By STAN CARTER
SEOUL, Korea (AP) — United Nations soldiers killed or wounded at least 336 Communists Wednesday and early today in sharp, small-scale actions all along the 155-mile Korean battlefield, the U. S. Eighth Army reported.
Allied casualties were not estimated, but briefing officers said they were small.

Death Claims Samuel Eason, Civic Leader

Samuel Thomas Eason, 80, pioneer civic leader of Big Spring, died suddenly at his home, 404 Giddard, at 2 p. m. Wednesday.
Shortly after lunch, he suffered a heart attack and sank rapidly.
Services will be held at 4 p. m. Sunday at the First Methodist Church with Dr. Alcie Carleton, his pastor, officiating. Burial will be in the city cemetery beside the grave of his wife, who died in 1947.
Mr. Eason, who had enjoyed good health for a man of his age, had recovered from a slight illness recently and had remarked on how well he was feeling.

Tuesday, as was his custom, he was at the Rotary Club, where he had been a member for approximately a score of years. Tuesday evening he took in a ball game and Wednesday morning spent an easy time working in his yard.
Born in Tennessee on May 7, 1872, he had spent his adult life in Texas. On Sept. 18, 1893 he and Mrs. Eason were married in Abilene and spent 5 1/2 happy years that union.
They had a common interest in church and civic affairs, and even in recreation this congeniality in tastes prevailed, for both were avid fishermen. Until her death, there was hardly a place to which they wouldn't go if fish were biting.
In 1902 he moved his family to Big Spring from Merkel. After that time here, they lived on a ranch in southern Howard County for about a year.
"It wasn't much of a ranch," he used to recall. In all it must not have exceeded greatly a section, but the long triangular piece proved to be in the heart of the Howard-Glaascock oil field. Eventually upward of a score of oil wells was drilled on the tract.
Through the years Mr. Eason operated a barber shop here and hung on to his property. When it became unproductive, he retired. In the meantime, he had served as a member of the Big Spring School Board (for which he was presented with a certificate at special ceremonies here in February on the occasion of the district's 50th anniversary). Mr. Eason also had served as a member of the Cham-

Communists supply route from Manchuria.

An outnumbered Allied patrol came out almost unscratched after engaging about 100 Chinese soldiers south of P'yonggang, on the West-Central Front. A briefing officer estimated 15 Reds were killed and nine wounded.
The officer estimated the Communists lost 92 killed and 123 wounded in forcing U. N. soldiers off a newly-captured hill west of the Pukhan River in a bitter 27-hour Central Front battle Tuesday and Wednesday.

Allied doughboys almost encircled an enemy position on the eastern tip of the battlefield. When they pulled back at nightfall yesterday, they left an estimated 42 Communist dead and 55 wounded.
In Tokyo, Gen. Mark Clark announced the creation of a behind-the-lines Korean communications zone commanded separately from the combat zone.
The Supreme Allied Commander said the purpose was to permit Gen. James A. Van Fleet, commander of the U. S. Eighth Army, "to give his full time and attention to the vigorous prosecution of the United Nations military effort against Communist aggression in Korea."
Clark assigned command of the rear zone to Maj. Gen. Thomas W. Herren of Dadeville, Ala., Eighth Army deputy commander for civil assistance.
The new command will include all Korean and U. N.-held territory south of the combat zone. Herren's command will be responsible for operation and defense of the supply, evacuation, transportation and other administrative functions needed to support the combat zone, Clark said.

MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—Truce negotiators began their second year of meetings today—closer to a Korean armistice than a year ago, but still offering no hint of early success.
"Today is just another day," said Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckolls, United Nations spokesman, after a 40-minute secret session at Panmunjom.
It was the seventh session under a news blackout agreed to by both sides in an effort to resolve the final issue blocking an armistice—prisoner exchange. Another was set for tomorrow at 11 a. m. (9 p. m. EST Thursday).
Nuckolls would not say what progress, if any, was being made. But he did say the atmosphere was businesslike, unlike some of the angry sessions before the secret meetings began.
Asked for comment on the anniversary of the talks, Nuckolls said it was obvious the negotiators are closer to a truce than a year ago, "because tentative agreement has been reached on the majority of the terms of an armistice."
Gen. Nam Il, chief Red delegate, would not comment on the anniversary.

Press Photographer Is Forced Off Floor

CONVENTION HALL, Chicago. — Police forcibly ejected Stanley Trelick, United Press photographer, off the floor of the Republican convention last night during a commotion while he was trying to take a picture.
Trelick said he was making a picture of a delegate who had a hand behind the ear. His camera was knocked from his hand.
Police rushed in to break up the melee and carried the protesting Trelick to the back of the hall.

UNLESS BREAK COMES Strike May Cause Big Spurt In Unemployment Next Week

By GIB STALEY
PITTSBURGH (AP) — Unemployment resulting from the great steel strike of 1952 will be close to 1,100,000 next week unless there's an unexpected break in the paralyzing nationwide shutdown throbbing the industrial heart of America.
A big spurt in unemployment will come when Chrysler Corp. closes virtually all of its extensive Michigan operations. The corporation says the shutdown will affect about 68,000 workers although 14,500 will be recalled to take inventory.
The Chrysler shutdown comes as another blow to the big "state of Michigan, where auto production has been cut 70 per cent. An estimated 100,000 workers in Michigan have been affected by the steel strike. Ford Motor Company already has shut down its assembly plants across the nation and General Motors has laid off thousands in its huge factory network.

In addition to the 600,000 steel workers idle, another 422,000 in allied industries have been laid off as a result of the strike.
While there's no sign of an end to the strike, called June 2, the CIO United Steelworkers awaited word from the industry on a proposal to agree to resumption of iron ore production.
Executives of 10 large steel producing companies, after meeting in New York Tuesday, said they would ask the steelworkers to end the companion strike of 23,000 ore miners in Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin.
Officials of the steel industry fear shutdowns next winter because of a shortage of iron ore. They're afraid they can't build up stockpiles because iron ore won't be shipped on the Great Lakes during the winter.
This came from a source close to Philip Murray, head of the steelworkers union.
"We have not received a formal request from the industry concerning the iron ore situation. We have nothing to say on the matter now."
There is absolutely no indication of further negotiations to break the impasse, which is centered around the union's demand that a new contract embody a union shop whereby all steelworkers will be required to join the union.

Texas Victory May Set Up Nomination For Eisenhower

Domination Of Old Guard Yelled Down

CHICAGO (AP)—Three uncommitted delegates—two from Arizona and one from Alabama—jumped to the Eisenhower camp in morning statements.
With their leaps, the AP tabulation of delegate standings was:
Eisenhower 517.
Taft 486.
Others 110.
Uncommitted 93.

By DAVE CHEAVENS and MARTHA COLE
CHICAGO, July 10 (AP) — Old guard domination of the GOP in Texas was shouted down today by the roaring Republican convention delegates.
At 1:43 a. m., after hours of committee and convention debate, a majority of the nation's Republican leaders voted to seat Jack Porter's delegation backing Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for the Presidential nomination.
The convention repudiated the delegation sponsored by National Committeeman Henry Zweifel of Fort Worth and the long-established Republican organization which had been accused of trying to limit the growth of the party in Texas. The Zweifel organization has denied the charge.
The voice vote on the Texas contest came after the convention seated an Eisenhower delegation from Georgia, making it apparent that roll call would be a waste of time.
At the very moment of victory, Ben Guill of Pampa plained a cowbell, waved a four-foot-long Texas flag and just plain yelled.
The orchestra and the organ burst into "The Eyes of Texas." Voices joined in all over the hall.
In the back of the hall a dozen Texans fell into each other's arms in a delirious, back-slapping, shouting huddle. Mrs. Ralph Feagin of Houston, a dignified woman with graying hair, was right in the middle.
"Go on down, Genie," somebody shouted at Mrs. Jack Bliss, a previously unsteady delegate from Midland.
And with no badge but victory, Mrs. Bliss practically ran down the aisle to the Texas stand marking the state delegation chairs.
The convention recessed, the lights were going out and the hall was almost empty, but Texans still were celebrating in a back corner. They sang "The Eyes of Texas" again—almost a hundred of them. Then Sen. James Duff of Pennsylvania, a man who went to Texas last winter in the Eisenhower cause, came up to hug Porter.
They sang "For He's A Jolly Good Fellow" for Duff.
"He came down to Texas and kicked it off center for us," Porter yelled.
"When they took on Texas, they took on too damn much," Duff yelled back.
"We're gonna build a real Republican Party in Texas," Porter loudly asserted.
A radio man stuck a microphone in front of Alvin Lane of Dallas, co-chairman of the Texas-for-Eisenhower Club.
"We can now go forward. Wrong has been righted, and the Republicans can go into the election with clean hands," Lane said.
Word got around that the convention would have special badges and credentials ready today for the Porter delegation.
"We stayed with it, didn't we," Mrs. Bliss said. "A lot of people have told me it was the Texas fight that brought all this out into the open and helped the other states. We just raised too much hell."
The convention rejected a Taft compromise which would have seated 22 delegates named at the state convention run by the Old Guard organization, and 16 selected by the rival faction.
Its action threw out recommen-

Truman Happy Over Wrangle In Convention

By JACK RUTLEDGE
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman is sitting in on the Republican National Convention — by television. He's probably seen more of some major Chicago activities than have the GOP candidates right on the scene.
So far, he says he's happy over what he's witnessed of inter-party wrangling, but is "worried" over indications his favorite candidate — Robert A. Taft — is going to get beat.
For one thing, he enjoyed the committee wrangling. With obvious relish, Truman said he observed that the Republicans "did all the quarrelling they could in committee."
Such committee meetings, to settle arguments over contested delegates, have been thrown open to radio and television for the first time.
Regarding Taft, to whom he has referred repeatedly as his "favorite" GOP candidate because he believes he's easiest to beat, Truman said with a grin:
"I'm worried. It looks like my favorite candidate is going to get beat."
Truman's trip to the airport apparently caused him to miss the address yesterday by Sen. Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin, a bitter critic of the administration.
Reporters asked the President whether he had anything to say about "the mistakes of the Ache-so-Truman-Lattimore party described in Chicago by Sen. McCarthy."
Truman, his good humor vanishing, snapped that he didn't know anything about that. He added:
"But if McCarthy said it, it's a damned lie, you can be sure of that."

