

It Looks Like A North-South Argument

'Draft Stevenson' Talk Surges At Convention

Platform Avoids Past Party Feud

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON CHICAGO (U) — Democrats pledged prosperity, peace and progress to the nation's voters today in a platform that avoided past party feuds over "civil rights."

A quick decision by Chairman Sam Rayburn, after a mixed shout of yea and no votes, put the national convention's official approval on the new campaign document early this morning. Delegates from Georgia and Mississippi asked to be recorded as voting "No," and one from Tennessee objected to the platform's lack of a congressional term investigating committee plank.

But skillful maneuvers by Rep. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, platform chairman, and National Committee Chairman Frank McKinney produced a fair sample of party harmony. The shouted adoption, after McCormack had read the nearly 100,000 words to tired delegates, was sweet music to party leaders who feared a repetition of 1948.

In that year a bitter floor battle for a stronger racial relations plank split the party wide open, and in the November election four Southern states were absent from the Democratic column.

Aiding in the unity effort this time were Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama, for Southerners, and Philip B. Perlman, who recently resigned as solicitor general. Curiously, both Dixie delegates, who insist that states and communities can best handle racial problems, and Northerners, who want strong federal action, are claiming victory.

The answer is that the same words and phrases, if handled skillfully, mean different things to different people. Northerners such as Sens. Lehman of New York, Humphrey of Minnesota and Benton of Connecticut claimed the new plank was much stronger than 1948's.

Actually the compromise was settled in two separate sections of the platform.

Northerners had insisted on a plank demanding an end to Senate filibusters that often have killed off civil rights and other bills. Instead they got a broadly worded plank calling for improvement of "congressional procedures so that the majority rule prevails and decisions can be made after reasonable debate without being blocked by a minority in either house."

"We will continue our efforts to eradicate discrimination based on race, religion or national origin," the civil rights section stated after calling for equal opportunities for voting, education, economic advancement and living conditions.

"We know this task requires action, not just in one section of the nation but in all sections," it continued in a style pleasing to Southerners. "It requires the co-operation of individual citizens and action by state and local governments."

Northerners liked the next phrases: "It also requires federal action. We favor federal legislation effectively to secure these rights to everyone: (1) the right to equal opportunity for employment; (2) the right to security of persons; (3) the right to full and equal participation in the nation's political life, free from arbitrary restraints."

They also favor legislation to perfect existing federal civil rights statutes and to strengthen the administrative machinery for the protection of civil rights. Walker White, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, hailed the plank as "a signal victory for the forces of liberalism in the party," although he conceded it "does not pinpoint the issues." His statement added: "For the first time a major party has asserted it will undertake

TRUMAN TALK SET FRIDAY

CONVENTION HALL, Chicago, July 24 (U) — President Truman is scheduled to address the Democratic National Convention at 8 p. m. (CST) Friday.

National Committee Chairman Frank E. McKinney told a reporter the hour is subject to change if the convention hasn't completed its ticket by that time.

Say Truman Favors Adlai

CONVENTION HALL, Chicago, July 24 (U) — Two close associates said today President Truman has passed along the word that he prefers Gov. Adlai Stevenson for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The two party leaders said Truman's decision had been made in the light of a swiftly moving draft behind Stevenson's reluctant candidacy. The Illinois governor has said he wants only to run for re-election but has not closed the door against the nomination if it is offered to him.

Truman has kept silent publicly about his preference, apparently to avoid becoming involved in a fight that might not turn out satisfactory from his standpoint.

Barkley Sets New Blaze In Stirring Talk

By RELMAN MORIN CHICAGO (U) — They said Alben W. Barkley was "too old."

They said he was a fine gentleman and a distinguished public figure, but heavy with years, too many years, to be the Democratic candidate for the presidency.

The Democratic convention is on fire today because of the man who was "too old."

It is blazing with the new life and spirit he breathed into it last night when he spoke to more than 12,000 people, whipped them into a frenzy of excitement, and stirred one of the unforgettable spectacles of a generation.

His appearance at the convention was intended as a kind of "consolation prize" for a man deeply hurt.

Three days before, the 74-year-old vice president was a candidate, campaigning actively to be his party's choice for the presidency. Then, as he put it, "some self-anointed labor leaders" suddenly withdrew the support he had supposed they would give him. They said he was "too old."

Barkley took himself out of the race. There was a tremendous explosion of warmth and sympathy and affection when the "Veep" marched down the platform onto the rostrum last night. The organ began to play "My Old Kentucky Home" and rolling billows of music and cheering thundered through the great hall.

Barkley stood looking down at the demonstration, unsmiling, almost impassive. From time to time he waved and bowed, acknowledging a tremendous salute. It went on for 24 minutes, constantly hitting new peaks of sound and excitement.

Finally, they let him speak. He had no manuscript and the teleprompter was blank and dark. He said he had not had time, "since I received this invitation," to write a speech.

He said, "I am not here at a candidate for any office this convention can confer." In the back of the hall, and in the galleries, a chorus welled up: "No-No."

The "Veep" shook his head. As he spoke, reviewing the 20-year record of the Democrats, his voice began to gather volume and momentum. He said: "I believe the programs of the Democratic party give the greatest good to the greatest number of the American people and if I did not believe that, I would join some other party that does believe in those eternal and immortal principles."

Polio Expense Rises

AUSTIN, July 24 (U) — The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has poured $635,630 in March of Dimes funds into Texas in the 1952 polio outbreak. S. C. Wilson, Houston, senior state representative of the foundation, said today.

Russell, Kefauver Conceding Nothing

CHICAGO, July 24 (U) — The name of Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia was offered to the Democratic National Convention today as a presidential candidate who believes in equal opportunities for all.

Sen. Walter George, Russell's Senate colleague from Georgia, in a prepared nominating speech, described Russell as an outstanding public servant.

Russell, he said, subscribes "to the wisdom of our fathers that the military should always be under the direction of civil authority. A military man in a civilian office tends to lead to distastefulship."

George did not specifically name Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican nominee.

By JACK BELL CONVENTION HALL, Chicago, July 24 (U) — A swing to Adlai Stevenson took what even some opponents conceded had the look of a hand wagon role today with the Democratic Convention nearing the point of picking its presidential nominee.

Many delegates who had been holding back were hopping in behind the Illinois governor.

But Sens. Russell of Georgia and Kefauver of Tennessee also were picking up votes from the big bloc of hitherto uncommitted delegates and weren't conceding a thing. Averell Harriman, the Mutual Security administrator, also was still plugging hard for the convention's grand prize.

Kefauver, in a news conference, declared: "I'm quite confident I'll be nominated." He said he had picked up "more than 60" delegates in the last 36 hours.

As the convention began its climactic day, there was still a big question mark over the status of the delegates from Virginia, Louisiana and South Carolina who have balked at signing any sort of advance "loyalty" pledge to the nominees.

Leaders of the three states held a strategy conference reportedly aimed at forcing a decision on whether they will be allowed to cast their 64 votes.

Gov. John S. Battle met with Govs. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina and Robert Kennon of Louisiana in a private session.

They were understood to be working on the draft of a letter to convention Chairman Sam Rayburn. The letter would seek clarification of their status.

If the votes of these three states should be ruled out, the total of possible delegate votes on the presidential nominee would be 1,166 with 534 or 533 and a fraction—needed to nominate.

The convention was organized originally on the basis of 1,230 delegate votes, meaning a majority would be 615, plus a fraction.

Convention managers planned to hold off on the actual balloting until a night session.

A day meeting was set aside for the preliminaries of nominating speeches, demonstrations and the hoopla that sets the stage.

As the hour approached, Stevenson still wasn't saying whether he would accept. But nobody doubted that he would.

And there was still no public word from President Truman as to his views—something many delegates had hoped for.

Kansas delegates, who have been on the fence, plumped to Stevenson with their 16 convention votes at a caucus.

Californians, backing Kefauver, heard a plea from Rep. Clinton McKinnon, their chairman, to stand firm.

McKinnon told them: "The bandwagon is on the platform."

Warplanes Following Up Co-Ordinated Bomb Raid

SEoul, Korea (U) — United Nations warplanes set out in force over North Korea today in a follow-up to yesterday's deadly co-ordinated bombing of Communist port and power installations by hundreds of carrier and land-based planes.

Some 200 U. S. Marine Air Force, South Korean, South African and Australian jets and bombers teamed with Navy planes from two fast U. S. carriers Wednesday. Their target was the Wonsan area of Northeastern Korea.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force said its Sabre jets and fighter bombers went out in big numbers again today.

On the ground, the eight-day battle for Old Baldy Hill west of Choswon fell off to sporadic artillery, mortar and small arms fire. Associated Press Photographer George Sweers said the Chinese still held the crest of the Western Front hotspot.

The Navy said Panther jets, Skyraiders and Corsairs from the carriers Bon Homme Richard and Princeton demolished three steam electric plants near the battered port of Wonsan.

F-51 Mustangs, F-39 Shooting Stars and F-84 Thunderjets, in two waves of about 100 each, turned Osan, a Communist supply port 10 miles south of Wonsan, into a raging inferno.

The U. S. Far East Air Force said 87 buildings were leveled, amid considerable other damage. Communist and Allied troops patrolled and probed all across the 155-mile ground front Wednesday and this morning. The forces clashed only briefly and the Reds fired their lowest number of artillery and mortar shells in more than a month.

Allied B-26 and Marine fighter-bombers concentrated during darkness on the Reds' Haeju Peninsula buildup area behind the Western Front. The night fliers reported 21 big fires and several secondary explosions in the vicinity of Sinchon, on the West Coast rail line south from Pyongyang, the North Korean capital.

Sweers said Allied gunners damaged two Red tanks Wednesday a few miles from Old Baldy and B-26 flew eight night radar-bombing missions over the sector. Ten Allied patrols looked over the area around Old Baldy but reported no contact.

Truman Issues Ultimatum For A Settlement

By ROWLAND EVANS JR. WASHINGTON, July 24 (U) — President Truman told the chiefs of the steel industry and the CIO to their faces today that they must end the economy wrecking steel strike at once.

Then he sent them to the Cabinet Room of the White House to work out the differences that brought on the strike of 630,000 steelworkers 33 days ago.

Truman's pep talk lasted 10 minutes. The meeting between CIO head Philip Murray, president of the CIO, and Benjamin Fairless, head of U. S. Steel Corp., went on for an hour and ten minutes.

Fairless told newsmen "we are going to discuss the situation with our own people."

Murray confirmed the statement.

There were no words of hope of a quick settlement, but an aura of optimism surrounded the meetings.

The fact that Fairless and Murray planned to talk to their associates seemed to indicate some kind of new formula for ending the strike was in the works.

In a brief statement read to reporters, Fairless said: "We have had a meeting with the President and Dr. Steelman and we have talked at length about our mutual problem. We are each going to discuss the situation with our own people."

Murray would add nothing to the Fairless statement but said he subscribed to it wholeheartedly.

General's Diary Now 'Top Secret'

WASHINGTON, July 24 (U) — The Army now has classified as "top secret" an American general's diary whose contents have been known to Russia for a year.

The move to prevent public knowledge of what the document contained, it became apparent today, is part of the Iron Curtain of secrecy thrown around the court-martial of Maj. Gen. Robert W. Grow.

The diary is presumably "exhibit A" of the trial, which began yesterday at Fort George G. Meade, Md.

The case exploded in the Army's face last January when a Communist book appeared in East Germany containing what it said were excerpts from the diary kept by Grow, then the military attache at the U. S. Embassy in Moscow.

The excerpts included claims of need for war with Russia now and mentioned trips Grow allegedly made to study Russian military defense installations.

The Army said a Soviet agent got hold of the diary while Grow was on a visit to Frankfurt.

Cost Of Living Hits All-Time High In June

WASHINGTON, July 24 (U) — The cost of living, as measured by the government, soared to an all-time high in mid-June.

Figures made public today by the Bureau of Labor Statistics showed that on June 15 the price of food, clothing, rent, entertainment and other daily living costs was 190 1/2 per cent of the 1935-1939 period.

That was 11.4 per cent higher than two years ago, just before the Korean fighting started.

The cost-of-living index jumped five-tenths of a point over the previous record high for last January under the pressure of higher costs for food, rent and miscellaneous goods and services.

About 40,000 wage earners may get a pay hike as a result of the new index. These workers have contracts which tie their wages to the rise and fall of the index.

Railroad workers, whose wages are hitched to the index, are not affected by today's report. Their wages are adjusted every three months. Auto workers are due for an adjustment next month, the railworkers in two months.

The index showed that between May and June, food prices rose three-tenths per cent, 14 per cent above the June, 1950, level but still slightly under the all-time peak of last January; miscellaneous goods and services six-tenths per cent; rent two-tenths per cent and fuel and electricity one-tenth per cent.

A marked drop in house furnishings and a slight decrease in clothing failed to offset increases in the other items.

RIOTING ENDS Mossadegh Getting Cabinet Together

By NATE POLOWETZKY TEHRAN, Iran (U) — Premier Mohammed Mossadegh put finishing touches on a new Cabinet today as Iran's bloodied capital slowly returned to normal from rioting that swept the popular old Nationalist chieftain back into power.

But a "hate America" campaign spread to the press, reflecting rioting anti-U. S. feeling here.

Mossadegh was expected to present his new set of ministers to Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi today or tomorrow — with either the Premier himself or his choice heading the key war ministry. The monarch's refusal last week to let Mossadegh take over that post caused the Premier to resign.

Thirty-five or more persons were killed in wild pro-Mossadegh demonstrations that followed.

All opposition to Mossadegh appeared to have evaporated in the violence. One after another, opposition members of Parliament sent letters to the newspapers last night pledging him their support.

The Majlis approval of his return to office was belatedly seconded by the Senate without a dissenting vote. Of the 60 upper house members, 33 voted last night for the Premier, eight abstained, the rest were absent. The vote mattered little — the Shah already had charged Mossadegh to form a new government.

In such a situation, Mossadegh apparently could obtain without challenge what Parliament last week was reluctant to grant him — unlimited powers to deal with the nation's economic and financial crisis.

Though he as yet has presented no program, the Premier earlier said there must be no settlement — except on Iranian terms — with the British of the oil dispute which has denied the government its major revenue, and that Iran otherwise must work her way out of her current economic morass through hardest austerity.

The United States rapidly was drawing closer to Britain as an object of public fury. Quoting a Parliament member, the newspaper said: "The American policy toward Iran is hated by this nation."

Much of the feeling stemmed from a visit by U. S. Ambassador Loy W. Henderson to Mossadegh's three-day-in-office successor, former Premier Ahmed Qavam. Qavam set off Monday's riots with a promise to settle Iran's oil dispute with Britain. His whereabouts now are unknown.

Rayburn Raps GOP Promises

CHICAGO (U) — The American people won't trade Democratic party prosperity for Republican promises this fall, says Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn.

In a speech to the Democratic convention last night Rayburn stressed the don't-change-horses-in-midstream idea with which the Democrats hope to win in November.

"The Republican leadership tells you that you ought to change," Rayburn said. "I suggest that you treat this proposition with deep distrust."

"What they ask of you is a modest request from their point of view. It is only that you trade your new car for an old buggy; swap your television set for a magic lantern; jump from the bed into a strait-jacket of uncertainty."

Rayburn told the delegates the GOP tried, after choosing Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as its presidential nominee, to say a new Republican party had been born.

But he said: "The proof that nothing has changed is clear. . . . It is the same old party with a new candidate. . . . The American people are not going to trade prosperity for promises."

Rayburn made his speech in accepting the convention's permanent chairmanship.

CRMWD Case Set For New Hearing

The Texas Supreme Court will hear the CRMWD-Martin County water district case on Oct. 29.

This date was announced Wednesday. The Martin County Underground Water Conservation District and the State Board of Water Engineers had appealed a 126th District Court decision. In that decision, returned March 22, Judge Jack Roberts had held for the Colorado River Municipal Water District and permanently enjoined the MUCWCD from enforcement of regulations. Among other things, these curtailed annual withdrawal considerably.

Since June, CRMWD has been supplying part of Odessa's need from the well field.

DALLAS, July 24 (U) — Funeral services for Walter Potts Boswell were to be held here today. Boswell, a member of the Associated Press news staff, died Tuesday of a heart attack. He was 42.

Here Is Comparison Of Major Planks In Both New Platforms

By JOE HALL
CHICAGO (U)—Here is a comparison of key planks in the 1952 Democratic and the 1952 Republican platforms:

Civil rights:
 Democratic—"We favor federal legislation effectively to secure these rights to everyone: (1) the right to equal opportunity for employment; (2) the right to security of persons; (3) the right to full and equal participation in the nation's political life. . . . We urge that action be taken at the beginning of the 83rd Congress to improve congressional procedures so that majority rule prevails and decisions can be made after reasonable debate without being blocked by a minority in either house."

Republican—"We believe that it is the primary responsibility of each state to order and control its own domestic institutions, and this power, reserve to the states, is essential to the maintenance of our federal republic. However, we believe that the federal government should take supplemental action within its constitutional jurisdiction against race, religion or national origin. . . . We will prove our good faith by . . . enacting federal legislation to further just and equitable treatment in the area of discriminatory employment practices. Federal action should not duplicate state efforts to end such practices; should not set up another huge bureaucracy."

Foreign policy:
 Democratic—"We pledge our unremitting efforts to avert another world war. . . . We will continue our efforts to strengthen the United Nations. . . . We reject the ridiculous notion of those who would have the United States face the aggressors alone."

Republican—"The present administration, in seven years, has squandered the unprecedented power and prestige which were ours at the close of World War II. . . . We shall encourage and aid the development of collective security forces. . . . We shall support the United Nations. . . . We shall always measure our foreign commitments so that they can be borne without endangering the economic health or sound finances of the United States."

National defense:
 Democratic—"The Democratic party will continue to stand unequivocally for strong, balanced defense forces for this country—land, sea and air. . . . We reject the defeatist view of those who say we cannot afford the expense and effort necessary to defend ourselves."

