MRS. CASS LOUIS ARCHER

Fulbright-Archer Vows Exchanged In Ceremony Here

Miss Irma Ruth Fulbright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Fulbright of McLean, became the bride of Cass Louis Archer, son of Mrs. C. O. Archer of Austin, in a candlelight service Saturday evening in the Church of Christ.

Walter Woods of Seminole, formerly minister of the Church of Christ at Loop, read the double-ring ceremony before an altar backed by greenery and flanked by tall baskets of white gladioli and daisies and candelabra bearing lighted cathedral tapers.

Proceeding the ceremony, Dr. Leonard Burford, head of the School of Music at Abilene Christian College, sang "I Love Thee" by Beethoven, and "O Perfect Love" by Barnby. A mixed quartet composed of Marion Taylor, Carolyn Loveless, George Saunders, and Don Thut sang the traditional wedding marches for the processional and recessional, and "The Lord Bless You and Keep You," as a benediction at the conclusion of the ceremony.

The bride's attendants were Miss Dorothea Back of Dumas, maid-of-honor, and Misses Norma Huff of Austin and Rebecca Andrews of Dallas, bridesmaids. Flower girls were Geneva Andrews of Dallas and Nita Newman of Plainview. All are cousins of the bride.

Miss Back wore a dress of pale green net with matching head-dress and wristlets. The bridesmaids wore similar dresses of pale yellow with matching head-dress and wristlets, and the flower girls wore pale pink. All carried baskets of white daisies.

In last Wednesday afternoon Methodist ladies, at the regular meeting of their missionary society, enjoyed a short program of special music and singing of special songs and talks. A social half hour followed, during which we partook of refreshments—delicious free refreshments—cake, coffee and grape punch, cake and peaches. Our big hearted Mrs. S. A. Cousins, furnished the greater part of this treat. She was assisted by James Carpenter, Beall, and

Consolidated Picnic

Families connected with the Consolidated Gas Utilities corporation at Kellerville held their first picnic at the Kellerville school gymnasium Sunday evening, July 19, at 7 o'clock. V. W. Tinkler, superintendent of the Kellerville station, was in charge.

The two stations in this area combined to put on the picnic. Mr. Bertram is superintendent of the other station, the Pitch station.

Mr. Myers and his wife of the general office in Oklahoma City were present to enjoy the picnic. He is general superintendent of all company stations the Consolidated has.

About 70 gathered to enjoy the picnic. The company furnished all cold drinks and ice cream and cookies.

"We of the Consolidated family wish to take this opportunity to thank the Kellerville school board for letting us use the gym," Superintendent Tinkler said.

Editorial

FIRST THINGS FIRST

WE'LL AGREE that Postmaster General Summerfield has a pretty good reason for supporting his desired higher postal rates. His reason, you know, is that the Post Office Department is losing money at the rate of $2 million a day.

But the trouble is that the postmaster general is supporting this reason with more reasoning that makes him sound a lot like his predecessor.

"We're trying to conduct a commercial type of operation," he said, "with an income and an outgo but we're losing money."

Then he produced a conclusion that seems a trifle over-optimistic: "I hope that some day we will produce economies so sizeable that we shall be able to cut postal rates back again," was his conclusion.

There is no denying that the U. S. post office is costing the taxpayers money—that has been going on for a long time; and, in proportion to the other costs of government on the taxpayers' shoulders today, it isn't any greater than it ever was. It should be emphasized that the wording "in proportion" is used, for the postal deficit is at an all-time high.

We wonder, however, who asked that the post office be made a commercial enterprise. Ben Franklin, we understand, was sort of the founder of the postal system, and, saving as he was, we doubt that he saw it as a losing proposition. At the same time, we know that he strongly believed in free enterprise, and we don't think he planned the system as a business venture.

Traditionally, the post office has been a service organization. But look at it this way: If the rate increases go thru all down the line, who gets hurt? Simply each and every person for whom this "service" was intended the first place. Postage has become such an important item in business that many firms would be obliged to increase their prices; the result could only be unfortunate, and we would all suffer the consequences.

The statement of the postmaster general concerning "economies so sizeable" is the one that bothers us. We believe that if there is any hope for "economies so sizeable," they should be instituted before a rate increase. Let our government absorb the deficit for a while longer, and let's get those economies operating. We could name a few places where we believe the system is operating at a loss when part or all of the loss could be eliminated. Perhaps, you can think of some, too. The postmaster general is cognizant of these losses, and it appears to us that the economies should be placed in effect before the hike in rates is tried.

