

EVANGELISTS Grady Bohannon, left, and Kenneth Bateman, right, will conduct the revival meeting at the Church of the Nazarene April 9 through April 13. Rev. E. F. Robinson, pastor, has announced. Miss Eva Mae Cope will serve as the evangelistic singer to complete the trio of special workers in the pre-Easter revival. Rev. Robinson said an invitation is extended to all to attend the services.

PROCLAMATION

The welfare of all of us depends in large measure on a concerted effort on the part of the people and their leaders alike, and the prosperity and welfare of everyone depend on personal health. The threat of cancer still looms as the most dangerous among modern ills, it continues to take more than 8,000 Texas lives every year and poses the greatest threat to the personal health of our citizens. Through the combined efforts of our physicians, scientists, and lay leaders, much has been accomplished in the fight against cancer, but there is still much to be done: cancer still continues to strike one in five. However, there is something that each of us can do now to strike back at the threat of cancer. We can learn the warning signs that may indicate cancer's presence, we can see that every member of the family has a physical examination every year and we can contribute to the Cancer Crusade to further the fight against this disease. Therefore, I, E. J. Lander, mayor of McLean, Texas, do hereby proclaim April as Cancer Control Month and call on all citizens to join in the Cancer Crusade of the American Cancer Society.

Signed,
E. J. Lander.

Entertainment for Mr. Hess
One of the most enjoyable events of the season was the reception given by Mr. and Mrs.
George W. Sitter at their pretty home in the southeast part of the city Thursday evening of last week complimentary to their guest, George Hess of Anna, Ill.

About 25 guests, both young and old, gathered to enjoy the hospitality of these good people, among whom were a large number from the vicinity of the old home of Mr. and Mrs. Sitter in Illinois. A merry good time was had in talking over old times, interspersed with good singing led by Mr. Bundy. Messrs. S. R.
Jones, Roy Rice, and Sam and Jack Hodges, with their different instruments, and Miss Bessie Sitter at the piano, added much to the evening's entertainment.
At the proper time, as one of number remarked, "Everything good to eat" was served. Time for departure came only too soon, and then only with the promise that they could come again in the near future.

Mrs. W. T. Wilson attended the graduation of her niece, Lela
May Wilson, and nephew, Marvin Wilson, at Alarreed Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Freeman of Ramsdell was here the first of the week for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Cash. She was accompanied home by her two small sisters, Maude and Doll, who will spend some time with her.

Miss Ernestine Osborn of Jericho spent Saturday night and Sunday here the guest of Miss Olive Haynes.

Emmett LeFors and wife made a flying trip to Lefors the first of the week.

Miss Olive Haynes returned Friday from Jericho, where she has been conducting the public school. While Miss Olive is young in the profession, she has given entire satisfaction at Jericho this year and gives promise of being a splendid teacher.

Mothers to Meet
The regular monthly meeting of the Mothers Club will occur this (Friday) afternoon and a most interesting program has been arranged. It is desired that every mother attend, and the public is cordially invited.

Following is the program:
scripture reading, Mrs. B. F.
Newton; Lord's Prayer in unison, led by Mrs. F. L. Cooke; roll call, response with a quotation; song,
audience; secretary's report; treasurer's report; paper, "The Influence of the Teacher and Parents Over the Child's Life," Mrs.
W. B. Upham; piano solo, Mrs.
O'Neal; roundtable discussion,
"Shall We Take Up Civic Work?"
led by Mrs. R. P. Brown, and closed by Mrs. J. W. Kibler.

Those visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Abbott over the week-end were Mr. and Mrs.
Frank Stockton and Frances of

Pineapple Pie is Always a Hit

This tempting pie is so easy to make that you can serve it often and it's always a delicious "hit". Just read the recipe and see how simple it is to prepare this luscious filling. The secret is quick-cooking tapioca which keeps that fruit juice clear and bright, yet thickens it to "just-right" consistency. Thanks to quick-cooking tapioca — you'll have no more juice running into the oven, and no more soaked pie crusts, but a crisp flaky crust that's always perfect.

