Modernizing School Laws

Editoria School teachers should know more about ching school and the best methods of operatschools than any other class or group of peois, including the Texas legislature. Therefore s proposed changes in the school statutes, which it is understood the committee of the State Teachers Association will present to the next session of he legislature, should be given careful attention, the position. unless the legislature can show wherein they are not for the better administration of the schools, they should be enacted. Especially sensible is the proposal that there shall be a state board of education which would employ a superintendent instead of requiring the superintendent to be elected by popular vote. This uld obviate the necessity of the superintendent sending a part of his time every two years in traveling over the state, asking for votes.

The proposal to make the county the school unit and abrogate the common school districts is something that should be done. It would make for lower expenditures, would equalize education for every child in a county, regardless of the taxable value of the district or the willingness of the people in a district to be taxed. It would obviate the complaints too often heard that the trustees are moved by personal consideration in selecting teachers and in various other acts attaching to

There is much criticism of the Texas constitution as being out of date and fitted for ox cart days, yet much of the school legislation, enacted years later than the constitution, is just as cumbersome and more cutmoded than is the constitution. Temas is able to have the best in education -Texas should have the best in education-and the way to have it is to rewrite the entire school law, keeping only such part as needful and making changes, recommended by the state associa-

HOPKINS LOSES AIDE

Ed Noble, republican manufacturer of that andy with a hole, left a hole in Secretary Harry Hopkins' department of commerce when he resigned as under secretary. Noble announced that he was returning to private life where he believed he "could better serve the defense program" than as chief departmental aide to Hopkins, who has been for some time one of the president's chief aides in matters political.

Although Hopkins held the reins in the presidential third term nomination at Chicago, political chatter has it that he is not continuing (as is customary) in the driver's seat and that Edward J. Flynn, new chairman of the democratic National Committee, has let it be known that he doesn't want any back-seat driving from Hopkins or any other members of the new deal inner cir-

NEW YORK-We can hardly remember when then. That is the only name she has. At least,

it's the only one she gives out. There is a wave

CORCORAN STARTS TALK

Tommy Corcoran, the young ballad-singing Irish attorney, who has been second to Hopkins among new dealers close to the White House, has gone off on a vacation. His going at this time is one of the favorite gossip topics at Washington

The speculation runk these three ways: (1) That he definitely is out of favor at the White House and may not come back to Washington; (2) that he is going through another one of those periods of being temporarily in disfavor over some minor difference to opinion; (3) that he is NOT in disfavor at all and has only gone away for a while to rest up and figure out how best he can put his talents to use in the president's behalf between now and election.

STRANGE THINGS

Add to all these factors these strange things: (1) Republican presidential candidate Wendell L. Willkie, a former democrat, in his acceptance speech at Elwood, Ind., endorsed many of the new deal objectives; (2) the democratic vicepresidential candidate, Henry A. Wallace, is a former republican, who once was publicly rebuked (by a White House spokesman) for declaring for a third term for Roosevelt; (3) President Roosevelt's cabinet contains two republicans; (4) the national defense commission and its staff number many republicans; (5) there have been many defections from the democratic party recently; and (6) some new dealers are saying that this is a good thing for the democratic party and that the third term candidacy has accomplished for the party much that the 1938 purge was una-wear the monk in her hair for "effect," either. We didn't say she did, but she probably guessed correctly that we thought it. "Listen," said Althea, "you got pockets. If I had pockets I would put Toutsie-pie in a pocket. But I ain't got pockels. I got to at him somewhere, don't 17" She certainly is right about that. She has to - I put him semewhere. She can't leave him at home because he is the type of monkey that falls into fits of despendency when left alone. And she can't leave him in her dressing room because he doesn't like the smeil of grease paint. That leaves only one out to tie a string around his neck and let him feather his own nest

Of all the monkeys on Broadway, and there are a lot of them, we never saw one as small as Tools's-pie. His tail is only about two inches "Can be hang by it!" we ask

"tertainly he can hang by it. What do you think this is " said Althea. For proof she let him swing by his tail from her index fir jer.

We didn't question Aithea any further as to the achievements of this little creature. When we asked if he could swing by his tail her attitude seddenly was that of a mother whose child's capabilities have been questioned. There was a warning to the way she said. "Certainly he can; what do you think this is"

That's what we mean saying that all these show girls, even the Spanish ones, will give you an argument over the alightest little thing.
