Roosevelt To Veto Cash Payment Bonus Bill

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

Impression
Brain-trusting Rooseveltians often express irritation over Dan Roper's performances. They criticize him as a politician of the old-fashioned order. But Dan frequently exhibits the kind of pinch-hit brains the President needs these days.

Day after the bankers excoriated the administration's monetary policies at White Sulphur Springs some time ago Dan summoned his Business Advisory Council to the Capital and belittled them to the White House. There they endorsed several phases of the presidential program. They after the United States Chamber of Commerce lambasted the New Deal Dan again herded his council into Mr. Roosevelt's presence.

Since bankers and Chamber members serve on the council their objections at the White House after each attack upon its occupant extracts some poison from their sting. It gives the impression that Big Business is not unanimous in its antagonism toward Mr. Roosevelt.

Losses

Now that they have had time to think it over, some C. of C.'s regret the fierceness of their blasts against the New Deal. They are asking themselves if they were not used as window-dressing for these C. of C. revival meetings. In talks with certain White House emissaries some have spread the rumor that the anti-Roosevelt speeches were exaggerated and misinterpreted.

Their suspicions tally with Democratic reactions. Around the White House they refer to the various addresses as "chamber music," which is not a popular form of emotional expression. They note that Stiles H. Strawn, a staunch Republican, helped to stage-manage the C. of C. show.

The wish may be further to the thought but the Democrats minimize the importance of the Chamber's attitude. They suggest that this organization no longer speaks for the more influential business element, in view of heavy losses in membership during the depression.

Active

The administration is far more concerned over the strategy of the American Liberty League. The Shouse-Raskob-Smith outfit may constitute a serious threat to 1936 dreams.

The League has money and brains. It is establishing state branches. Still expanding it occupies more floor space in Washington's largest building than does the National Democratic Committee. Its pamphlets criticizing New Deal proposals are eagerly sought after by members of Congress, newspapers, government departments, the Republican Congressional Committee, and even the British Embassy.

So Jim Farley may be glad to learn that the League does not plan to participate in the presidential fracas. It will restrict its activity to electing or defeating candidates for Congress. But its record so far indicates that it will extend its blessing to anti-New Dealers in the main.

Errors

Organized labor chose the wrong time to stage a strike demonstration in the automobile industry. Their more intelligent leaders knew it all the time.

The industry had one of its best January-March sales periods in many years. The strike which threatened last December would have crippled the manufacturers, for then they could not meet dealer demands. But now, facing the slack season of spring and summer, they can afford to shut down. Exhibition of new models has been advanced from next January to early fall, and designing of novel features will take time. But a skeleton, scientific staff is all they will need for the next few months.

A strike of the production plants won't hurt so much.

A. F. of L. insiders cannot understand why their leaders failed to head off choice of such an unfavorable time and ground for a battle. Behind the scenes there is a muttered but growing demand for more expert generalship. One of these days it may upset Bill Green and his staff.

Crusade

"Safety glass" manufacturers are preparing for a profitable season. Almost without general notice lobby-gangs of the monopoly which manufactures this type of automobile window are persuading legislators to pass laws requiring it for

Hamilton, Palmer To Die Friday

Hamilton Has Slight Hope Intervention

Penitentiary Officials Go Ahead With Plans For Executions

HUNTSVILLE, (AP)—Penitentiary officials Wednesday discounted possibilities of court action or gubernatorial intervention and went ahead with plans for the execution early Friday of Raymond Hamilton and Joe Palmer—outlaws sentenced to death for the killing of prison guard, Major Crowson.

Defiant Palmer is already resigned to his fate.

Hamilton, one-time henchman of Clyde Barrow, clung to a faint hope, but was quoted as saying he was "prepared to die" in event the electrocution is held when scheduled.

Palmer is to die just after midnight; Hamilton fifteen minutes later.

Senate Jams Utility Bill To Passage

Prospects Of Utility Legislation At This Session Are Not Bright

AUSTIN, (AP)—The senate Wednesday jammed through to final passage the general utility regulation bill drafted by the senate state affairs committee.

The bill, passed by the senate 20 to 9, differed materially from that previously passed by the house. Many members believed prospects of utility legislation at this session were not bright because of sharp differences and shortness of time.

Motor Company Official In Argument Over Business; Another Wounded

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Conflicting business interests are blamed for the argument Tuesday which resulted in the death of J. B. Crum, 43, secretary-treasurer of the McManus-Crum Motor Company, and critical wounding of Ray Shelton, Jr., 31, vice-president and general manager of the company.

Shelton, in hospital, is given a chance to recover from a bullet which entered his chest and came out at his hip. Crum died in an ambulance on the way to a hospital.

Others who escaped injury by one of the three shots which were fired were J. J. Rheiner, office manager, whose left shirt sleeve was ripped by the bullet, N. J. Campbell, sales manager, and M. Leopold, salesman.

Edwin Uecker, investigator for the district attorney's office, was told that Crum, Shelton and Rheiner were in the office of the motor company when a controversy about business affairs was resumed. Shelton came here recently from Dallas.

Uecker was told Rheiner left the office and Shelton and Crum continued the discussion which dealt with Crum's determination to remain in the firm. After a shot was heard, Shelton staggered from the office and said, "call me an ambulance." Leopold reached for a telephone as Rheiner and Campbell stood nearby. Crum emerged from the office and another shot was fired, which narrowly missed the trio.

