Worley Speaks At Barbecue

Congressman Gene Worley was a speaker at the Masonic barbecue held Monday evening in honor of the organization of a DeMolay organization for McLean.

Rev. F. E. Grady gave the invocation, Mayor Boyd Meador presented the key to the city, and Rev. Wm. R. Lawrence made an address on masonry.

The barbecue was preceded by a big street parade with two bands and a drum corps furnishing martial music.

Shriners and other masonic orders were represented with several bus loads of members and officers from Amarillo and other towns.

The Amarillo DeMolay team exemplified the initiatory work of the order at the masonic hall following the barbecue, which was served in the city park.

THESE ADS PAID

J. S. McLaughlin, popular implement, car and tractor dealer, had a couple of mowers on hand and while he was afraid it was too late in the season to sell them, he tried a classified ad in a recent issue of the paper and sold both of them to readers of the advertisement.

Mayor Boyd Meador's ad two weeks ago sold real estate without his name being on the ad.

Not a week passes but some advertiser reports results from these little advertisements.

If you have something anyone wants, at the right price, a quarter will sell it for you.

CAMP LABORERS NEEDED

According to L. P. Port, local manager of the United States Employment Service, 25 more laborers are needed to work at dismantling the POW camp at McLean.

Norman Trimble of Berger visited his mother here Friday. He was enroute to Hobart, Okla., on business, accompanied by the Berger football coach.

Johnnie Cubine of Lawton, Okla., visited his grandparents here last week end. He was accompanied by a boy friend.

CONGRESSMAN WORLEY who spoke in McLean Monday and Tuesday

Methodist Men Have Barbecue

The men of the Methodist Church enjoyed a barbecue Tuesday evening, with some 91 men in attendance.

Dr. Neal D. Cannon, pastor of the church, was the speaker of the evening. He brought with him one of his church quartets composed of Loren Young, Horace Truett, Tom Fletcher and Cleo McGinnis.

The beef was furnished by the Hess ranch and barbecued by Joe Hindman, J. E. Kirby and W. W. Boyd. The kitchen force which prepared the trimmings for the meal was composed of Ercy Cubine, Charles Cousins, J. L. Hess and others.

According to Pastor H. A. Longino, the men were so enthused over their first try at a men's meeting that they voted unanimously for another in the not distant future.

WEEK OF PRAYER OBSERVED

The Baptist W. M. S. observed the State mission week of prayer Tuesday, in an all day meeting at the church.

The lesson covered the mission work of the state, with all present taking part on the program.

Those present were Miss Mary Lee Abbott, Mesdames T. A. Langham, J. T. McCarty, Boyd Reeves, H. W. Finley, Leo Gibson, H. M. Kunkel, W. E. Rainwater, Homer Abbott, W. R. Lawrence, R. L. Appling, Ruel Smith, Vester Dowell, Nolan Burch, Marshall Giesler, Joe Willis, Leroy Williams, A. L. Rippy, T. N. Holloway, F. E. Stewart, Murray Boston and Luther Pettit.

Next week the ladies will meet in the afternoon for work, and a Royal Service program will be given at 8:00 o'clock in the evening.

PRAYER RETREAT HELD

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Presbyterian Church met Wednesday of last week in the church parlor for a Prayer Retreat.

Mrs. F. E. Grady was leader of a very inspiring program on prayer. Prayers were offered for church, community, state and national affairs, also for the missionaries and Westminster Fellowship in the local church.

Miss Frances Sitter sang a solo accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Travis Stokes.

Others present for the meeting were Mesdames Haskel Smith, H. E. Franks, J. B. Hembree, W. W. Shaddid, Arthur Erwin, C. O. Goodman, Mattie Graham, E. L. Sitter, T. E. Crisp and P. H. Bourland.

A FAMILY REUNION

The T. A. Landers family enjoyed a reunion Sunday, the first time in ten years for all the children to be present. Mrs. C. C. Mead's birthday was celebrated at the noon meal.

