WARNING

DO NOT ATTEND THE REVIVAL MEETING OF THE FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Beginning Friday Night, April 1

7:30 p. m. through Sunday night, April 20. Please heed this warning unless you want to hear the best of Gospel singing and special music, both instrumental and vocal. Also if you don't want to hear the Gospel message in truth and simplicity do not attend the meeting and hear Bro. Ralph Reasor of Tabernacle Baptist Church of Ennis, Texas. By all means stay away from the First Baptist Church during morning services April 14-18 beginning at 10:00 a. m.

The church has made plans to have the nursery open for all services with the best of facilities and workers. They have done this along with establishing a recreation center for the best of Christian recreation and a number of other things in opposition to my program.

TIME TO HELP FIGHT CANCER

Cancer can strike anyone at any age at any time. Over the years, according to present rates, cancer will strike one out of every four Americans, two out of every three families.

Our real hope for the control of this menace is cancer research—research that is nation-wide in scope and that stimulates all areas of medical science. Such research, aimed at providing a fundamental understanding of cancer, will in time yield the knowledge required for effective control of the disease. The effectiveness of such basic research programs has been demonstrated many times in industry, where it has supplied the answers to problems in the physical sciences.

The American Cancer Society national cancer research program has already produced results—800,000 Americans now living have been saved from cancer. This is a measure of the past effectiveness of the program. The steady progress of the past decade holds real hope for an even deeper penetration of the cancer mystery.

Your belief in and support of the American Cancer Society will make possible a continued strong and aggressive attack on this deadly disease.

PROGRESS IS PERSONAL

In the town of DeSoto, Mo., last February 27, another Planned Progress year was started. The program is sponsored by an electric utility company and it is important as an example of the mutual goals and active leadership and support given to the areas which they serve by privately-owned taxpaying utilities in every part of the country.

In this case, the purpose of the program is to aid citizens in working together to improve their community. Suggestions for community action are made by high school students who survey the situation and make special reports on what they consider to be the most needed improvements. Results are achieved by raising funds and donating time and effort toward the completion of projects chosen by an adult counsel. At the end of the year communities competing in the program send in a report of their accomplishments to the electric company for judging. There are substantial rewards for the community whose citizens do most to improve their towns.

Progress is a personal matter to a private electric company. It wants to grow and do more business and it knows it can do this only if the area which it serves grows and prospers.

INCENTIVE IS THE KEY

The production of natural gas is in no sense a public-utility type operation. There are no protected markets or exclusive franchises. There is nothing resembling a guaranteed profit or return. Indeed, searching for oil is one of the most hazardous of all enterprises. It is also one of the most intensely competitive—the Federal Power Commission estimates that there are more than 5,000 separate producers.

Yet, as a result of a Supreme Court decision handed down in 1954, the FPC is required to regulate the price of natural gas at the wellhead, if that gas goes into interstate commerce.

The result of this is obvious—it imperils the future supply of gas to non-producing states, and thus goes straight against the interest of all gas users, existing and potential. It is widely recognized that remedial action is needed. The President, for instance, has called for legislation insuring gas consumer protection, incentives for supply development, fair and competitive producer prices, end of utility-type controls, and encouragement of sales to interstate markets.

These objectives are all covered in proposed legislation which would allow the damaging utility-type controls. At the same time, it would give the FPC very broad powers to see that the price charged by a producer do not exceed the reasonable market price. Thus, the consumer is protected.

This country wants and needs an expanding natural gas industry. That means the producers must have the incentive to do the big and costly job that lies ahead.

History is full of examples of evils of softness, in nature, in nations and in men. That is one thing history repeats—and needs to.—Sherman County Journal, More, Ore.

"But now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first-fruits of them that slept . . . For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive." 1 Corinthians 15:20, 22.

City Election Held

The election held Tuesday resulted in the election of M. L. Moody as mayor; J. L. Sullivan as city marshal; W. T. Wilson, T. J. Coffey, D. N. Massay, D. B. Veitch and Clay E. Thompson as aldermen.

All the old aldermen were re-elected, and satisfaction has been expressed in some quarters, as a program has been arranged for improvements, and new men might work to a disadvantage in carrying out the proposed plans.

