Just Between Us

Bill Robinson, administrator of Highland General Hospital in Pampa, was surprised at the fine response when he came down Tuesday to interview prospective McLean Hospital employees.

A total of 35 persons showed up to talk with Bill about working at the local hospital when it opens in the not-too-distant future.

He plans to let them know his decision the latter part of this week. There were so many well-qualified applicants, the administrator said selecting the employees will be a difficult task.

No one except the residents of McLean could be any more happy than Bill with the hospital being constructed here.

"I wish we had some of the new facilities in Pampa that you'll have," he told us.

Since the McLean Hospital will also be county owned and operated, the administrative chores here will fall on Robinson's shoulders, too. He already has his hands full with Highland General, especially with the recent resignation of his assistant.

Part of the load here will necessarily be handled by some member of the local staff, since running this hospital long distance would be difficult indeed.

Bill isn't certain how many employees will be needed; nor is a definite date set for the opening. He had hoped the first patient would be admitted around Feb. 1, but it could be as much as another month after that.

At any rate, our hospital is nearing completion . . . and it won't be long now!

Plans are being made for an open house either before or soon after work is done, so that local and area residents will have an opportunity to take a close look at the facilities.

We've often heard of two-headed animals, but until this week had never seen one.

Leslie Webb, who ranches north of McLean, brought a double-headed calf to town Tuesday. It had been born on his place a few hours before to a Brahma-cross heifer.

Unfortunately, the calf had to be pulled and was born dead.

We snapped some pictures of the animal, but the engraving hadn't returned before this week's News went to press. We intend to publish a photograph next week.

Except for being unusually large, the calf's body appeared to be normal. The two heads were well shaped, but joined at the sides, leaving space for only one ear in the middle.

The calf had two mouths and noses, four eyes and three ears.

One of those fire extinguishers being sold by the McLean Boy Scouts has already come in handy.

Mrs. Frank Simpson's car caught fire a week or so ago, and a resident near the scene rushed out of her house with one of the extinguishers.

The flames were snuffed out in a wink—before firemen could reach (See JBU, Page 6)

Riley Attending Meeting in Austin

Jack Riley, superintendent of schools in McLean, is attending the Mid-Winter Conference of Texas school administrators this week in Austin.

Riley left Tuesday, accompanied by Lee Welch, former McLean superintendent who now heads schools in Kress.

He expects to return this week-end.

In Contest With Tech Calves

Doctor Herefords Winning

Faris Hess, McLean rancher, this week announced preliminary results of a contest in which cattle owned by Hess are competing with cattle from the Texas Tech herd.

The purpose of the contest, started several months ago, is to compare the weight-gaining and meat-producing efficiency of calves from the Doctor Hereford Ranch, owned by Hess, and from Tech.

Hess took issue with criticism leveled at registered cattle breeders by Dr. Ralph Durham, controversial former head of the Tech animal husbandry department in Lubbock.

Dr. Durham in a talk before the McLean Lions Club last spring charged that too much attention was being paid to raising show cattle and not enough attention to producing good lean meat.

In a talk before the same club a few weeks later, Hess answered Dr. Durham and announced plans for the contest.

Two steer calves from the local ranch and two from Tech were entered in the competition. The calves were run together with their mothers in the Doctor Hereford Ranch dry pasture last summer and were weighed on Oct. 6.

One of the Tech calves was out of a Jersey-Angus cross cow and a Holstein bull. The other was out of a Holstein cow and Brown Swiss bull.

Hess reported that at weaning time the two Tech calves weighed 935 pounds, while the Herefords weighed 985.

"After averaging two order buyers' bids we found out the Tech cattle were worth $144.75; our two calves were worth $229.01," the local rancher said.

The calves were then placed on feed at the Triangle Ranch Feed and Cattle Co. feed lot here in two pens under identical conditions. All the feed is weighed before each feeding and marked down.

On Dec. 28 the calves were weighed again. The Tech cattle had eaten 3,790 pounds of feed and had cost $36.64. Hess's calves had (See HEREFORD, Page 5)

Housewife Tells of Experience

Corneal Transplants Give Woman Sight

A Claude housewife who knows first-hand about blindness and the restoration of sight told a McLean Lions Club Ladies Night audience here Tuesday night:

"If I am able to put into any man's life one touch of a rosy sunset, then I feel I have worked with God."

