

THE FAIRVIEW

THE FAIRVIEW—Functional in design, traditional in authentic charm, the FAIRVIEW is a brilliant four and a half room, one-story home. Crisply neat, it has more usable space than is usually found in small houses. It lacks nothing. Through a roomy vestibule with huge coat closet, one enters a living room 20 ft. long by 13 ft. wide. A dining alcove makes an even larger, up-to-the-minute "L" shaped living room except for the hour or two a day when meals are served. The living room boasts a fireplace and a beautiful picture window. Both living room and dining room windows open onto a terrace for outdoor living. A real kitchen, two oversized bedrooms and bath complete this livable home. Conforms to FHA and National Adequate Wiring Bureau standards.

Get Suspected Ill to Doctors

In a statement on controlling communicable diseases issued by the Texas State Department of Health, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer, states that if every case of suspected communicable disease were seen promptly by the family physician and definitely diagnosed, thousands of susceptible persons would be protected from these disabling diseases.

"The theory that it is a good thing for children to have these catching childhood diseases and get them over with, has long since been proven an error which may actually endanger a child's life," says Dr. Cox. "The longer he can avoid having these diseases, the better it is for him. Every child should be protected by immunization against all diseases where an immunity can be established."

Prompt diagnosis, isolation and good medical care give the patient the best chance for a satisfactory recovery without the serious complications that sometimes accompany even the milder forms of communicable diseases. Dr. Cox emphasized that obeying the public health laws regarding isolation and quarantine protects not only the patient, but helps to prevent the spread of the disease to other persons.

"The State Health Department," Dr. Cox said, "does everything within its power to protect the health of the people of Texas, but the cooperation of every individual in protecting his own health and that of his community will do more than anything else to successfully check the spread of communicable diseases among our people."

AN ECONOMICAL LUXURY

IN THIS SECTION where winter weather usually gets unpleasant, you'll find a home laundry dryer an economical luxury. Just think, no more bundling up to go out to the clothes line, no more waiting for "good drying weather". Just put your wash, fresh from your washing machine, into your home dryer. A gentle stream of warm air will toss your clothes to dryness in just a few minutes. Your family's clothing will last longer, with no bitter wind pulling at them, no burning sun bleaching them.

Best of all, of course, is the fact that with electric service cheaper than ever before, your home laundry dryer will cost just a few pennies a month to operate.

See an appliance dealer soon about a home laundry dryer.

BOYCE HOUSE "Gives You Texas"

Joe Naylor of San Antonio has made an outstanding success as a publisher. Some of the books bearing the Naylor imprint have achieved great sales and have received praise from such far-away journals as the New York Herald-Tribune, to name one.

But not from the Dallas News-Lon Tinkle, the college professor who edits the News' book page, seems to have a policy of ignoring Naylor books or "damning with faint praise."

Which leads up to an incident this summer at the Writers Conference in Corpus Christi where Tinkle told of a visit to New York, where he was introduced to Harold Ross, editor of that clever and sophisticated magazine, The New Yorker. Ross acknowledged the introduction (said Tinkle) with:

"If you are from Texas, where is your manuscript?" And then Ross said in substance, "Texas is writing and producing perhaps more good books than any other part of the country."

Tinkle having completed his story, then presented different notables to the Writers Conference. When he presented Naylor, the publisher responded with a verbal punch that, in prize-ring parlance, he "brought up from the floor." In a tone that sizzled with sarcasm, Naylor said:

"It should not have been necessary for you, Mr. Tinkle, a book page editor, to have to go all the way to New York to find out that good books are written and published in Texas."

The audience gasped, then laughed and applauded. Tinkle staggered back as though the words had been a blow.

That round, at any rate, was Naylor's.

The new superintendent entered the classroom on opening day. There was so much noise in the room that the superintendent seized the tallest youth and shoved him out into the hall. A girl spoke up, "Superintendent, now that you've put the teacher out of the room, can we go home?"

Once again we salute our Newspaper boys, honoring their thrift and enterprise. Nearly 500,000 of these boys are carrying on that sense of duty and responsibility which brings the papers to our door every day in the year. These nephews of mine are training for success, and a part of that training is in thrift. Last year, newsboys enrolled in Newspaper Thrift Clubs invested $2,000,000 in U. S. Savings Bonds. These bonds will pay them $4 for every $3 invested ten years hence. Every bond is guaranteed as the safe-sure investment for everyone.

