SS Office Moves To Pampa June 1st

Effective June 1, 1969, residents of McLean and Alameda will have their social security business handled by the Pampa social security office. According to Travis C. Briggs, District Manager of the Amarillo social security office, the Pampa office will assume all services for persons living in or near these two towns which were formerly furnished by the Amarillo office. If your address—street, box, or route—is in McLean or Alameda will be included in the change, Briggs said.

Since residents of these towns are more closely affiliated with Pampa than Amarillo, as well as being closer, it is believed the change over will make it easier for them to transact their social security business, Briggs said.

Other equipment available in all other social security offices and will provide full and complete services. These will include, among other things, the issuance of social security numbers, filing of applications for benefits, processing of work notices, changes of address, etc.

The Pampa office has a staff of eight persons headed by Howard L. Weatherly who is the officer-in-charge. They are located in room 196-A of the Hughes Building, 400 W. Kingsmill. enate filibusters against new bills may take up much the remaining days of the legislative session due to close June 2.

proposal to create a medical school at Texas Technological College in Lubbock brought forth an oratory from Sen. Joe Smith of El Paso who wanted school in his home town.

Don Kennard of Ft. Worth urged on the Tech bill for extended effort to delay approval of a University of Texas Dallas on property of the Northwest Center for Advanced Studies.

enate State Affairs Committee set up other bills to set up a level (junior-senior-grade studies) colleges at Midland, Corpus Christi and Texas, and an additional University of Texas dental branch.

eanwhile, a House-Senate conference committee coached L. Gov. Ben Barnes and use Speaker Gus Mutscher ed slowly through the job writing a one-year budget bill at will necessitate no new Gov. Preston Smith spelled out opposition to such a short-term approach to state governmental budgeting as more cost-effective than the long run as evidenced recent experience with the year plan and emphasized interprets the Texas constitution to require a biennial appropriations pattern.

By trimming proposed spending and switching some unused plus in several state funds, conference committee headed Sen. A. M. Aikin, Jr., of Paris Rep. W. S. Healy of Pampa believes it can provide a teacher pay raise requested by the Texas State Teachers' association without new taxes. Smith feels that the state's dollars simply cannot be stretched that far. Barnes thinks they can cover the basic needs of higher education, state hospitals and special schools and state agencies, and still leave $61.9 million for the first year of the teacher pay raise.

Smith said there was a movement adot to kill the $15,000,000-a-year general fund allocation to farm-to-market roads. Barnes said senate conferees would not oppose taking that program away.

Governor declined to say he all veto the one-year bill. "Several alternatives will be open to me governor," said Smith. "It would not be proper or possible for me to choose one at this time, because I do not know what the circumstances will be."

Legislation Nears Windup

With adjournment deadline closing in, legislators are getting day and night workouts on literally hundreds of bills.

House finally completed action on a watershed-fall $1.25-an-hour minimum wage bill. Amendments sent it back to the Senate. House earlier approved creation of a dental school for San Antonio, new regulation of co-ordinated amusement machines, law banning possession of LSD and other hallucinogenic drugs, higher service charges on large real estate loans, a new upper-level college at Laredo, strengthened rules for transporting migrant workers, elimination of the requirement house-holders and county civil that jurors be free-holders or service systems for major counties.

Senate, not so productive due to filibusters, passed three bills to remove legal obstacles to heart and other organ transplants, agreed to creation of a new medical school in Houston and another in an unnamed city, approved a broadened tuition-aid plan for needy students, and proposed submission of a constitutional amendment to abolish the welfare spending ceiling in 1970 (to prevent the August 5 vote falls). Both houses completed action on bills to expand the program of special education for exceptional children between the ages of 3 and 21, make universities out of Stephen F. THE DAY OF BEGINNING...

Graduation is one of the most important milestones along the highway of life. It is a significant accomplishment. Yet, while it marks the achievement of a successful program of training and education, it is not an ending, but in a real sense it is a beginning.

