

City Okays Building On Two Tennis Courts

Actual work on the pouring of the concrete for the two tennis courts in the city park will get underway as soon as equipment for handling the work can be obtained, it was announced this week. The city authorized the work to be done about three weeks ago, Mayor Harris King said.

In charge of the work are Chas. Cooke and Pete Fulbright, who will give actual supervision to the work.

Cooke and Fulbright have already had the site for the courts leveled, and the plot is now ready for the concrete forms to be laid. A concrete mixer is needed, and when one can be obtained for the work will get ahead.

Bids for the job were asked for, but due to the high prices of labor, etc., the bids were believed to be high for the city to meet the expense, and Cooke and Fulbright agreed to supervise the work, thereby saving the city considerable money.

The idea of constructing the courts was first brought out several years ago, but no action was taken on the completion of that idea. Then several months ago the newly-organized McLean Garden Club took the responsibility of pushing the work.

At that time the city agreed to defray the expense of building the courts, and the council voted to spend up to $1,000 on the project. Another $200 was added to this fund from proceeds of the Lions Club minstrel show, and the Garden Club raised a small amount of money also.

The courts will probably cost more than the amount now available, but the city has authorized the construction to be done, the mayor said. The need for the courts is now, King explained, and they will not be available for summer play.

Scout Patrol Leaders Named For Troop 25

Another step toward a more active Scout troop in McLean was taken Monday night when the new Scoutmaster, Rev. Karl Ernst, named patrol leaders for the troop and divided the troop into five patrols.

The group, to be designated as Boy Scout Troop No. 25, Adobe Walls Council, will enjoy their first outing since organization a few weeks ago when they go to Lake Sandspur Monday afternoon.

The troop will leave McLean at 8:30 o'clock in the afternoon, and after swimming and a picnic lunch, they will hold their regular weekly meeting at the lake. All Scouts are urged to attend, and adequate numbers of adults will accompany the group for supervision.

Named as senior patrol leader was Ray Longino; troop scribe, Benny Cooper; quartermaster, Eddie Bob Jolly; and bugler, Dan Cooper.

The Eagle patrol will consist of Ray Longino, patrol leader; Jack Brooks, assistant patrol leader; and Bill Boston, Eddie Bob Jolly, Neil Price, Jackie Bentley, Dan Cooper, Gale Plummer, and Bud Atwell.

The Owl patrol will consist of Jimmie Don Morris, patrol leader; John D. Coleman, assistant patrol leader; and Benny Cooper, Wesley Langham, Dale Johnston, Cliff Callahan, Bill Shadid, Dale Olan, and George Oakley.

Firemen to Help Texas City Area

Members of the volunteer fire department of McLean voted Thursday night of last week to contribute $2 per member for the relief of families of the firemen killed in the Texas City explosion.

The contributions will be sent to the Texas City firemen's relief fund.

Owners of Lots Reminded of Spraying Date

Owners of cow lots, chicken lots, etc., were reminded this week that Friday is the date on which such property will be sprayed with a DDT solution in an effort to combat the fly, mosquito, and disease menace during the summer months.

The spraying will be done with the county spraying equipment, E. J. Howard, Gray County sanitary engineer, has explained.

The work is being done with the cooperation of the city officials. The city is furnishing the solution, Howard explained, and two city employees will aid in the work.

All people who have cow lots, chicken lots, pig pens, etc., are asked to have their lots cleaned up as much as possible before the spraying is done, Howard said. If this is done properly, but if not, another spraying may have to be done in about six weeks.

In addition to spraying lots, all water holes which may breed mosquitoes are to be sprayed, Howard said.

By eliminating the source of germs, it was pointed out, much of the chance of disease can be cut down. Flies are carriers of a number of disease germs, among them the dreaded polio germs. Howard said that a fly could carry a polio germ for 30 days before depositing it again.

Leona Forbes Quits Nazarene Pastorate Here

Another of the pastors of local churches has resigned.

This was revealed when it was announced last week-end that Miss Leona Forbes, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene for the past 18 months, had resigned, effective June 8.

