War Goods, From Brushes to Bombs, Are Stored In Huge Warehouses of Utah Ordnance Depot

Munitions Are Made In Nearby Factory At Salt Lake City

By John Elbridge Jones

The military axiom that "an army travels on its belly" is true, but a modern army needs many other necessary supplies-shoes, for instance, and trucks, and tanks, tractors, munitions and guns.

To furnish these supplies when and where needed and in the proper amount, the U. S. army has built up separate organizations within the army, headed by Lieut. General Brehon B. Somervell, called "Service Commands." There is a "Service Command" for each military area not only within the U.S. but wherever the army goes.

For the first 12 months or more of this war all information regarding army operation and placement was a military secret; now-in driving for final victory—the army wants you to know how it operates; bow it takes care of your son or your husband-what it feeds him, now it clothes him-what it gives him to fight with and how it cares for him when sick or wounded.

With that in mind Maj. Gen. Kenyon A. Joyce, commanding general of the Ninth service command, with beadquarters in Salt Lake City. Utah, recently invited a group of newspaper men to visit all of the army service forces. These newspaper men were shown everything and told everything, but they were restricted not to reveal military information helpful to the enemy.

Non-Combat Goods.

All of the thousands of articles called "non - combat equipment," meaning, in general, everything the army uses except actual weapons and fighting machines, are procured by purchase or are made to order. Canned vegetables, blankets, safety pins, uniforms of all sorts, road machinery, and stoves are samples of these things not used in actual fight- of the army. ing, but most necessary, just the

The depot is roughly a mile wide by three miles long. There are 15 permanent type warehouses of concrete and steel and nine temporary warehouses of wooden construction. They house everything the army needs and uses outside of munitions and implements of war.

Several are used for food, others for clothing, kitchen equipment, for automobiles, for drainage tiles, for pipe, for everything.

On display were box lockers, 12 kinds of hats or caps, shirts and underwear, carrying bags, gloves, coats, mess kits, sleeping bags, uniforms for army and for WACs and for nurses, musical instruments, shoes, sox, tool sets, helmets, plastic

This young war worker, Miss Louise Anderson, is exhibiting belts of machine - gun cartridges for airplanes. She operates a machine that fills the beits, which are made of webbing.

BUSHNELL HOSPITAL for soldiers is another department of the Ninth service command. Construction of the huge institution was begun shortly after Pearl Harbor. It is located at Brigham City, 60 miles north of Salt Lake City. At present it has 2,000 beds.

Corp. John Kariger, 21, of Herthey, Neb., is one patient who probably owes his life to the new drug n, administered at Bushnell. His thighbone was shattered by and mountain tents. Among thousands of other articles were pack kits, gasoline lanterns, emergency rations, G. I. thread and needles, compasses, pliers, sunburn cream, chap stick, towels, and rubber pants. Unique here was the fact that a part of the guard for daylight service is made up of women: women trained to do guard duty-to carry a gun and use it. Police dogs aid the guards at night.

Making Cartridges

Guns, cartridges, bombs and similar munitions, as well as war machines like tanks and armored trucks, are made at the army's own ordnance factories, or by private manufacturers, under government contract. One of these latter is the Utah Ordnance plant in Salt Lake

The plant area is about 5,000 acres with more than 175 buildings-10 miles of heavy track railroad and 17 miles of surfaced road. Inner and outer fences extend a distance of about 21 miles, most of which is under 24 hour surveillance by auxiliary military guard under direction

This plant is the last word in a modern line production system for manufacturing small arms ammunithem with powder. The finish ammunition is put into belts-or clips and then packed in metal-lined cases for shipment.

Outstanding in the plant is the continuous rigid testing and checking-for on the efficient operation of these munitions may depend the life of your son or husband. Finally a certain percentage of each batch is sent to the ballistics department, where shells are actually fired in guns used by the army and are checked for accuracy, fire power and penetration.

Tooele Ordnance Depot.

During war the various ordnance manufacturing plants may ship direct to the field of action, but a large part of the material must of necessity be held in reserve in stor-For this purpose the government has built huge storage depots in strategic locations. These basic supply depots are removed from the seacoast for protection, yet so located that war goods may be transported swiftly by rail, highway or plane to the points of embarkation. The army has built the Tooele

Ordnance depot at Tooele, Utah, about 40 miles southwest of Salt Lake City. The depot, comprising an area of some 26,000 acres, is served by two transcontinental railroads, giving quick access to the Northwest, the San Francisco Bay area and the Southwest-all important ports for the Pacific theater of war. Within the depot are 150 miles of hard surfaced highway and 77 miles of railway track. Five Diesel switch engines handle freight cars.

The ordnance depot performs three main functions-first it is the reserve storage for all munitionsincluding rifle and machine gun ammunition, shells and bombs of all sizes and weight. It stores reserves of ordnance equipment such non, trench mortars, and mobile fighting equipment such as tanks, jeeps, trucks and tractors. Repair and Salvage.

