Lota Mae Hughes, Odis A. Claxton Jr. Wed in Abilene

Miss Lota Mae Hughes of Kellerville became the bride of Odis A. Claxton Jr. Sunday, September 10, at the Calvary Baptist Church in Abilene.

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Hughes, who is the daughter of W. W. Hughes of Kellerville and Mrs. Ford Smith Jr. of Merkel, and Mr. Claxton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Odis A. Claxton of Abilene, in a double-ring service, with Rev. J. B. Bradford of Hawley, an uncle of the bridegroom, officiating.

The nuptial space at the church altar was decorated with garlands of greenery, baskets of yellow gladioli and fern, with cathedral tapers in tiered candelabra. White satin ribbon, tied with fern and flowers, marked the pews along the aisles.

A prelude of wedding music played by Myra Lou Cook, included "Always," "Because," "I Love Thee," and "Traumerel." She also accompanied Jerry Phillips, who sang "Dearly Beloved," "In the Day of Golden Promise," and "Wedding Prayer." A muted interpretation of "With This Ring I Thee Wed" was played softly during the ceremony.

Miss Barbara Jean Hughes of Kellerville, sister of the bride, was maid-of-honor. Bridesmaids were Doris Johnson of Andrews, Patricia Brandt of Sweetwater, Mary Beth D'Spain of Kellerville, and Betty Sue Widner.

The attractive bride, who is widely known in this city, entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a bridal gown of white maquette over white slipper satin. Appliqued on the skirt were white satin bows centered with rosebuds and seed pearls. Satin ribbons and seed pearls edged the round neckline and the wrists of the long pointed sleeves. The fitted bodice was joined to a full gathered skirt, which terminated in a chapel-length train.

A reception was held in the banquet room of the McMurry College dining hall.

For traveling the bride wore an alabaster gabardine suit with black suede pumps and black velvet accessories. She wore a gardenia corsage.

Mrs. Claxton is a graduate of Shamrock High School and attended St. Louis Institute of Music at St. Louis, Mo. While in high school she was named district winner of the Daughters of the American Revolution citizenship pilgrimage and was crowned school queen. She was sweetheart of the Shamrock Rotary Club and was first worthy advisor of the newly-instituted McLean Assembly of Rainbow for girls.

Claxton will begin his third year as drum major for the McMurry Indian band and belongs to the National Association of Rudimental drummers. He served as drum major of Abilene High School for two years.

Mr. and Mrs. Claxton will reside near McMurry College, where they will resume their college work.

Miss June Drum Becomes Bride of Charles M. Dunnam

Guests at the wedding, other than the bride's parents, were Mrs. Henry Sanders, sister-in-law of the groom, Mrs. James McClellan and Martha, sisters of the bride, Mrs. Floyd Dawson and daughter Floyd.

After a honeymoon trip the couple will live in Lubbock.

If a farmer or rancher could get the same results by fertilizing his pasture, his return in grazing would more than pay for his investment in fertilizer. A fair guess at the rate of application on my lawn would be 400 or 500 pounds per acre. Soil conservationists claim that an application that heavy will give good results from 3 to 5 years. "Ten Dollar Men" Plan Permanent Fair, 1910

10 Years Ago—IT HAPPENED HERE

From the Files of The McLean News, October, 1910

Gray County Fair to Be Permanent

The fact that the idea of a permanent fair for McLean and Gray County is gaining ground is evidenced by the growth of the "Ten Dollar Men." Below is the list complete to date and with present rate of growth and will not be many moons before the required amount for the necessary will have been subscribed.

Thus we evidence the spirit of progress that has lain to some extent dormant in the minds of McLean citizens for some time. The latest fair has served to awaken us to the possibilities that lie before us as a community to build up a farming section second to none.

The spirit of thrift, the spirit of push, and the eternal ambition of man to ascend to higher and better things are forces that cannot lie long in idleness, and today we feel that the future of this favored section is absolutely assured.

Droughts, unrelenting in their severity, have blighted to some extent the fair name and reputation of our country, but to that end alone has it prevailed, for the man of the west—the average builder—is not made of that sort of stuff that would sit and dream over what might have been and idly watch the encroachments of adversity eat their way into his prosperity. If one thing this another is taken up in its place. Of course, there are the fly flatters whose vision cannot penetrate beyond the limited confines of their field fence, and these will never figure as real factors in the advancement of any community. The man who vests success from failure and combats the adversities of an undeveloped land is the man who will pave the way for future civilization.