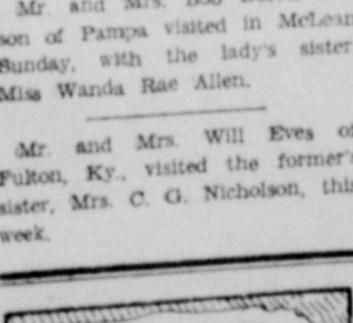

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Landers of Washington, D. C., Mrs. V. B. Reagor and son, Tommy, of Amarillo; Miss Fern Landers of Lubbock; Mrs. D. P. Carruth and children of Elsa, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Mead and children of Pampa, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Grigsby and children, Mrs. Mildred Grigsby, daughter, Jo Ann; and son, Richard, of the Merchant Marine.

T/S Billy C. Crisp arrived home Friday from Manila. He will receive his discharge from the army in 90 days.

THE LOW DOWN

HICKORY GROVE

I been reminiscin'. Been trying to recall how bad times really were 20 or 30 years ago, like we hear so many pop-off that we don't ever want to go back to same. And summing up my deductin' I am in favor of going back. Back to when you could have a rasher of bacon with your corn-cakes—also maple syrup—also butter—also peace and tranquility versus raucous alley bands and wispy "economics" soap-boxers.

The era of baloney, you might call today. They say how we should avoid the old kind of days. But we are still ailing and experimenting with bigger medicine—leave a cure for every symptom. And our blood pressure keeps rising—like the taxes. And all the time, all we been needing to do is to go back to the old ways. Like up there in Toronto, a feller had a stiff neck and ringin' in his ears. The doctors took out his tonsils—then his teeth—then his appendix. He kept on having a stiff neck and ringin' in his ears. Then, he happened to need a new shirt—he still had 3 bucks left. He asked for a size 16, but the shirt man said you need a 17—doot you know, he says, that a tight neck-band will give you a stiff neck and ringin' in the ears.

The gent took a 17—started sleepin' nights again—charged his teeth and tonsils to experience.

Yours with the low down,
JO SIERRA.

Congressman Talks A Bomb

Congressman Eugene Worley of Washington, D. C., was guest speaker at the Lions Club Tuesday, giving his experience as an eye witness of the atom bomb tests.

Mr. Worley also told of the progress of the peace conference and various international relationships.

The speaker was presented by Mayor Boyd Meador, lifelong friend.

Biscuit throwing accounted for several fines by the tall twister.

It was voted to sponsor a poster contest in the schools for Fire Prevention Week.

Adjournment was taken with 15 members present.

C-C Sales Barn Meeting Called

A meeting of the chamber of commerce has been called for Thursday evening, Oct. 3, at the city hall to discuss the disposal of the stock sales barn.

Directors of the C. of C. have gone on record as favoring donating the building to the school district for a bus garage. Speakers representing the school will be present at the meeting to show the benefits to the community of this plan.

While the actual sale or disposition of the barn is at the discretion of the directors, everyone interested has an invitation to attend and take part in the discussions, according to Guy Hieber, president of the chamber of commerce.

SET YOUR SIGHTS

It takes planning to achieve a goal

Some young men know what they want and plan for it. Others are still looking for their niche. The new Regular Army can help both.

Perhaps you want to go to college but can't afford it. If you enlist in the Army, you'll get your chance. Honorably discharged after a three-year enlistment, you are eligible for 48 months of education at any college, trade, or business school for which you can qualify. The Government will pay your tuition, laboratory fees, etc., up to $500 per ordinary school year, plus $65 a month living allowance—$90 a month if you have dependents.

If you haven't found your spot, an Army enlistment offers you training in any of 200 trades and skills. You leave the service eligible for further training at the best civilian schools.

You can assure yourself of the benefits of the GI Bill of Rights if you enter the Army on or before October 5, 1946. See your nearest Army Recruiting Station for details.

