Miami Tailor Bound, Thrown From Machine

Tar And Feathers Used By Three Men In Attack

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 24.—(AP)—Tarred, feathered, bound, gagged and wrapped in a white hooded garment, David Weinberg, 44, a tailor, was hurled from an automobile in the downtown district here last night.

Police attributed the attack to displeasure with Communist beliefs said by Weinberg's acquaintances frequently to have been his subject of conversation. He was thrown from the automobile in a neighborhood where he was well known.

Authorities said his condition was not critical. Weinberg said he was kidnapped from his home about 8 p. m. by three unidentified men, one of whom displayed a badge. He was handcuffed and ordered into an automobile. He told police that he was driven about for some time and then transferred from a coupe into a touring car and was blindfolded, gagged and beaten. He said he was asked questions concerning his ideas of communism and literature which he has in his home.

While blindfolded, he said, they rode probably two hours and then the automobile stopped. He believed the other car was nearby. After being taken from the car he said the handcuffs were unlocked, his ankles and arms bound and his clothing removed. He was ordered to lie down and the coat of tar and feathers were applied. Then he was placed in one of the automobiles and again taken for a long ride before being thrown out.

Weinberg said he had in his home until Monday books and other literature dealing with communism, racial equality religion and other subjects that have been in bitter dispute. He read them, he said but denied he discussed them frequently.

Monday, he said, a young man approached him in a restaurant and asked him about the books. He said the man asked him whether he could know them. Weinberg said he told him he was glad to get rid of them and did not want them around the house.

National Eucharistic Congress Draws Crowd

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 24.—(AP)—Fifty thousand persons had come to Omaha today for the open air ceremonies of the National Eucharistic Congress to be held at the Creighton university stadium tonight.

A pontifical low mass of requiem for deceased members of the priests' eucharistic league, with Bishop Joseph Schrembs of Cleveland, O., as the celebrant, was to open the day. Following it there was to be a solemn pontifical mass for children, celebrated by the Rt. Rev. Patrick A. McGovern of Cheyenne, Wyo.

Bishop Charles D. White of Spokane, Wash., made a plea yesterday for "more active participation of the laity in the eucharistic sacrifice" and for "more frequent and devout assistance at mass." He expressed the opinion that a great number of the laity are "but dimly conscious of the meaning of the eucharist, and regarded themselves as spectators rather than co-officers with the priests."

Ceremonies at the stadium tonight will be broadcast over the Columbia chain, beginning at 8 o'clock, Central time.

Matrimonial News Has Bit Of Variety

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 24.—(AP)—There was variety to the matrimonial news today.

Mrs. Harriet Hartman, 57, and John Batesman, 68, were married in Waynesburg and the clerk presented the ceremony to the couple as a wedding present.

Albert Baker and Julia Mate took out a license to be sailor mates on the matrimonial seas.

And up in Jesette, Chief George Turt announced that inasmuch as the town is in the midst of a campaign against unnecessary noise, anybody caught blowing a horn or tying bells or pans to automobiles after weddings will be arrested.

Fishermen Drawn As Storm Sweeps Coast

LORIENT, France, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Thirty fishermen are known to have drowned in the great storm which lashed the sea north of France last week. It is feared that at least ten others also perished.

More than one hundred boats have not yet returned to port, but most of them are known to be safe. Forty fishing vessels put to sea again today after making repairs.

Trial Reveals Hitler Facing High Treason

Complaint Dates Back More Than Year It Is Learned

LEIPSIK, Bavaria, Sept. 24 (AP)—Accused of treason, Adolf Hitler, leader of the German Fascist Party, was under subpoena today to testify in the trial of three young Reichswehr lieutenants regarding the beliefs and policies of his party.

It was revealed in court, at the time the subpoena was sought by Dr. Frank attorney for the defense of the three men, who are charged with high treason, that Hitler is being charged with high treason also.

Details of charges against Hitler, who is an Austrian although dictator in the second strongest party in the newly elected Reichstag were not disclosed, but the presiding judge would not hear of the subpoena until informed by the state's attorney, as the defense counsel contended, that such a serious charge was being lodged against him.

It was expected he would appear tomorrow, the date set in the subpoena. Defense counsel indicated that he would be asked to state whether fascist policy had not changed since 1923, year of the Munich "beer cellar" putsch. This may involve acknowledgment of denial that he would have his party overthrow the constitution by unconstitutional means.

The three lieutenants, Richard Scheringer, Hans Luden, and Hans Friedrich Wendt used yesterday's appearance in court as opportunity to expound their theories of irresponsibility of the past German governments.

"We could have no confidence in a government which is permanently fascist and neglects the true interests of the nation," their spokesman told the court.

They are charged with implantation of fascist cells in the German army with the intention of overthrowing the constitution.

First mention of the charges against Hitler came yesterday afternoon in the midst of the trial of the three officers on charges of high treason. The defense attorney, Dr. Frank, asked that Hitler be subpoenaed to testify and possibly to exonerate the accused officers. He declared:

"Behind the charge against these Reichswehr officers looms like a storm the menace that the national socialists are planning to overthrow the government or the constitution and that the accused were merely tools used by the party to undermine the Reichswehr."

YEAR OLD

BERLIN, Sept. 24 (AP)—Excitement over revelations that Adolf Hitler, German fascist generalissimo, has a high treason charge pending against him was lessened considerably today when the Reichswehr ministry divulged that the complaint dated back more than a year.

The offense charged is in connection with an article appearing in his Voelischer Beobachter, official mouthpiece of the fascist movement.

FOUR MILLIONAIRES TEACHING SCHOOL

DENVER, (INS)—The lowly profession of teaching has at last come into its own in Colorado. Four Denver millionaires are teaching in institutions of higher learning in this state.

The latest millionaire recruit to the teaching profession is John D. Clark, former president of the Midwest Refining company here and former Cheyenne, Wyo., attorney. Clark has been appointed a member of the Denver university teaching staff. He has been given a year's absence to complete his work for a Ph. D. at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore.

Paul T. Mayo is another Denver millionaire who is a member of the Denver university faculty. He recently resigned his position in the diplomatic service to enter the teaching profession.

James Flagg Brown II, recently returned from Berlin, where he went to study psychology on a Yale scholarship. He will teach this winter in the University of Colorado at Boulder.

Thomas P. Campbell, son of the late Richard Crawford Campbell, and grandson of the late Senator Thomas M. Patterson, inherited more than a million dollars. He has for several years been assistant professor of metallurgy at the Colorado School of Mines at Golden.