Rayburn would take demo bid
BONHAM, July 10 (AP) — Sam Rayburn let it be known yesterday he'd accept the Democratic presidential nomination.
Home to launch his campaign for re-election from the Fourth District, the veteran congressman told constituents in a radio address he would take the nod to be "a good soldier."
"I'm not campaigning for the nomination but I have told my friends that if a deadlock comes I'll be a good soldier and serve my country and my party," Rayburn said.
It was good to be back home, the speaker declared, "after seven strenuous months" in Washington.
Rayburn went to bat for his fellow Democrats. He said their presidential candidate could lick anybody the Republicans put up—including Dwight D. Eisenhower.
Rayburn called for defensive military strength and sounded optimistic about an eventual ceasefire in Korea.
Rayburn will be busy during the next 10 days before leaving for Chicago to be chairman of the Democratic National Convention.
He will speak at Royce City Thursday, in McKinney Friday and at Sherman Monday night. He also plans to campaign next week in Terrell and Greenville.
Rayburn's opponent, Reagan Brown, is from Terrell.

Corruption Charges Head New Platform

By EDWIN B. HAARINKSON
CHICAGO (AP) — Republicans today accused the Truman administration of sickening corruption and of shielding "traitors to the nation in high places."
This blistering attack came in the long-awaited campaign platform handed to the GOP National Convention for expected approval during the day.
Slashing attacks on the "present administration's sordid record of corruption" overshadowed hard-fought compromises on the foreign policy, national defense and civil rights planks.
Only the "civil rights" plank—dealing with the touchy issues of racial discrimination—caused some fears of a possible floor fight.
Sen. Eugene D. Millikin of Colorado, chairman of the group that shaped the campaign document, told a reporter he expects quick convention approval.
In general, the released foreign policy and defense planks had been approved in advance by Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the two top contenders for the party's presidential nomination.
These planks belabored the Democrats on foreign policy, saying "they swing erratically from timid appeasement to reckless blunder."
The GOP document promised that Republicans will seek "an honorable just peace" that would bring hope to those now imprisoned under Communist domination.
On national defense, the platform promised a quick buildup to "completely adequate air power," something Sen. Taft has stressed.
And then it balanced this, probably at suggestions from the Eisenhower camp, with a pledge for "simultaneous readiness of co-ordinated air, land and sea lanes, with all the necessary installations, bases, supplies and munitions, including atomic energy weapons."
All through the unusually long (6,000-word) platform, the Republicans promised to clean house in government, cut costs and reduce waste, overlapping and bureaucracy.
But the really blistering words came in the section titled "corruption."
"The present administration's sordid record of corruption has shocked and sickened the American people," it said.

City School Board Postpones Session

Meeting of the Big Spring Independent School District board of trustees, set for today, has been postponed until Friday.
Indications were that there would be at least four of the members out-of-town or unavailable for the session, hence it was delayed until 7:30 p. m. Friday. Public hearing on the proposed budget is set for that time also.

Discovery Looms In North Sterling

Tex Harvey Employees No. 1 Chapel Hillwood, 18 miles north of Sterling City, boomed Thursday as a possible discovery in three deep zones.
It had two good oil shows in the Canyon sand of the Pennsylvania series; another in the Mississippi; and a final one in the top of the Ellenburger.
This venture, 5 1/2 miles northeast of the Spade (Ellenburger) pool, has been drilled tight, Arthur (Tex) Harvey, Midland, who is drilling the well on behalf of his employees, confirmed information today. For complete oil news please turn to page No. 2.

Embassy Takes Up Office Bombing

A State Department spokesman, who said this yesterday, told newsmen the embassy had sent the department a preliminary report.

Backers Jubilant Over Big Triumph

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
CHICAGO (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's jubilant forces, backed by two smashing new victories over the Taft camp, confidently predicted today their man will win the Republican presidential nomination.
Delighted over success in contests seating pro-Eisenhower delegations from Texas and Georgia in the GOP National Convention, the general's top political aides were counting the big prize as in the bag.
"Now we can go ahead and nominate the next President of the United States—Dwight D. Eisenhower," said the general's campaign manager, Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. of Massachusetts.
Hours before the convention seated the Georgia delegation favorable to him and then the heavily pro-Eisenhower Texas group, the general was quoted as saying, "I think I am going to win" the nomination. In the hot race he is running against Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

Former Sen. John Sherman Cooper, Kentucky Republican, told newsmen Eisenhower made the statement to him. Cooper visited the general at his Blackstone Hotel headquarters last night.
Aides said the general didn't even stay up to get the results on the Texas-Georgia seating contests. They said he went to bed about 11:30 p. m. and wasn't awakened when the convention reversed its Credentials Committee in his favor.
Eisenhower forces won the Georgia contest by a vote of 607 to 531.
Then the Taft people let the general's Texas delegation be seated without a rollcall.
The Georgia group which had been approved by the Credentials Committee was made up of 17 Taft delegates. The winning slate is divided 14 for Eisenhower, two for Taft and one undecided.

Taft Says He Still Expects To Be Choice

By JACK BELL
CONVENTION HALL, Chicago, July 10 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's jubilant partisans strove today to turn smashing test-vote triumphs over Sen. Robert A. Taft into a victory bandwagon for the grand prize of this Republican convention—the presidential nomination.
They claimed it was all over but the halting as a result of Eisenhower's decisive edge in the turbulent floor battle with Taft at last night's session—stretching into the early morning—over contested delegates from Georgia and Texas.
Taft was not conceding a thing. He said: "I expect to be nominated on an early ballot."
And supporters of Earl Warren and Harold Stassen said they still saw a chance for an Eisenhower-Taft deadlock that could deny the nomination to either of the two front-runners.
The big decision may come tonight.
Convention managers mapped out a schedule which left that possibility.
And the delegates trickling into this big arena down by the stockyards for their fourth day seemed in a mood to get on with the main business.
In the wake of last night's rough and tumble, there was more talk about Gen. Douglas MacArthur.
Some of the Taft supporters were saying privately that MacArthur might be a good man if it developed that Taft could not make the grade.
Taft's top aides were insisting, however, that there was no reason yet to question that Taft could make it.
Paul Walker, chief of delegate relations for Taft camp, said it was a "coalition" that beat Taft on the Georgia and Texas contests. The Warren and Stassen delegates stood with the Eisenhower camp on that.

Escapes Surrender Without A Struggle

HUNTSVILLE, July 10 (AP)—Tired, bedraggled and hungry, two convicts who escaped Eastham Prison Monday surrendered meekly this morning on prison property.
Authorities apprehended the pair, Thomas S. Ballard, 23, and Walter J. Barnes, 26, about 8:30 a. m. in a field of the Prison farm two miles north of here.
The escapes hadn't realized the field was prison property.
Since Monday night, the convicts said, they'd been hiding in a clump of bushes on a vacant lot in Huntsville only three blocks from the main penitentiary.
They were first seen by Wynne Warden T. T. Easley and his assistant, Alvin Hoke, when the escapees walked into a yard near the prison and took a blanket off a clothes line.
Easley and Hoke called for bloodhounds.
Within 30 minutes the dogs, led by Dog Sergeant Rube Kelcon, forced the pair to surrender in the field without a struggle.
Barnes had no shirt on and was nearly naked. Ballard's khaki pants were tattered. They said all they had to eat since Monday night was a few hard pears they picked this morning.

Pay Raise For Queen Okayed

LONDON (AP)—The House of Commons last night okayed a pay raise for Queen Elizabeth II, giving her 475,000 pounds ($1,330,000) a year to run the royal household.

The decision balking the royal budget 65,000 pounds ($182,000) over that of the late George VI came despite outraged demands by a score of Laborites that the ruler's purse be cut nearly in half—to 250,000 pounds ($700,000).

After the Conservative government's majority defeated Laborite amendments to trim the budget, the House approved it without a vote. The government now will draft a bill covering the new budget. Its acceptance by the House of Commons is only a formality.