Mrs. Joyce Raymond, who regained her eyesight after living in darkness for some 11 years, recounted the miracle that involved her.

She underwent two corneal transplants in a Fort Worth hospital and now with glasses she has 20-20 vision in each eye.

It was soon after her marriage 17 years ago that Mrs. Raymond began losing her sight.

Beyond Help Fitted for new glasses each year, her eyes finally reached the point where they were beyond help. At the time she was 19 years old, the mother of one child and expecting another.

"My heart broke into little pieces," Mrs. Raymond said, when she was told that she was going blind.

Recently, she was advised by a doctor that a corneal transplant could possibly restore her sight. She was finally persuaded to go to Fort Worth for the operation on her right eye, which by this time had ruptured.

"The operation seemed to me completely hopeless but God was with us those 21 days," she was hospitalized, Mrs. Raymond said.

Has Second Operation At the end of this period, the bandages were removed and there was 20-20 vision in the right eye.

"I didn't wait for the other eye to rupture," Mrs. Raymond continued, and she returned for the transplant in her left eye. This operation, too, was a success.

"I had forgotten how beautiful the world was . . . It's wonderful to be able to see," she said.

For the first time in years she could see her husband's face, and at long last she was able to see all her children (there were six by this time four).

The cornea for the first transplant came from a donor in St. Louis, Mo., and the second was from a woman in Fort Worth who died in the same hospital where Mrs. Raymond underwent both operations.

Mrs. Raymond learned the name of the second donor from her doctor, and contacted the woman's (See EYE, Page 5)

HARVEST AT END IN AREA

The cotton harvest here almost ended with the close of 1964.

B. F. Holland, manager of the McLean Gin, said Wednesday that he expects perhaps 10 to 15 more bales to be brought to the local gin before harvesting operations officially close.

Some 825 bales have been ginned here. This compares with 1,257 from the 1963 crop.

Holland said that actually more cotton was produced in the McLean area from the 1964 crop than from the year before, but some farmers took their cotton elsewhere to be ginned.

The per-acre yield during the harvest just completed was below a year ago; however, more acreage was planted to cotton in this area in 1964.

Lateness of the crop and of the first freeze contributed to a reduction in the quality of cotton near the end of the harvest. But the quality at the beginning of the gathering period was excellent.

March of Dimes Underway Here

January is March of Dimes Month in McLean and all across the United States.

Cliff Day, local chairman of the drive, this week announced the appointment of several residents who will be in charge of the various money-raising activities.

First on the schedule is the annual Mothers March, set for 5 to 7 p.m. next Monday.

Mrs. Mary Tom Riley, chairman of the Mothers March, said women working in the house-to-house solicitation effort will meet at the school cafeteria.

A firetruck will be driven about the city with the siren sounding at 5 o'clock to signal the start of the Mothers March.

Chairmen Named Other chairmen named by Day include:

Mrs. Evan Sitter, home coffee breaks; Sammy Haynes, distribution of containers in the business district, and Carl Dwyer, in charge of the grade school drive.

Elmo Whaley is treasurer of the campaign.

Plans are yet to be formulated for the annual Bucket Brigade in downtown McLean, each year one of the big money-raisers in the MOD.

Lions Club members and Boy Scouts are expected to assist in the Bucket Brigade.

Day said other activities will be planned as the drive progresses.

TIGERETTES IN VICTORY OVER GROOM GIRLS

Jan Bailey whipped in 23 points for the Tigerettes and Eddy Windom 24 for the Tigers at Groom Tuesday night, but the locals had to settle for a split with Groom.

The McLean girls had little trouble in downing the Groom girls 43-30, and Groom edged out the Bengals 53-51 in the nightcap.

In a preliminary game, the Groom B girls clipped McLean 49-35.

McLean closes out non-District 2-A play Friday night by hosting Lefors.

Three games are on top, with the boys B contest starting things off at 5 p.m., followed by the Tigerettes-Piratettes and the Tigers and Pirates winding up the evening.

