Twelfth Night Presented This Friday

For an evening of fine food, followed by excellent entertainment, be sure to get your tickets while available for the annual MHS Fine Arts Boosters Dinner Theatre.

It will be presented Friday, March 31, with the dinner slated for 6:30-8 p.m. and the play scheduled to begin 8:15 p.m. Admission will be $3.50 per person, which will include both the dinner and the play.

Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" will be the presentation this year. Four of the characters play a practical joke on one of their detested household members and the consequences are full of classic fun and hilarity.

Ernie Vela is outstanding as 'The Fool,' and is ably supported by Lavayne Lloyd as Maria, the perpetrator of the practical joke; and self-proclaimed comedians, Sir Toby Balch, Royce Clay; Sir Andrew, Martin Nowlin, Lisa Redwine, the Countess Olivia and of course, Malvolio, capably played by Brad Baker.

Tickets are available at Williams Bros. Office Supply; Art Craft Printing; Wilson Appliance; Bratcher Motor Supply or from any art, band or speech student in junior high or high school.

BEGGING FOR MERCY--Malvolio, (Brad Baker), left, pleads for mercy from The Fool, (Ernie Vela), in dress rehearsal for next Friday night's Annual Dinner Theatre presentation by the Fine Arts Booster Club. This year, the students are presenting Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night."

Fire Department Honored By Chamber

Among the 34 active firemen on the roster of the Muleshoe Volunteer Fire Department is a total of 452 years of firefighting experience, according to Muleshoe Fire Chief H.E. Reeder.

That is part of the information given by the fire chief to persons who attended the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture breakfast Thursday morning.

Chief Reeder, who has served as fire chief for the past four years, said the department has not great turnover except among some of the younger members, who find out being a fireman is 'not just a lot of fun.' He thanked the merchants and businessmen of Muleshoe who have helped the fire department through the years and added, "We feel that we have one of the best fire departments in the state. Certainly not the largest,

but one of the best."

Reeder told the group of a new fire truck just purchased by the city, at a cost of $65,000, and said this is the first large truck purchased by the city since 1952. The city has purchased small trucks, including one from the Forest Service last year.

He said the 1,000-gallon pumper is hoped to be a Muleshoe in time for the Christmas parade, as a December delivery is promised.

The fire chief told of the new 'Jaws of Life' rescue team recently formed, and said Jack Rennels, who is also assistant fire chief, is in charge of the new rescue group. The eight man team is specially trained in rescue operations.

Introduced by the fire chief were his team, who included Fire Marshall Owen Jones, Assistant Chief Rennels and the captains and lieutenants of the department. Captains are Donald Harrison, Bill Kinard, Jack Dunham and Odell Rasoc. Lieutenants are Claude Holmes, Wayne Wauson, J.O. Parker and Jerry Gleason.

John Blackwell, breakfast chairman for the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture, introduced CoFC president, Gene McGuire, and the fire fighters at the breakfast were thanked for their service to Muleshoe on a voluntary basis.

He noted that many of the firemen had been at a fire at Protein Processors from around 11 p.m. Wednesday, to 3 a.m. Thursday, and were at the 6:30 a.m. breakfast on the same date.

Republicans 'Heat Up' Congressional Race

Joe Hickox, Republican candidate for the soon to be vacated 19th Congressional District seat presently held by George Mahon, spoke to the Muleshoe Rotary Club Thursday.

He interspersed his talk with military observations as he spent two years as an Air Attache in Moscow, U.S.S.R. and an almost lifetime spent as a military officer with the U.S. Air Force. He retired from the Air Force to seek the Congressional seat being vacated by Mahon.

Much of his talk dealt with Russia's air superiority over the United States, however, he did level an attack against his opponents for the Republican vote for Congressman. Hickox said both his opponents, Jim Reese and George Bush are 'vulnerable' to attack from the Democrats and cited that Reese's "record as mayor of Odessa is wide open for a frontal attack by the Democrats."

He also questioned why Reese was not campaigning on his accomplishments while mayor of Odessa.

Hickox told the Journal that he believes "Reese is highly vul-

Weather Forecast Says 'Little' Rain

In keeping with the tradition of many years, J.W. Crim, who has also been called "Indian" Crim, made his annual weather forecast Wednesday morning on the second day following the first day of spring, March 20.

As he stood by his specially prepared drifting fire, he predicted that the smooth southwest wind indicated a dry year and poor crops for farmers.

However, he said he did not see any major hail or windstorm and said, "We will have a lot of straight, steady smooth southwest winds this year, with changes after planting time."

This year, stepping somewhat away from tradition, the forecaster wore a cap in lieu of the former Stetson hat he has worn in the past. His fire was constructed of old trees and branches in the form of a teepee at the Crim home place near Clay's Corner.

He has conducted the ceremony since 1922 at the same location and made the ceremony public in 1952. He learned the procedure from his father who was a railroad worker.

Crim said that every year on March 22, his father noticed numerous fires attended by the Indians in the area. The Indians were extremely secretive about the fires, so Crim's father asked a sheepherder about the significance of the fires.

The sheepherder told him the purpose of the fires and taught him the methods used for forecasting.