Crum returned to the office, a shot was heard, and employees found his crumpled form on the floor.

Darden Acquitted By Greenville Jury

GREENVILLE, (AP)—Sylvester P. Darden, overseas war veteran who laid blame for the tragic shotgun slaying of his wife to his young sleep-walking son, Jackie Glenn, was acquitted Wednesday on a charge of killing Mrs. Darden.

Belt Would Strike Howard County On The Northeast

A small but interested gathering heard John H. Jones, state director of the shelterbelt program being conducted under supervision of the United States department of agriculture, at Hotel Settles Wednesday morning. There were a number of out-of-town persons in attendance.

Mr. Jones was presented to the meeting by W. T. Strange, manager of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Jones immediately launched into explanation of the purpose of the shelterbelt campaign in the United States, which will form on its completion a strip of land 100 miles wide from Canada to Mexico, the main purpose of which will be to keep the soil from blowing and holding moisture in the ground.

"Tentative boundaries of the shelterbelt strip will come into Texas in the Panhandle and veer to the southeast, including a strip from Memphis to Snyder, and striking Howard county on the northeast," Mr. Jones said.

House Expected To Override Veto; Senate To Uphold

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Plain indication was given by President Roosevelt Wednesday he would veto the two billion, two hundred million dollar cash bonus payment bill passed Tuesday by the Senate.

This action—expected within a few days—was generally predicted on Capitol Hill while the House took last strides toward a vote on the administration's omnibus banking legislation.

In telling reporters he might act quickly on the bonus bill, the President spoke short while after Speaker Byrnes predicted the House would override his veto, but the senate would uphold the chief executive.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Provisions of the omnibus banking bill to make permanent the existing temporary deposit insurance plan were approved Wednesday by the house.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—In direct defiance of expressed White House wishes, Senate backers of the Patman bill Tuesday smashed swiftly and successfully through three roll call votes to complete congressional action on the proposal to pay the bonus with $2,201,934,000 in new currency.

The final vote for the inflationary measure was 55 to 33.

Despite the last minute threat of a motion to reconsider, leaders predicted the bill would move toward the White House Wednesday.

The ballot, which sent through unaltered the House-approved bill, fell several votes short of the two-thirds necessary to override a presidential veto. Leaders who had threatened that the bill would bounce back from the White House promptly predicted a veto would be sustained. But advocates issued contradictory predictions.

With Maximum of Speed
Colorfully with a minimum of talk and a maximum of speed—the Senate reached its final action through a process of elimination. Before crowded and noisy galleries it first rejected the Harrison compromise bonus plan, 54 to 39, and then by a 52-35 vote the Vinson-American Legion proposal for cash payment of ordinary treasury funds.

Observers credited two factors with playing some part in the final result. One was a record-breaking deluge of telegrams asking support of the Patman bill, inspired by Father Charles E. Coughlin of Detroit.

CANADIAN DEFEATS LA BELLE BEFORE LARGE CROWD

Unknown Boy Continues His Win Streak

El Turko Takes Rex Sullivan With Body Smother

The largest crowd ever to witness a wrestling match here—nearly two thousand spectators—were on hand last night at the outdoor arena of the Big Spring Athletic club where three fast and furious matches were staged.

Gene La Belle, who was the favorite of fans at the outset of his match with Ernie Arthur, fell victim to the Canadian's onslaught after some forty minutes of gouging and choking.

Gene drew a flutter of applause as he stepped into the ring, while Arthur was booed, but the crowd went with the Canadian after Gene continued using illegal tactics.

There was no stalling or slow work in the match at any point. First fall went to La Belle in fifteen minutes and thirty-three seconds. He took it with a flying jenny.

The second fall went exactly one minute longer and was taken by Arthur with an arm whip. Referee Mantell was continually warning the Frenchman against eye gouging.

Gene was forced to slap him against the ropes several times. Gene fired a verbal barrage at Dutch but never took a swing.

Arthur won the match with a reverse flip in nine minutes. Ernie appeared to be greatly exhausted near the latter part of the scrap, however, and was slumping under continuous blows by Gene, who could take more punishment than the boy from Canada.

La Belle had hard luck at the fast. A terrific reverse flip by Arthur was too much for the rough Mid-west champion. He was unable to leave the ring without help.

The terrible Turk won over Rex Sullivan in ten minutes, taking the fall with a body smother. A touch of comedy was added to the match when Rex got a firm hold in El Turko's lip growth and made him go through some amusing gyrations.

The Masked Marvel continued his victory streak by defeating Gorilla Pogi. The bout had plenty of knuckle action. It went 22 minutes before the Unknown got active enough to try a series of drop-kicks and a body smother.

Fair Course In Top Shape

800 Horses Stabled At The State Fair Grounds

DALLAS, (Spl.)—After nine days of rain, the sun has shone upon the Fair Park Race course here, and the crowds came and increased the mutual play and more entries for the feature races of the week. The mudders have had their day, according to the clouds, and some of the other 800 horses stabled at the state fair grounds are being entered in events of the week.

Despite the bad weather, business has been good, according to Julius G. Reeder, general manager of the track and with prospects in store for good weather remainder of the week. Judge Reeder still expects the spring race meeting at the state fair to be the best yet held in the Lone Star state.

