried their microphone more than 50,000 miles around the country, and to date, have asked about 300,000 questions.

'They Got Me Covered' Is Funniest Book of Year

A NEW all-around champion has been crowned . . . in the entertainment world. He is Bob Hope. Not satisfied with being rated tops on the radio, Number One in screen box office receipts, he is author of one of the nation's best sellers, which just about nails down this triple crown for Bob. "They Got Me Covered," Hope's autobiography, has been claimed by critics and readers alike as one of the year's funniest books. It is a hilarious story, in narrative form, of Bob Hope's life, generously illustrated with photographs, in addition to having cartoons depicting scenes from his life.

Outlawed beer signs are now being removed from the highways in Texas. Rated as "eyesores," they must all be down within a 120-day period. There are many other signs deserving the same rating that should be removed at the same time, if the opinions of motorists count.

Only one more week of the Red Cross roll call, and everyone missed by the solicitors should make an effort to enroll before Thanksgiving Day. The need for funds is greater than since the first world war and everyone in the community should take a particular pride this year in wearing the little Red Cross membership button.

Advertisers are attracting trade to McLean that not only adds to their own income but benefits every firm in town. There is always a certain amount of overflow trade that the non-advertiser receives after the advertiser has attracted the customer to town. That this is a fact can be sadly verified in any town where all merchants have quit advertising, or where they have lost their newspaper.

Wool and Fur Combinations Make Stunning New Outfits

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WITH surpassing artistry and craftsmanship American designers are setting a new high in costume design. Especially are our American style creators doing themselves proud in the campus, town and country ensembles which they create of gorgeous colorful wool and stunning fur.

Not only do the costumes pictured redound to the glory of American designers but there is fascination and patriotic thrill in the thought that the fur, American opossum, which is combined with the beautiful wools of these stunning costumes, is itself decidedly all-American.

The possibilities presented in this new alliance of wool with opossum are endless. Not only is opossum a flattering young fur when used for general utility costumes, but through scientific skill it has also been made available for dressy daytime and evening wear as well as for all-purpose wear.

A beautifully cut coat is shown to the left in the group. The exquisitely colorful wool stripe of which it is made speaks for itself. Now that fashion is advocating color, women are going in wholeheartedly for coats that add a bold dash of color glory to the winter landscape. The soft front fullness achieved by skillful manipulation of the stripes is decidedly effective. The wide notched collar and cuffs of natural American opossum are perfect with the subtle blue, lavender and pink in the tweed.

When one invests in a three-piece outfit as perfectly ensembled as the handsome model shown to the right, she has underwritten for herself a feeling that wherever she goes she is sure to be among the best dressed. This important ensemble for town carries an air of matchless distinction. The suit is a masterpiece of fine tailoring. The three-quarter length cape of American opossum with striped tweed to match the suit will carry through triumphantly as a wrap to wear through the winter with daytime frocks and party dress as well. A sure, safe, sound and sane investment, this, that will pay big dividends in chic, charm and self-gratification.

Centered in the picture is another example of the intrigue and glamour expressed in the alliance of bright wool with smart fur. The coat is lined with a plaid wool in glowing high color to match the hood and blouse. When thrown back the hood forms a colorfully lined collar. The jacket and skirt pick up two of the colors in the plaid. Mittens too, if you please, of matching fur!

If your new wool ensemble happens to be of wool in the now-so-fashionable magenta color, and if it is without fur, you will look very smart if you carry with it a stunning huge muff of opossum, and, of course, there must be a hat of the same fur to wear with it. The hat and muff twosome is an accessory combination especially cited among toponotch fashions.

Colors highlighted in wools this season especially stress browns and dark greens. The new bright blue is the talk of the town. With furs it is outstanding in any fashionable gathering. Amethyst tones and purples also are being played up to heights of distinction in wools, their beauty accentuated with handsome amethyst jewelry and sumptuous furs.

Crocheting Has a Gay Fashion Role

Crocheters, now is your big moment. Crocheting is rising to dizzy heights of style prestige this season. It is nothing less than astonishing to see what novel and intriguing costume accents can be achieved with crocheting. This new enthusiasm for crocheting is "going big" with leading designers everywhere who are bringing new artistry and imagination into the field of crochet design.

One of the most fascinating gestures noted this season is that the new longer length heralded for the smartest vividly colorful suede or fabric gloves is being achieved by either gauntlet or mosquetaire tops done in simple crocheting decorated with tiny crocheted flowers or tiny ruffles that finish the top edge and then go meandering down the glove.