A bumper crop is indicated during the year if a northeast wind is blowing at sunrise on March 22. A north wind indicates a good omen for farmers for crops. A northwest wind means a fair year, and a west south or southwest wind indicates a poor crop with little rain.

He has shown an 'uncanny' knack for being right with his forecasts.

As warm weather brought thousands of farmers into their fields to begin delayed spring planting preparations, thousands more farmers were in Washington D.C. during the past week for Senate hearings on a proposed emergency farm bill.

Senator Edmund Muskie of Maine, D., and chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, denounced the emergency farm bill as a "three headed monster," and said it had made a farce of the budget process.

Combined in the farm bill were:

A measure by Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., which would make land-rental payments to farmers who idle up to 46 million acres.

A "flexible parity" proposal by Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., approved 55-39, than individual grain and cotton farmers decide for themselves what price support target rate they want for their crops this year. The more land an individual farmer idled, the higher his individual support guarantee would be, up to 100 percent of the federal parity standard.

A move by Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., already approved 58-35, to fold an increase in price support targets and loan rates for grain and cotton into the Dole-Talmadge package.

Muskie estimated Dole's proposal would raise food costs for a family of four by $100 a year by 1979 and twice that in 1981. Final approval on the three part proposal was 67-26.

Dole said individual farmers could decide whether to operate under the Talmadge land-retirement plan or his flexible parity system.

President Carter immediately asked administration officials for an analysis of the economic measure.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland, returning from a meeting with the President and the President's top economic advisors, was asked if the administration were leaning toward a veto.

"It was never said in so many words, but it was clear that there was little or no sentiment for a bill," he said. "I don't know of anybody in the administration who thinks it's a

Public Forum Focuses On Farmers' Dilemma

"The Agricultural Dilemma: To Farm or Not to Farm" is the topic for a public forum Thursday, March 30, which will open the first South Plains Farm Show in the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

The free three-day exhibition will feature the largest display of new farm implements and equipment ever assembled on the South Plains, a natural fibers fashion revue, a special day saluting the Future Farmers of America, and a nationally sanctioned championship micro-mini tractor pulling contest.

The forum will begin at 10:15 a.m. opening day in the civic center theatre.

Spokesmen for the two natural farm organizations and an agricultural economist from Texas A&M University will present their views on the economic plight of America's farmers. They then will answer questions from a reaction panel composed of eight area farm writers and broadcasters.

The forum panelists will be Gerald McCathern of Hereford, elected spokesman for the American Agriculture Movement in Texas; Jay Naman of Waco, president of the Texas Farmers Union and a director of the National Farmers Union; and Dr. Bruce L. Gardner, professor of agricultural economics at Texas A&M University, formerly senior staff economist on the President's Council of Economic Advisers for Presidents Ford and Carter.

Serving on the reaction panel will be: Bedford Forrest, farm and ranch director, KVII-TV, Amarillo; Duane Howell, farm editor, the Avalanche-Journal, Cont. on page 3 col 1

Sessions will begin approximately every two hours and all businesses are urged to have representatives present for at least one of the two hour sessions.

Two students from Muleshoe have earned 'Distinguished Student' ranking at Texas A&M University, announced registrar, Robert A. Lacey.

They are Byron Kyle Jones, biomedical science, son of Mr. and Mrs. Byron W. Jones and Joy Lee Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Williams.

Early Friday night, the area's first thunderstorm of the year moved into the Muleshoe vicinity. It almost wasn't a thunderstorm, however, as lightning was reported to have ligned up the west sky only one time, accompanied by one booming thunderclap.

Nonetheless, a general 2 of moisture was received starting around 8 p.m. Friday night.

Pouch Food To Be Marketed

Consumers may soon be reaching for certain products on their grocer's shelves that are packaged in flexible foil pouches, called "retort pouches."

The pouches will not require freezing or refrigeration but will still have the same shelf life as conventional containers such as cans and glass jars.

"The development of the retort pouch is definitely one of the most significant advances in food packaging since the advent of the rigid can more than 150 years ago," contends Al B. Wagner, Jr., food technologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The retort pouch is composed of three layers of materials, including an inner layer of a polyolefin blend, a middle layer of foil, and an outer layer of polyester. The polyolefin is inert so it will not react with the food and also provides heat sealing capabilities. The foil is a good moisture and light barrier while the polyester adds durability. Initially, the pouch will be inserted into a paperboard carton for added protection and ease of merchandising.

The retort pouch has been approved by the Food and Drug Administration and the U.S. Department of Agriculture after being in the development and planning stages for more than 15 years.

"This type of packaging concept is not new to European food firms currently market and sell more than 150 million retort pouches annually," points out the food technologist. "In Japan, the sale of food in retortable pouches exceeds 600 million units annually. Canada is also marketing several food products in this type of pouch."

Wagner notes some of the advantages of the retort pouch packaging concept: --Process times can be reduced which yields products with improved texture, color and flavor and saves energy. --Weight and bulk factors are reduced. --Convenience in preparation favors the pouch since it can be heated in boiling water for three to five minutes, thus eliminating messy pots and pans. --Paperboard cartons containing the pouches have more total display area for labels and other information than traditional containers such as cans.