In a lively debate, austerity-arguing Socialists attacked the whole pomp and pageantry of the British monarchy and said it was time for a change. Left-winger Emrys Hughes even suggested, amid shocked cries from Conservative benches, that Buckingham Palace be turned into an apartment house.

Chancellor of the Exchequer R. A. Butler retorted that the idea would be opposed by a majority of Britons. Arguing for the budget increase, Butler said simplification in the Queen's official functions would be welcomed, but he added, "We feel this must be left to the discretion of the sovereign."

Polio Continues Its Attack At Houston

By The Associated Press

Crippling polio had its 101st victim of the year in Fort Worth Thursday after Houston—under heavy attack by the mysterious malady—underwent its most tragic day of the disease's assault.

More than half of the year's victims in Fort Worth were being treated in the crowded polio ward at the City-County Hospital.

Harris County suffered its worst day of the epidemic there with 24 cases recorded. There were ten each in the city and county and four non-resident cases. Previously, the highest single-day total had been 16 on June 9.

Parkland Hospital at Dallas had 37 polio cases in its ward, the most to be hospitalized in the big hospital's isolation ward this year. Three children, the oldest only 8 years old, raised the Dallas total for the year to 128.

Meanwhile, Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer, promised a fight next year before the state legislature for an appropriation equal to 50 cents per person or more than 3½ million dollars.

He said such a budget for public health work in the state still would not bring Texas up to the half way mark among the 48 states and the District of Columbia.

Dr. Cox pessimistically pointed to the spread of polio through Texas. Nine of the 43 counties reporting the disease last week did so for the first time in 1952, making 121 of the state's 254 counties that have suffered cases this year.

The State Health Department's records showed five counties with more than 50 cases for the year. Harris County was far out front with 294; followed by Dallas, 95; Bexar, 83; Nueces, 73; and Tarrant, 65. Those counties cover some of the greatest population concentrations in the state—Houston, Dallas, San Antonio, Corpus Christi, and Ft. Worth.

Hard-hit Harris County had 52 new cases last week and Dallas County had 24.

Grayson had its first cases of the year, five at one blow. Other counties where polio struck for the first time were Castro, Aransas, Coke, Gonzales, Rusk, Stephens, Upshur, and Young, all with one case each.

Lavaca County recorded 24 cases last week; but 23 were accumulative from previous unreported weeks. The county has had 46 cases this year.

Incidence in other counties the past week: Tarrant, 13; Dawson and Martin, 6 each; Travis and Victoria, 4 each; Bowie, McLennan, and Nueces, 3 each; Anderson, Bexar, Calhoun, Hidalgo, Parker, and San Patricio, 2 each; Brazoria, Edwards, Fort Bend, Gregg, Hamilton, Hardin, Hays, Hockley, Jefferson, Midland, Smith, Taylor, Upson, Wichita, Wilbarger, Williamson, and Wood, 1 each. The armed forces reported two cases, unlocated as to county.

Dr. Johnston Heads San Angelo College

SAN ANGELO, July 10 (AP)—The new president of San Angelo College is Dr. Rex E. Johnston, until his appointment yesterday head of the business and economics department of Texas State College for Women at Denton.

The San Angelo College board said Johnston will take office Aug. 1 to succeed Dr. Bryan Wildenthal, who resigned to become president of Sul Ross College at Alpine.

Johnston is a graduate of North Texas State College, received his Master's degree from the University of Texas and his Doctorate from Stanford University. He formerly taught in the business administration school at East Texas State Teachers College.

First Commercial Plane Pilot Dies

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—Capt. Ragnar T. Freng, 52, credited with being the first man to pilot a commercial passenger plane in the United States, died last night.

Born in Christiania, Norway, Freng came to the United States in 1917. He learned to fly with the Army Signal Corps and fought in World War I.

Freng piloted the first commercial passenger plane for Florida Airways in 1922. He joined United Airlines in 1927.

Studio Bosses Agree To Cuts

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The big bosses at MGM studio have agreed to salary cuts of from 25 to 50 per cent in an economy drive.

The announcement listed various ways in which Hollywood's largest film factory will try to cut costs and referred to the television problem.

"The field of television production is one which will be examined and re-examined as time goes on, because the economic factors involved are ever-changing, but at the present time we have no plans, nor are we contemplating any plans, for television filming," said a studio statement.

The decision of about 100 top executives to take salary cuts was announced at a mass meeting yesterday of 4,000 MGM employees, addressed by Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's Inc., the studio's parent company, and Dore Schary, production head.

The reductions will be effective for one year. The studio said they were agreed to after five weeks of conferences. Executives here, in New York and in other places throughout the world are involved. Salaries of actors, producers and directors will not be cut. But the announcement said it is reducing the number of producers, directors and writers on permanent contract.

The cuts will apply to executives who make more than $1,000 a week.

Lions Club members will be in charge of the "Salute the Recruit" program Monday when 15 area men leave Big Spring for induction into the armed forces.

Lions will present a brief farewell program and distribute packages of candy and cigars to departing selectees. The group is scheduled to leave by bus for Abilene at 9:50 a.m. The "salute" program is set for 8:30 o'clock.

The 15 draftees will constitute the July draft quota of Local Board No. 71 which serves Howard, Martin and Mitchell Counties.

Dismissal Notices Going Out To Employes Of Many Agencies

By JERRY T. BAULCH
WASHINGTON (AP)—“You're fired” notices began going out to about half the 17,000 employes of the government's anti-inflation agencies last night, according to reports received here.

Economic Stabilizer Roger L. Putnam said his program will be hurt but he would “do the best he can with what we've got.”

He said Congress “gave us—and the consumer—an awful kick in the teeth” in providing the agencies with only 60 million dollars compared with the 103 million requested.

A spokesman said 30-day dismissal notices would start going out today.

Declaring that “our powers for maintaining the value of the dollar have been weakened seriously,” Putnam said in a statement: “More than ever we will need the consumers' help in holding down prices by exercising restraint in purchasing. Prices generally are not down.”

He said despite the drastic appropriation cut he wanted to make clear “we are not throwing in the sponge and giving up.”

He said economic stabilization is so vital to the defense program “all of us... are determined to give our best effort to the job.”

Congress cut funds for the State Department, the Defense Department, the Treasury, Commerce, Labor, Interior and Postoffice Departments and scores of agencies.

But none was hit as hard as the stabilization agencies, whose 60-million-dollar appropriation led some officials to hint they would recommend janking price-wage controls entirely because they felt it impossible to work with the fund.

The battle over extension of controls was one of the big fights of the 82nd Congress, which adjourned this week. There was a major effort to wipe out the agencies or to reduce their powers to impotence. Congress finally agreed on a 10-month extension and relaxed some controls.

Putnam said after an all-day meeting with his agency heads yesterday said that they had agreed to allocate the 60 million dollars proportionately to the original amounts requested.

This would give the Office of Price Stabilization $3 million dollars, the Wage Stabilization Board $4 million, the Salary Stabilization Board $1,800,000, the Economic Stabilization Agency $372,000, the Railway and Airlines Stabilization Board $33,000 and the Office of Rent Stabilization $1 million.

Congress also allocated special funds for rent administration.

Deportation Of Croation Asked

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An Immigration Bureau hearing officer has recommended the deportation to Eira of Andrija Artukovic, former Croatian government official, sought by the Yugoslavian government as a war prisoner.

Artukovic came here more than four years ago from Elve as a political refugee. He has denied the Yugoslav charges that he is responsible for the deaths of 23 persons during World War II, when he was an official of the Croat government.

Artukovic was arrested here last August on an extradition warrant but freed on $50,000 bail pending a Federal Court ruling on the validity of a 1901 treaty between the United States and the former kingdom of Serbia, now incorporated in Communist-controlled Yugoslavia.

Twenty-Four Prisoners Hurt In Stockade Fight

PUSAN, Korea (AP)—Twenty-four prisoners were injured Wednesday when club-wielding Reds fought each other in a stockade at Nonsan, the Army said today.

A platoon of American guards restored order without firing a shot or using tear gas, the Army said.

About 130 prisoners were involved in the demonstration.

Nonsan is about 22 miles southwest of Taejon in Southwestern Korea.

Guards moved into the compound after two groups of war prisoners armed with clubs and other homemade weapons began rioting inside the barbed wire enclosure, the Army said. No reason for the fight was announced.

Fourteen of the injured prisoners were hurt seriously enough to require evacuation to Taejon for hospitalization. One was reported in serious condition.

A short Army announcement said the fighting started at Compound 16 shortly after midnight when about 40 prisoners, armed with clubs made from tentpoles, began attacking other prisoners and ripping tents.

Some 16 prisoners crawled through the compound fence to escape the violence. They immediately surrendered to guards outside the compound.

The prisoners were presumed to be North Koreans because the U.N. Command has announced all Chinese POWs now are held on Cheju Island, off South Korea.

STANTON — Proof that rain has spiritual as well as temporal power is to be found in the smiles and in the hearts of the people of Stanton and Martin County.

