(More or Less)

THE TWO OBJECTS at either end of the row of white objects above, are eggs—the other three are hailstones. The picture was taken Friday morning following the hail storm of Thursday night. The storm which did damage running into thousands of dollars in value was said by many to be the worst hail barrage here since 1937. Many hailstones were larger than those pictured, but we didn't venture far enough out to look for larger ones. Oh yes, we might add that the hail shown above was kept in a refrigerator overnight—it didn't remain in its solid state by choice.

Damage From Hail Thousands of Dollars

As adjusters were concluding their work on insurance claims in and near McLean this week, damage from the hail storm of last Thursday night was estimated to run into thousands and thousands of dollars. The storm, starting shortly after darkness hit McLean, pelleted the town with hailstones of various sizes, some reported to be as large as baseballs. Many of the stones were equal to the size of an egg.

The hail, and the accompanying rain, brought a total of 1.5 inches in moisture here, Pete Fulbright, local weather observer, stated. Two additional showers fell Monday, one early in the morning and one at night, to yield another .99 of an inch. Total for the year is now 3.85 inches, Fulbright said.

Insurance adjusters were in McLean by Friday morning, and were about to end their work here the middle of the week. Adjustments were made on all types of property—homes, garages, autos, etc.

One garage owner reported that on Saturday alone, 77 estimates on hail damage to cars were made. Most common damage, aside from autos, was to the roofs of buildings and homes. In many cases, the roofs were declared total losses.

The $100 deductible clause on the hail and windstorm policies for buildings and homes hurt property owners the most. Recently, it became possible to erase this $100 deductible clause by paying an additional premium, but the high cost of the premium kept many from doing away with the clause.

The hail blasted out a number of the beautifully-painted glass windows at the Church of Christ; all but five panes in the hot house at the McLean Flower Shop were wrecked; holes were knocked in the top of numerous houses, and the Star Courts reported holes in the top of several cabins; windows in the new Trail-Inn Motor Courts suffered under the hail, and considerable damage to the new units was reported; a number of small panes in the stained glass windows at the First Baptist Church were broken.

Practically every neon sign which was not protected in some way was ruined. Representatives of neon sign companies were in McLean Friday and Saturday, and repaired many of the signs, although some were still hanging loosely.

Several downtown stores suffered some loss in merchandise, due to the moisture coming through holes in roofs following the hail. No great damage to merchandise in this respect was reported, however.

The hail hit only a few places in the Panhandle area, although showers were common throughout the area. Claude reported a hail storm, apparently comparable to that in McLean. Only a small amount fell in Lefors and Pampa. Shamrock got some hail, but not as much as fell locally. Residents of the Liberty and Kellerville communities stated that some hail fell here, but did little damage. Alarred, however, suffered nearly as much as did McLean.

Larue Pettit Valedictorian Of 8th Grade

Larue Pettit, daughter of W. V. Pettit, has been named as valedictorian of the 8th grade class of the McLean schools, it was announced last week. She took top honors with a year's average of 93.0. The grades were compiled from those made during the past school year, excluding those grades of the final six-weeks period.

Salutatorian will be Wayne Woods, son of Mr. and Mrs. June Woods. His average to attain this honor was 92.97. Finishing in third place was Betty Pearson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Pearson, with a grade of 91.22, and in fourth place was Joe Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Cooper, with an average of 90.67.

Other ranking students included Sarah McClellan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. McClellan; Rodney Gunn, son of Mrs. Odessa Gunn; and Arline Grigsby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arlie Grigsby.

County Group Is Formed to Aid Defense

A county agricultural mobilization committee has been formed in Gray County, according to an announcement by J. E. Kirby, chairman of the Gray County PMA committee. This committee will be responsible for direction of agricultural activities related to the nation's defense program.

Membership of the committee consists of J. E. Kirby, chairman PMA committee; H. H. Keahey, PMA committeeman; Clyde L. Carruth, PMA committeeman; J. T. Estes, Soil Conservation Service; James D. Gouddy, Farmer's Home Administration; Foster Whaley, county extension agent; Paul Payne, vocational agriculture; and Evelyn J. Mason, secretary PMA committee. The chairman of the county PMA committee will serve as chairman of the newly-formed agricultural mobilization committee.