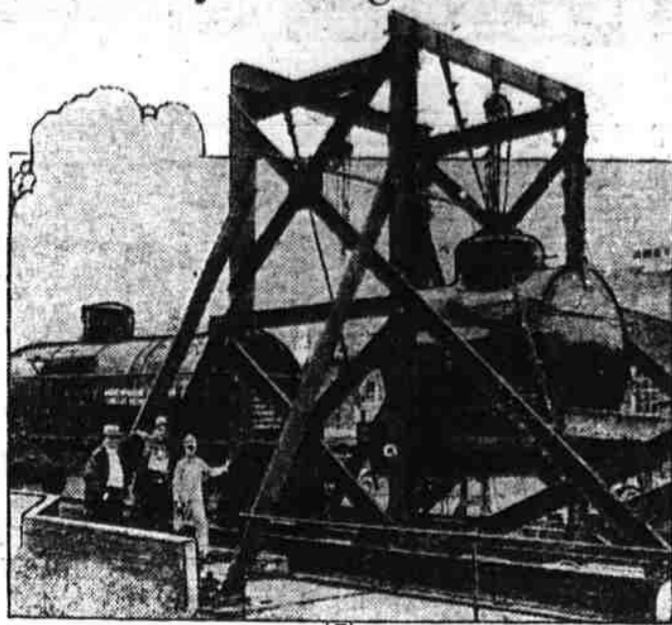

WOMAN KILLS RECORD SIZE RATTLESNAKE

NORFOLK, Conn. (INS)—Mrs. Benjamin Brown drove over to Cannon Mountain to meet her husband supervisor of promptly met with a rattlesnake. A few minutes later she presented the snake, dead to her husband. It was five feet, four inches long, and had twelve rattles. Rattles are common in the wilds here but Mrs. Brown's catch is a record-breaker.

WHITE POLICE DOG PUZZLES EXPERTS

DENVER, (INS)—Hereditary experts are busy with the problem of compiling any possible system of chromosome "crossing overs" that would account for the presence of a pearl white police pup when his parents and the other seven members of his litter all bear normal police dog markings. But the scientific problem centered in his snowy coat evidently worries the pup not in the least since he revels in the excessive attention that the lot draw "frank."

Tank Cars Banged Together To Try Strength Of Valves

Ability of tank car valves to resist swish of liquid inside the car when train stops is tested at Purdue university by swinging small tank (right) against tank car.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Sept. 24.—(AP)—One way of keeping young is to pick up a loaded 4,000-gallon railroad tank car and swing it against another to see whether the valves will hold fast.

There is only one place in the United States where this is done—at Purdue university. The work is under supervision of Prof. G. A. Young, head of the school of mechanical engineering, in cooperation with the American Railway Association and the American Petroleum Institute.

The bumps simulate those of actual traffic. While a tank shunting around the yard appears to have a prosaic enough life, its liquid "inwards" are said to be subjected to terrific strains. The liquid may surge out anywhere from the outlet valve in the bottom to the safety valve in the dome.

The swinging tank holds about one-seventh the cargo of a regulation tank, and is minus its running gear, being a cross-section of full-sized tank. It hangs from a heavy steel frame. It is filled with water, pulled back and released to bang into a full-sized car. This effect is the same as bumping of cars when a train stops.

Each valve has to stand fifteen of these whanging bumps. Then it is opened and closed 50 times while there is metal scale in the water. This scale ordinarily forms in tanks and as the cargo flows out might jam further valve action.

Finally a "leg" made for the out-prosaic enough life, its liquid "inwards" are said to be subjected to terrific strains. The liquid may surge out anywhere from the outlet valve in the bottom to the safety valve in the dome.

LEAVES 1 CATS, 7 DOGS AT JAPANESE PALACE

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Mrs. Charles Burnett, an American woman who organized the Japanese Humane society, left seven dogs and 11 cats at the imperial palace in Tokio when she returned to this country.

Knowing her love for animals the Japanese were constantly making Mrs. Burnett gifts of prize canines and tabbies.

It was through her friendship with Baroness Takeko Kujo, sister-in-law of the present Empress Dowager, that Mrs. Burnett was able to do so much rescue work for Japanese animals. The Baroness gave her support to the project.

BRYAN'S DAUGHTER SAYS WOMEN CAN END WAR

DENVER, (INS)—Women can end wars if they will use their votes properly. Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan, said on her recent visit to Denver enroute to Yellowstone Park.

The Florida congresswoman was greatly encouraged over the success of the Interparliamentary congress in London, to which she was a delegate.

FARMER AND HIS WIFE PRAISE IT

JUST SEND 'EM TO ME ABOUT ARGOTANE FOR THIS MEDICINE IS A KNOCK-OUT, DECLARES W. T. SHELTON.

East, West, North, and South, all over Texas, Argotane is the talk of the State. People by the thousands are now taking this famous medicine that is creating such a sensation at all points.

Statements such as the following from E. Shelton, of 420 Ave. E., Lubbock, Texas, well known retired farmer, while apparently amazing are heard on all sides every day.

"I believe Mr. Argotane is the best medicine that ever came to Lubbock - it's a knock-out. I would not take $100.00 for what the first bottle has done for my wife and she pruned it every day and will continue to do so for many a day for it has put her in the best of health again."

"I tell you after every meal she used to be bloated up with gas as tight as a drum and have sharp shooting pains through her stomach. I seemed like she couldn't digest a thing she would eat."

"Constipation caused her no end of trouble and she was bothered with biliousness and felt sluggish and tired all the time. Her sleep wasn't good either and she just felt pretty much all in."

"Well, sir, when she began taking Argotane this medicine lost no time in getting right down to the roots of her troubles, and now at last I have her up so she can put whatever she pleases and lots of it about as much of gas pains, stomach aches, indigestion, etc., as she wants."

"I know dozens of people right here in this town who praise and recommend Argotane. I don't want to recommend this medicine to everybody. Just send 'em to me about it."

By ROBBIN COONS. HOLLYWOOD—Musicians playing on a set in a picture are among the relics of silent picture days seldom seen in Hollywood now.

The talkie demand for silence while shooting has practically eliminated set music, except that which is to be recorded, and the poor stars and starlets have to do their weeping unassisted.

But Herbert Brenon still has three musicians constantly on hand while he is rehearsing and directing. One of them was in the quartet that served similarly for "Beau Geste" five years ago, and the others have been in his employ about three years.

Brenon believes that delicate music, even though it must be played for a take, enhances the actors, camera-men, and all other set-workers, breaking the monotony and strain of long hours.

Lon Chaney, before he died, kept with him the two brothers who had played for him for years, even during the making of his first and only talkie. It was they who played at the star's funeral.

Charlie Chaplin is one of the few actors remaining who emote to music, his picture being without dialog, and I have seen Norma Talmadge work herself to a high emotional pitch by music before the microphones were registering. But for the most part the set-musicians have faded into the background.

Incidentally, and irrelevantly, another sight worthy of small headlining is that of a star actually autographing a portrait for a fan. I've caught Gary Cooper, Anita Page, Ivan Lebedeff and a few others doing that occasionally, but it's a majority of fan portraits are "autographed" by studio attaches of the "fan department."

Physiologists studied the complex changes which food substances undergo in the body when they are ingested and assimilated. Chemists evolved tests for discovering and measuring the presence of sugar in the blood and in the urine.

Pathologists (those scientists particularly interested in the body changes associated with disease) pointed out that in diabetes a particular part of the pancreas is involved.

Finally, a young Canadian physician, Dr. Banting, in 1922, demonstrated insulin as a most effective agent in the treatment of diabetes.