The rains that fell in comparative profusion over this area Monday night revived much plant life, and have given a tremendous uplift to human life, too. The smiles on the faces of the people one meets in this county mirror the songs that have been soaked into their hearts by those rains.

There are wet spots, regular water holes, in some Stanton streets that motorists are afraid to try to drive through, and are detouring lest they get bogged down. This time last week many of them had begun to believe that such a thing could never happen again. But it has happened. Right before their amazed eyes it happened as the rains poured down over the town with the various gauges registering from 1.3 to two inches.

J. C. Sale, well known Hereford breeder, actually got his car mired down in the mud, and when he found out he was really stuck his smile lighted up like a Christmas party in an old-fashioned saloon. He was happy, overjoyed almost to the bustle point because he knew it took a lot of rain to bog that car down. On his ranch, about eight miles northwest of Stanton he got 2.5 inches of rain, the first real rain he had received in two and a half years. Sale is planting 90 acres of grain.

W. S. Goodlett, district conservationist at Big Spring with the Soil Conservation Service; Martin Vavra, work unit conservationist at Stanton, and Cal Boykin, work unit conservationist at Midland, spent yesterday on an inspection trip over Midland and Martin Counties.

Over both counties they found the same situation—rains almost everywhere, with lakes and stock tanks filled and water standing in fields. There was a considerable runoff, they say, because of so much bare ground, but there was at least some rain and some of it did soak into even the bare land.

Goodlett and Vavra said in Stanton yesterday that they talked to many people on their trip over the two counties and that they don't believe more than one farmer in 100 will try to plant cotton this late. Most of them are planting grain sorghums and a few are planting red peas and Guar.

So many people, in fact, are planting Guar, according to Goodlett, that a shortage of seed may develop. He says he cannot be positive about this shortage but that such a situation is a possibility. Any farmer interested in planting Guar should get in touch with the nearest Soil Conservation Service office immediately.

A farmer living north of Midland reported that he had only received two inches of rain on his place since September 1950 up until Monday night, and that the heaviest shower he had gotten at any one time in that period had been 0.30—then Monday night he got 1.5 inches.

Near the intersection of the Big Spring-Andrews highway and the Lamessa-Midland highway in Martin County the grass looks like East Texas. This immediate area got a pretty fair shower three weeks ago and then three inches Monday night. This is probably the best native grassed-area in this section.

But the conservationists say that over most of the area another such rain as Monday night's is going to be required to revive the grass. They also point out it will be inadvisable for any cowmen to plan to move cattle back on these ranges on the strength of Monday night's rains. Much of this grassland, they say, should not be grazed for at least two years.

Much of the land in the Courtney area yesterday was too wet for plowing, and the grass over both Midland and Martin Counties has greened up wonderfully almost overnight. Generally in both counties there is moisture enough for planting. Many of those who are planning on grain sorghums say that even if they don't get enough of a season to mature a crop they will surely get enough to raise the

A Bible Thought For Today—

For nearly three thousand years people have been following this formula. It has worked out amazingly well. "Wait on the Lord, be of good courage, and he shall strengthen thine heart." — Ps. 27:14.

Conventions An Imperfect System But No Better Way Yet Devised

There should be some more satisfactory and less expensive way to choose a presidential nominee than American politicians and statesmen have yet thought up, but none is in immediate sight. We have tried about every system in the catalog up to now, and what have we got? A noisy convention which does nothing for the dignity of man but gives rise to a lot of cynicism. The two-party system is indispensable to our national economic and political good health. Yet the convention system of picking candidates and writing platform forms, while an improvement on some of the caucus systems of the past, still leaves the professional politicians pretty much in control from start to finish, and the ordinary run of people pretty much out in the cold. The trouble with both parties is that they seek a formula and a candidate that offer the best chance of winning; rather than seeking merit alone in a candidate, and a platform designed solely for the good of the country.

Platforms aren't supposed to mean anything, an impression that has been created by the enthusiasm with which they are disregarded in practice; but both parties work over them like a surgeon works over a patient who is falling fast. Clarence Budington Kelland, the fiction writer and longtime Republican wheelhorse, complained this week that he and other platform committees had labored for three weeks over this year's GOP platform and the thing was still so long nobody would read it. A little later, Democratic platform carpenters will labor just as diligently over that party's structure of promises and pleas, and as is the case with the Republican word-carpenters, more attention will be paid to its vote-catching qualities than to the unselfish and dispassionate consideration of what the country and the people really need.

If a way could be found whereby the people rather than the politicians could choose our candidates and formulate party policies perhaps we could shape our government nearer to the heart's desire.

Observance Of Rules Of Personal And Public Health Best Policy

Local health officials have joined with the state health officer in appeals for an extra measure of sanitation at this season of the year.

The appeal is well taken. The polio total in Texas is substantially higher so far this year than a year ago. In general, the trend seems to be progressively upward. While the exact mode of transmission has not been demonstrated clearly, clinic tests have shown that flies are capable of carrying the virus from one source to a victim. There undoubtedly are other means which are still only suspect or are shrouded in mystery.

But in all cases, it is indicated that a high degree of public and private sanitation is the best defense against this insidious and sometime crippling and killing disease. The fact that most people probably have or have had the virus at some time or another does not lessen the need for containing the ailment at its possible sources.

So check your garbage and make sure that it has a lid; that it is cleaned periodically; that there are no other conditions around your place that would harbor flies, mosquitoes, or harbor rats or other insects and vermin. Check your screens. Make sure that the disposal of personal refuse is prompt, effective, and complete. Always wash your hands before putting food in your mouth. Wash fruits and vegetables thoroughly. Get an ample amount of rest and keep in as strong physical condition as possible.

Merry-Go-Round—Drew Pearson

Taft Has Efficient System For Getting Full Dope On Delegates

CHICAGO. — Inside the smoke-filled rooms—the politically naive Mr. Eisenhower can't quite be sure whether his friend, Gov. Tom Dewey, is an asset or a liability. Probably a little of both. Dewey has one of the smoothest working political machines in the country and he personally helped woo and win Pennsylvania delegates for Ike. His friend, Herbert Brownell, also did a skillful job of directing strategy. But Dewey has built up much ill will inside the party and this boomeranged somewhat against Ike. Enmity against Dewey boiled into his own New York delegation at its first caucus when the governor tried to whip his delegates into line. "I'm going to be governor for another two and a half years," Dewey warned the men who must depend on him for favors. "If you think that Taft has a steamroller, wait until you see our steamroller operate." Despite this whipsawing, some New Yorkers bolted to Taft.

Taft efficiency—Seldom has there been such efficient organization for a political convention as that of Senator Taft's. His Democratic colleague from Georgia, Sen. Dick Russell, has two observers at Chicago, Bill Prim and John Connolly, who are greatly impressed. Taft has five different cross-indexes of every delegate in Chicago. Here they are: Index No. 1 gives the name of every delegate and also the name of every one of the Taft Big 4 who should contact them. The Taft Big 4 are Ben Tate of Standard Brands, Tom Coleman of Wisconsin, Dave Ingalls, and Taft himself. This index also has a red tab on each card showing whether the delegate has been contacted within the past 24 hours. Shortly after he arrived in Chicago, Taft himself sat down and began phoning delegates allotted to him to make sure they weren't slipping to Ike. Index No. 2 gives the names of the family doctors of delegates. This potent piece of political intelligence is reported to have come from the American Medical Association and permits Taft leaders to work on delegates through their family doctors. Index No. 3 is the smallest of all and lists Eisenhower delegates who are wavering. Only 14 were in this file at the start of the convention. Index No. 4 lists uncommitted delegates, while Index No. 5 gives the party case-history of every delegate. This is the most important of all. It tells when a delegate joined the Republican party, how he has voted, whether he likes the theatre, good food or liquor, who his friends are, and even contains a map of his district. Thus functions the efficient Taft machine.

Convention money—There's more money, more entertainment flowing around this convention than any before. Both sides are taking delegates out to dinner and to the theatre in droves. Almost anything they want is theirs. Henry Ford II has his yacht anchored just off Michigan Boulevard where wavering delegates are entertained. Ford is for Ike, and has reached as far away from Michigan as Virginia to woo delegates for his candidate. Ford also brought in 150 svelte Mercurs and Fords in dream and blue to put at delegates' disposal. Young and Rubicam, New York advertising firm, has been masterminding the Eisenhower publicity campaign. Every train arriving in Chicago with delegates, newsmen or anyone else was met by Eisenhower enthusiasts. They beat drums, hammered tambourines, pinned on buttons. "We're glad you're for Ike," exclaimed beautiful girls, just taking it for granted.

Hotels and hospitality—The Conrad Hilton Hotel asked the two leading candidates for the customary advance deposit on their rooms three weeks before the convention opened. Taft came through the next day with $5,000, but Ike's people begged off, said they were hard up. At the last minute, just before festivities started, Eisenhower came through with a deposit for $12,000—two and a half weeks late. Rooms weren't so scarce as expected. A lot of people engaged two rooms, figuring they might need extra space. Then at the last minute they canceled the extra reservation. Chicago police had plain-clothes men checking convention galleries to look for hidden microphones so there won't be a repetition of the Willie boom when hidden mikes were used to whoop it up for Willie. Though Ike and Stassen are considered kindred political spirits, friction developed when Herbert Brownell, an Ike leader, failed to keep an appointment with a Stassen leader. The latter scribbled a note: "To hell with you and your whole Eisenhower crowd."

