The Handicap Of Fear

FEAR, SAYS the dictionary, is "a primitive affection." It is at once the silliest and most ineradicable handicap to human progress. Only the great philosophers have succeeded in eliminating the stranglehold of fear from their lives and conduct—and philosophers are not of this world.

One man, possessed of a hundred dollars, fears to spend ten dollars for something he needs very badly. Another man, master of millions, fears to place any of his money where he can not get it back, instantly and completely. The quality and the intensity of the fear in these two men is exactly the same. It is this fear that contributed to the buyers' strike that is so largely responsible for conditions. Only when this fear is removed, or modified, or overcome, will the pendulum swing all the way back.

Press dispatches recently quoted a New York banker as saying: "New Yorkers are all afraid of something that is going to happen. They don't know what it is, but they're afraid just the same. The plain truth is that it already has happened, and that we are still living and moving. I doubt if any crisis that could possibly arise would be worse than what we have survived."

There are evidences that this pall of fear is lifting. Once a start is made, it will lift rapidly. Pretty soon we will be able to effect the vanishment of these monsters of the dark that have made cowards of us all. We will return to a wholesome mental and spiritual outlook. No Pollyanna stuff, to be sure. We have had enough of the glitter of false optimism. But we will get back on the solid rock of reality, and be able to look to the future in the face without quailing. Then we will inherit the earth.

CROSS-STRIPED PYJAMAS
PATTERN NO. 299
Here's a pair of pyjamas that deserve "doin' gibbons by halves!" They're made of striped sport silks or cottons, worked diagonally in the top, vertically in the trousers and cross-diagonally in the side sections.

They're equally effective in ribbed materials—pique, corded woolens, ribbed silks—for all the smartness of their pyjamas is on their surface. And since their effect is entirely dependent on the designs made by the materials, all difficult details are eliminated—quite a saving help.

Designed in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32. Size 14 requires 3 7/8 yards of 36-inch material or 3 3/4 yards of 39-inch material. If contrasting fabric is desired for parts of blouse it will require 5-6 yards of 36-inch material or 58-inch material, for all sizes.

Simplified illustrated instructions for cutting and sewing are included with each pattern. They give complete directions for making these dresses.

All you have to do to obtain a pattern of this attractive model is to send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins.

Kindly be sure to write very plainly on each pattern ordered your NAME and ADDRESS and SIZE.

New Fashion Magazine, chock full of the latest Paris style news, together with color supplement, can now be had at ten cents when ordered with a pattern and fifteen cents when ordered separately.

Willingness to serve doesn't come through training; ability does. So Conoco chooses as station salesmen men who want to serve . . . who like it . . . and trains them to be experts.

When a Conoco man fills your gas tank or supplies oil, he gives you exactly the amount you want. There's no splashing, no muss. He gauges the air in your tires accurately and supplies the proper pressure to each, including spares. He cleans your windshield spotlessly. He fills your radiator without splashing.

The Conoco man's information service is just as expert as these things he does with his hands. Ask him about roads, mileage, hotels, camps, sports, places to buy supplies. He is ready with accurate information on these and many other subjects. He keeps his station rest rooms clean and his station inviting. He checks parcels and cares for mail and telegrams. ### Enforcement - Not Repeal

WHY THE DRYS ARE SHY OF RESUBMISSION

1. Because they know it is the first step towards defeat. No compromise with evil or violators of the law is the only safe policy for the drys.

2. The drys see no reason for resubmission. They know the demand for it is mere propaganda. The politicians, fearful of having to decide for or against prohibition, would very much like to evade their responsibility by putting the ultimate decision up to the people.

3. The drys say it is unreasonable to vote for the repeal without knowing what is to be substituted for the Eighteenth Amendment. They cannot yield unless they know the details of what is to be voted upon as a substitute for the present plan.

4. There is no reason why the drys should help the wets get the evil for which the wets are working. The wets never helped the drys.