The future belongs rightfully to those who have prepared for it, who will now move upward, striding confidently toward a new plateau-- to higher education, and along the routes designated commerce, industry, public service, and medicine, to name but a few.

Graduation has opened the book of life to a fresh new page, to the beginning of a new chapter; and each member of the Class of 1969 through individual effort shall determine what will be recorded thereon.

Salutations and best wishes on this momentous occasion!

News From County HD Agent JIMMIE LOU WAINSCOTT

With age comes impaired circulation and muscular, skeletal and nervous systems which tend to decrease in coordination, strength and stamina. Older persons have a tendency toward dizziness and limbs may be numb. Then falls occur!

To help prevent falls, Miss Minnie Bell, Extension Specialist for aging, suggests some precautions:

Grab bars next to the bed, chair, bath, and toilet will help. Rails assist with walking in hallways and on stairs.

Elderly should not take baths or showers without assistance.

Arrangement of personal belongings and equipment frequently used should be between eye and hip level to require less climbing and bending.

Encourage elderly to move more slowly. Sit in bed a few minutes before standing. Grasp for support when rising.

Arrange household duties so older persons do few jobs that require bending, stretching, climbing or carrying heavy loads.

Remove throw rugs, loose cords and tack down edges of carpeting.

Urge older persons to wear well-fitted shoes rather than loose, floppy house slippers. Keep shoe strings tied. Eliminate long ties on clothing. It is better to use buttons, zipper or pin fasteners.

RANGE MANAGEMENT SCHOLARSHIPS—The Texas Section, American Society of Range Management is again offering $500 scholarships to 1969 Texas high school graduates who plan to study range management. LOOKIN' BACK

by Vera Featherston Back

Our rains came a little early this month. They usually show up when the graduates start parading in their caps and gowns. Perhaps they are over for a season and the Class of 1969 can go and come with out getting their hairdos wet. In keeping with the occasions, the following is written:

Twelve years of learning for a wonderful class . . . Twelve years of wondering if you fail or you pass . . . Young man, young woman, who are reading this rhyme . . . The world is beckoning to you at this time . . . Think deep, love well, as you travel life's way . . . Work hard, play clean, and you'll find it will pay . . . Don't rush through life unprepared as some do . . . Pick out the path that is right, and go through . . . Press on and not backward, as days become years . . . Bring sunshine, not shadow; bring smiles and not tears . . . When day is ending, and you're ready to rest . . . May YOU be the victor; may you pass the last test!

You oldsters remember that picture in your geography book of the Wawona Tunnel cut into the body of a sequoia redwood tree? If you recall the picture of a stage coach driving through that "hole" in the tree, you certainly don't have to work about the draft. "When we used to look at that tree in our geography book, how I longed to see it! Two things I felt like I must do before I died of the old age of fifty or so were to cross the Continental Divide and ride through that tree.

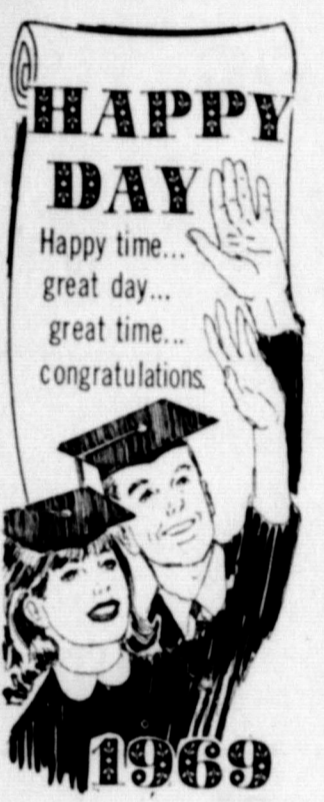

The Continental Divide I crossed at about the age of fifty, all right, but it was later that I had an opportunity to see that tunnel in the giant redwood, reaching 234 feet into the air. I was on a tour of the Northwest and West with my brother and his wife. When we got to this tree, I felt the old thrill of my childhood return. Enthusiastically, I jumped out of the car with our movie camera and took a picture of my brother as he drove his Chrysler through. Then I ran around on the other side to take his picture coming out. All excited, I jumped in the car and it was not until we were ten miles down the road before I realized I, myself, did not go through that tree. Alas! That childhood dream will never be realized now for the giant redwood succumbed this last winter to the north winds.