Who's who at Chicago—Everybody and their brother came to Chicago, including non-Republicans and some who have never even voted. Two suspicious characters seen in the background are Matt Connelly, the White House Secretary, and Leslie Biffle, Senate Secretary and chief brain-truster for Vice President Barkley. Other visitors: Oscar Levant, the piano-humorist; Joe Kennedy, the ex-ambassador to London and most of his family (once a Democrat, he's now leaning toward the Republicans); Mac Krimler of the famed restaurant 21; Elizabeth Arden; Courtney Eppl, wife of the ex-Argentine ambassador; Ferie Mesta; Jimmy Durante; Earl Wilson, the saloon reporter; John Wayne, the cowboy actor; Irene Dunne, a Hollywood delegate for Taft; Hedda, Hopper, and Clara Booth Luce.

Backstage strategy—One of the most effective moves backing up Eisenhower was the petition by 24 governors at Houston against the so-called "steal" of Southern delegates. This was strictly "made in Denver," and the man who masterminded it was Sen. Frank Carlson of Kansas, a former governor. He called the GOP governors in Houston, but then to sign the petition. . . . When the Taft people moved into their headquarters at the Hilton Hotel they found Bob Allen's assistant, Paul Scott, occupying a room right in the middle of their extensive layout. It meant that Scott could watch everything the Taft delegation did—a wonderful spot for a newsmen. Taft people asked Scott to move; he politely declined. What newsmen would? . . . Republican National Committee is so touchy on the subject of secrecy that it even refused to let TV cameras focus on the outside of the committee-room door. TV producers wanted to show the locked door. But sensitive GOP-ers said no. Sen. George M. Blackburn of Colorado and ex-Speaker Joe Martin both called on Eisenhower early in the convention to try to heal GOP wounds. Millikin wanted to consult regarding the GOP foreign-affairs plank. Martin assured Ike that the question of seating Southern delegates would be brought up before the entire convention on the first day, not wait until later—as some Taft people desired. Eisenhower, who never attended a political convention before in his life, is learning fast.

National Convention Is Dangerous Place For An Innocent Bystander

By HAL BOYLE

CHICAGO, (P) — Well, Honey, this is no longer any place for an innocent bystander.

Things are moving fast. I was run over twice this morning on my way to breakfast. First, I was bowled over by a hit-and-run Taft parade. Then, while getting up, I was struck in the head and tromped down again by a fellow carrying a bass drum in an Eisenhower band.

When I finally did make it to the curb, I found ten campaign buttons sticking in me—three for Taft, three for Ike, and one each for Warren, Stassen and MacArthur!

The tenth button said, "Harry Will Carry." There must be a Democratic spy loose somewhere among these Republicans.

But it would be hard to find him here, as the Republicans are acting like Democrats are supposed to act. The elephant has lost his loggnette, and the G. O. P. now stands for "good old pandemonium." The rival factions are accusing each other of every crime possible—including political cannibalism.

The fellows who are kicking themselves here are the committed delegates—those already pledged to support one candidate or the other. "Nobody is bothering to romance us," one said. "Boy, the thing to be is an uncommitted delegate. They are like a pretty girl being courted by two of the town's best bachelors.

"I'll bet right now if I were uncommitted I could have my breakfast in bed, get my son sent to Yale and maybe hold out myself for a place on the Supreme Court."

I was unable to attend the opening session in convention hall, as the fellow who gave me a ticket grabbed it back when I made the mistake of announcing I was an independent voter.

"You got some crust, brother," he said. "I thought you was a delegate from Pennsylvania—and naturally we want the fellows from Pennsylvania well taken care of."

While I was watching the proceedings on a television screen in the Conrad Hilton Hotel, an old lady came up to me.

"I can't tell them apart," she said.

"Who, I asked, politely.

"These fellows Taft, Eisenhower, and Stassen," she said. "My eyes aren't so good, and on television they all look alike now. I guess it's because they are all kind of bald. One thing about Abraham Lincoln or General Grant. If they were alive today a body could tell which was which—even if the television was fuzzy."

Naturally, Trellis Mae, all work and no play makes a dull delegate. I went to a night club with some delegates to relax, and what was our surprise to find we were in a strip tease place.

"If I knew it was this kind of place I would certainly never have come in here," said one delegate, taking off his shoes to rest his feet—and putting on his glasses to rest his eyes.

Well, dear, after walking that far I had to stay a while, too. There was one girl entertainer who showed her non-partisanship in a rather cute way. She wore a big Taft button on one side of her bosom and a big Ike button on the other.

But when her act was over she wasn't wearing either button—so the delegates all joined in cheering her, figuring, as far as they could see, she was a true independent.

Wish you were here. Your lonesome Husband, WILBUR.

P. S. Please rush more money. Even milk is 26 cents a glass here.

Blank Newspapers Might Be An Election-Year Help

Copyright 1952, By Walt Kelly)

CHICAGO.—A Snow Goose was thrown out of the convention yesterday after trying to prove that he was a delegate from Canada. He had a pretty bitter story to tell. He believes that there is a diabolical plan by "OUTSIDE" interests (he did not mention names) . . . a diabolical plan to subtly sway both parties and thus gain control of the realm.

"Have you noticed," asked the Goose, "have you taken mark that the cost of newsprint has gone up?"

It is the opinion of the Snow Goose that any editor will think twice about running a lot of stuff about a candidate with a long name. Short-named candidates will get all the mention and so will be elected. The goose thinks that, as time goes on, the trend in newspapers will be to print all things in a series of grunts or other suitable monosyllables.

She says look at the way the magazines have gone. First short news magazines were the rage. . . . then in newer magazines (smaller ones) the news and the pictures were reduced. . . . so that you are able to read the news of the week (all you can understand for a dime) in less than ten minutes. A recent movement by a bunch of impatient midgets to produce a postage stamp magazine called "Pst!" with nothing in it at all has been temporarily abandoned for lack of suitable material. But, according to the Goose, the trend is clearly indicated.

In these days when news is so often very bad, it is the opinion of a small group of pigeons, newspapers and fanclars all, that a real enterprising publisher may yet bring out a small completely blank newspaper which will, of course, not give out any news and will be entirely speechless. It would be great in a convention year, says the Snow Goose.

Bette Davis Returning To Broadway In Lighter Role

NEW YORK.—Bette Davis, who has won most of her acclaim for her performances in serious roles, such as those which won her Academy Award Oscars in "Dangerous" and "Jezebel," is coming back to Broadway in the fall. And she will play a song and dance role.

Even before she left the Broadway stage Miss Davis became associated with serious dramatic roles, such as "The Wild Duck" and "Solid South."

But the truth is that Miss Davis is not foreign to a singing role, nor to a comedienne's role which appears to be the type that she will play in the musical revue, "Two's Company," which will get to Broadway in November.

In a film called "Follow the Boys," Miss Davis sang a song called "They're Either Too Young or Too Old." And she sang that song quite well. I don't think she has a Metropolitan Opera voice. But I recall that when I first heard Tallulah Bankhead sing on her radio program that I enjoyed it more than many of the classical performances I have listened to in the Met.

Lisa Kirk is a singer who doesn't desert old friends, even songs. In her appearances in the Plaza Persian Room she has introduced new songs, but I notice that she always relies upon two that she introduced in Broadway musicals. One is "The Gentleman Is a Dope" and the other is "Always True To You In My Fashion."

One of the delightful facets about Miss Kirk's singing is that she is not only in good voice, but she usually has a song with a sense of humor. You not only like her singing, but you like the laughs you or too old." And she sang that

Sherrif's Magazine Writer Has Praise For Corporation Court

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald.—Editor's Note.

Today's conglomerate: opinion, question and suggestion. Opinion—Big Spring's Corporation Court should be used as a model for similar courts throughout Texas.

That's what C. W. Grantham, staffer for the Sheriff's Association of Texas Magazine thinks. He probably ought to know, since he's visited practically every court in the state.

Said Grantham, after a session of Big Spring Judge William E. Greenlee's court: "I wish the Greenlee's court could be used as a model for other corporation courts throughout the state. This Judge has one of the best conducted courts I have ever had the privilege of attending. His proceedings are really educational and constructive. His methods should bring out the good in any offender."

We've also watched the local judge in action, and agree with Reporter Grantham. Scores have been extended Greenlee's helping hand during the five or six years he has occupied the city bench.

Question—You got any idea what the Corder/Traffic Cop is doing with his hands?

Well, you ought to have. The traffic controller is the symbol of a local industry, and you've seen his familiar figure hundreds of times on billboards and in newspaper advertisements. Has he a whistle?

Suggestion—City Park ought to have a more distinctive name.

After all, the city has more parks than two. One of them already has been named for an early-day resident, the late John Birdwell.