Entries were good for the Dallas juvenile handicap run on Wednesday. A second Dallas day was made of the event and with a good field running business was good.

The Texas Centennial exposition handicap will be run Saturday as the feature race. It is a $1000 added event for three year olds and upward and will go to seven furlong distance. Nominations closed last Saturday and following are those entered:

Getalong of the J. A. Blackwell stable; the Coraenna Stable entry of Blessed Event and Wacoche; the Esakay stable; the C. E. Davison entry of Jens Son and Show Boy; Bold Lover owned by Mrs. E. Haughton; Rip Van Winkle owned by the Long Star Stable; Mad Wind, owned by Mrs. H. McIlvain; the Lee J. Marks entry of Marconed and Marson; Croon owned by R. C. Strube; Hueu, owned by A. C. # SPORT LINES

BASEBALL WILL BE A HUNDRED years old in 1939, and the birthplace of America's national sport is planning a fitting celebration a long time ahead of schedule. Cooperstown, N. Y., where the game originated, will ask the cooperation of organized baseball in staging a centennial event.

THIS BEING THE TIME OF year when fishermen are unlimbering the old rods and reels, we thought some of you might be interested in this little ditty, what ever you want to call it, headed ONE CONSOLATION:

"I don't mind the lies that fishermen tell,
Nor the spirit in which they conceive same."
For by this thought I'm served full well—
I'm at liberty pot to believe same."

THE COSDEN PIPELINERS of Foran are seeking tough competition for Sunday, and a wire to Bloddy Cross at San Angelo last night brought word that a game might be arranged with Humble of Sonora. The Humble club is one of the strongest in the Concho Basin league, although defeated in a hot game several weeks ago by San Angelo. The Angelo team has a game lined up with Ballinger.

C. H. DEVANEY OF COAHOMA wants to book some games. The Coahoma manager has called practice sessions a number of times but the boys wouldn't turn out. He believes they'll take more interest and start playing if a fairly good team will agree to play at Coahoma. Are you interested?

THE TEXAS HIGH SCHOOL Coaches Ass'n. is to throw a big life story of the Russian dancer whose much-talked-of tragic fate had made the book one of the best sellers of the past winter.

Mrs. Thurman reviewed the book for the Junior Hyperion club and every member who heard it was wildly enthusiastic over her review and the interesting story. It was this interest which caused the committee to ask her to review it, at a time when people are seeking entertainment with information.

This will be the last book review to be given this spring. Proceeds will go toward buying books for the children's library.

ENDING A PARTNERSHIP

This year's convention of the United States Chamber of Commerce ends the truce between big business and the new deal, entered into at the convention last year. Speakers on the convention floor criticized the administration in general terms and Friday, President Roosevelt declared that he felt that business men in the main were behind his policies and that the United States Chamber of Commerce was not representative of business.

The United States Chamber of Commerce should not interfere with Roosevelt's policies, and its open breach with the President are likely to hurt.

The people of the United States will not forget too soon that when a national economic collapse threatened big business was either helpless or disposed to do anything about it.

Harper Sibley, incoming president of the chamber waxed grandiloquent when he said: "President Roosevelt's admirable recovery effort cannot be considered more than temporary palliatives." He then laid down what is to the United Chamber of Commerce, axiomatic: "Business and business alone has the power to set up long-term recovery programs."

Mr. Sibley failed to state why big business, which has the opportunity since the 70's, has failed to stabilize prosperity and avoid the worst periods of depression that the country has ever known.

He failed also to admit that business is vastly improved since the inception of the New Deal, and that the improvement is not due to any discernible effort on the part of big business. Nor did he attempt to tell us where we might have been if it had not been for these "temporary palliatives."

The truth is that big business believes that the wolf is no longer at the door and it wishes to resume business without what it considers government interference.

The chamber infers that the tendency of reform proposals impedes the efforts of business to set up long-term recovery programs. There is room for difference of opinion on that point, and the record can not be said truly to sustain the claims of business to length and the sureness of vision.

But business is rapidly regaining its lost self-confidence. It is clear that business antagonism toward the new deal has now become so sharp as to make impossible any extensive program of business and government cooperation. At the same time, it is probable that business will be content for the present with complaint and a snobish, attempting nothing in the way of active obstruction. If it came to open warfare, organized business could bring about conditions that would wreck the administration program and insure Roosevelt's defeat next year.

The President would fight back, of course, and his ability as a fighter is not to be despised. But it isn't fear of administration reprisals that chiefly restrains business from lending its powerful assistance to the country's radical wrecking crew; it is consideration of the cost to the country of losing the ground we have so painfully gained, coupled with the prudent recognition that the new deal might be followed by a newer one that would make the current version seem safe and conservative by comparison.

Newsies Win Over Angels

The Herald Type Line won their fifth game in six starts Tuesday evening, defeating the Mellinger Angels 6-4, and the V. F. W. emerged victor for the first time, this season, securing a 6-4 win over the W. O. W.

The Angels suffered a terrific letdown and failed to flash the form they had shown in every other game to date.

Ray McMahon did mound duty for the Newsies and after a shaky first inning, settled down to hold the Hartmen to a single run through the remainder of the game.