The committee is being formed, according to the chairman's announcement, to secure better direction of the efforts of all farmers in meeting agriculture's part of over-all defense mobilization. The knowledge, as well as the experience of the designated committee members, gained from working directly with farmers, will prove invaluable in meeting agricultural problems that can be expected to arise, the chairman said. By centering responsibility in a single experienced group it will be possible to get speedier action on local production programs or on problems that arise in the field.

There have also been established state and national agricultural mobilization committees. Each county committee is in direct touch with its state committee, and each state committee communicates directly with the office of the secretary of agriculture. The secretary of agriculture is chairman of the national agricultural mobilization committee.

Meador Named Lions Governor

Boyd Meador, local insurance and real estate man and outstanding Lions Club member for more than 20 years, was elected governor of District 27-1, Lions International, in voting at the annual convention in Hereford Tuesday morning.

Meador defeated Milton Morris of Canyon, dean of men at West Texas State College, by a count of 93 to 75. Morris did not decide definitely to enter the race for the governor's position until Saturday, before the convention opened Sunday.

The new district governor will take office officially July 1. There will be no formal installation ceremonies, it was explained, and his duties as district governor will begin on that date. During the coming year, it will be Meador's duty to visit each of the 75 clubs in the district at least once, and to aid in organizing new clubs in the area. District 27-1 includes in its area all of the Panhandle, and extends as far south as Lubbock and Spur.

Meador was a candidate for the office in 1950, when the convention was held in Childress. He was defeated at that time by Dr. Marshall Harvey of Lubbock, who has ably served as governor for the past year.

The governor-elect has held every office in the McLean club except that of secretary. He is a past zone chairman and a past deputy district governor. He has served as mayor of the city of McLean, and has been active for many years in the local fire department, at the present time serving as chief.

McLean was well represented at the annual convention in Hereford, which was held Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday. About half of the local club members were present at the meeting. In addition, Betty Jo Patterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerrell Paterson, was a candidate for the District 27-1 queen. The honor, however, was won by Margaret Wood of Spur. The Sunset Ramblers, led by Emmett Allen, attended the meeting, and played at various times during the day in boosting Meador as a candidate for district governor.

The convention opened Sunday, and the first entertainment was the buffet supper that evening. A breakfast was held the following morning, and the "politicking" for the governor's position really got under way Monday. A luncheon was held at noon. The annual governor's banquet and dance was held Monday night, with Leighton Noble's band playing for the dance. A key members' breakfast was held Tuesday morning, and voting for the governor was held from 8 to 10 o'clock. The final portion of the program was the closing luncheon Tuesday noon, held in honor of the governor-elect.

OPS Deadlines, In Some Cases, Are Changed

In bringing West Texas business men up to date concerning the pricing program of the Office of Price Stabilization, C. J. Taylor, district price executive, said that every buyer and seller of goods or services, with very few exceptions, is covered by regulations issued by OPS. Taylor heads the price division of the Lubbock district which includes merchants of Gray County.

Contrary to the belief by many merchants that they are exempt, Taylor emphasized that practically every one of them falls under the general ceiling price regulation or the "tailored" ceiling price regulations which have removed them from the general freeze.

"There are certain records which every business must keep," Taylor said "so that they are available to OPS representatives, and there are filings which many should make with their district office." The district office for merchants of this town and county is in the Broadway Building, 1202 Texas Avenue, Lubbock.

"By May 14," the price executive continued, "retail grocery stores should be in full compliance with the regulations. They are covered, in the main, by regulations 15 and 16. They should have already filed with the district office OPS form 5 placing them in a certain category based on 1950 gross sales volume. Full compliance should begin Monday, May 14. Grocery stores operate under a tailored margin-type price program."

Restaurants, cafes, soda fountains, and other eating and drinking establishments should have already filed with the district office their base period food costs per dollar of sales, Taylor explained. Their deadline, too, was April 30. Briefly, the eating establishments are, by regulation 11, obligated to keep their food costs in proportion to their total sales.

