WITH THE CHURCHES

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

C. O. Huber, Pastor

At church conference a week ago the church accepted a recommendation from the deacons and finance committee calling for the re-roofing of the church building. The proposal calls for a new roof together with a 20-year maintenance bond.

With this repair in mind we call attention to our new budget year to begin September 1, necesmeetings in conference for proposals and adoption of progress for the coming year. Make all church meetings of major attention now. The church needs your counsel.

Our worship services are being well attended and to all the Lord's program on the next Lord's Day we most heartily invite the attendance of all.

Will a Trial of the 'War Criminals' Be Aftermath of 'Unconditional Surrender'?

They Didn't 'Hang Kaiser' In 1918, but Will Adolf Be as Lucky?

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

NCONDITIONAL surrender" is the watchword of the Allies and, after that has been brought about, the Axis leaders who plunged the world into war will be placed upon trial for the crimes against humanity which they and their followers have commit-

Such is the promise of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill and it is not likely that there will be any objection to that program from Joseph Stalin and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. Certainly if the people of Poland, France, Belgium, Holland, Norway, Denmark, Greece and Czecho-Slovakia have anything to say about it, Hitler, Mussolini, Hirohito and their fellow international gangsters will not escape punishment as did Kaiser Wilhelm a quarter of a century

Back in 1917-18 "hang the kaiser" was a popular slogan in the Allied countries even after the German monarch had abdicated and found refuge in Holland. That slogan helped continue Prime Minister Lloyd George in power in the British elections of November, 1918, and that the promise in it might be made good was indicated by Article 227 of the Treaty of Versailles, which was signed a few months later. The

The Allied and Associated Powers publicly arraign Wilhelm II of Hohenzollern, formerly German emperor, for supreme offenses against international morality and the sanctity of treaties. The Allied and Associated Powers will address a request to the government of the Netherlands for the surrender to them of the ex-emperor in order that he may be put on Accordingly it was proposed that a tribunal, consisting of five judges, one each from the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan, should be organized to serve as a court of justice for the arch criminal, and in January, 1920, a formal demand was made upon Holland for his surrender. But immediately the plan struck a snag. For the Dutch government announced that it was not a signatory to the Versailles treaty, therefore not bound by its terms and, moreover, its national honor forbade the surrender of the royal refugee.

Expressing the fear that the kaiser might flee from Holland, the Allied governments repeated their demand. But Queen Wilhelmina and her ministers announced that this fear was groundless since by royal decree the kaiser would be restricted to a certain section of Utrecht and forbidden to leave it. Warning the Dutch government that "the responsibility is now that of the Netherlands," the Allies left the matter there and so the Prussian war-lord retired to his wood-chopping at Doorn where he lived to see an three years after the war ended that Austrian house-painter revive his old | a court in Leipzig went through the dream of world-domination and Ger-

The kaiser, however, was not the only German leader whom the victorious Allies had marked for punishment. Another article in the Versailles treaty stipulated that "the German government recognizes the right of the Allied powers to bring before military tribunals persons accused of having committed acts in violation of the laws and customs . The German government shall hand over to the Allied powers all persons accused of such offenses."

A list of 900 names, which included almost all of the military and terloo, he surrendered to the captain political leaders of Germany during the war, was prepared in accordance with this article. The publication of this list, which was headed by the names of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg and General Ludendorf, stirred up a violent protest among the people of Germany and the new rulers of that country pleaded with the Allies not to force them to hand

It was then that he declared his preference for death and it is said that Lord Liverpool, the British prime minister, was quite willing to accommodate him, just as millions today would be glad to accommodate Adolf Schickelgruber if he expressed a preference for death to exile or imprisonment. However, delegates from Great Britain, Russia, Austria and Prussia who formed the "Convention of Paris" in 1815 to pass upon Napoleon's war guilt overruled the wish of the British prime minister and the exile to St, Helena was the result. doen't sit down to dinner until after | tile lines of grace. It is just such hats as this that best-dressed women Dinner is apt to be an event. He are choosing to wear with the prettypretty black frocks that are making conversation in the fashion world this summer.

Glamorous sophistication fairly oozes from the black lace hat pictured to the left. The brim turns up at one side, the other side dipping with infinite grace. The manner of tying sheerest of sheer black veiling lace braid, or some other sheer in an under-the-chin arrangement is a characteristic style trend. Many i classic Milan sailors add this flattering veil idea as a perfect gesture in feminine scribed to the movement to keep oneself looking at her loveliest for men in the service. Part of the program of this flattery-wise young womon is to wear a devastatingly pretty lace-trimmed lingerie the picture, a model styled up to the minute with a bow at the throat, these neckline bows being a highspot feature this season. Her generously large off-face bonnet-type hat is made of embroidered pique, with which she wears a veil that is enhanced with circular lace motifs.