Republican—"We should develop with utmost speed a force in being, as distinguished from paper plans, of such power as to deter sudden attack or promptly and decisively defeat it. This defense against sudden attack requires the quickest possible development of . . . air power and the simultaneous readiness of co-ordinated air, land and sea forces."

Labor:
 Democratic—"We strongly advocate the repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act. . . . (It) has been proved to be inadequate, unworkable and unfair."

Republican—"We favor the retention of the Taft-Hartley Act . . . (but with) such amendments . . . as time and experience show to be desirable."

Agriculture:
 Democratic—"We will continue to protect the producers of basic agricultural commodities under the terms of a mandatory price support program at not less than 90 per cent of parity."

Republican—"We favor a farm program aimed at full parity prices for all farm products in the market place."

Tax reduction:
 Democratic—"As rapidly as defense requirements permit, we favor reducing taxes, especially for people with lower incomes. But we will not imperil our nation's security by making reckless promises to reduce taxes."

Republican—"We advocate . . . reduction of expenditures by the elimination of waste and extravagance so that the budget will be balanced and a general tax reduction can be made."

Subversives in government:
 Democratic—"The loyalty program of President Truman has served effectively to prevent infiltration by subversive elements and to protect honest and loyal public servants against unfounded and malicious attacks."

Republican—"By the administration's assessment of communism at home and abroad, it has permitted Communists and their fellow travelers to serve in many key agencies and to infiltrate our American life. . . . We pledge fair but vigorous enforcement of laws to safeguard our country from subversion and disloyalty."

Pulitzer Winner Killed By Tumor
LOS ANGELES, July 24 (U)—Frank Filan, whose dramatic picture of Japanese bodies on bomb-blasted Tarawa won him a Pulitzer Prize in 1944, died last night of a brain tumor.

The 47-year-old veteran of 22 years with The Associated Press was one of the nation's top news photographers. Filan had scores of brushes with death. He made 16 amphibious landings during three years in the Pacific as a war cameraman.

Youth Is Injured As Tractor Upsets
COLORADO CITY, July 24—Billy Prince, 17, Snyder, was injured Wednesday afternoon while dragging a ball field with a chain. He has a fractured leg and is in the Root Memorial Hospital in Colorado City.

Billy had tied a chain behind a tractor and was dragging the ball field near Union Schoolhouse, a few miles from Snyder. The chain became tangled in a wheel as the tractor turned and Prince was thrown from the machine and his leg broken.

Folder Is Ready For Circulation By Martin C-C

STANTON, (SC)—The Martin County Chamber of Commerce has just received for distribution 5,000 copies of the new Stanton-Martin County folder they had printed.

The new folder, printed on stippled paper with a decorative background of green is 9 by 16 inches in size and folds twice to a 9 by 4-inch pocket size. In the center of the cover is the picture of one of Stanton's famous road signs extending a welcome to travelers and proclaiming the Martin County capital the Home of 3,000 Friendly People (And a Few Old Soreheads)."

This sign has been publicized in national magazines. The folder is illustrated with 15 photographs, scenes in Stanton and the county including residential, church, official and business properties, oil wells, a fine Hereford calf, and irrigation farming scenes. In addition to a map showing Stanton's location with reference to major highways, narrative material describes the city and county and to this material is added statistics showing the progress made by the community during the last few years and the opportunities offered by city and county to new residents. The county claims the greatest underground water reservoir in West Texas.

The publication was designed and prepared by Mrs. Hila Weathers, Chamber of Commerce manager.

Russell Victory Is Seen On 10th Vote

By WILBUR JENNINGS
CHICAGO (U)—Sen. Richard Russell's campaign manager said today that Russell will win the Democratic presidential nomination on the 10th ballot.

But elsewhere, there was general belief that the Southern fight on the convention floor during the last several days had "cooked Russell's goose."

Sen. Edwin Johnson told reporters that he expects Russell to get 275 votes on the first ballot and go on to win on the 10th. It takes 615 votes to nominate.

The latest Associated Press tabulation of known first-ballot choices gives Russell 165 votes.

Russell was being prominently mentioned for the vice presidential spot. But for every prediction along this line, Russell had a denial.

He said he doesn't want to be vice president; he said he was "too young." He is 54. Vice President Alben Barkley is 74.

Russell's name will be the first to be put in nomination for President today. Johnson said the nominating speech will be made by Sen. Walter George of Georgia, Russell's colleague.

Barkley had been asked by friends of Russell to make the speech but no word had been received from him and it was believed that he had decided to remain neutral in this respect.

The second speeches will be made by Sen. McCarran of Nevada, Mrs. Margaret Peyton Thompson, national committeewoman of Boulder, Colo., and John Rice of Salt Lake City, Utah.

Mrs. Thompson endorsed the nomination of President Truman in 1948.

Alabama will give way to Georgia for the purpose of nominating Russell, Johnson said.

The Georgia senator received 263 votes as the South's favorite son in 1948. Afterwards, he supported the Democratic ticket, refusing to go along with the Southern split which set up the States Rights party.

Russell watched last night's convention proceedings by television. He was jolted only once.

That was when David Charnay, an adviser on his public relations staff, visited Gov. Adlai Stevenson, the object of a booming draft movement.

Charnay is head of Allied Public Relations, Inc., of New York and Washington, He and Welly K. Hopkins, attorney for John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers, spent about an hour with Stevenson.

When they emerged, Hopkins told newsmen that he had called to "pay my respects." He did not elaborate.

The visit aroused speculation Charnay may have been sent by Russell to discuss the vice presidency in case Stevenson gets the nod, but the Georgia senator issued a statement saying:

"I had no knowledge of the intention of Mr. Charnay to visit Gov. Stevenson and I am not acquainted with Mr. Hopkins. Mr. Charnay is not authorized to speak for me politically or in any other capacity. I assume that Gov. Stevenson is fully aware of this fact."

Peace Returns To Egypt Again

CAIRO, Egypt, July 24 (U)—This Egyptian capital awoke to peace and quiet today following a lightning Army coup that brought former Premier Aly Maher Pasha back to head the government of this long-troubled mid-East land.

The premier-designate hurried to Alexandria, Egypt's summer capital, to present his new cabinet to King Farouk. It was the nation's sixth government since January.

Farouk named Maher Pasha premier yesterday at the demand of Maj. Gen. Mohamed Naguib Bey, a thrice-wounded Egyptian war hero who seized control of the Army, proclaimed himself commander-in-chief and forced the resignation of Premier Ahmed Naguib Hilaly Pasha.

The Hilaly Pasha cabinet had taken office only the day before.

In a nation-wide broadcast, Gen. Naguib told the Egyptian people that the nearly-bloodless coup was aimed at eliminating corruption and bribery in the government.

Dog Keeps Vigil For A Mere Bone
SPRING CITY, Mo. (U)—Workmen finally reached the bottom of an abandoned mine where a collie dog has kept a 25-day vigil and found nothing — except a small bone.

The animal had maintained a watch at the mouth of the shaft since last month, refusing to leave.

Residents of this southwest Missouri community speculated that the dog's owner might have tumbled into the mine. The dog is a stranger in the neighborhood.

Volunteers spent the past week pumping out the flooded mine. Thousands of persons visited the scene, curious over what might be found.

Last night miners Ted Hymer and Oscar Uber were lowered down the shaft. After a thorough search at the bottom of the pit, they reported they found nothing — except the small bone.

Woman Denies She's In Black Market
WEISBADEN, Germany, July 24 (U)—A U. S. Air Force colonel's wife denied under oath today charges she dealt in the German black market with coffee, currency and gasoline coupons.

Mrs. Katharine G. Reed, Mount Clemens, Mich., took the stand in her own defense today after Col. Allen W. Reed, Fairfield, Ia., former commander of the Weisbaden Military Post and their daughter, Janet, 20, had denied black market deals took place in the family's four-story requisitioned home here.

The society matron, 44, charged on seven counts of black marketing, told the U. S. district court she had heard that Air Force special agents "were looking for a colonel's wife to make an example of and I was the one picked."

The defendant specifically denied stories of two German prosecution witnesses that they had engaged in black market transactions with her.

Elect Glenn R. Lewis To The Supreme Court—

Glenn R. Lewis of San Angelo is a candidate for Place No. 1 on the Texas Supreme Court. He is a practicing attorney from a small town offering himself for a place on Texas' highest court.

Glenn R. Lewis was born in Limestone County in 1902. He attended the Public Schools at Quitaque, Briscoe County, and was graduated from Clarendon College, Clarendon, Tex., in 1921.

He received his A. B. Degree from Trinity University in 1922. He taught physics in Waxahatchie High School while attending Trinity.

He was graduated from the Law School of the University of Texas in 1925, going immediately to San Angelo as an attorney in the firm of Wright & Gibbs.

He married Miss Jewel Raven of Victoria, Tex. They have three children.

He was elected District Attorney of the 31st Judicial district and was re-elected for two additional terms. He was appointed as Assistant Attorney General in 1935, heading a division handling an important part of the Attorney General's legal business.

He resigned on June 1, 1942 to join the navy. He was discharged in 1945.

Upon returning to San Angelo, he joined Robert T. Neill in a partnership. He served as City Attorney on a part time basis, handling civil matters only, from 1946 to 1950.

Houston, Dallas, and Ft. Worth now have members on the Supreme Court. It is natural to assume those now standing for re-election will be returned to the court.

Glenn R. Lewis is a well-rounded, experienced lawyer. He has been city attorney, district attorney, and not just another assistant Attorney General, but AN ASSISTANT to Attorney General Gerald C. Mann.

Glenn R. Lewis comes from a section of the state that has experienced all types of oil litigation. He has dealt with all phases of questions pertinent to the oil industry.

Glenn R. Lewis wants your vote for Place No. 1, The Supreme Court of Texas.

 ATTORNEYS

Glenn R. Lewis, of San Angelo, was an Assistant Attorney General of Texas during the time that I was First Assistant in 1939 and part of 1940 and our association necessarily was close. Then during the period that I was Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, my friendship with him continued, although my observation of his work was of different nature.

Without any purpose to disparage any opponent of Glenn Lewis, I do not hesitate to say that in my opinion Mr. Lewis is highly qualified, without any limitations, to sit as a member of the Highest Court in Texas, and that the Bench and Bar and the Citizens of Texas, and rest assured that if he is elected to membership in that Court he will give careful and intelligent consideration to every case that comes before the Court.

It is my pleasure to support Glenn Lewis in the coming Primary election to membership in the Supreme Court of Texas.

Yours very truly,

 W. F. Moore

THE GRUB LINE

With Franklin Reynolds

Once out in New Mexico I heard an inebriated candidate for sheriff try to make a speech.

"I am just one of the great common people," he told the rally. He staggered, almost fell down, then added, "and a pretty common one at that!"

When I tried to draw the above illustration I thought of that fellow. I'm about the same kind of artist that he claimed to be citizen. But maybe the above will help me explain what I have in mind.

On the left are spots intended to represent the drops of a natural rainfall, while the much smaller marks on the right represent the comparative size of the drops from a typically seeded rainfall. Usually, but not always, the two will be mixed. The seeded drops are very tiny when compared with a natural raindrop and they fall so slowly they appear to be poised in the atmosphere, more of a heavy mist than the rain to which people who sometimes get rain are accustomed.

Not many days ago I heard Ed Simpson of the Luther Community tell about a three-inch rain he had gotten on his place recently. He said he had lived in this country a great many years and that upon occasions he had actually seen it rain. "But never," he commented, "had I ever seen a rain like that."

Then Mr. Simpson went ahead and described the typical seeded rain. One of the most amazing things about it, he said, was that there wasn't any runoff. It all soaked right down into the ground where all rain does the most good.

Mr. Simpson is like a great many other people who have seen the visible benefits of cloud seeding, and he believes in it. The records were checked and the clouds over his area were being seeded when he received that rain. There isn't any doubt in his mind about cloud seeding, and records have removed the doubts from the minds of thousands of others.

Very impressive, too, has been something that Truman Jones, Chamber of Commerce, has said. In the beginning of the cloud seeding project, Truman admits he was like a great many other people. He had his doubts, and there was the possibility that it might just be some sort of money-getting promotional scheme after all. But then Truman talked with those farmers and ranchers who have seen seeded rain and who testify it has saved them this spring and summer in the midst of this drought.

The cloud seeders themselves don't present their practice as an exact science. They have never represented it to be anything more than an experiment that is getting some very gratifying results.

Now Truman Jones takes the attitude that it is at least worth while for the farmers and ranchers and business people to join in the experiment. He recalls there were scoffers and doubters when the first automobile, the first radio, the first plane, the first telephone, the first electric light appeared.

The next time you're in a shower in this West Texas area observe your windshield or your window. The chances are that parietal storm will be seeded and if you see that fine, misty rain you will know it has been. If the shower comes at night go outdoors in a dark spot and throw a flashlight beam up through it. The results of seeding can be seen. You don't have to take anybody's word for whether or not the practice is working. You can see whether or not it is working if the clouds are being seeded. Reports similar to that made by Ed Simpson have come from hundreds of others from over the area. From all over the area they say they have never seen such penetration from even one-half-inch of rain, and so little runoff from rains that have ranged upward to as much as four inches.

Because of these visible results of cloud seeding interest in continuing Howard County in the cloud seeding project of the West Texas Weather Improvement District has been revived and a permanent organization, with Bob Middleton as chairman, has been set up to raise the additional funds needed.

Every person either enrolling farm or ranch land in the project, and each person just contributing to the program no matter how little, will receive each week the district's report and the Krick forecast.

Every resident of Big Spring who has a single shrub or any flowers or grass has an interest in the program. There are a great many people in Big Spring who aren't owners of business establishments and who won't, therefore, be solicited by committee members to contribute to the campaign. At the same time they are people who are interested in the general welfare of the community, in their shrubs and flowers and in enough water to wash off the sidewalks and their cars.

If each of these people will attach a one dollar bill to a piece of paper bearing their name and address and mail or take it to the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce they will be making a valuable contribution to the program, and in return they will receive (rain, we hope) and the weekly forecast. Checks should be made payable to the West Texas Weather Improvement District.

Health Officer Predicts A Polio Total Of 3,000

By The Associated Press

Continued polio ravages that pushed last week's incidence to near-record levels had a prediction Thursday from State Health Officer George W. Cox that the number of Texas cases in 1952 would exceed 3,000.

The record polio years of 1950 recorded 2,778 cases of the disease in Texas.

The State Health Department recorded 243 new cases of the mysterious malady for the week ending July 19 with 53 of them reported in stricken Harris County.

The week's cases were second only to the week ending July 12, when 286 cases were reported by the State Health Department.

San Antonio, Bexar County, lacked but two cases for the disease to reach epidemic stage there. Epidemic stage will be reached when the county has 98 cases, officials said. Already 84 cases, with five deaths, have been reported compared with 27 cases and one death a year ago at this time.

The 84 San Antonio cases included three new cases and one confirmation Wednesday.

Harris County's 53 new cases last week brought its 1952 totals to 264 Houston cases, with eight deaths; 175 county cases with seven deaths; and 152 non-county cases with six deaths.

A 17-year-old Brownwood youth, Kenneth Dale Hilliard, died of the disease Wednesday in Fort Worth. His death was the fifth polio fatality of the year in Fort Worth's City-County Hospital where about two score cases are under treatment.

One of the two new Houston cases Wednesday was radio announcer Luke Hill of Station KCOH. Hill, whose five-year-old daughter was stricken with the disease last week, had been reporting polio statistics over his station.

Time Growing Short In State Campaigns

By CLAYTON HICKERSON
Associated Press Staff

The first Democratic Primary campaign reared toward a close Thursday with confident candidates leading the drama of victory.

Nearly every major candidate had predicted victory for himself at one time or another during the long, heated drive toward Saturday's polling.

The words flowed faster. . . vilifications and recriminations . . . accusations and denials . . . bitter and sweet. Candidates used just about every known means to woo the voter and his vote.

Gov. Allan Shivers beamed a broadcast from Chicago to Texas at 6:45 a.m. Thursday, a report on Texas developments at the National Democratic Convention. It was to be re-broadcast Thursday night at 4:45 p.m., his Austin campaign headquarters said.

As time ran out on the candidates, there were these developments:

1. Ralph Yarborough, candidate for governor, assailed what he termed the "vast outpouring of money in the last week of the campaign by the dictatorial machine in control of the governor's office."

2. A member of the State Board of Public Welfare, J. Byron Saunders of Tyler, said old age pension payments have increased 23 percent in Texas since Allan Shivers became governor.

3. Lindley Beckworth, candidate for U. S. Senate, said in San Antonio, that "the third in a series of smear campaigns against me has begun." He charged in a radio address that it had cost one of his opponents $100,000 to $200,000 "to smear me."

4. Friends of the Freedom Party which is challenging the political regime of George B. Parr, asked that ballots cast in Duval County be impounded at Alice after Saturday's voting.

5. Atty. Gen. Price Daniel, carrying his U. S. Senate bid to Baytown, said the CIO Political Action Committee had endorsed one of his opponents, Beckworth. But Daniel said the CIO couldn't talk its Texas members into following the endorsement of the national CIO-PAC.

6. E. W. Naler, making his Senate campaign in Houston again, was arrested, taken to jail, and released on bond for displaying signs on a vehicle without a permit. Then when he applied for that permit, he was told by the city attorney that none was needed.

7. Gov. Shivers, in a telephoned statement to his Austin headquarters, said terms of the seating of Texas' unsubmitted Democratic delegation in the national convention left Texas free "without pledge," to seek those things "in which a majority of good Texans believe."

Fast election irregularities were given as the reason for the ballot impounding request at Alice. Dist. Atty. Homer E. Dean Jr. said Arthur A. Klein, acting district judge, would be on hand to receive the request Saturday morning. He added that he felt he could not allege irregularities in the election until after voting starts.

The Freedom Party's petition asked the court to order election judges to bring ballot boxes to the tax collector's office in Alice after the count, and ballot stubs to the district attorney's office.