Miss Forbes came to McLean from Buffalo Gap, where she had served the church for seven years. She has been pastor here for the past one and one-half years.

A former teacher of several years experience, Miss Forbes is making preparations to re-enter the teaching profession this fall.

She has her Th. B. degree, and also won the silver cup scholarship award at the time of her graduation, but she left the first of this week to re-enter college for the summer to work toward a bachelor of science degree.

No successor to Miss Forbes as local Nazarene pastor has been announced.

REV. JOHN R. STEPHENS

Rev. Stephens Accepts Call By Baptists

Rev. John Ray Stephens of Iowa, who conducted a revival at the First Baptist Church here several months ago, has accepted a call to the pastorate of the local church, it was announced Tuesday.

Rev. Stephens was in McLean Monday night and Tuesday, meeting with members of the church's committee.

He will succeed Rev. Wm. R. Lawrence, who resigned recently to accept the pastorate of the First Baptist Church at Dalhart.

The new pastor will assume his charge July 1, it was announced. Conducting services next Sunday will be Leo McDonald of McLean.

Rev. Stephens was well received during his meeting here, and members of the church extended him a unanimous call to serve as pastor here.

Rev. Lawrence left Wednesday night of last week for Dalhart, following a farewell supper given for him and his family at the church. The family was presented an electric mixer by the church as a parting gift.

Rev. Lawrence came to McLean a year ago, following his discharge from the armed services where he had served as a chaplain in the army air corps. Prior to his time in the service, he had served as pastor of the Lefors church and the Dumas church.

Teen-Agers Nite Draws 136 Total

A total of 136 children and parents attended "Fun Nite" at the American Legion hall last Saturday night, and the event proved to be the most successful thus far in the summer series.

The next "Fun Nite" will be held Friday night at 7 o'clock at the hall, it was announced.

Overseas Vets Urged to Attend VFW Meeting

Overseas veterans interested in the formation of a Veterans of Foreign Wars post in McLean are urged to be at the Lions Hall tonight at 8:30 o'clock when plans for organization of such a post will be discussed, J. M. Payne, member of the VFW who is working toward the organization of a post here, said this week.

Representatives of the VFW post at Pampa will be present to the discussion, and give pointers on the organization procedure, it was explained.

A general discussion of organizing the post will be held, and plans outlined for the formation. The meeting is being held primarily to determine whether sufficient interest warrants the organization.

Payne emphasized that the VFW post will not be organized in an attempt to work against the American Legion post already active here, but to work with the Legion in all matters possible.

In other towns, he pointed out, most veterans belong to both organizations, and there is seldom any conflict in the activities of the two groups.

Only those veterans who served aboard ship or on foreign land are eligible to be members of the VFW, it was explained.

If sufficient interest is shown at the meeting tonight, temporary officers will be chosen, and application for a charter will be made when the required number of 20 members is obtained.

Alanreed Has Large Crowd At Homecoming

A short business session was held and the following were elected: President, Harvey Craig; vice president, W. H. Davis; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. A. H. Moreman. Stewards appointed by the incoming president were W. J. Ball, O. W. Hommel, and Weller Snyder.

Veterans Vocational School Starts Monday

Gray County's first vocational agricultural school for veterans, provided for under the G. I. bill of rights, will convene for its first class next Monday night at 8 o'clock in the agriculture building at McLean High School, Superintendent Logan Cummings announced this week.

Named as instructor of the class, which has enrolled already 17 veterans, is O. J. Duke of Amarillo. Duke, a veteran, is a graduate of West Texas State College. He and his family will move to McLean within the next few days.

All veterans who are engaged in farming are eligible to enroll in the class, it was explained. Certain provisions are made for disabled veterans who are unable to work but who wish to take up the study of agriculture.

The class, to meet twice weekly, may include as many as 20 veterans. Seventeen have enrolled so far, Cummings said, and three more may enroll in this class. If sufficient interest warrants, other classes will be started.

All veterans interested in enrolling in this or future classes are urged to attend the Monday night meeting, Cummings said, so that they may find out what the school is about.