Graves twirled good ball for the losers but did not show the control McMahon did in the pinches.

The Angels led off with three runs in the first when Jack and Leon Wilson, Redding and Hart trapped out base blows.

Redding's blow sent Jack across the plate and Hart doubled to score Leon and Redding.

The Hartmen wasted little time in tying it up with a three run rally in their part of the same frame. Hall homered for the Herald in that inning when Jones lost the ball in the lights and an Angel miscue accounted for two runs.

The Mellinger crew waited until the fourth to strike again, but finally took the lead when Graves scored.

Trailing one run going into their part of the fifth, the Herald applied the pressure to count two runs and take the game. Savage and Harris tallied when Morgan sent a line drive into center field.

The "Wonders" lost their sixth game in six starts against an improved Veteran team when the Vets' offense clicked at its best.

Morgan led the V. F. W. attack against Patton with two bingles.

The Sheppardmen showed a marked improvement in their play but could not cope with the Vet attack.

Book Review To Be Tomorrow At Settles Hotel

Final details for the book review to be given tomorrow afternoon at 4:15 at the Settles hotel are complete. Mrs. Ira Thurman will review the most discussed book of the season, "Nijinsky" the life story of the Russian dancer whose much-talked-of tragic fate had made the book one of the best sellers of the past winter.

Mrs. Thurman reviewed the book for the Junior Hyperion club and every member who heard it was wildly enthusiastic over her review and the interesting story. It was this interest which caused the committee to ask her to review it, at a time when people are seeking entertainment with information.

This will be the last book review to be given this spring. Proceeds will go toward buying books for the children's library.

Texas U. Officials Interested In Gulf Oil Co. Deep Test

AUSTIN — Administration authorities of the University of Texas and the thousands of other people who have the financial interests of that institution at heart are giving special attention to the progress that is being made by the Gulf Production Company in drilling the deepest hole in the world in Upton county. From a scientific standpoint the test well is of widespread interest. At the end of last week the depth reached by the drill was approximately 12,600 feet, or a near approach to two and one-half miles. To grasp what this really means, measure the distance on the surface with your eye-sight. It has been suggested, and then stand the imaginary line upright and sink it into mother earth. The well already exceeds by more than one thousand feet the former record deep well in this world which was drilled some years in the Tampico oil district of Mexico. The next deepest well is in California.

The importance of the well to the University is that if production in commercial quantities is obtained it will probably mean the bringing into demand for deep drilling a block of 77,400 acres of land owned by that institution in Upton county. The Gulf Production Company is seeking production in the Ellsberger line series of the Ordovician formation, in which stratum the deep oil is found in the University block of land in the Big Lake field of Reagan county.

Chapter 42 JAMES' WALK

James had left the mansion with every intention of walking as fast as his legs would carry him the two miles that separated him from his waiting dinner, at Oak and North Fifth streets. He was late already. Jane would have a right to be sore as hell.

He came to the lane that dipped abruptly down to the River Road. Almost involuntarily his feet turned into it. He was a coward, a cuss, a contemptible ass. But he had not, he could not find the courage to go back and face Jane.

He knew, nevertheless, that sooner or later he must go back. It was impossible, being what he was, just to walk out of her life and never see her again, as he desperately longed to do.

Well, this was his last day in uniform, the last hours he had left to feel himself a man and not just a husband. When he finished to spend these hours to suit himself. The Northrups, mere and pore, were certain to put in an appearance that evening.

If he had to listen another half hour to more of Mr. Northrup's slobber there sure would be murder some. Good! How he would enjoy squeezing that fat purple throat gripping his hob-nailed heel on that blighted overfed face!

James ate his "welcome home" dinner out of a can beside a camp fire. It consisted of stew, baked potatoes, coffee and raw corn whiskey.

His host was an extremely dirty but engaging member of the I.W. W. who had been thrown off the Kansas City local a few miles north of Leavenworth. James saw the camp fire from the road, made for it and was invited to dinner.

He stayed until after ten, arguing the merits and demerits of the capitalist system. He had a glorious time. So did his host. By the time James had drunk his full share of the quart bottle he had pledged himself solemnly to a war of extermination of the capitalistic class.

Shooting was too good for them. He'd begin in the morning. And he knew just who he'd begin with. But first he had a little matter to settle which could not be put off of his friend, his dear friend Bill, would look him up in the morning.

James heaved himself unsteadily to his legs, wrung the hand of his new-found comrade and started northward. The first mile or two he sang, he danced, he capered. Afraid of Jane? Afraid of the Northrups? He laughed long and loud. He hadn't been afraid of the Germans, had he? He hadn't been afraid to tackle a nest of machine guns? Well, yes, he had. He had been damned afraid. He'd even been sick at his stomach.

But he'd kept on going, hadn't he?

how until he'd had it out with Mrs. he? Just as he'd keep on going James Stimson and told her a thing or two that needed telling. One thing was that her paunchy stunted old bore of a father should never step foot over their threshold. He'd damned old capitalist! His friend Bill was right.

By the time James came to Commerce Street his head was a little clearer. He was not so anxious now to face Jane and have it out with her. Jane had a nasty way of getting under his hide and putting him in the wrong, no matter how guileless his actions, how virtuous his motives.