Pineapple Pie
2 tablespoons quick-cooking 2 1/2 cups (No. 2 can) crushed tapioca pineapple and juice
1/2 cup sugar Pastry for two-crust 9-inch pie
1/2 teaspoon salt 1 tablespoon butter

Combine quick-cooking tapioca, sugar, salt, crushed pineapple and juice; let stand about 15 minutes, or while preparing pastry.
Line a 9-inch pie pan with half of the pastry rolled 1/4 inch thick. Roll remaining pastry 1/4 inch thick, fold in half, and cut several 2-inch slits near the fold. Fill pie shell with pineapple mixture and dot with butter. Moisten edge of bottom crust with cold water. Adjust top crust on pie, opening slits with a knife to permit escape of steam. Trim off pastry, allowing it to extend 1/2 inch over rim. Fold edge of top crust under bottom crust and press together, fluting rim with fingers. Bake in hot oven (425° F.) 55 minutes, or until syrup boils with heavy bubbles that do not burst.

tion, he said.
Only a long-range program aimed at getting light and shallow soils back to good range and keeping plant cover or stubble mulch on the surface of lands in cultivation can bring any permanent relief from sand and dust in these areas, Merrill said. The emergency tillage used this season by many farmers already has broken down and is blowing with other now unprotected lands.
Tillage can be relied on only for a short time to retard soil blowing, he added.

Severe Dust Storms Damage Over Million Acres in Texas

Dust storms described by longtime residents as the most severe in their memory have swept 220, 000 more acres into the class of farm and ranch lands undergoing moderate to severe wind erosion damage in Western Texas and Oklahoma, the Soil Conservation Service reports.

The new total in lands which have suffered the loss of one to six inches of topsoil is 1,388,300 acres, according to reports from SCS field offices to Regional Director Louis P. Merrill of Fort Worth.

Most of the newly damaged areas are in Texas which now has a total of 1,181,800 acres in the moderate-to-severe wind damage class. Oklahoma land is reported in the severely category.

Merrill said recent winds have damaged depleted range lands in some areas of western Texas for the first time in several years.

Soil conservation districts report that well-managed grain sorghum stubble has proven very effective in holding soil and point out that the large sorghum acreage obtained through the efforts of districts last year is now preventing much more extensive losses.

Areas in the vicinity of Big Spring, Lamesa, and to the southwest and west of Lubbock again were the hardest hit by the new blowing. Acreages of moderate to severe erosion reported by District Conservationist J. A.
Perrin at Amherst changed from 165,000 acres in mid-February to 270,000 acres. SCS District Conservatoinist W. S. Goodlett at Big Spring did not increase his estimate of acreage in the moderate-to-severe category, but he pointed out that recent winds had added greatly to the acreages which had blown down to plow depth.

Soil drifting across highways in the Big Spring-Lamesa area also is making a serious problem for highway crews.

PECULIAR POLITICS

AS THE OLD SAYING has it, one swallow doesn't make a summer. By the same token, one primary doesn't determine the fate of the aspirants for the Presidency. But the results in New Hampshire threw the whole political situation into an upheaval, and made it certain that from now on until the bitter end the campaigns will be grueling, no-holds-barred affairs.

General Eisenhower's sweep of the state's 14-vote delegation gave his cause a shot in the arm that it sorely needed. It was much more conclusive than his supporters had dared to hope for—indeed, shortly before the preferential primary some seasoned political observers thought it possible that Taft would beat him or that, at best, his margin of victory would be very small. The Eisenhower campaign is still none too well organized—too many political amateurs have been trying to get into the act, and there has been no effective, centralized direction. The professionals on his side, such as the able Senator Lodge, will now try to move mountains to remedy that. It is one of the political facts of life that no amount of popular support is a satisfactory substitute for a first-class organization. After all, you have to get the nomination before you can be elected.

That the New Hampshire outcome was a serious setback for Senator Taft goes without saying. He had intimated that he expected to win about 4 of the state's 14 votes. His campaign leaders had hoped for several more. Yet he got none. This is a powerful stimulant to those in the Eisenhower camp and elsewhere who argue that Taft is a fine vote-getter in Ohio, but nowhere else. The Taft adherents reply that New Hampshire was Eisenhower ground all along, that Taft did not have the time to effectively stump the rural areas, where Eisenhower ran the strongest, and that it was not a true sample of sentiment on the national level.