HIGHLIGHTS OF REGULAR ARMY ENLISTMENT

- Enlistments for 1½, 2 or 3 years. (1-year enlistments permitted for men now in the Army with 6 or more months of service.)
- Enlistment age from 18 to 34 years inclusive. (17 with parents' consent) except for men now in Army, who may reenlist at any age, and former service men depending on length of service.
- A reenlistment bonus of $50 for each year of active service since such bonus was last paid, or since last entry into service, provided reenlistment is within 3 months after last honorable discharge.
- A furlough for men who reenlist within 20 days. Full details of other furlough privileges can be obtained from Recruiting Officers.
- Mustering-out pay (based upon length of service) to all men who are discharged to enlist or reenlist.
- Option to retire at half pay for the rest of your life after 20 years' service—increasing to three-quarters pay after 30 years' service. All previous active federal military service counts toward retirement.
- Choice of branch of service and overseas theater (of those still open) on 3-year enlistments.

Dalton Ford over at Barnes Elevator is a man after our own heart. A few days ago he walked in the News-Review office and said: "Noticed you haven't run our ad the past few weeks." Then he fixed up a new ad and said: "Run her fifty-two times a year. We realize the importance of a good newspaper to a town, and a newspaper must have support to serve the community as it should." Any time you hear a business man talk that way, brother, he is a live, wide-awake booster for his community. A man like that realizes that he is not only helping his town by supporting the home town newspaper, but he realizes that advertising pays dividends. The business firms that spend tremendous sums for advertising aren't doing it to help the newspapers and magazines out—they are doing it to help build their own business.—White Daily News-Review.

Tale of a Mouse

By M. J. COLLINS

STAN JACKSON owned the service station beside the pine grove a few miles outside the town. It was a good location and Stan made a fair living.

This was Saturday and he'd been busy all day, and so had the cash register.

"What's goin' on now?" Highway Patrolman Clancy Burke asked as he stepped into the service station. Stan looked up from the corner where he was bent over fixing something. "I'm trying to catch a mouse," he answered, "and having a time of it, too!"

"Listen, Stan," Clancy's mood turned serious. "There has been a lot of service stations robbed lately, youngsters seem to be at the racket, so don't leave too much cash lying around."

"Oh, they'd never bother with a place like this," Stan's mind wasn't on Clancy's warning. "Now if I could only catch that mouse," Clancy said.

The next few hours were busy ones for Stan. It was well past midnight when he eased himself into his rocking chair for a look over the newspaper. "I'll stay open till one o'clock just in case there are a few more to come," he thought.

Hardly had he settled down when there was a "snap."

"Ah," he cried, "I've got you this time!" Jumping to his feet, he rushed back to the corner. He pushed the box aside, but the mouse was gone, and so was the cheese.

The man looked hard and grim.

Perplexed, Stan scratched his head. Getting another bit of cheese, he reset and placed the trap in position. As he turned around the mouse scurried back into a hole in the opposite wall.

"I'll get you yet!" he muttered, shaking a fist at it, and picked up his paper.

The cash grinding to a stop woke him up. Before he was out of the chair, the door opened and a man stepped in, closely followed by a girl.

"Good evening," Stan said, starting to move behind the counter. The man looked hard and grim.

"Stand where you are," the voice sent chills up and down Stan's spine. "Put up your hands."

A small automatic's ugly snout was pointing where Stan had always considered his heart was. Right now it was pounding in his mouth. His hands shot up with all possible speed.

"Wise guy," the man sneered. The cash register sat on the counter at the opposite end, and Stan's eyes stole towards it. There was almost two hundred dollars in it.

"Take it easy, buddy," the man laughed. "It's going to help the poor, eh, babe?" he said to the girl.

"Yeah!" from the corner of her frowning mouth.

If Clancy were only here. Stan's ears were straining for the sound of the motorcycle.

"Here," the man said curtly, "hold the gun on him." She took it while he emptied the register.

The sight of his vanishing money made Stan see red.

"Don't try it, sap!" the woman said coldly.

A pair of small, beady eyes stared out of a hole in the wall. The mouse started to run across the floor. The girl screamed and, dropping the gun, scrambled up on a chair.