Of course, there are also some drawbacks to the retort pouch: --High capital investment in proportion to speed of fill. --Need for a program to educate consumers about the pouch, its capabilities, and use characteristics.

--Paperboard carton which is an added step in production and presently renders the total packaging cost higher than the can. However, in the future pouch materials are expected to increase at a slower rate than those for cans. "The pouch will play a significant role in our food packaging system in the future," believes Wagner. "Of course, canned and frozen foods will continue to occupy a share of the market although frozen foods may decline due to high energy costs for frozen storage in retail stores."

You can go a long way in the world if you make it your business to mind your own business.

Horse Ranch Tour Featured

Participants in the annual Horse Short Course at Texas A&M University, Apr. 3-4, will tour horse ranches in the Brenham area. The tour, which will be on Apr. 4, will feature field demonstrations to acquaint participants with various phases of the horse industry.

"The Brenham area was chosen for the tour because of its fast-paced growth in the horse business," points out Doug Householder, Texas Agricultural Extension Service horse specialist. "Brenham is an easily accessible location and features some 20 horse operations, four of which we will visit."

The first stop on the tour will be Stallions Unlimited. The operation is owned and managed by Jack Benson and Brad McCamy. Benson will demonstrate his speciality of conditioning and fitting horse for halter. The N.W. "Dick" Freeman Ranch will feature Jerry Stanford with his techniques on training yearlings and two-year-olds.

At Bob McLeod Quarter Horses, short course participants will be treated to an exhibition of the Cutting Horse Futurity Champion Colonel Freckles. Noted equine trainers such as Olan Hightower, Bob McLeod, Polly Hollar and Jim Daniels will team up to demonstrate the how's and why's of training cutting horses.

During lunch a colorful pageant with Arabian horses in English pleasure and buggy classes will be presented. Washington County 4-H youth will also present a program on colt development.

The tour will conclude with a visit to the Jim Daniels Stables. Owner Jim Daniels will discuss operation of a commercial horse breeding farm.

The first day of the short course will deal with discussions on horse health, breeding and conditioning, notes Householder.

The Horse Short Course is part of the annual Texas Animal Agriculture Conference. For registration information on the short course, contact Householder at the Kleberg Center, Texas A&M University, College Station, Tex. 77843, or phone 713-845-1927. Preregistration is encouraged by Mar. 27.

McCathern has been engaged in farming on the South Plains for a quarter-century. His principal production has been corn, wheat, sorghum and cattle, but he also has produced vegetable and sugarbeets.

He was graduated from Texas Tech University in 1950 as a petroleum geologist. He has been active in the American Agriculture Movement since its inception.

He has been active in several livestock organizations, including the Texas Swine Breeders Association, and was an organizer of the Texas Hog Marketing Association of Waco, a marketing cooperative.

Naman is one of seven directors of the National Farmers Union and is a director of the National Farmers Union Property and Casualty Co. and National Farmers Union Life Insurance Co. He served on the U.S. delegation to the Food and Agriculture Organization conference in Rome in 1969 and the Farmers Union delegation to meetings in Ottawa and Vienna or the International Federation of Agricultural Producers.

Speaking of Reese's term as mayor, Hickox questioned, "Could the Democrats attack his vocal position of getting the government out of the pockets when his record shows just the opposite while mayor? Could the Democrats accurately accuse him of being a party of adding another layer of bureaucracy while mayor, and now he complains about the many federal bureaucracies?"

Speaking of Midland Oilman George Bush, Hickox is "closely tied to the oil industry and it can be charged that he would only represent the oil industry." Hickox said he thought both Bush and Reese would be at a disadvantage on the South Plains because "South Plains people, regardless of whether or not Democrat or Republican, would not take lightly losing the representation in Congress to the southern part of the district."

He spoke of fighting his way uphill and his military service, preferring to go to the fight when our country was at war.

He pointed out that he was not making light of Bush and Reese's military records, but asked where was Jim Reese during the Korean War and Where was Mr. Bush in the Vietnam War?"

"The real difference between all candidates is how each of us plan to try to help solve our nation's problems. Clearly we need to establish our priorities as a nation and summon the will to achieve our goals," stated the candidate.

J.W. Crim came to the Clay's Corner area in 1922, working on a section of land one mile north and one mile west and one mile north of Clay's Corner. He retired from farming in 1967, and moved into Muleshoe.

Each year since his retirement, and with frequent requests for the annual forecast, he goes back to his homeplace to conduct his weather forecast, just as the Indians did for centuries.

on the abdomen and quickly force down. Have someone else ready to free the victim's mouth of possible food or fluid to keep from obstructing the airway again.

Do not use excessive force, especially on small victims, such as small children or infants, because the maneuver can be repeated.

Precautionary measures include cutting food into small pieces before eating; do a minimum of laughing and talking, avoid consuming large amounts of alcohol and watch children running around with food and candy in their hands.

Also, a person who is alone and chokes can perform their own life-saving maneuver. Roll quickly across the back of a chair or edge of the sink to force the stored up air quickly from the lungs. Being able to talk at that point, a telephone would be useless.