GOPHERS A PROBLEM FOR S. W. BELL TELEPHONE CO.

Gophers, long a pesky problem for telephone companies, are gnawing at Southwestern Bell's ingenuity.

It's not that the telephone company is anti-gopher, but gopher's bad cable manners make it necessary for Southwestern Bell to wage a scientific war against the chomping creatures.

Southwestern Bell, working with the U. S. Interior Department's Fish and Wildlife Service and Bell Telephone Laboratories, has buried various types of cable samples in a gopher-infested area of Oklahoma to evaluate its resistance to the animal's urge to chew.

Why telephone cable as a delectable dish?

The front teeth of gophers grow more than 96 inches a year, somewhat unmanageable for a 10-inch gopher who's teeth could grow into his skull and pierce his brain.

"Gophers instinctively avoid these splitting headaches by wearing down their teeth—too often on our cable," said George Newberry of Southwestern Bell. Gophers to get at and tougher "Underground cable is easy for to chew than vegetation they usually eat."

Dental-minded gophers have acquired such a taste for cable that telephone companies, not gophers, have been getting the headaches recently.

The Bell System now uses as much as 1,300 tons of steel a year to shield cable in areas west of the Mississippi, where most gophers are found. Gophers will chew through almost all plastic materials, and even through softer metals like lead and aluminum.

Severe gopher damage can cause a cable to fail. This is particularly disturbing to telephone companies and their customers, since underground cables are often long distance facilities that carry hundreds of telephone messages at one time.

Bell Telephone scientists for several years have "fed" cables to gophers in a controlled experiment at Denver by the Fish and Wildlife Service. Now, the program is undergoing the actual "field tests" with wild gophers.

Southwestern Bell, working with the wildlife rangers, buried some 100 cables of varying types, about 20 feet in length, in both horizontal and vertical positions in the Washita National Wildlife Refuge in western Oklahoma.

In the interest of protecting harmless animals, we've fairly well ruled out most chemical soil treatments around cable trenches and chemical repellents applied to the cable surfaces.

Fortunately, in our testing, we've gained some useful knowledge about the sizes of cable that a gopher can chew. After all, there's a limit to how big a bite he can take.

CONDITIONS IDEAL FOR DRYLAND LOVEGRASS SEEDING

By Stephen Qualis, SCS
The recent rain has greatly enhanced the probability of successful grass plantings this year. Persons who seeded their grass before the rain have been given a tremendous boost toward obtaining successful seedings.

Conditions are now ideal for seeding weeping lovegrass, as well as other grasses. The planting should be made by June 1. May plantings are more likely to be a success due to the more favorable atmospheric conditions. High soil temperature and evaporation often spell disaster to June Best lovegrass seeding results are usually obtained by clean tilling the seedbed, followed by drilling or broadcasting 3 pounds of seed per acre. Row plantings are very satisfactory if the land is suitable. What types of land is suitable? What type of land is suited to row plantings? A good rule of thumb is "lovegrass should not be planted in rows if the land is suitable. What types of land is suited to row plantings? A good rule of thumb is "lovegrass should not be planted in rows if the land is too rough for cultivation." Seeding rates for row plantings can be cut back to approximately one pound of seed per acre.

Fertilizer is an essential item if a successful seeding is to be obtained. The recommended fertilizer establishment rate is approximately 200 pounds of 16-20-0, or the equivalent, per acre. Best results have been obtained by applying the fertilizer just before or immediately following seeding.

Weed control can often mean the difference between failure or success. A vigorous weedy competition robs the young plants of badly needed moisture or nutrients. Weeds can very easily be controlled by mowing or by spraying with 2,4-D.

Who doesn't like to be remembered? It's natural to feel a certain glow when you receive a greeting card. It means that someone has thought of you, that someone cares.