Under the set-up, veterans may attend the school for as long as four years. During the time they are enrolled, they may draw subsistence pay ($75 per month for single vets, $90 for married vets). This subsistence pay is the same allowed for veterans attending college under the G. I. bill, or those engaged in on-the-job training.

Working with Cummings in obtaining the school in McLean is Huey Laycock, county superintendent in Pampa. Laycock was in McLean last week-end completing plans for the school.

Veterans who have received their certificates of eligibility and who will be in the first class are George Clovis Bible, Gordon W. Billingslea, Robert J. Bruce, Billy C. Crisp, Jew Willis Finley, Walter James Foster Jr., Harry Edward Franks, Bernard Tilford McClellan, Spencer Bell Sitter, Raymond B. McFerrynolds, Homer Wilkie Smith, Milton Montie Skipper Jr., Wilbur L. Wilson, and Rufus Duane Holmes.

Already attending a similar class at Clarendon are three men who will transfer to McLean. They are Audie M. Glesler, Hubert W. Swill, and Eugene Greer.

Oh, Sugar!

Those old ration books you've been guarding for the past few years are about as worthless this morning as a blown-out inner tube. But maybe you have accumulated enough of them to paper your house.

Anyway, sugar rationing ended at midnight last night by order of Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, although price control on the sweet stuff will continue until October.

Now the only thing remaining under strict control is that all-important rent item. When rent control will go off was not announced.

Worley Fights Agricultural Appropriations Cuts; Terms Bill 'Important' to This Section

(Editor's Note: The following is the first of three parts of an address made by Congressman Eugene Worley during debate on the agricultural appropriation bill in the House of Representatives May 27. The speech is being reprinted here because of its interest to the people of this area. The bill referred to "is perhaps the most important" to this section of the country, Worley declared, and would do serious injury to the farming and ranching interests of the nation. The other two installments will be published when received from Worley.)

Mr. Chairman: A distinguished writer once called the parable of the prodigal son the most perfect story plot ever contrived. That parable has provided the framework for the story of human frailties many times in many forms. It provides an ideal framework for the story of American political life of the last decade and a half. Let me tell you the story of American agriculture and American political parties in that framework. There was once a great nation called the United States. And this nation had two great political parties. One was called the Democratic Party, and the other was called the Republican Party. Now the Republican Party in the year one thousand, nine hundred and twenty said to the nation, "Give me that part of the estate which is mine. Give me the rulership of this nation. The Democratic Party has had it long enough."

And the nation—foolishly—did as it was asked. It gave to the Republicans the rich inheritance of leadership of the land which had become the wealthiest and the strongest on earth. But, alas, this Party encouraged lavish and worthless investments in far off countries. It watched the paper values of the exchanges on Wall Street rise high on the hot wind of speculation. It looked at the ticker, tape and clapped its hands and said, "All is right with the world. Such and such a stock is up another five points."

Dear Mom,

I don't know whether you had given it much thought or not, but I'll be needing a little extra money in the next two days. You see, Mom, I haven't been saving any from my weekly allowance, and all of a sudden a very important day is coming up. And I'm wondering if you can spare me a little extra cash. For you see, Mom, next Sunday is

Father's Day

And I feel like I've just got to get him something extra special.

Maybe so you will have time to do my shopping for me, and I'd suggest you drop in to Roger Powers drug store, 'cause he's got a bunch of things I know Dad would like.

Maybe so, if you can spare it, let's get him one of those good ZENITH radios and then we can all enjoy it.

Or maybe if that's too high, let's make his shaving easier for him by getting him a Remington Foursome, one of those electric shavers that will really shave.

Dad likes to smell good, too, and he will appreciate some new shaving lotion, or maybe one of those sets.

Or even a new pipe or a box of cigars.

Or maybe a box of that delicious Pangburn's candy (and I like that, too).

How about it, Mom?

Your son,
Jimmy

LESS GERMS. LESS POLIO

LAST SUMMER, people throughout this area were alarmed over the increase in the number of cases of polio, and the disease was striking in all types of families and all ages. Some towns took steps to eliminate the possibilities of the disease getting started, but most towns did little. Yes, they agreed, it's a good thing to clean up a town and rid it of the germs which may cause much suffering. Yes, that's what they said, but all they did was say it.