Rangers are still on duty in Duval County since a request was made several weeks ago by Dist. Judge Sam S. Reams, who seeks re-election. Parr has predicted Reams' defeat.

Napier planned to carry his Senate drive to East Texas Thursday with appearances scheduled for Henderson, Marshall, Longview, Gladewater, Tyler, and Greenville. He intended to end his campaign Friday with sidewalk campaigning in Dallas and Fort Worth.

Daniel was in the Galveston area Thursday and planned to speak Thursday night at a rally sponsored by the Texas League of Women Voters. He'll sweep through Port Arthur, Beaumont and Orange Friday and end his senate bid in his hometown of Liberty where a "home folks rally" is planned.

Beckworth, in West Texas Thursday at Amarillo, Plainview, Lubbock, El Paso, Midland and Odessa, planned an amazing 26 appearances on the final day of the campaign. Mrs. Beckworth planned to be with him during the day and night sweep.

"Smear Campaign"

In San Antonio Wednesday, Beckworth hit hard at one of his opponent's spending and what he called "smear campaign." It was obvious he was speaking of Daniel.

"The third smear," he told the Associated Press, "has taken the form of a document supposedly signed by 13 or 14 so-called leading veterans. Copies of this document are being mailed from Austin in envelopes with no return address."

"The first attack," he continued, "took the form of reprints from an editorial in the Lufkin News of June 26th and the second was in the form of reprints of an editorial from the Tyler Courier-Times of July 20th."

"These malicious smear sheets are being sent to every newspaper office in Texas. The so-called veteran document was handed out by my opponent's campaign workers as I was speaking recently in McKinney, Brownsville and Greenville."

Beckworth predicted the "smear campaign" would react in his favor because "the people will see through it."

Daniel said at Baytown that Beckworth enjoys CIO-PAC backing because of the labor organization's opposition to Texas in the tideland battle. "I believe loyal Texans will not be influenced to vote against the interest of their state in the Senate race," Daniel said.

Yarborough hammered away at S. H. V. The candidate said "slick" three-colored brochures are now being mailed the length and breadth of Texas to all the poll tax holders on behalf of Shivers. Yarborough said printing experts had estimated the cost of "this single phase of the campaign" at more than $100,000.

Mrs. Allene Traylor, San Antonio housewife campaigning for governor, said she would be on hand to receive the request Saturday morning. He added that he felt he could not allege irregularities in the election until after voting starts.

He told officers he was awakened by a burglar alarm yesterday. He followed the car at speeds up to 100 miles an hour before crashing into another car the fleeing auto had sidestepped.

The three men were arrested afoot on a country road east of here after an eight-hour search by Jeff Herd of the Texas Highway Patrol and Sheriff George V. Dorman of Shamrock. The fugitives were unarmed.

L. V. Boardman, special agent in charge of the Kansas City FBI office, said the trio escaped from the Jackson County jail at Kansas City.

Booster Trips To Precede Rodeo

Two big booster tours will precede the opening of Big Spring's annual rodeo Aug. 6.

The American Business Club will sponsor a trip to the south and east of Big Spring Monday, Aug. 4, and the Junior Chamber of Commerce will lead a tour of the area to the northwest on the following day.

ABC tourists, to leave Big Spring at 8:30 a.m., will visit Garden City, Sterling City, Robert Lee, Bronco, Blackwell, Sweetwater, Roscoe, Lorraine, Colorado City, Snyder and Coahoma.

The Jaycee-sponsored trip, starting at the same hour on Tuesday, will be to Achery, Lamesa, O'Donnell, Tahoka, Brownfield, Seagraves, Seminole, Andrews, Odessa, Midland and Stanton.

Only One Hurt In Big Plane's Crash

PITHIVIERS, France (AP)—A four-engine British military plane with 60 passengers and crewmen aboard crashed and exploded in flames near here last night but only one person was seriously hurt. Three others received slight injuries.

The craft, carrying 54 military passengers and a crew of six, was bound from London to Egypt. It crashed when a propeller broke.

The plane burst into flames as it dove into the ground but the passengers and crew were able to leap to safety.

Portland Man Dies Of Mishap Injuries

PLAINVIEW, July 24 (AP)—William B. Neal, 35, of Portland, Tex., died Tuesday of injuries received in a traffic accident in which his infant granddaughter was killed.

Neal's wife and son, Calvin Neal, were in critical condition after the Monday car accident near here. Five-month-old Mary Katherine Neal died soon after the car collided with another one in which four airmen were passengers.

The servicemen, all from Reese Air Force Base at Lubbock, escaped injury.

Defense Force In Practice Exercise

TOKYO (AP)—The U. S. Air Defense Force for Japan theoretically destroyed 30 of 34 imaginary invading planes in Northern Japan yesterday in a war exercise.

Brig. Gen. Delmar T. Spivey, Japan defense chief, said the exercise showed the defense force is "capable of immediate action under surprise attack. Early warning radar was effective in all areas."

Radar nets, jet interceptor planes and anti-aircraft units took part.

Flagpole Sitter Is Forced To Give Up

FORT WORTH, July 24 (AP)—After 79 days of flagpole sitting, radio announcer Barry Lloyd was forced to give up his try at a new world record yesterday because of a cold.

Aiming at the 124-day record for that high occupation, Lloyd had been aloft over the Fort Worth baseball park since May 5. He had resolved to stay there until the local team clinched their berth in the Texas League playoffs.

Man Fined $25 For Turning On Heat

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Ray Finkelshtein yesterday put the legal heat on landlord Max Berman for keeping her apartment radiators as hot as the current heat wave.

Last winter, Berman was fined $5 for not giving his tenant enough heat.

This time, in Coney Island Magistrate's Court, the fine was $25.

Unhappy, Unseated Maverick

The expression of former Rep. Maury Maverick of San Antonio, Tex., reflects his sentiments as he is interviewed by newsmen after the Democratic National Convention credentials committee voted, 26-13 to seat the anti-Truman "regular" delegation from Texas. Maverick headed the "loyalist" pro-Truman group to the Chicago convention. Their application was denied. Maverick said he was considering taking the case to the convention floor. (AP Wirephoto).

Veep's Ovation Not Type Wife Expected

By RUTH COWAN
CHICAGO, (AP)—Six tumultuous days ago, vivacious Jane Barkley arrived at her first Democratic convention with stars in her eyes and expectations of "great fun."

She said so at a news conference last Saturday, the day after she and her husband, Vice President Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, stepped off the train.

The welcoming crowd cheered and chanted "We Want Barkley." A band played "My Old Kentucky Home."

At the news conference, Jane Hadley Barkley was asked if the "Veep" was going to win the Democratic presidential nomination.

"Of course he is," she laughed merrily. "Haven't you all heard that?"

What about his age? Was 74 too old to be President? Such ideas are silly, she snapped. Why, she is only 40, she said, but has a hard time keeping up with him.

Today, Mrs. Barkley has been to her first convention. For her it had not been the great fun she expected. Her eyes were shining, but a cloud hid the stars.

The Veep, his candidacy opposed by delegates who said he is too old, had quit the contest. Deeply hurt, he had packed his bags but stayed his departure when a call came to address the convention.

Motorcycle police, sirens screaming, escorted them to the amphitheater last night.

Delegates and galleryites rose from their seats. They cheered and chanted "We Want Barkley." The organ roared "My Old Kentucky Home."

Mrs. Barkley—in a black frock, a wide-brimmed white hat, a large bouquet of red roses in her arms—watched from a box high up and in back of the rostrum.

It was a great ovation—waving, prancing state placards, applause, songs. But it was not the kind of demonstration for which she had hoped.

It was a warm, heartfelt tribute to a beloved leader who had served long and well. It was farewell to a thoroughbred.

The eyes of the convention searched out Mrs. Barkley and watched to see how she took it. She kept smiling. But once, when her husband's oration captured full attention, she quickly wiped her eyes.

Then she was taken down to the platform to stand by her husband while the crowd cheered.

A reporter at last Saturday's news conference had asked what the Barkleys would do if he didn't win. She wasn't thinking in terms like that then. But she replied she would like to live in Paducah, Ky., the Veep's home. She didn't believe, however, that he would like it there the year 'round.

Texas Group Not Satisfied With Party's New Platform

By MARTHA COLE
CHICAGO, July 24 (AP)—Texans were riled about not getting a chance to register their "no" on the Democratic platform at the Convention Hall early today.

They shouted, they waved their hats and National Committeeman Wright Morrow shook the state standard aloft.

But their fellow Texan, Speaker Sam Rayburn, declared the platform was adopted by voice vote and went on to the next order of business without recognizing them.

Some of the delegates huddled after the convention session, talking it over.

Gov. Shivers, leader of the Texas delegation, had no comment except that the Texans didn't like rushing through the 29-page document of the platform without reading it themselves. It was read to the convention by Rep. John McCormack of Massachusetts, Platform Committee chairman.

A former Texas governor, Dan Moody, Austin, said he voted "no" on the entire platform in the committee. He was Texas' representative on that body.

"I voted no on the civil rights plank, on a lot of them—so I voted no on the whole thing," he told reporters.

The Texans got their permanent seats in the convention only yesterday. The convention seated Shivers' conservative group on a voice vote in preference to the contesting liberal group.

They waved goodbye to one another at the Convention Hall in the afternoon—the liberals in the corner of the balcony and the conservatives down on the floor. Some of the liberals said they were going home.

Maury Maverick, a fighting New Dealer from San Antonio, claimed a moral victory.

"We forced Shivers to say he would support the Democratic Party," Maverick said.

But Shivers said in a statement that the loyalty resolution his delegation signed did not bind any delegate to support personally the Democratic nominee.

Shivers said the only promise made was that delegates would work to assure that the names of the Democratic nominees were on the ballot in Texas in November as long as such a promise didn't contravene state laws or state party instructions.

The Shivers group came to Chicago saying they would not take a pledge to support the nominees of the Democratic Party.

The governor received more than 100 telegrams from folks back home yesterday. He said all but two or three congratulated him. The others were against the stand his delegation took.

"This is a victory not for me—not for the delegation," Shivers said in a statement. "It is a victory for the Texans who went to their precinct conventions and had the majority."

The Shivers delegation is unstructured as to the presidential nominee. But their preference for Sen. Richard Russell is understood.

Some of them appeared last night after their permanent seating—wearing duck-billed red, white and blue caps printed with "Give Us Russell."

They aren't asking who is their second choice. Ask them about Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois and they will say they want to know more about what he stands for.

Ike Forces Planning Program To Attract Independent Ranks

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
DENVER (U)—Political advisers to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican presidential nominee, moved today to set up a program aimed primarily at wooing independents and disgruntled Democrats to his support.

The move is based, these advisers said, on a call by the general himself for continuation and expansion of the national Citizens for Eisenhower Committee—an organization they credited with having played a major role in his successful bid for the GOP nomination.

Sen. James H. Duff of Pennsylvania outlined the plan at a news conference here last night after he and two other Eisenhower leaders had conferred with the general at his vacation retreat near Fraser, Colo., 72 miles west of Denver.

Duff, Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado, and Ralph Cake, GOP national committeeman from Oregon, spent most of the day with Eisenhower and discussed, Duff reported, virtually every phase of the forthcoming campaign.

The day started with a breakfast of flapjacks and bacon, which Eisenhower cooked. The general also prepared lunch—trout, salad and mashed potatoes.

At the Denver news conference in the Eisenhower campaign headquarters, Duff and Cake said particular emphasis had been placed at the Fraser huddle on a need for continuing and stepping up the activities of the citizens committee. The organization is headed by Walter Williams of Seattle.

Eisenhower declared, Duff said, that he was in wholehearted accord with the idea and gave instructions assigning the committee a key role in the campaign.

The committee will have the job of bringing out a big vote of registered Republicans next fall. But Duff said it will pay special attention to trying to win over independents and disgruntled Democrats.

The Pennsylvania senator added that the committee's activities will be co-ordinated closely with the work of the Republican National Committee and the regular GOP political organizations everywhere.

Duff said Eisenhower "is not only in robust health but in excellent good humor and feeling ready to go to work" against the candidate the Democrats nominate at their convention in Chicago.

Eisenhower himself told newsmen he has been much too busy trout fishing and working with his oil paints to tune in radio accounts of the Democratic convention.

The general's paintings—four landscapes and two portraits since he arrived at the ranch a week ago—drew warm praise from his visitors.

Gov. Thornton liked one landscape so much he got a promise from the general to turn it over to the Colorado Historical Museum in Denver.

RODEO TICKETS READY FRIDAY

Admission tickets for the annual Big Spring rodeo will go on sale Friday at the Chamber of Commerce.

Adult tickets will go for $2 and children's duets are $1.

A few boxes are also available for the 1952 rodeo, said Lloyd Wooten, who is handling tickets sales. Charge for a box, seating six persons, is $25 for the four evening performances.

The rodeo will be staged Aug. 6-9 with performances starting at 8 p.m. daily. A parade at 4 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 6, will serve to start the four-day rodeo and cowboy reunion.

Navy Man Returns For Funeral Rites

Melvin Byers, stationed with the U. S. Navy in Kodiak, Alaska, arrived by plane to attend burial services held Tuesday morning for his grandfather, A. B. Crews, 79.

Mr. Crews, who lived at 800 Galveston, died Saturday morning in a Big Spring hospital where he had undergone surgery Friday after breaking his hip in a fall the previous Wednesday.

A retired railroad conductor, Mr. Crews had lived in Big Spring 44 years.

Survivors include three daughters, Mrs. J. T. Byers, Mrs. W. L. Burbee and Lillian Crews, all of Big Spring; and three sons, Albert and Joe Crews of Big Spring and Carl Crews of Sweetwater.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon in Eberley Chapel, but interment was delayed until Tuesday morning after the arrival of his grandson.

Woman Dies At 100

BERTRAM, July 24 (U)—Mrs. J. H. Bryson, who was 100 years and 100 days old, died at her home here yesterday.

Ike's Good Hand With Flapjacks

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Republican presidential nominee, cooked a breakfast of flapjacks and bacon for three G.O.P. leaders at his mountain vacation retreat at Fraser, Colorado. Newspaper correspondents also enjoyed the general's cooking. Making the 72-mile trip from Denver were Sen. James H. Duff of Pennsylvania; Ralph Cake, Oregon national committeeman; Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado and Palmer Hoyt, editor and publisher of the Denver Post. (AP Wirephoto).

City Police Have Variety Of Activity During June

Big Spring's 20 policemen made 256 arrests, issued 641 traffic tickets, handled some 2,000 radio calls and operated three squad cars a total distance of 14,628 miles during June.

Those and other activities were summarized in the monthly report of the police department handed city commissioners this week.

The report showed fines amounting to $5,253.50 assessed in Corporation Court as a result of the department's work. Of the total, $3,469 was paid, $1,644 was "laid out," and $180.50 is pending.

Arrests were made for such offenses as assault, robbery, attempted murder, liquor violations, display and carrying of firearms, indecent exposure, disturbance, affray, drunkenness, driving while intoxicated, theft, destruction of private property and vagrancy.

Drunkenness was the dominant offense. Arrests on that charge numbered 160 and fines assessed for intoxication amounted to more than half of the month's total, or $2,728.

Twelve persons charged with driving while intoxicated were arrested by city police and transferred to county authorities for prosecution. Also transferred were two cases of robbery, one of aggravated assault, one of attempted murder, and one involving a motorist who was charged with driving while his license was suspended.

In the traffic field, officers issued tickets for 52 "moving" violations, 24 instances of driving without license and 47 cases involving mechanical defects and parking violations other than over-time parking.

Top Price Of $720 Is Paid At Ram Sale

SAN ANGELO, July 24 (U)—Some 287 rams sold in the 18th annual San Angelo Rambouillet Sale here brought an average of $96.25 a head yesterday.

The top price paid was $720 for a ram bought by the Utah State Agricultural College from Leo Richardson of Iran. Seven top stud rams averaged $481 a head.

Stevenson Crowd Short Of Buttons

By WARREN ROGERS JR.
CHICAGO (U)—The people who helped whistle up the draft-Stevenson move find it's blown them clear out of campaign buttons.

A week ago they had 3,000 of them—big, shiny red, white and blue buttons saying, "America needs Stevenson for President."

Today? Not a one that isn't pinned to somebody.

No use asking the volunteer band that set out six months ago to win the top Democratic nomination for Illinois' Gov. Adlai Stevenson.

Their headquarters, on the 15th floor of the Conrad Hilton Hotel, is fresh out too.

"I'm just breathless," said Mrs. Barbara Simpson, a striking blue-eyed blonde. "We've been out of buttons since Tuesday. I wish those others we ordered would get here."

Another worker, Miss Mary Anderson, came in with two teenagers in tow, trailed by a photographer. The trio posed, proudly displaying Stevenson buttons, and the flash-bulb popped.

"All right, girls," called out Mrs. Simpson. "Take them off and lock them up. That's the last three buttons."

Mrs. Simpson is easy to interview. You just ask for a button and it's like pushing one — out comes the whole story.

"We're just rank amateurs here. I don't know what the political pros, or whatever you call them, are doing out at the Convention Hall.

"All I know is we started here with one room, no money and no candidate. Now we've got seven rooms, more volunteers than we can use, donations coming in all the time and—even Gov. Stevenson is starting to sound like he would run."

The committee, she went on, got started last January in Chicago. Its co-chairmen are Walter Johnson, Chicago University professor, and George Overton, Chicago lawyer. It's called a national committee but most members are Illinoisans, like Mrs. Simpson.

"Actually," she whispered, "I come from a long line of Vermont Republicans."

The blue eyes sparkled when she added:

"I never was much for politics. I don't even remember whether I voted for Stevenson in '48. But if this thing works out, nobody will ever convince me democracy is endangered in this country."

Order Of Lenin Is Conferred On Two

MOSCOW (U)—The Soviet Union's naval minister, Adm. Nikolai Kusnetsov, and Vladimir Kilmov, a designer of airplane engines, were honored today with the Order of Lenin. The high awards were conferred on their birthdays, Kusnetsov's 50th and Kilmov's 60th.