Eclipse of the Sun

People of McLean will see on June 8 an almost total eclipse of the sun, which will begin at about 3:30 in the afternoon. On a line 245 miles north of here will be the place of a total eclipse, where it will be almost as dark as night, gradually growing lighter as the eclipse passes.

Public Well Being Drilled

Work was begun Tuesday on the new public well, and it will be finished in as short time as possible. This well is being drilled on a lot purchased by the city northeast of the Denson Motor Co. garage.

A public well is an improvement that has been needed for some time, and we are glad to see the work go on.

Notes from a trip:
 In Arkadelphia, Ark., the Yellow Cabs are gray.
 For miles before reaching Benton, the highway has signs proclaiming that the traveler can obtain beaded moccasins, squaw boots and hand-painted skirts at Keatley's. Also Southern-cured hams and 20 varieties of home-made candies, including black walnut roll and caramel-dipped pecans. In fact, 10,000 items.
 In North Little Rock, this sign is in front of a pawn shop: "Need dough? See Frank o' Moe."

And in Memphis:
 A roaming shine-boy chants, "Shoe-shine a dime; a brush, a penny."

And the proprietor of a one-chair shine parlor in the entrance way of a vacant building: "Yes, sir, shin 'em so they'll look like brand new from Julius Lewis." In reply to a question, "Who is Julius Lewis?" "It's so fine that a pair of carpet-slippers costs $20." Memphis visitors once more have the opportunity to ride on an excursion steamer. The boat isn't nearly as large as "The Princess" was but it is trim and neat-looking.
 A steamboat glides along, pushing three large barges and kicking up waves.
 From the railroad bridge, a curving ripply in the river can be seen; to the eye of a pilot, it tells a story—perhaps a sand-bar.
 A station-wagon parked on Madison near Main is identified by lettering as belonging to an armored car company and also there is the information that "this car contains no money or other valuables."
 And I viewed a shrine—the home of Elvis Presley. It is a new brick mansion, two stories, back from the highway. There is a high fence; also a big iron gate which is open but a guard prevents entry. Elvis' figure is shown in wrought iron on the gate.
 Ten cars were parked in front of the estate and the occupants waited, on the chance that their idol might appear.
 Down the walkway came a young man with sideburns but it was soon apparent that he was too bulky—perhaps one of the musicians. By the time we drove on, after several minutes, four more cars had stopped.

Kolb of Alanreed, died Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Kolb's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Floyd, after having been ill for a few days.

Burial was in the McLean cemetery Thursday afternoon, Rev. J. F. Reagan of the Baptist church officiating.

Patriotic Prayer Meetings

The various churches of the town have been coming together this week and holding a series of prayer meetings for the success of our armies and those of our allies in the great war.

Sunday night they met at the Methodist church, Monday night with the Baptists, Wednesday night with the Presbyterians, and Thursday night with the Nazarenes.

School Commencement

The calendar for the high school commencement has been announced, and is as follows:
 Commencement sermon Sunday, April 14. The place and preacher have not been definitely determined.
 Graduation exercises at the school auditorium Thursday evening, April 18.

Senior play at the Pastime Theatre Friday evening, April 19.

This will be a patriotic play entitled "Claim Allowed."

Leaves for Camp Travis

Walter Evans left Friday night of last week for Camp Travis, where he enters military training. He was the only man from this county who left at that time, which is in accord with the policy recently adopted of calling only a few men into service at a time and drafting often.

A number of his friends arranged a farewell dinner in his honor at the O'Dell Friday evening. This proved to be quite an enjoyable affair, and will always be pleasantly remembered by the man who goes to fight for his country, for he now knows that the people of McLean appreciate the sacrifice he is making and will stand back of him in every way possible.

Spring Seminar Set In Berger for Jehovah's Witnesses

The spring seminar of Jehovah's witnesses' Texas Circuit No. 9 will be held April 18-20 in the Central Elementary School at Berger. Assembly department heads met in Sayre, Okla., March 17 with Randall V. Davis, the circuit supervisor, at which time preparations were initiated to accommodate an expected 700 delegates from the 19 congregations of the Texas Panhandle and Oklahoma.

In the preliminary meeting at Sayre it was indicated that this will be the most important assembly of Texas Circuit No. 9 to date. Such a conclusion results from the contemplated assembly program and objectives.