Second, the ordnance depot is a shipment and ships it. It takes care ing and ready if needed.

foot tubs, flags, tents, tent stoves, | of the repair and rebuilding of damaged and badly worn equipment. In the depot area are huge buildings, one of them 525 feet wide by 540 feet long, used wholly for making repairs that cannot be taken care of at the front. Duplicate parts of all equipment are kept on hand-either for use in the depot or for ship-

The third function of the Tooele Ordnance depot is one of salvage. Back to this depot are sent trainloads of used shells, large and small. The undamaged are shipped to the munitions factories for refilling, and the unusable are sent to the smelters. The army expects to get back approximately 90 per cent of the shells, packing cases, ammunition belts, clips, etc., issued.

Women by far outnumber the men in the warehouses. Girls trained for the job operate motor driven fork lift trucks-which pick up huge cases and stack them-8, 10 and 12 feet high. The depot is manned mostly by civilians.

Most interesting of all the features of the depot is the storage of the actual munitions. Small caliber ammunition is stored in above-the hymns from India's old, old scripground warehouses. Heavy ammu- ture: nition and bombs are stored in "ig-

One of the igloos visited was about half full, containing several hundred 1,000 - pound semi - block buster bombs-all ready for shipment to For protection the depot is watched over by a corps of auxiliary military guard under the direction of the army, who patrol in cars.

Not far distant from the Tooele Ordnance plant but entirely sepaas pistols, rifles, machine guns, can- rate is another depot. Pacific, he says, and he knows plenty about the Far East, and Tokyo in particular. He was in Japan all the time the United States was in the last war. He went out there as naval attache to the American embassy in January, 1915, and stayed four years. His government handed him the Navy Cross for what he accomplished, and Japan, being one of the Allies in those days, passed him a decoration, too, the Third Order of the Sacred Treasure.

This is the third war in which this native New Yorker, now 63, has had a hand. He had entered the Naval academy in 1895 at the ripe young age of 15, and while still a middie he served in the North Atlantic aboard the USS Texas in the scrap with Spain. When the war was over, he went back to Annapolis, graduating in 1899. Since returning from Tokyo, he attended the Naval War college. What's more he went to the Army War college, too.

Back in the mid-Twenties some of his flying officers got his sea dog dander up when they tried to tell him that the orders he gave couldn't be carried out. He promptly had himself assigned for training with the air arm at Pensacola, and in 1926 he was qualified as a naval aviation observer. Later he commanded the aircraft carrier Saratoga. Since March, 1942, he has been one of Admiral King's right bowers in planning sea operations. Planes are his specialty.

Ever since she went into the children's bureau of the department of labor, Miss Lenroot has had a strong interest in South America. She is well known there, and speaks Spanish fluently enough to make an easy way from the plateau cities of New Granada to low-lying and windy Punta Arenas, though she might be more comfortable if she stopped at Buenos Aires.

CHAPTER XII

"The skipper was frantic to get some of our little fleet back into commission so we could finish out the fight. We'd started the war with six boats. Two were lost off Bataan. One was lost on the escape trip south. That left only three, and two of these were wrecks, fit only for the dry dock, Bulkeley's being the only craft left in fighting condition. But he was bound to get the others back into shape. Did I think I could get mine to Cebu?

"Well, we could try, and we started off, my poor old boat with her earthquake making twelve knots, her back end wiggling like a shipwrecked sailor's dream of a French musical-comedy star. Whatever she was good for now, it wasn't fighting, and I was glad we didn't meet any

His native name meant 'the old man' or 'the headman' in Tagalog.

'He was a great gourmet, too. Had Bulkeley and me out to dinner and we had bottled beer (a great rarity), a big crab-meat cocktail, and then lobster Newburg, which was delicious, but 'Dad' kept warning us to hold back, because then he broke out a couple of roast ducks.

"Dessert was simple, like the last bars of a symphony. Just delicious chilled mangoes and Chase & Sanborn's coffee. It was a magnificent feed after the native chow I'd been eating. We talked about the war. People in Cebu felt the show was about up, unless miraculous help ar-

'Have my dignity to think about,' he said. 'I'm not going to the hills. I'll stay right here and face them.

" 'Dad' was working for the government for a dollar a year. When he finally finished with our repairs -they took many days-we asked him how much the bill was. "We'll forget about it,' he said. 'You fight em and I'll fix 'em. It's the least

I can do.' "He clenched his big fist, and it was about the size of a nail keg. Since I've come back here I've read about some outfits working on war contracts who were paying their stenographers fifty thousand dollars a year and charging it to the govemment as expenses until they were caught. It's a waste of time to indict them. Just get old 'Dad' Cleland back here and let him go in and reason with them in their swivel chairs. With those big fists of his, he'd know how to expostulate with racketeers like that. "Until we got to Cebu we hadn't been paid since the war started. in Cebu the men all got paid and it was quite a spectacle. The dozen on my boat, going from bar to bar, got rid of two thousand dollars in three days. If it had been two million instead, they would have got rid of it just as quick, although might have strained them some. Then they settled back to their routine means of livelihood, which was playing poker with the army.