WHAT IT TAKES

A man who had been in Congress for 30 years is quoted as saying that it took "six minimum requirements to get elected to public office . . .

"The friendliness of a child;

"The perseverance of a bill collector;

"The docility of a lap dog;

"The patience of a deaf wife;

"The curiosity of a cat; and

"The amiability of an idiot."

I don't know whether I have all these requirements, but I sure would like to have your vote Saturday. I can make you a good Justice of the Peace.

Re-Elect
Jake Bruton

Figures and conditions show that, during the term of office of Jake Bruton as sheriff, Howard County is fairing better than ever in law enforcement and in maintaining decent conditions.

JUST ONE EXAMPLE In all the years since 1925, there have been 49 cases of narcotics violations handled by the Howard County Sheriff's Office, and 32 OF THESE HAVE BEEN HANDLED DURING BRUTON'S TERM OF OFFICE.

ANOTHER EXAMPLE During the "dry" year of 1951, over 100 liquor cases in Big Spring alone were handled by the Sheriff's office. Under the present conditions, Jake Bruton and his force have done an outstanding job in checking licensed establishments.

ONE MORE EXAMPLE Fees of the office of sheriff collected for the county (this is not fines alone) in 1951 totaled $4,580.67. This compares with just $2,059.07 in 1950 and only $1,186.61 back in 1943.

Barkley Commands First Full House

CHICAGO (U)—Vice President Alben Barkley drew the first full house of the two national conventions last night.

For the first time since the big political rallies began, every one of the 14,000 seats in Convention Hall was occupied for Barkley's speech. Late arrivals were turned away at the gates.

Democratic convention officials on Tuesday adopted a policy of admitting the general public to take seats not claimed by ticket-holders.

A Bible Thought For Today—

This faith has indeed enabled the Christian nations to perform miracles. Casting aside that faith and substituting fear for faith will lead any nation and individual backward, not forward. "I can do all things through Him who strengthens me." — Philippians 4:13.

The Soundest Basis For Casting Your Ballot In Saturday's Vote

One more day separates us from the first Democratic primary, which, despite the warnings of the Republican awakening, still calls the hour in Texas politics for all practical purposes.

That, particularly on a local level, voters will be balloting Saturday upon their officials for the next biennium. Because many of the races which have opposition have only two, several offices will be settled definitely. The remaining ones will be reduced to two contestants for the runoff or August primary. Unless all signs fall, the Democratic nominees for county, precinct and district posts will sail right into office in the general election in November.

It is increasingly important, therefore, that you make your plans to ballot in the primary Saturday if you consider yourself a Democrat. Howard County has a record voting potential, but unless a lot of people shake off the shackles of civic lethargy, the vote may fall considerably short of a record.

Voting early is helpful; voting positively for someone rather than against someone or voting blindly is most important of all. If you don't know the candidates, get hold of a sample ballot and study the list. If you still don't know, ask someone who does know them. Always ask this question: "Who is equipped by training, character and ability to do the best job?"

If we vote on this basis Saturday, none of us can lose.

Flying Saucers Keep Cropping Up, But This Is A First For Radar

The Air Force waited almost 48 hours and then released the story of strange aerial objects floating around over the nation's capital. Maybe it was waiting to see if Harry Truman was sending up trial balloons to see how the wind was blowing in Chicago.

But when the story did break, it outdid all the other flying saucer yarns of record. The radar screen at the National Airport Saturday night had picked up eight slow-moving objects flying in the vicinity of Andrews Air Force Base a few miles away. These objects had to have real substance to show on the radar screen, rather than mere light which might be attributed to optical illusion. Whatever they were, these things were real.

Their slow speed, about 130 miles, differed from most flying saucers which have been represented as traveling at enormous velocity. They made alternate up and down motions and they were also said to hover at times.

Furthermore, a commercial pilot flying outward from Washington had seen the objects the same night, only this time there were only seven instead of eight. A pilot of 17 years' service described them as "like falling stars without tails."

Interviewed later, Pilot Pierman said he had never seen objects like these before. He had seen a lot of shooting stars, but these were not like stars. They were much faster than "anything like that I have ever seen. They couldn't have been aircraft. They were moving too fast for that."

This differs from the radar screen report not only in numbers involved, but in rate of speed.

"Please remember," insisted Capt. Pierman, "I didn't speak of them as flying saucers—only very fast-moving lights."

The radar screen proved them to be more than light, and that is something new in all the reports of similar phenomena we have seen.

What's going on here? The Air Force and 150,000,000 Americans, not to mention two billion other human beings, would like to have the answer. The Air Force is investigating all such incidents and may, by some day, will have the answer.

Stevenson Determined To Stay Clear Of HST And The Bosses

CHICAGO. —The inside story of Adlai Stevenson's tortuous trail toward the Democratic presidential nomination can now be told for the first time.

Inside fact is that Stevenson stayed in the background, for two basic reasons:

1—That he, Stevenson, had the right to name his own campaign manager.

2—That he had the right to name his own chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

3—That the Democratic platform be cleared with him before presentation to the convention.

4—That President Truman agree to campaign only whenever and wherever Stevenson wanted him.

5—That President Truman agree to clear all speeches during the campaign with Stevenson in advance of delivery.

Stevenson also asked that he have the power to pass on his own vice presidential running mate. He also wanted the White House emissary to be very careful not to consult with Jake Arvey on any of the above.

When President Truman heard Stevenson's conditions, he hit the ceiling. Stevenson's attitude, he exploded was a personal affront, particularly when it came to clearing presidential speeches with a candidate.

"I'm President," Truman said, "and I owe that fact to no one, including Adlai Stevenson. I'm not going to clear my speeches with a living soul."

"What's more," Truman added, "I'll speak where I darned well want to speak and when I want to speak. I fought the '48 campaign out alone and I can fight this one out alone too if I have to."

As a result of Truman's reaction, Stevenson climbed back into his shell, refused to commit himself further on the nomination. As a result, also, Truman put Stevenson in the same doghouse that he had already erected to hold another leading Democratic candidate—Sen. Estes Kefauver.

Stevenson's stirring speech to the opening of the Democratic convention brought his candidacy to life with a bang. It will be interesting to see whether the President and his cronies now gang up on Stevenson the way they have on Kefauver.

The most pathetic meeting of the entire Democratic convention occurred not in a smoke-filled room but in room 709 of the Blackstone Hotel during a breakfast between Vice President Alben Barkley and eight labor leaders.

The meeting was called by friendly mutual agreement and was attended by Walter Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers, George Harrison, head of the AFL Railway Clerks, Cy Anderson of railway labor's Political League and Jack Kroll, head of the CIO Political Action Committee. Barkley came without an aide or assistant. He said he wanted to talk to the labor leaders alone.

At the start of the breakfast, the vice president made a long and impassioned plea for labor support. He told of his long record of fighting liberal causes, how he had always championed labor. He reviewed his own voting record on civil rights and social legislation.

The labor leaders listened carefully but before he finished they knew they would have to tell him they could not support him.

They couldn't break the old man's heart by telling him the truth—that, at 74, he was too old, that he couldn't be elected. They tried to let him down gently.

Kroll pointed out that Barkley was getting into the race at a very late date and much of labor's support was already pledged to Harriman or Kefauver. Furthermore, he said that labor could not take some of the personalities who had climbed aboard the Barkley bandwagon. He specifically mentioned Jim Farley, though the labor leaders also had in mind reports that General Motors was secretly pushing Barkley with the idea that he would be one Democrat who would insure an easy Eisenhower victory.

The labor men knew that Barkley's record was good, and they admired it. But they also knew that no man of 74 could win, and they were determined that a Democrat be nominated with a chance to win.

Later, Reuther put it to Barkley as gently as possible.

"Mr. Vice President," he said, "we have nothing against you. We admire you and are for you personally. But the trouble is that you're being used."

As the meeting broke up, they could see that the old man's eyes began to fill with tears. After years of battling for the party, years of working for new deal legislation, in Congress, after hundreds of speeches he made at Jackson Day dinners throughout the country, Alben Barkley had hoped that his great ambition to be President of the United States might be fulfilled.

But now it appeared dashed to pieces just on the brink of victory.

Governor Stevenson's son, Borden Stevenson, has been secretly working to draft his father. Borden is at the "Draft Stevenson" headquarters run by a group of University of Chicago professors at the Conrad Hilton Hotel—Washington lawyer George Ball flew to Chicago just before the convention opened with a round-robin plea to the Illinois governor from a number of Stevenson's former colleagues in the New Deal. The University of Chicago volunteer "Draft Stevenson" team spent less than $7,000 stirring up their drive. Each volunteer rented and paid for his own room at headquarters. The volunteer group had strict orders to stay away from the Arvey political machine.

One of the heaviest pressures on Stevenson in run came from Chicago Publisher Marshall Field Jr., who backed Eisenhower for the Republican nomination, and now cooling off on Ike. Field rents Stevenson's farm at Libertyville, Ill., as a summer home, frequently has his land-

Rewards Of Matrimony More Certain For Women Than Any Political Work

(EDITOR'S Note: "Politics is a man's game," concludes Trellis Mae Peeble, America's average wife, in a letter home to her husband about the national donkey serenade.)

By HAL BOYLE
CHICAGO, July 24 (P)—Dearest Wilbur,

If I learn nothing else from the Democratic Convention, I at least have learned this—politics is really for men. Women had better stick to matrimony, where the rewards are surer and they can be certain of at least one man's ear.

Yes, politics is for men. And men deserve politics—the heartless beasts.

I am boiling mad at all male Democrats today for the way they behaved during Ladies' Day in Convention Hall. If I had my way I'd have every woman in America boycott (or should I say girl) Democratic Parties and form a "Women Only Party."

I guess I had better begin from the beginning, honey. Anyway, political conventions are now like baseball parks. They have a Ladies Day just to prove they recognize the existence of two sexes.

The leading female politicians are invited to speak. And Tuesday afternoon the donkey delegates heard—or, I might say, should have heard—Perle Meiss, minister to Luxembourg; Eugenie A. Anderson, ambassador of Denmark; and Georgia Neese Clark, treasurer of the United States.

These ladies just looked simply lovely. I would hate to say how much they must have spent on new hair-dos and gowns. It was the big moment of four years for them—a kind of middle-aged junior prom. And they had worked

Filming N. York Scenes Runs Into Big Money

NEW YORK—When he was an actor on Broadway where everyone in the neighborhood of Times Square speaks like Oxford scholar, no one paid much attention to Gregory Ratoff.

Ratoff had an accent but he didn't worry that he had been born in Samara, Russia. He always remembered that Frenchman Ford Madox Ford had once written a very erudite and understanding book called "New York Is Not America."

Ratoff is now back in New York, to direct and produce a 20th-Century-Fox comedy called "Taxi."

"With a title like that," Ratoff said, "it could be made only in a metropolis like New York. Perhaps in London, perhaps in Paris. But only in New York could you get the speed of action that 'taxi' suggests."

"In sum, the story tells what a single taxi driver might encounter during 18 hours of an exciting day, from the time he starts at 8 a.m. at La Guardia Airport and ends his trip at 2 a.m. the next morning—18 hours from the time he began with his original fare."

And what is the difference, I asked Ratoff, between shooting this picture on simulated New York settings in Hollywood and shooting them inside and outside natural settings in Manhattan?

"Sometimes the cost is less, and sometimes it may be as much or more as the amount with which we would be billed in Hollywood. As an example, we did five hours research for a location on New York's Bowery and we did eight hours of shooting film on the location we had selected. That was 13 hours of work for a full crew to make the filming. What we did was very good, but on the screen that film will make only three minutes of actual pictures."

"But I do not have to worry if I am producing a picture in Rome," he said. "In Rome, or a similar Italian city, I can put the actors in 18th Century costumes and they are filmed against 18th Century houses—authentic, and they are still there."

Ratoff, who has become quite a specialist on costs of movie production since he started filming in Rome and New York, illustrated the difference in prices between the two places.

In one scene Ratoff wanted a short scene of a delicatessen owner standing in the doorway.

This Day In Texas

By CURTIS BISHOP

The first military funeral ever held in the Lone Star domain on this day in 1838 marked the burial of James Collinsworth, who had leaped from a steamer to his death in the waters of Galveston Bay three days before.

Mourners heard Collinsworth lauded for his brilliant mind and his service to the fledgling Republic; the orators left unmentioned his weakness for ardent spirits which had probably brought about his suicide. Long active in public affairs, Collinsworth at the time of his death was chief justice of the Supreme Court and candidate for the presidency of the Republic.

Born in Tennessee, Collinsworth came to Texas in 1834. He quickly won a reputation as an outstanding lawyer. Soon after the Revolution he went to Washington with Peter Grayson to solicit United States aid in the war with Mexico and to seek annexation. Appointed Secretary of State by David Burnet, Collinsworth resigned that post in a huff because the president had appointed to high office "persons who had never been in the country except temporarily," Collinsworth. Ten or fifteen months, resented the newcomers.

Collinsworth's death and the suicide soon after of Peter Grayson, also a presidential candidate, insured the election of Mirabeau Lamar to the Republic's highest office.

Big Probe But No Report On The Noise Problem

(Copyright 1953 by Walt Kelly)

CHICAGO.—Most conventions have carried a regular convention sign which said: "I listen for Tippecanoe." And a smaller sign bearing the legend: "Belgian Spooks."

Ears, as a hearing aide, was a wonder and very good at all sorts of listening. It was said that a Belgian expert had declared that Fulsome was one of the few individuals who could hear punctuation with either ear. At any rate he gave full attention to every question and then relayed everything to the Colonel in Flemish, not being able to speak anything else. He worked out that the Colonel doesn't understand Finnish and couldn't hear the questions even from the Rabbit, who had a powerful voice especially in Belgian.

Therefore a complete report on this interesting facet of noise in Chicago is not ready at this time. But there is a clear indication of trend.

Something To Know In Case You Get Bitten By A Rabid Animal

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald—Editor's Note.

A good thing to know in what to do in case you're the victim of a mad dog bite.

That's because rabies, an ancient disease that killed a Big Spring woman last year, has a mortality rate of 99-plus percent if allowed to go unchecked. Meaning you're a goner if you get the infection and don't do something about it before the symptoms appear. And the thing to do is start a series of 14 antitoxin injections.

The shots aren't exactly pines, themselves; some doctors consider the antitoxin rather dangerous but they don't hesitate to order the serum when a person is thought to have the disease.

(Incidentally, the rabies shots were given a number of Texas children last year in an anti-polio experiment. Results, if any, haven't been substantiated from the polio vaccination standpoint.)

Rabies, also called hydrophobia, usually is transmitted in the saliva of an infected animal. Hence the term "mad dog." A canine gets the disease, it makes him temperamental as a used car, somebody or something gets bit, and the infection flows with the saliva into the victim.

The disease isn't confined to dogs and humans. Skunk, foxes and other animals (even cattle), have been known to "go mad." A bat is believed to have carried the infection fatal to the local woman.

You can't always tell when a dog or cat has hydrophobia. The safe thing to do is have the biting animal confined for observation by a veterinarian or other qualified person. Any rabid creature will display definite symptoms within a 10-day period and his victims have about 15 days in which to start the antitoxin treatment.

In case the animal must be killed, be careful not to damage the head or brain in any way. Examination of the Ammon's horn portion of the brain is the only laboratory method of determining whether a dead animal was infected with rabies.

The extremely delicate diagnosis may be made impossible if the brain is bruised, shattered, or allowed to decompose. The head should be separated from the body and kept at a temperature just above freezing. Be careful not to freeze the specimen—that'll also ruin it.

The best thing to do (if an animal suspected of having rabies is killed) is call health authorities. In Big Spring, that's Lige Fox at the Big Spring-Howard County Health Unit.

He will take over, help you prepare the head for shipment to State Health Department laboratories in Austin, and in a matter of hours you'll know whether or not you've been exposed to rabies.

Anthropologists have found evidence that rabies has existed practically since the dawn of civilization. The disease has been eradicated from two or three European countries for varying periods of time, but it usually recurs when guards are lowered. Texas ranks third among the states in the number of cases of the disease reported. The virus has been found in around 30 Texas animal species and some sections of the state have been plagued by rabid foxes, skunks and various other animals.

At present, the State Health Department hopes to ascertain if the infection is very prevalent among bats and other flying creatures. The local sanitarian has been requested to forward to state health laboratories any "sick" bats he runs across. Fox has considered trying to capture some of the attic-dwellers, but he's at a loss when it comes to determining which are in poor health.

Health officials doubt that there are many rabid animals or birds hereabouts. Nevertheless, they urge close observation of any creature that bites a person or shows other signs of becoming violent. Hydrophobia seldom is found, but when it is—stakes are high.

Gallup Poll

Republicans Offer Three Big Reasons For Getting '52 Vote

PRINCETON, N. J.—What ideas did the Republicans "sell" Mr. and Mrs. John Doe, average voters, with their speeches and oratory at the recent Republican convention?

To discover which of the many ideas stressed by Republican speakers seemed to be most convincing to newspaper readers, television viewers and radio listeners, the Gallup Poll had its nation-wide staff of field interviewers ask people, in the days immediately following the G. O. P. convention, this question:

"In the talks and speeches at the Republican convention, what did you think was the BEST argument brought out to get people to vote Republican this November?"

Three arguments were most frequently mentioned, each one by about the same number of persons interviewed:

1. The G. O. P. will reduce government spending and will lower taxes.
2. The G. O. P. will clean out graft and corruption in government.
3. The Democratic party has been in power too long and it's time for a change.

Close behind these three arguments came the argument that the Republicans would handle America's foreign policy better, that it would stop the war in Korea and improve the chance for peace throughout the world.

The same survey question will be put to a representative cross-section of the American people immediately following the Democratic convention to see what ideas they got over to the American public to convince voters that they should vote Democratic this November.

Although many G. O. P. speakers charged that the Truman administration had

Sheep Raised In South Greenland

If we could pick up Greenland and lay it on North America, we might place the northern end in Canada, say alongside Winnipeg. In that case, the southern tip would stretch down to the Gulf of Mexico.