It is literally impossible to count up all the scientists who contributed to its discovery.

Dr. Banting, through whom the ages' search for a treatment of diabetes was achieved, properly acknowledged his debt to them.

The discovery of insulin, on the other hand, illustrates still another point, to wit: That the conquest of any disease does not depend upon discoveries of medicine alone, but also upon the intelligent cooperation of the public.

Despite the fact that insulin is an effective remedy for diabetes, there has been an increase in the death rate due to the disease.

The Dancing Silhouette

By NATALIE SUMNER LINCOLN. Jack murdered a man whom he has known for years, who acted as his guardian in my absence from this country. A man we have none of us seen for fully two years—oh, Jack! Winslow's scorn cut like a whiplash.

Mitchell's eyes had a curious gleam in them. "Thanks, Mr. Winslow," he began mockingly. "You have just given me the very information I wished; the relationship between the dead man and Jack Winslow—there I will find the motive for Kane's murder."

Mrs. Winslow dropped down in the nearest chair; she felt, for once, incapable of speech. It was Inspector Mitchell who broke the pause.

"Now, sir," addressing Winslow directly and ignoring the others, "suppose you tell me where we can locate your adopted son?"

But Winslow had pulled himself together; gone was every trace of passion; it was the suave man of the world who replied.

"That information, sir, you can deduce for yourself," meeting Mitchell's staring gaze with an impenetrable smile. "Knowing Jack, I can confidently promise that he will face the situation in person and confute his enemies. Neither my wife nor I, sir, are well; I must ask you to retire, Lambert," raising his voice as he glimpsed the butler loitering outside the hall door. "Show Inspector Mitchell out. Good night, sir."

With a profound bow, which checked all in the room, Mitchell left them, and Winslow turned feverishly to Thorne.

"Have you learned nothing about 'Elsa Chase'?" he asked. "I know what she testified," touching a newspaper on the floor with his foot; then, with a complete change of voice, "The coroner insinuated she once lived in Boston—could it be true, man, that she's linked up with Kane?"

"What way?" he asked. "What manner of man was this Dr. Kane?"

"With women," Winslow shrugged his shoulders—"none too good. Do you suppose," his voice rose higher in his excitement, and Lucy, the housemaid, passing down the hall from arranging Mrs. Winslow's bedroom for the night, caught what he said, "there was a love affair?"

"Involving Miss Chase?" "Did you tell her that Dr. Kane was expected here Monday night?"

"No," Winslow rose and paced the floor with restless, tired steps. "But then, if those two were—hesitatingly in his speech suggestively, "Kane would have told her he was coming and she would have had time to plot against him. Off with the old love, you know, before you are on with the new—there's a motive, Thorne."

"Well, but the poison used," the detective was studying Mrs. Winslow. "The poison," went on Thorne, becoming conscious that Winslow and his wife were waiting for him to compete his sentence; "the poison used certainly precluded the possibility of Miss Chase being involved in the murder."

Winslow shook his head vigorously. "Nonsense," he objected. "There's the nurse, Miss Kline—she knows chemistry."

"Beg pardon," the interruption came from the open door and all three wheeled in that direction to find Miss Kline regarding them from the threshold of the hallway. "Miss Kline would be very glad to see Mr. Thorne if he will stop in the music room on his way out; with your permission, sir, with a deferential glance at Winslow."

"By all means," Winslow rubbed his hands together as he turned with eagerness to the detective. "Go at once, Thorne, I'll see you later. Mrs. Winslow rose and threw her arms around his neck. "Jack, oh, Jack," she moaned and burst into tears. "What madness to run away!"

The great log in the fireplace in the music room were burning brilliantly and Elsa wheeled her chair dexterously along the wall until she had switched off all the electric lamps, the fire light suited her mood, giving her a sense of warmth and comfort. She was back in her place by the chimney corner when Thorne entered the long room.

At first he did not see her, partly hidden as she was by the high back of a wing chair, but when he did he still did not hit her by his footsteps, preferring to take a leisurely look at the beautiful furniture, the handsome tapestries and curious in cabinets.

"You sent for me," he began softly, after waiting an appreciable moment for her to address him. "What can I do for you, Miss Chase?"

Elsa looked up and scanned him closely. Thorne's features were too rugged to be called actually handsome, but his dark, penetrating eyes under his heavy brows, his broad forehead with his black hair brushed carelessly across it indicated strength of character and an intelligence above the average. In the past forty-eight hours it had been Thorne he had noticed picking his unobtrusive way among them all missing nothing, saying nothing; it was Thorne she had grown to dread—as an enemy.

"The inquest was absurd, farcical," she exclaimed. "And yet the newspapers took it seriously and they have dared picture Jack as a suspect." Her eyes blazed up at him, challengingly. "Jack is not guilty, Mr. Thorne."

Thorne is plunged full into the midst of a new mystery in tomorrow's chapter.

Beauty Contest Tonight At Casino

Out-of-Town Judges Will Select Winner At Revue

A "Parade of Pulchritude" will take place tonight at the Casino Dance Hall, in which Big Springs most beautiful girl will be selected from a large revue of Big Springs' most attractive young women, under the direction of David Dallas.

The pageant is being sponsored by local Beauty Shops and Exclusive Ladies Ready-to-Wear Shops. A dance will be given before and after the revue. Music will be furnished by Jack Free and his nine piece orchestra. The revue will be staged at 10:30 p. m., according to Mr. Dallas.

"Miss Big Spring" will receive a free trip to Lake Wichita, Wichita Falls, Tex., where she will compete for the title of "Miss Greater West Texas." She will also be entered in the "Queen of the West" pageant which will be staged at Carlsbad, N. M., and will receive a free trip through the Carlsbad Cavern, in which Fox Movietone will be made under the direction of L. E. Orr.

Miss McRea Not To Enter Casino Beauty Contest

Mrs. T. E. Baker wishes to announce that Miss Nellou McRea will not enter the contest tonight for the title of "Miss Big Spring" as has been stated in the stories quoted from David Dallas, editor of the Herald, in Mr. Dallas' announcement of yesterday. It was stated that Miss McRea would represent Mrs. Baker's Ready-to-Wear Shop. According to Mrs. Baker, Miss McRea has no intention of entering the contest and never has had.

SAYS AMERICAN MEN AND WOMEN DRESS BEST

PARIS (INS)—American men are the best dressers in the world. This is the opinion of one of them, Major Clarence P. Miceil, who is spending some time here, studying the textile and woolen industries. "They have an individuality all of their own, something allied to the 'chic' of French women," says Major Miceil, "an indefinable something of good taste which everyone wants. The American women, too, are also the world's best dressers. The American visitor, as every other one who comes to France, was amazed to find the French men so far out-distanced by their women when it comes to dress, the French men being perhaps the least smart of any European dressers. He was also amused at the idea that Europeans attribute the cause for soft knickers to Americans explaining that the well-dressed American man seldom wears trousers even on the golf greens. With three-fourths of the American tourists wearing them on the streets, it doesn't seem surprising that Europeans get this idea. Major Miceil believes that full evening dress will return to vogue in America and also that the textile industry must get busy and provide new shades and colors for men's clothes.