Be it not understood that we would discount the value of our chosen section. Far from it. Be the fact remains that we as a community have suffered thru misplaced efforts. We have diversified our labors to a degree that success could be wrought from them. We have taken to one idea and allowed it to drift us onto the shoals of failure. We have failed to grasp the important fact that in diversification of effort lies the success of any undertaking.

Should a life insurance agent tell the same story to every man he approached his success would be far short of that of the man who strives to suit his remarks to the peculiar temperament of the man he would interest. And it is with us. We should study to suit our efforts to the conditions that prevail.

And for this very reason, if for no other, will the perpetuity of the Gray County fair be a factor of gigantic moment.

The farmers meet in annual contest for prizes offered and should this man show a better yield of some certain crop than his neighbor he will gladly make known his methods that said neighbor may profit by them. So it is with every line of activity. We learn not only by our experience, which is often dearly bought, but by the experience for which our neighbor has paid.

Again we say the Gray County fair is almost assured of permanency, and considering the impoverished condition to which the country has been wrought by ignorance of its true possibilities, we feel justified in saying that our citizenship, in standing out clearly in favor of the move has proven beyond a doubt the temper of their steel.

We count it an honor to be among a class of people who do things, who can grasp the fluttering shreds of adversity and weave them into a cable with which to anchor off the rocks of destruction.

Some more recent expressions concerning the 1911 fair are as follows:

E. L. Harlan—If we want to settle up the country it is the thing to do.
J. W. Kibler—That is the proper scheme. Put me down for ten.
E. O. Cook—It's a fine thing—must have it.
A. B. Gardenhire—The only thing.

NO LET UP, PLEASE

THANKS TO a smart and timely piece of military strategy dreamed up by General Douglas MacArthur, commander of the U. N. forces in Korea, the war in South Korea is now in the closing stages. There will still be some "mopping up" to do, but the fighting in South Korea is over, generally speaking.

Thanks to the lack of foresight and ability on the part of our administration leaders, including the top man, Harry Truman, many lives of the armed forces of the U. S. were lost. Our men were asked to go into a fight unprepared, and not fully equipped. It was a retreating war for a number of weeks, and lives were needlessly lost. More could have been lost, had the North Koreans exercised only a little more push, and the U. N. forces, most of whom were Americans, could have been pushed into the sea. The result would have meant thousands more lost lives.

For months and months, some of the leaders in Washington, although not enough of them, unfortunately, have been warning that the time would come when we would have to do something besides send notes to Russia. That time finally came when the North Koreans started their invasion of the part called South Korea, the U. S. went to the aid of the South Koreans under the U. N. banner and a regular war was fought.

The trouble was that we went in unprepared. Apparently our President did not realize that the situation was as bad as it was. Apparently he had allowed someone to convince him that we were prepared for anything, despite the fact that all the funds appropriated by Congress for defense were not spent for defense.

Now there will probably be a let-up in our mobilization plans, if the administration thinks in the future as it has in the past. And this is NO TIME for a let-up. We should mobilize fully, equip ourselves in a manner which will make us ready for whatever may be the Russians' next move.

Sure, we realize that full mobilization will take from homes many loved ones. We realize that full mobilization will cost money, and that that money must come from the people. But it will be cheaper in the long run. It will be better than living in slavery under the domination of ungodly Russian Reds.

Mobilization, it appears to us, is the only answer. There will be other fronts. It may be only days or weeks, it may be several years, but eventually the aim of Stalin in Russia is to dominate the world. And we are a part of the world that he especially desires.

REGARDLESS of what you may think of the idea of having a press box for representatives of the various newspapers and radio stations, I am a firm believer in the idea. And if you don't think it is work to write down a play-by-play description of a game, at the same time keeping a detailed group of statistics which people like to read, then you are mistaken. That's the primary reason for press boxes.

At Clarendon they have a press box, but no seats. So for a period of about two hours Friday night, I stood on my two feet, which were already tired from the day's walking on them, and wrote down that play-by-play description, at the same time keeping statistics.

It seems to me that if Clarendon expects to receive any good publicity from their teams, then they will have to provide a little better press box. It probably wouldn't cost them $10 to fix a bench seat in that press box similar to that in the McLean press box, and it would suffice.

Providing, of course, the reporters and radio men didn't break a leg climbing up that shaky ladder provided for ascending into that too-small chicken coop which Clarendon calls a press box.

However, the poor press box did not affect the playing ability of the McLean Tigers, and we won a hard-fought game. Thanks to a splendid run by Don Tindall, and also wonderful blocking down-field, fans had the opportunity of seeing what will probably be the finest run of the season. It was a beauty, and Don and those other ten men out there with him are to be complimented. After all, 90-yard runs aren't made in every game.