An important measure to remember, that immediately after freeing an obstruction from a person's airway, they should be checked by a doctor.

A simple method, but a life-saving method which could save thousands of lives each year.

Each spring is the most beautiful of all.

good idea, but there was no veto threat."

Bergland added that he might act to boost the farm economy on his own while Congress is in recess. However, the secretary did not elaborate.

In its final form, the bill would: Require the Agriculture Department to offer wheat, corn, soybean and cotton farmers an average of $75 an acre to idle cropland, a provision that USDA said would take almost 50 million acres more out of production than the 15 million it wants idled without payments. That was the heart of a proposal by Sen. Talmadge.

It would also allow wheat feedgrain, cotton and soybean farmers to get higher income supplement payments from the Agriculture Department by idling more acreage than the department requires.

It was also approved to boost by about 20 percent both the target prices, on which the income supplements are based, and the price-supporting rates at which the department loans money to growers of wheat, feedgrain, cotton and soybeans.

It would also require all imported meats to be labeled as such, with the costs of labeling added on.

Miss Coston, Treider Unite In Matrimony

Debbie Coston and Brad Treider were united in marriage recently in an afternoon ceremony at the House Baptist Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T.J. Coston, of McAlister and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Treider, of Lazbuddie. The Rev. Jim Standridge of Lazbuddie, performed the doubling ceremony.

Centering the altar were two seven-branch candelabra, flanked on each side with baskets of white carnations. Pre-nuptial music was provided by Gary and Alba Wilcox, Laura Burnett, and Debbie Smith, all of Lazbuddie. Gary played alternately the piano and guitar. Lara and Debbie sang as the wedding party entered the Church. The group sang other selections during the ceremony.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. As they entered, the bride presented her mother with a red rose. Her gown was floor length, of white miramist and lace. The fitted bodice of lace formed a 'V' at the waist in the front and back, featuring a scalloped neck, fitted sleeves with pettipoint at the wrists. The hooped skirt was fashioned with tiers of lace down the front. A ruffle of lace around the entire skirt set off the Cathedral train. The gown was designed and made by the bride's sister and mother. The sister, Anette Johnston wore the gown for her wedding six years ago. The veil was floor-length with a layer of fingertip. It was all attached to a cap appiqued with roses and small pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses, carnations and baby's breath, on a white Mother of Pearl covered Bible, a gift from the bridegroom's mother. The bouquet contained a corsage of white roses which she wore on her going away dress.

Mrs. Tom Johnston was her sister's matron of honor. Her dress was floor length of burgundy crepe-backed satin, featuring a fitted bodice, with a cowl neck. She wore an off white picture hat trimmed with a burgandy satin ribbon. She wore a white carnation corsage and carried a single silk ping rose. Stacy and Jamie Coston, brothers of the bride, were the candlelighters.

Karen Costen, neice of the bride was flower girl. Her dress was floor length and was made of pink crepe-satin. She carried a basket filled with carnation petals. Tommy Coston, nephew of the bride, served as ring bearer, with the best man being Stan Treider, of Lazbuddie, brother of the bridegroom. Ushers were Terry Coston, brother of the bride and Don Hunt, Henryetta, Oklahoma, college friends of the bridegroom.

Deana Hargrove, Plainview, cousin of the bridegroom registered the guests as they arrived at the church. She wore a pink crepe-back satin dress identical to those worn by the girls that sang.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, the couple lighted the Unity Candle, and the bridegroom sang, "We will Climb The Hill Together", with the bride joining him in the last phrases. They were accompanied with guitars by Gary Wilcox, Rick Terrell, and Stan Treider. As the couple started back down the aisle, they paused for the bride to present a red rose to the bridegroom's mother. The

All Pets Give People Pleasure And Disease

Household pets have enough organisms growing in and on them to start a collection of creatures all their own. Most of them are harmless but some can make people sick, the Texas Medical Association says. Many of these infections are uncommon, but good hygiene can eliminate chances of problems even further.

Dog tapeworm and roundworm can infect humans, usually when children put something in their mouths that has come in contact with infected excrement. Check directions on various remedies for information on detecting and treating worms in pets. Children with worms need medical attention.

Cats also can cause roundworm infection plus several other diseases. One researcher reports the mouths of almost 3/4 of all cats contain Pasteurella Multocida, an infectious organism that may be transmitted if the animal bites you. The same study showed about half of all dogs' mouths also have the organism which can cause wound infection.

About the only preventative measure for Pasteurella Multocida is to thoroughly clean all animal bites, a practice which should be done anyway. When an animal does bite, the victim also needs to be sure the animal does not have rabies. Since several hundred thousand bites are reported each year, vaccinating animals for rabies and closely monitoring unvaccinated animals who have bitten people is the best protection against rabies. Luckily very few rabies cases occur in man even though animal bites are the most common hazard people face from pets.

Cats can cause disease that can seriously hurt unborn babies. Pregnant women can avoid the possibility of toxoplasmosis by washing their hands after handling cats and avoiding handling litter boxes as much as possible. Contact with the feces of infected cats mainly causes the infection so cleanliness around cat boxes is particularly important. Luckily the disease is not common because it can cause birth defects and death.

