"Been Expecting You-Welcome!"

That's the new and official slogan for McLean. Members of the publicity committee of the McLean Junior Chamber of Commerce selected the slogan Tuesday afternoon in final judging for the contest.

Submitting the winning slogan was Mrs. R. N. Ashby, pioneer resident of this area. Mrs. Ashby had entered a number of slogans, and two of hers were in the final running. She will be awarded a cash prize of $10 for her efforts.

The official slogan will be used on the two large signboards to be erected by the Jaycees at either end of town. Jaycees also hope that other uses will be made of the slogan by local residents. Other slogans which made the run-off in the contest included

"Hi, Neighbor, Light-n-Hitch," also submitted by Mrs. Ashby.

"Not Bigger But Better," submitted by Mrs. W. M. Rhodes. "You'll Yearn to Return," entered by Norma Watson.

"Our City Your Town," entered by Don Taylor.

A total of 99 entries were received by the judges.

WHERE DO WE GO FROM HERE?

IT IS NOT OUR INTENTION to worry anybody unduly, but the question which is sticking to our minds in recent months is simply, "where do we go from here?

By that, we mean to ask, "how far can our credit be stretched," and "how much more can we stand in the way of taxes, increasing prices, etc.," and "what can we do to stop the avalanche of higher living we can't afford?"

Frankly, we do not know the answers. The latest thing to disturb us is the new income tax increase. Of course, the income was just one of the things which suffered an increase in tax. Tobacco items took another Jump, as did other so-called luxury items. Our 18th district representative in the House, Walter Rogers, was the lone Texan to stand out against the latest tax increase. We admire him for his stand.

Rogers was opposed to the new tax law because he feels that more than that amount can be saved on those many, many measures of spending money which this last session of Congress passed. Rogers states that the defense bill alone can be trimmed-without hurting our defense one bit-more than enough to offset the new tax increase.

Now we don't know just where the trimming should be done. We have followed the ways of this democratic nation, and elected our representatives to do the trimming for much. When the time comes for us. We realize that one man, or a dozen, or even more, us to leave it, we will miss it cannot do the job alone. It will take a majority of those people representing us in Washington to do the necessary trimming.

All of us have heard of that "point of no return" which a pilot reaches when he is spanning the ocean. He comes Chris, the little daughter. Not to the point where he does not have sufficient fuel to en- that Chris is really big, for she's able him to turn back. He must continue on his way. We have mentioned the point of no return before in these columns, explaining that once we get past a certain point in the percentage of our incomes going for taxes, there can be no turning back. Dictatorship is the inevitable result. child changes the life of any

No, frankly, we don't know where to go from here. But family. There aren't many picwe do know that we had better be turning back quickly, cutting down on some of these useless federal and state expenditures, or it will be too late.

As one writer recently put it, we will reach the point where we will have to give the country back to the Indians. The Indians won't want it, and they have no one to give it back to. There again the question will come up-"where do we go from here?'

Exactly five years ago today, November 1, 1946, the management of this weekly newspaper changed hands, and I became the editor of the paper. It has been an interesting five years, interesting in that I have earned more about people in the past five years than I had in all the other 30 of my life.

Before moving here, I had a task would be difficult, and five years holds for me and my never been the manager of a bus- would require explanations. Some family. Perhaps five years from ness. I had never been my own boss, so to speak. Always I had than once, some buildings now listen, that is. worked for somebody else.

sincerely tried my best to do Many others have made improve the work I was supposed to do, ments. and ordinarily (except, perhaps for part of the time spent in the navy) I tried to do at least a little more than was expected of me.

But I had never been the boss. I had never had the worry and responsibility that goes along with being the boss, and I had never had to "meet the payroll" each week.

And, brother, that being the boss means a great change in one's life.

And it also means you find out that people have another side to their personalities. At least most of them do, anyway.

I do not refer just to those people with whom I deal in a business manner, but also to those who are among the readers of

We've got some of the best people here I ever had the pleasure of knowing, or ever expect to know. We have some of the kindest, most understanding, most considerate people I ever hope to

And then we've got some of the biggest heels, too

The past five years have revealed much to me. I wouldn't take the world and all that's in it for the experience I have had. But I wouldn't care to live the five years over again.

Lots of things have happened to me during this five years.

My wife and I bought a house for one thing; that is, we bought an equity in one. It's just a small house, nothing very fancy, but we have come to like it very so much. You see, it is the first home we have ever owned. The biggest thing which has come into our lives is, of course still such a tiny little girl. But to us, she's the biggest and most important thing of all.

Chris, naturally, caused a change in our lives, just as any ture shows in our life nowadays although we are attempting to get her used to sitting still through a movie. But that's a job. Next to Chris, the most important assets we have gained in McLean are friends. We bonestly feel that we have a large number of friends here, although there are times when I'm sure gone against the grain of certain people. I do not intentionally make anyone angry with me, but sometimes, if I am to advocate what I think best for the community, some people who disagree with me take the issue as a personal one. But try if you can, to

The housewife had hired a handyman on an hourly basis to paint the upstairs. After an initial period of some banging around, all was quiet in the upper regions of the house. Concerned that her painter was loafing on the job the housewife called up the stairs:

"Are you painting now?" "Yes'm," came the reply. "I was wondering, because I hadn't heard any noise," she called back. "Sorry, lady," he retorted irritatedly, "but I ain't putting it on with a hammer."

Seems like every time history repeats itself the price has gone up.