Wool suits and dresses are cunningly detailed with pockets crocheted of yarn in either a matching or a contrasting color. A crocheted patch pocket embroidered in your monogram will add a thrilling touch to your long middy-like jersey sweater.

Other ideas include a border of crocheting that widens the brim of your gay colored felt hat. Add a bag and belt with related crocheted detail. Cover big button molds with plain crocheting adorned with an applique of crocheted flowers. Designers are also bringing genius to play in the crocheting of scarfs and triangular head coverings. In fact, there is no end to the charming and unique uses now being made of crocheting.

Silk Jersey

Here is a perfectly charming dinner gown made of silk jersey that combines sun tan beige for the blouse with black jersey for the skirt. The skirt is subtly draped in the new long sleek lines so popular this season. Note the new, long dolman sleeves. A wonderful black crepe felt turban has superlative sheer black lace veiling arranged over its crown, the ends brought down and fastened under her chin. Gold buttons adorn the blouse.

PRAYER AND THANKSGIVING

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 6:5-15; Ephesians 5:20; 1 Thessalonians 5:16-18.
GOLDEN TEXT—Pray without ceasing. In every thing give thanks.—1 Thessalonians 5:17, 18.

Being one with Christ, the Christian finds prayer to be as natural as breathing. As he walks with the Master he talks with Him, praises Him, thanks Him, makes his petitions and his needs known to Him. We feel, however, like Christ's disciples who asked Him to teach them to pray (Luke 11:1).

I. Instruction in Prayer

Approaching the subject from the negative viewpoint, Jesus told them: 1. How Not to Pray (Matt. 6:5, 7). Prayer, which is the highest privilege of the Christian, is beset by some deadly dangers. a. No hypocritical performance (v. 5). Some who wished to be seen in prayer managed to be in a conspicuous place at the Jewish hours of prayer (nine, twelve, and three o'clock). There, before a crowd, they put on a prayer "show" for the benefit of the onlooking audience. Such a prayer is designed for the ears of men and never reaches God.

b. No vain repetition (v. 7). We do not need to repeat our petitions. God knows our need (v. 8). When repetition is the outpouring of an earnest and urgent heart it means much, but that is different from just repeating phrases. 2. How to Pray (Matt. 6:6, 8, 14, 15; Eph. 5:20; 1 Thess. 5:16-18). Public prayer is sometimes both necessary and proper, but usually our prayer should be:

a. In secret (v. 6). When we pray we should be free from distracting influences or personalities. We are talking to God and should give ourselves entirely over to communion with Him.

b. In faith (vv. 6, 8). God knows what we need even though He waits to be inquired of concerning it. He will answer prayer so as to honor His name in our lives and in our testimony before others.

c. With forgiveness (vv. 14, 15). No one who comes before God with an unforgiving spirit toward his brother is ready to ask God for the forgiveness which he himself so greatly needs. d. With thanksgiving (Eph. 5:20). To give thanks is altogether fitting as we come to God in prayer. Note that we are to be thankful "always" and "for all things," not just when some special blessing or favor has come to us.

e. Without ceasing (1 Thess. 5:16-18). Union with Christ enables us to pray without ceasing, even as He ever prays for us. This does not call for the constant utterance of words, but the moment by moment prayer of a heart and life lifted to Him. With such praying comes constant rejoicing (v. 16). II. A Model of Prayer (Matt. 6:9-13).

The prayer which our Lord taught His disciples was intended to be a model rather than a form of prayer. We may repeat it, however, if we put into it the prayer of our hearts. 1. God and His Glory (vv. 9, 10). Recognizing Him as our Father to whom we may and must come for all things, we in all humility ascribe all honor to Him. Then we pray that His kingdom may come, not only in the future (and we look forward to it!), but now, in our own hearts. The true believer wants the will of God done in his own life and throughout the earth, even as it is perfectly done in heaven.

This prayer begins at the proper point. A right relationship with God brings true blessing on earth. The one who prays is now ready to present to God:

2. Man and His Needs (vv. 11-13). Daily bread is mentioned first, for without it life could not continue. This is the constant need of man, and his great struggle. God is able for that problem, and only He is able. Unless He gives "seed to the sower and bread to the eater" (Isa. 55:10) we are gone.

But man has even greater spiritual needs. Sin needs forgiveness, weakness needs strength, the power of the enemy of our souls calls for deliverance. Again God is able and ready to hear man's prayer.

One of the sad things about the study of prayer is that we are all so ready to talk about it, discuss it, even preach about it, and then do so little praying. Knowing how to pray, and admiring a model of prayer, will profit us nothing, unless we pray.