The program, built around the theme, "Fulfilling Our Ministry," aspires to a more effective Christian educational effort in the circuit and will aid the witnesses to form a closer bond of understanding and friendship with those to whom they minister. The witnesses stress the need of continuous education and ministry improvement to keep them abreast of the times and enable them to bolster the spiritual foundations of an age in which many feel insecure.

Civil Service Needs More Workers

Stenographers and typists are still needed in various federal agencies in the Washington, D. C., area, the U. S. Civil Service Commission has announced. The starting salary for most stenographer positions is $66 a week, and for most typists $61 a week. To qualify for these positions, applicants must pass a general clerical test to determine their ability to do office work, and a typing test which consists of typing an exercise from plain copy. Stenographers must also pass a stenography test consisting of dictation at the rate of 80 words a minute and questions to be answered from their notes. No experience is required. Applicants may apply and take the test if they have reached their 17th birthday.

The written test is held at frequent intervals in cities throughout the United States. Although applications will be accepted until further notice, persons wishing to be considered for these positions should file application immediately with the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington

The home building industry is likely to be a highly important factor in leading the nation out of the present business slump. There is a widespread expectation that this industry, which has experienced two successive years of decline since hitting an all-time peak in 1955, will revive this year.

What is the basis for this expectation?

Action is being taken to make credit more freely available in the housing field. The new housing bill is designed to stimulate the building of 200,000 additional new houses this year.

Number of new housing starts already is increasing—in Texas and in the country as a whole. Residential building permits in Texas are above the level for the same time last year.

Why is a healthy home-building industry so essential to a healthy economy in general?

Home building ranks second in importance perhaps only to food and food processing among America's major industries. In recent years the value of new houses constructed annually has been running close to $16 billion. When land and other non-construction factors are considered, the value of the industry's annual product probably is close to $20 billion a year.

The industry has directly been providing about 2.5 million jobs a year.

Does it also provide many jobs indirectly?

Yes. Around 3,000 items go into every new home. Residential building uses one-third of the United States' total output of all brick produced, four-fifths of all gypsum. The sale of a new home generates the sale of about $1,500 worth of furnishings and equipment in the first year of occupancy.

Building new homes also creates demand for other types of construction—utility expansions, schools, stores, churches.

Effects of an expanding home-building program will spread out widely among our people. The construction of an additional 200,000 new houses, made possible by the housing bill, will stimulate industries turning out everything from steel to shingles—from bathtubs to electric switches.

A real pickup in housing has become crucial, in my opinion, to a revival in business. That is why I felt it essential to give such a high priority in Congress to the passage of the housing bill.

That legislation is of immediate importance to all of us.

Senator Yarborough's WASHINGTON REPORT:

Job layoffs during the current recession pose a special problem for workers over 40 years of age. It is doubly hard for older workers to find new jobs because many firms don't hire men and women who are 40 or over.

This is a tragic mistake, for studies have repeatedly shown that many older workers are just as productive as younger men and women. In addition, older workers on the average don't miss work as often as other workers, and older workers have fewer accidents because they are more careful. They are more careful because they know the value of a job.

Of course, the best reason for hiring older workers is that generally speaking they have greater experience and skill.

But despite the merits in hiring older workers, a tendency to discard workers over 40, or to refuse to hire men and women past this age, has spread to many fields of industry.

As a means of helping to correct this problem, I have co-sponsored a bill with Senator Neuberger of Oregon. This bill provides that firms producing goods for the U. S. government cannot discriminate against workers because of their age.

If this bill becomes law, it will mean that firms supplying material to the government can no longer blacklist older workers because of age, where such employment is safe. The Department of Labor has safety standards, and if the work is declared hazardous for people over 40, my bill doesn't apply. We seek safe jobs for people over 40.

SUCH IS LIFE
The hostess at a large party, rather proud of her voice, rendered "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia" in a rich and throaty voice. She was touched to notice a distinguished white-haired man bow his head and weep quietly as the last notes floated over the room.

As soon as she could, she went over to him and said: "Pardon me, but are you a Virginian?"

"No, Madam," said the elderly man, brushing away a tear. "I am a musician."