City Park could also honor some pioneer. To expand the suggestion, the park is located not too far from where Capt. Randolph B. Marcy completed a dry leg of a long jaunt more than a century ago. Marcy Drive is the road to City Park, and it loops around the "big spring" the exploring soldier discovered.

Writing Platform That's Good In November Is Risky Business

The two Conventions will soon have adopted their platforms, and those who have to write the planks on foreign affairs do not have an enviable job. From July to November is a long time in this turbulent world, and they cannot count on the situation's remaining frozen during the campaign. Many a thing said with reasoning fervor in July could look very foolish indeed by November. They can risk a certain amount of pride with alarm and of pointing with view—but only if it is directed to the past.

Boasting and denouncing, promising to do this and swearing never to do that, will be peculiarly hazardous in the great predicament of our foreign policy.

The predicament, which is painful to the nation and sheer poison for politicians in an election year, is that the system of the alliances we have constructed in Asia and in Europe will, as we now conduct those alliances, call for larger American contributions of money and military power. The Truman administration has been overestimating the contributions that come from the other members of the alliance. They have planned the alliance on a scale which the available resources of its members cannot support. As long as the whole business was in the planning phase, it was possible to make a fine showing of paper armies based on paper promises. But we are now entering the period for carrying out the plans, and the hard fact of the matter is that our two principal Allies, Britain and France, are dangerously over-extended and committed beyond their resources. They are doing their utmost to get along for a while by delaying, postponing, stretching out, holding their breath and treading water in order not to embarrass us during the election.

But whoever is elected, and no matter what his platform says, this country is facing a crisis arising out of the fact that our global policy is not solvent—the liabilities and commitments of the policy are not balanced, are not nearly balanced, by the available means and forces of the alliance. . . .

The postponement of this crisis cannot be carried on for more than a part of a year, at best. When it comes, when the facts are faced, I believe we shall find that this crisis cannot be resolved without a great American contribution and without a serious revision of our policy. It is almost certainly a pipe dream to suppose that this crisis can be met and overcome, as so many Republicans seem to think, by reducing our expenditures and our forces abroad. It is no less a pipe dream for the Democrats to suppose that what President Truman has been asking in the way of men and money this year is a reasonably accurate measure of the carrying costs, year after year of all the policies to which we are now committed. . . .

The hard core of the problem is that the costs in men and money of our existing policies—which the Republicans would like to promise to reduce—are in fact seriously underestimated by the Truman administration. Thus the administration plan for the build-up of air power is calculated on the assumption that the Korean War does not exist. As a matter of fact the war is making serious inroads upon the global power of the United States. Even if Congress will vote what the Administration is asking, the development of our air power is not only stretched out but what may prove to be worse still, it is strategically divided and therefore dangerously diminished. . . .

Another and very important factor of error has come from misjudging the military capabilities of the South Koreans and the Vietnamese. Knowing how badly needed in Europe is the French army now in Indo-China, we had acted on the official assumption that if we supplied the arms and some money, a native anti-Communist army of Vietnamese troops could be formed to replace the French forces. The European army, which is to take over the main defense of Western Europe on the ground, calls for the formation of French divisions which cannot be formed effectively while the war in Indo-China goes on. That war in Indo-China is waged on a scale and with an intensity which requires—this year for example—something like 100,000 replacements from France and from North Africa. . . .

The situation in which we find ourselves is not agreeable. It is by no means hopeless. But all sound reasons for hoping require the doing of difficult, delicate, expensive, and by no means simple things. In drafting a platform that deals with our situation no honest and informed man can promise anything that is easy or pleasant or cheap to do. . . .

Wrestlers Must Obey The Rules

Now and then people see on television screens or elsewhere exhibitions which are known as "wrestling matches." Many persons feel that these affairs are ugly, because those who take part fail to act like sportsmen. Instead of wrestling in the true sense of the word, the contestants break the rules of decent sport. There is slugging with the bare fists, even kicking and pulling of hair!

A widespread belief exists that such matches are "faked." If that is true, it means that the so-called wrestlers are trying to fool the public.

In the Olympic games, wrestling matches take place, but those who wrestle must obey definite rules. Otherwise they would be barred.

Olympic wrestlers are amateurs. They wrestle because they like to do so, without payment in money.

The range in weight among Olympic wrestlers is very broad. The lightest wrestlers have been flyweights of the 105-pound class. Heavyweights are big fellows, often tipping the scales at more than 250 pounds.

In going over the records of past Olympics, I find 21 American champions in catch-as-catch-can wrestling. There have been two from Argentina. The United States has provided two lightweight Olympic champions.

In Olympic heavyweight boxing, men from Argentina have won three times, and British boxers have won twice. One champion speechee has represented the United States, Norway, and Germany.

In the flyweight class, most of the victors have been Americans. Among bantamweights, there have been two Italian and two South African champions. Among featherweight victors, there have been two from Argentina. The United States has provided two lightweight Olympic champions.

can boxers have won most often in the middleweight division. . . .

Iran Exports Sag

TEHRAN (P)—Iran's imports were almost double her exports for the year ending March 21. Imports amounted to $219,000 while exports reached $134,000.

This adverse balance of trade was aggravated by the fact that Iran's usual oil income virtually disappeared as a result of nationalization.

One Hitter Is The Favorite In Big One

By JOHN CHANDLER NEW YORK (AP)—Aquaduct closes his summer season Saturday with the 64th running of the Brooklyn Handicap and the Queens County Jockey Club today listed about a dozen starters for the famed race.

Heading the list are the Green-tree Stable's wily little 6-year-old, One Hitter, the King Ranch's To Market, and the Charfran Stable's Crafty Admiral.

There is plenty of other opposition capable of getting home first in this mile and one quarter scrap for the best part of a $50,000-added purse.

SLAUGHTER LEADS SURGE Cards Still Have A Chance, Manager Ed Stanky Insists

By JOE REICHLER AP Sports Writer The next two weeks should decide the fate of Eddy Stanky's St. Louis Cardinals.

Beginning tonight, the red-hot Redbirds take on Philadelphia, Brooklyn and New York in succession before closing out their home stay with Boston in an 11-game stand against the Eastern cities.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

One of Reggi Corrales' ambitions is to hit a home run. The stocky hurler for the Broncs hits very well, especially for a pitcher, but has never crashed out a round tripper in five seasons of activity among the pros.

Athletic feats of the Cuban ball players, where-ever they might be playing, come in for prominent mention in the Havana newspapers.

One veteran player on the Big Spring staff predicted that the Steeds would wind up in first place in regular season play, if Bert Estrada regains his control.

Indio Beltran, the former Angelo hurler, lost his first three starts for Hartlingen, which is the reason he drew a pink slip.

Jerrell Price Will Perform For Dodd Again

LUBBOCK, July 10 (AP)—Four years ago, Jerrell Price played in the Texas High School All-Star game for Coach Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech.

Price made the Associated Press All-American second team. Border Conference honors were plentiful last season—most valuable player, outstanding offensive lineman, captain of the coaches' all-conference team, both platoon of the AP All-Conference.

Price made another handful of opponent elevens last fall, being the only unanimous choice of Tulsa University's Golden Hurricanes.

School District Is On Right Side Of Ledger Near Year's End

With two months to go, the Big Spring Independent School District is a cinch to finish on the right side of the ledger.

The degree of the budgetary margin, however, is conjectural. The big question mark is in the amount of state funds which might be forthcoming within the last two months of the fiscal year.

While receipts have been $47,000 less than the budget estimates, expenditures are $81,000 under estimates at this date. If the matter of receipts is uncertain, that of disbursements is not. Two months of operations must yet come out of the budget, but they will be relatively light in view of the fact that the teacher salaries for the year have been paid.

Through 10 months of the fiscal year receipts stand $779,584 in the general fund, which is $47,889 less than estimated for the year. Around $39,000 more is expected from state apportionment and may be counted as fairly firm revenue. The salary aid expectation is $41,000 but how much if any, of this is received is problematical. Around $2,000 more is due from state vocational funds. Current tax payments have exceeded estimates by $15,000; delinquent collections by $4,000. The district received $15,000 from sale of property (it also had to pay the same amount for purchase of property) which it did not have budgeted. Receipts from the school lunch fund were $15,000 below the budgeted item. Administration expense was $29,180 for the 10 months period, which is $9,700 less than the year's allowance. A substantial amount of this will be absorbed during the next two months, for this phase of school business goes on irrespective of school terms.

Total instructional costs (this in principally salaries for teachers, supervisors, etc.) for whites was $305,000, or $47,000 less than the budgeted figure. Most of these costs are complete. The instructional costs for Negro students was $15,000 which is almost $4,000 under the budget estimates.

Operation of plant so far has been $33,277, or $14,500 under budget figures for the year, and most of this cost is past for the year. Maintenance of plant has amounted to $7,000, or about $9,000 under the budget, but here the summer renovations and repairs may absorb most of this leeway.

Auxiliary services have totaled $19,000, or $18,000 under the year's budget. Here only $3,000 was put in on the hot lunch program against an estimate of $17,000; and $8,500 on athletics against a budget of $12,500. (In the lunch program lack of state aid was an influence; in athletics gate receipts had some effect on disbursements, etc.)