Cursing, the man turned. All the time Stan's fist crashed into his face. He went crashing into the wall and slumped to the floor.

In the excitement the sound of the motorcycle had gone unnoticed. Clancy had stepped inside, surveyed the scene and quietly asked, "What goes on?"

Stan heaved a sigh of relief. "You're just in time."

"I think so," Clancy said dryly, taking the gun out of the shaking hand. "This might go off and damage someone." And as an afterthought, "even you."

The two would-be thieves had been taken away. Stan and Clancy were in the back drinking coffee. Clancy asked, "Just how did you get the drop on them?"

"Well," he replied, "he handed the gun to the girl. Migosh, wait!" he cried, rushing out to the front. In a few seconds he was back. "Look at this," holding up the trap. The mouse was pinned by the tail.

"Ah! Success!" Clancy chuckled, setting the trap on the floor. Stan noticed the mouse.

"What in the world did you do that for?" Clancy asked.

"The mouse proved my argument," Stan beamed. "It saved the country two hundred dollars."

New Jar

A new glass jar with a flexible, snap-on cap is now being used for five popular brands of coffee. The jar, which can be easily opened with a tablespoon and can be resealed air-tight with the palm of the hand, holds a high vacuum to protect coffee from the air. The jar itself is shorter, lighter and stronger than the standard coffee jar and its metal cap is removed by prying with the bowl of a tablespoon. Even though it may be bent in opening it snaps back into place when pressed back on. A rubber gasket in the cap forms the seal against the neck of the jar.

Noah Pitched Ark

Noah's necessity to keep his ark from leaking caused him to be the first user of ship's bottom coating—which today is a highly specialized product ranging from special toxic preparations to defeat barnacles to coatings made from closely-guarded formulas and sprayed hot upon the bottoms of ships with special spraying equipment. It is recorded that Noah "pitched his ark within and without," a job which evidently held good until his craft came to rest upon Mount Ararat.

Removing Crimp from Wool

Try this method of removing the crimp from wool that has been used before. Wind it round and round an aluminum hot water bottle, then fill the bottle with almost boiling water and leave for two or three hours. The wool will become as straight as new and quite ready for use. This method is much quicker than the old way of winding into skeins to wash, dry and then wind into balls again.

Slows Circulation

Research workers at the Mayo clinic have found that smoking ordinary cigarettes containing nicotine slows the circulation of the blood in the arms and legs so that they become colder, according to the 1945 Encyclopaedia Britannica book of the year.

Butter Flavor

The first rule is to use butter where the flavor will mean the most. For some people that will be on the breakfast toast, for others on vegetables. A good table substitute for butter which contains the same vitamin A percentage is fortified oleomargarine.

Limited Dress

Regulations at a fashionable girls' school in 17th century France limited the students to one set of underclothing, one pair of stockings, and two handkerchiefs a month. They were allowed to take one foot-bath a month and three complete baths a year.

Tomato Dressing

A dressing for tomatoes, equal to any, is made by merely sieving well ripened avocado and seasoning with lemon juice and garlic salt. This will reduce the pressure on hard to get salad oil, ordinarily used for dressings.

Blind Children

About 1 out of every 500 children of school age in the United States is either blind or suffering from very serious impairment of sight, according to a statement issued by the U. S. office of education.

Ironing Curtains

When ironing sheer rayon curtains, use a warm iron. The curtains will hang remarkably well without stretching if the inside of the panel is ironed first; then the hems on all sides.

Remove Caked Polish

Caked polish can be removed from furniture by washing with mild, neutral soap. Rinse off all soap with clean cloth wrung from clear warm water. Use water sparingly.

Poultry Range

Good range for poultry will reduce disease and parasite troubles, will also reduce feed costs and, in most instances, will grow stronger, healthier pullets.

Slows Heat Flow

Insulation makes buildings more comfortable by slowing the flow of heat through walls, making the building warmer in winter and cooler in summer.

Storing Shoes

Shoes that are not to be worn for a season should be repaired, cleaned and polished, put on shoe trees, wrapped in tissue paper, and stored.

