Discuss Hazards

The hazards was the subject of discussion at the Lions Club meeting, with most of the present taking part in a discussion. Mention was made of the danger to school children from the motorists who care no more for the rules than the motorists at crossings, and in danger at the curve near the school was pointed out. The practice of some children in "share" the motorist. This is also indulged in by high school pupils, according to reports, and these pupils practice of crossing the highway by children who are just out of school was mentioned, as the practice of motorists parking, turning in to the street, leaving the engine running, backing around, etc. It was said that there will be no more engineers to reconstruct present highway routes in the city limits until parking, however, or regulated in some manner. The mayor announced that the city council will consider that night to consider the present situation. President T. A. Lande presented a silver lion design, suitably engraved, as a gift for his work during the year. Coach John Hansard was present with Leon Kimmura, and Thompson guest of Lions Club. Ross Collie Tops Local Fish Stories

Ross Collie came to this section some 17 years ago, and recently decided to visit his old home in Arkansas, for a 10-day vacation. He first one since coming here. While in Arkansas, his old buddies, John Martin, Henry Owens and Bob Barksdale, took him fishing in White River near Salido. They caught 17 yellow catfish on a trot line, the largest weighing 28 pounds.

Mr. Collie brought the head of the large cat home with him to prove to local Isaac Walton disciples how fish grow in Arkansas. He also brought back 30 pounds of catfish steak and has it safely cached in his locker.

The big fish did not take the bait, but was caught from the outside of his lower jaw.

Mr. Collie says he is sold on the idea of a vacation and intends to make it an annual affair. He has an appointment with another big fish for next year.

Highway Discussed Council Meeting

At a meeting of the city council Tuesday night, plans for Highway 66 through town were discussed. Reference was made to a resolution adopted by the council, May 27, 1931, which was required by the government before federal aid was given the road; in which the city promised not to erect any signs slowing down traffic, detouring traffic, and prohibiting all parking except parallel to the curb.

It was pointed out that no supporting ordinance was passed placing a penalty on angle and double parking in the highway, which doubtless accounts for the non-observance of the resolution.

It was the sense of the meeting that anything required by the highway commission would be done in order to keep the present route. It was suggested that the sidewalks on the highway street could be narrowed to six feet, in order to give more room.

Action was deferred until a report could be had from the committee appointed to meet with the district engineer in Amarillo Wednesday morning.

Progress is made only by the unsatisfied.

People who love to go to the movies are often disturbed by those who go to the movies to love.

There are only two ways to solve the crime problem; in the high chair or in the electric chair. The former is, so much better, it would seem that more people would practice it.

Most people like to be flattered by calling them "board minded" or "liberal," but after all it is only flattery, for you will not be called such unless you agree with the beliefs of the other fellow.

Traffic hazards are beginning to attract the attention of many who were apathetic before school started. There will be plenty of grief for the community unless some rules are worked out and enforced before very long.

A community is only as good as its people, not just individually, but as they know how to plan and work together. There will always be a need to broaden and enrich the lives of others that can only be met with cooperative effort.

The United States was able to win the war because of private enterprise. Other nations were masters of the people, but a country where the people are masters proved stronger. This fact should be remembered by those who would change our way of life to something from Europe.

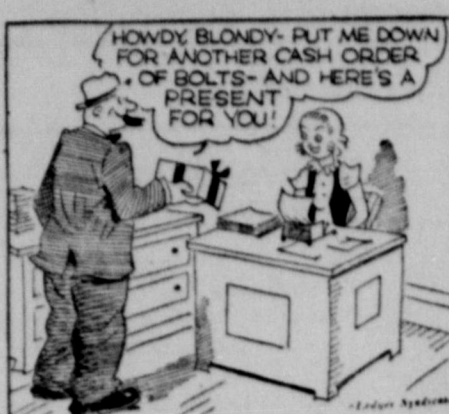

We hold no brief for Senator O'Daniel. We did not support him and probably would not again, but the fact remains that he has voted right along with Senator Connally on most things since he has been in congress. In bragging on Tom and cussing Pappy, it might be well to give justice where justice is due.

Now that it has been learned that parallel parking is the only kind permitted on the highway, it should be easier to enforce traffic rules on First Street. The highway would not have been routed through town unless such a promise was made. It is unfortunate that the resolution was forgotten for so long a time.

The soldier playing left field missed three easy flies. Returning to the dugout between innings, he explained to the athletic officer, "I guess I'll have to get some glasses."

"Glasses!" roared the officer. "You're too far gone for glasses. What you need is radar!"

SOMEBODY'S STENOG—The New Policy

PREACHING FOR MONEY

"Why do preachers harp continually on the question of money? I rarely go to church but that the preacher talks about finances—the church's need for money. It's give, give, give all the time. Why don't they preach the old-fashioned gospel, and allow the people to give as their consciences may dictate? Why should we be urged to give to so many causes outside the immediate support of the church—home missions, foreign missions, education, pensions and what not? Personally, I am fed up on this matter of begging for money from the pulpit, an attempted hold-up of those who come for the purpose of worshiping."