LES TALK

Advertisement: We now have quite a number of Christmas card samples for Christmas, 1953. May be a shortage this year (oh yeah!), so we'd like to get your order in early.

This feller here is Cleo Heasley (unless I am confused). He is one of the several children of the pioneer Judge Heasley and wife. The reason I may be confused is easy to understand by those who know the family. The four boys, you know, were named Cleo, Leo, Theo, and Reo, and all but Leo live here now. Leo moved back to McLean a year or two ago, but left after several months and is now in New Mexico, I think. And the Heasley girls were named Vita, Virgie, Vivian, and Vesta.

But back to Cleo, for he is my subject of discussion, for it's his picture I have to run (I think it is). Actually, I know both Cleo and Reo pretty well, and I still get them mixed up now and then. Don't get Theo mixed up with them, cause he's considerably bigger. But regardless of which one I am thinking about, both Cleo and Reo are very nice fellows. They're mighty friendly, and always greet you with a smile. I could go on and say some more good things about both of them; but if I said more about Cleo than Reo, Reo might charge me double for the next express package I get; and if I said more about Reo than Cleo, Cleo might have Mrs. Cleo feed me some tough meat at Lions Club next time. So I'll quit before I get even more confused.

Incidentally, naming children with names that rhyme like Cleo, Reo, Theo, and Leo, and Vita, Vivian, Virgie, and Vesta, is still going on. Take Emory and Mary Crockett's four boys, for example: Don, David, Douglas, and Dickie. However, Emory says they are not expecting any Cathy, Connie, Carrie, or Cora.

I appreciate fellows like W. J. (Wardy) Carnes. Several times while I was working on the front end of the building, I had to take some rather disparaging remarks from a few of our outstanding citizens. But every time Wardy came by, he made it a point to say something nice about what we were doing. Could have been, of course, that he was fishing for a cup of coffee.

Here's a bit from a column entitled "The Low Down from Hickory Grove," which appears in numerous papers: "For my essay today, I choose to argify that folks who have reached the age of 60 or 65 and have always paid their own way—no govt. help—all on their own steam, should get a break on taxes. They have put their off-shoots through school—they have paid all kinds of taxes, fool taxes and all kinds—they have accumulated their own security for their remaining years—will be no drain on the govt. These folks should be honored—they are of prime stock.

"We lend aid to the world—billions of gifts go to the far corners of the earth—to people of all tongues—to people we know but little about—and what happens. Right here our own people get the brush-off. Figures coming out of old Prodigal-town show that to reduce all individual tax bills for young and old, by an amount equal to 10 per cent of dividends received, would amount to 740 million. Can't be done, says Washington town. But to people we would not know from Adam, we send 5 or 7 billion—and no questions asked. To reduce the income taxes for only those 60 or upwards—who have been no burden on Sambo—would be chicken feed. Being world minded is one thing, but shootin' square with our folks is where charity begins."

Along this line of thinking, I am reminded of what Congressman Walter Rogers related at the drouth meeting in Pampa recently. He told of how, in a period of 24 hours, the House of Representatives gave to the country of Pakistan 80 million dollars worth of wheat. They thought of selling it to them, but decided they wouldn't get paid anyway, so the House just voted to give it to them. Then they turned around and voted another 20 million dollars to pay for shipping the wheat to Pakistan.

All that took less than 24 hours, Rogers said. But when it came to voting 16 and one-half million dollars to be "loaned" to farmers in the drouth area in the U. S., the time required to pass the measure was much longer. And it was put off until the Pakistan measure was voted.

Kinda agree with the writer of the "Low Down" column that we just ain't getting what we're paying for.

Miss Wanetca Hupp Becomes Bride of John E. Reynolds

Baskets of white gladioli and emerald leaves tied with orchid satin bows formed the decorative setting for the recent double-ring ceremony uniting in marriage Wanetca Hupp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hupp of Kellerville, and John Edward Reynolds, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Reynolds of Okmulgee, Okla.

Dr. Buell Wells read the candlelight service in the First Baptist Church of Kellerville. Completing the decorations were jade palms, and candelabra bearing white tapers, and at either side of the altar rails were arched candelabra. Fews on the bridal aisle were marked with orchid satin ribbon.

Mrs. LaWanda Shadid Brooks played a prelude of nuptial selections. Miss Sue Glass accompanied Misses Floella Cubine, Donna Stubblefield, Dortha Chase, Bethlo Mantoch, and June Stubblefield, who sang "Tell Me Why." Miss Narcia Finney of Plainview sang "The Lord's Prayer." The traditional marches were used for the processional and recessional.