The romantic black Milan shown below demonstrates to what extremes big brims are apt to go this season. This model comes from a noted millinery salon. The interesting point that makes appeal is its gorgeous rose trim. There is big news in the vogue that calls for a single full blown rose worn either as a corsage, on the new-mode short-length summer black sheer gown, or as the sole trimming item on the handsome large black hat that complements the black dress. The black costume with full-blown rose accompaniment is definitely a top fashion highlight for this sumpatrician Milan type, or it may be one of the huge brims that is exquisitely sheer.

One of the by-plays that has to do with the present big-brim movement is the clever manner in which milliners are adding an inch more or less to brims by finishing them off with an edging of horsehair braid or black lace or sheer pleatings and ruchings. A word to the wise-take your last year's medium brim Milan, or even your tiny sailor to your favorite milliner, and with artistry and understanding she will add inches to the brim in latest manner, with a bordering of straw media.

THESE orange crate bedside tables are useful and easy to make; they are very decorative, too, when fitted out as illustrated. These were lined with green oil cloth cut, fitted and pasted, as shown. The full skirt pieces were tacked to the top of the sides and lapped a few inches around the back. A top cover with a 3-inch frill was then added. The bedspread is trimmed with 5-inch frills of the muslin and 1-inch straight bands over seams and for the monograms.

NOTE—These bedside tables are from BOOK 7 which also contain 31 other thrifty home making ideas. BOOK 2 contains a complete alphabet for making monograms similar to the one illustrated. Books are 15 cents each. Send your order to

THE STORY SO FAR: The story of | understand it either, and were start | only a little in Mindanao. We could their part in the battle for the Philippines is being told by four of the five mayal officers who are all that is left of Motor Torpedo Boat Squadron 3. They are Lieut. John Bulkeley (now Lieutenant Commander), squadron commander; Lieut. R. B. Kelly, second-in-command; and Ensigns Anthony Akers and George E. Cox, Jr. During a raid against the Japs, the PT boats captured a landing barge and took prisoner a Jap captain and one of his men. But Squadron 3 had also suffered the loss of two of their original six boats, and they were planning to escape to China, when all of their torpedoes were gone, unless help ar-

CHAPTER VIII

"When we went out that night," said Bulkeley, "we didn't dream we were to take our final crack at the Japs off Bataan. I took two boats-Kelly in the 34, riding myself with Akers in the 35-to see if we couldn't bag one of the Jap destroyers which the army could see in Subic Bay. They'd been driven far back, but from the highest ridge of the Bataan mountains they could still look down into Subic with their 20-power binoculars.

"But the admiral had said we weren't to go into the bay. We must coax them outside. The Japs had the bay's rim lined with guns, and it would be suicide. We got outside of Subic about eleven o'clock. All according to plan, Kelly hid his 34 boat in a cove just outside the bay, while I went into the entrance and raised a little hellfired my machine guns so they could see the tracers, hoping a Jap destroyer would follow me out, whereupon Kelly was to come out of the cove and lam a couple of torpedoes into their engine room. It didn't work. The Japs had had all they wanted of us. But just as I was about to leave, I saw from the entrance the outline of a big shiptied to Olongapo dock."

"She was a big one," said Akers, "maybe 10,000 tons. A tanker, we learned the next day. So we turned back, sneaked toward her-there was no fire on us yet-and cut loose two torpedoes. By the time they exploded, we had cleared the mouth of the bay. But from the mountains of Bataan the army watched her burn all night, and in the morning there she was, sunk at her dock."

"They were our last torpedoes fired in defense of Bataan," said "Since December 7 we Bulkeley. had probably sunk a hundred times our own combined tonnage in enemy warships. While we'd lost two of our six boats, neither had been hit by the enemy-both had gone aground in the dark.

"On the way back I realized that we had fired our last torpedoes, except those we would need to fill o tubes for the run to China. And we had just about enough gas to get us there, with hardly a barrel to spare. If we were ever to make the run, we must make it soon. And it was getting plain that we couldn't do much more for Bataan, which was on its last legs."

"I can tell you about the army," said Cox. "I used to get bored at Sisiman Cove and take trips to the front-sometimes up into the outposts. There were a lot of men in uniform on Bataan, but the frontline fighting soldiers consisted, first, of about two thousand Americans, well seasoned and good fighters. Then, about twelve hundred Filipino Scouts-equally well trained and equally good. Lastly, they had in the fighting line about twenty-seven thousand Filipmo trainees-young kids who had never worn a uniform until a few weeks before the war

"Their officers were equally untrained. Toward the end, it was grotesque. Tough, experienced American Regular Army privates would be giving orders to Filipino generals.