It would be like her now to say that he was drunk. He had never been so sober in his life. Let her say what she liked, he wouldn't care. After she had finished he would have his turn. He kept doggedly on.

When he came to the house at Oak and Fifth streets he saw that the lights were on. Crossing the lawn cautiously James peeked under a blind. Jane and her father were in the back parlor. Mr. Northrup was asleep in his chair. Jane was sitting bolt upright with a red spot on either cheek. She looked as if she had been crying.

But he'd bet his Sam Browne belt against the chances of the Germans at the Peace Conference that James wouldn't do any crying when he saw him. She'd be too busy faying him alive. James pulled his cap down over one eye at a jaunty angle, straightened his tie and marched manfully up the front steps.

Step by step he felt his courage ooze down his spine, down his legs, out of his ligging toes. But it was too late now. They must have heard him. He gulped and opened the front door.

Jane stood in the archway between the hall and the front parlor. James closed the door behind him and took off his cap. One glance at Jane's angry contemptuous lips and James' eyes fell.

Mr. Northrup stirred in the next room. James looked this way and that anywhere but at Jane. He found himself glancing at the inoffensive tables and chairs, glaring at the walls.

There was a large photograph of Jane on the mantel. It seemed to James that those pictured eyes were looking down at him and sneering. As Jane was now sneering. These eyes said to him that he was a coward and a failure. They knew that he could talk big to a drunken tramp, could talk big to himself. But talk was cheap.

"Where have you been?" Jane spat at him.

"Nowhere. Just walking around."

"I don't believe you. Why, you've been drinking. You're drunk. You loathsome, disgusting beast! On your first night after two years, you leave me here, frantic with anxiety, and go off and get drunk! You dare to come home drunk!"

She beat her hands together frantically. Mr. Northrup appeared behind her blinking sleepily. His hair was ruffled, his tie askew. When he caught sight of James he was suddenly fully awake.

"You," he said, "you contemptible good-for-nothing drunk! You ought to be horsewhipped, yes, horsewhipped! If it were not for the scandal, I would do it myself."

"You had better go home, Father dear," Jane said evenly. "I can deal with James drunk or sober. I have a few things to say to him that I'd rather say to him alone."

QUEZON LEARNS OF UPRISING

Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine senate, shown in his hotel in New York as he received word of the uprising in his country in which local constabularies near Manila clashed with radicals, allegedly communists. Sixty were reported killed before the situation was brought under control. (Associated Press Photo)

She smiled, an ugly thin-lipped smile. There was anticipation in this smile and pleasure. It would be a pleasure to Jane to gaud and sting him. Horror of Jane, horror and loathing should him. He stared at her a long moment. Why, he wasn't afraid of Jane. By God's mercy he wasn't the least afraid of her. James abruptly laughed loud and long.

"It may seem funny to you," Jane said, thrusting her face close to his across the table, "but I confess I fail to see anything funny in a drunker lot coming home to his wife, horrible, filthy... God, if you could see yourself."

James stopped laughing as suddenly as he had begun. He leaned ever closer to Jane, his hands on the table. "It isn't funny," he said

soberly. "I only laughed to keep from crying. We ought to be crying, both of us. It's a mercy that you ought to thank God for on your knees that you cannot see yourself... as I see you... as you are."

Mr. Northrup, who had been fairly dancing up and down in impatience, broke in. "You'll hear from me in the morning, young man. Yes, you'll hear from me. If you say a word more to my daughter in your present obscene condition I warn you that..."

"Shut up. Another blast from you and I'll throw you out of that door. Just you open your pig sty of a mouth again."

Mr. Northrup had already opened his mouth. He closed it hastily. James turned to Jane.

"May I... you one question before I go? It's a question that's haunted me for a long time."

Jane, clinging to her father, nodded but did not speak. James asked, "Did you love me when you married me?"

Jane amazingly shook off her father's restraining arm and came forward, came around the table. "Of course I loved you, my dear. Of course I loved you," she said and put a timid hand on James' shoulder.

"But I never loved you, so I am the one most to blame. Forgive me. And forget me. Goodbye."

Seven states now require that this so-called "shatter proof" glass be installed in private or "for hire" cars. Similar demands are before the 40-odd legislatures now in session, with a good chance of enactment. The movement, tenderly nursed by several corporations, is spreading, and there is talk of seeking federal action along this line. The AAA has watched the development closely, and thus far has protected actively by insisting that the provision apply only to new cars manufactured after a certain date.

But this "safety crusade" may prove costly. There is no assurance that the lobby may not move on private homes, office buildings and de luxe baby carriages.

Assist

It wasn't because Norman Thomas' engaging personality that President Roosevelt recently welcomed his 1932 Socialist opponent at the White House. Whether he meant to or not Mr. Thomas did the Democrats a good turn where they need it. He declared on the White House doorstep an excellent publicity pulp—there was more wretchedness in Kingfish Long's Louisiana than elsewhere in the land. The only material possession of starving tenant farmers, he said, is a long button proclaiming the doctrine of "every man a King." Huey has counted on support from Socialists in the cities if he heads or sponsors an anti-Roosevelt movement next year. But this rough talk by the Marxist leader in so many lost causes won't lead the Senator many votes in that sector.