I wonder if you did not mean to say "I rarely go to church—period"? My observation is—with a few exceptions—that those who attend church conscientiously and regularly, realizing the necessity for periodic and consistent giving, are by no means adverse to making whatever contributions may be required to maintain the local organization and to carry forward the larger program to which the church is committed. In fact they appear to welcome the opportunity for acquiring information on the world-wide mission of the church and of making proof of their profession in a fair participation in such a program. I have further observed that those who give the least, frequently tend to criticism the most. It may be—in some instances at least—that it is not so much that they would harp "the old-fashioned gospel" as that they do not want to be reminded of a duty which they may perhaps wish to evade. You no doubt have heard it said that by far the larger number of Jesus' parables had to do with the matter of money—its use, its abuse, and the subsequent reward or punishment. If this is true, it would appear that He thought it vitally necessary to remind those of His day of the importance of the stewardship of possessions. When one accepts this responsibility, he can find no possible place for criticism of the preacher who "harps on the question of money."

We contribute to the American Red Cross, we buy war bonds, we pay an increasing tax for the maintenance of government and these other things might not now be required of us. Who knows? It's worth pondering, anyway. And, according to Scripture, giving itself is an act of worship.—J. K. T. in Star-Telegram.

DISREGARDING his own safety when a Merchant Marine vessel struck an enemy mine in a heavy sea which broke the ship in half, Third Assistant Engineer Francis C. Rack carried his Chief on deck after all usable lifeboats had shoved off. Seeing an empty boat adrift, Rack dove into the sea and swam to it. He managed to propel it to the sinking ship and transferred the Chief Engineer. Rack was awarded a distinguished service medal. LIBRARY NEWS

By Mrs. Gibson
There is an old proverb to the effect that "a man is known by the company he keeps." Show me the books a man reads and I will tell you the kind of man he is. For books are his close intimate friends. They reflect his ambitions, his desires, his tastes, his pleasures and his secret inclinations.
The civic pride of cities and towns have made possible a system of free libraries which bring priceless treasures within reach of practically every man, woman and child. Such is this library. Careful thought has been given to the selection of books, and the services of the librarian will always be available. It is to be hoped, therefore, that you will all avail yourselves of this great opportunity. The books are yours; use them.
To the people who worked to get our library, we owe a debt of gratitude for something that will benefit us all.

AN HONEST BARBER

Customer—I want a shave and please do not cut me.
Barber—Oh, that's all right, I will give you 10c every time I cut you. Why, the man ahead of you made 90c on the deal!
Customer—Let me out of this chair!

Marine Corps PFC Wensoe, 21, La Crosse, Wis., can smile because War Bonds supplied equipment that helped mend the humerus of his left arm after he was machine-gunned on Iwo Jima.

Marine PFC Albert Bolduc, 20, Ansonia, Conn., is getting around again after shrapnel fractured his right leg in the Saipan invasion. He urges folks to buy War Bonds and hold them to help treat other men now suffering from Nip shots.

Wounded while in the repair shop when his ship was hit by enemy plane, Cornelius Regan, 21, S 1/2 c. Bayonne, N. J., pleads for more War Bond sales to furnish medical supplies to mend others' wounds. Shrapnel sent him to the hospital.

Ensign Marion Burbridge feeds wounded Marine Corporal Joseph Blasko, 23, Scranton, Pa., who suffered a fractured femur of his left arm when struck by shrapnel at Iwo Jima. Food, equipment and medicine are supplied to thousands of wounded Navy personnel through the purchase of War Bonds. The need will continue until Japan is defeated. Bond buyers profit from the restored health of service men as well as from interest payments.

REG'LAR FELLERS—Problem Cleared Up

EDITORS MEET SUCH INTERESTING PEOPLE

One of the free press rural correspondents isn't looking so well this week, and all because of the thoughtfulness of a neighbor and who has caused the misery as his avocation. The good lady thought to do the young man a courtesy by writing a piece for the free press, announcing that he would preach his first sermon at the church in her community. Some way before the piece was printed, the youthful minister heard of her intention and came to the correspondence. She says the young man requested that his name not be put also that "small, nice paper in the town." If it was in the Star-Telegram it would be different.
Said man admits that the free press isn't as large or as neat or as good as the Star-Telegram, in fact, it is nowhere near the daily class of paper. But we are proud of the fact that 95% of the families in our trade territory are subscribers to The Free Press. Yes, we believe that if you are going into public work of any description in our area, the best place to let the public know would be in the columns of The Free Press.

SHOULD HAVE KNOWN

"I'm so sorry. It was all my fault."
"Not at all madam. I was to blame myself."
"But I insist the fault was mine. I was on your side of the street."
"That may be true, but, my dear madam, I am responsible for the collision. I saw you coming blocks away, and had ample opportunity to dart down a side street."