This summer, the same problem is confronting the people of this area. The clinic for polio victims at Plainview is beginning to receive more victims. The summer months breed flies, and flies can carry this dread polio germ from your cow lot manure to your dining table bread.

Tomorrow, E. J. Howard, the county's sanitary engineer, will be in McLean with the county's spraying equipment, and these cow lots, etc., will be sprayed with DDT to cut down the number of flies for the summer. The spraying will cost the individual no direct amount, although the city will be out a small amount in paying for the DDT solution.

To make the spraying as efficient as possible, the lots should be cleaned up first, and that's where you come in. Howard is asking that you get your lots cleaned up as good as possible, and then his crew will saturate those flies with DDT.

It's merely another step for better living in McLean, and we should all welcome it. We should all be for anything to raise our health standards, and if Howard says this will help, then let's cooperate with him.

Mrs. C. E. Cooke, Mrs. Donald and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cooke in Beall, W. T. Wilson, Bob Beall, Lubbock, and Gordon Wilson left Wednesday for a visit in Amarillo with Mrs. Marie G. Forder of Baton Mr. and Mrs. Allen Wilson, J. E. Houge, La. visited last week in Cooke and family in Plainview, McLean with friends.

This striking official poster of the Nurses National Memorial campaign is from the pen of Harry Devlin, one of the youngest and best known illustrators in the country. Born in 1918, he attended public school in Elizabeth, N. J. He was graduated from the College of Fine Arts, Syracuse University 1939, and in 1941 married Dorothy Wende, noted portrait painter. Honorably discharged from the Navy (U. S. N. R.) where he served from 1942 to 1946, he again took up his pen and brush. His son, Harry Jr., 4 years, oldest of 3 children, has had his first illustration accepted and by-lined for early publication in one of the national magazines. This poster was Mr. Devlin's contribution to the fund raising campaign for the building and endowment of the Nurses National Memorial Home in Washington, D. C.

LES TALK BY LESTER

Practically all newspapers, even a small weekly, are flooded each week with publicity matter from all over the country, and it might be added that practically all of this unpaid advertising (for that's the kind of stuff we usually get) is tossed in the waste basket. Occasionally, however, something of interest does come through the mail to us in the publicity channels, and recently a 24-page pamphlet from the American Red Cross was mailed to us.

This pamphlet was a preliminary report on the Texas City explosion, and what the Red Cross did there in aiding the people of the stricken area. The report was made following the severe, and what I thought very unjust, criticism handed the Red Cross by the mayor of Texas City. Having never met this erstwhile gentleman, a fellow named Trahan, or something like that, I am foregoing any criticism of him, although I honestly believe he needs quite a bit of it after having read his outburst against the Red Cross.

The report sent out by the organization on what they did is very thorough for a preliminary report, and it brings to my mind the many criticisms of the Red Cross I have heard since I returned from the service. I have noticed that the critics usually pick their time to talk when the volunteer workers ask them for the annual Red Cross donation. Most of the critics say they do not want to donate because "some ex-service man" said the Red Cross was no good to him during the war. Yet I have never personally heard an ex-service man make that remark, although I am sure some of them have.

I am one person who was never given direct aid by the Red Cross, before or during the war. But then I was never injured, and neither was I ever in need of help from them. I don't feel that they owed me any help. Once when I was on a little island in the Pacific for a short time (my time overseas was spent aboard a ship and not stationed on an island), some of the enlisted men from various ships in the small harbor were gathered around a hut. I looked in, and there were two Red Cross girls taking turn about dancing with the sailors. They wouldn't get over two steps with a boy until another would cut in. But the boys got a great kick out of it.

for these were the first white girls they had seen in months. To them the girls were beautiful, representing those girls back home, although actually the girls were not pretty at all. But the Red Cross sent them, and those girls volunteered to go to that island outpost and be companions for sailors and soldiers for a minute or two. None of the sailors or soldiers ever had time to even find out the name of the girl they were dancing with. But they were girls, they were white girls, the first these sailors had seen in a long time. If for no other reason, I believe that the Red Cross did a good job during the war in bringing home a little closer to the boys overseas. This particular outpost I mentioned was a very minor affair, but it helped win the war. I personally don't give a hoot what you think of the Red Cross—I think it is a good organization. Perhaps, some day, you will think so, too, if your home blows away or burns down, or something of that nature happens.