Watery Sap

Did you know that maple syrup sap as it flows from the tree tastes like water? Vermonters often use it instead of water to make coffee.

Saving Bread

If each American family would save just half a slice of bread a day, the savings would amount to half a million loaves of bread daily.

Milk Transport

The milk industry is a great highway user, employing 100,000 trucks in hauling milk and milk products.

Dehydrated Cabbage

A half pound of dehydrated cabbage makes four pounds to be used for stew or cooking.

Big Land Deal

The Louisiana Purchase doubled the area of the United States.

Uncle Sam Says

All of us are familiar with quizzes about this and that. Let's take this question: What is the strongest, economic family asset in America? Millions of you could win the Jackpot prize for the correct answer. U. S. Savings Bonds, of course. Ownership of U. S. Savings Bonds is now part and parcel of our American way of life because Americans know that Savings Bonds help to build a better, firmer future. Americans know that they yield a good profit at no risk at all to the principal.

CRYBABIES

The government at Washington has encouraged everybody in recent years to run crying to it with every little trouble.

They have come awfully close to turning us into a whole nation of mamma-babies, sissies and softies. This country was built by men with guts enough to strike out on their own, men who didn't ask Uncle Sam to protect them from every bruise and bump.

Today it seems as if nobody wants to work or fight or live or breathe without a "guarantee" and a feather cushion from Uncle Sam.

If we don't watch out, the politicians will get us right where they want us—dependent on them for everything in life, Ood forbid!—Don Herold.

Trainmen live up to the rules of courtesy, but they are only human. When an unreasonable and obstreperous patron ended an abusive tirade by asking where the washroom was, the conductor patiently explained that it was at the end of the coach, with the word "Gentlemen" on it, then muttered to himself (so low that no one but he heard it) "But don't let that deter you."

Be Patient

The speaker had been haranguing the audience for more than an hour when an inebriate, who had become somewhat impatient, arose and asked: "Shay, how long you been lectur-in'?"

The speaker smiled good naturedly at the interruption and replied: "About four years, my friend."

"Well," he remarked, as he sat down, "I'll stick around—you must be nearly through."

DE DUNCE!

Teacher—Now, Tommie, make a sentence using the following words: Defeat, deduct, defense and deceit.

Tommie (after short trance)—Defeat of deduct went over defense before deceit.

Hot Dogs?

"On and on through the polar blizzards we pushed," reminisced the ex-sourdoogh, "and it looked like we were going to make it to the Pole, when all of a sudden our dogs give out."

"Don't give us that stuff," challenged the listener, "the Eskimo dog is one of the ruggedest animals in creation. They're practically tireless."

"Oh, I didn't mean it that way," explained the old sourdoogh, "I was speaking in the culpary sense."

Yes, Where?

Walking through a churchyard when he was a small lad, Charles Lamb amused himself by reading the inscriptions on the tombstones. His eyes grew large with surprise and wonderment as he noted the glowing peans of praise which were offered to the departed ones.

At length young Lamb paused in the midst of his wandering and, turning to his older sister, Mary, who accompanied him, plaintively inquired, "Mary, where are all the naughty people buried?"

Hard to Conceal

Joseph H. Choate, lawyer and statesman, and S. Weir Mitchell, celebrated American physician, were both guests at a banquet. The two eminent men were in high spirits and poked good natured fun at each other.

"I've always envied the medical profession," kidded Choate. "At least you can bury your mistakes."

"Yours, I understand," retorted Mitchell playfully, "swing in public."

Inconsistent

Producer Samuel Goldwyn has complete confidence in his abilities. Not so long ago while thumbing through a magazine, he came across an article signed by himself.

"Darn that man who wrote this," complained Goldwyn. "He hasn't the faintest notion of what my literary style is like. He ought to take a look at the article my previous writer did for me."

GOT THE POINT

McNutt—I met that impossible Bill Swiggle today.

His wife—Yes, and I suppose you argued with him until you were black in the face.