Another large segment of business, large and small, comes under the tailored, margin-type ceiling price regulation 7 and its (Continued on back page)

Group Competes In State Meet On Saturday

The McLean High School livestock judging team took first place honors in the 23rd annual Vocational Agriculture Judging Contest, sponsored last Saturday at Lubbock by the Texas Technological College.

The team consists of Gale Plummer, Eddie Reeves, and B. W. Duncan, and has been trained by Clyde Magee, local vocational agriculture teacher.

A total of 41 teams from Area 11 participated in the livestock judging event. Plummer scored high individual honors, ranking in fourth place in the entire contest among all team members. He was also fourth high in grading and judging beef cattle. Reeves was high individual in grading and judging beef cattle.

The local team, Magee explained, was the high team in judging beef cattle and third high in sheep. Winning the honor will qualify the trio of boys to enter the state finals, to be held at Texas A. and M. Saturday, May 5.

The boys will leave for A. and M. today, and will judge in the finals Saturday. The state winner will then compete for national honors in Kansas City at the American Royal meeting in October. The McLean team of four years ago won the state contest and competed in Kansas City.

McLean's dairy team also entered the contest, but failed to place. This team was composed of Donald Smith, George Rallsback, and Dean Helms. Carl Pettit and Junior Brooks were alternates. The group was accompanied to Lubbock by Magee.

"We were very proud to take first place honors," Magee stated. "The boys work hard training to judge livestock, and it is the toughest category to win at the annual contest. Judging of the livestock is also a hard job, and requires much preliminary training, as well as a great deal of care when the actual judging is done. The boys entering such events have little time to do anything except participate, and the general public is not usually aware of the hard work done by the boys. This team is one of the best I have had since I have been in McLean, and naturally I am as proud as the boys over the results."

At the state meet, Magee explained, it is possible that one of the teams which placed high at Lubbock can win over the local boys. Six teams from Area 11 will be qualified to enter, and other teams will be entered from throughout the state.

A total of 56 Future Farmers of America chapters throughout the 34 counties in Area 11 were entered in the Lubbock contests. Each team consisted of three (Continued on back page)

McMahan Buys Watkins Station

Eob McMahan, who has been employed at the Andy Watkins Magnolia Service Station for a number of months, became owner of the station in a transaction with Watkins last week. The new owner took over the station Thursday of last week.

Watkins has bought the Phillips 66 station at the highway intersection in Shamrock, and was to take over management of the station early this week. He stated that his family will remain in McLean until the closing of school, when they will move to Shamrock.

"It is with regret that we leave McLean," Watkins stated, "but I feel that it will be to my advantage to make the change. I have enjoyed a very nice patronage here, and wish to thank each of you for that patronage."

McMahan stated that David McPherson has been employed to aid him in the operation of the service station. "We will endeavor to give the same type of excellent service which Mr. Watkins has been giving, and invite your continued patronage of the station," McMahan said.

Two More Days— CLEAN-UP WEEK

THIS IS Clean-Up, Paint-Up, Fix-Up Week in McLean. The week was proclaimed as such by the mayor of the city, E. J. Lander, and it is hoped by the sponsors of the week, the Lions Club and the Junior Chamber of Commerce, that everyone has already cooperated to their fullest extent.

Some people readily responded to the call to clean-up the city, and the week's observance will not be in vain. Some have made improvements on their property, and others have begun those improvements.

But some people have not turned a hand as yet. You can still drive about the city and view unclean alleys, unkept yards. Chances are there are many homes which have undergone nothing resembling a general clean-up.

Two more days remain on the week set aside for brightening up the town. Much can be done in two days, if everyone is in the right frame of mind to do such work.

There is a great deal to create a desire for a more clean city. There is the beauty angle, of course. But more important, there is the health angle. A clean city is a more healthful city. Therefore, we urge you to continue with your clean-up work if you have already started; or to start yours right away if you haven't begun as yet. You have all summer to clean up your premises, it's true, but most of the work can be done—and done away with—in these final two days of Clean-Up, Paint-Up, Fix-Up Week.