Adventurous Priest Describes Alaskan Volcano

By L. C. OWEN International News Service Special Correspondent SANTA CLARA, Cal.—Towering walls, 3,000 feet high and "straight up and down," Splashes of brilliant colorings—Vermilion, orange, cerise, canary yellow and ochre; surpassing even the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. A great natural amphitheatre, five miles across and 21 miles in circumference.

In the center a great, belching volcano, bigger than the famed Mt. Vesuvius, but appearing almost pigmy and inconsequential because of the tremendously gigantic surroundings.

This was the picture of "The Aniakchak," world's largest known volcanic crater located on the Alaskan peninsula, told by the Rev. Father Bernard Hubbard S. J., famous "Glacier Priest," who with four students from Santa Clara College explored it this summer.

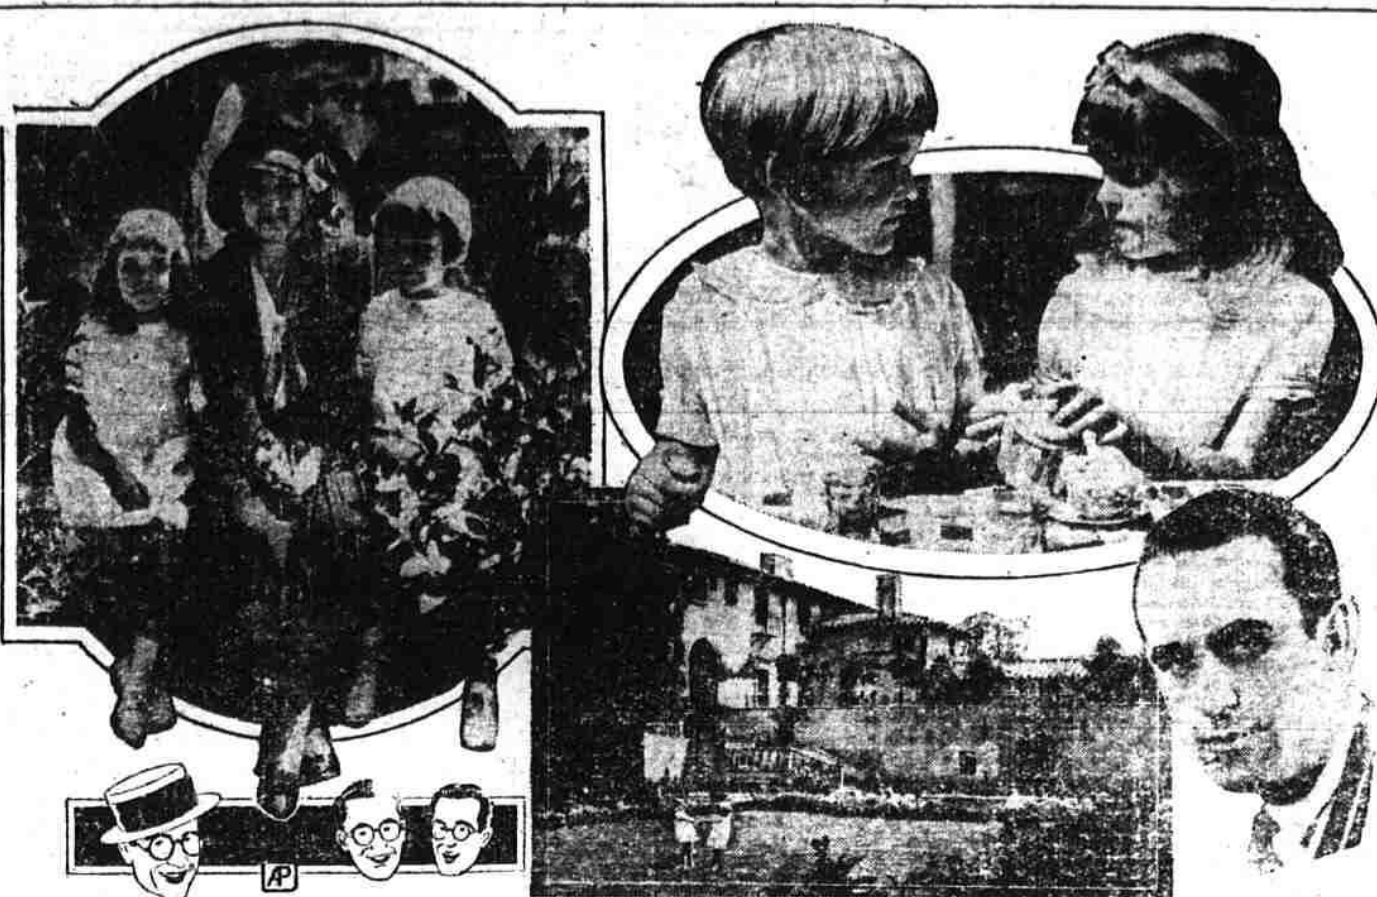

"Probably no place on earth compares in tremendous size and impressiveness with 'The Aniakchak,'" said Father Hubbard. "It is so huge that the constant impression is one of respectful awe. Were it more accessible, it would be one of the great show places of the world.

"But it is in one of the wildest and most unexplored regions of Alaska. We were the first to ever explore it. The crater itself is surrounded by high mountains. From them pours a swift river, through a narrow gash cut through walls of almost solid rock. By following the rocky and sometimes perilous right bank of this river, we managed to get into 'The Aniakchak' itself.

The "Glacier Priest" and his party also visited and explored the Volcanicoff crater, only slightly smaller than "The Aniakchak" and also on the Alaskan Peninsula.

An Orphan Yesterday, A Million Dollar Princess Today

BY HUBBARD KEAVY (Associated Press Staff Writer) HOLLYWOOD (AP)—An orphan yesterday and a million dollar princess today.

That is the story of little Peggy, who has been adopted by Harold Lloyd, screen comedian, and Mrs. Lloyd, the former Mildred Davis. They took Peggy into their home and made her their daughter to be a companion and playmate for six-year-old Gloria Lloyd.

woman, who has given her fortune and most of her life to caring for homeless and abandoned children.

Peggy was her 16th child. In 14 years Mrs. Sullivan has reared and cared for, unaided in any way, that many boys and girls. Peggy was her favorite and she refused to give her up.

The Lloyds took Peggy and rechristened her Marjorie Elizabeth and the proceedings to make her legally their daughter will be completed within a few weeks.

One of the first instructions given when Peggy came to live with the Lloyds was that each child must be treated alike, that no favors were to be given Gloria that were not also given Peggy. All the toys and clothes and dolls and books that Gloria owns were duplicated for Peggy.

likes books," Gloria murmured. "An swim but I don't," says Peggy. "I'm going to learn how. Gloria's going to teach me. She can swim from one end of the pool to the other already."

Gloria is bashful and shy because she never had a playmate before. Peggy is friendly and more talkative because she usually had a dozen or more other children to play with at Mrs. Sullivan's home. Gloria is an inch or two taller than Peggy. Both have blond hair. Gloria's bangs in long curls but Peggy's is straight and bobbed short.