District Play Ahead The local teams open district competition next Tuesday at Wellington.

Led by Jan, the Tigerettes jumped out front of Groom early Tuesday night and stayed there the rest of the way.

The Tigerettes held a 7-5 lead as the first quarter closed and left the court at halftime with a margin of 20-12. After three periods they were ahead 33-26.

Sharon Goldston had 10 points, Pam Burnett eight and Barbara McCurley four to go with Jan's 23.

Tied at Half In their game against Groom, the Tigers eased to a 16-14 first-quarter lead and the score was knotted at 31-31 at halftime. Groom had moved to a 46-42 advantage by the end of three periods.

In addition to Windom's 24 points, George Green added 10, Ronnie Hunt eight, Homer Goldston five and Gary Hester four.

Pam Bailey and Vickie Kunkel each tallied 14 points in the B girls tilt, while Connie Marshall counted seven.

A cold first half proved the downfall for the McLean B girls. They managed just eight points in the first two periods, while Groom was scoring 27.

STEEL SPECTACULAR: Construction of the St. Louis Gateway Arch, destined to be the nation's highest monument (see chart for comparison with Washington Monument and Statue of Liberty), is now past the halfway mark—over 300 feet, or higher than a 30-story building. The 630-foot monument, made of more than 5,000 tons of various forms of modern steel, will commemorate America's westward expansion following the Louisiana Purchase. The arch's gleaming stainless steel plate skin will be visible for 30 miles. A special train will whisk visitors up the arch's hollow steel plated and reinforced legs in less than two minutes to an observation platform within the top.

DID YOU KNOW?

That last week we found that obeying the gospel or "Death, Burial and Resurrection of Christ" was a must (I Thess. 1:7-9) and we obey it as we are taught it in Rom. 6:3-5, and when we obey this Form of Doctrine or Gospel from the heart we are then made free from sin, and not before (I Rom. 6:17-18).

That we are told to be baptized, and what for, in Acts 2:38, and Acts 22:16 tells us why be baptized.

That we have found that Faith, Repentance, Confession and Obeying the Gospel are all God's commandments, or His will, and we found in Matt. 28:20 that we are to obey all His commandments.

That if we teach any other Gospel, or if we pervert the Gospel, we will be accursed (Gal. 1:7-9).

That we can't add to God's word (Deut. 4:2)

NEWS OF CONSERVATION

A stock pond was completed by Elmer McLaughlin on a place he operates north of Laketon.

Tom Anderwald has completed a field of land leveling on his place south of Kingsmill.

O. R. Blankenship is in the process of completing a terrace system and three diversions on his place west of McLean.

Heavy Grazing Increases Runoff

Continuous heavy grazing of sandy ranges seriously restricts the soil's ability to absorb moisture needed for grass production.

USDA scientists at Woodward, Okla., found that the water-intake of range that had been heavily grazed for 20 years was only half that of lightly grazed rangeland.

Water intake rate was 2.27 inches per hour after heavy grazing, 3.64 inches after moderate grazing and 4.41 inches after light grazing.

Reduction of vegetative cover by heavy grazing was the principal reason for the accompanying decrease in water-intake rates. Tall grasses such as sand bluestem, little bluestem, switchgrass and sand lovegrass were being replaced by short-inferior type grasses under heavy grazing.

Erosion was taking place on the heavily grazed pastures due to the excess runoff.

The pastures were stocked at the rate of 12 acres per animal unit for heavy grazing; 17 acres per animal unit for moderate grazing and 22 acres per animal unit for light grazing.

Proper Range Use

One of the best methods that can be used by Gray County cattlemen to increase profits and reduce feed bills is proper range use.

Proper range use can best be defined as "take half of the grass and leave half of the grass." Proper use is essential to obtain the most beneficial use of any tame pasture of native range.

There are several reasons why proper use is essential for maximum results.

Proper use is directly related to the food manufacturing processes of forage grasses. Grass has the unusual ability to produce its own food. This process occurs in the green leaves of the grass and in the presence of sunlight and chlorophyll.