Listening in on— THE 1615 PARTY LINE

Editor's Note: Although the following letter was not signed, it is being published because of its interesting style, and because of the lack of telephone service reportedly being given the people on the rural party lines. The News has made no check to determine the accuracy of the "non-service" the rural phones are giving.)

If you haven't taken down your telephone receiver lately, you really ought to—of course, you couldn't hear anyone. But that is because no one can call out on our line, and we can't call town.

Oh, I don't exactly mean that no one can call out on it, because around the end of the month, we hear our phones ring, and when we answer, we hear the feminine voice of the operator, with a pert "May I draw on you for your telephone bill?"

Now mind you, we don't mind paying our bills, but when you ring and ring and the operator never answers, or when you are in town and try to call home, and when you get home, find that the phone hasn't rung all day, and the operator must have rung on some other line, you just don't feel like you are getting anything for your money.

But it never fails that the operator can call you and have the nerve to ask you, "May I draw on you for your telephone bill?"

So we sort of have the impression that the trouble with our line, but the switchboard right there in town. Otherwise, the operator couldn't call us when bill collecting time comes around.

With This Ring I Thee Wed

Marriage, symbolized by the wedding ring, is a tie which binds hearts and hands in a union which forms the basis of human society. Its purpose is to improve human relations, provide for the continuity of the race, and enrich human lives with the blessings of companionship and love.

A wedding is rightly an occasion of great joy; but it is also an event which marks the assumption of solemn responsibilities. It is a pledge of fidelity and wholehearted devotion which forecasts the establishment of a home and the rearing of children.

To meet these responsibilities and make marriage a success, men and women need divine guidance and the strength and inspiration which come from religion. A home without these lacks one of the first essentials to successful living and true happiness.

A church connection should be one of the first considerations of the young couple who leave the altar as man and wife. A home founded upon faith in God and the precepts of religion will stand unshaken in all the vicissitudes of life.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend and support the church of his choice. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church on Sunday and read your Bible daily.

BOYCE HOUSE
"Gives You Texas"

Did you ever wonder whether newspaper reporters lead as interesting and as exciting lives as you've heard they do. Well, I was inclined to doubt it but I've just finished reading the proofs of a book which will be off the press most any time now and after reading the book, which is entitled "Cub Reporter," I'm inclined to believe that newspaper folks do have experiences as varied and thrilling as the novels and the movies proclaim.

"Cub Reporter" is not fiction but tells about some of the events that a police reporter on a city daily "covered" as a part of his daily work. The author, who was then just out of high school (this was back in 1916 and 1917) tells about Revisky, the "one-thumb slayer" and "scar-faced killer," as he was known. Revisky, convicted of murder, escaped and, as a posse unwittingly approached his hiding place, he drew a bead on the cub reporter but was dissuaded from shooting by a companion.

Then there was Wild Dan, who killed six people at one time. Wild Dan threatened to kill the cub reporter and, 10 minutes later, Wild Dan was dead. Of course that's not the whole story.

And the book tells of the man who arose from the dead; of grizzled police officers and the tales they told around headquarters at midnight when things were quiet, and there are word-pictures of old time reporters, a colorful crew, and of Bud the bloodhound officer; C. P. J. Mooney, a great editor, and the climax is the

All of us would like to put dad on a pedestal on Father's Day to show him how we feel about him the year around. New Cotton Finish Is More Durable

Three mortal enemies of modern fabrics—alcohol, oils and water—get the merry ha-ha from cotton printcloth given a durable glazed finish now on the market.