Yet how foolish it would be for any of us to ever believe that we are alone or friendless. There is always Someone who cares, who cares very deeply... who cared enough to sacrifice His only Son for us.

At times we are all lonesome. Yet we are never really alone. There are few places in the world where we cannot, if we but look, find a church that will welcome us wholeheartedly. God's house is not like other houses. There is always room in it for one more. And when that one more has entered, there is room for yet another.

Start taking part in the life of the Church today!

McLean High School Meeting Reviewed

—By CARL DWYER, Principal

For the benefit of those parents who were unable to attend the explanation meeting regarding proposed school changes for the coming year, and for the benefit of those parents who did not have an opportunity to receive answers to the questions in their mind, the following article is rendered in hopes of clarification.

First, let me say, that this is not an attempt to experiment with your children. Even though, this is the first attempt to introduce such a program in this school, it has proven successful again and again in other districts. We have high hopes that it will not only be successful here, but that the program can be expanded to include and help more students in the future. However, we also realize that in order to preserve and expand the proposed program additional facilities, personnel, and funds will be necessary. However, if this is not achieved, and if the program is discontinued after next year, the children involved will not have been hurt, and they will probably have been helped a great deal.

You may well ask—why a change is needed?

First, all tests results over a period of years in the McLean schools indicate that many of the students are not receiving what they need. Due to the type of system we have, teaching is directed toward the average student. This simply means that in many instances the extremely bright student is never challenged to do his best, and the slow student becomes frustrated trying to do a job that is impossible for him. We hope to develop a program that more nearly fits each individual need.

Second, nothing stands still. Whether it be a town, community, business or school, it either progresses or goes backwards.

Due to the great changes in the world, education must change also. Total knowledge is doubling every five to ten years. What was good enough for you and for me is not good enough for our children during these changing times. Does it make sense to give our kids a Cadillac to ride in while giving them a Model-T education? That Cadillac will wear out in 5 to 10 years, but our children are going to have to depend on that Model-T education to carry them through the remainder of their lives.

Third, an attempt is being made to upgrade the McLean Educational System not only to meet the needs of the students as individuals, but to meet some requirements that are fast becoming a norm by which the state and national government judge the effectiveness of a school district. In other words, if we hope to meet accreditation standards in the future, we must improve. I believe that most of you are aware of the fact that in order to operate an accredited school certain standards have to be met. If accreditation is withdrawn, oil state aid to the district stops, and the community simply cannot operate a school without state aid.

Now, what changes have been proposed, and how are the students selected for participation? The addition of three new courses during the school year 1969-70, namely, Humanities, Duplicating Office Practice, and a course in General Business and Consumer Education. We hope that these and additional courses can be taught the following year, but as stated before, this will depend on resources available. Also, the track system will be introduced in certain courses, such as English, so that each student has a chance of success at his own level.

The determination of which students are to participate in which areas will be based to a great extent on the test record of the student with regard to his achievement and mental ability. With the test records as a guide, we have attempted to select new courses for next year that will afford each student an opportunity to taste success in some field. However, we realize that the opportunity to taste success in some field. However, we realize that the parents has final responsibility for the education of the child. Therefore, if you are not satisfied with the placement of your child, please feel free to discuss the matter with Mrs. Riley, Counselor or Mr. Dwyer, Principal, who will refer you to Mrs. Riley.

I realize that this article is inadequate to give you a accurate picture of what we are trying to accomplish. I also realize that it leaves many questions unanswered. Please feel free to contact us.

We are not trying to use, abuse, or experiment with your child. We are trying to offer him something better in the way of education so that he might live a better, happier, more successful life in which he at least gets a small taste of challenge and success. We want this for your children and our children. We know that if you want it too. By working together, we can have it.

Soil Conservation Service News

By Lynn McDaniel

The McClellan Creek work plan has been sent to the Bureau of Budget Committee for their review. We have been told that this watershed will be cleared by Congress this year. When this is done we will be ready to start construction as soon as funds are available.