Greenland has about one eleventh of the area of North America, and almost one eighth of the area of South America. On maps of the Mercator type, Greenland looks much larger than it really is.

The first white person to settle in Greenland seem to have been Norsemen led by Eric the Red. The Norse party got there more than nine and a half centuries ago.

Eskimos were living in southern Greenland at the time the Norsemen arrived.

Late figures show that the population of the big island is only about 22,000. This means one person for each 28 square miles. We might call that a "thin population."

All of the residents live near the coast. The southern end of Greenland has almost the entire population.

Anyone who appears in the center of Greenland is likely to be an explorer. White men have tramped across parts of the great central glacier, and aviators have flown above it.

Denmark owns the island, but the people are mainly Eskimos, or of mixed white and Eskimo stock. Less than 500 residents are classed as pure white.

In grassy districts near the coast of Greenland, sheep are raised. Their wool is of special value in making woolen clothing to help Greenlanders live through the long, cold winters. Many natives wear fur clothing made from the hides of polar bears, seals and other animals.

Greenland (like Norway) has beautiful valleys known as fjords. Valley glaciers

Dressing Table Magic

Ellouise Carroll shows off the dressing table she made herself from apple boxes and covered with a chintz skirt.

Center Point 4-H Girl Adds One More To Long List Of Achievements

Ellouise Carroll is a versatile 16-year-old who seems to find time to do anything she sets her heart on. The pretty Howard County farm girl, who has been going at 4-H Club work like mad for eight years, has just been elected secretary-treasurer of District 2 to add another terrific job to her routine chores.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Carroll, Ellouise is junior leader of the Center Point Club and secretary-treasurer of the Clover Leaf Club.

Her latest project - bedroom improvement - was slated a year ago when the family moved into its new home about five miles northeast of Big Spring on the Gall road. The home itself was a family project - both Mr. and Mrs. Carroll as well as Wesley Jr., 9, and Ellouise assisted in its construction, doing a great part of the work themselves.

Already Ellouise has made a dressing table and skirt, mattress and spring protectors, a shag rug and a lamp for her bedroom. The dressing table was made from apple boxes and beneath the chintz-skirt are shelves for cosmetics, books and other articles. The rug was made from a feed sack, used for the backing, and special rug yarn. Ellouise made the lamp from an old kerosene model.

This year she is continuing the project by making a stool for the dressing table, shoe and laundry bags and quilt protectors.

"The chintz is the only thing that has any value," Ellouise replied when asked about the cost of the room's furnishings. "We bought about $10 worth of chintz and I guess counting the spread and curtains I've spent about $30."

The bedspread is a deep yellow chenille and the curtains are rayon marquisette in the same color, which set off the deep aqua of the walls.

Around the dressing table top is a band of quilted aqua chintz, to which is attached the chintz skirt, printed in yellow, aqua, green and touches of brown against a gray background.

Last year Ellouise won county medals in bedroom improvement, clothing, dairy foods and three in the dress review. In years past her projects have also included canning, gardening, recreation and junior leadership. Last year she was a member of the dairy foods demonstration team that won the district contest.

This year she will assist her mother, who is active in home demonstration club work and now engaged in the living room improvement project, in landscaping their yard, entering the planting

Elbow Club Makes Plans For Picnic

Members answered roll call by giving suggestions for arranging storage space in clothes closets when the Elbow Home Demonstration Club met Wednesday in the home of Mrs. B. J. Petty.

Mrs. Jack McKinnon was co-hostess.

Mrs. Edward Low had charge of the meeting and gave 10 rules for safety on the farm.

The group voted to send her to the state meeting in Kingsville in August and named Mrs. T. M. Dunagan as alternate.

Plans were made for a picnic to be held Aug. 22 in the City Park. Marie Petty showed a film on living room furniture which told of construction and points in purchasing.

The next meeting will be Sept. 10 in the home of Mrs. Rex Cauble with Mrs. Low as co-hostess.

MENU FOR TOMORROW

FRIDAY FARE
Hard Rolls
Fresh Crabmeat and Tomato Salad*
Angel food with Fruit Fillings Beverage

(Recipe for Starred Dish Follows)
FRESH CRABMEAT AND TOMATO SALAD

Ingredients: 1 pound (about 2 2/3 cups loosely-packed) fresh-cooked crabmeat, 1/2 cup finely diced celery, 1 teaspoon capers, 1 1/2 teaspoons finely-cut fresh basil, 1 cup well-seasoned mayonnaise, 4 large tomatoes, salt, paprika, salad greens.

Method: Have crabmeat in as large flakes as possible; mix it with the celery, capers, basil, and mayonnaise. Cut stem end from tomatoes and cut in half crosswise; sprinkle cut side with salt. Arrange 2 tomato halves (cut side up) on each individual salad plate. Pack a quarter-cup measure with crabmeat and turn out on top of each tomato half; sprinkle with paprika. Garnish with salad greens. Makes 4 servings.

Top creamed sweetbreads or chicken with strips of crisp bacon.

Diced cantaloupe tastes good in a lime-flavored gelatin dessert.

Giant Plastic Bubbles Make New Furniture News

By ELIZABETH HILLIER

Giant bubbles, white and luminous and looking as if they would float away, made news in the recent home furnishings fashion fall preview showings in Chicago at the Merchandise Mart. Spheres, gourd shapes, lantern shapes, some are no more than 9 1/2 inches in diameter and the largest is 36 inches across. They are called lighting fantasies by their designer, architect - writer - home furnishings designer George Nelson, but they float down to earth in the sturdiness of their materials and the practical way they can be hung. Frames for the lamps are made of steel wire. Covers are strong white vinyl plastic that has a most unusual surface and feels something

Many Fine Points

The many fine points of the new Roper range, adapted for either urban or rural use, are demonstrated here by Noble Kennerly at the S. M. Smith Butane Co. Roper, always a hallmark of quality, has an abundance of new features to offer in its latest models now on display at Smith Butane, NW 12th and Lamesa Highway.

Roper And Tappan Ranges Have Many Exceptional Features

World famous Tappan and Roper gas ranges, present for urban or rural use, are sold locally by the S. M. Smith Butane Company, which maintains its office on the Lamesa Highway near the north city limits.

The Roper range boasts such features as the porcelain enamel burners, "Intra-Flame" Automatic Lighters, Easy-Clean, "Air Stream" Cooking Top, "Perma Luster" Turret-Top, Enamel Burner Trays, Non-Tilting Utensil Supports, Automatic Oven-Heat Control, Rigid, Non-Sag Locking Racks Heat-Sealing Protective Insulation, Miracle-Clean Rounded Corners and the famous See-The Flame "Observ-Allite." Strikingly beautiful is the Tappan model which comes in several sizes.

The Tappan boasts, among other features, the "Tappan-Set," which includes an automatic clock that starts the oven and stops it, automatically, to serve to free the housewife from watching over her meals in the kitchen.

The Tappan make also has such selling points as the Vitamin-Saver Burners, Clean-Quick Broiler, a well-appointed divided top, a Visualite Oven, Indicator Signals and Safety-Stop Door.

The ranges, along with heaters, water heaters, electric refrigerators and other household appliances can be seen in the S. M. Smith showroom.

If your supply of butane or propane fuel is getting low, the place to call is the S. M. Smith concern.

New Line Of Cactus Paints Are Proving Very Popular

Two new lines of Cactus paints are proving exceptionally popular in this area.

One is a group of pastels in conventional types of paint. The other is a satin type which employs a rubber emulsion base.

Gene Campbell, production manager for Cactus Paint Company, said that the response to the new color arrangements for the conventional indoor paints had exceeded expectations.

cau provide any shade or tint that you might want.

Either a brush or roller may be used to apply this paint, which adheres readily and smoothly on any type of surface. Moreover, the ultra-smooth finish is washable and is durable.

Cactus Paints may be had at the plant just west of Morales Grill on U.S. 89 west, and at a savings too. The company has no retail outlet here and it passes its savings in marketing along to the customer.

Beauty Is First At Colonial

One of the best-equipped and staffed beauty centers in Big Spring is the Colonial Beauty Shop, 1211 Scurry.

Everything from medically-approved cosmetics to facials, permanent waves and scalp treatments may be secured by the beauty-conscious woman at Colonial, operated in the same location by Christine Coughlin for the past five years. Nothing is spared to make the beauty shop headquarters in Big Spring for feminine beauty culture.

Colonial has both equipment and skilled operators to live up to its slogan of "Head-Turning Beauty." Recently remodelled throughout, the shop now boasts new lighting, mirrors, driers and a comfortable reception room.

The beauty shop has a private facial vestibule and an operator who specializes in facials and the Parker Herbex scalp treatment. Permanent waves offered include the Raynette and Helen Curtis types. Hair cutting and styling is another service offered by the institution. A manicurist also is provided.

Colonial Beauty Shop is completely air-conditioned for the comfort of patrons and efficiency of beauty operators.

The cosmetics counter displays two lines of beauty aids which bear the Good Housekeeping Seal of approval and certification for purity from the American Medical Association.

Flowers Are Most Personal Of Gifts

You probably could not choose a more personalized gift than a gorgeous bouquet from Estah's Flowers, 1701 Scurry.

Flowers make suitable tokens for practically every occasion, and Estah's convenient service make them even more desirable as thoughtful remembrances for the new mother, thank-you expressions, anniversary-observances, weddings, congratulatory messages, and expressions of sympathy.

Mechanics At Jones Motor All Factory Trained For Work

Five factory-trained mechanics handle cars at Jones Motor Company.

Jones, located at 101 Gregg, is dealer for Dodge trucks and cars, and Plymouth cars and has factory-trained men to work on cars. Chrysler Corporation, makers of Dodges and Plymouths, prepares a course for their mechanics to give them extra training in repairing automobiles.

The course, the Master Technician's Training Conference, is in the form of moving pictures. The mechanics study the film and take a quiz over the picture. These films are shown once a month. They concern also new phases of work on the cars in addition to the regular problems confronting Dodge and Plymouth mechanics.

Tests Due Soon For Northwest Sterling Mississippian Zone

Production tests are due soon for Tex Harvey Employees No. 1 Chapel, Northeast Sterling County prospective discovery in the Mississippian detrital. It recovered mostly oil in swabbing this zone. After taking electric log, Humble No. 1 Dayvault is to take a drillstem test in the Ellenburger instead of plugging back immediately to the Strawn in Southeast Sterling.

Coronet No. 1 Brookhage, Northeast Howard wildcat which showed considerable free oil in a test of the San Angelo lime around 2,900, was drilling plugs to test.

Top of the Strawn was picked in the Austral No. 1 Ellwood, a Northeast Sterling exploration.

Corrected final information on American Republics No. 1 Bigby, south edge to the Driver Spraberry area, showed 280 barrels of oil.

Borden
Ashmun & Hilliard No. 1-C Lons, C NE NE 7-30-40, T&P, drilled to 7,331 in lime and shale.

Trip Is Halted By Earthquake

An earthquake and a scare headline terminated the vacation of the R. H. Snyder family in Los Angeles, Calif. post haste.

Mr. and Mrs. Snyder and three sons, Don, Terry and Dickey, were visiting in the home of her sister, Mrs. Gladys Thompson at 1012 S. Lake Street in Los Angeles. Mrs. Thompson is head of the public relations department at the VA Hospital in Los Angeles.

Snyder told graphically of reactions to the tremor which hit at 4:32 a.m. Monday.

"It felt like someone had picked up the bed, just led me around and then threw me out of bed."

Almost instantly, lights went on all over the vast city.

"People started running out in the street all excited and in their night clothes. Fire sirens went off and a burglar alarm was touched off. Even after the main quake had passed, it felt like a rumbling and rhythmic knocking was going on under the floor."

Dickey had an audition on the Horace Heidt Youth Opportunity program that night.

Mrs. Snyder was more than mildly uneasy. Then she picked up a paper down town which said that a scientist pointed out possibility of a repeat within 36 hours. That did it. The family packed up and didn't stop rolling until they had reached Tucson, Ariz., a mere 544 miles away.

Theft Is Reported To Local Offices

Theft of approximately 20 pocket knives and $2.50 worth of pens was reported today by Davis & Deats Feed Store.

Operators of the concern were uncertain as to whether the theft occurred during the night or after the store was opened this morning. The knives were all in a large box, which also was taken.

viewed here — I cannot talk. I'm not going to make any statement at all.

Acting Defense Mobilizer John R. Steelman, whose repeated mediation attempts to stop the crippling, 33-day strike have failed, was asked to sit in during the dramatic presidential appeal to both sides for an immediate end to the walkout.

Looming ominously in the background was the threat of imminent paralysis to the nation's defense effort.

Defense Secretary Robert Lovett estimated that "somewhere between 20 and 30 per cent" of the expected arms production for this year would be lost because of the strike, the longest steel production stoppage in the nation's history.

Possibility of a crippling strike in a second vital industry—coal—made the picture even darker.

John L. Lewis was reported to have notified at least part of the soft coal industry the present contracts will end in two months.

Judging from past experience, that means a strike or slowdown in coal fields is all but inevitable if a new contract is not signed by Sept. 22.

Coal stocks are at near record levels—about 70 days supply on hand—and a strike in mid-September would indicate the pinch would begin to be felt about the time cool weather sets in.

The President said nothing in advance about a possible bold new plan to compromise the bitter steel dispute and bring a new work contract to 600,000 striking steelworkers.

But observers close to the situation said Truman would certainly appeal to the patriotism of leaders of both sides.

There was speculation, too, that he might suggest a new plan to deal with the union's demand for a union shop—an arrangement which compels all workers to join the union.

The union shop demand—and the industry's refusal so far to agree to any form of union shop—was the only remaining obstacle to settlement when the last industry-union negotiations collapsed last Sunday.

SW 14-32-3n, T&P, progressed to 4,083 in sand and lime.

Sinclair No. 1 Williams, C NE NE 45-32-6n, T&P, was on pump and prepared to take potential test.

Superior No. 13-636 Florence Lanham, C SW SW 536-97, H&TC, drilled to 4,505 in lime and shale.

Union No. 1 Loggie, C SE SW 9-32-6n, EL&RR, drilled to 2,555 and was running 8 1/2-in. intermediate casing.

Kerr's Supporters Revising Estimate

CHICAGO, July 24 (AP)—Sen. Robert S. Kerr's campaign aids revised their estimates of his first ballot strength slightly downward today as the hour of decision arrived at the Democratic Convention.

The big Oklahoma senator has been claiming all along that he would have 150 votes when the roll is first called.

But former state Sen. Bob George of Kansas, one of Kerr's strategists, told a reporter the total probably would be nearer 130 or 135.

Even so, this might well put the Sooner senator in fourth place on the first ballot.

And with such a total he would be in good position to assume the role he has set for himself all along—a compromise choice in the event of a deadlock.

Carl Albert, the diminutive Congressman from McAlester, was ready to put Kerr before the convention with a speech lauding him as "a fighting progressive Democrat" and "a winner

Guerra Records 15th Triumph Behind Broncs

SWEETWATER — Big Spring picked up valuable ground in the Longhorn League race by noosing out the Sweetwater Braves, 4-3, in the first of a two-game series here Wednesday night.

Gil Guerra authored his 15th victory of the season as he went all the way on the hill for the Steeds. The win was the fifth in a row for the Braves, who pitched to within 5 1/2 lengths of the post-setting Chester Oilers with the win.

Perhaps more vital still, the Capuses moved six full games out in front of Artesia in the battle for second place and 11 contests ahead of Sweetwater in their bid to nail down a spot in the Shaughnessy playoffs. At this stage of the race, that is most important.

To turn the trick against the Braves, the Steeds rallied with a pair of two-run innings, getting a brace of tallies in the sixth and two more in the seventh.

The Braves used a pair of doubles and a single to narrow the count to 3-2 in the sixth and won it in the seventh on two singles, two errors and a squeeze play.

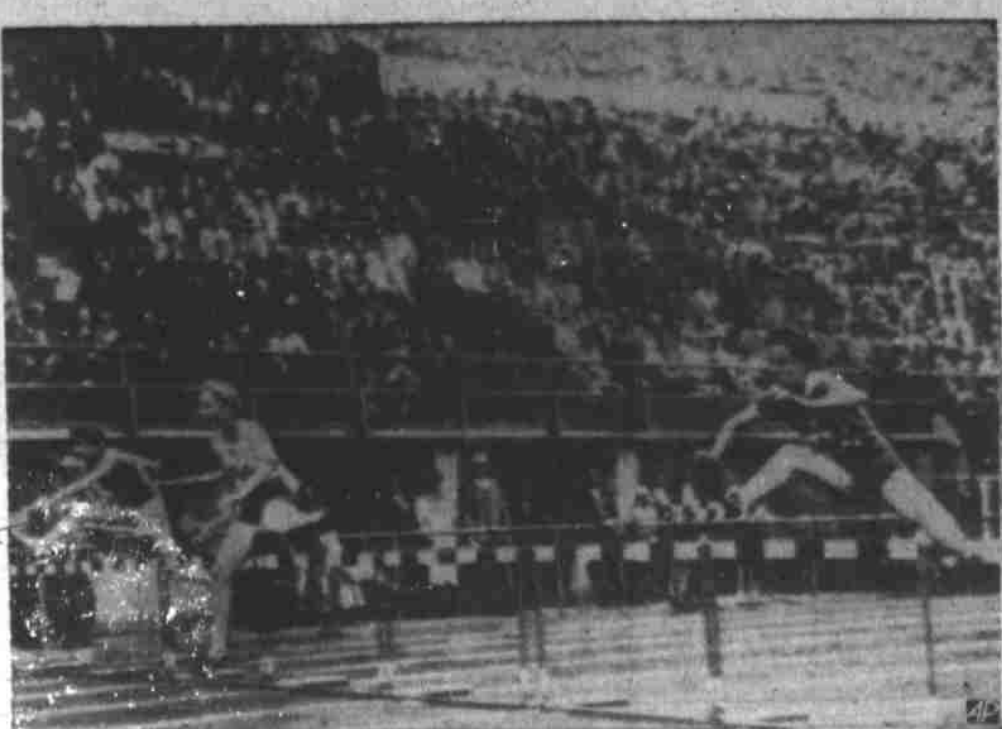

Guerra hurled one-hit ball during the final four innings after spotting the Braves three runs. Sweetwater scored once in the first on a single by Ernest Cortez and Charlie Tuttle's triple. Tony Traspetto slammed a bases-empty home run for Sweetwater in the fourth and in the fifth inning a double by Cortez and Charley Buck's single made it 3-0.