Railroad workers are represented by 23 standard unions. By mutual agreement, 20 of these unions—comprising about 1,200,000 men, or more than 90%-are working under wages and rules agreed to by them and the railroads. But leaders of three unions—with only about 130,000 men, or less than 10%—still refuse, after more than a year of negotiations, to accept similar wage and rules agreements. These are even more favorable than the terms recommended by the Emergency Board appointed by the President.

Yes, it certainly seems to be finally about time that the leaders of the three unions stop their delaying tactics—their quibbling. But the leaders of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and the Order of Railway Conductors continue to refuse. They continue a course of dillying and dallying. It is definitely time to

On June 15, 1950, an Emergency Board appointed by the President under the terms of the Railway Labor Act—an Act largely fathered by the unions themselves -made its recommendations on certain wage and working conditions ("rules" in railroad language) which had been in dispute between employes and the railroads,

More Than 90% of Employes Accept Since then, terms equal to or better than the Board recommendations have been accepted by about 1,200,000 railroad employes-more than 90% of the total of all workers. They are represented by 20 of the 23 standard railroad unions.

Less Than 10% Refuse

But three unions-with about 130,000 men, or less than 10% of the total-have refused to accept, even after months of negotiations. These three unions are the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and the Order of Railway Conductors. These are three of the so-called "operating" unions. Already the highest paid men in the industry, their leaders demand still further advantages over other workers. In all, there are about 270,000 operating employes. But not all of them, by any means, are represented by BLE, BLF&E. or ORC. As a matter of fact, less than half-132,000 to be exact-are in these three unions. More than half-about 140,000—are in other unions, principally the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. What makes the whole situation so hard to understand is that these 140,000 operating employes are working under wages and rules which the leaders of the other 130,000 say they cannot agree to. What Do the Railroads Offer?

They offer these three unions the same settlement which was contained in a Memorandum of Agreement signed at the White House on December 21, 1950, by four brotherhoods and the railroads. Later these brotherhoods sought to repudiate this agreement. But on May 25, 1951, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen signed a complete agreement carrying out the principles of the Memorandum Agreement of December 21. They have been working under this agreement since May 25.

What About Wages?

Under the terms of the agreement, yard engineers, firemen and conductors would now be receiving a wage increase of $.34 an hour ($2.72 a day) and road engineers, firemen and conductors would now be receiving an increase of 191/2 cents an hour ($1.56 per day). Large sums of retroactive pay have already accrued and if the agreement is carried out, will be paid promptly.

What About "Cost of Living" Increases? The White House Agreement includes an escalator" clause under which wages will be geared to changes in the Government's cost-of-living index. Two such increases —April and July, 1951—have already been paid to the 90% of railroad employes covered by signed agreements.

What About the 40-Hour Week?

The White House Agreement calls for the establishment of the 40-hour week in principle, for employes in yard service. The employes can have it any time after Jan-uary 1, 1952, provided the manpower situation is such that the railroads can get enough men to perform the work with reasonable regularity at straight time rates. If the parties do not agree on the question of availability of manpower, the White House Agreement provides arbitration by a referee appointed by the President.

What Else Do the Union Leaders Demand?

The continued quibbling of the leaders of the three unions has to do principally with rules changes, which have already been agreed to by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. Of these, the principal one seems to be that having to do with socalled "interdivisional service"-runs which take in two or more seniority districts.

The union leaders would bar progress and efficiency in the industry, and better service to the public, by maintaining situation where they can arbitrarily stop a railroad from establishing such interdivisional runs. The carriers propose that if a railroad wishes to set up an inter-divisional run, the railroad and the unions should try to agree on such run and the conditions which should surround its establishment, and if the railroad and the unions can't agree, the matter will be submitted to arbitration.

But the three union leaders still refuse.

Rules Can Be Arbitrated The railroads have not only offered these three unions the same rules agreed to by the BRT and covered by the White House Agreement, but have even agreed to submit such rules to arbitration.

The Industry Pattern Is Fixed

With the pattern so firmly established in the railroad industry, it seems fair to suggest that the leaders of BLE, BLF&E, and ORC stop their quibbling and take action to make the railroad labor picture 100% complete. Certainly today's eco-nomic and international situation calls for a united front. And certainly no good rea-son has been advanced why these three unions should be preferred over all other railroad employes.

We are publishing this and other advertisements to talk to you at first hand about matters which are important to everybody.

Children's Deaths From Burns Could Have Been Avoided By Prompt First Aid

Fire burns are responsible for more deaths among children between the ages of one and four and five and 14 than any other cause, according to the National Safety Council. Some of these fatalities might have been averted if simple, but immediate first aid treatment, such as a covering of petroleum jelly, had been given.

had been given.

The American Red Cross states that a burn is regarded as an open wound and must be treated as such to prevent infection. A covering of the burned area acts as a protective barrier against germs in the air and also gives relief from pain.

In America, almost every kind of covering has been tried, from a coat of varnish to the U. S. Office of Civilian Defense's recommended petrolatum, the best-known brand of which is Vaseline. This is soothing, doesn't irritate the skin, and keeps bandages from sticking ... all importages from sticking . . . all important factors in the treatment of Even small burns need attention. A generally-accepted "rule-of-three" is suggested in first aid treatment of burns:

1. Cover fine mesh gauze with petroleum jelly and place directly on the burn. A new sterile petro-latum gauze dressing which comes already prepared may also be used.

10-year-old Peggy Baird gives immediate first-aid to her

2. Bandage firmly, but not so tightly as to affect circulation. 3. Call a physician immediately if the burn is deep or covers a wide area. Such immediate care not only eases discomfort and pro-tects the burn from outside infection, but it also may prevent unsightly scarring.