McNutt—No, just around one eye.

Variety Wanted

Jack—There's a man who's reputed to have a good head on his shoulders.

Mac—Yeah, and a different one every night!

Closing Words

"Do you really always have the last word in argument with your wife?"

"Sure. I always say, 'yes, darling!'"

Not Appropriate

"What did you take at college?"

"I took a course in husbandry."

"Then why in thunder did they give you a bachelor's degree?"

Plenty of Room

A driver on a Chattanooga-Knoxville bus told incoming passengers: "All right, folks, fill up the back. Act like you're at church."

What a Man!

Madge—What do you think of a man who is constantly deceiving his wife?

Jack—He's a marvel.

Uncle Sam Says

No farmer will question the link between this familiar September scene of filling up the silo and his United States Savings Bonds. Farmers must reckon with the future every moment of their lives. The crushed green corn stalks which they are storing away this month by tons will assure their livestock of winter feed. The Savings Bonds which they are also storing up will add to the security of their families.

Or would we choose to travel on alone,
If we could call them back?
If we could call them back,
Would you—would I?

Brainy Talk

Prof. Thomas H. Huxley, renowned English biologist, was popular on the lecture platform. While delivering an address on the brain one night he was upset when he observed that the audience did not seem to be following him. One elderly woman, however, looking on his words and indicated her approval and comprehension by nodding her head at frequent intervals. Naturally, Huxley directed his lecture at her and was delighted when she came to him at the close of his talk. "Are there any questions you would like to ask?" said the professor. "There is just one little point I didn't get quite clearly, Mr. Huxley," chirped the old lady. "I didn't understand whether you said the cerebellum is inside or outside the brain."

An Irishman, in his cups, took a short cut through the cemetery on his way home one night. He fell into a freshly-dug grave, fell asleep and didn't wake up until early the next morning. Then he stood up, looked up at the dawn-lighted sky and around at the scores of tombstones. Amazed, he whispered: "Glory be, it's the morning of the resurrection, and I'm the first one up."

Old Story to Him
The gentleman behind the desk received the stranger with a smile, had him to be seated, and said, "Have a cigar."
"Don't mind if I do," said the stranger. And then sensing something unusual in the atmosphere, he added, "Is this a special occasion?"
"It is," was the reply.
"I've got an addition to the family," "Really?" said the stranger. "Congratulations!"
He put a match to the cigar, puffed on it a few times, and then observed, "About the fifth child, I presume."

Breezy Place
Not so long ago Alben Barkley appeared in the senate with a patch over one eye.
"What happened to you, Barkley?" one of the senators asked.
"Having a little trouble with my eye," replied the majority leader.
"I'm under a doctor's care."
"What's the idea of the cover-up?" pressed the other.
"Oh, that, the medic advised me to protect my eye against wind," explained Barkley. "Under the circumstances I figured I had better wear a patch to the senate."

School for Patience
He was probably the world's worst father and was at the very bottom of his form. After a particularly exasperating hole, he said to his caddy: "You know, the only reason I play this game is to develop self-control."
"In that case, sir," replied the boy, "you should try caddyding instead."

Seemed Right Way
Little Willie had gone to bring the kittens in. His father, hearing a small meowing, called out: "Don't hurt the kittens, Willie."
"Oh, no," said the youngster, "I'm carrying them very carefully by the stems."

"Henry dear, we've been going together for 15 years. Don't you think it is time we were married?"
"Yep, but who on earth would marry either of us?"

Financial Follies
The newlyweds had a joint bank account.
"The bank has returned your last check," Mr. Newlywed grimly informed his bride one day.
"Oh goody! What shall I buy with it this time?" she sweetly asked.

Foolish Question
"Of course I'm not married," said the haughty lass. "I'm nobody's girl."
"Then will you be mine?" he proposed.

"Rebuilding soils and forests is repairing war waste," is the theme of this year's Texas Forest Festival being held in Lufkin, Oct. 7-12. Miss Jane Eagle is comparing the sizes of a short-leaf pine seedling and a 35-year-old mature tree, stressing the fact that forests can be rebuilt. Last year, Miss Eagle was named as one of the ten most beautiful co-eds attending the University of Texas.