Fixed charges stood at $18,900, or $4,000 less than budgeted. Capital outlay rose to $467,588, which is $36,000 more than in the budget. The excess was principally in new buildings and in new equipment. Debt service costs have been $84,000, almost exactly what was estimated.

In all, disbursements have exceeded revenues for the period by $420,000, but virtually all of this was due to capital outlay and was covered by bond funds. Cash in banks at the end of June amounted to $89,000.

Reds Encouraging Tattling Pupils

VIENNA 68 — Communist Hungary looks upon children who run with tales to teacher as the best type of pupil.

This came to light in a report of a teachers' conference held in Budapest recently in the presence of Hungary's Communist boss, Premier Matyas Rakosi. The program made an encouraging tale-bearing was a main theme of the conference. The slogan: "One child must control another" was adopted.

The Communist teachers applauded enthusiastically when one of their number addressed the conference and said: "Who would have thought, who would have dreamed, that the pupils themselves today control the tranquility of their comrades. The best and model students elect control commissions who watch the lazy students and the truants, who reprimand them and report them to the teachers, if their behavior does not improve."

Spaniel Makes Unlucky Catch

COLUMBIA FALLS, Mont. 68 — A cocker spaniel named Lucky-wan't when he chased a beaver into the Flathead River near here. The spaniel caught the beaver. A veterinarian later sewed up three gashes in Lucky's side and strapped him for a broken rib. The beaver swam away.

INITIAL CRMWD MEET OUTSIDE OF BIG SPRING DUE

First meeting of the board of directors of the Colorado Municipal Water District to be held outside of Big Spring is slated for 4:30 p.m. Friday at Odessa.

General Manager E. V. Spence said that the session would be held in the offices of the First State Bank at 4:30 p.m. On the agenda are negotiation of contracts for booster pump station foundations; confirmation of agreements for construction of oilwell mounds; program reports on closing of the dam. Also up for discussion will be the possibility of a site for Roy Scouts on the north shore of the CRMWD lake.

Political Conventions Have Undergone Some Changes

It is a matter of record that national political conventions such as we know today go back only 120 years when a minor political group, the Anti-Mason Party, held the first one in September of 1831. Three months later the National Republicans, at that time the second party in strength, held its first national convention. In May of 1832 the Democrats held their first.

Presidential nominees were originally chosen by caucus. The Federalist, which didn't last long, chose its nominee by caucuses of state leaders, and the Republicans (a party that came to be known as the Democratic Party under Andrew Jackson) by caucuses of the party's members in Congress. Party members of state legislatures were making nominations in the 1820s, but these "King Caucuses" came to be resented. The nominating caucus also made for confusion; in 1834 the Republicans had four different candidates for President and six different nominees for vice president. This confusing situation was finally ended with the invention of the national convention system.

Incidentally, the same confusion that attended the "King Caucus" system, might result from the proposed preferential primaries suggested for all the 48 states. Unless some way could be devised to reduce the number of aspirants, each state might nominate its own candidate for President.

Before the War Between the States the national conventions were pretty confusing themselves, thanks to the difficulties of travel.

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Thurs., July 10, 1952

Often the number of delegates present bore little relation to the population of the state they represented. In the Democratic convention at Baltimore in 1835, for instance, 181 of the delegates hailed from Maryland.

Tennessee had no delegate present at all, and her 15 votes were cast by a casual visitor from Tennessee who happened to be spied standing in the back of the hall. In 1848 Virginia sent 70 delegates to cast her 17 votes.

For all that, some of the early conventions were exceedingly lively affairs.

New Homes For Less Than Five Per Cent Down Unlikely Soon

By JERRY T. BAULCH
WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—Apparently you'll have to wait until about Dec. 1—or later—before you can start shopping around to buy or build a new home above the $7,000 class for as little as 5 per cent down.

The 1952 total will be no higher than 1,100,000, it appeared there would be an immediate easing off on Regulation "X", which fixes down payment rates.

The statement said the new law directs the President to make estimates of non-farm housing starts month by month after July 1, and when the estimates for three consecutive months show housing starts below 1,200,000 will take preliminary steps toward lowering down payment requirements.

French TV Industry Still In Knee-Pants

By NADEANE WALKER
PARIS (AP)—Although France has been experimenting with TV since 1934, and exhibited an operative model in 1937, most Frenchmen have yet to set eyes on a television screen.

Only those in a short radius of Paris of Lille have the possibility of becoming viewers. While the first trans-channel link-up of French TV with its far more advanced English counterpart is scheduled for early July, France itself has only one relay station and employs not a single television performer on a regular basis.

The smallest screen models start at 90,000 francs (around $260) and de luxe sets run to nearly $1,000. Owners have to pay a $10 annual tax, and the industry believes many clandestine home-built sets evade this fee.

States Slow To Action On SCS Control Plan

By OVI DA. MARTIN
WASHINGTON (AP)—Back in the thirties, after the Supreme Court kicked out the first agricultural adjustment act, Congress enacted a soil conservation program. It provided for subsidies up to 500 million dollars a year to farmers for carrying out government-approved soil and water conservation practices.

Except for Sunday morning mass, TV screens only become active at 1 in the afternoon. "We have so little equipment that we have to have time to repair and keep it in order," an official says.

Most prominent French actors, actresses, singers and comedians have made brief appearances but no TV stars have emerged. Nor have bars taken to the idea of TV screens to draw customers in.

A Letter From Home

... is nice anytime, but particularly when your family is living in faraway Canada, thinks Mrs. H. L. Leland.

Canadian Contrasts Told By Mrs. Leland

A good looking Oklahoman walked into a coffee shop in Edmonton, Alberta, Canada one day several years ago.
He was attracted by the short, fair-haired girl that seemed to be managing the establishment.
Three weeks and numerous visits later, the blonde invited him to a party. Ten months ago, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Leland, 509 Runnels, were married.
"You might say I just picked him up," Mrs. Leland laughed. "But he always looked so lonely and rather out of his element," she added.

Leland is a petroleum engineer for the Barlod Co. and it was while he was working in the Canadian oil fields that they met.
"My parents didn't want me to marry an American," the bride stated. "But after they all became acquainted the difficulties were soon ironed out."
Commenting on the extreme heat of Texas, Mrs. Leland reminisced about the temperature in her homeland.
"My sister writes that it's a very warm 45 degrees at home now," she smiled.

New Dish For Liver Is Chow Mein

Liver appears in a surprise dish—chow mein. Here's a different way of serving this nutritious variety meat that's sure to meet with family approval. If desired the meat mixture may be served over rice for chop suey, suggests home economist Seba Staggs.

- Liver Chow Mein
- 1 1/2 pounds sliced liver
  - 2 tablespoons lard or drippings
  - 1 cup diced celery
  - 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
  - 1 No. 2 can tomatoes
  - 6 Chinese vegetables
  - 6 tablespoons cornstarch
  - 2 tablespoons brown sauce
  - 2 tablespoons soy sauce
  - 1/2 teaspoon salt
  - 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- Chinese Noodles
- Dice liver and brown in lard or drippings. Add celery, green pepper and tomatoes, and allow to simmer about 20 minutes. Add drained Chinese vegetables. When heated through, thicken with cornstarch blended with brown and soy sauce and enough water to make pouring consistency. Season to taste. Serve on Chinese noodles. 8 servings.

Macaroni Salad Is Hearty Dish

- Hearty enough to be a main dish is this macaroni party salad. Try it sometime.
- Macaroni Party Salad
(Makes 6-8 servings)
- 1 tablespoon salt
  - 3 quarts boiling water
  - 8 ounces elbow macaroni
  - 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
  - 1/2 cup cold water
  - 1/2 cup hot water
  - 1/2 cup sour cream
  - 1/2 cup mayonnaise
  - 1/2 cup chopped sweet pickles
  - 1 1/2 cups chopped cooked chicken

Try Golden Ring Salad Any Time

- Salads taste good in any season. Crisp, fresh vegetables and fruits in harmonious combination make an appetizing, nutritious addition to any meal. A savory dressing adds body and taste appeal to any type of salad. Try golden ring apple-pear salad with savory cooked dressing for a course to delight even the connoisseurs.
- Apple-Pear Salad
- 4-6 carrots, shredded
  - 2 pears, peeled and sliced
  - 2 apples, sliced
- Shred the carrots. Prepare apples and pears and sprinkle with lemon juice to prevent darkening if they are to stand. Just before serving, arrange carrots in a ring on a well-plated. Fill the center with the apple-pear mixture.

Meals On Skewer Sharpen Appetites

From the peoples of the Mediterranean—Turks, Syrians and Armenians—and the Hindus, comes a spicy skewered meat dish known as Kebabs.
French explorers during the 17th Century roasted whole wild animals over a pit made by digging a hole in the ground. At each end of the pit they placed a green log and started the fire with wood fuel. When the fuel became glowing embers, they placed logs across the green log to support the animal to be barbecued.
The popularity of barbecued meats also is well-founded. American barbecue apparently originated in the Texas cattle country, where a whole carcass or thick joint was cooked over a pit of glowing coals. In Texas today, a barbecue still follows the traditional custom.
Then the "dauber" or basting brush was indispensable, the "stick" being a long green wood-on stick with one end wrapped in white muslin. The cloth end was dipped in a pan of hot, highly spiced sauce and swabbed or daubed over the meat after each turning.