Various skin problems also are commonly caught from dogs and cats. Ringworm, a fungus that causes itchy red patches to appear on the skin, can be cured by several preparations rubbed on the skin. But avoid the temptation to treat humans and pets with the same medicine. The temptation is even stronger when faced with mites, fleas and ticks. But substances that repel these pests on animals may be too strong for humans.

The list of possibly infectious animals is not limited to dogs and cats. Hamster, gerbils, parakeets, pigeons, turtles, and many other possible pets can transmit disease that have symptoms ranging from diarrhea to fever. Don't get rid of a pet just because you are sick, however. Only physicians can tell if a disease is animal-related or has some other cause.

There are several things people can do to decrease the chances of getting sick from pets.

-Only buy healthy animals from reputable dealers.

-Wash your hands after handling animals and teach children to avoid animal filth.

-Get pet immunizations on schedule and get prompt treatment for pet problems.

-Keep pet bedding and feeding utensils separate from goods for humans.

The Scientists Tell Me... Peanuts Need Helpful Bacteria On Nitrogen-Deficient Land

By Robert L. Haney
TAES Science Writer

Peanuts can grow and flourish on land that won't grow a decent crop of corn without heavy nitrogen fertilization. But peanuts can do this only if they team up with a certain type bacteria to remove nitrogen from the air and convert it to fertilizer.

Actually, peanuts need much more nitrogen than corn to achieve even moderate production so this bacteria (rhizobia) is extremely important for maximum peanut production.

These microscopic organisms called rhizobia are so small that hundreds would fit on the point of a needle, according to Dr. Richard Weaver, microbiologist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

Tons of nitrogen are in the air above each acre of land but it is not in a form that corn or many other crops can use.

However, any peanut grower can show you the small nitrogen factories called nodules on the roots of their peanuts.

The nodule is formed by the peanut to provide a home for the rhizobia. Within the nodule conditions are such that the rhizobia are able to convert nitrogen gas from the air into ammonium for use by the plant.

As in any marriage, both partners must gain from the association if it is to last. Weaver says the peanut furnishes the rhizobia with various sugar materials that they need for growth and reproduction. Billions of rhizobia develop in the smallest of nodules, even though the nodule was initiated by a single rhizobium.

The specific rhizobia needed by peanuts for nitrogen fixation and efficient production are not present in some fields.

A survey by Weaver of Texas peanut fields revealed that many nodules had rhizobia that were relatively inefficient. In such situations, the plant is dependent on the few good nodules to supply it with the two to three hundred pounds of nitrogen needed for profitable peanut yields.

Weaver has now isolated a few strains of rhizobia that have exceptionally high nitrogen-fixing ability.

With the help of Ronnie Jones at the research center at Stephenville and Dr. Thurman Boswell at the research station at Yoakum, these super rhizobia were tried out in different fields.

The new rhizobia, in conjunction with new inoculation methods, boosted yields by $100 per acre in one field near Stephenville. At Yoakum, the value of peanut yields was increased by $75 per acre for the $5 investment in inoculum.

Commercial inoculum companies have requested and received these new strains, Weaver says. Presumably, they will be using them in their inoculum.

But Weaver and his research group are still not satisfied. Some fields, when inoculated, did not respond with increased yields. Research is underway to find out the reason.

One possible reason, Weaver says, may lie in the discovery at Yoakum that peanuts under water stress fix little nitrogen. Checks are being run to find out if "dry" peanuts, when irrigated, resume their nitrogen-fixing activity.

Another reason may be that "native" rhizobia are able to exclude the inoculum bacteria from the nodules.

Renewed interest in inoculation came with Weaver's discovery that it is possible to add inoculum to the soil, separately from the seed.

This is very important since peanuts are generally treated with fungicides. These kill rhizobia so it has done little good to inoculate treated seed.

Now, most commercial inoculum manufacturers have developed inoculants that can be placed in the seed furrow.

Future research is expected to develop ways to fully utilize the peanut's ability to fix nitrogen. If so, this important food crop can be produced in greater amounts at lower costs.

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—Students who are preparing to enroll or already enrolled in some colleges, universities and vocational schools will now be able to obtain information from those institutions about financial aid available to them, costs of attending, academic programs offered, and the success of students in various academic programs.

The regulations have been issued by the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare's Office of Education. The new rules and regulations affect post-secondary schools which receive money under the Basic Grant Program, Guaranteed Student Loan Program, Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant Program, College Work-Study Program and the National Direct Student Loan Program.

According to the lawyers in our State and County Affairs Division who represent the Texas College and University System Coordinating Board, the new H.E.W. rules require that the schools affected give the students who request it:

-A description of all student financial aid programs available to students who enroll at that institution. These are to include federal programs and the institutions own programs.

-A description of the procedures and forms for applying for such aid, the eligibility requirements, the criteria for selecting recipients from the group of eligible applicants, and the criteria for determining the amount of the student's loan.

-A statement of rights and responsibilities of students receiving financial aid under the federal loan programs. This information includes the criteria for continued eligibility for each loan program, the means by which payment of loans will be made to students and the frequency of such payment, and the terms of any loan received by a student as part of his financial aid.