Refinishing Furniture
 Home improvement demonstrators attended a special training school on refinishing furniture Wednesday. The training meeting which was held at Recreation Park, Pampa, lasted from 9:30 until 3 o'clock.

The agent told the leaders that it is a waste of time to paint or varnish over old paint or varnish that is cracked, peeled or blistered, because the new coats will soon flake off and would be very uneven at best.

Any piece of furniture that is worth redoing is worth doing by the best methods of finishing wood. These methods are not short and snappy ones. They are slow and exacting, but the results are gratifying.

A new commercial paint and varnish remover was demonstrated. This varnish remover does not contain paraffin, and this simplifies the process of removing the old paint and varnish.

It was advised that holes, cracks and deep dents may be filled with commercial plastic wood or water putty, but that neither will match the wood. A better match results by mixing some of the wood's own sawdust with glue or varnish. A good furniture putty is made by mixing white lead, dry whiting, color, Japan drier, and varnish in small amounts.

A wood finish not only enhances the beauty of the wood itself but is a protective coat to prevent scilling, fading or warping. The opaque finishes that conceal grain and defects are paint, enamel and (pigmented) lacquer. The traditional clear finishes that reveal the grain are oil, wax, shellac, varnish, clear lacquer, and a newer one, Penetrating finish or seal, which is less on the surface, more in the wood, therefore less susceptible to marbling.

During the training school, the varnish finish was demonstrated on walnut, and the penetrating finish was demonstrated on fir wood.

The following leaders attended the school: Mesdames Reed Grogan, J. H. Kritzer, and E. J. Windom Jr., from McLean; A. A. McClrath, R. E. Engle, and Roy Tinsley, from Worthwhile; D. W. Swain and Roland Dauer, from Bell; A. Swafford and A. M. Nash, from Merten.

GROWING PAINS

In Gray County

Much effort goes into preparing a float that wins second place in a parade such as the one held in McLean just recently.

Mrs. B. L. Stokes and Mrs. O. O. Tate devoted about two days of hard work on the 4-H Club float which took second place. The lion's share of the credit goes to these two persons who did such a wonderful job on the 4-H float. Others assisting in this project included Mrs. H. M. Roth, Mrs. Sybil Lively, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Miller, Roy McCracken and Mrs. Cleo Turpin. Carl Jones helped out by furnishing the lumber. Joe Taylor furnished the tractor, and J. C. Claborn furnished a mat. And last, but not least, Charles Hall furnished the trailer. Our thanks to them all.

Each year eight registered Hampshire gilts are given to 4-H boys over Gray County by the Sears Roebuck Foundation. This program is directed by the county agent.

In order for a boy to be eligible for a gilt, he must write an essay entitled "The Value of Producing Hogs as a Source of Cash Income on Our Farm." Since there are only eight gilts to be won, the 4-H boy must write one of the top essays in the county.

A number of McLean 4-H boys have written essays in this con-

The club women were peppering the explorer with questions following a dramatic lecture on his adventures in Malaya.

"Is it true," asked one, "that wild beasts in the jungle won't harm you if you carry a torch?"

"That depends," replied the explorer, "on how fast you carry it."

A salesman wired his boss: "I need a raise. If I don't get it, you can count me out."

Back came the answering wire: "One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten."

TEEN-AGE DRIVING

IT HAS BEEN CALLED to our attention that recently a great deal of reckless driving, particularly on the part of teen-agers of the city, has been noted. This, of course, is not the first time that such has occurred, but it has been several months since a great deal of reckless driving has been reported within the city limits.

Naturally, we must assume that the greatest responsibility lies with the parents of the teen-agers. Parents, and parents alone, are the people who actually can control the driving of teen-agers. But sometimes that control is hard to exercise.

Officers are reluctant to "arrest" the younger people. And no wonder it is that they are so reluctant. When an arrest is made, the howl comes from the parents—usually it is the case that the parents of such a teen-ager will readily swear that their children cannot be guilty of reckless driving. We can see why such is the case, and we certainly do not blame parents for taking up for their children. As a matter of fact, we would not have much use for parents who would not do so.

