ROLLED CRISPS

For those afternoon "teaparties" children love so well, here is a fine recipe for Rolled Crisps—the kind of cookies everyone likes to find in the cookie jar all year long.

Cookies

2 cups fortified margarine
1 1/2 cups sugar
Grated peel of 1 lemon
2 eggs
1/2 cup milk
5 cups sifted all-purpose flour
5 teaspoons baking powder
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Cream the margarine; adding the sugar gradually and continue creaming until light and fluffy. Mix in the lemon peel and eggs, beating until the eggs are well blended. Sift the flour with the baking powder. Combine the flour and milk with the creamed margarine-sugar-egg mixture. Stir in the lemon juice. Shape into a ball and chill in the refrigerator. Roll to one-fourth inch thickness on a lightly floured board or pastry cloth. Cut with fancy or plain cutters. Sprinkle with sugar. Bake in a moderately hot (400 degrees F.) oven for 12 to 15 minutes. Makes about 100 two-inch cookies.

For other excellent kitchen-tested recipes, write the National Cotton Council, P. O. Box 18, Memphis 1, Tennessee, for your free copy of "Menu Magic with Margarine," an attractive 24-page booklet in two colors.

So the People May Know

Cities, towns, and villages must publish in a newspaper notice of hearings to condemn property for highways by the county condemnation commission. These are the legal particulars:

"The clerk, secretary, or recording officer of the city, or the said commission itself, shall give written notice to the owners of property proposed to be taken or damaged and to all persons having any interest in or lien upon said property, of a hearing before said commission (consisting of three disinterested freeholders of the county appointed by the county judge), which notice shall state the time and place of hearing, and may contain a brief statement of the nature and extent of the proposed improvement, and a description of the property proposed to be taken; such description may be by lot and block number, front feet, the name of the owner or owners, or by any other description which will substantially identify said property. Notice of said hearing shall be given by publication in a newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the property is situated, not less than three separate days, the first publication to be not less than ten days prior to the date of hearing. Notice by publication shall be valid and binding upon the real and true owners of property and all persons having an interest or lien upon the same, if it shall generally notify them to appear and be heard, without specifically designating said parties by name, and no error or mistake in the name of any person to whom said notice is directed shall invalidate the same.

The governing body may provide for other and additional notice, but notice by publication shall in all cases be valid and binding, whether other notice is given or not. Said notices, and the return thereon, shall be filed with the city and preserved in its records."

TAFT'S SPEECH

MISINTERPRETATIONS and misunderstandings of important news events can and often do cause a great deal of trouble in the world. A recent and unfortunate example is found in Senator Taft's Cincinnati speech, which stirred up something of an international hornet's nest. Some commentators, both here and abroad, said in effect that Mr. Taft had advocated a strongly isolationist "go it alone" foreign policy and had characterized the United Nations as useless, and intimated that he might have been speaking for the Administration. The uproar was so great that shortly thereafter President Eisenhower found it necessary to announce that this great country wants and must have allies, and that the free world must work closely together against aggression.

Anyone who gives a close reading to the forthright Taft speech will find that the Republican leader did not say what some of the interpreters thought he said. For one thing, he did not speak for the Administration, nor did he pretend to. He spoke only for himself, and, as usual, he spoke bluntly and pointedly.

Secondly, he did not suggest that the United Nations be jettisoned. He said, "I believe in the United Nations myself." But he also observed that it has not turned out to be an effective means of preventing aggression—a fact which will be appreciated by anyone who reads the papers and listens to the radio.

Thirdly, he did not come out for isolationism. Senator Taft was once pretty much of an isolationist, but the course of history caused him to change his views long ago. He did point out, however, that the anti-communist alliance in the Far East is in bad shape and must be repaired and strengthened. Again, this is obvious to anyone who reads or listens.

Perhaps the major virtue of the Taft speech was that its focus was on some tremendous problems the western world must face up to—and on policies which are highly debatable. A key paragraph in the talk said: "Is this policy of uniting the free world against Communism in time of peace going to be a practical long-term policy? I have always been a skeptic on the subject of the military practicability of NATO. I am no military expert, but I have never heard an argument that impressed me attempting to show that United States ground forces could effectively defend Europe. . . . I have always felt that we should not attempt to fight Russia on the ground on the Continent of Europe any more than we should attempt to fight China on the continent of Asia. I have always felt that defense must be undertaken by those who occupy Western Europe."

In any event, many of the commentators think that Senator Taft did a considerable public service, whether one agrees with his conclusions or not, by dealing with facts and avoiding wishful thinking. David Lawrence wrote: "Though there will rightly be differences with Senator Taft on certain points, especially as to the military defense of Europe, his main thesis—that we should face the realism of our times—is wholesome and will be helpful in forging a strong alliance. For our allies must inevitably perceive that their failure to support wholeheartedly the American effort and purpose in the Far East can be as fatal to the principal of collective security in Europe as it has been in Asia." Dorothy Thompson, in a column given to the Taft talk, made this wise observation: "To doubt the possibility of anything that ought to be is anathema in the present climate of American opinion. But no nation ever saved itself by closing its eyes to facts."