5. If the drys should consent to have dry Congressmen vote to submit to the States an amendment to the Eighteenth Amendment it would be seized upon by the wets as an evidence that two-thirds of Congress was wet. When the drys asked Congress to submit the prohibition amendment to the States, the drys were law-abiding citizens with a right to make such a request. The wets now make a similar request, if they come as violators of the law, with unclean hands. Let them help enforce the law before they ask for resubmission.

6. The campaign on repeal would not be fair. The wets have behind them millions of dollars donated by the "wet" interests of the whole world. The drys have only thousands of dollars, representing the sacrificial giving of temperance people.

7. The wets would not be satisfied to call off the battle, if they were beaten. They would redouble their efforts. His continued struggle would make the enforcement of prohibition more difficult and weaken the hands of the enforcement officers.

ELECTION DAY
When you come to the end of election day,
And you sit alone with your thought,
Will your heart be glad, or bowed down in shame
For the deeds that the day has wrought?
Will you vote, will you pray, will you work all day?
Will your conscience say "well done,"
When the sun goes down on election day,
And your chance for work is done?

It's no use to fuss when the deed is done,
It's no use to weep then, my friend,
This is the time when the race is won,
Election day is the end.
Then work, work and pray, till election day,
Work on till the victory's won:
When the sun goes down on election day,
Your chance for work is done.

TODAY and TOMORROW

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Some Senators Speak Their Minds

To read what the senators have been saying about the war debts is to realize that the loudest talkers have never taken the trouble to examine the facts. Let us begin with Senator Watson, the Republican leader, and Senator Couzens, both of whom say that the war debt "represents money loaned Europe for reconstruction purposes."

This statement is not true. If we call all money advanced after the armistice money lent "for reconstruction purposes"—an assumption which gives Senators Watson and Couzens the benefit of every possible doubt—what do we find? We find that Great Britain borrowed 3,695 million dollars before the armistice and 581 millions after the armistice, that France borrowed 1,970 millions before the armistice and 1,434 millions after (if we include 407 millions lent her to purchase war materials left in France by the American army), that Italy borrowed 1,051 millions before and 617 millions after the armistice. This means that if Britain is paying only her post-armistice debt, her total debt has been reduced 86 per cent, that France's has been reduced 60 per cent and Italy's 63 per cent. I should like to see Senator Watson and Senator Couzens prove that the British debt has been reduced 86 per cent. Yet the British debt represents nearly half the total of all debts they speak about so glibly.

Let us look now at the assumption which runs through almost all the remarks of those who are most angry, namely, that if the debts were reduced now, the United States would have given up all the money advanced to the Allies. This is not only untrue but grossly unfair. Great Britain borrowed a total of slightly more than 4 billions and we have already received from Great Britain almost 2 billions. The figures are 4,277 millions advanced and 1,912 millions paid up to November 15, 1931, which means that we have already received 47 cents of every dollar lent. It is decent to talk as if Great Britain were a dishonest debtor trying to frisk our pockets when she has already delivered to us gold or its equivalent equal to nearly half the value of the munitions and food she bought here at prices more than twice what they are today?

But the most interesting case is that of Senator McKellar. This ardent champion of making foreigners pay regardless of the consequences is a representative of the State of Tennessee. According to the World Almanac Tennessee is primarily an agricultural state producing lumber, tobacco, cotton, corn and cattle. In 1931 it appears that of the total American production of tobacco 40 per cent was exported, of cotton nearly 45 per cent, of lard about 29 per cent. It is plain, then, that the prosperity of Tennessee is intimately dependent upon a flourishing foreign trade and upon a recovery of world prices.

One would suppose that Senator McKellar of Tennessee would be greatly interested in every measure designed to improve the purchasing power of the outer world, that at his chief and his constant concern would be the restoration of the world economy. But not at all. Senator McKellar's notion of how to serve the people of Tennessee is to treat their customers as if they were brigands. And to what end? That the United States Treasury should continue to exact from their customers payments which, if not received, must be borne by the taxpayers of the United States.