But in order to prevent serious accidents occurring in the future, it seems to us that some sort of control should be exercised. Just what that control is to be should not be left to the law enforcement officers alone, but also to the parents. The officers will control the driving—if the people want it that way—but somehow we feel that more responsibility should be left up to the parents.

There is one way it can be controlled in future years, if we are in the frame of mind to bear the expense. That method is driver education—how to drive properly can be taught in our public schools. These proper driving methods are being taught in many schools, some no larger than our school. The cost is not great, but it does require some extra time and a little extra money.

Driver education can be explained by members of the State Department of Public Safety. They have compiled statistics which certainly indicate that better drivers are being produced where driver education is taught in the public schools. In these places, the number of accidents has been drastically reduced, the period of recklessness which most youths go through has been erased through education.

An automobile is a powerful piece of machinery. It is a costly piece of machinery. It is designed to be manipulated by human beings, but those human beings must know how to manipulate the automobile before it gives proper performance.

You send your children to school to learn to read properly, to learn to write properly, to learn many, many other things. You make no attempt to teach them all the things you would have them learn in school. Yet you depend on your own ability to teach them how to drive; that seems rather futile when you stop to think how hard it would be for many of us to pass a driver's test should it become necessary again.

We believe that driver education is the answer in the future to reckless driving; it is not the immediate answer, for it is too late to give this type of education to those who are nearing the end of their school work. But for years in the future, it appears to us that driver education is the answer. And it also appears to us that we are "missing the boat" if we do not look into that future now.

LES TALK

By LESTER

A most interesting visitor came in to see us one day last week. If I had closed my eyes and not seen him, I would have thought I was talking to Wes Izzard of Amarillo. The visitor's voice, his tone, and his diction were as near those of Wes Izzard as any person I have ever heard.

But it wasn't Wes Izzard, for he was in New York attending some kind of a meeting. The visitor was Crosby B. Spinney of Upper Montclair, N. J. Mr. Spinney is the father of Mrs. Wm. A. Smith (Rev. Smith is the new Presbyterian pastor here), and he and Mrs. Spinney were spending a few days here before continuing on quite an extensive trip they are making.

Mr. Spinney is now retired but he was, for many years, an advertising representative of the Curtis Publishing company (Columbia's magazine, etc.).

Mr. and Mrs. Spinney are making their second extensive tour of the country, and plan to continue on that tour until about October. So far they have visited points of interest on the east coast, and on down into Florida. They came through New Orleans, and on to San Antonio.

From McLean, they plan to go to the Carlsbad Caverns, on to Arizona, through California, and then to Canada, before returning to their New Jersey home.

Mr. Spinney said that he had been particularly impressed with the friendliness and hospitality of people in the south and southwest. Of course, we already know that we are very friendly in our part of the country, but we like to hear it over and over.

The main interest of Mr. Spinney is an organization known as the American Organization for United Nations. The purpose of the organization is to make the U. N. charter and activities of the U. N. known and understood by the people of the U. S.; to advocate and support those policies by our government which will make the U. S. membership effective in the U. N.; to study the means by which the U. N. can be developed to meet the needs of an ever-changing world; and to cooperate with like-minded associations for the development of an educated world public opinion on behalf of the U. N.

Mr. Spinney is president of the Montclair chapter of the A. A. U. N., and is also a trustee of the New Jersey State Branch of the organization. In the latter capacity, he has aided somewhat in organizing similar chapters in other localities.

Personally, I didn't know the A. A. U. N. existed until his visit here. He is sold on it and so are lots of other fine people in his town and state and section of the U. S.

Incidentally, he points out that aside from the political functions of the U. N. in attempting to prevent wars, the health, social, etc., angles of the U. N. are invaluable to the world.

It's something to think about.

Weather is, without a doubt, the most common thing about which people talk.

The kind of weather we had last Thursday night was the kind everybody likes to talk about. Nearly everybody had some kind of different experience.

At home, we just listened to the horses tromping around on our roof, and hoped that none of them would fall thru. None did at our house, fortunately, although I hear that some did at a few of the houses around town.