Candles were lighted by Ray Hupp, brother of the bride. Ring bearer and flower girl were little David and Marie Gallegly, cousins of the bride. Marie wore a frock of orchid net over taffeta, and carried a crocheted basket tied with orchid streamers, from which she dropped baby orchids.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white French chantilly lace and nylon tulle over candlelight satin. The fitted lace bodice featured a yoke of illusion, which was outlined in medallions of seed pearls, and long fitted sleeves which came to a point over her hand. The bouffant skirt fell from lace scallops at the hip line into a cathedral train. Her finger-tip veil of silk illusion cascaded from a tiara of pearlized orange blossoms. She carried a large covered Rainbow Bible marked with a white orchid and showered with streamers tied in love knots.

Miss Mary Holloway was maid-of-honor, and other attendants were Miss Roba Killion of Pampa, Mrs. Bob Williams of Phillips, and Mrs. Tuffy Sargent, aunt of the bride. All of the attendants wore identically styled gowns of nylon net over taffeta, in shades of orchid, lavender, violet, and purple, fashioned with strapless bodices and full ballerina length skirts accented with tiers of double ruffles of net. Each wore a stole and carried a ruffled parasol of net and taffeta matching her dress. A cluster of vanda orchids tied with blended ribbons was attached to the handles.

Gerald Houseman of Phillips was best man. Serving as ushers were Jack Hupp, brother of the bride, and Elbert Daugherty and Bob Craig of Phillips.

Mrs. Hupp chose to wear for her daughter's marriage a navy sheer dress, with matching accessories in velvet. She wore a corsage of vanda orchids. The bridegroom's mother wore a navy dress with navy accessories, and an orchid corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor. Centering the all-white table was the tiered cake. Garlands of vanda orchids were placed around the cake and punch bowl. Miss Floella Cubine served the cake, and Mrs. Don Haslam presided at the punch bowl. Miss Frankie Quarles, aunt of the bride, secured names for the guest register.

For the wedding trip the bride wore a navy dress, with white accessories and an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Reynolds was graduated from McLean High School and attended West Texas State College at Canyon. She is a past grand officer of the order of Rainbow for Girls.

Mr. Reynolds was graduated from Okmulgee High School and was employed by Phillips Petroleum company before entering the service. The couple will reside at 809 D., Lawton, Okla.

2,550 Teachers FOR 8,000 JOBS

A survey just completed by the Texas State Teachers Association indicates that there will be only 2,550 new teachers available for approximately 8,000 vacant teaching jobs in Texas next September.

The 8,000 figure is an estimate based on previous records. Galyean explained. The survey showed that there were 3,508 vacant teaching jobs—almost 1,000 more than the supply of new teachers—as of June 1.

"There are usually more than twice as many teaching jobs vacant on September 1 as on June 1," Galyean said, "because so many teachers find new jobs, outside the teaching profession, during the summer."

The survey showed that the annual turnover in teaching personnel is nearing 25 per cent. Records of the Texas Education Agency show that schools made 12,754 replacements during the 1952-53 school year. That means that one out of every five Texas teachers changed jobs during the past school year.

Answers to the survey questions were received from 944 city and county superintendents. Practically all of the larger school districts reported, producing information from schools representing more than 88 per cent of the total professional personnel in Texas public schools.

The 51 senior colleges and universities were surveyed on the supply of new teachers that will be available. Forty-nine of these reported, reporting that 3,660 graduating seniors were eligible for teaching certificates. But they reported that only 2,550 said they would accept teaching positions.

More than 30 per cent of those trained to teach said they planned to enter other fields.

The survey of superintendents showed that the teacher shortage is less critical in large cities which pay salaries considerably higher than the minimum required by state law. School districts with less than 2,500 students reported the greatest percentage of teaching vacancies.

Approximately 2,100 of the new teachers to be in demand next fall are needed to take care of an anticipated increase of 60,000 in the state's scholastic population.

By subjects, the shortage of primary teachers is the most critical with 354 schools reporting a shortage. Mathematics teachers are needed by 290 schools, science teachers by 387, English teachers by 166, physical education teachers by 156, music teachers by 148.

"A great many schools will be forced to go on half-day schedules next fall," Galyean said, "because of the critical teacher shortage. Most of these half-day schedules will involve pupils in the first two grades."