Which of these divergent views is correct will be decided to some extent in New Jersey on April 15: There the voters of a big, highly-industrialized state will register their opinion of the merits of Taft and Eisenhower. The result will be of the highest political importance.

In some respects, Senator Kefauver's upset win over President Truman in New Hampshire was the most stunning thing that has happened yet in the political area. Kefauver is a very junior senator and until he headed the crime investigation he was virtually unknown outside of the South. To many seasoned politicians, he is something of an upstart. The established Democratic machine in New Hampshire went straight down the line for Mr. Truman and it is almost a law of politics that, in a primary, the machine is unbeatable. Yet Kefauver won handily. The senator said that he does not regard this as an evidence of anti-Truman sentiment, but as evidence of the voters' desire for new faces. Others are not so charitable—they think Kefauver won because of widespread revulsion against corruption and graft in the government.

In any event, the dog-fights are on. It is no longer certain that Mr. Truman can control the Democratic convention. And Senator Taft's chances of winning the Republican nod on an early ballot, which were strong a short time ago, have shrunk tremendously.

What's it worth?

Our dollar keeps buying less and less of everything we use... wire, cable, poles, trucks, switchboards and a thousand other items. Yet in spite of rising prices, we must buy more and more of all these items as we expand our equipment and facilities to meet the ever-growing demand for telephone service, both civilian and military.

Even so, we've been able to provide more and better telephone service that continues to increase in value.

Telephone service could cost more than it does and still, in comparison with other things you buy, be a big, big bargain.

LES TALK

By LESTER

This week-end, on Friday and Saturday, the annual convention of the Panhandle Press Association will be held in Amarillo. Barring unforeseen troubles, I will be at the convention on both days. I realize that the town will have great troubles making it through two days in a row without me, but perhaps it will live. Seriously, however, I will enjoy this convention more than the past two Panhandle Press meetings I attended, for on those two years I was serving as secretary of the association—a job I do not care to have again in the future. This year, I can sit back and watch Harold Hudson of Perryton, the present secretary, worry whether everything is going to come off as scheduled.

Incidentally, last year, everything didn't. I recall that one speaker never did appear. I saw him the morning before he was to speak in the afternoon, but he literally disappeared when it came time for his talk. However, I saw him the following day, and he seemed to be alive all right. What happened to him that afternoon, I never did find out.

Since I am going to be out of town tomorrow and Saturday, I think I will be safe in running this picture. The lady, as most of you know, is Mrs. Lester (Kathleen) Dysart. She is our next door neighbor, and she and her husband are close friends of me and my wife. Kathleen is an excellent neighbor to have—one whom you don't mind borrowing coffee or flour or sugar from when you didn't have it on your grocery list. She is an excellent neighbor in a more important way, too, for she is very willing to help out when there is sickness, or anything of that nature. Kathleen is a member of the Methodist church, of the Home Demonstration Club, and is very helpful to her husband Lester in his work this year as Boss Lion. As a matter of fact, everyone who knows Kathleen thinks well of her, and in our neighborhood she is most liked. Of course, she does have her drawbacks, such as being a dyed-in-the-wool Okie and a Republican in Democratic Texas. However, can't say that she will find too many people around here who are Demo-

Anyway, I felt that this week would be an excellent time to run her picture, for, ordinarily, Lester Dysart forgets to take the paper home to her on Thursday.

Now this bird here is Floyd (Cotton) Guthrie. Floyd is now employed with C. E. Cooke at the Coke Chevrolet company. He is a most likeable guy, this Cotton Guthrie. I met him only shortly after he came to McLean from Clarendon, where he made his home for a number of years. I liked him then, and have liked him every since. Can't say that we've ever had any serious differences of opinion. Naturally, in the work of the American Legion, where I see him more often than any other place, we don't always agree, but it seems like he is usually on the right side of the arguments in the long run. As far as the Legion is concerned, there aren't any better members of the organization than Floyd Guthrie. He takes an interest in most every project of the Legion, and is anxious to help out in any way he can. Take this rodeo deal for example—Floyd is chairman of the booster trip committee, and already is trying to encourage people to go along on the trips to publicize the rodeo and the pioneer day. In the Jaycee organization, Floyd is just as active, working in any way he can. You don't find too many young men like him. He isn't in business for himself, but works for C. E. Cooke; yet he finds the time to help out in this civic work. Floyd Guthrie is a pretty good Joe.