The next morning after the big hail the talk around town was all hail. The insurance men were swamped with requests for adjusters. I was surprised to see so many out-of-town roofing men show up so early in the morning. The neon sign people were on the job early, too—hardly a neon sign in town was undamaged.

Mrs. Verna Burris suffered a heavy loss in the glass broken in the hot house of her flower shop. Hardly a pane of glass was left unbroken. She had grown numerous tomato plants for sale, and many of them were damaged. Snapdragons, also growing in the hot house, were damaged. Fortunately, Verna had taken out some insurance on the building only a month before.

We got one press soaked good and proper from a leak which developed in the roof. The roof was pretty badly damaged, worse than some others in town, not as bad as some. Bill Day's roof looked terrible—he agreed with that.

One of the higher losses was suffered by the Church of Christ. The hail blasted out a number of the beautiful painted window panes.

Ed Lander just had his home finished on the exterior with perma-stone. The workers had completed the job the afternoon before the hail. Did some damage to the stuff, he said.

Trees and flowers were fairly well stripped. Never saw so many small leaves on trees before in my life. Those leaves left on trees were un-gently tumbled down in size.

All in all, it was a pretty good hail. Insurance men will vote for that statement.

Loyalty is the holiest good the human heart—Seneca.

Publication Laws Compilation to Be Available May 20

All Texas laws relating to public notices will be available in one volume, for the first time on May 20, when a 306-page book entitled Texas Publication Laws is scheduled for release. Author of the work is Attorney Price Daniel. It is published by the Texas Press Association in Austin.

Compilation of the material in book form was made by Daniel, as a public service, at the request of the Texas Press Association, according to Fred Massengill Jr., Terrell Tribune publisher and TPA president. "The book was written to satisfy a great need for keeping Texas citizens informed," said Massengill. "Because there are a great number of laws and rulings on the Texas statutes, having to do with public notices of one kind or another, there has been, in the past, much confusion as to who was responsible for such publication, as well as to details governing the specific type of notices on which state laws require publication. There has never before been a convenient reference book to which officials could refer. With the Book of Texas Publication Laws at hand in newspaper and city and county offices, most of that confusion can now be entirely avoided," he stated.

The book is available, in limited supply, on a cost-of-production basis, at $3 per copy. Material in the volume is divided into two parts. Part one deals with the General Publication Act, the Mandatory Publication Act, the Mandatory Publication Act, Label and Contempt of Court.

The Mandatory Publication Act became law following passage, during the 1949 sessions of the legislature, of a bill sponsored by the Texas Press Association. It is a law making it mandatory that public officials who are required by law to do so, publish legal notices as called for by the Texas statutes. Penalties for failure to do so are provided in the act.

Part two of the book of Texas Publication Laws is a compilation of all constitutional provisions, statutes, and rules relating to newspapers and publication of legal notices. In addition, there is a detailed cumulative index covering all subject matter and officials referred to in the entire book. Under the name of each public officer there is a list of all publication laws which relate specifically to the duties of that particular official.

A pocket section is provided in the back cover for such supplements as may be required to keep the volume up to date until complete revision is necessary. Supplements will be furnished by the Texas Press Association.

amendments. The regulation covers firms handling so-called consumer goods, including soft goods and durables.

"Department stores, variety stores, all kinds of wearing apparel firms, and furniture stores are among the operations falling under CPR 7," Taylor pointed out.

There are record requirements for this type firm to maintain, and they, too, have a filing to do with the district office. The regulation requires that retailers of these type goods file pricing charts by categories with the district office. However, the deadline for filing these charts has been extended to May 30. The former deadline, which no longer holds, was April 30.

Ceiling price regulation 13 sets out the pricing procedures for gasoline service stations and retailers of petroleum products. New and used car dealers have definite pricing patterns, too.

Questions concerning all pricing regulations, records keeping, and filing procedures should be directed to the pricing division of the district OPS office if they cannot be answered by local chambers of commerce. Adequate supplies of applicable regulations also are available from the district office and will be mailed on request to those desiring them.