Food is manufactured in the leaves and transported through a vascular system similar to blood veins and is stored in the root system. Food is stored during the fall and used the following spring for re-growth.

Since the food of grass is manufactured in the leaves it is necessary for forage grasses to maintain at least 50 per cent of their leaves in order to produce enough food.

Since leaf surface affects food production, and food production affects food storage, the amount of leaf surface on a plant affects the depth of the root system.

Plants with healthy leaves will have healthy roots. A deep root system allows a plant to be more drought resistant and make more efficient use of moisture than a plant with a short root system.

Proper use affects the weaning weights and the selling grade of calves. Experiments have shown that calves weaned from cows on pastures that had been grazed below the proper use heights, the calves weaned lighter in weight and graded lower than calves weaned from cows on pastures where proper use was maintained.

These experiments were conducted with similar cows and bulls so that no inherited differences would be involved.

The lower 50 per cent of forage left on the ground after proper use is obtained is not wasted forage. The litter protects the soil from erosion, reduces evaporation, adds organic matter and minerals, increases water absorption and retains a large amount of the water where it falls.

Besides all of the above benefits received from proper use, there is one other benefit that is generally overlooked by cattlemen, and that is nutrition.

Approximately 83 per cent of the protein that is available for grazing animals is found in the top 50 per cent of the forage. This leaves approximately 17 per cent available protein in the lower 50 per cent of the forage.

Regardless of the time of year or climatic conditions additional protein must be supplied to animals grazing on forage that has been grazed below the proper use height.

Some of the Gray County ranchers who are practicing proper range use are Billy Davis, Fred Vanderburg and Johnson Ranch.

Being told to write an essay on the mule, a small boy turned in to his teacher the following effort: "The mule is a hardier bird than the guse or turkie. $168 Million New Telephone Construction for Texas in 1965

Continuing improvements in telephone system will make your service even more dependable and valuable

Telephone service in Texas ranks with the world's best. It always has. Even so, in 1965 Southwestern Bell will spend another $168 million to make it better still.

This construction program is the biggest in history. It is necessary to provide for the growing telephone needs of Texas.

But it's more than that.

It also is an intensified effort to make even better the service you already have, whether you live in a big city, a small town, or on a farm.

Our objective is to make your telephone service more useful, dependable, convenient and valuable than ever before.

Texas will also benefit economically from this telephone construction program.

Because hundreds of individual projects reach into virtually every community served by Southwestern Bell, the economic impact will be significant and widespread.

New jobs will be created. We expect to add 500 new telephone jobs in Texas in 1965 — bringing to 25,000 the number of people on our payroll in Texas.

But more important will be the economic boost for the hundreds of Texas firms which sell supplies, services and materials to the telephone company.

Here are some of the things we'll do in 1965 to make your telephone service better

NEW STORMPROOFING

In 1965, we'll put more than 500 additional miles of telephone cable underground, because that's the safest place for it. Safe from wind, rain, hot weather, cold weather, stormy weather. This will add to the dependability of your long distance service.

DDD IMPROVEMENTS

For those customers who have Direct Distance Dialing, service will be faster and easier than ever before. Complex new testing and trouble-reporting equipment is being built into the system to help maintain the quality of transmission and quickly trace and remedy problems that might affect your service.

NEW BUILDINGS, WORK CENTERS

Southwestern Bell will erect 15 new buildings in Texas in 1965. The largest will be the new $13 million South Texas headquarters building in Houston. Other new telephone buildings will be erected in Amarillo, Midland, Dallas (two buildings), San Antonio, Beaumont, Rosenberg, Cleveland, Waco, Pasadena, and a three-building complex in northwest Houston.

Additions are planned for telephone buildings at Fort Worth, Dallas, Amarillo, Forney, Monahans and Houston.

Also, 16 new installation, repair and construction centers will be built across the state.

NEW MICROWAVE MAGIC

The magic of microwave will provide thousands of new voice ways for long distance calling in Texas this year. For example, new systems will link Sweetwater and San Angelo, Fort Worth and Waco, Houston and Beaumont. Via a network of such microwave antenna towers and transmitting stations, your phone calls are relayed from point to point with the speed of light.