LES

TALK

By LESTER

The weather having been so warm during the past few weeks, and the people having been so worried about crops and cattle, etc., perhaps it will be wise to devote this column to something kinda humorous for a moment's relief. So it will be a column of jokes (not original jokes, but copied jokes). Read on for a few chuckles, if you like.

A robust woman who lost her thumb in an accident consulted her lawyer.

Lawyer: "But why do you think your thumb is worth $20,000?"

Woman: "Because that's the thumb I kept my husband under."

During a fire in the middle of the night, the tenants of an apartment hotel rushed into the street carrying their most prized possessions. One woman noticed that the gentleman who lived directly above her was carrying a large, covered bird cage. "What have you there?" she asked out of curiosity.

"That's my pet rooster," said the man. The woman gasped and fainted. When she revived, she told her anxious neighbor, "I'm sorry I fainted, but you see, I've been under treatment by a psychiatrist for the past year because I kept hearing a rooster crowing."

"Doesn't he look wonderful?" one man whispered to another at the funeral of their friend who had been brought back to New York for burial, after spending two months in Arizona for his health.

"Sure does," the other said. "Those two months in Arizona did him a lot of good."

A school boy was making a speech on the national debt and said: "It's too bad that the future generations can't be here at this time to see the wonderful things we're doing with their money."

A southern sailor passed away and arrived at the gates of eternity. "Gee," he gasped, "I didn't know Heaven would look so much like Texas."

"Son," said the gatekeeper, "this isn't Heaven."

Bachelor: "There's a woman peedder at the door."

Roommate: "We'll take two."

Coach (to quarterback): "Now it's entirely up to you. Get in the game, use your brains and ingenuity, and do exactly what I signal from the bench."

Harry: "Did Penny blush when her shoulder strap broke?"

Larry: "I didn't notice."

Investigating officer: "And what could the other driver have done to avoid the accident?"

Lady driver: "He could have driven on some other street."

Reporter (to man celebrating 100th birthday): "What would you do differently if you could live your life over?"

Old timer (after some thought): "I believe I'd part my hair in the middle."

"Any big men born around here?" a tourist asked in a condescending tone.

"Nope," responded the native. "Best we can do is babies. Different in the city, I suppose."

"How did you and Bob ever come to marry?"

"Oh, it's the same old story. We started out to be just good friends, you know, and later changed our minds."

"She swears no man's lips have ever touched hers."

"That's enough to make any girl swear."

Customer: "Why is it that I never get what I ask for here?"

Waiter: "Perhaps, madam, we are too polite."

"I was so cold last night I couldn't sleep. I just lay there and shivered."

"Did your teeth chatter?"

"I don't know; we don't sleep together."

Asked what he did for recreation if and when he got to town, one of those long, lean Texas cowboys reluctantly confessed, "I most always go dancin' if there is one."

"Why, nobody'd guess you know how to dance," the questioner exclaimed in surprise.

"Heck, I can't dance a lick," the cowboy admitted, "but boy, I sure like to hold 'em while they do."

Nurse: "Bobby, did you know you have a little brother for Christmas?"

Bobby: "Gee whiz, no. Wait until I tell mother. Will she be surprised?"

She: "The right foundation garment, smooth clothes, and a good paint job will take 20 years off my age as far as appearance goes."

He: "Yes, but you can't fool a long flight of stairs."

Hostess (to small boy at party): "Would you like a hot cookie?"

Small boy: "No, thanks. I brought my own date."

See you next week, I reckon.

A Marine staff sergeant home on leave was unexpectedly left in charge of his three month old son for an afternoon. All went well at first; then a motherly nurse called to his wife. She made a frantic call to his wife who took care of the problem in man to man fashion. "First," he said, "place diaper in position of a baseball diamond, with your bat. Fold second base on home plate. Place baby pitcher's mound. Then first base and third base home plate." It worked.

She: Do you believe in tight clothes stop circulation?
He: Certainly not.
She: Tighter a woman's clothes the more she's in circulation.

• This advertisement is the third in a special series which began over a year ago, and which is designed to give you, as a prospective buyer, detailed and helpful information. We'd be happy to have your comments about this type of advertising.

This is the 1953 Chevrolet Bel Air 4-Door Sedan. It's one of 16 Chevrolet models in 3 series, which add up to the widest choice in the low-price field.

Some Chevrolet advantages worth considering when you're ready to choose a car . . .

Next to a new house, a car is probably your most important purchase. Here are some facts to help you make up your mind about which make to buy.

Don't you agree that it's well worthwhile to weigh all the factors carefully before you buy any new car? Let's consider the major reasons why people choose one make over another and see how the 1953 Chevrolet stands in those respects.

Styling You Can Stay Proud Of
Styling, of course, is a matter of personal taste. Because we think Chevrolet is the best-looking car in its field, doesn't necessarily mean you'll think so, too. But we can tell you that the majority of our showroom visitors prefer Chevrolet styling and compare its appearance most favorably with cars costing a great deal more.