The glazed finish will add life to sheer, medium and heavy cottons, the manufacturer says, is crisp or drapable depending on the fabric, and will stand washing. It stabilizes shrinkage to a guaranteed two per cent. Glazed fabrics are used in dresses, playsuits and bathing suits. In home furnishings they find application in tablecloths, dresses, bedspreads and dressing table skirts, among other uses. The process has been approved by the Better Testing Bureau.

"COTTON ED" Says

Thar's a'gonna be some NEW DOIN'S . . . 'ound here

Man alive . . . been Cotton Farmin' nigh on to 40 year . . . Seen a right smart too . . . in my day . . . but as "Cindy" would say . . . I ain't seen nuthin' yet. . . .
Yep . . . in them 40 year of Cotton Farmin' . . . I heard some tall talk . . . but this NEW DOIN'S thar BEE'S AWAY WITH HAND CHOPPIN' . . . by mountin' blow torch . . . on a burnin' out the weeds and NOT A HURTIN' THE COTTON sounds purty fer fatched . . . Course now . . . them Elk Cottonoil Boys sez it'll work . . . and they usually know what they air talkin' about . . . ain't never been led a stray by listin' to 'em yet.
Well sir . . . This Contraption I MUST SEE . . . The Elk Cottonoil air a'gonna have a dem-un-strate . . . Guess they figure what helps us helps them . . . and that's right and proper . . . ain't it? Anyway they call this Critter a FLAME CULTIVATOR . . . does away with hand choppin' . . . and it's a heap cheaper . . . cost only 'bout 50 cents a acre . . . that's a savin' from $5.00 to $10.00 a acre . . . Now I ain't one to get sold very quick . . . But with that savin' I would shore make money . . . First time I reck'lect on airplane an' 'lectric lights I didn't think they would work nuther . . . SO I'M A SEEIN' THIS CONTRAPTION.

Just take 50 cents times your cotton acres and figure that agin what you have been a payin' for cleanin' out yore cotton by hand . . . That'll show you what I mean.

ceased to be customers for city goods.
 Desperate in the effort to hold their properties, farmers mined the soil, frantically endeavoring to dig up, as if by the roots, enough cash to meet their costs of interest and taxes. And millions of acres lost fertility and topsoil while farmers lost their homes and their land.

Agriculture was prostrate. The low state to which agriculture had fallen by 1932 is not easily forgotten. In that year farm operators went bankrupt at a rate of one every two minutes—and this they did twenty-four hours a day and seven days a week. Many farm laborers were glad to work for room and board. Mortgage debt alone took a tenth of the farmer's gross income—to say nothing of taxes and other costs.

The average price of a bushel of wheat fell to 38 cents; corn to 32 cents; oats to 16 cents. The price of a pound of tobacco was 11 cents; cotton 7 cents; beef 4 cents; hogs 3 cents.

And the carryover of cotton rose almost fourfold in less than a decade, so that the people of my own state of Texas and of the whole South trembled on the brink of wholesale bankruptcy.

And over the radio punsters quipped, with an undertone of fear in their voices, about signs in public places being changed from "Keep off the Grass" to "Don't Eat the Grass."

The Republican Party had dissipated the nation's economy. Such was the inheritance of the Democratic Party when called upon by the people to rehabilitate a prostrate nation.

Then began the long struggle which has brought to this nation the greatest agricultural prosperity it has ever known.

Net income from agriculture last year was not two or three times, but eight times as great as in 1932.

Foreclosures and assignments were reduced not to one-half or one-fourth of the number in 1932, but to one-twentieth.

From near collapse, American agriculture has today reached a position where it is a hundred billion dollar plus industry, where its quick assets of currency, bank deposits and government bonds total some 20 billions, where farmers have a 93 per cent equity in their business.

What a difference!

Heavy Rains In Area South

Heavy clouds and a great deal of lightning brought only a small amount of rain to the McLean area Wednesday night, but south of here, in the Memphis-Hedley-Clarendon area, rains of cloudburst proportions fell.

Some hail accompanied the rainfall south of McLean, but no reports on the amount of damage were received. Each of the three towns, Memphis, Hedley, and Clarendon, received more than two inches of rain in less than two hours.