"But things were moving in Cebu, and very secretly we began to hear dats of a big American offensive which was coming rolling up from the south through the islands in time to save Bataan, which was almost out of food and ammunition. Word me that two submarines were arving in Cebu, where they would loaded with food and returned to aan-we brought the first one through the channel.

"But that wasn't half of it. Because in addition to the subs-the last one shoved off on April 5-there were seven fat interisland steamers being secretly loaded with food down near 'Dad' Cleland's dock-medical supplies, quinine the boys were dying without, everything they needed to hold on. But how could they hope to get these fat little tubs up through the islands to Bataan? Bulkeley was to find out three days later."

"The General in command at Cebu called me in and verified the hirsts we'd heard of the big American offensive," said Bulkeley. "He assured me everything was set. It was to start at dawn the very next morning. That very night, twelve fortresses and heavy bombers were coming up from Australia. A swarm of P-35's were on their way up from Mindanao to Iloilo, where they were to gas up and go into action.

Island. Somewhat to the eastward there was a cruiser which carried four seaplanes, but they weren't worried about it. But that afternoon reports had come in giving the progress of the Jap destroyers. Obviously they were heading toward Cebu. Maybe they had broken down our American codes and knew about the interisland steamers, and were coming in either to blockade them or to shell them at the dock.

"Why couldn't we have a part in this great offensive which tomorrow was to sweep up and blast Jap shipping and warships between Mindanao, Cebu, and Bataan?" Lieutenant Kelly thought, "We could be helpful by going out tonight and knocking off one or both of those Jap destroyers, which by midnight should be approaching the narrow channel between Cebu and Negros Islands. The cruiser-never mind her, American bombers would polish her off in the morning."

"Bulkeley came in at eight o'clock that night and told me about it," said Kelly. "My boat had been in the water just four hours-she was supposed to soak for twenty-four before she should be exposed to any pounding, but I asked him if we couldn't go out with him. I was hoping you'd like to,' the skipper told me. 'Think you can make it?' 'I don't know,' I said, 'but we'll soon find out. This'll be as good a dock trial for her as any."

"To man the boats I called for volunteers," said Bulkeley. "I had no trouble about that. I guess they Japs were all running around, not understood by now that any man knowing where to go-and she had who doesn't volunteer won't be in sunk in twenty. the squadron long if I can get rid

SOLDIERS OF THE SOIL

It is the best sort of suggestion which is offered by O. S. Warden the Great Falls (Mont.) Tribune. Mr. Warren would have a government medal given to boys leased from the army to aid food production, Mr. Warren wants the medal inscribed "Armed Forces of the United States Division of Food Production." This is a suitable and descriptive marking. But even better than a medal, or perhaps made to accompany that decoration, would be an arm band or other insignia which could be worn at work and when the medal might be reposing at home.

The value as a morale builder of proper recognition given those who are really soldiers of the soil needs no argument. We have in our armed forces today scores of specialized divisions whose work is far less important than that of producing food. An army has always traveled on its stomach and have gone to San Paula, Calif. always will. And this goes, too, for that civilian army of men and women in our war industries who need to be sufficiently and competently fed in a country which is certainly equipped with land enough to feed them. Without orying into the secrecy of the Millions of Government checks are being sent by the Army and Navy to dependents of soldiers and sailors. The Government also sends Social Security and other checks to more millions. When any of these checks are stolen, the people entitled to them may go without food, or fuel, or may suffer other hardships. The U.S. Secret Service wants your help in fighting the check thief and forger. Here's how you can lend a hand:

IF YOU ARE ASKED TO CASH A GOVERNMENT CHECK

1. INSIST that a person presenting a Government check properly identify himself as the person entitled to that check.

2. BEFORE accepting the check ask yourself this question: IF THIS CHECK IS RE-TURNED BECAUSE OF A FORGED ENDORSE-MENT, CAN I LOCATE THE FORGER AND RECOVER MY LOSS?

3. INSIST that all checks be endorsed in your presence. If a check is already endorsed, ask that it be endorsed again, then compare the writing. -

4. REQUIRE all checks to be initialled by the employees who pay out money for them, or who approve such payment.

2. PRINT your name

GOD PROVIDES FOR HIS PEOPLE

LESSON TEXT-Exodus 16:11-18; 17: GOLDEN TEXT—Give us th's day our daily bread.—Matthew 6:11.