-The cost of attending the institution, including tuition and fees, books and supplies, room and board, and transportation costs for students living on-campus, off-campus, or at home, and any additional cost of the program in which the student is enrolled or expresses a specific interest.

-The refund policy of the school of unearned tuition and fees or other refundable portion of the cost paid to that school.

-Information about the academic program of the institution, including current degree programs and other educational and training programs; about the instructional, laboratory and physical facilities which relate to the academic program; and about the faculty and other instructors.

-Data regarding student retention which takes into account the enrollment pattern of that institution, including the description of the types of students that were included and excluded in compiling the retention information. Student retention refers to numbers of students able to complete a certain course and numbers of students that were retained in a certain course as a result of failure.

If you have a question about financial aid disclosure at a school you attend or plan to attend, contact your regional H.E.W. office. For assistance with a consumer problem call our Consumer Protection Division in Austin, Dallas, San Antonio, Lubbock, Houston, El Paso or McAllen. # Diabetic Training Camp Opens May

CAMP SWEENEY DIABETIC EDUCATIONAL TRAINING CENTER for diabetic boys and girls (6 through 16 years of age) will open for the 29th year of operation May 28, 1978 with three-three week sessions as follows: MAY 28 to JUNE 17, JUNE 18 to JULY 8 and JULY 9 to JULY 29.

CAMP SWEENEY is located 9 miles east and 1 mile north of Gainesville, Texas on 338 acres of beautiful rolling timbered hills with three dormitories for boys and three for girls; a non-denominational chapel; a modern hospital; a 39 acre lake for boating, fishing and water-skiing; a sanitary swimming pool, tennis courts, recreational pavilion, target range and 2 gentle saddle horses.

Under the supervision of a specialized medical staff, dietitian and counselors, these children are taught their proper diet with regulated exercise, how to take their own urine tests and give their own insulin injections. Of major importance, through this group association with other young diabetics, they realize they are not alone with their disorder and with proper knowledge and instruction they can LEARN HOW TO LIVE with their lifelong companion—DIABETES.

DIABETES is hereditary, incurable and increasing yearly. It is the 3rd killer of diseases and ranks 3rd as the cause of blindness. Medical authorities estimate one-fourth of the World's population carries the diabetic gene and some 5,000,000 cases of diabetes are in the United States, of which more than 500,000 are children.

CAMP SWEENEY, operated and maintained by SOUTHWESTERN DIABETIC FOUNDATION, INC., is an organizational member of TEXAS UNITED COMMUNITY SERVICES OF TEXAS. # Services Expansion Asked

The National Foundation-March of Dimes this week urged Congress and the American people to act upon a nationwide expansion of genetic services facilities. To achieve this goal, Charles L. Massey, president of The National Foundation, called for a mobilization of concerned citizens to support the re-enactment of the National Genetic Diseases Act.

"The need for the value of genetic services is a matter of record," Mr. Massey said. "The March of Dimes has been, and continue to be, the major source of funds for the practice of genetic medicine and we are proud of that fact."

As a part of its total research program for prevention of birth defects, the March of Dimes currently supports 150 grants in genetic research totalling $4 million. As a part of its medical service programs, support of $2.5 million is given to 82 genetic service grants.

Mr. Massey noted, however, that the need for genetic services is much greater than "a voluntary health agency, with limited resources, can or should continue to meet along."

"The Congress of the United States is now considering re-enactment of the National Genetic Diseases Act," Mr. Massey noted. "We urge its approval as one way to make available the funds required to serve our children. The volunteers of the March of Dimes will work to mobilize public concern and action to achieve that goal."

The National Genetic Diseases Act, cosponsored by Senators Jacob Javits (R-NY) and Harrison Williams (D-NJ), become law on April 22, 1976, to provide counseling, education, research and research training programs for human genetic disorders. However, no funds were appropriated until fiscal 1978 when Congress designated only $4 million under the Labor Appropriations Bill. To provide genetic services for all who need them, The National Foundation maintains that federal funding should be increased to a minimum of $15 million.

Mr. Massey dismissed erroneous reports that the March of Dimes is ending its support of genetic services. A projected budget line for such support in the next fiscal year is at least $2.2 million for some 80 genetic service programs. Despite a "seed money" policy which limits foundation funding to a demonstration period of five years, 23 genetic service grants are being extended beyond the recommended limit. This is done to ensure the availability of these programs while alternative sources of support are being developed.

New applications for support of additional genetic services at institutions where they are underdeveloped will be accepted.

"It is in this spirit of protecting the lives of our children that The National Foundation-March of Dimes reaffirms its support of prenatal diagnosis, including amniocentesis, for those who would benefit from it and who request it," Mr. Massey said. "Fully 97 percent of the high-risk women using amniocentesis find that the unborn baby does not have the suspected defect. Therefore, amniocentesis saves thousands of babies each year. I am referring to those who might never be born unless their parents can be reassured by an accurate sci-

LOCAL BUSINESS FOR ECONOMIC GROWTH

Community leaders seeking economic growth may often be able to find it in existing businesses or industry, believes an economist in business development with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Since relocation of a large industry to most rural areas of Texas is not feasible, small businesses that are locally owned and operated are a far more practical approach to development. Industrial recruitment dollars redirected to "buy at home" campaigns and other market promotions designed to enhance existing small business profits may be dollars well spent.