CHILDREN ARE PLACED ON "WATER WAGON"

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (INS)—Local school children have been placed on the water wagon! The school board made the announcement. It was not because the children have actually violated or even have intention to violate the eighth amendment "when they get bit."

It was because of the scarcity of water due to the prolonged drought. On several occasions tank trucks and railroad cars hauled drinking water here from other less-affected sections. Now the existing supply, still dangerously low, has been so heavily treated with chloring that it has a nasty taste.

The only alternative was to resort to spring water and the board decided to haul water to the schools from the private wells. The children cheer each wagon load.

STEERS POINT TO FRAY WITH EAGLES

Strength Of Squad Found In Defense

Being rather good at working puzzles, we cannot understand why it is we can't fathom the Angelo scribe. In his case, the moving finger writes—but what it writes. He that so boosted the stock of the season started, now raises a hur and a cry because the Sweetwater Mustangs have been rated as the "underdogs" in the impending San Angelo-Sweetwater battle. Friday The Bobcats, because they didn't beat Reton 38 to 0, should have that title, allows Mr. Cross. Just to provide a bit of amusement on account of it being against news-papers rather than a team, we refer to the line of argument, to wit and even viz: "The Mustang mentors and Sweetwater newspaper have started in the groundwork for some heavy psychology. Despite Sweetwater's having skunked Reton 38 to 0, while the best of the Bobcats have done so about Big Lake 17 to 0 and Ballinger 20 to 0, they're telling the Sweetwater team that it is much the underdog and only a world of 't will stave off defeat. Judging by the comparative scores and the lethargic showing of the Cats Saturday, San Angelo and NOT Sweetwater is on the short end of the odds." Which is a very intelligent discussion of an intelligent subject. BUT, in the same edition the "chances of the Bobcats to whip the Oilbit" are discussed. What we can't understand is why Cross, Wes Hodges and Jinx Tucker don't merge and open up a delicatessen.

The Fort Worth-Big Spring game has been arranged. Jim Payne thought of baseball here to put up a cash guarantee of $250 to bring the Dixie Champions here this Sunday for a game. The fray will get away at 3 p. m. on standard time. Practically in the entire aggregation, we understand it is making the barnstorming tour. For once, maybe, the ushers of Dusty D. will earn the title. We predict a large crowd will see the Panthers in action. We've made similar predictions before.

Tickets for the Abilene Special went on sale today, or should it. George Gentry is watching his horses. The cost, as said before, is $2.15 the round trip take and there are being sold back. Miss Polly Web, one of the pep squad members, informs that the squad will make the trip to the West Texas "Athens" and control it for a few hours. A band will be on the train. School officials are not expecting much trouble in obtaining the $200 necessary to obtain the special. At least 500 Big Spring residents should purchase tickets and make the trip. On account of Hoover Prosperity not being any too heavy on Monday, it should be easy to talk the boss into getting away for the day. As a matter of fact, the boss himself should reserve a seat on the steam wagon and gallop over the prairie to the Taylor County grounds. It is going to take about everything Big Spring has to offer to win the impending conflict from Deway Mayhew's high soaring Eagles. There are hundreds of reasons why you should go, but not one why you shouldn't so far as we have been able to ascertain.

The West Texas Fall will be opened at Abilene Monday and the grid battle will be one of the chief attractions of the day. Abilene would appreciate a large crowd from Big Spring, but the Steers would appreciate it more. There is something worth while, perhaps for the various luncheon clubs to ponder over.

Every evening just at twilight we skip across the county to the Steer corral and look over the products of Stevens, Brown et al. Every day they look better and more. This fellow Hopper, who is green at the gridiron game, but who is learning with much rapidity, seems to expand with the days. We took a photo of the team that will go up against the Eagles and Hopper spread out so much it looks like our back yard on wash day. If we had a back yard and anything to launders with our personal supervision, incidentally, the Abilene scribe attempts to belittle your secret because we are in a hurry to have it at the beginning of each football season. Can we help it because we are in such demand? We ask you but don't require an answer. With hot beef sandwiches in cents per sandwich, like they are in Abilene territory, Mr. Anderson should not feel an easy that some day he will come nosing in the three flights and find us reclining in his territory.

The Great Grimes has returned to the San Angelo fold. Like the bad boy that went scurrying down the railway tracks in an known region, Grimes came plowing back and topped into his so-called uniform. Hisset coming by chastised him and welcomed him to the same berth. Old L. L. therneck would have returned when the Steers get through with the Bobcats he will use the day he changed his mind and didn't keep right on out of the Concho territory.

The Mineral Wells scribe says Big Spring was lucky to win over the Mountaineers. Which is the next best joke to Prexy Anderson saying the Mountaineers would win 50 to 0. By the Way, of the Range Times, says Anderson picked the Mountaineers to top and then called it an upset for the Steers to win. Such is the case. Hanshaw is on his way back, it is here. The behemoth lineum

Jackrabbits' Should Click Against Mayhew Contingent

With a string of defeats at the hands of the Abilene high school Eagles trailing behind them over a period of years, the Big Spring Steers daily are pounding into shape to clash again with the enemy to the east, with before them the bright opportunity in history to whip the Mayhew crew.

Their first start of the year a success, the Steers are in a receptive mood. What they would like is more of the same. One thing is strongly in their favor. From the first days without the Steers have been pointing to the Abilene fall, the feat of the opening day of the West Texas Fair.

This year the Steers will invade the Eagles' stronghold with a battering line, and a fleetly backfield. The power of the forward wall has not been overestimated. It is believed. At times during the Mineral Wells-Fox Spring contest it showed signs of giving away, and it is true that several first downs were poked up through the forward division. But it is equally true that when the ball was worked down into dangerous territory, it tightened and held three times to be exact.

Jackrabbits' secondary composed of Flowers, Rogers, Neal, Mims and Kidwell working in unison, it is to be expected that the Eagles will at least have their fists full taking care of the fleetly ones. Probably the Steers' weakest link is the aerial attack. Phillips can control his punting to a safe distance with any of the teams in the district.

The Eagles of 1929 or even 1929. A glaring history stares up at them from the past, but their 1930 fate does not carry the name of the season. Not by a long shot, it is the usual, they have the elephantine appearance. They're hefty and big. But so is Big Spring for that matter. When it comes down to a question of weight, it is general accepted there won't be such a big difference in the scale average between the two lines that will take the field Monday. The backfield average, however, will be tossed over the Abilene side.

The Steers will go to Abilene on a special train to leave here early Monday morning.

Woman 'Anointed' By Faith Healer

HOUSTON, Sept. 24 (AP)—An elderly trained nurse brought here in an airplane to try the "spirit healing" of the Rev. Raymond T. Richey, an evangelist, was "feeling pretty good today" after her first anointment at the Rev. Richey's hand, her sister, Mrs. Laura E. Lindsay, reported.