Good Work Never Fails

So, then, Elijah's life had been no failure after all. Seven thousand at least in Israel had been braced and encouraged by his example, and silently blessed him, perhaps, for the courage which they felt. In God's world, for those who are in earnest there is no failure. No work truly done, no word earnestly spoken, no sacrifice freely made, was ever made in vain.—F. W. Robertson.

Lighter-Than-Air Ships

There are three general types of lighter-than-air ships, the rigid, the semi-rigid and non-rigid. Some airship authorities divide them into only two types, the pressure airship and the rigid airship. The pressure ship, which includes both the non-rigid and the semi-rigid, maintains its shape and withstands the stresses and strains of flight because of the internal pressure of the lifting gas. The rigid is shaped by its internal structure, over which the fabric is stretched like a skin.

PANHOLDER time is here—as transfer Z9364 illustrates. Two cute kittens with perky bows, a sunbonnet girl and her straw hat playmate, two cages holding applique birds, and a demure maiden with full panholder skirts—these are for kitchen decoration and your protection. The old-fashioned girl holder is cut from wood and painted, and two panholders hang from a hook at the waist to form her skirts.

AROUND THE HOUSE

Honey keeps best in a warm, dry atmosphere.

That pie crust will be more tasty if two tablespoons of peanut butter are added to the dough.

Fasten snaps on clothing before putting through wringer and they will come out in good condition.

To remove mustard stains from table linen boil stained part in a quart of water to which one teaspoon of washing soda has been added.

Bear's Pan Dance

Jugoslavian peasants sometimes teach a performing bear to dance by chaining it on a heated pan, says Collier's. Arabian camel drivers sometimes appease their animal's anger toward themselves by allowing it to bite and shake one of their discarded garments for several minutes.

African natives sometimes find a hippopotamus so sluggish that it will allow them to fish from its back in the middle of a stream.

Wash clothes and hair brushes in alum water occasionally to keep them in good condition.

Tarnished rhinestone pins and buckles will look like new if set in gasoline (keep away from fire) for about 15 minutes, then polish with a flannel cloth.

Glass stoppers may be easily removed from bottles if a towel is dipped into boiling water and wrapped around the neck of bottle for a few minutes.

To prevent nut kernels from becoming rancid, they should be kept in airtight containers in a cool, dry place.

When packing dresses for traveling lay tissue paper twice the length of dress on table, place dress on this and cover with tissue paper. Fold, pack last in suitcase and dresses will not wrinkle.

To remove a slight iron scorch mark from white clothes, rub the scorched area lightly with peroxide. Then rinse it thoroughly in cold water. Peroxide removes the color from colored clothes, however.

HIGHWAY WRECK VICTIM

W. W. Brown, brother of O. C. Brown, killed in the car wreck near Shamrock last Thursday, died in a Shamrock hospital Saturday night. Two women companions, one of them the 1-hour bride of W. W. Brown, are recovering from injuries.

The car, driven by Mrs. Brown, was traveling at such speed that it rolled 168 feet after getting out of control, it was stated.

O. C. Brown, who was riding on the front seat, was thrown 96 feet beyond the spot where the car stopped rolling, landing with such force that his head was buried in the ground. His body was such a distance from the car that a several minute search was necessary to find it.

TRAIN WRECK MONDAY

Early Monday morning some 12 or 13 freight cars were derailed from a Rock Island train just west of Alanreed. The cars were strewn along the right of way and it is said that some hoboes in one car were still asleep after the wreck.

The cause of the wreck is unknown. Crews had the way clear for the next passenger train without any delay.

Mrs. Laura Byerly, Mrs. Elmer Decker and son returned Wednesday from a visit in California. They were accompanied home by Mrs. W. H. Douglas and daughters of Bakersfield, Calif.

C. M. Carpenter, Arthur Dwyer, Sammie Cubine and son went on a hunting trip to New Mexico last week. They were accompanied by L. L. Morse of Grady N. M.

OF YOUR HOME TOWN

Reading The McLean News brings pictures of the Home Town to hundreds of readers each week.

The home town paper is a community institution, just as much as the schools and churches, and just as much a part of the picture.

When every community interest is represented in the paper's columns each week, readers get a true picture of the town. But when some lines of business are not represented, the picture does not fairly represent the town. That any picture is presented each week is due to those merchants who take advantage of the advertising service offered by the home paper. That all merchants profit by the advertising done by any one, is evident each week. In fact, if no merchant advertised in the paper there would not be a town for long.

The very existence of the town depends largely upon the newspaper and its advertisers. A little reflection on what a town is like without a newspaper and progressive merchants should convince the most skeptical that these statements are true.

You can identify yourself with this institution and cooperate in community building with a small investment in advertising, and a subscription each year.