ARCHERY WORKSHOP
LUBBOCK -- Hunter safety instructors attending the upcoming bow hunting workshop will learn the basics of bowhunting even though they might be expert with the long bow and arrow.

The Panhandle-South Plains school set for Lubbock, April 1-2 will be held at the Johnson House and instructors or potential instructors are asked to contact Donna Cade (806) 747-1671 for room reservations.

"These workshops are designed to give the instructors basic information in archery, so they will understand use and limitations of the equipment," said T.D. Carroll, P&WD hunter safety coordinator.

"We understand most hunters use both methods and this school will add to the instructor's knowledge and give them

Instructors attending the bowhunter's workshop are in for a treat as the able assistance of Glenn Wilson, Sales Manager for Bear Archery Company, assumes the role of workshop instructor.

Wilson, born in Del Rio and reared in the Big Bend Country, has been bow hunting for 27 years and has taken whitetail, mule deer and elk with the stick. He has been on both sides of the retailing and teaching and he is looking forward to sharing his knowledge of bowhunting with the hunter safety instructors.

All instructors enrolled in the hunter safety program in West Texas have received a personal invitation to the workshop. Anyone else interested in becoming a volunteer instructor should plan to attend this workshop and contact Hunter Safety Program, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, 4200 Smith School Road, Austin, TX 78744.

His first purchase was the Landmark Hotel in Las Vegas. It was an uncompleted structure, never occupied and Hughes paid $17 million for it. Last week, Summa unloaded the Landmark on some Kansas investors for $12½ million. It had never produced a profit.

In addition to the ten hotels and casinos in Nevada, Summa owns Hughes Helicopter, Hughes Airwest, a Nevada country club, land in Tucson, a 2,000 acre ranch in Nevada, an executive air terminal in Las Vegas and the Xanadu Hotel in the Bahamas. The 1,300 various Nevada mining claims the Hughes had bought have been sold to an oil company.

Who winds up owning Summa Corp. will be decided in the courts, but meanwhile the management of Summa Corp. is working hard to shuck off unprofitable operations and get a better fit in what it owns. The company is regarded by many as the leading Nevada resort and gambling casino conglomerate.

Summa is plowing over 300 million in land and cash into a new shopping center in the Las Vegas Strip. Saks Fifth Avenue and Nieman Marcus have signed up for space.

The intriguing question is what is the value of Summa Corp., a privately owned company. One evaluation places the worth of Summa at $167 million.

EASTER 1978

Reflections On The Resurrection

LET US REFLECT...Rev. and Mrs. James Williams; Pam, and Paul, pause in front of the Calvary Baptist Church to reflect the resurrections of Christ at this Easter time. Rev. Williams is the Pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church. The children attend school at Richland Hills and Mary DeShazo.

The Empty Tomb

By Rev. James Williams, pastor
Calvary Baptist Church

What does the empty tomb mean to us? Men are hesitant to look upon this point of His resurrection because the tomb speaks of sorrows and separations, voids and vacancies, of hopes wilted, of friendships dissolved, of joys departed, of homes made desolate. But to us, the tomb should represent:

The fact that we serve a living God.

We do not worship idols. (Deuteronomy 5:7)

We serve a God with feelings. Through His compassion, tender care, His ever presence with us, His bitter tears for us, He shows His great love for us. An idol does not have these emotions, only our living God does.

The empty tomb signifies that death has no victory over us. (1 Corinthians 15:55-56)

The tomb was empty. He was not there. Our Savior had risen. (Luke 24:1-6)

Because of this, death does not have victory over the saved either. (1 Corinthians 15:55-56)

The empty tomb proves that Christ is living today. Christ lives in the heart of each saved person, and He also lives in our daily lives, and in our Christian walk.

The empty tomb represents the fact that one day we will see Him and be with Him throughout all eternity (1 Thessalonians 4:14-18)

If we are saved, trusting in His blood, not in ourselves, but in all things through Him, this is the promise that He gave us. "That were I go, there you may be also." (John 14:3)

CATHOLIC OBSERVE MEANING OF EASTER...Mr. and Mrs. Raul Gonzales, Rebecca, and Ruby, are members of the Muleshoe Catholic Church. Mrs. Gonzales is employed by Anna's House of Beauty, and Raul is the greenskeeper for the Country Club Golf Course. Ruby is a third grader, and Rebecca is a pre-schooler.

REMEMBRANCES OF CHRIST...Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Morris read about the resurrection of Easter Sunday. The Morris's are members of the United Methodist Church, of Muleshoe. They have attended the Methodist Church for more than 65 years. Arnold has served in many church offices, and is a Mason, Shriner, Scottish Rite, and a 50 year member of the Masonic Lodge. Mrs. Morris is a Charter member of the Women's Missionary Society, and a 25 year member of the Eastern Star.