The nurse, Miss Intha Bird, of Abilene, 53-year-old career sufferer, in the presence of hundreds last night at the Richey Tabernacle went under the evangelist's "prayer treatment." The preacher and his assistants gathered about her cot. Anointing her with oil, the Rev. Richey bade her raise her right hand and praise God. She did, forcing a wailed cry upward.

CONNIE MACK HIS 50 YEARS IN BASEBALL

No. 9—The March Of Mack Some of baseball's most dramatic and spectacular history was being made while the Athletics of pre-war vintage were the toast of Quaker town.

Walter Johnson, "Big Barney" the smoke-ball king, was in his prime, single-handed pitching Washington into a contending position by marvelous mound work that earned him as high as 36 victories in the season of 1913. Johnson once hurled three successive shutouts against the New York Yankees, causing Kid Elberfeld to remark on the fourth day:

"If that blankety-blank from Idaho pitches again, none of us will have any job left."

Ty Cobb, too, was at the zenith of his unparalleled career as an all-around star with the Detroit Tigers. Starting in 1910, after the introduction of the cork-center ball, Cobb burned up the American League with a five-year streak in which he averaged 400 at bat. The great Georgian hit his high mark with 429 in 1911, when Shoeless Joe Jackson, then just a Carolina rookie with the Cleveland "Naps," pushed him by hitting 408.

The Boston Red Sox had a great array, featuring the remarkable outfield of Tris Speaker, Harry Hooper and Duff Lewis, as well as a fine pitching staff headed by Smokey Joe Wood. The Sox were the only club able to check the championship run of the Athletics in their own league, winning the pennant in 1912 and thereby preventing the Mackmen from setting a record of five in a row.

The year of 1912 produced the most astonishing set of pitching performances any baseball season has known, with records for consecutive victories being achieved by three moundsmen.

Topping the list was Richard W. "Rube" Marquard, left-hander, who came up to the New York Giants from Indianapolis of the American Association highly touted, only to be labeled "the $10,000 lemon" when he failed to show anything in 1909.

He struck his stride in 1911, leading the league's pitchers with 24 victories, and in 1912 started the season with 19 consecutive triumphs. The Rube was unbeaten from April 11 through July 3 as he equaled the all-time record of Tim Lincecum, made in 1888, and established a modern mark.

The American League subsequent witnessed a thrilling duel between Joe Wood and Walter Johnson. It ended with each winning 16 straight games for a new league record. Johnson was unbeaten from July 3 to August 23. Wood from July 3 to September 15. The Red Sox ace led the hurling list with a final total of 33 victories and only 5 defeats, for a winning percentage of .872 that has never been touched in either major league.

Chief Bender nearly equalled Wood's and Johnson's records when he won 15 straight; for the Athletics in 1914.

The New York Giants, three-straight pennant winners, were king-pins in the National league, but were beaten back as many times by their American league rivals twice by the Athletics and once by the Red Sox in the hectic eight-game battle of 1912.

Mack had gained revenge over McGraw in 1911 for the humiliation of being shut-out four times in a sensational 2 to 1 opener to the 1911 series, but he was beaten twice afterward. Two home runs by Frank Baker were contributing factors to the victory of the Athletics, who finally won four out of six games after the series had been delayed a solid week by rain.

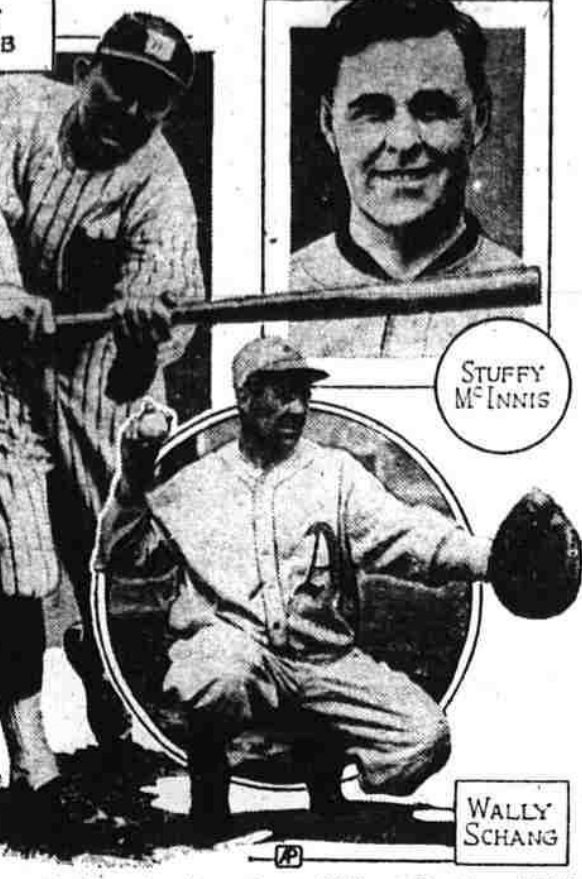

One of the early incidents of "player-writing" complications developed in this series. The first of Baker's home runs helped beat Rube Marquard in an early game, whereupon Mathewson's "ghost" in the pitcher's signed newspaper article, took the Rube sharply to task for pitching improperly to the slinging third baseman of the Athletics.

Marquard was "sore," but he had ample revenge. It was Mathewson's turn to pitch the next day and Baker again connected for a homer to decide the contest.

Another incident in this series gave eloquent testimony to Mack's fine sportsmanship. It happened after the Giants had won a tight game, Larry Doyle racing home with the winning run on a sacrifice drive to Danny Murphy, whose throw to the plate was too late to catch the New York second baseman. It was unnoticed at the time by players, but Bill Klein, umpire behind the plate, later told a newspaperman Doyle had not touched the plate at all and could have been more alert and protested.

The story was quickly carried to Mack. It was suggested he file a protest. "The Giants won that game fairly and squarely. I won't protest. The Athletics do not want to win any games on technicalities." The Athletics, after their slump of 1912, were back at the top in 1913 with a slightly revamped lineup. John (Stuffy) McInnis had replaced Harry Davis at first base,

TY COBB, STUFFY MCINNIS, WALLY SCHANG

Amos (Billiken) Struck and Eddie Murphy were in the outfield, Wally Schang behind the bat with the veteran Jack Lapp, and Joe Bush, a useful addition to the hurling staff, along with Bob Shawkey. Herb Penneck was just a rookie.

Again Mack outgeneraled McGraw in the world's series. It took the As only five games to win the championship. Mathewson scoring the only triumph for the Giants in a 10-inning duel with Eddie Plank. When the Athletics won the pennant again in 1914, it looked as though nothing could stop the march of Mack. But it was the year of big upstarts. The world war broke out and the Athletics, soundly thrashed in four straight games, by the Braves in the world's series, were broken up.

Blame Death Of Railroad Head On Gray

Coroner's Verdict Is Returned After Fatal Shooting

BALTIMORE, Sept. 24 (AP)—Shooting to death of the president of the Western Maryland railway by a vice-president of the road who then took his own life was ascribed today to friction over matters of policy in connection with the road.

A coroner's verdict declared Dudley G. Gray, vice-president in charge of traffic, shot and killed Maxwell C. Byers, the president, and fatally wounded himself. The two men were found in the president's office a pistol lying at Gray's side.