Last week's predictions and outcome, including my guesses first, followed by those of Sammy Haynes, and then the actual score:

Prediction: (mine), McLean 13, Clarendon 7; (Sammy's) McLean 25, Clarendon 7—actual score, McLean 13, Clarendon 6.

Prediction: (mine) Phillips 21, Shamrock 13; (Sammy's) Phillips 14, Shamrock 7—actual score, Phillips 13, Shamrock 13.

Prediction: (mine) Memphis 14, Lefors 7; (Sammy's) Memphis 20, Lefors 14—actual score, Memphis 12, Lefors 7.

Prediction: (mine) Wellington 12, Dalhart 7; (Sammy's) Wellington 13, Dalhart 26—actual score, Wellington 13, Dalhart 27.

Score for me: two hits, two misses (one a tie).

Score for Sammy: three hits, one miss (the tie).

Season's score for me: 11 hits, five misses.

Season's score for Sammy: eight hits, two misses. (Sammy did not guess with me the first week when six games were played).

The inhabitants of a very small town, after a lot of trouble, had finally obtained a post office. It was situated in the General Store and the owner of the store was appointed the postmaster. But every day complaints about the non-arrival of letters came to the new postmaster. At last he got exasperated and pointing to a corner of the store he said: "Look, there's the mail bag. It's not half full yet and it's just a waste of time to send it away until I've got it filled."

Since the major part of this column is about football again, I see no reason to change the subject this late, so more about football.

Only this is about football on a slightly smaller scale. The scale is back to the 8th grade, for that group of youngsters exhibited their abilities before local fans last Thursday night when they defeated a similar group from Clarendon 7 to 0.

The game was just about as exciting as the high school affair Friday night. The crowd was smaller Thursday night, and the bands were not out, but it was still an exciting game.

I don't attempt to write up these games, for I have no way of knowing who is who, or whom is whom—there are no programs, etc., to go by. But I did find out a few of the names on our team. Ricky Mantoath made the only touchdown, and I think it was either Rodney Gunn or Ben Darnell who made the extra point. The broken field running star of the game, and the boy who made the slickest looking runs, was little Smitty Smith. Boyd Smith's son. I don't know the youngster's first name, but he is really a white.

On the line, I know only three names to print, Joe Glass, Joe Cooper, and James Jolly, but the entire line was good—at least good enough to hold those Clarendon boys back and prevent them from scoring.

It was an exciting game, and if that bunch of boys can continue to play together for another couple of years, we'll be hard to beat come 1952. Or 1953.

If you didn't see that game, you should have. It was worth the small price of admission.

THREE ENROLLED

Editors Comment

On Economy Body

Editor's Note: Today's article, which is a series on the Texas Economy Commission, consists of Texas news items, plus comments by two outstanding citizens.

Nearly four months remain before the Legislature meets in January to consider the requirements for additional taxes to finance government at the existing level of half a billion dollars a year.

Time for doing something about the problem, affecting all the people, is running short. Pressure will be in full force at the Legislature to champion their programs which will necessitate higher taxes.

State necessities must be considered. Deferrable needs must be postponed, and the ability of the people to pay must be taken into consideration in weighing every proposed program.

The Texas Economy Commission is a vehicle for majority opinion against oppressive state taxes and undue state spending. If the people adopt a cynical, defeatist attitude, the minority pressure will prevail before the Legislature again next year. . . . Fort Worth Star-Telegram, Sept. 19.

The state's bureaucratic system, like that of the federal government, has grown enormously. More and more new agencies are being created, old ones expanded, all of this costs a great deal of money.

There is an opportunity here for the Economy Commission to render valuable service. Waste, duplication and extravagance in state affairs must be reduced to a minimum to keep the load from becoming too heavy for Texans to carry. Agencies must be overhauled, merged or abolished when desirable. . . . Houston Post, June 15.

The state government has grown because the people have demanded more of it. The Texas Economy Commission may well conclude that the time has come to reverse that process.

The people may be reminded that unless they are prepared to dig deeper into their pockets—and perhaps 200 million dollars a year additional taxes, which might be levied on sales or income—they must get along with less, not demand more, state services or "assurances." . . . San Antonio Express, Sept. 1.

Mrs. Bunia Kunkel went to Hereford last week for a visit in the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. D. Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Riener and family of Spearman are visiting in McLean.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Beck visited a few days in New Mexico with friends.

