is another man's poison is a true saying. A lot of people cannot understand others, if they are not interested in the same things, forgetting that they look just as strange to others for liking the things they do. Agreeing to disagree on non-essentials is a good lesson to learn. We must show tolerance if we are to expect tolerance.

Not so long ago it was practically impossible to get voters to endorse amendments to the state constitutien. Of late they have been lenient in endorsing them. This year it might pay to swat every one of them. Any merit any one might have is overshadowed by its faulty construction, with the possible exception of the soldiers' vote. The others deserve to fail.

All towns ordered saloons closed on the day Japan surrendered. Could it be that the authorities have never read a whisky advertisement? HOLD YOUR BONDS -DON'T CASH THEM NOW!

For your information, Secretary of the Treasury Vinson has issued the following statement:

"Treasury regards it as essential to orderly continuation of the Savings Bond program that industrial plants and business establishments with pay roll savings plans continue to service such plans, and that it is highly important that all authorized issuing agents continue their bond issuing activities. Continuance of these activities is especially important with plans for a Victory Loan drive already well under way. Please communicate immediately with all bond issuing agents in your district and express to them the Treasury's hope that they will continue to function in their present capacity.

In connection with rumors that consideration was being given to the freezing of Savings Bonds, the Secretary of the Treasury also issued the following statement:

"There is nothing that has emanated from the Treasury that would give substance to the rumor that consideration was being given to freezing Savings Bonds.

OF COURSE THEY WON'T BE FROZEN.

We have a contractual obligation with the purchasers of these bonds, and I think the Government, first of all, should keep its contract. Provision for redemption is made in the bonds."