Victory

The Nye Munitions Committee has pulled a smart one in hiring ex-Rep. Frank James of Michigan as an investigator. It has fortified itself for the fight to pass the Flynn bill against Bernard Baruch's milder ban on munitions profits. As former chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee Mr. James knows many secret war plans and preparations which the War Department would like to keep out of the record. His information, presumably, will be at the committee's service, and he never did like the generals who run the department. The Committee will need his aid. Serious opposition is piling up against extreme legislation on munitions profits at this time, and it is making headway in influential circles. In view of the world's disturbed state, and the program for building up both our navy and our army, the feeling prevails that all plans for curbing munitions manufacture ought to be laid on the shelf for a while.

Beds

A recent incident outside Preadler's door showed vividly why Congress and the executive branch rarely harmonize. It is a difference of temperament as much as of policies. Congressmen do not like to be rushed—or deflated publicly. From the President's chamber there emerged pompous, picturesque John Rankin, Mississippi's fiery Congressman, and Major General Frank T. Hines, brusque and snappy Veterans' Administrator. When asked what they took up with Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Rankin spread himself: "We discussed the dire need of new neuro-psychiatric facilities." "What we really talked about,"

San Antonio Man, Wife In Suicide Pact

Ill Health And Business Reverses Blamed, Notes Reveal

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Ill health and business reverses were blamed Tuesday for the murder-suicide pact of Charles M. Leake, 45-year-old printer, and his wife, Mrs. Carrie Leake, 46, who were found dead on a country road about ten miles northeast of San Antonio early Tuesday.

Justice of the Peace W. K. Shipman of Wemore returned a verdict of suicide by gunshot in Leake's case. In the death certificate for Mrs. Leake there was the entry "murdered."

"Don't blame anyone for this," said a note left by Mrs. Leake. The letter indicated there was a suicide pact. In a letter left by Leake, Mrs. Leake's ill health was given as a motive.

Rural School Rally Day Is Set May 24th

Biggest Annual Event To Feature Graduation Exercises Of Seventh Grade

Rural school rally day, biggest annual event for rural schools of this county, will be held here May 24, Miss Anne Martin, county superintendent, said Wednesday.

Feature of the program will be the seventh grade graduation exercises from the city auditorium. In the past it has been the custom to follow this with a picnic in the city park.

Standardization tests, employed in an effort to make school work more uniform, will be administered in the schools May 20-21. This year the tests are being given in all grades from the first through the seventh. Last year and the year before they were given only in the seventh grades students.

Shelterbelt Official In Talk To Lions

Says Project Not A 'Cure-All' For Dust Storms In Area

John H. Jones, state director of the shelterbelt program, Wednesday told Lions the project contemplated by the government was not a "cure-all" against dust storms and drought, but an example which if followed would produce remarkable results in several decades.

The "shelterbelt" which the government is sponsoring from Canada into the Texas Panhandle is to be largely a demonstration, he said. It is intended and hoped that farmers will see the wisdom of such a program and will follow the example.

The belt, he said, would not be a solid-line of timber 100 miles wide, but a series of sections on good cultivated land. Grass lands need no such shelterbelt, he said.

Type of trees will depend upon their adaptability to the climatic conditions and soils. The belt is to have six rows of trees starting with low scrubby plants and graduating into trees with great height. Main features of the belt will be that it deflects hot winds into the air, thus reducing the evaporation rate and curtailing the menace of raking surface winds.

These strips of woodlands, he

445 Citizens Sign Special Water Rate Contract Of City

Four hundred and forty-five citizens had signed a special residential irrigation water contract Wednesday noon. The last date for taking advantage of the concession water rate during summer months will expire one week from Wednesday.

The rate offers the first 10,000 gallons of water for $3.50, any part of a second 10,000 at 30 cents per thousand, and any part of a third 10,000 at 25 cents per thousand.

The rate is offered by the city to encourage consumption for irrigation purposes.

Tommy Ward Gets 2 Years For Forgery

Alleged Leader Of Forgery Ring Enters Plea Of Guilty Before Court

Tommy Ward, alleged leader of a forgery ring operating in Texas, Oklahoma, and Kansas, Wednesday morning pleaded guilty to a forgery charge in the 70th district court and was sentenced by Judge Charles L. Klapproth to serve 2 years in the state penitentiary.

Arrested in Kansas and sent to Odessa where he was indicted for a similar offense, Ward was brought here recently to stand trial for passing a bogus check to the Hollywood Shoppes.

An employee of the shop positively identified Ward as the "Ted Ford" who passed a spurious check against the Sun Oil company.

In Odessa, where District Attorney Cecil Collins said Ward would go on trial July 8, a woman also identified him as the "Ted Ford" who passed the same kind of check to her.

Mrs. Norman Read Honored By Coahoma Eastern Star Order

COAHOMA—The Coahoma chapter of the Order of Eastern Star met Tuesday night to honor Mrs. Norman Read, Grand Conductress of the organization.

Mrs. Edythe Wright was chairman of the committee in charge of program arrangements.

Among numbers on the program were readings by Mrs. Suddie Gibson and two of her pupils from Big Spring, and by Carlene Fletcher. Special piano music was offered by Bill Wright, Louise Martin and Dot O'Daniels.

A stunt, accompanied by piano music by Mrs. Leslie Adams, was put on by Mrs. Jim Martin, Mrs. Mattie Spears, Mrs. DeWitt Shives, and Edythe Wright.