But why is Senator McKellar so excited about these taxpayers? In 1931 his state contributed one-half

Publisher's Contest Prize Is Awarded To Big Spring Woman

Mrs. Seth H. Parsons, who writes as Ona Reagan Parsons, is one of the fifteen winners of the "If You Were A Publisher" contest recently conducted by E. P. Dutton & Co., Inc., New York publishers, according to a message received by The Herald, for which she is society editor.

More than 1,200 people from all parts of the country, and some residing abroad, took part in the contest. It was interesting to note, says the message from the Dutton company, that there were only 12 people who were able to select 40 per cent or more of the successful books, while only 28 were able to select 25 per cent or more of the successful volumes.

Mrs. Parsons was invited by John Macrae, Jr., vice-president of the Dutton company, to make her selection of books, amounting to $10 in retail value, from the spring catalogue, as her prize.

Littlefield School Tax Cut 40 Per Cent

LITTLEFIELD—Arthur P. Duggan, president of the school board here, reports the school taxes in the Littlefield Independent School district have been cut 40 per cent this year. The equalization board has made its report and the remission of 40 per cent in the school expense here is an accomplished fact. There was a division on the board and Mr. Duggan voted off the tie resulting in the above saving. He said that tax reductions should begin at home, "then go to Austin and on to Washington."

Employment Of Relatives Figures In Campaigns Of Congressmen

By RAYMOND CLAPPER, United Press Staff Correspondent (Copyright, 1932, By United Press)

WASHINGTON (UP)—Employment of relatives on the congressional payroll is an issue in numerous re-election fights.

In at least four states, candidates for congress are discovering the question of a congressman carrying a wife, daughter, son, or "in-law" on the government payroll often without any service being rendered, is something any voter can understand. It dramatizes the economy issue.

In the second Oklahoma district, hart in the recent Iowa primaries. Despite the laws of indignation against the family payroll in congress, many of the 100 or more representatives who have employed relatives are standing pat. The recent economy law permits them to retain their wives on the payroll, despite the provision elsewhere in the bill that wives whose husbands are on the government payroll shall be dismissed first in any personal reductions. A joker was inserted which permits congressmen to exempt relatives from pay cuts.

Even in states where statute or the constitution forbids employment of relatives by state officers, congressmen who are technically classed as federal officers are paying little heed to the popular revolt against the family payroll racket. One Missouri congressman still retains his aged father-in-law on the payroll. He never comes to Washington.

Dozens of congressmen are paying clerk hire to political hangers back home. These employees are sending in payroll certificates on which they swear to defend the constitution.

The correspondent in walking through the corridors of the house office building at lunch time found door after door locked; the congressmen either had gone home—more than 100 have left the city to start their re-election campaigns—or else they were on the floor of the house.

They are supposed to have at least two secretaries to keep the office going. But because so many operate with one, a little metal card holder is fastened on the outside of each congressman's office door so "gone to lunch" and other notices can be inserted. Several of these card holders contained red printed cards—"no special delivery letters." It was after twelve but morning mail was stacked outside some of the doors.

On the door of Rep. Greenwood, Dem., Ind., was a note: "Forward all mail and telegrams to Linton, Ind." This is the home town of his wife, who was on his payroll at the last report.

CANDIDATE FOR TAX ASSESSOR HOWARD COUNTY

I urge you to examine my qualifications and the tax rolls as compiled by my opponent and decide whether the best interests of Howard county do not call for a change in the important office of Tax Assessor. I have put every bit of energy and serious thought that I possess into the job. I am sure that I can save the county considerable money by getting the tax rolls out of the "overworked" overtaxed assessors and on the books as "rendered," thus relieving considerable revenue that the county has not been receiving.

My vote will be deeply appreciated.

120 Absentee Ballots Cast

Election Supplies Prepared by County Chairman

More than 120 absentee ballots on file at the county clerk's office and the grating of ballot boxes being prepared by County Democratic Chairman Grover Cunningham Monday marked approach of the first primary on Saturday.

However, only those who were six years old before the same date are eligible for exemption certificates, he said. Certificates are required in precincts in Big Spring for voting, advised Little.