Expect Sharkey-Campolo Battle To Cause Loss

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Officials of Madison Square Garden are hoping for the best, but are fully prepared to take a big loss on the 15-round bout they are promoting between Jack Sharkey and Victorio Campolo at the Yankee Stadium tomorrow night.

All efforts to arouse a long-suffering boxing public to the merits, whatever they may be, of the bout have failed and indications are the gate will not exceed the $100,000 guaranteed Sharkey.

Sharkey, who climaxed a series of disappointing performances by fouling Max Schmelling, seems to have lost all of his one-time powers as a drawing card. Campolo, in the few battles he has had in this country, has gained no hold on popular imagination.

The Boston sailor, despite a lethargic training campaign, rules a 2 to 1 favorite to beat the big Argentine. Campolo can hit with his right hand and no one has doubted his courage but he seems too awkward and slow to hold Sharkey on anything approaching easy terms. His only chance for victory, in short, appears to lie in the leading of one of those devastating right hands.

Football Rule Changed By Body

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 24 (AP)—Members of the National Football Rules committee have approved in a telephonic vote a change in rule seven, section six, article one on page 31 of the 1930 football guide, eliminating the defensive team's alternative in putting a punted ball into play and defining when a ball shall be considered dead.

Dr. F. A. Lambert, Columbus, member of the national committee, announced the alteration, which reads as follows:

"If a player on the team which last kicked the ball so touches or recovers it, the opponents may put it in play either at the spot where the ball was touched or where the ball becomes dead. If the kicking team recovers the ball it is dead at the point of recovery."

Before the change the article read:

"If a player on the team which last kicked the ball so touches or recovers it, the opponents must put it in play either at the spot where the ball was touched or where the ball becomes dead. If the kicking team recovers the ball, it is dead at the point of recovery."

Robins Drop Out Of Natl. League Race

Cubs Three Games Behind St. Louis Cards

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR. (Associated Press Sports Writer) With the American League title firmly settled in the hands of the Philadelphia Athletics, the National League has eliminated the last surviving Eastern contender, leaving the St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago Cubs to battle out for the championship.

The Brooklyn Robins dropped out of the race yesterday as they took an 8 to 2 beating from the New York Giants while the League leading Cardinals again triumphed over the last place Phillies by a 19 to 10 count.

This final touch of the season's inter-sectional play gave the Western club 183 victories to 163 for the East. In the American League, the clubs from the Atlantic seaboard came out with 202 victories and 150 defeats.

Just as the Athletics surpassed their American League rivals, the Cardinals now appear to be the dominating team of the elder circuit. Yesterday's victory in the slugfest which produced 26 hits for the winners and 16 for the defeated Phils put them three full games ahead of the idle Cubs and brought the record of their climb up to 29 victories in 36 games.

The Giants gained a virtual tie with Brooklyn for third place and today the four clubs stand as follows:

Club W. L. Pct. Gms. B'nd To Play
St. Louis..... 89 61 .593.....
Chicago..... 86 64 .573..... 3 1
Brooklyn..... 84 66 .560..... 5 4
New York..... 85 67 .559..... 5 2

As the American League had a day of idleness, the Athletics spent the afternoon watching the antics of their respective rivals and the last-place Phils. Off to an 11-0 lead in four innings, the Cards romped through the last of the game. The losers furnished the game's features, one a homer with the bases full by Tony Rensa, the other an unexpected show of fielding which produced two neat double plays.

Brooklyn sent Dazzy Vance against the Giants. But Fred Fitzsimmons had the better of the dazzer, who fell before a five hit assault in the fifth inning which produced four runs and a victory. Fitz allowed only six hits, and two homers scored the only Brooklyn runs in the game.

The Cincinnati Reds stepped out of their character as consistent losers to take a double header from the Pittsburgh Pirates. Jackie may give the Pirates only three hits, in the first contest to gain an 8 to 0 shutout. The Reds won the second 5 to 12.

Mystery Plane Owner Jailed By Officials

SHAWNEE, Okla., Sept. 24 (AP)—Although a fine of $500 assessed against him for carrying concealed weapons had been paid, George P. Hazelton still was in the county jail here today in connection with the "mystery" plane which for several days had used a cow pasture southeast of here for a landing field.

Placed in jail Monday when he refused to pay the fine, Hazelton was denied his freedom last night although the money was paid by an uncle, A. J. Jensen of Tulsa. Officers said he would be held pending an investigation into the plane by officials of the department of commerce. If the investigation is not made today Hazelton will be released, Charles Liddell, under sheriff, said.

Hazelton was taken into custody when he appeared in the plane. A farmer on whose pasture the plane was located reported to officers the ship had made several flights from his place, bearing two men.

Officers said the machine, a bi-plane, would be flown here today. Hazelton said it belonged to his brother, W. A. Hazelton of Tulsa but authorities said their investigation failed to substantiate this.

Explosion Blows Boat To Pieces

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., Sept. 24 (AP)—An explosion of unknown origin blew a small boat to pieces and injured a man who was working on it at Harbor Island, near here, today.

Hubert Sutton was severely hurt. The craft belonged to the Humble Refining Company. The boat was docked in a boat house at the time. Damage to the boat and the house was estimated at $15,000.

AGE FORMULA

NEW YORK.—Dr. Thomas Darlington, a sachem of Tammany, who is 72 years old today, expects to live to be 120. Here is how: "If people want to live to be 120, as I plan to do, they must brush their teeth seven times a day, wear loose collars or none at all, take air and sun baths and go to church. They should not worry. Worry has killed more men than whisky ever will."

Republicans Name Talbot As Candidate

To Fill Vacancy Caused By Declination of Dr. Butte

DALLAS, Sept. 24.—(AP)—William E. Talbot of Dallas today was selected as the Republican nominee for governor. Talbot was chosen by the state Republican executive committee to take the place of Dr. George C. Butte of Austin and Washington, nominee of the primary, whose resignation was received yesterday by the committee.

The committee approved the candidacy of Dr. H. B. Tamm of Eastland for lieutenant governor; Wayland H. Sanford, Wichita Falls, for attorney general; E. J. Jay, Dallas, for railroad commissioner; and Mrs. Helen M. Reynolds, El Paso, for state comptroller.

Republican leaders said Talbot's nomination would be formally made at a meeting of the executive committee here Saturday. The delay was necessary because Dr. Butte's declination had not been officially received by the secretary of state, they said.

Talbot is widely known in political and business circles. He was supervisor of the 1930 census for this district. He will oppose Ross S. Sterling of Houston, the Democratic nominee. Texas has not gone Republican in a gubernatorial race since the reconstruction era.

New York has several hiking clubs which take week-end trips into nearby state parks.

Chippis Damage Suit Against Rev. Norris Dismissed By Court

FORT WORTH, Sept. 24.—(AP)—The damage suit for $150,000 brought by D. Elliott Chippis, Jr., against Rev. J. Frank Norris, growing out of the fatal shooting on February 17, 1926, of D. E. Chippis, the boy's father, was dismissed in ninety-sixth district court today for want of prosecution. The case had been set for trial eight times.