Kinda had a notion that the city intended to put a rest room, and drinking fountains at the City Park. Kinda thought the city intended to get this done in plenty of time for the park picnic season. Kinda got that idea when a committee from the Jaycees appeared at a meeting of the council and make such a request.

The McLean News—McLEAN, TEXAS, THURSDAY, APRIL 3, 1952

Kinda thought the council really was in favor of the project.

But I guess I was kinda wrong. Actually, I'm not too observant, but I only pass that park five or ten times a day, and I haven't noticed any start being made on either water fountains or rest room.

Kinda guess I was wrong. Kinda sorry, though. A rest room, and drinking fountains would be so nice in the park, would be such an improvement.

Maybe the city is too busy getting the paint work done on the City Hall. And by George, it was about time for that, too. The old awning, incidentally, was in terrible shape—and the paint on the outside woodwork was just about not there. Congratulations on that much, anyway, whether we get the rest room and drinking fountains or not.

The meanest man in town had just died. All of his life he had been a pinch-penny, a kill joy with never a smile for anyone. Returning from the funeral, the pallbearers were gathered in the barber shop. One of them allowed as how "It just ain't right not to have at least something good to say about the deceased." After a considerable period of silence the barber spoke up, "Well, I can say this . . . he was not a hard man to shave."

April 30 is a date to remember if you regularly employ help in your home. John R. Sanderson, manager of the Amarillo Social Security office, reminds housewives this week. Social security tax returns must be filed by that date with the collector of internal revenue, covering wages paid regular household workers in January, February, and March.

A "regular" household worker, Sanderson defined as one who works full or part time on 24 different days during the calendar quarter and is paid at least $50 in cash wages. Any work about a household—maid, laundress, gardener, baby sitter, etc.—is included under the law.

Any housewife who has a qualified worker for the first time this quarter will need to get in touch with the Amarillo Social Security office some time in advance of the April 30 deadline. The booklet "Do You Have a Maid?" should be requested. This booklet contains a blank which can be used to request the tax reporting forms from the collector of internal revenue.

The collector of internal revenue will then supply a simple tax return form in envelope style called Form SS-942. If the housewife or her husband have their own business, the household worker can be included on the regular quarterly social security return for the business. All that is required for the return is the worker's name, social security account number, the amount of her cash wages, and a check or money order for 3% of the wages. Half the tax amount is withheld from the employee's wages and the other half is paid by the employer. If further information is desired, contact the Amarillo Social Security office.

Thrifty Buying By Monta Jean Kennedy

There are ways to get the right kinds of foods even when your food money is limited. When your food money is limited, or even if it is not, buy the essential foods such as milk, vegetables, and bread and cereal first. Buy at least one quart of milk for each child in the family and a pint for each adult. The average person eats two pounds of vegetables a day. You don't have to have meat every day; you can have a meat substitute instead.

The thrifty buyer always buys a standard brand of food. He examines the contents of the package, box, bottle, or can, to see if it is packed in heavy, thin, or medium syrup. The thrifty buyer will buy some things in large quantities. Buy such things as flour, crackers, cereals, etc., that will last a long time, in quantities. It does not pay to buy some things in large amounts. The thrifty buyer will plan meals as far ahead as a week, and thus save food more than the person who goes to the grocery store a dozen times a week.

Bill Wilson of Borger spent Tuesday here with Mr. and Mrs. Truitt Johnson and son Mike, and his children, Tommy and Linda Wilson.

Red Cross workers will stay on the job until rehabilitation needs of more than 1,600 families registered for help in these two states are determined. Based on need, Red Cross will assist in repairing and rebuilding and providing furniture. Of the nearly 500 persons hospitalized by tornado injuries, many will need Red Cross help with medical bills.