WE are looking ahead to another year of telephone progress in Texas in 1965:

- Your telephone service will be a better buy, dollar for dollar.
- Texas everywhere will benefit from the surge of new dollars, created by our expansion program, into the state's economy.

Post Office Asks Rural Customers To Help Their Carrier

An appeal was issued this week to postal customers on rural routes to help their carrier make mail deliveries during bad winter weather.

Frank Simpson, acting McLean postmaster said at the same time he hopes all authorities concerned with rural routes where snow and other bad weather hampers the carrier will continue to cooperate to help the mailmen get through.

The postmaster listed these points of particular concern:

1. Approaches to rural mail boxes must be kept open by customers.
2. Obstructions to delivery of mail on rural routes should be removed or minimized to the fullest extent possible.

Where rural boxes pose a problem, the carrier may leave Form 4056, "Your Mailbox Needs Attention," a notice to keep box approaches clear by promptly removing all obstructions, including snow, which may make mail delivery difficult or impossible.

Unless approaches are cleared, it may be necessary to temporarily withhold delivery of mail. Simpson pointed out.

Rural carriers are not required to perform service on foot when roads cannot be traveled with the vehicles normally used, but they are expected to make every reasonable effort to serve as many of their patrons as possible without physical exertion or added financial cost, Simpson explained.

If excessive detours are necessary to effect delivery of mail, customers should temporarily relocate their boxes on the new line of travel, arrange to receive their mail through other patrons' boxes or make other arrangements for their mail until travel on the roads affected can be resumed.

The rotary cylinder printing press was invented by Richard M. Hoe in 1846.

WALTER ROGERS REPORTS

LEGISLATIVE PROPOSALS TO BE REINTRODUCED

The convening of the 89th Congress closes one phase and begins another in the dramatic and fascinating progress of our American governmental system. With the election over, and having determined the priorities of his program and policies, the President turns to Congress with a series of requests for legislation to accomplish results he seeks.

Public attention will be shifting to Capitol Hill, to the actions of the House and Senate. But it is doubtful that any quick action will come on any substantial legislative matters. The organization of the new Congress must be completed. Committees must prepare their agendas and begin hearings. New members of Congress—92 in the House and eight in the Senate—must settle into harness.

 In her talk the Claude woman emphasized that anyone can sign a donor card agreeing to give his or her eyes after death to an eye bank.

Neither the vision nor the age of the donor makes any difference; the cornea can be used to help another person to see.

Mrs. Raymond's appearance in McLean was on behalf of the Hi-Plains Eye Bank in Amarillo, a project of District 2-T-1 Lions Clubs. She has made similar talks before other clubs in the district.

To date six transplants have been performed using the corneas from eyes donated to the Hi-Plains Eye Bank. All have been successful.

Removed After Death
 The eyes of persons signing donor cards are removed after their death and taken to the eye bank. There is a waiting list of persons wanting transplants.

Mrs. Raymond herself has already signed a donor card, leaving her eyes to the eye bank at her death.

Accompanying Mrs. Raymond to McLean were her parents Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Christie of Amarillo. Guests at the dinner meeting were wives of the Lions.

Peace Corps Test Will Be Given In Amarillo and Pampa

Another Peace Corps placement test will be given at 8:30 a.m. Saturday in Amarillo, Pampa and various other points across the United States.

Testing is scheduled in Room 322 of the Amarillo Post Office and in the Pampa Main Post Office.

Approximately 800 other Civic Service testing centers throughout the United States will be administering the test on this same day. It makes no difference where the Peace Corps applicants take their test and there is no need to register ahead of time.

Applicants should bring along a completed questionnaire unless one has already been sent to Washington, D. C. The forms are available at most Post Offices, from the Peace Corps Liaison on campus or college placement offices, or they can be obtained by writing the Peace Corps, Washington, D. C. 20525.

18 Years Minimum

Applicants must be American citizens at least 18 years old. Married couples are eligible if they have no dependents under 18. A college degree is not necessary, but it is advantageous to complete college unless one has acquired a special skill.