The suit had been filed by the boy's mother, Mrs. May Chippis, on November 8, 1926. It alleged that Daugherty was 14 at the time his father was killed by Norris in the latter's study.

In his murder trial at Austin, Rev. Mr. Norris was acquitted.

DRYS READY TO MEET ASSAULTS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Senator Sheppard, democrat from Texas who sponsored the Eighteenth Amendment in the Senate, said today the drys were ready to meet any assault on it in Congress and are confident of the outcome. He was commenting on recent election results.

Discounting claims of wet gains in the off year elections, Sheppard asserted other losses than prohibition had entered into the defeat of some dry leaders in congress.

"There is as much of a chance of repealing the 18th Amendment," he added, "as there is for a humming bird to fly to the planet Mars with the Washington monument tied to its tail. This country is for temperance and prohibition and it is going to continue to elect members of congress who believe in that."

CIRCUS HALTS SUNDAY SHOWS

AUSTIN, Sept. 24.—(AP)—All scheduled Sunday performances, including one at Houston, of Barnum and Bailey and Kunking and other circuses have been cancelled, Governor Frost said today. The governor said he had been informed of the cancellation by Chicago headquarters of the circus.

Sunday performances are forbidden by state law.

The governor said he had not received any complimentary tickets to the circus.

Motorcycle Officer Shot At Houston Related Here

W. B. Phares, young Houston motorcycle officer who was critically wounded Saturday night in a gun battle with two robbers, is a nephew of Mrs. G. F. Cotton of Big Spring. His condition was reported Wednesday to be more promising and his recovery now is believed possible. He also is a nephew of Graham Phares, chief of the state highway patrol.

OKLA. FLIERS TO SEE FAIR

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 24.—(AP)—The Oklahoma City endurance fliers, tethered to a small area over Curtiss-Wright airport here by lack of a working barograph, were to be given a little more freedom this afternoon by accompanying their observers over the Oklahoma state fair grounds, several miles away.

The barograph was broken during an electrical storm nine days ago. Bennett Griffin and Roy Hunt, the fliers, had been in the air 200 hours at 9:36 o'clock this morning.

A plane bearing the sign "Follow us to the fair grounds at 2:30 o'clock" was flown along side the endurance ship this morning. The fliers acknowledged the invitation by waving their hands.

Water Department To Give Card Receipts

Water consumers are urged by officials of the city water department to bring their statements to the office when paying the month's bill. A new system whereby the statement will be receipted has been adopted. The card will be stamped after payment.

Heretofore a separate receipt showing payment has been issued.

Mexican "Peeper" Is Assessed $50 Fine

A Mexican was doing some peeping of a different variety today. Arrested Tuesday night by men of the city police force, the Mexican was charged in county court with disturbing the peace, it is alleged he was arrested just as he was seen looking through a window in a local residence.

He was assessed a fine of $50 and costs by County Judge H. R. Debenport on a plea of guilty.

Los Angeles county officials estimate each patient treated at public hospitals there in 1929 cost $5.27.

Is The Value Of Your Home Slipping Too Rapidly?

- A home represents one of the most sizeable investments made by the average family. When it is permitted to become old-fashioned, or run-down, and shabby, the owners are allowing their investment to slip away. On the other hand, keeping the home modern and attractive is preserving the full value of the investment.
- Such improvements as refinishing the exterior of the home with a light-tinted stucco, adding a room, building a sanitary concrete basement and putting down concrete sidewalks and driveways will often make a modern home out of an old house.
- This is a good time to bring old buildings up to date at an exceedingly reasonable cost. Ask your building material dealer, architect or contractor for suggestions on modernizing.

Atlas Cement is made at Waco — by Texas workers — of Texas materials. Along with other economical quality products, your building material dealer can quickly furnish you either Atlas portland cement (gray) or non-staining Atlas White portland cement. Ask for Atlas cements.

Midland Operators Hear Claud C. Wild

MIDLAND, Tex., Sept. 24 (AP)—Claud C. Wild, executive vice-president of the Independent Petroleum Producers' Association of Texas, told a meeting of 50 Midland independent operators last night that the independent operators must present a "united front" if they hope to survive "present methods of major oil companies" in production, transportation, refining, distribution and marketing. He said his organization was working for legislation that would allow the independent royalty and land owners to survive and said it was not a militant movement but one of education. Lee Satterwhite of Odessa, recently elected to the legislature where he previously served as member and speaker of the house, told the meeting he favored a measure that would aid not only the independent and major royalty and land owners but all consumers as well.

Unconscious 47 Days, Girl Will Recover

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 24 (AP)—Miss Maria Stigitz, 26, a school teacher, who lay unconscious at a hospital for forty-seven days from injuries suffered in an automobile accident, was recovering at her home here today. Her injuries included a fractured skull, a dislocated vertebra in the neck—and ivy poisoning. She was thrown in a growth of poison ivy when her car got out of control and left the road. For a month and a half she lay in a coma, kept alive by receiving nourishment through tubes. She would automatically respond to orders to touch her face or raise her hands, but showed no signs of consciousness or understanding, physicians said. Then came a delirium, which was followed by complete consciousness.

Second Andree Diary Causing Difficulty

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 24. (AP)—Experts examining the documents found with the members of the Andree Balloon expedition on icy Livivoten are having difficulty with the second of the Andree Diaries, which they believe contains the record of the last days of the trio. The first of the two books, that found within the clothes of Andree, was fairly well preserved and easily legible. But it told only of the balloon trip, the descent, and march across the ice to Livivoten. The other diary has been exposed during the 33 years since death of the three men and its contents are well hidden by time and the elements.

Shipwrecked Party Taken From Island

BRISBANE, Australia, Sept. 24. (AP)—For more than 3 months 35 Kanakas men, women and children, lived on Hiri Island, an inhospitable outcrop of rock in the Banda Sea. Their sole food was raw fish and their only drink was seabirds blood. The party had been crossing the Banda Sea when their big war canoe was wrecked on the island upon which there is not a blade of grass and no living creatures except myriads of sea mews. The Kanakas, almost deranged by their terrible privations, were rescued by the China Australian liner Taiping, which fortunately for them, was blown out of her usual course and passed near the island.

Easy to look at It's AS EASY and natural to enjoy the fragrant mildness of a Camel Cigarette as it is to admire beauty when you see it. Camels are made, and always have been made, for discriminating smokers—the people whose keen judgment unerringly selects the best. But that doesn't mean you have to be an expert to enjoy Camels! The delicate, mellow fragrance of those choice sun-ripened tobaccos is something that anybody can appreciate. Camels are naturally smooth and mild—never parched nor insipid. Why is there such a swing to Camels? Because more and more smokers are learning the difference between true mildness and mere flatness. Give yourself the luxury of a cigarette that's always pleasant smoking.

CAMELS Easy to smoke. Illustration of a Camel cigarette pack with the text 'CAMEL TURKISH & DOMESTIC BLEND CIGARETTES'.