Those two thousand Americans and the twelve hundred Scouts were the only real fighting men on Batean, and they were run raggedevery time the Japs punched a hole in the line, these experienced troops would have to be thrown in to plug it-everywhere at once.

Then there was the item of equipment-no spare parts. They had a few tanks left, with their treads falling off. A missing fan belt would put an entire tractor out of the war for want of a tread, a tank would be junk by the roadside.

"That's more or less how it looked to us on March 1," said Kelly. "which is a day I'll never forget. It started off in a curious way-it seemed that General MacArthur wanted to take a ride on one of our boats with Bulkeley. We felt honered, but I couldn't just understand why the General would choose a time like this for a pleasure trip. Still, orders were orders, and even the air force got theirs-or rather what was left of it, which was exactly four decrepit P-40's patched together from the pieces of many oth-

This proud American air force guaranteed us air superiority over that area of the bay while the General was out on the water. The area was only four square miles, and the line only half an hour-about all he superiority this pathetic air force was able to guarantee. While the General was having his ride I was morried—suppose something had Only Bulkeley and I knew that when even I am liable to disappear, with lated right now from your regular suppose something had Only Bulkeley and I knew that when even I am liable to disappear, with lar sugar ration. to China? I could see the men didn't -there was no gasoline there and ing to speculate and gossip.

"But the General explained everything when he returned from the ride, by officially presenting Bulkeley with the order decorating him with the D.S.C. We'd known about it for weeks, but this, it seemed, was the official presentation. He also congratulated the men on the fine work they had done, and handed each a package of eigarettes. It wasn't until that night that Bulkeley told me all this had been camouflage. For that morning the General had called him in and told him of the new plan. China was out for us, all right. Because Washington had made Mac-Arthur Commander in Chief for all the Pacific and ordered him to leave. A submarine had been suggested, but MacArthur had said Bulkeley was the only commanding officer he knew in whom he had complete confidence-he was sailing with Buck. But he'd wanted to make a trial run first, and so added the little ceremony to allay the suspiclons of the men. Because we were leaving Bataan in absolute secrecy and very soon. "Of course to us this means that the China trip-our last hope of seeing America and escaping death or a Japanese prison-was gone forever. Now the MTB's were like the rest here in the islands-the expendables who fight on without hope to the end. So far as we knew, we would now finish up the war in the southern islands, when the Japs got around to mopping up the last American resistance there.

"The minute we knew we were to leave Bataan soon," continued Lieutenant Kelly after a pause, "we got to work on the four boats. We knew the trip would be tough, and the boats were old now. The engines had had double the number of hours' service without their customary thorough overhaul and returning, so they were making half their original speed.

"We planned to scrape the bottoms and overhaul their struts, but this was done for only three. My boat's turn was last, and meanwhile it was used for patrol.

"Overhauling these motors without any replacement parts was a terrible job. For instance. Any tanktown garage which overhauls a flivver back in the States always replaces the gaskets with new ones. Only we didn't have any. Or any sealing compound. So those old gaskets had to be carefully removed, handled as gently as though they were precious lace, and laid back in place when the motors were reassembled.

"But to keep the men occupied and also to keep our secret, we went right on with plans for developing our shore base at Sisiman Cove. We installed a good cook's galley, fixed up the mess hall, screened in everything, as though we hoped to live there for months.

"We even took all our clothes off the boats and moved them into the nipa huts ashore.

"On the fourth of March there came a nice break for me. Peggy got me word that she had been transferred to Little Baguio hospital on Bataan, relieving one of the girls who had been working too long under fire, and I got the idea of inviting her down to our base for chow and to spend the evening. GOD ENCOURAGES MOSES

LESSON TEXT-Exodus 3:13-16; 4:10-GOLDEN TEXT—Certainly I will be with thee.—Exodus 3:12.

Encouragement is something much needed, and not too often given. The word means to put some new thing into the heart of another, that is, to hearten and assure him, especially in the bearing of a heavy responsi-

Moses, in all probability the world's greatest military and national leader, was about to lead his people out from under the mighty hand of Pharaoh. His final preparation for that epochal deed and all the years to follow was a personal meeting with God.

Possibly it was the mistake Moses had made and which caused him to be sent into the back of the desert, that now caused him to move with-

I. Understandable Caution (Exod. 3:13)

There is something remarkably fine about real humility. It commends itself to our thinking as the proper attitude of a mortal being, particularly in the face of spiritual responsibility.

Neither God nor man dares entrust a high and difficult commission to foolish man who brusquely "rushes in where angels fear to over such a responsibility is almost Herbert. a certain indication that he is not the man to assume it.

Moses' request for God's backing must have been acceptable to Him, for He gave Moses-

II. Unlimited Authority (3:14-16). Moses went as God's messenger. He was authorized to put all the majesty and power of the Infinite One behind his words and acts.