Only God can provide the necessities of life. Rationing has taught us that lesson anew if we have been at all thoughtful about it. The plan is one of sharing. Sharing what? The food and other provisions which come to us from God's hand. Unless our crops are good there will be less to share. Only God can help

This was the lesson Israel learned in the wilderness. To reach the goal to which God was leading them they must pass through the wilderness. Not only were there many weary miles to travel, but there were privations to be borne. Life is like that.

Now they cried for food. Note how elemental are man's needs in the final analysis-bread and water. The very things we take almost for granted as we concern ourselves with life's weighty interests and profound problems become, if lacking, the only things that have any real meaning. And who is it that can provide them? No one but God Him-

I. Bread from Heaven (Exod. 16:

Israel's longing for meat was met by the miraculous coming of quantities of quail (v. 17). But that was not the food to sustain them day after day. Fer this they needed bread, and it came from heaven, every day until they entered the promised land (Josh, 5:12).

Observe four things about the

Secondly, it was a daily provision. What forehanded folk many of us are, and no doubt rightly so, for God puts no premium on improvidence. But once again we must recognize, as did Israel in receiving the daily manna in the wilderness, that ours is indeed a moment by moment existence. We plan bravely for the next decade or the next generation, but as a matter of fact it can only come to pass "if the Lord will" (read James 5:13-17)

Next, it was a limited provisionenough for the day and no more, except for a double portion on the sixth day, and none at all on the Sabbath. These provisions were made clear to Israel, and yet there were those who attempted to lay up for the morrow, and some even went out to seek manna on the Sabbath day. We marvel at their stubborn obseness, but are we not often just ke them. Some there are who are always expecting that the laws of both God and man should be set side for them, but they come to Finally, it called for diligence and ion on their part. They had to out early each day (except the bath) to gather it. God's merles are for those who are willing obey Him. He gives to those receive by active faith.

II. Water from the Rock (Exod. And the people thirsted"-for the y manna was not enough, they ust have water. Needy, yes, condy needy are God's children. THERE is no reason that you should do without smart looking upholstered chairs while you are awaiting the day that you will have the living room furniture that you have always dreamed about. Scraps of lumber and plywood or even old packing boxes may be used to make simple chair frames and there are no priorities on cotton padding and sturdy cotton covering materials. A simple frame for a chair of this type is shown here. It is padded with cotton batting basted to pieces of unbleached muslin cut to fit the back and well over the sides of the seat. A separate cushion filled with cotton, down or feathers is then made for the seat.

WHEN OPPORTRUNITY KNOCKS

A few years ago, opponents o chain stores were stumping the country for special chain store tax laws. They feared that the progressive merchandising innovations of the chains would ruin independent merchants. More than twenty states enacted laws limiting the efficiency of chain stores. thus forcing higher prices on necessities. Many of those laws are still operative at a time wher presumably everything is done to stem rising prices.

Actually, under the stimulation of competition, both types of retailing prospered and finally developed into an integrated distribution system, the like of which the world has never seen for competence and efficiency.

Both chain and independent merchants have turned every cunte of organizational ability and efficiency toward beating a commot enemy-inflation. They have united in a battle to halt the rising cost of living. They work tirelessly for sane government controls over civilian necessities. And where rationing and price ceilings have been imposed, they have done a superhuman job of practical administration.

The war emergency has clearly proven that this country need every type of retail distributor No type of store should be han dicapped by punitive laws.

IT ALL DEPENDS

If we look through dark colored glasses, the outlook is gloomy and cheerless. But if we view things through rose-colored glasses the whole world is charming and our mental attitude is immediately changed. Thus we see how important it is that we have the right prospective toward the future, our neighbors, our job and those with whom and for whom we work.

Much depends upon our mental attitude and our mental attitude is governed largely by the eyes through which we see things. A man past middle age married e girl twenty years younger. W

A sugar planter in Hawaii took a friend from the United States to the edge of a volcano.

"That crater is 70,004 years old," he explained.

"How do you get the exact age?" asked the newcomer. "I 50c and $1.00. Harmless to anyhow do you calculate the four?"

"Well, I've been here in th islands for four years, and that crater was 70,000 years old when I arrived."

Here Is What Bankers

Advertising

READ THIS -

should allow a newspaper published in his town to go without his name and business mentioned somewhere in its columns. This applies to all kinds of businessgeneral stores, dry goods, groceries. furniture dealers, manufacturing establishments, druggists, mechanics, automobile dealers, professional men, and in fact all types of business men. This does not mean that you should have a whole or half or even a quarter page ad in each issue of the paper, but your name and business should be mentioned even if you use a small space. A stranger picking up a newspaper should be able to tell what business is represented in the town by looking at the busineses mentioned in the paper. This is the best possible town advertiser.

The man who does not advertise his business does an injustice to himself and the town.-American Bankers Magazine.