Rabies Occur All During Year

The "dog-days" of the mid-summer months originally derived their name from the prevalence of rabies spread from arid dogs at that season of the year, but actually rabies occurs at all times of the year. During the past year the state health laboratory found 847 animal brains positive for rabies. Four deaths occurred in humans.

Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer, states, "Few persons need to be warned that rabies is a fatal disease, yet proper precautions against its spread are often neglected. Stray dogs should be humanely destroyed or impounded, and all household pet should be vaccinated. Annual vaccination efficiently practiced will stamp out rabies in Texas."

The state health officer stressed this fact as important: A dog suspected of being rabid should not be killed at once, but should be kept confined for ten days, since this is the infective period before death of the animal. If the dog does not develop rabies within ten days, the individual bitten is safe as far as that particular bite is concerned. Further observation of the animal should be at the discretion of the veterinarian since many other conditions resemble rabies.

The head of the suspected animal should be packed in ice and sent to the State Health Department for examination. Freezing the brain, or killing the dog prematurely or in such a manner as to injure the brain may make correct laboratory findings impossible.

Mere handling of a rabid animal is not sufficient reason for treatment, as scratches by the animal's paws ordinarily do not constitute exposure. It should be understood that rabies is transmitted only through exposure to saliva which gains entrance into the body wound, ordinarily through a bite.

THE GARNER

THE GARNER—There's sturdy strength in the GARNER. Only 21 by 34 feet, it is ideal for the narrow plot, a prize-winner in the modern brick-bungalow class that carries the seal of approval of Structural Clay Products Institute. Designed to conform to the Property Requirements of FHA, its electrical layout is by National Adequate Wiring Bureau to insure maximum electrical efficiency for appliances and for lighting without the glare that induces eye strain. Built of brick with tile or metal roof it is as near fireproof as a house can be. Simple lines distinguish the GARNER. Its steel-casement corner windows impart a distinction seldom found in small houses. They provide cross ventilation and an unusual amount of wall space for attractive furniture arrangement. It would be difficult to find a more compact, efficient, economical plan. Kitchen and bath are back-to-back to minimize plumbing cost. The bath is a step from each bedroom. Closets are plentiful. The basement offers beds of room for recreational hobbies.

Health Units Cut Diseases

Comparing morbidity reports from ten Texas counties where there are no full-time local health units, with those from ten other counties where these units afford efficient health protection, reveals a startling difference in the incidence of communicable diseases, according to a survey released by Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer.

Using as a basis of comparison the common childhood disease of whooping cough, Dr. Cox said that this survey showed that the counties where local health units availed themselves of biologics from the State Health Department were able to hold this communicable disease to a desirable minimum.

"For instance," Dr. Cox said, "take these figures for comparison. In these counties where there are no health units and therefore where no biologics from the State Health Department were used the following rates of incidence apply, per 100,000 population: Gaines and Floyd, above 1,000; Hale, Dallam, Castro, and Cottle above 300; Carson above 100; Bailey and Hartley above 600; and Lipscomb above 750 cases."

By way of contrast to these high rates of incidence, Dr. Cox pointed out that in a representative group of counties where full-time health units made use of the biologics available from the State Health Department, the following much lower rates prevailed: Bell, Wichita, Bastrop, and Hidalgo, less than 300; Travis less than 200; Smith and El Paso less than 160; Bexar, Dallas and Tarrant less than 100 cases per 100,000 population.

"It is plain to be seen," Dr. Cox said, "that the counties receiving the benefit of a full-time health protection, enjoy a much lower incidence of disease and the resulting lessened danger of death. Public health protection can be had for every citizen of Texas, but only when sufficient funds are appropriated to make possible a full-time local health unit in every one of our 254 counties," Dr. Cox declared.

To The McLean News.

As the summer has passed and winter has made its showing and I am still in the land of the living, thought I would say a few lines to The News. Had a light frost here the 8th of October, and since then I have never seen more wonderful weather. Crops of all kinds were good. Stock of all kinds are in fine shape to start in the winter with fine grass.