Modern dabbers may be in the form of a brush, but frequent application of sauce is the thing for steak, lamb chops, lamb breast, spareribs, frankfurters, chicken or kebabs. The latter may be known as kebabs, kabobs, or brochette, shashlik or lamb kebabs, but the skewer method employed always adds up to a natural for the outdoor chef. It's easy to handle, and guests can prepare their own "meal on a skewer."
Whether the week end finds the family with a picnic in the backyard, on the terrace, or over the hills a few hours away, they'll find nothing quite so mouth-watering as steak and onions cooked out-of-doors.
Simple seasoning is best for the steak kebabs. Salt, pepper and monosodium glutamate to enhance the flavor that's already there is all that's necessary. Well marbled with fat, the meat may be a round steak, or tenderloin. Cut in two-inch cubes, alternate on skewers with small whole onions, and the outdoor cook has a new classic for picnic dining.
Six inches from the coals is about the right distance for roasting. The meat is seared well on all sides and turned frequently for evenness in cooking. To serve, steak cubes and onions are removed from the skewer with the aid of thick slices of French or Italian bread.
Steak Kebabs
1 pound round steak (or tenderloin)
1/2 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
8 small whole white onions
Cut meat in two-inch cubes; remove outer skin from onions. Alternate meat cubes and onions on skewers. Broil, turning on all sides. The recipe serves four.
Skewer Combinations
Possibilities for "meals on a skewer" are practically unlimited. The juicy morsels are simply fastened or arranged on a spit and allowed to cook until they are just the way family or friends like them best.
Among the many variations are meatball kabobs, alternated with sliced, cooked carrots and tiny cooked potatoes.

Meatball Kabobs
1 pounds ground beef
1/2 cup oatmeal
2 eggs, beaten
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup tomato juice
1/2 medium, cooked carrots (cut in one-inch pieces)
18 tiny cooked potatoes.
Combine all ingredients for meatballs. Shape into 36, approximately one inch in diameter. Place in shallow baking pan; pour melted shortening or bacon drippings over meatballs to a depth of 1/4 inch in the pan. Bake 15 to 20 minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) Pour off fat and save for later use. Let meatballs cool.
When meatballs are cool, string 2 meatballs, 2 pieces of cooked carrot and a cooked potato on each metal skewer, alternating the three. Brush with melted shortening on all sides. Bake in a moderate oven in a flat baking pan (350 degrees F.) 15 to 20 minutes, turning once during baking, or broil on each side 5 minutes, or until brown. The recipe makes 18 kabobs.
Among the many possible combinations for skewered dishes is one that is popular with young and old alike. Simple to make, it requires only a quarter of a pound of bacon, half a dozen slices of toast, and 30 large oysters.

Oysters on Brochettes
Cut bacon strips into pieces 1 inch or 1 1/2 inches square. String oysters and bacon squares alternately on 6 steel skewers, being careful to run skewers through hard part of oysters. Place skewers across a narrow, deep baking pan so that the oysters will hang down but not touch the bottom of the pan, leaving space between skewers so that the heat will pass evenly around them. Cook in a very hot oven (450 degrees to 475 degrees F.) for 5 minutes, or long enough to crisp the bacon. Place skewer on each slice of toast. Dress with pan juice and serve immediately.
The cook and her budget, both, will enjoy using a wide variety of lamb recipes, known by many exotic names, on her skewer stick. One, which comes from a farm magazine, makes use of an easily-prepared, hot barbecue sauce.
Barbecued Lamb
First cut 1 1/2 pounds lamb shoulder into 1 1/2-inch cubes. In a saucepan, combine 1/2 cup catsup, 1/4 cup water, 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons steak sauce, 2 tablespoons cider vinegar, and 1 teaspoon salt. Heat the sauce thoroughly.
Next, take the meat cubes and slip 6 onto each of 6 skewers. Lay the skewers in a 10 by 16-inch pan. Pour hot sauce over the meat. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 45 minutes. Baste occasionally with the sauce.

Add lots of seasoning, and the outdoor chef has Shashlik, another skewered lamb dish, or tomatoes for Schaschlyk or Caucasian skewered lamb. Both are relatively simple but exotic meals on a skewer.
With such a menu, the hostess will want to serve potato salad for a traditional favorite. For dessert, fruit is ideal, since it can be tucked away here and there with other things in the picnic basket.
Shashlik
3 pounds boned lamb (leg or shank)
6 peppercorns, minced
2 onions, sliced
1 cup olive oil
1 tablespoon dill
2 teaspoons salt
1 tablespoon wine vinegar
1 button garlic, minced
12 slices bacon
2 center slices cured ham, 1/4 inch thick.
Dice lamb into 1 1/2 inch cubes. Place in earthen bowl. Add peppercorns; cover with layer of onions. Cover with olive oil. Add dill, salt, vinegar and garlic. Let marinate for at least one hour, but not longer than 3 hours.
Lamb cubes on long skewers alternately with squares of bacon and ham. Each skewer should hold one serving. Shashlik are best grilled over charcoal, but good results can be obtained under a very hot broiler flame. The recipe is good for 8 servings.

It Takes Money To Get A Fifth Column

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press Foreign News Analyst

What accounts for the startling success of the Stalin fifth column? How are its recruits, often highly intelligent and educated persons, persuaded to join an underground conspiracy against their own countries?

It is a long, careful process. The recruitment of the fifth column often requires money, and Moscow is willing to spend it without stint for the purpose, but money is secondary. Few of the cases of convicted Communist spies involved the payment of any large amount of money.

One of the most important methods of recruiting is the Communist cell.

Communists scout carefully for their prospects — persons whose environments, backgrounds, way of thinking, prejudices, misconceptions or ideals indicate the possibility of persuasion.

Those persons are not invited into the Communist party itself. They are often not reliable enough. Moreover they are more valuable outside the party. These persons instead become subjects for what the Communists call "development."

Prospects are lured by one means or another into "study groups" or "discussion groups," which in reality are operated by cells of the Communist party.

The recruiting agents concentrate their attention on such persons as scientific workers, teachers, students and persons engaged in intellectual pursuits — in particular likely prospects who either work for the government or have a chance of doing so. Wherever ever possible, these persons are caught young.

Persons with grievances against the world — those who consider themselves or their race or their creed to be persecuted — are singled out for special attention and often become easy victims. Disillusionment hits these people hard when it comes.

"I considered myself a second-class Canadian, not a first-class Canadian," testified one agent in the Canadian case. "That is not a laughing matter, Mr. Commissioner. It is serious."

That played a large part in this agent's motivation. But there are other motives. The files of prospects in Moscow contain careful entries on personal habits, ambitions, attitudes to families, characteristics of private life and even inclination to drink hard liquor. A man who is financially insecure may be persuaded to take money. If he does, he quickly becomes "hash," the Russian word for "ours."

Gradually the results are imbued with a sense of a secret mission, a sense of conspiracy which sets them apart from their fellows. The cell carefully develops the secrecy habit. Gradually it works to make the prospect doubt the need of honesty and loyalty to his own community. Ultimately, the prospect comes to believe that anybody expressing such sentiments is guilty of "petty bourgeois morality" or some other jargonistic Communist sin, pronounced with a superior sneer.

The "study groups" are induced to study political and philosophical work slightly critical of Western democracy — not necessarily, as yet, Marx, Engels, Lenin and Stalin. These works come at a later stage. First the sense of oneness with the Soviet Union must be inculcated. The "student" must be imbued with the idea that in working for Moscow he is working for humanity.

The Communist party makes prime targets of organizations which can be helpful to it. The object is to seize control of such organizations as those devoted to civil liberties, to trade union work, to youth, to women's interests, to peace and a variety of other things. Once in control, the party can use the organization as a recruitment and operations base, unknown to the bulk of the membership.

No Malt Is Put In Malted Milks

NEW YORK (AP)—Two Brooklyn brothers who operate a luncheonette, were held for Special Sessions Court when they failed to explain satisfactorily why they sold maltless "malted milk" through drink dispensers.

The arrest was made by a Department of Markets inspector who said she purchased a "malted" without malt and they found there was no malt in the luncheonette.

The magistrate urged a city-wide drive against inadequately served automatic drink dispensers which, he said, do harm to children by depriving them of nourishment.

When Turn About Is Not Fair Play
ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP)—One of the Russian propagandists here approached the American general secretary of the local YMCA.
"We would like to put some of our literature and publications in the YMCA," the Russian suggested.
"Do you permit the YMCA to operate in Russia?" the YMCA general secretary asked.
The Russian's silence ended the matter.
Man's Teeth Stolen Along With His Car
SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—A man told police recently his car had been stolen and he pleaded for a quick recovery. He said he could get along without the car for a few days but he had to have his false teeth. They were in the glove compartment.