The Red Deer Creek watershed has been assigned a planning start. The planning party are due to begin surveying within the next month. The local people in Gray, Roberts and Hemphill counties have raised $25,000 to assist in the cost of the watershed work plan on Red Deer Creek.

We have been getting good moisture and this should be a good year to get excellent response of grass and a good control on the brush. The brush which is growing vigorously is more ideal for spraying for control. The sprays used to control brush are a growth stimulant causes the plant to rise up all the food in the roots and then the defoliant drops the leaves off. This causes the plant to starve and hopefully die. The moisture we have gotten should cause the brush to be growing vigorously within the next few days. This should make for an ideal time to spray brush.

BRUSH CONTROL

Brush on rangeland is a serious problem in this area. It takes up water space and nutrients that could be used by good grass. If brush is not controlled it spreads until it crowds out the range grass. This month is the best time to spray brush.

After brush is controlled it is very important to rest this area from three to five months following spraying. This allows the better grass to come back. These better grasses are the ones the cattle eat first. If livestock are allowed to graze this area they will keep these good grasses from seeding. They also keep the good grass from gaining back their original vigor, and the poorer grasses are allowed to take the area once occupied by brush. The brush the spray failed to kill spreads; the cattle eat the better grass, thus keeping it from seeding, causing it loose ground. The result is that the brush takes back over and the range ends up back in brush as thick or thicker than the original condition.

If you plan to spray, then plan to rest also. This is as important as any other management practices on rangeland. For more information contact the local Soil Conservation Service office.

A new fiber makes possible upholstery with easy-care features and modern colors and designs, reports Bonny Lay, Extension housing specialist at Texas A&M. The fiber, new for upholstery, is olefin or polypropylene, the indoor-outdoor carpet fiber.

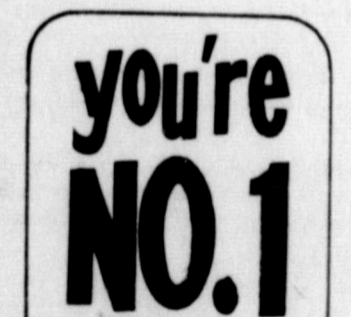

Fabrics made of olefin shrug off spots and stains, says Miss Lay. Most common household stains can be sponged away with water and light detergent suds without fear of fuzzing or pilling. Olefin also is mildew-proof and non-allergenic, she adds.

TAX SAM SEZ:

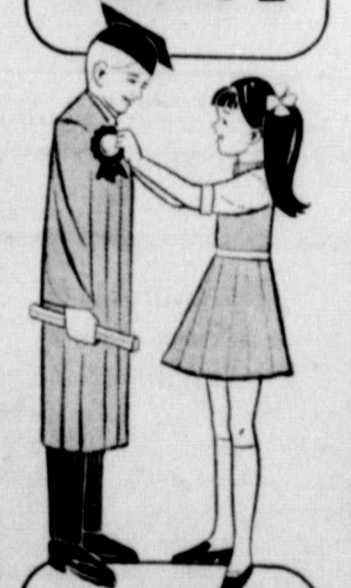

TOPIC: COMPUTERIZED TAXES

Most of us have seen the picture of the girl holding up the reel of computer tape and showing that Internal Revenue's computer ends up all of your business on a little less than one inch of magnetic tape. Even at the expense of boring you with reading about some more lightning fast statistics on Internal Revenue's National Computer Center at Martinsburg, West Virginia, here goes:

The Service Centers—like Austin for our area—send magnetic tapes with miles of tax information by air mail to the National Computer in Martinsburg. Only 257 people work at the Center, an around-the-clock, seven-days-a-week, operation. Only Christmas and Thanksgiving are holidays, and then skeleton crews are on duty. The world's fastest input and output computers are used. Data sent by Service Centers is put on master tapes at the rate of 680,000 characters per second: If you don't think that's fast, just imagine standing in the middle of Plainville and making a 360 degree turn, and unless it was a pretty fast turn, the computer could have checked most of the taxpayers within view—and that is quite a few.