There are two parts to the placement test—a general aptitude test and a modern language aptitude test, for which knowledge of a foreign language is not necessary.

Applicants should figure on about 1 1/2 hours at the testing center, unless they wish to take the Spanish or French achievement test. For this optional test, another hour should be added.

The Tech cattle had gained 515 pounds and the Herefords 480 pounds.

This means that it is costing Tech $18.75 and Hess $15.80 per hundredweight of gain.

The cattle will remain on feed until they weigh approximately 1,040 pounds and then will be killed, graded and one-half of each steer cut into market cuts and valued according to grade.

The other one-half of each animal will be taken to Tech's meat laboratory and valued according to edible red meat.

Hess said he was highly pleased with the results to date.

PRAIRIE DOGS

About this time of year I start bragging about Gray County not having but one or two prairie dog towns.

When I do someone usually calls my hand and says so and so has a town. Recently, we treated dogs on Arthur Dwyer's and Truitt Johnson's places.

We pre-baited with unpoisoned oats this week and hope to follow up with poison grain next week.

Wheeler County is covered with prairie dogs, as well as coyotes. Since the dogs do not migrate as badly as coyotes our problem is not nearly as great.

We have managed to keep them down by being persistent.

Tom Waters has done an excellent job in holding down the coyote population in spite of the absence of a program in Wheeler County. There is evidence in the form of dead coyotes all over the ranches in this area.

I noticed a dead coyote at the entrance to Arthur Dwyer's place when pre-baiting for these dogs.

Tom could take another pat on the back for being responsive to other areas of the county. Even though he resides in McLean, he takes care of other parts of the county.

Very recently he was by our Pampa office. I was out, but he left a note with the secretary saying if we heard of any complaints of coyotes be sure and let him know.

In times past I have had people call me about coyotes in the Pampa and Lefors vicinity. I would drop Tom a card and almost always Tom was up the day he received the card.

The strategy we had well planned worked out just fine . . . and the University of Arkansas Razorbacks won that coveted title of 1964's No. 1 football team in the nation.

Thanks to a terrific game played by Texas' Longhorns on New Year's Day, our Whoo Pig Soule bunch nailed down the top place in balloting by sportswriters this week.

If Texas hadn't defeated Alabama in the Orange Bowl, the Arkies would have remained in second, no doubt, after having such a battle on their hands before subduing Nebraska in the Cotton Bowl.

Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Langham and family of Wayside and Mr. and Mrs. Wes Langham and family of Pampa visited during the holidays with their parents and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Langham.

People appreciate this type of response.

Some people will tell you coyotes don't kill calves. This is true until they start running in packs. The greatest damage they do is not in killing calves.

A lurking coyote or a pack of coyotes keeps an old cow hovering over a new-born calf for several days. Otherwise, she would be out eating and producing milk for the new-born calf.

BRUCELLOSIS PROGRAM
Leslie Darsey and several others are planning to vaccinate calves under the Bang's program now in progress. The technicians of the Texas Animal Health Commission have been unable to obtain vaccine for three to four weeks.

We do not know the reason for the delay. If there should be others that need heifers tested we hope to finish all herds the week of Jan. 18-22.

There are only four or five herds left in the county that have not been tested. The county can be certified Brucellosis free just as soon as the last herd has been tested.

GOOD QUALITY CATTLE VS. POOR QUALITY

It was interesting to read a report on how Faris Hess' cattle are doing in comparison with the Texas Tech hardship crosses.

I noted the gain on the Hess cattle was costing $15.80 per hundred-weight, while the Tech gain was costing $18.75 per hundred-weight.

At weaning time the two Tech calves weighed 305 pounds and were valued by two order buyers by separate bids at $144.75.

The Hess calves weighed 985 pounds and were valued at $229.01.

The significant thing here is the fact the Tech calves were worth only $72.37 each at weaning and the Hess calves were worth $114.50. We are in the cow-calf business in this area. Anytime a good Hereford cow will out-produce a hardship cross by $42.13 in one year, you can argue all you want for cheap cattle and you will lose the argument everytime you own anything short of the best.

If feeders didn't usually make more money off of the good cattle they wouldn't be paying $42 more per head.