LEAP YEAR BRIDE

by Lanta Lou BROOKMAN

CHAPTER XLIV
Brenda Vail spread more of the bluish-gray paste on her face. She smeared it on like a mask beginning at the edge of the forehead, pinning tightly about her forehead, and working downward to the base of her neck. She patted the soft, wet compound with her fingers and when she had finished only her eyes and mouth showed. The eyes looked like slits in the gray mask. Brenda's lips, usually so vividly crimson, were pallid and pressed together in a tight line. Selfish lips. Quick tempered lips. Cruel lips.

At last the mask was done and Brenda inspected herself in the mirror of the dressing table. Though the effect was far from flattering, she seemed satisfied. Here in the privacy of her bedroom Brenda had abandoned the luxurious chiffons and satins she usually wore. A cotton kimono, faded and soiled, was draped about her, fastened at the waist by a safety pin. Her hair was concealed by the turban-like towel. She slipped bedroom slippers covered her feet. She rose from the dressing table, went to the chaise longue and lay back against it with a sigh. The mask must remain on her face 20 minutes and the watch at her wrist gave the time as a little after two o'clock. Brenda closed her eyes, relaxing as magazine articles by beauty experts always advise.

There was no one else in the room or in the apartment. The maid who wore the crisp, gray uniform and ruffled cap appeared there only when Miss Vail had visitors to impress. Her name was Minnie Johnson, though on duty she answered to "Yvonne." Yvonne was to arrive this afternoon at four o'clock. Ten minutes passed and then a bell shrilled loudly. The telephone in the next room. Brenda's eyes darkened with annoyance. There was nothing for her to do, however, but arise and answer the call. The heeled bedroom slippers slipped clumsily as Brenda walked. She had to push back the cloth about her head so that she could hold the instrument to her ear. It was a French telephone done in ivory enamel. "Hello," she said. Dan Phillips was speaking. His voice sounded eager and excited. "Is that you, Brenda?" he asked and went on without giving her time to reply. "I wanted to tell you I've just seen the boss. Told him I was through with the Wellington News and this town, too. I'm quitting Saturday. Everything's all settled."

"You mean you've given up your job?"
"Sure. Why not? I had to quit if we leave for New York Saturday, didn't I? I thought you'd be glad to hear it! It won't be long now, Brenda!"
There was no change of expression on the woman's face. The clay mask made that impossible. But resentment sounded in her voice. "Don't you think you should have waited?" she asked.
"There's nothing to wait for! Say, I feel better already. Listen, Brenda, I want to talk to you. Suppose I drop around as near to five as I can make it? We'll have dinner together!"

She interrupted. "Not this evening, Dan. I—I'm so sorry but I've been having a beastly headache. I'm going to lie down and try to

M. P. Harris.
That was the note Brenda read. When she looked up her eyes were lighted with radiance. Her smile was effective than any beauty pack. "He's coming!" she whispered aloud. "Brenda Vail, you're having your chance today. You can't fall now! You can't!"

She was on her feet, suddenly transformed into a flame of energy. There was much to be done yet. Dozens of things. What hadn't Yvonne arranged? What about those flowers? The man had promised they would be delivered early and here it was nearly four! Yvonne should be preparing the tea things!

Brenda flounced to the dressing table for last minute touches of rouge and powder puff. She applied the lip rouge with trembling fingers. It smudged, had to be removed and done over again. She stepped into a pair of gold shoes and sprayed her hair with scented and got into the costume spread out on the bed.

It had been purchased two days before—immediately on receipt of Mr. Harris's letter—and was exactly Brenda Vail's idea of attire suitable in which to receive an important figure of the motion picture world. The jade green velvet fell into graceful folds. The bodice outlined her figure closely and was accented by a girde of cloth of gold. Brenda fastened the low neckline with a ruby clasp. She slipped the sandals on her feet and buckled the straps. Bills, bills! There would be more bills for this new finery but what was expenses on such an occasion?

"I'm going to Hollywood!" The thought danced madly in Brenda's mind. There would be money enough there! "I'm going to Hollywood to write for the movies!" The bell rang and she answered it. Yvonne had arrived, prompt to the minute. Brenda began to snap out orders to the girl.