Fera Mae Bailey and Effie Lou Carpenter were home for the week-end from Amarillo, where they are attending business school.

Mrs. H. W. Finley returned home Monday after visiting in Lubbock with Dr. and Mrs. Charles Finley.

The twin problems of the survey, and ultimately of the commission, will be the fact that Texas has built up something over 200 boards, agencies, commissions, bureaus, departments, and that it has its treasury accounts split into more than 100 special funds, some constitutional, some statutory.

There is almost an unlimited range of possibility in the reorganization plans that may be proposed by the Economy Commission. . . . Austin American-Statesman, Sept. 5.

Income to the state . . . is running ahead of last year. In eleven months the state counted $511,185,363 in revenue, compared to $470,970,616 in a like period of last year.

But spending is running ahead of income. . . . Before the next year is up, the state is scheduled to be in the red. . . . News article, Dallas Morning News, Aug. 4.

The Governor of Texas has acted in good faith and has created the Texas Economy Commission as an instrumentality through which recommendations can be made for more economy and efficiency in the executive branch of our state government.

The commission has been formed and is now ready to function. The Governor of Texas has shown his good faith. It's time the business men and women of Texas manifest their interest and desire in economy and efficiency by formulating a county unit in every county in Texas and by raising the necessary money to get the job done properly. James F. Melton, Manager, East Texas Chamber of Commerce, Aug. 29.

I am interested in furthering—not retarding—the growth and development of our great state. To that end, I want us to be able to distinguish between true economy and false economy. . . . between liberal support of worthwhile institutions and prodigal spending of hard-earned tax monies.

In short, what is good about our state government, let's make it better. What is bad let's cut it out. Let's stand for things that make Texas a better place in which to live and work and raise families. Governor Allan Shivers.

Achievement Tours
 October is the month when club demonstrators show other club members and visitors their accomplishments for the year. To learn from those who have actually made the improvements is the main purpose of visiting these demonstration homes.

Bell, Merten, and Worthwhile sponsored tours to the homes of demonstrators last week. Alarred club members were guests for the all-day tour Tuesday in the Bell and Merten communities.

Tuesday, October 10, Hopkins club tour will include the improved living rooms of Mrs. Vera Savage, Mrs. C. H. Brickey, and Mrs. Joe Stone, and the living room and landscape demonstration of Mrs. W. E. Melton. Mrs. Stone's food demonstration will also be seen.

Wednesday, October 11, the Grandview tour will start at the home of Mrs. Harry Britten at 2 o'clock. The Brittens have remodeled their home and have been living room demonstrators for their club this year. The next stop will be the Grandview school. The Home Demonstration Club and the Grandview P-T. A. have undertaken the project of landscaping the school grounds. The third stop will be at the home of the J. M. McCrackens, whose landscape has been improved. The fourth place to be visited will be the Fred Haiduku's. Their place was landscaped about six years ago, and the main point to be observed there is how well the landscape has been kept up.

Friday, October 13, the Wayide tour will start at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Barnes where kitchen and living room improvements have been made. From there the Bob Montgomery place will be visited to see living room and landscape improvements.

The Ernest Edwards' landscape will be visited, and then on to the Gus Green house. Here a food production and preservation demonstration will be seen and sack lunches will be eaten in the Green's recently improved basement playroom.

After lunch the group will visit the new apartment of Dr. and Mrs. Jim Chase, and redecorated home of Mrs. Irene Osborne.

Radio program Saturday, 11:30 o'clock.

It does seem kinda early to be mentioning Christmas mailing, but this is important if you are concerned. For Postmaster Johnnie Back has reminded us that parcels to be mailed to men in the armed forces overseas should be mailed between October 15 and November 15. That is, if the boys are to receive them by Christmas. So if you have a friend or relative overseas to whom you wish to send a package, we suggest you get it in the mail within the next month.

The sophomore class of McLean High School will sponsor a talent show next Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock in the high school auditorium. If you want to enjoy an evening of good entertainment, then attend the show. You might even know some of the performers.

Tax—

 one-fourth of the increase apply to 1950 income in its entirety, so it won't make any difference in final tax bills when the income was actually received.

Social security taxes themselves are going to take a bigger chunk out of consumer income, beginning next January 1. The rate will remain the same as now, 1 1/2 per cent on workers and 1 1/2 per cent on their employers, but the levy will be extended to several million persons newly joining the big pension system in 1950.

Also, the rate will be charged after January 1 against the first $3,600 of annual earnings. Now it applies to only $3,000.