To those who eagerly await their new Chevrolets . . .

Here Is the Latest News about Chevrolet Deliveries

Everybody from factory to dealer is doing everything that can be done to speed deliveries to you

We have been informed by the Chevrolet Motor Division that the past month has witnessed only a slight improvement in the rate of production of new Chevrolet passenger cars. As a result, shipments of new cars to dealers for delivery are still far below the level we and the factory had hoped to attain by this time. In fact, through August, Chevrolet's output of cars in 1946 was only 22.6% of the number turned out during the corresponding period of 1941.

We know that Chevrolet is doing everything possible to step up its production totals—to ship more and more cars to us and to its thousands of other dealers throughout America; and we know, too, that we are assured of getting our full proportionate share of the current output and of future production gains.

Disappointing as the total figures have been—and despite the fact that Chevrolet was out of production entirely during the first three months of the year—it is nevertheless true that Chevrolet led all other manufacturers in production of passenger cars during June 1946, and has continued to maintain its lead in total production from that day to this.

We shall continue to make deliveries of new Chevrolets to our customers just as fast as we receive them; we regret delays as deeply as you do; we thank you for your friendly patience and understanding; and we promise you a new high motoring experience when you take delivery of your new Chevrolet, giving BIG-CAR QUALITY AT LOWEST COST!

Keep Your Present Car Alive
Meanwhile, may we suggest that you safeguard your transportation by bringing your car to us for service now and at regular intervals. Let us help you to keep it in good running condition—to maintain its performance, appearance and resale value—until the day when your new Chevrolet comes along.

Hunter's Moon

By DON C. SHAFER

THREE long and valiant years ex-Corporal Loren LaFond had waited for this day. Now he was home again. Home in his beloved mountains.

This was the day of days—the first day of deer hunting. Since he was fourteen, when grandfather gave him his first rifle, Loren had hunted deer, and until he enlisted he never missed an opening day.

At Wolf Rock Loren left the old log road and made his way slowly and carefully to the top of Windy Ridge, connecting Cat Mountain with Old Tobie, where he knew of a natural deer crossing. This was a likely place to intercept a buck disturbed by drivers on the opposite ridge and seeking safety in the rocky heights above. In the distance he heard a rifle shot, another and another.

"One shot meat," repeating the old saying to himself, with a grin, "Two shots maybe, three shots salt pork for supper."

At the top of the ridge he selected a convenient rock where he could stretch out his aching leg and rest his back against a tree. Warm October sun filtered down through the lacey pattern of interlaced branches overhead.

Far down the slope, a shadow moved. Watching closely, Loren saw that it was a big buck, and coming his way. Ordinarily this buck would have been bedded down for the day. Evidently it had been aroused by hunters and knew that it was being hunted.

The buck came slowly up the wooded slope, antlered head swinging low, stepping carefully to make no noise, taking full advantage of the cover. Loren knew that a buck runs only as a last resort, with long legs and specially developed muscles to carry it bounding over twelve-foot obstructions, leaping thirty and more feet at a stride. Every few careful steps the buck stopped and when motionless was quite invisible in its protective fall coloring.

Loren started homeward.

As the buck came nearer Loren could see that it had been wounded. From time to time it turned to lick a bleeding cut high on the left quarter. It fairly crawled up a shallow ravine.

Nearing the top of the ridge the buck "froze," breathing deep—evidently a bit of man scent warned it of danger ahead. A few slow and cautious steps and it laid down in a small hollow, with only the antlered head, on long neck, raised to watch, polished horns looking like a bit of dead brush. Then Loren saw the hunter coming up the slope, a heavy man in red mackinaw coat, softly crushing dry leaves, watching the woods ahead, automatic rifle ready, but paying no attention to the faint trail. The red coat passed within a few yards of the hidden buck, never suspecting it was there, and disappeared down the hill.