"Remember—the cocktails in the crystal glasses. Yes, they're ready. I mixed them myself. The shaker on the tray. Yes, of course! You'd better begin right away with the sandwiches!"

A messenger delivered the box of yellow roses and Brenda arranged them in a low bowl. She placed the bowl on the table beside the davenport, then moved it to the opposite side of the room where the flowers were reflected in a mirror. The setting must be exactly right. Every detail was important. Brenda stepped back in the doorway, surveying the living room. A fire was crackling in the fireplace and the dancing flames cast a warm glow over the room. She pulled a chair nearer to the hearth. That was for Mr. Harris. She would take the davenport where the light was flattering and the table for the cocktail tray conveniently near. Brenda moved to the fireplace, held out fingers that were icy to the blouse. "It's because I'm nervous," she told herself, "and there's no reason for it. Of course everything's going to be all right!" She went back to the wickerette to give Yvonne final instructions. "It was 20 minutes past four now. 'He'll be here here any minute.' Brenda assured herself. She took a cigaret from a lacquered box, lighted it and placed it to her lips. Then she sat down. It amused her to think of Dan Phillips. Headache—she had managed that very nicely. How could she bother with that tiresome youth when the great chance of her career was at hand? "So he's given up his job!" she thought. "Won't he be surprised to hear the news. The 'What! There'll be a scene, of course. Well, he's brought the whole thing on himself!" Brenda shrugged, smiling. An instant later the bell rang and Yvonne hurried through the room to answer it. "Now!" Brenda whispered to herself. "Now—!" There were voices in the foyer. Another instant and a figure flung itself through the doorway. Dan Phillips stood there waving something in his hand. "Brenda!" he cried. "What does this mean?" (To Be Continued)

Joe Shantz, following Mungo on the mound, was credited with the victory, his second in as many days.

Brooklyn ... 020 100 220—7 11 2 St. Louis ... 001 003 050—4 7 2 Mungo, Shantz, Wright and Lopez; Haines, Stout, Carleton and J. Wilson.

PHILLES 5, PIRATES 4 PITTSBURGH—The Pittsburgh Pirates extra-inning streak was snapped by the Philles Monday, 5 to 4, in 11 innings.

It was the first time the league-leading Bucs have surrendered in an extra-inning game since May 9.

Senators Lose Two To Tigers

Athletics, Red Sox And Yankees Take Day's Contests

WASHINGTON—Twice Monday the Detroit Tigers humbled the Senators 8 to 6, and 2 to 1, breaking a Washington winning streak which had been stretched to nine games.

Crowder went the route for the Senators in the nightcap, allowing six hits. Bridges and Uhle gave up six between them for Detroit.

Poor pitching for a weak batting punch spelled defeat for Washington in the first game. Lloyd Brown yielded six hits and five runs before giving way to Coffman in the third.

First Game: Detroit ... 302 010 200—8 13 1 Washington ... 002 300 002—6 12 1 Whitehill and Tuel; Brown, Coffman, Burke, Mackery and Berg.

The victory was costly, however, the Yankees losing Babe Ruth in definitely when the slugging outfielder was injured going after Seifer's double in the seventh inning.

Chicago ... 020 000 011—4 6 3 New York ... 041 000 012—6 8 1 Newson, Gregory, May and Berry; Pipgras and Jorgens.

INDIANS 9, PANTHERS 6 FORT WORTH—Larry Cox and Howard Fitzgerald called upon the aid of an outsider to co-star with them in lifting the San Antonio Indians to a 9 to 6 victory over the Fort Worth Panthers Monday night.

They were forced to share the spotlight with relief pinch pitcher Fabian Kowalik who came into the game in the second inning after the Cats had jumped on Sackett for six runs and held them to three hits the remaining seven rounds.

He received credit for the victory. Paul Gribble started for the Cats but finally gave way to Milt Steen-grafe in the seventh. The pair were credited for 15 hits.

LUSS LOCH LOMOND, Scotland—Kaye Don Monday drove his new Miss England III over the silvery surface of storied Loch Lomond at the record speed of 119.81 miles an hour to return again to Great Britain the world speed standard for water travel.