Al Costa led off Big Spring's sixth with a double and scored on Buddy Grimes's two-bagger. Rick Gonzalez singled across Grimes. Manager Pat Stacey started the Braves' seventh with a single and went to third on pitcher Marcello Solis' error on a grounder by Juan Visteur. Costa singled across Stacey with the tying run, and a perfectly executed squeeze play by Al Valdes plated Visteur with the winning tally.

Gil Grajeda replaced Solis in the seventh and cut the Braves down the remaining distance but his mates were unable to solve the offerings of Guerra, who struck out Gus Ungo in the ninth when the Braves threatened with two runners on base.

Strickland Sets New Record

Shirley Strickland (center) of Australia, clears the last hurdle as she powers her way to victory in preliminary heat of women's 80-meter hurdles at Helsinki. Her time of 11 seconds was a new Olympic record. In a later heat she set a new world mark and Olympic record by flashing to victory in the time of 10.8. Other hurdlers not identified. A LOT OF HISTORY

Big Spring Invitational Began In GOP Hey-Day

By DON HENRY

Even before the Republican party went out of office the last time, the Big Spring Country Club was staging its annual invitational golf tournament. Today that tourney is one of the bright spots on the summer links circuit and a meet looking forward to every year.

With a National Amateur Champ listed among the former winners, the Big Spring Invitational golf tournament annually draws a flock of golfers from over West Texas and the state.

The entry list yearly tops 150. The 1952 meet will be the 21st annual tourney.

The tournament was inaugurated in 1931 when the Republicans were still in power and when the Big Spring Country Club still had sand greens. And since the first meet, only one year has been skipped, that being in 1944 when World War II interrupted.

Charles Qualls of Post captured the first tournament and successfully defended it the following year. He is one of four men that have ever captured the title more than once. The others are Eddie Morgan (1935 and 1936), Bill Roden ('42, '47 and '48) and Doug Jones ('38 and '45). Roden is the lone golfer to capture as many as three of the titles.

Shirley Robbins copped the third tourney and three years later became Country Club pro here.

Only out-of-state player to cop the trophy was J. J. Neal of Hobbs, N. M., who carried the title out of Texas in 1934.

In the twenty years of action, the championship has been won by 11 visiting golfers while Big Spring linksmen have won nine.

Billy Maxwell, son of W. O. Maxwell, manager of the municipal course, won the meet in 1950 while registering out of Odessa. He entered and captured the national amateur one year later.

In connection with the tourney is the Hall and Bennett Cup matches. The matches annually send a group of local linksmen against an equal group of visiting golfers.

In the 13 years of competition, Big Spring has won five and lost seven. The 1951 battle ended in a tie—the lone tie match in the tourney's history.

Defending champion of this year's invitational tourney will be Bob Wortman. The Midland golfer won the 1951 meet with a 3-1 victory over Big Spring's Marvin Wright. Jake Morgan was medalist with a one-under-par 71.

The complete list of former champions are: 1931, Charles Qualls; Post; '32, Qualls; '33, Shirley Robbins; '34, J. J. Neal; Hobbs; '35, Eddie Morgan; '36, Morgan; '37, Dr. Richard Snider; Dublin; '38, Doug Jones; '39, Elton Dodder; '40, E. C. Nix; Seminole; '41, Bobby Davidson, Sweetwater; '42, Bill (Red) Roden; '43, L. A. Excaltante; '44, no tourney because of war; '45, Jones; '46, Raymond Marshall, Lubbock; '47, Roden; '48, Roden; '49, Jack Williams, Plainview; '50, Billy Maxwell; and 1951, Bob Wortman, Midland.

Gazella Blanks Berger, 1 To 0

By The Associated Press

Mike Gazella of Abilene twirled the masterpiece of the West Texas-New Mexico League Wednesday night as the Blue Sox beat Pampa 1-0 on his five-hit hurling.

Amarillo won its seventh straight with a great comeback. Held scoreless through six innings and behind 4-0, the Gold Sox rallied to score the winning run in the bottom of the ninth and nab a 5-4 victory over Albuquerque.

Ramsdell Is Sold To Los Angeles

Willard Ramsdell, one-time Big Spring mound star, has been sold by the Chicago Cubs to the Los Angeles Angels of the Pacific Coast League.

Ramsdell, a knuckleball artist, was with the local team at the time it was in the WT-NM League. He won 25 games here in 1951.

Ramsdell, a native of Chanute, Kansas, has spent considerable time in the major leagues. He was also with Brooklyn and Cincinnati.

He had won two games and lost three for Chicago.

Willard formerly was with Hollywood in the Pacific Coast League. He also spent time with Fort Worth in the Texas League.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Whatever a baseball league president is paid, he's worth the ante if he can maintain harmony on his board of directors.

Howard Green, the ex-Longhorn League proxy who is now saddled with the job of directing the business of two Class B leagues, the Big State and Gulf Coast, is getting static from some of the Big State club presidents for the way he conducts his affairs of state.

One of his chief critics is H. B. Dudley, president of the Wichita Ager, Frank Mancuso, wired Green to the effect that "your stupid and grossly incapable umpire" was to blame for the incident which led to Mancuso's ouster, that the punishment inflicted was not justified and that "your action in this case is on a par with some of your previous decisions."

Green would probably be quick to agree that it is impossible in any endeavor and especially in baseball to please everyone.

The Sweetwater Braves of the Longhorn League again have three first basemen in camp but two of them, Dan Morgan and Gus Ungo, are playing the outfield.

Warren Slier has the first base job nailed down there.

LABRADOR GOING GREAT AT CHICKASHA
Pablo Labrador, the ex-Big Springer, has won 12 mound decisions for Chickasha of the Sooner State League. A leftie, he could never get his control down here.

Over at Jola in the KOM League, Gaspar Del Toro, another one-time Bronc, is hitting .301. He's one of the top men in runs-batted-in in the circuit.

Dean Franks, former Roswell hurler, is a good bit to enjoy another 20-game season. With Austin of the Big State League, Dean has won 14 decisions.

Kenny Jones, the ex-Midlander, has elevated his mace mark to .286 with Temple in that wheel.

Ed Arthur, Lamesa; Jackie Sullivan, Lamesa; Jesse Priest, Albuquerque; and Clyde Perry, Amarillo—ex-Longhorn Leaguers—all—have been named to compete in the annual WT-NM League All-Star Game, which takes place in Clovis Aug. 2.

Arthur and Sullivan were with Odessa, Priest with Sweetwater and Perry with Midland.

John Reimold, Vernon's first sacker, is suggesting to the management he might quit baseball.

The Dusters, by the way, had a chance to land Ken Cluley, the former Angelo outfielder, but passed it up because the asking price was too much.

GIANTS YIELD IN 9TH TO MIDLAND, 7 TO 6

With the aid of four Big Spring errors, the Midland Black Indians scored six runs in the ninth inning to edge the Big Spring Giants here Wednesday night 7-6.

Bob Bell pitched for the Giants and held the Indians scoreless after the first inning until the ninth-inning uprising. He was relieved in the last frame by Guy Gonzales with nobody out.

Big Spring got all their runs in the fifth inning and led 6-1 going into the last frame.

Foots Parker, Fred McDaniels, Harry Dooley and Sandman Guldler led the Giant hitting attack.

Midland Loses Two Games Here

Cook's Appliance Store swept a fastball double header from the Rendezvous Cafe club of Midland here last night, winning the first game, 3-0, and the second, 2-1.

The morningcap was down for five innings but went an extra frame. Ben Kirkland counted the run that broke up the contest.

Cotton Mize and Hawk Daylong divided time on the mound for the Big Springers.

Baez To Assume Sox Management

Bert Baez, star hurler of the Big Spring Broncs will assume management of the Gold Sox, Little League baseball nine, it has been announced.

IN SAN ANGELO

Stage Set For 6th All-Star Battle

SAN ANGELO, (U.S.)—The stage is set and a capacity audience virtually assured for the sixth annual Longhorn League All-Star game here Friday night.

Managers Mark Christman and Zeke Bonura, mentors of the East and West teams respectively, are ready to direct their charges through paces which each hopes will lead to victory in this annual classic.

Christman will be trying to pilot the East to its first win in the history of the game. But again the East must be considered the underdog, giving away power, fielding finesse and even pitching to a confident Zeke Bonura and West squad.

Neither manager has indicated who will open on the mound. Both want to watch the pitching rotation of their five moundsmen before calling the shot on an opener. Christman has indicated that he may work four of his hurlers two innings apiece and the fifth one frame. But he said this may not hold true if he has to call on relief in the early innings as well he might.

Neither Bonura or Christman will have any difficulty in naming his starting team outside the pitchers.

The managers and sports writers of the eight Longhorn towns saw to this by naming the eight top players in each section.

For the East it will be Warren Slier of Sweetwater on first, John Tayan of San Angelo on second, Al Costa of Big Spring on short and Witty Quintans of the Broncs on third. Tony Traspetto, the fiery Sweetwater catcher, will be behind the plate.

The East outfield will line up with Charley Buck and Charley Tuttle, both of Sweetwater, and Pat Stacey of Big Spring, making his sixth appearance in a starting role on the picket line.

The West will field Joe Bauman of Artesia at first, Charley Weber of Odessa at second, Stubby Greer of Roswell at short and Paul Halter of Artesia at third. Rudy Briner, another Driller, will open behind the plate.

The West outfield will find Pat O'Keefe of Midland and Roman Loyko and Leo Eastham, both of Odessa, lining up against the East sluggers.

Tickets have been going well in San Angelo, Sweetwater and other area towns have sold solid blocks of ducats for the event.

Corsairs Near League Record

By JACK HAND

The magic number now is 15 in Pittsburgh's wild dash toward the major league booby prize. Any combination of 15 Pirate losses or Brooklyn wins will do the job. As the Pittsburgh lads (0-13 with Brooklyn) play 11 more with the Dodgers, it shouldn't take too long.

It will take a deal of hustling by the Detroit Tigers to rob the Pirates of the "distinction" of becoming the first club to be eliminated mathematically from the race.

If the statistical department delves deep enough into the dusty box scores of yesterday, they may find a new record in the office. All available dope books show only the earliest flag clinching, not the earliest elimination.

After last night's loss to Philadelphia, 4-1, Pittsburgh rested 41 games behind Brooklyn with 59 to play. And this is only July 24.

Rookie Steve Ridauc and ace Robin Roberts of the Phils teamed up on the Pirates with a five-hitter while Del Ennis blasted a two-run homer that doomed Bob Friend to his 15th defeat.

Indians Register 8-0 Win Over Yankee Aggregation

The Indians, behind the two-hit pitching of a new hurler, Sisto, blanked the Yankees 8-0 Wednesday afternoon in a Little League game.

In registering the win, Sisto struck out 10 men and walked only two.

Meanwhile his teammates were collecting their eight runs off five hits. Johnson was pitching for the Yanks. He struck out eight and his reliever, Flynn fanned five.

The Indians scored in every inning except the fifth. They got one in the first, two in the second, four in the third and one in the fourth.

The win brought the Indians' record to three wins and four losses. YANKERS AB R H PO A

"We've heard it so often we already know the first verse and are halfway through the second."

Davey was hugged by Coach Russell (Rusty) Callow after he had steered the great, all-winning crew to victory in the eight-oared championship.

"A perfect race," said the coach to hiscox.

"It was a great feeling," said the cox to the coach. "I wish you could have been in the boat, coach."

Back in 1922, Matti Jarvinen of Finland journeyed to Los Angeles for the Olympic Games. He won the javelin and set a record of 72.71 meters (238 feet, 7 inches).

In 1952, Cy Young, who has spent most of his adult life around Los Angeles, trekked to Helsinki for the Olympic Games. He won the javelin throw in Jarvinen's home town—and erased the Fin's 20-year-old record by tossing the spear 73.78 meters (242 feet, .79 inches).

Actually, Young grew up in Modesto, Calif., and lives there now. But he went to school at UCLA and competes for the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

Dick O'Malley, the handsome AP foreign correspondent, has been sharpening up on his language studies at the Olympic swim stadium.

He tried out his Japanese on a son of Nippon who was standing at the shallow end of the pool.

"Hey, can you tell me where Furuhashi is?" O'Malley thought he asked the swimmer.

"Look, Mac," was the reply, "maybe you'd better try that again in English."

A Princetonian, no doubt.

Two Texans Win In Nat'l Junior
NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 24 (AP)—Tommy Jacobs of Montebello, Calif., the defending champion, won easily yesterday in the opening round of the National Junior Golf championships.

He eliminated Larry Corell of Safford, Kan., 6 and 4.

Texas winners included Marco-Mo Moreno of Midland who defeated David Winchester of Madeira, Mo., 4 and 3, and Ray F. Leggett Jr. of Midland who beat Wendell Spragins, Memphis, Tex., 6 and 4.

Wilbur Clark, Nevada hotel man, visions a $100,000 golf tournament for Las Vegas, Nevada. He recently built Nevada's second 18-hole course. If Clark stages his tournament, he'll give $25,000 as first prize.

Two More Records Are Set In Olympics At Helsinki

HELSINKI (AP)—Two more Olympic records were broken today, making it 14 in all in five days of track and field competition.

But for American athletes there was a comparatively quiet interlude after yesterday's five-ring circus of record-wrecking.

All three American "whales" qualified for the final of the hammer throw after Jozsef Csermak of Hungary broke the Olympic record on his first toss.

But Henry Laskau of New York, America's best heel-and-toe performer, was disqualified in the trial heat of the 10,000-meter walk in which Bruno Junk of Russia set a new Olympic mark, and S. Price King Jr., Berkeley, Calif., failed to qualify for the final finishing dead last in his heat.

Csermak whirled the 16-pound hammer out 57.29 meter (187 feet, 5.02 inches) to shatter the Olympic record of 185 feet, 4.95 inches established in 1928 by Karl Helm of Germany.

Junk won his heat in the 10,000-meter walk in 45 minutes, 5.8 seconds. The former mark of 45:13.5 was set by John Mikaelsson of Sweden, who finished second to Junk and surpassed his old record.

In the hammer throw, Sam Felton of New York, one-time Harvard athlete, led the Americans with a heave of 166 feet, 9.63 inches. Martin Engel of New York did 164 feet, 15 inch, and Bob Backus of New York, 161 feet, 11.73 inches. They were required only to throw 160 feet, 9.17 inches to qualify for the final this afternoon.

Laskau, a refugee from Nazi Germany and now a New York business man, was discolored after his disqualification for falling to keep one foot in contact with the ground.

But Coach Brutus Hamilton said he would not protest.

America's best prospect of winning a gold medal today appeared to be in the 110-meter hurdles, in which Harrison Dillard of Cleveland equaled the Olympic record yesterday. The idea of collecting medals was firmly implanted in the minds of the Americans by their startling one-two performance in the javelin throw yesterday.

"We don't mean to be rude," said Brutus Hamilton, the head U. S. coach, with a grin. "But the idea of taking every medal we can lay our hands on is sweeping the camp. Everybody wants to get into the act."

"Some of our fellows are just beginning to realize the medals don't go any deeper than third place (fourth, fifth and sixth get diplomas of merit) but now that they've found out they are out to get them."

Despite the eagerness of the Americans to grab all the silverware, they have met in the Russians a group of athletes just as proficient but in different sports. As a result the Russians held a 206 1/2 to 202 total point lead over the U. S. today, thanks chiefly to the dominance of their gymnasts.

The United States may score some other unexpected victories in these games, which run through Aug. 3, but none of them will be more astonishing to the home folks here in Finland than the 1-2 success in the javelin yesterday.

Javelin throwing is a national sport here. They teach it to kids of 5 and 6. So you can imagine the feelings of the crowd of 70,000 in the modern Olympic Stadium when Cy Young, a 23-year-old, 6-foot-5 giant from Modesto, Calif., flung the spear to an Olympic record distance of 73.78 meters (242 feet, .79 inches). And to add insult to injury along came Bill Miller of Phoenix, Ariz., to grab second place.

It was another record day all around in track and field—two world records bettered, five Olympic marks broken and two equalled.

Ferreira da Silva of Brazil bettered his own world record in the hop, step and jump.

Shirley Strickland of Australia bettered the world record in a heat of the women's 80-meter hurdles.

Yvette Williams of New Zealand won the women's broad jump with an Olympic record.

They were required only to throw 160 feet, 9.17 inches to qualify for the final this afternoon.

Laskau, a refugee from Nazi Germany and now a New York bested Prudie Luther, San Angelo (70 x 100), who was firing in her first registered meet.

Billy Rogers, Palestine, Tex., won the national junior event with 95 x 100, three girls better than runner-up Kilbura Moore, another newcomer, of Galveston, Texas, 92 x 100.

The two-man team title brought a second crown to Florida. Tommy Spicola III, Tampa, teamed with Curtis Newsome, Gainesville, Fla., to record 197 x 200 in the tandem event and then whip K. C. Miller, Tyler, Tex., and Conway in a shoot-off. The Florida pair dropped one bird in two extra fields while the Texans were missing two.

Dear John: Take me to the American Drive Inn for a piece of that delicious Home-made pie and all is forgiven.

Russia Publishes Works Of Dreiser

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio announced today that a new 12-volume edition of the works of American novelist Theodore Dreiser is being published in the Soviet Union.

The new Dreiser edition is getting a printing of 75,000 copies, the broadcast said, adding that this brings the total copies in Soviet editions by three American authors "very popular with Soviet readers" past the 15 million mark.