HAYDON'S RECALL 'CHRIST AROSE'...Mr. and Mrs. Larry Haydon, Greg, 7, from Muleshoe, and Lori, 11, and Holly 7, from San Angelo, attended the Calvary Baptist Church. Mrs. Haydon is employed at Haydon's Barber and Style Shop, and Larry is employed at Irrigation Inc. Greg is in the first grade.

Students Are Tested For Learning Skills

Test results from a 13 percent sample of selected age and grade level public school students may well set the direction of educational planning in the basic skills over the next several years, under projections just completed for the Texas Assessment Project.

The series of statewide tests designed to provide student achievement information in reading, writing (composition), mathematics, and citizenship is scheduled from April 3 through May 5, 1978.

Results will be analyzed by the State Board of Education, both as one basis for statewide planning and as data to underscore possible recommendations to the 1979 session of the Texas Legislature.

A sample of 113,307 students attending 2,234 elementary and secondary schools across the state will represent the total student population of 854,020 in the age and grade categories selected for testing.

Each student may represent as many as 102 other boys and girls or as few as one, according to Charles Nix, Texas Education Agency associate commissioner for planning and accreditation. "These figures are as firm as we can make them at this point," Nix explains. "However, we do realize there may be absenteees on the actual days the tests are given."

The assessment design includes the following subject areas and groups of students: sample groups of sixth graders will take norm-referenced tests in reading and mathematics while other sixth and 11th grade students take criterion-referenced tests in the same subjects.

Other sample groups of nine-, 13-, and 17-year-old students will take tests in writing (composition) and citizenship developed by the National Assessment of Education Progress (NAEP) project.

Scores from the norm-referenced tests will enable the Texas Education Agency to make a comparison with other students, such as regional and national norm groups, Nix says.

In the criterion-referenced tests, results will be measured against specific objectives already set for Texas students in reading and mathematics. These tests, designed within the state especially for Texas students, were field-tested in 145 classrooms during February.

Finally, using the NAEP test items as the basis for judgment, Texas will be able to determine how well its students achieve on specific exercises as well as compare their responses with those of other groups, Nix says.

"In short, we have selected the tests and designed the sample to pick up educationally important results," Nix adds.

While the original estimate of 100,000 students was based on 1976-77 enrollment figures, the final sample of 113,307 is now more in line with actual current attendance, Nix says.

The Texas sample will include the following groups of students within the different test categories: age 9-23,644 students in 552 schools; grade 6-49,288 students in 960 schools; age 13-10,269 students in 417 schools; age 17-10,130 students in 388 schools; grade 11-19,976 students in 408 schools.

All test data will be compiled on a statewide and regional basis, Nix points out. There will be no comparisons among school districts, campuses, students, or teachers.

"Our sampling pattern is designed to describe student performance statewide and within the 20 regions served by the state's education service centers," Nix says. "Any effort to pinpoint results by district or individual school would be grossly inaccurate."

Under the sample design, groups of students to be tested within each region will truly represent the total school population within the region, Nix explains.

"We have made sure we would get the right balance of age, grade, and ethnic mix of students as well as accurate cross-section of different types of school districts."

The final list of students is as nearly representative of the actual student population as it is possible to achieve, Nix believes.

Students classified as non-English speaking, educable mentally retarded, and functionally disabled were considered ineligible and are not a part of the population to be tested.

Rosters of eligible students from 2,300 elementary and secondary schools were forwarded to the Research Triangle Institute of Raleigh-Durham, N.C., where code numbers were assigned each name. This anonymous list was then programmed against a table of random numbers for final selection by computer.

"We are taking every safeguard to make sure no test scores will be identified by individual student name," Nix

ATTEND THE CHURCH OF YOUR CHOICE

Observing Easter

"Jesus said, I am the resurrection and the life: he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live, and whosoever loveth and believeth in me shall never die." John 11:25.

Easter, the day on which we celebrate the resurrection of our Lord, should find us worshipping Him in His Church. He is alive! His presence fills the sanctuary! All things are made new. It is the time of beginning again. Attend church and join your neighbors in singing praises to God for His Glory and Power and Love, and some of this Resurrection Joy and Power will come to you.

Texas Defensive Driving Week Is April 2-8

Defensive driving saves

A simple but frank motto that "Defensive Driving Saves" highlights Texas Defensive Driving Week April 2 through 8. Governor Dolph Briscoe has signed a proclamation for the week with a request for the participation of all drivers in a personal commitment to safety on the highways in a unified effort to reduce traffic accidents.

Texas joins a nationwide observance of Defensive Driving Week, to focus attention on the techniques of avoiding accidents before they happen. These skills are taught in the National Safety Council's Defensive Driving Course, a 8 hour comprehensive course taught by over 500 agencies in Texas.

Texas Safety Association Vice President for Traffic Safety Ray

Halverson, pointed out that "In Texas, DDC saves not only through avoiding accidents and the death and injury that results from them, but through the 10 percent auto insurance discount that graduates of DDC can receive." The Texas Safety Association is the accrediting agency for DDC in Texas.

Halverson explained that "DDC is remarkably simple. It merely involves teaching people the basic skills required to avoid accidents through anticipation of the potentials for accidents in traffic situations, and the simple maneuvers needed to avoid them."