And you might consider this: Chevrolet styling is the newest in its field. It's the kind of styling that stays new, too. For it is based, not on fads or extremes, but on the fundamentals of good, modern design.

The One Automobile Body Almost Everybody Knows
It's not really surprising that so many people prefer Chevrolet's appearance. For Chevrolet is the only low-priced car with Body by Fisher. And Fisher, as you know, is the only automobile body manufacturer with a world-wide reputation for styling, craftsmanship and quality.

The Many Benefits of High-Compression Power
When you drive a new Chevrolet (and we hope you'll do that soon), you'll notice these things: faster acceleration from a standing start; greater passing ability in traffic and on the highway; the new ease with which you climb steep hills.
These are just some of the benefits of Chevrolet's new high-compression power. In gearshift models, there is an advanced 108-h.p. "Thrill-King" engine with a 7.1 to 1 compression ratio. Teamed with the new Powerglide automatic transmission* is an entirely new 115-h.p. "Blue-Flame" engine with 7.5 to 1 compression ratio. It is the most powerful engine in Chevrolet's field.

A Great Gain in Gasoline Economy
Along with remarkable new performance, Chevrolet's advanced engines give you far greater gasoline mileage. In fact, this year marks the most important gain in economy in Chevrolet history. And that includes substantial savings on over-all upkeep, as well as on gasoline.

New Getaway in the New Powerglide*
The new Powerglide automatically drops into "Low" range for starting and for passing in city traffic. Then, as you glide along, it slips smoothly and almost imperceptibly into cruising range. The results are much faster and more positive acceleration, and much lower fuel consumption.

The First Power Steering in a Low-Priced Car
This year's Chevrolet is the only car in its field to offer you the extra ease and convenience of Power Steering, optional at extra cost. With it, you can spin the wheel with the strength of one finger. You can scowsew in and out of tight parking places without the slightest strain. You get an additional cushion against road shocks and jars. Driving is easier, safer.

A Smoother and a Safer Ride
Chevrolet is the heaviest low-priced car. Model for model, a Chevrolet will weigh as much as 200 pounds more than the other makes. You often hear people say they buy high-priced cars because they're heavier, hold the road better and ride better. Well, isn't it logical, then, that Chevrolet's extra weight (which comes from extra strength of body and frame) would result in a better ride?

Chevrolet is the Lowest-Priced Line

Certainly, price is one of the most important factors of all. We're glad to be able to tell you that Chevrolet is the lowest-priced line in its field.

Remember that Chevrolet builds more cars than any other manufacturer. Chevrolet, along with General Motors, has greater facilities for research, for engineering and production. So, isn't it reasonable that these greater facilities bring manufacturing advantages and economies which Chevrolet can pass on to you in terms of higher quality at lower price?

An Endorsement Given No Other Car

Again this year, more people are buying Chevrolets than any other car. Obviously that wouldn't be true unless people liked Chevrolet better. Unless Chevrolet offered more things people want—more value.
So, when you're ready to choose your new car, wouldn't you agree that Chevrolet merits your careful consideration? We welcome your visit at any time, so that you can look the car over yourself and try it out on the road.

*Combination of 115-h.p. "Blue-Flame" engine and Powerglide automatic transmission optional on "Two-Ten" and Bel Air models at extra cost.

MORE PEOPLE BUY CHEVROLETS THAN ANY OTHER CAR!

Gerald Knutson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Y. A. Knutson of Skellytown, formerly of McLean, was advanced in rating May 16 to aviation structural mechanic, petty officer third class. The rating was the result of fleet-wide competition. Examinations are given twice yearly, in February and August. Knutson is stationed in El Centro, Calif., where he is attached to the fleet air gunnery unit. This is a school for pilots in the latest bombing and gunnery techniques, before leaving for the Korean area.

Knutson's address is: G. L. Knutson, AMA, 3677874; F. A. G. U., N. A. A. S.; El Centro, Calif.

(Editor's note: Here are excerpts from a letter received recently by Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Nicholson from their son, Hershel, who is with the U. S. Navy in Atsugi, Japan.)

I have been working at a different place for the last week. I am in a hangar across the airstrip from where the Fasron is. We are making some changes on a bunch of Panther jets. It is really interesting work, and it is really work.

Dad, you should see how the Japanese build their roads. They take a bunch of big rocks and bust them up by hand and scatter them all over the road. Then they run over them with a steam roller. It makes a pretty good road, though. I've seen one paved highway since I've been here and that was in Tokyo.

You should see the scaffolds these people use to build a house. They are made of bamboo poles strapped together. These Japs are just like monkeys on those things. They carry all their carpenter tools in their pockets. I have never seen anyone do so much with so little.

Soon as I get a customs clearance on this stuff I bought, I'll send it home. Everything I send from here has to be inspected and have an officer's signature of approval. Soon as I can, I'm going to get a camera and take some pictures of this place and people, so you can see what it actually is.