The best seller is Jack London, with 12 1/2 million copies sold or on the market. This includes a new 150,000-copy printing of his selected works. Dreiser's total now is 1,885,000 impressions and Howard Faust has had more than a million copies of his works printed in Russian, Ukrainian, Azerbaijani, Georgian, Armenian and other Soviet languages.

Geologist Is Dead

MOSCOW (AP)—The Moscow press reported today the death of Alexander Zavaritsky, described as one of Russia's most important geologists.

Ballot Should Please Both 'For' And 'Against' Types Of Voters

By MAC ROY-RASOR

AUSTIN, July 24 (AP)—Lots of folks go to the polls to vote against somebody. Some vote for a candidate.

Texas will use a new ballot form for the first time Saturday that ought to keep everybody happy. You can vote either way.

The new Election Code that changed the ballot form says you may mark your ballot in either of two ways:

1. You may place an X in the square beside the name of the candidate for whom you wish to vote, or

2. You may scratch out the names of all candidates for whom you do not wish to vote.

Just depends on how you feel. Heretofore, the second method of marking was the only legally authorized one. It was criticized on grounds it was too easy to make a mistake that way, it took more time than just X-ing one name and it put emphasis on voting against candidates rather than for candidates.

So the last Legislature decided to let you have it whichever way it pleases you. But better stick to one method or the other to insure your vote being counted. The law doesn't approve check marks, encircled names or any other variation—just the X or the scratched-out name.

Before you vote in Saturday's primary, though, you better decide you're a Democrat and stay that way all day.

Some top legal minds around the Capitol say Texas' new Election Code and a state penal law are pretty clear about prohibiting you from riding the Democratic donkey part of the day and the GOP elephant the rest of the same day.

The booby trap that can get you in trouble is voting in the Democratic primary and then voting in your Republican precinct convention, both scheduled Saturday. Voting in both the Democratic and Republican precinct conventions could do it, too.

Negotiators Try Again Tomorrow

Nations and Communist negotiators debated the truce-blocking prisoner exchange issue in secret for 26 minutes today — longest Korean parleys session this week.

After the meeting in sweltering heat at Panmunjom it was reported only that the negotiators will meet again at 11 a.m. tomorrow (9 p.m. Thursday EST).

Miller's HIGH LIFE

publican precinct conventions could do it, too.

The Election Code says it's illegal. The penal law says it can cost you a fine ranging from $100 to $500.

What you may have done politically before Saturday, however, doesn't have anything to do with it. That's the opinion of Democratic Executive Committee Secretary Eldon Hart. He says any pledge you may have taken lasts just as long as you and your conscience want it to last—no longer. He says courts have repeatedly said so.

Those who do vote in the primary Saturday will find the Election Code has preserved the old ballot form's secrecy feature adopted by the Legislature a few years ago. That's the system that tries to make sure no one finds out how you vote except in the case of an election contest. You write your name on the numbered stub on the corner of your ballot, tear it off and drop it in the sealed box separate from the ballot box, disclosing the number to no one. Then it's your secret, to keep or tell.

Forgot to pay your poll tax? The new Election Code won't help you. It still says you can't vote without it.

Texas Drouth Is Growing Despite A Few Showers

By The Associated Press

Texas still had its long, ravaging mid-century drouth Thursday. A soil conservation expert said it was growing worse and spreading despite showers in scattered areas of the state.

Louis P. Merrill, chief of the Southwestern Regional Soil Conservation Service, said Wednesday the moisture deficiency had been "piling up since July 1950."

Merrill's report came as the U. S. Department of Agriculture reported from Austin that cotton, pasture and late feed prospects received a boost from general rains last week over the eastern third of the state and light to heavy local thunder-showers in other areas.

The deterioration of late corn and sorghums as well as cotton was halted generally, the department said. But it admitted moisture was needed in the Cross-Timbers area, a number of west central blackland counties and over much of the Edwards Plateau and Southwest Texas.

The ravages of the drouth, Merrill said, "are holding up and expanding. He made the statement after completion of a tour of Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana.

"The lands between Hillsboro and College Station," Merrill said of Texas, "are as dry as I've ever seen them."

And west of Fort Worth, he continued, the area is so dry that "even a one or two-inch rain wouldn't do much good." The Lubbock region, he said, was in better shape after good rains recently.

Merrill said the drouth had seriously cut the North Texas corn yield, had "completely ruined" the Oklahoma corn crop, damaged Arkansas farm crops and seriously blighted corn stands in Northern Louisiana.

Merrill, who said rangelands, pastures and corn were hard hit over the four-state area, saw the tightening drouth in Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana as an omen of "more drouth trouble in Texas."

Meanwhile, showers fell Wednesday in Wichita Falls, Amarillo, El Paso and Salt Flat, caused by an absorptive cool front that got no deeper into the state than the Panhandle.

But its resultant showers peppered thirsty farmlands in Panhandle, Red River and West Texas areas.

Most high temperatures Wednesday were in the 90s, but Wichita Falls reported 101 degrees and Fort Worth, Mineral Wells, Presidio and Cotulla each had an even 100. Marfa's 84 was the low maximum for the hot day.

The forecast called for partly cloudy to clear skies over the state Thursday and Friday with little change in temperatures. A hot election day with generally favorable weather was expected.

Formosa's Defenses Good, Says Admiral

MANILA (AP)—Adm. William M. Fechteler, U. S. chief of naval operations, said today Chinese Nationalist forces on Formosa have "better than a good chance" of repelling any Communist invasion attempt.

He also told a news conference the U. S. Navy in Korea has planes capable of carrying tactical atomic bombs.

The admiral, on a tour of U. S. Navy establishments in the Far East, called the Philippines "a key post in the whole general concept of Western Pacific defense" and said if the Philippines were attacked "we would step into the picture."

Capt. Henry Nelson Is Dead In Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Capt. Henry Nelson, 51, whose troop transport, the President Coolidge, lost only two men after striking a mine in World War II, died last night.

The Coolidge struck the mine at Espiritu Santo in the New Hebrides in the South Pacific in 1942. Nelson quickly beached the converted liner with 5,150 troops aboard. His action was praised as saving possible heavy loss of life. The two victims were crewmen.

TWELVE WORKERS UNPAID

Selective Service Board Has Remarkable Economy Record

Eleven men, reporting for duty in the Armed Forces in July, will represent an average cost of only $2.72.

This is predicated upon the cost of operations established in 22 months of operation of the Selective Service Board here.

Since the National Military Training and Service Act of 1949 was adopted, Local Board No. 17, 1705 Provenance Building, which serves Howard, Martin and Mitchell Counties, the office has been operated at a monthly cost of only $24.42.

In the 22-month span, a total of 228 men have been inducted. And during the same period operating expenses of the office have exceeded $533.26. This includes of course the salaries of two clerks, telephone communication and food for those being drafted and those going for pre-induction physicals, miscellaneous expenses, stationary, printed forms, incidental supplies, etc.

Broken up, the operating cost shows $234.42 for salaries of two full time employees, $267.75 for telephone, $173.24 for office rent, $172.29 for travel and $200 for miscellaneous items.

Administrative cost of handling each registrant has been only $2.42 per man for the entire period. This figure drops to $1.17 cents per registration per month for the period. Cost per actual inductee is $2.72.

In addition to the local paid staff, 22 persons are connected with the local office—all voluntary workers. Three are board members—Haskell W. Clark, Wright, Big Spring; Martin Gibson, Martin; Clarence E. Walker, Laramie. Medical advisors are Dr. M. E. Bennett and

Dr. Clyde E. Thomas, Big Spring. Appeal agents and associate appeal agents are William E. Greenleaf, Big Spring; Lynn White, Starbuck; John M. Wornell, Colorado City. Advisors to registrants are Jack C. Dougherty, Big Spring; Milton M. Ferguson, Big Spring; Louis M. Kinser, Big Spring; Robert J. Walker, Big Spring; Willie L. Black in the full time clerk of the local board, and Mrs. Roselle A. Coates, who works a three-fourths schedule, is assistant clerk.

Handling the induction of 228 men the pre-induction examination of 228 men and keeping up with 4,200 men in the job being done efficiently and economically by these people.

AFRICAN GROUPS

Quarrels Frequent In Women's Clubs

By LOUIS C. D. JOOS

BRAXZAVILLE, French Equatorial Africa—The suburbs of Brazzaville and other Central African centers are a paradise for women's clubs. They flourish under such names as Stella, Violet, Beauty, Rose, The Diamonds, Elegance, and The Fashionable One. They are unlike the women's clubs one finds in America.

Women's clubs here are essentially temporary. They hardly survive a year before big quarrels split the membership. And they are of concern to French colonial authorities, who are trying to transform the clubs into stable organizations which will contribute to the cultural life of the natives.

Native women in the large cities find time on their hands. They don't work in the fields as they did when they lived in rural areas. While their men are away on their jobs all day, the women turn to part-time jobs to make money. They start small business enterprises, selling peanuts, kola nuts, cigarettes—smuggled from the Belgian Congo—and other items on street corners and in the markets.

Many become financially independent. How can they spend their money? They organize a club. The money is put into a common fund, generally administered by a man. Magnificent titles are bestowed on the most prominent members. They have a first president, several vice presidents, secretaries, treasurers and arbiters of elegance.

The arbiters of elegance and the first president buy enough printed cotton cloth to make dresses for the membership. Each member is free to put in her own personal taste into the making of the finest possible garment.

Then they throw a party. There is plenty to eat and drink. Many times there is too much to drink. On the morning after, bickering develops over how the money was spent and over the men folk who were invited. The club withers away—only to pop up again under new names.

Reds Encourage 'Ideal Family'

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW (AP)—There is little prudence or parsimony about sex in the U.S.S.R. and there is a single standard. The same thing for women and men. There is as such thing as a chaperone.

Women may freely visit men in their homes or apartments and vice versa. But this doesn't mean that loose morals are condoned. They are not and this is one quick way a Communist party member can lose his or her membership.

Marriages and family life are greatly encouraged here, but if a woman who is not married has a child, neither she nor the child is frowned upon. The child is, in fact, just as legal as any other child and the father has to contribute to its support.

Two people get married here by going to a registration bureau known as "Zaps" and answering a few questions about health, previous marriages and children.

The woman usually takes her husband's name, but she can keep her own if she wishes. They get over a few rituals, sign a couple of papers and they are married.

If they want to go to a church and have a ceremony, there's nothing against this. There are still many church weddings, particularly in the villages.

Nowadays birth control is definitely not encouraged. Big families are urged and the mothers of many children are not only given financial contributions by the government, but are even given coveted titles such as "heroine mother."

There was a time when registered marriages and un-registered marriages were looked upon as the same. This is not true now. The government discourages registered marriages just as it discourages divorce and the easy breaking-up of families.

Divorce is hard to arrange here now. It takes many months and the authorities do everything possible to encourage the couple to stay together, especially if children are involved.

All this emphasis on family life is understandable when you realize that the U.S.S.R. lost seven million men in the last war.

Emphasis on the family is paying dividends. The birth rate in recent years has been high and the population, according to official reports, is going up at a rate of three million a year.

Restaurants Have One-Price Meals

WINDYBEE, Canada 10—A restaurant group here offers a monthly meal ticket on which you can eat four meals a day—or anything else—at your choice of three restaurants.

A $65 meal ticket entitles the purchaser to any number of meals a day, and choice of foods, every day for a whole month.

Many regular customers express satisfaction with the plan. All eat regularly, and eat food much the same way as if they were eating at home, with no leaning toward expensive table items or fancy drinks.

Postal Clerks May Smoke Now

NEW YORK 10—Postoffice clerks in Manhattan now are permitted to smoke at their desks, play the radio and read the paper during the long night shifts.

Clerks now may smoke except when dealing directly with the public (mailing stamps) or when working around open mail sacks. Playing the radio is restricted to hours when the postoffice is closed to the public and coffee calls are permitted only in regular time-off periods.

Similar policies have been in effect for years at other general post-offices in the city. It was found that outright prohibition of smoking resulted in the time-consuming practice of smoking in washrooms or elsewhere.

NOW TAKE A CUP OF THIS

... and a pinch of that and before long you have a Devil's Food Cake supreme believes Shirley Wheat, shown preparing the dessert.

Shirley Wheat Cooks While Family Works

No more school, no more books...

That's the popular refrain that most teen-agers quote all summer long and Shirley Wheat, daughter of Mrs. Stella Wheat, is no exception.

The popular high school senior enjoys to the fullest every moment of each vacation day.

Last year she was a cheer leader and a representative to the student council. When school begins this fall she will reign as Big Spring High School band queen.

This summer she represented the local unit of the American Auxiliary at Girls' State in Austin.

However, since her mother and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Adams, with whom the Wheat lives, work each day the family has been in dire need of a cook.

Dark-haired, brown-eyed Shirley came to the rescue.

She prepares lunch each day and as often as not the crowning glory of the meal is a Devil's Food

Cake. "It's my favorite dessert and I bake them fairly often," the cute senior commented.

DEVIL'S FOOD CAKE

- Ingredients:
- 1/2 cup cocoa
 - 1 1/2 teaspoons soda
 - 1 cup boiling water
 - 2 1/2 cups flour
 - 2 eggs
 - 2 cups sugar
 - 1/2 cup butter or shortening
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1 teaspoon vanilla
 - 1 cup sour milk

Method: Dissolve cocoa and soda in boiling water. Sift and measure flour. Beat eggs and add to sugar. Put butter or shortening into egg mixture and add salt and vanilla. Add sour milk alternately with flour to egg mixture. Pour in cocoa, soda and water. Bake in moderate oven until done. For an added touch one cup of nut meats may be added as the last ingredient.

Ice Cream Dessert Is Good Any Way

That ice cream we never had enough of when we were kids is as nutritious and versatile today as ever. It can make a banquet out of the lightest meal, or serve as a special blend with fruits and sauces. Any way it's served, it has flavor and variety to suit every taste and every mood.

The difference is that with today's home refrigeration, there's no need to interrupt dinner to serve the ice cream before it's melted. And with today's grocery store distribution, there is no wait for the clerk to fill the carton. But for a piece of resistance, many a hostess still relies on the old-fashioned freezer—modern attachments, notwithstanding.

Marshmallow Vanilla
20 large marshmallows
1 cup milk
1-8 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Cut the marshmallows into small pieces with wet scissors; place in the top of a double boiler; add the milk and salt; heat over hot water until the marshmallows are melted; stir to thoroughly blend the mixture; cool until it begins to thicken. Fold into the whipped cream with the vanilla. Freeze in tray of mechanical refrigerator, or in ice and salt.

The recipe for 4 to 6 servings may be used for both types of freezing. Ices and sherbets, too, may be frozen in the freezer, depending on the type of texture desired. The vacuum freezer has no crank to turn, but freezing mixture must be scraped from the sides of the can occasionally and beaten to insure a smooth product. Mix or Match

Because it's always a happy occasion when ice cream comes to the table, its mere presence can be a treat without any special fuss or bother. But for a simple solution to her summer dessert problem, the hostess may allow her company to mix or match their own ice cream in the backyard. Loads of cream is the only prerequisite. The guests will do the rest.

Ice cream and cake may be as old-fashioned as a church supper, but it never goes out of style. Served with a delicious difference, Ice Cream Sponge Ring has a delicate flavor of coffee as its theme. There is coffee in the ice cream, coffee in the syrup poured over the cake—coffee, even, in the Mocha Sauce.

Ice Cream Sponge Ring
2 egg whites
2 egg yolks
1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
1-3 cup sugar
1-3 cup sifted cake flour
Few grains salt
1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Beat egg whites stiff; add sugar gradually, beating constantly. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored; fold into egg whites. Mix and sift flour, salt, cream of tartar; sift in a little flour mixture over egg mixture; fold in. Repeat until flour mixture is all used. Add vanilla. Bake in greased ring mold (8 to 9 inches in diameter) in moderate oven 350 degrees F., 30 to 40 minutes.

Turn upside down on cake rack; cool, remove from pan. Pour warm coffee syrup over cake. Fill center with coffee ice cream and Mocha Sauce. The yield is 6 servings. For coffee syrup, combine 1-3 cup sugar and 1-3 cup strong coffee, simmer three minutes.

Mocha Sauce
2 squares unwrapped chocolate
6 tablespoons strong coffee
1/2 cup sugar
Few grains salt
4 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/4 teaspoon vanilla

Break chocolate in small pieces; add coffee; melt over low heat, stirring constantly. Add sugar and salt; cook, stirring until sugar is dissolved, and mixture slightly thickened. Add butter or margarine and vanilla. The yield is one cup.

Now that a wide variety of fresh fruits is available, the hostess will want to serve many different sauces over her cream. Sliced fresh peaches, berries and bananas are just a few of the toppings easy to serve with ice cream. An unusual dessert success can be achieved by arranging scoops of ice cream with cantaloupe or melon cut in wedges or balls for a sundae.

Colorful Bing cherries and apricots combine to make a unique topping for a vanilla ice cream sundae that's bound to please every age.

Apricot and Cherry Sundae
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup water or cherry juice
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
Few grains salt
2 cups pitted Bing cherries
1 cup cooked, drained apricots
1 quart vanilla ice cream
Cook sugar and water, over medium heat, until syrup spins a thread, about 5 minutes. Add lemon juice, grated rind, salt and cherries, and stir to blend. Fold in apricots. Serve hot or cold over ice cream. The recipe serves 6.

There's a recipe even for the dieters in the family. But nectar buttermilk sherbet with light, refreshing flavor of whole fruit will appeal to the rest of the family, too. And it doesn't taste like buttermilk.

Nectar Buttermilk Sherbet
2 1/2 cups apricot whole fruit nectar

1/4 cup light corn syrup
1/2 cup granulated sugar
Few grains salt
1/2 cup lemon juice
2 cups buttermilk

Combine nectar, syrup, sugar and salt, and heat to just below boiling. Remove from heat and cool. Blend in lemon juice and buttermilk. Pour into refrigerator tray and place in freezing compartment with control set at lowest temperature. Stir once or twice during freezing process. When firm reset temperature control to normal. The recipe serves 6 or 8.