Twice he drove his powerful boat over the measured mile course, breaking the world mark on both occasions. On the first try, made just at dawn, he averaged 117.43 M. P. H. On his second trial he attained a speed of 120.50 M. P. H. on the run with the wind.

Don's mark broke the old record of 118.58 set by the world's record for land and air travel.

The world automobile record is held by Sir Malcolm Campbell and is 253.968. The air record is 402.5 and was set this year by Flight Lieut. G. H. Stainforth.

Don's mark broke the old record of Gar Wood, 111.726, by more than eight miles an hour and, experts said, put it beyond reach for some time although the American now is experimenting with a new Miss America in the hope of defeating Don in the Harmsworth trophy race at Detroit this fall and then regaining the world mark.

VOTE FOR Ches Anderson

For County Commissioner, Prec. No. 3 In the July 23 Democratic Primary

I submit my record of many years as a Howard county citizen working at the business of farming and pledge my best efforts toward making you a capable, economical and fair commissioner.

A number of people have asked me what my attitude is toward our highway affairs. This is a matter in which many of our citizens are interested and I feel they are entitled to know my views. I believe Howard county should accept the proposition the state highway commission has made to build our highways if we will provide right-of-way. This looks to me like a good thing for the county, as all money that would be paid by the county for right-of-way land would be paid to our own people, with exception of a few non-resident landowners. Thus, we would not only get these roads but our own citizens would benefit directly in a financial way by this proposition.

I have tried to meet all voters of the precinct, but due to time I had to devote to my crop, I may have missed some. Your vote will be sincerely appreciated.

Soldier Found Shot To Death

Private's Pistol In Hand, Cocked, Cartridge Near Body

DALAS (AP)—Private Jimmy Sherman, on guard duty at Hensley training field here, was found shot to death Tuesday.

His body was found lying on the porch of the administration building, a bullet wound in his forehead. Clutched in his hand, and cocked was his service pistol. It apparently had been fired once. A cartridge which fitted the pistol was found a dozen feet away. Captain Harry ... was investigating the death.

JOHN—

campaign more than 20 years ago that they have sent me back every term since then.

He said, however, he expected to make more speeches in the next three months.

"I want to convince every honest man and woman in the United States that the power of government should be taken away from those who administer it for the benefit of a privileged few," he shouted. "I want to convince them that power should be placed in the hands of the party of which I am a member, the democratic party, to be administered for the benefit of the American people as a whole."

He recounted the stormy scenes in congress during the last several weeks, when the president vetoed bills the speaker advocated, first placing executive disapproval on the measure which would have placed $100,000,000 at the disposal of the president for individual relief.

Queer Antics Charged

"I trusted the president: enough to be willing to leave the distribution of that money to his judgment," he said, "but he called it a 'pork barrel measure.' Then because I demanded that the reconstruction finance corporation make public its use of $2,000,000,000 of the people's property he said in effect, 'No, that is for the benefit of my select clientele and the people must not know what is done with it.' We passed that measure anyway. I noticed by the morning newspapers he says he will study it a few days and 'probably will sign.' He means he wants to have a few days in which to find out what Wall Street and J. P. Morgan think he should do about it," the speaker shouted as the crowd responded with a roar of "rebel yell."

"No man or woman can claim I said a word to advance myself as candidate for the democratic presidential nomination," Garner continued. "But when my friends here in Texas and those in California decided I was fit timber to deal with Herbert Hoover, I assented to their wishes. I think now I may be big enough for that job, considering his weakness and vacillation. I hold the most powerful position in this government excepting that of the United States. I accepted the proposed vice-presidential nomination with much hesitancy, for already we have whipped Hoover three times in congress."

Well Off In Texas

He said "you people here in Texas don't know how much better off you are than people in the larger cities of the east, where thousands are out of work and are hungry." Citing the huge appropriations to aid city and county governments contained in the relief measure, he said "I hope you people in Texas won't need to ask for a cent of that. I don't believe you want charity—all you demand is an opportunity to work."