Some time ago I saw the picture of the McLean News office in the paper, and thought you might be interested in the origin of The McLean News. In 1903, I was a carpenter in McLean. My partner's name was John Guthrie. We had bought the block north of the City Hall and built a carpenter shop on the southwest corner of it. A man by the name of A. J. Ehrbridge came in the shop and introduced himself. He told us he had a small printing plant at Dalhart, Texas, and wanted to move it to McLean.

We told him we would give him $25.00 to start and $5.00 worth of advertising each month for 12 months, so he moved down and started printing the McLean News which has grown into a wonderful paper. Later Mr. Ehrbridge sold out to a man by the name of Boswell, who later sold it to a Mr. Richardson. I don't remember the man's name who bought it from Richardson, but am sure he sold out to T. A. Landers, who did a splendid job of handling it. About the time I left McLean to make my home in Montana, T. A. Landers sold to the present publishers. This was the winter of 1946.

Sincerely hope the new oil field near McLean develops into a good one.

Best wishes to The News and all my old friends.

Weather Changes Cause Chilling, Spread of Colds

Sudden seasonal changes in the weather during the fall months often result in chilling, which in turn is usually followed by wide-spread incidence of the common cold. This disease always spreads rapidly because of the fact that very few people can live isolated lives, and in any group of people, coughing, sneezing and spitting will scatter millions of cold germs among susceptible persons.

Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer, says that there are countless ways of spreading a cold other than by coughing, sneezing and spitting. "For instance," the doctor said, "if a member of your family has a cold and the other members share a common drinking glass with him, you may expect the whole family to pick up the germs he leaves on the glass. Sometimes a person with a cold thoughtlessly touches his mouth or nostrils with his hand, and then shakes hands with another person. That person can, and very likely will, contaminate his own mouth or nostrils with his hand, and the germs are transmitted into his system. A child with a cold may contaminate his toys, and the next child that picks them up and plays with them will certainly obtain the cold germs along with the toys."

Children, as well as adults who are suffering from a cold should be put to bed, and if complete rest, light food, and plenty of liquids do not improve his condition in a short time, the family physician should be called. Dr. Cox further advised that dressing properly for the weather, sensible eating, plenty of rest and avoiding persons with colds can be helpful in preventing your own infection. Colds are costly in time, health, and money, the doctor said, and added, "Prevent them if possible."

Flowers in Lentz Yard Add Much to Beauty of Home

The back yard at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Lentz has been a topic of conversation for the past several weeks, and especially since the members of the Pioneer Study Club met with Mrs. Lentz Thursday of last week.

For the program, Mrs. Lentz displayed arrangements of flowers before those present, including Mesdames W. E. Bogan, Jim Back, Emory Crockett, J. D. Coleman, Bob Thomas, June Woods, and John R. Fulmer.

Two years ago when the Lentz family moved into their home on Cedar Street, there were no flowers of any kind, or even a sprig of grass. That fall and winter not much could be done, but when spring came, changes began to take place.

Dead trees and shrubs and truck loads of weeds were cut down and flower beds were in the making. Neighbors could see a big improvement that summer, and Mrs. Lentz took prizes in Amarillo and Phillips with her chrysanthemums. This summer grass has completely covered the back yard and a large terrace with a charcoal grill has been added.

Chrysanthemums are the main hobby with Mrs. Lentz, and she now has 78 named varieties and plans to have 100 by spring. Many of these mums are 10 to 14 inches in diameter, and are of every color.

Irises rate next, and they now have 27 clumps of named varieties. These flowers are just two of the approximately one hundred different kinds grown.

In the booklet, "Planting for the Plains," there is an article on "Oriental Poppies," written by Mrs. Lentz. She not only likes to grow flowers but she likes to arrange them and is an accredited National Judge of Flower Shows.

She likes period arrangements and their history best. Recently she decorated a Victorian dining room in a placement show in Amarillo, and took top honors with a score of 98 points.

Mrs. Lentz says he grows tomatoes and onions—something they can eat—and takes pride in always having tomatoes by the first of July.

Next spring when the irises and poppies are in bloom, or next fall when the mums are at their best, Mrs. Lentz invites you to drop around and see the lovely flowers.