Other numbers were a solo by Mrs. Frank Logan, and a dialogue by Mr. and Mrs. C. H. DeVany.

Consolidated Underwriters, suit to set aside award, was still in a jury's hands Wednesday afternoon. The jury received the case Tuesday afternoon. Williams had alleged total disability was incurred by working in an oil tank at the Cosden plant here.

Arrangements For Round Up Being Made

County Agent O. P. Griffin said Wednesday that his office would be ready to start receiving applications for Bankhead cotton certificate allotments here Monday.

Farmers can come to his office at their convenience anytime in the next two weeks to make application, he said.

He urged that they bring any certificates they might have left from 1934 and have them exchanged for 1935 certificates.

Approximately 1,100 producers are expected to make application for the tax exemption certificates.

Griffin Says He Is Now Ready To Receive Bankhead Applications

Two members of a jury view commission which will inspect the L. E. Coleman property at the top of the hill on the eastern outskirts of the city preparatory to condemnation proceedings had qualified Wednesday. A third and final member was expected to do so during the day. Qualifying were C. W. Cunningham and R. N. Adams. Condemnation proceedings have been filed against Coleman to obtain right-of-way for rerouted highway No. 1 east. Instead of curving around the summit of the hill as it now does, the road will continue in a virtually straight path.

As has been the practice in the past for highways within the city limits, the city is condemning and the county is footing the bill.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and snaky and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salt, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly feel good and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two ounces of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes three good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two ounces of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, among which it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Beware a substitute. 25c at drug stores. ©1931 C. M. Co.

The advertising columns are a buying guide to you in the purchase of everything you need—including amusements! A guide that saves your time and conserves your energy; that saves useless steps and guards against false ones; that puts the s-t-r-e-t-c-h in family budgets.

The advertisements in this paper are so interesting, it is difficult to see how any one could overlook them . . . fail to profit by them. Just check with yourself and be sure that you are reading the advertisements regularly—the big ones and the little ones. It is time well spent . . . at ways.

Army Resumes Recruiting

Fort Bliss Wants 200 Men At Once And Over 800 More In July

The War Department has ordered army recruiting officers to resume recruiting for the regular army, after a suspension of three months. Two hundred recruits are wanted at once for the garrison at Fort Bliss, Tex., and over 800 more will be needed when the increase takes effect in July. Troops at Fort Bliss are mostly cavalry and field artillery, with a sprinkling of quartermaster, medical, signal men and ordnance.

Recruits must be at least five feet four in height and of corresponding weight, and must be in first class physical condition. They must be unmarried and must have no one dependent on them for support. They must be men of good character and must be over eighteen years of age. Character must be certified to by at least two well known and reputable citizens of the community. If under twenty-one years old, age and consent to enlistment must be sworn to by parents. (Blanks for character and age may be secured at any army recruiting office). In addition, the educational test is the equivalent of about the eighth grade in school.

The main recruiting office for this district is located at Fort Bliss, Texas. Branch offices are at El Paso, Big Spring, and Lubbock, Texas; Clovis, New Mexico and Phoenix, Ariz.

Applicants for enlistment must make their own way to the branch offices. Then, if they pass the preliminary examination that is given by the sergeant, they can be sent at government expense to Fort Bliss.

Thirty-Nine West Texas Towns Entered In WTCC Poster Contest

PLAINVIEW—Thirty-nine towns have already entered the poster contest, which is an annual feature of the West Texas chamber of commerce convention, held this year in Plainview, May 13, 14, 15. New entries to this popular contest are coming in by every mail, convention manager J. A. Rix stated today.

Towns having already sent in their notice of entry in the poster contest are: Dumas, Munday, Electra, Floydada, Trockmarton, Hardin, Haskell, Dupre school and Geo. M. Hunt School, Lubbock.

Pecos, junior and senior high, Fort Worth, Mobeetie, Jno. Tarleton high, Amarillo; Olney, Breckenridge, Plainview, Perryton, El Paso, Fortnops, Richland springs, Wichita Falls.

Quannah, Dalhart, Slaton, Memphis, Tahoka, Artesia, N. M.; Blackwell, Abilene, Muleshoe, Brownfield, Canadita, Farwell, Marfa, Big Spring, Olton, Spur, Graham.

The poster exhibit contest was started at the San Angelo convention in 1934, where it attracted so much favorable attention that it became an annual feature of the West Texas chamber of commerce. The poster submitted is to portray the assets, advantages and resources of the city entering the contest. Many ingenious and original ideas were shown by the youthful artists who entered the contest in 1934. Posters, according to rules of the contest, should be of heavy cardboard, 18x28 inches. There are no limitations as to colors, pictures or decorations.

These posters will be attractively displayed at the Plainview convention, Mr. Rix stated, and will be judged by a group of disinterested persons upon the basis of neatness, appropriateness, subject matter, effectiveness and general attractiveness.

To the student making the winning poster, a silver loving cup will be presented and small cash prizes will be awarded for the first, second, third and fourth winning posters. In addition, the poster winning first place will be given appropriate publicity in West Texas Today, official publication of the West Texas chamber of commerce.

Posters must be in Plainview not later than Saturday, May 11, prior to the convention opening, that they may be properly displayed. Each town is allowed one entry for each of its schools.