There are several other fruit ice creams that taste good in almost any section of the country at this time of year, but are not lacking in Texas appetite appeal. They are Fruit Layer Ice Cream, Peach Ice Cream made in a freezer and economical Lemon Ice Cream. Fruit Layer Ice Cream

APRICOT AND BING CHERRY SUNDAE

... sliced fresh peaches, berries or bananas will do just as well

1 cup berries
Few drops red food coloring
1 cup canned crushed pineapple
2 cups light cream
1 4-ounce package vanilla freezing mix
Add food coloring to berries; mix in pineapple and pour into freezing pan. Place tray in freezing compartment of refrigerator. Whip well-chilled light cream, until a deep layer of foam forms—about 2 minutes. Add freezing mix and whip one more minute to dissolve. Pour over fruit not more than 1/2 hour after putting fruit in freezer. Freeze until just firm.

Peach Ice Cream
1 1/2 quarts light cream
1 quart milk
1 1/2 cups sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons vanilla
1/2 teaspoon almond flavoring
4 eggs
4 cups mashed peaches
1 1/2 cups sugar

Put ice cream can in freezer tub. Pack tub 3/4 full of crushed ice, 1/4 parts ice to 1 part salt. Pour in cream, milk, and stir in sugar, salt, vanilla and flavoring. Beat and add peaches mixed well with sugar.

Adjust lid and crank. Pour cold water over ice until it trickles out of the overflow. Finish packing ice and salt into ice tub. Turn crank slowly 6 to 8 minutes; rapidly for remaining 5 to 7 minutes, adding ice and salt as needed. Drain off brine, remove crank and lid. To hold a couple of hours, remove dasher; plug lid with twist of waxed paper; pack freezer tub with salt and ice; cover with newspaper and burlap.

Lemon Ice Cream

2 eggs
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 cup white corn syrup
1/4 cup lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 cup milk
1 cup top milk or light cream
Beat eggs until very thick and lemon colored. Add sugar gradually and continue beating until sugar is dissolved. Add remaining ingredients and blend. Pour into a cold refrigerator tray. Freeze until firm. Break into chunks and place in a chilled bowl. Beat until fluffy. Return to cold tray and freeze until firm.

Parboil green-pepper halves and fill them with creamed carrots; serve with meat loaf.

For A Meal Within Itself Try Barbecued Lima Beans

Serve these with a green vegetable, a cole slaw and toasted wedges of rye bread, buttered and sprinkled with finely chopped chive

BARBECUED DRIED LIMA BEANS

- Ingredients:
- 1 pound dried lima beans
 - 6 cups water
 - 2 teaspoons salt
 - 3 clove garlic, minced
 - 2 slices of bacon, diced
 - 1-4 cup diced celery
 - 1/4 cup chopped onion
 - 1/4 cup chili sauce
 - 1 tablespoon Worcestershire

sauce
1 4-ounce can cocktail frankfurters in tomato sauce
Pinch of mace
Pinch of basil
Pinch of tarragon

Method: Cover washed and picked over beans with cold water and soak overnight in a large casserole, add as much water as necessary to cover, salt and garlic. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F) until beans are nearly tender. Then add remaining ingredients and blend well. You may need one more cup of water. Taste for seasoning, cover and bake for one hour more. Remove cover and bake for 10 minutes longer to brown beans on top.

Take Several Meats For Picnic Grill

PICNIC GRILL—The family will cheer whenever you announce that dinner's to be served in the open. For the picnic grill, take along several different kinds of meats and let everyone join in the fun of being chef for a day. Offer a choice of these meats to cook over an open fire: Picnic Patties—Season each pound of ground beef with 1 teaspoon salt and 1-3 teaspoon pepper. Add 1/2 cup cold water per pound of meat. Shape into patties and wrap in waxed paper before taking to the picnic spot. Barbecue Franks—Wrap each frankfurter with a strip of bacon and fasten with a toothpick. Barbecued Bologna Burgers—Slice bologna 1/2 to 3/4-inch thick and brown on a hot greased grill. While the slices brown, spoon barbecue sauce over them. Serve meat in buns and complete the menu with olives and pickles, crisp celery and carrot sticks, beverage and fresh cherry pie.

Picture Depicts King Of Swat As Man With Swatter

The King of Swat—and we don't mean Babe Ruth—is the indefatigable character with the flyswatter. His battling average might make a less modest man throw his weight around. But the hero here conserves his strength for the common housefly. He steps out of the frame and lunges for the enemy who is pinned to the wall. A cute picture for den or play-room.

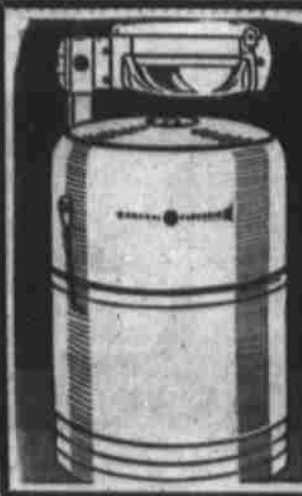

Milk Comes To Table In Plastic Dispenser

Are you a canned milk user? Then you should have a dispenser that comes right to the breakfast table. Just put the can in the ivory plastic pitcher, the stainless steel cutters in the lid puncture the top and you're ready to pour. Perfect, too, for measuring into the baby's formula and your favorite recipes. It stores in the refrigerator.

News From Webb Air Force Base
By A-3C FERD J. BORSCH

EXAMS

Examination time is fast approaching for personnel at Webb Air Force Base. The first in a series of proficiency tests to be given Air Force-wide, are scheduled at the local installation the last part of this month. The first tests will cover three career fields—administration, supply, and aircraft and engine maintenance. These three fields represent 35 per cent of AF personnel.

JETS ON TOUR

Webb will participate in the sixth annual summer indoctrination tour for cadets of the U.S. Military Academy second class. The base will send eight T-33 jet trainers to Elgin AFB, Fla., to take part in the tour. Eight planes, 16 instructors and additional crew members will leave here on two different dates for periods of four days each. One group leaves July 20 and the other on August 6. As a part of the tour, USMA cadets will receive short indoctrination flights in jet aircraft.

AIR MEDAL

Mrs. Alta Mae Wright of Odessa received the Air Medal in behalf of her son, 1st Lt. Vernon Wright, at brief ceremonies in the wing commander's office Saturday. Lt. Wright is currently listed as "missing in action" in Korea. The Air Medal and a cluster in lieu of a second medal were awarded in recognition of 60 combat missions completed by Lt. Wright.

A general "tightening up" of the enforcement of base speed regulations is in prospect following discussion of the "on base" speeding problem. Col. Wackwitz called for co-operation of all base units and personnel to bring about observance of the legal limits. A 20-mile-per-hour limit applies to all sections of the base, except in areas where lower speeds are posted.

A new program for the Protestant Sunday Fellowship service held at 8 p.m. in the Academic Building auditorium was announced by Chaplain (Lt.) John C. Little Sr. An informal get-together, hymn singing, religious films when available, and discussion groups comprise the program.

The importance and responsibility of department heads is being stressed in the daily supervisors' course conducted by Capt. William Huerstel of the Management and Manpower Office. The 26 supervisors attending these classes will soon be taken on a conducted tour of the Coden Petroleum Corporation plant. This tour will enable Webb supervisors to see at first

College Actors To Present Classics

VERONA, Italy (AP)—Aspiring actors from universities in eight countries will present ancient and modern classics of the theater in this traditional home of Romeo and Juliet. Their performances next month will be the major part of the second international festival of University Theaters sponsored by the International Delphic Institute. The institute was founded in 1949 in Mainz, Germany. It is now aided by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

Trap Fails To Stop Troubles

YORK, Neb. (AP)—It was one trouble after another on the Lloyd Morgan farm. First the crops were damaged by hail. Then milk began raiding the Morgan henhouse, killing more than a 120 baby chicks and two pump hens. So the Morgans set a trap for the milk.

Dormitory Has A Significant Motto

KINGSTON, Canada (AP)—Among carved symbols over the entrance to Adelaide Hall, New Girls' Residence center at Queen's University, are a group of musical notes from "The Mikado."

Oldster Kills His First Rattlesnake

MONROVIA, Calif. (AP)—F. M. Wolford, 74, had never seen a rattlesnake and decided recently it was about time he took a look at one. After much searching, Wolford located a 3 1/2-foot specimen about to enjoy a mid-day meal of rabbit. The snake hunter shot his prey and mounted the skin, nine rattles and all.

Surplus Removed

CORDOBA, Spain (AP)—Gines Caballero Zurita, 18, will walk better after an operation. He had nine toes on each foot and six fingers on each hand. The operation was to relieve him of the surplus. The young chair-maker never has been able to wear shoes.

hand the operational methods employed by a successful industrial organization.

CRAFTS CONTEST

The Air Training Command will conduct a Command-Wide arts and crafts contest in October. Webb personnel are encouraged to participate in all phases of the contest. Crafts are divided into nine categories including art, woodwork, metal arts, wood and plastic, art reproduction, ceramics and pottery, model airplanes and miscellaneous. The list is for those entries which do not fit into the other categories. In the ATRC contest, winners will be determined at base, Training Air Force, and Air Training Command levels. The two best entries in each category will be forwarded by bases to Training AF Headquarters. Detailed plans are underway for the local contest which will be held here September 1.

TOUR

Twenty news carriers from the Ahlberg Reporter-News will tour Webb on Monday and Tuesday. Ten carriers will arrive here Monday by Pioneer Airlines and spend the entire day looking over the base on a conducted tour. The other ten carriers will tour the base on Tuesday.

CRASH

Another week-end crash involved Webb personnel, this time from the air. Two Webb pilots, Capt. Jack M. Little and Capt. Lloyd R. Babcock, died in the crash of their T-33 jet trainer Saturday afternoon at El Toro Marine Corps Aviation Station south of Los Angeles, Calif. The two officers left Webb Saturday morning on a routine training flight. Both were rated "senior pilots."

INSPECTION

A vehicle inspection board from Air Training Command Headquarters at Scott Air Force Base, Ill., arrived at Webb Monday to inspect and determine the utility of the 142 general purpose vehicles at the base motor pool.

WEDDING

Wedding bells could have been rung for the first time at Webb Saturday, that is if the base had the bells. The former Josephine Pieri of Phoenix, Ariz., became the bride of Lt. Charles E. Lobassa, an instructor in the 3561 Pilot Training Squadron, in the first marriage ceremony performed on the base. Chaplain (Maj.) Grant E. Mann officiated at the double ring ceremony. Capt. Donald Bryan, also of the 3561 Pilot Training Squadron, was best man and Mrs. Bryan was matron of honor.

SPORTS

Webb's Dusters plated twice in the eighth and extra frame to break a 1-1 deadlock and defeat Cook Appliance, 3-1, in a recent exhibition fastball game at City Park. Bill Paterson led off the Webb eighth with a homer to snap the tie. Wing Headquarters teams set the pace in both the second half Squadron Softball League and the Wednesday Bowling League. Field Maintenance and Supply continued their domination of Friday Bowling League play.

Soviets Continue Land Reform Plan

HONG KONG (AP)—Newspaper reports indicate that 4,386 landlords have been liquidated by the Communists during their land reform program in the rich South China delta area.

Resistance to the redistribution of land in this area of Kwangtung province has been strong and the job is not yet finished. Only 99 of 218 counties are reported to have been "reformed."

Mast Shortened On Jap Tanker

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—When the big Japanese tanker, Tonan Maru, first visited this port on her maiden voyage she carried a tall, 173-foot mast left over from her whaling days. Later when the tanker put into San Francisco Bay, riding high without ballast, she struck the Carquinez Bridge with the mast, scaring motorists. When the Tonan Maru visited the Pacific Coast again recently the old whaling mast was 20 feet shorter.

The largest extinct kangaroo stood about 10 feet tall—2 feet taller than any living kangaroo.

Bones Of Early Animals May Help Jordan Economy

By WILTON WYNN

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—Bones of prehistoric animals, turned to phosphate over millions of years, may go a long way toward solving the pressing economic problems of this small Arabian desert kingdom. Most of Jordan now is desert land but some 50 million years ago the whole region was under water—even the plateau around Amman which now rises more than 2,000 feet above sea level.

As the original sea dried up, the bodies of dead marine animals were deposited layer on layer to a depth of 60 feet. Then desert sands covered them. A small museum in the Roseifa phosphate mines near Amman has numerous specimens of fossilized marine life buried beneath the desert 50 to 80 million years ago. The intensity of the original sea and the great length of time it took to dry up can be seen in the vastness of Jordan's phosphate deposits. The country has never been completely explored for phosphates, but known deposits are far greater than can be exploited at present.

Deposits at the Roseifa mine are estimated at 16 million tons by officials of the Transjordan Phosphate Mines Company and this represents only a small area.

Additional mines nearby already are in operation, and in the deserts to the south are others.

World demand for Jordan's phosphates will exceed production indefinitely. Local phosphates are of such high quality — up to 75 per cent pure — they are in great demand in manufacture of high grade super-phosphate fertilizers. Present exports are pitifully small. Only 18,000 tons were exported last year against an estimated capacity production of 1,200,000 tons.

Transport is the bottleneck. The country's mines originally were developed on the assumption that Haifa would be the sea outlet. The Israel-Jordan war ended that. Rail freight costs to Beirut, through Syria, make that port unsatisfactory. Best solution of the problem lies in development of Jordan's own Akaba port on the Red Sea. Economic experts estimate that with the expenditure at approximately $750,000, the Akaba port could handle all the country's expanding phosphate exports. One advantage of Akaba is that the Far East offers an ever-expanding market for Jordan phosphates and the Red Sea outlet eliminates Suez Canal tolls. Even with the present limited port facilities, two to three thousand tons will be shipped from Akaba this summer on an experimental basis.

Jet-Black Snow Is Puzzle To Citizens

WORTHINGTON, Minn. (AP)—A jet-black "snow" covered more than a block of this town while dumbfounded residents watched with amazement.

They later learned the "snow" actually was soot, blown from a 12-foot pile that had been removed from a 245-foot chimney at a power plant. A strong wind came up, whipping the oily mass around the block. Buildings were blackened, along with streets, walks and yards.

Residents were told to clean up the mess and send the city their bill for the work.

Brokers Required To Seek Bargains

NEW YORK (AP)—Under the rules of all stock exchanges, brokers are under a compulsion to find the best bargain for their customers, say A. C. Alyn & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange and the New York Curb Exchange and the Midwest Stock Exchange.

It points out that customers selling any of more than 150 stocks listed both on the New York and Midwest exchanges can avoid New York State transfer taxes by selling outside the state.

Producer Is Taking Theatre To People

LAMBERTVILLE, N. J., July 24. — If the people can't come to the theater, bring the theater to the people.

Bring it in a tent and play it in an empty lot in the suburbs, where the rental is low and the patrons aren't inconvenienced by a long ride into town, traffic and parking fees.

This is the idea of St. John Terrell, 35-year-old producer and father of a show business hybrid known as the "music circus." Terrell produces Broadway musicals for summer stock here, 50 miles from Broadway, on an oval stage in a colorful tent seating 1,800 and surrounded by circus trimmings.

It is theater in the round spiced by a carnival flavor. Old circus wagons are used for the box office and refreshment stands.

Terrell is certain there is far greater audience potential than the conventional road companies have yet tapped.

"If, for example, a conventional production of 'South Pacific' gets three weeks in downtown Chicago," he says, "I'm convinced that a tent version of the same thing would play 10 or 12 weeks in one of the suburbs."

As to the theater-in-the-round technique, Terrell feels this inspires a more natural way of acting than the "flat," single-direction theater. The acoustics, he says, actually are better.

Air-Conditioning For All May Be Available Soon

By WAYNE OLIVER
NEW YORK, July 24. (AP) — Complete year-round air-conditioning of a new home at no extra cost may be just around the corner, say equipment manufacturers.

They hope to be able to show that you could offset the cost by taking advantage of savings in construction that would be possible by designing a house specifically for air-conditioning.

Cloud Wampler, president of the Carrier Corp., says, "It's something we're trying to evaluate," along with future savings in costs of redecorating and keeping draperies, rugs and furniture clean.

With air-conditioning the home owner could save money by leaving out windows that added little or nothing to the view from the inside or the appearance from the outside. He wouldn't need them for ventilation.

"There would be no need for screens, ventilating devices or storm windows," Wampler says.

Also, another possibility of saving money would be to omit a breezeway, screen porch or other place designed especially for keeping cool. You could keep cool better inside.

Meanwhile, what appears to be a boom in complete year-round air-conditioned houses has started.

Among the first was a 210-home development in Dallas, Tex., equipped by General Electric, with the air-conditioned homes selling in the $12,000 bracket. GE estimated the added cost for air-conditioning at about $1,000. Another similar 125-home project has been started there.

Carrier is furnishing equipment for a project of 500 air-conditioned homes in Kansas City, selling in the $15,000 to $17,000 class. The added cost of the air-conditioning equipment is estimated at $1,240.

RULES ABOUT YOUR VOTING

Here are the rules a voter must follow:

1. He can attend either a Republican or a Democratic precinct convention, but not both. The law prohibits anybody from participating in the precinct convention of more than one party on the same day.
2. If he votes in the Democratic primary he can attend a Democratic precinct convention also, but not a Republican convention.
3. He can vote in the Democratic primary Saturday, and then vote Republican in November, if he so desires. Texas courts have ruled that the primary election pledge does not bind the voter to vote for the nominee in the general election.

Smoke Control Unit Checking On Smog

NEW YORK 24—The Bureau of Smoke Control has taken to the water in an effort to clear up smog about the New York Harbor.

Weekly inspection trips are made to enforce air-pollution laws. Major offenders have been found to be pile drivers, dredges and some carelessly operated tugs.

Authorities said enforcement required professional discretion. Boats preparing to dock, it was said, emit smoke as they struggle to buck winds and tide, and are not penalized.