Loren was so engrossed watching the safety precautions of the hunted that he almost forgot that he was the hunter, with a loaded rifle across his knees. Now, at point blank range, he remembered the gun. Waiting until the buck's head was turned, he raised the rifle quickly. In that instant, as his eye sought the rifle sights, there flashed through his mind the memory of another hunt—

He saw a wounded Yank, helmet and rifle gone, in torn G.I. uniform, splashing through the muck and water of a rice paddy, in a hail of bullets, falling and rising again and again. Excited Japs splashing after him, screaming, shooting, racing from all sides to head him off, to kill him. The hunted man ran limping down a hedge row, threw himself into an irrigation ditch, along which he crawled with speed, to gain a maize field.

From field to field they harried him, beating up the cover, showering every movement with bullets. Exhausted, hurt, the hunted man laid hidden when he dared, slinking away again when the noisy hunt became too close, using all the craft and cunning learned from wily bucks he had hunted, not always successfully. He doubled back, where they would be least likely to look for him, and slid unobserved into the muddy water of the rice paddy. Submerging all but his face he covered this with a handful of water weeds and laid there until darkness and the hunt was over for the day.

The picture faded away—the rifle came slowly down. "I don't believe I will ever hunt again," he said aloud. The surprised buck bounded away. Loren got up, rubbed circulation back into his aching leg and started homeward.

Good Alibi

The Sunday school superintendent was reviewing the lesson. "Who led the children of Israel out of Egypt?" he asked.

There was no answer. Pointing to a little boy at the end of the class, he demanded, "a little boy, who led the children of Israel out of Egypt?"

The little boy who had been made conspicuous said, timidly, "It wasn't me. We just moved here last week. We're from Missouri."

GOING BROKE?

"Get my broker, Miss Jones."

"Yes, sir, stock or pawn?"

A Nice Job

Two college presidents were discussing what they'd like to do when they retired. "I'd like to be superintendent of an orphan's home—no letters from parents," said one.

The other suggested: "Why not be a penitentiary warden? The alumni don't insist on coming back."

Very Scent-sible

Mama Skunk was worried because she could never keep track of her two children. They were named In and Out, and whenever In was in, Out was out, and if Out was in, In was out. One day she called Out to her and told him to go out and bring in In. So Out went out and in no time at all he brought In in. "Wonderful!" said Mama Skunk. "How in all this great forest could you find In in so short a time?"

"It was easy," said Out. "In-stinct."

Stowaway, Eh?

A Scot was engaged in a lengthy argument with a train conductor as to whether the fare was 25 or 30 cents. Finally the exasperated conductor picked up the Scot's suitcase and tossed it off the train just as they passed over a bridge.

"Mon!" screamed the Scot. "It isn't enough to try to overcharge me, but now you try to drown my little boy."

Wanderlust

Jeremiah Ezekiel James lived in the same house for 46 years. One day, to the consternation of the whole town, this solid old citizen moved next door. A reporter was sent to interview him, for this was real news.

"And Mr. James, just what caused you to move?"

The old fellow took a chew on his tobacco, and then replied, "W-a-a-l, guess it must be the gypsy in me."

DON'T BELIEVE THIS

There is said to be an elephant hunter whose technique is unique to say the least. His equipment includes a blackboard, piece of chalk, tweezers, mason jar and a telescope. He climbs into a tree, writes "elefant" on the blackboard and waits.

When all the elephants in the woods come up to laugh at the mar who can't spell, the hunter takes his telescope and looks through the wrong end of it, so the elephants look almost minute. Then he picks them up with the tweezers puts them in the mason jar and heads for home.

Something Wrong!

"Have you any abnormal children in your class?" a harassed looking teacher was asked.

"Yes," she replied, "two of them have good manners."

Volume Control

When a woman lowers her voice it's a sign she wants something when she raises it, it's a sign she didn't get it.

Wrong Place

"So you met your wife at a dance. Wasn't that romantic?"

"No; embarrassing. I thought she was home, taking care of the kids."