Jed C. Adams, of Dallas, democratic national committeeman from Texas, introduced Garner and presented Mrs. Garner to the audience, to speak a few words of greeting into the microphone, then the train moved southward across the state toward Uvalde, the Garners' home town.

The train was more than an hour late in reaching Dallas, due to the enthusiastic ovations given the speaker and his wife at every station along the line, after the train entered Texas. A convoy of nine army planes, commanded by Captain Harry Wedington of the field, met the train 50 miles east of Dallas and escorted it into the city, as whistles and sirens tooted a noisy welcome.

HOME TOWN—

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE ONE) two years to buy right-of-way for state highways 1 and 9 that the state may build those roads.

What would be the result of these two developments? It is certainly safe to say that the county's tax rate would not be raised and that it might be lowered because of being freed from the bond tax to offset expenditure of that nature a $100,000 for right-of-way. The tax now levied to retire county bonds would not alone provide that $100,000—if, indeed, the right-of-way cost that much.

But, the county already has promised right-of-way for No. 9 south of Big Spring and can see where the money is coming from to pay for it from current revenue already received. If that had not been the case the county would have had to issue warrants to provide funds for No. 9 right-of-way promised to provide that right-of-way.

If you'll inquire of county officials you will find that they can see now where they could provide right-of-way for No. 9 north of town. Surely funds for that section alone could be provided without raising the rate if the Sterling plan is enacted and county bonds retired by the state. Even if the Sterling plan is not followed county records will show that, should the highway right-of-way not be bought, the county tax rate might be lowered anyway.

While many citizens have voiced to us their appreciation of comments in this column that action should be taken at once by the county on the highway commission's proposition to build the roads if we'll provide the right-of-way, some have taken the position that there is plenty of time and question the wisdom of "rushing" into the matter.

Now, other counties have their financial problems, too. Fact is, most of them have more problems than Howard County has, thanks to wise direction of her affairs by the commissioner's court. Other counties on highway 1 did not delay in accepting this proposal.

There is no justification for a flat declaration that Howard county will lose this opportunity for having her roads built if she does not accept this proposition before Saturday night's primary or before the special session of the legislature to be called in August or September.

But, you never know how these elections will result. Many of us can predict that result, but none of really know.

One monthly session of the highway commission already has been held by other counties on highway 1 receiving appropriations but with Howard county not receiving hers because she has not accepted the highway commission's proposition.

Suppose Mrs. Ferguson is elected that would carry with it, in view of the things she is urging in her platform a mandate to the legislature on the part of people to pass laws making the highway commission's selective instead of appointive and to split the gasoline tax revenue so that no appropriations could be made, at least for a considerable period, to pay for building our highways.

Whether Howard county accepts this proposition now or later she will have to figure out how to pay for the right-of-way. If a majority of members of the county commissioner's court favor ultimate acceptance of the proposition they ought to act now for safety's sake.

Cream of the nation's athletic crop will appear in the big Palo Alto carnival, last barrier between the mecca of all track stars—the Olympics. Percy Beard (top), former Alabama Poly star now with the New York Athletic club, is the choice in the 110-meter hurdles; Ralph Metcalfe (bottom) of Marquette university, has rushed up among the leaders in the sprints, and Bill Carr of Penn is the "dark horse" entry in the 400-meters, by virtue of an upset of the mighty Ben Eastman in the intercollegiate 440-yards.

"There's many a slip twixt the cup and the lip. We might get these roads anyway and we might not. Accept—now of the proposition would make it a cinch. Until it is accepted we have no right to expect the roads will be built under the present liberal proposition.

And, if the commissioner's court had accepted this proposal as soon as it was presented we'll wager that action would not have changed in any case the personnel of the commissioner's court in the voting of next Saturday from what it would have been anyway.

For Congress

He has fought, and plans to continue the fight in congress, for the return of about $1,000,000 which he asserts is legally due West Texas members of the co-op from its reserve fund. As director in the Reconstruction Finance corporation, he contended for liberalized regulations to allow wheat farmers who had first mortgages on their crop to secure much needed aid from the government.