Urges Use Of Centennial Slogan

Every Person In State Asked To 'Think-Talk-Write' Centennial By Cline

DALLAS — "Think-Talk-Write" Centennial, the slogan adopted during the first campaign of the Texas Centennial commission, is now urged upon every person living within the state, according to Walter D. Cline, managing director of the Texas Centennial Central Exposition.

"Time is slipping," Mr. Cline said here, "and we must do this thinking, this talking, this writing in a concerted effort to attract millions of people to our state to see our centennial. Texas will sell itself, our job is to sell the centennial."

Mr. Cline pointed out the effectiveness of personal contacts, either directly or through the mails, and further that most of the 6,000,000 people living in Texas had friends or relatives living in other states.

"We want to construct a huge chain of advertising by enlisting the aid and support of these thousands of people who are acquainted in Texas and who can help us to sell the Texas Centennial. We have already secured the names of many of these former Texans and are sending them literature at the present time. Chambers of commerce throughout the state have been asked to provide us with these names and many have responded. Any person having friends or relatives living in other states whom they would like to have us place on our mailing lists we will appreciate receiving such names.

"The success of our centennial celebrations lies within our own hands. We have got to tell the world about it, and that is what we are asking the people of this state to join us in doing. The greater the success of the undertaking the more beneficial it will be to every man, woman and child living in this state.

"The fact that there will be between $13,000,000 and $25,000,000 spent in Texas during these next twelve months will be of great benefit at the moment but the purpose behind our centennial celebrations is to sell Texas to the world. This is what we are asking each and everyone of the 6,000,000 Texans to help us do."

Travel By Air For Romance

LOS ANGELES—Most wives get their husbands up in the air, but only recently has this been done literally. The friendliness which prevails in an airline cabin may be compared to the informality which obtains aboard an ocean liner.

There is something with total strangers which results in coziness among passengers. Evidently women who wouldn't dream of speaking to a stranger ordinarily, will chat familiarly with their neighbors on a transcontinental flight. Portly gentlemen, the heads of big businesses, who are distant to the freezing point in their offices, drop the pose of frigid dignity and swap yarns with vengeance and gusto.

Recently a young couple got aboard an American Airlines plane at Los Angeles for a honeymoon trip to New York. On the flight across the country they confided to the stewardess that they had met a year before aboard the plane which took them west. He worked for one of the large film companies and she was going to spend a vacation with friends. The vacation never ended. She got herself a job in Los Angeles and the friendship which began to relieve the tedium of a journey ripened and they were married. They felt it only fitting and proper to return east by plane.

Appreciation Dinner For Ely

To Honor Former Highway Commissioner In Abilene May 18th

ABILENE—Home town friends will take the lead in honoring W. R. Ely for his eight years of service on the State Highway Commission at an appreciation dinner to be given at Hotel Wooten here on the night of May 18.

The Abilene Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the affair and invitations have been issued to chambers of commerce and newspapers throughout the State and to county judges and commissioners of all Texas counties. The invitation is general, however, said members of the directing committee, and all of Ely's Texas friends are invited to join in the tribute to his work as highway commissioner.

Reservations may be made through the Abilene Chamber of Commerce, it was announced. Final arrangements have not been completed, but the dinner will be a stag affair, and the program will be strictly informal. Ely recently was succeeded on the highway board by Harry Hines of Wichita Falls. The Abilene man had served since 1927.

Sharp Increase Texas Charters

AUSTIN—A sharp increase in Texas charters approved by the Secretary of State occurred during April in comparison with last year both in number and in capitalization, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. There also was a moderate increase over the previous month, the bureau's report said.

"Records from the office of Secretary of State give a total of 165 new charters granted corporations during the month, an increase of 2 per cent over March and 47.3 per cent over April last year," the report said. "Capitalization aggregated $2,064,000, an increase of 6.6 percent and 55 per cent respectively over the two comparable periods. The increase was especially

To protect your car fully, your motor oil must do two things:

1. It must be on duty during the starting period!

More than half of all motor wear occurs in the five minutes after you start, because straight mineral oils drain away, leaving parts dry. Even in warm weather your motor makes at least a thousand revolutions before the quickest-flowing oil can reach all parts.

Only Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil cuts down costly starting wear. It is the only oil that penetrates and combines with metal surfaces, forming a "Hidden Quirt" that never drains away. Your motor is lubricated before you touch the starter! You know your motor is protected!

2. It must withstand unusual driving stresses!

Cars built in 1932 and since have greatly increased power and speed. Bearing pressures and crankcase temperatures have increased in proportion. Flashing pick-up and high speeds make it necessary to have an oil with enough extra oiliness and film strength to withstand the increased load.*

Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil protects modern motors better because it has 2 to 4 times the film strength of any oil not Germ Processed! It maintains this high film strength at high temperatures. Say "O. K.—Drain"—fill with Germ Processed Oil and get full protection for your motor!

*Motor oils generally have no more oiliness and film strength now than they had 10 years ago. Many new refining methods now used to make oils free from carbon and sludge have lowered instead of increased oiliness and film strength, the very qualities on which depends an oil's lubricating value!

Germ Processed Oil is free from carbon and sludge troubles. But more important, the Germ Process puts into it 2 to 4 times the film strength of straight mineral oil, as Timken machine tests have proved!