The ambassador must have credentials. God's representative has them. When "they shall say"-what an important and difficult situation that creates. The one who speaks for God must expect not only the scornful bitterness of God's enemies, but also the unbelieving questions of those whom he seeks to serve.

'What shall I say?" asks Moses, worn, the knife does not make close and God answers that he may say contact, thus causing heavy draft that "I AM" had sent him. This and uneven cutting. Wear plates name of God reveals Him as the hand, was also on Little Baguio, and can be moved ahead to take up the eternal, independent, self-sufficient, I invited him and his girl friend, too.

"You should have seen my ship or ship or

But Moses seems to have been unable to see beyond his own human infirmity even in the light of such a glorious revelation, supplemented as it was by miraculous powers, and we find him showing an-

III. Unjustified Humility (4:10-13). Perhaps we should not call this humility at all, for in one so divinely called and encouraged it was an act of unbelief and almost impertinence. When God calls a man He knows his limitations. Why then should one plead them as an excuse for not serving? The excuse of Moses that he was not a fluent speaker has been the standby of unwilling workers all through the ages. When asked to lead a prayer meeting, teach a Sunday school class, conduct a young people's meeting, thousands upon thousands have lamely thus excused themselves and missed a blessing. The perfect answer of God (v. 11) merits attention. God made your mouth and mine. He gives us the power of speech. He asks not the eloquence of polished rhetorical phrases, or the flights of man's imagination. He wants but the incomparable eloquence of His own words on our lips.

No man should think too highly of himself, but let him beware lest he think too lowly about God. We are not sufficient for the opportunity. But God is more than sufficient.

Having called Moses, God saw to it that Moses went on with His work, even though now He had to call in Moses' older brother to help him. It was, in fact, an-

IV. Unnecessary Substitution (4:

Loving and patient is our God, but, mark it well, there is a boundary line to that patience. Moses went too far in his needless humility, and really reflected on the ability of God. God promptly substituted Aaron as the spokesman.

Gracious was He in thus providing a helper for Moses. But one wonders what Moses missed of blessing and power because of his slowness of heart. To decline the labor and the responsibility of service for God means loss far greater than we may ever know.

God's dealings with Moses speak eloquently to us of His willingness to enable and use a man who lacked some of the gifts for leadership. Let none of us be like Moses and become involved in needless worry about our gifts, and forget God's purpose and enabling power. When God calls, our gifts are not the controlling factor; in fact, they are not a great factor at all. The question then becomes, Is God able? Let us trust and obey Him.

Ancient Fishing Methods Still Prevalent in Malta

Precisely as did their forebears in biblical days, the inhabitants of the quaint fishing villages of Marsa and Zurrico, on the island of Malta, in the Mediterranean, today follow the life of the fisherman for their livelihood.

Many of the old fishing methods employed in the early days are in use today. The fishermen use a peculiar type of trap attached to their boat, instead of the nets commonly employed.

Fishermen of Malta are happy, now that the Allies dominate the Mediterranean. No longer do they have to fear the Axis aerial attacks to which they were subjected day after day before the rout of Rommel in Africa.

One Bit of Tough Detail That Smith Didn't Mind

Two men worked side by side in a War Production board office. They never spoke, but each watched the other. One man left work daily at four o'clock. The other toiled on till six or later. Some months passed. Then the Allce-Why don't you say some- harder-working of the two approached the other. "I beg your pardon," he said, "but do you mind telling me how you can clean up your work every day at four o'clock?"

"Not at all," said the other man. "When I come to a tough piece of detail, I mark it, 'Refer to Mr. Smith.' I figure that, in a department as large as this, there is sure to be a Mr. Smith. And I must be right; those papers never come back.'

The harder worker started to rehistory shirt instead of my Lat- move his coat.

"Brother," he said, "prepare for action. I'm Mr. Smith."

This Modern Hen Creates Incubator of Her Own

Among the interesting birds on Guadalcanal is the brush fowl, a dark-colored bird about the size of a bantam hen. Instead of setting on her eggs, this mother bird covers them with decaying vegetation. The heat generated by the action of decomposition keeps the eggs at hatching temperature.

The incubation period lasts around 50 days-longer than for any other land bird. As a result, the young have the power of flight as soon as they are hatched.

George Was Graciously Willing to Aid Illiterates

Tired after a difficult day, the American congressman handed the menu to George, the colored waiter, and said: "Here, just bring me a good meal."

He put a generous tip on his plate, and a good meal, indeed, a very good meal, was served in due time.

When it was over the satisfied diner gave a large tip as a good-by gesture. The waiter's eyes grew big, then leaning over the chair of the solon, he said confidentially: "Thank you, sah, an' if you done got any othah frien's what can't read, why you jes' send 'em to me, sah."
