Must Teach Children To Eat

ATLANTA, GEORGIA — Babies are people. Each child is an individual with likes and dislikes. And like most people, they change their minds from time to time. They learn through experience and while instinct provides children with many of the answers, they must be taught most of what they learn, and this includes how to eat.

So said Dr. Miriam E. Lowenberg, head of foods and nutrition in the School of Home Economics, Pennsylvania State College, in an address before the annual meeting of the Georgia Nutrition Council.

Dr. Lowenberg, one of the nation's leading nutritionists, said that food and the child's attitude towards food is the basis for much of the emotional as well as the physical development of the child.

"You never feed food alone — you feed attitudes," Dr. Lowenberg said. "Food provides the first experience the newborn child has with human beings."

The nutritionist pointed out that each child is an individual and that the child changes from one age to another. She pointed out that at an early age, the child likes to feel his food with his fingers. This is good. She says it means the child has a friendly attitude towards food. Even before the teeth come, the child goes through chewing motions. Dr.

Lowenberg suggests dry toast when this happens.

Interviewed after the talk, Dr. Lowenberg stressed the fact that Americans today have the greatest variety of health-giving foods available in all our history. She cited the enrichment of bread, to provide a greater intake of B vitamins and iron, the fortification of margarine and the irradiation of milk as excellent examples of science, nutritionists and business combining effort to improve the health of the people.

Dr. Lowenberg said that three meals a day are not enough for most children. The four or five hour interval between meals is too long. However, she warned that between-meal snacks should be chosen with care.

Education in the way to eat is necessary at all ages, Dr. Lowenberg said. This is of particular importance in the case of the child of four to six years of age. As the child becomes more independent and starts to school, there are more opportunities to eat outside the home and without proper supervision.

Foods that should be in the child's diet, the nutritionist said, include milk and milk products, meat, eggs, bread and cereals, whole grain and enriched, fruits and vegetables. Adequate amounts of basic foods should be included at each meal to insure proper diet.

The role of the parent, Dr. Lowenberg concluded, is to provide the right foods for the child and to assist the child in the process of learning to eat.

HAM NOODLE LOAF

Easter ham scores another flavor triumph when combined in zesty Ham Noodle Loaf.

Have you some of that good Easter ham left over? Make the most of it in Ham Noodle Loaf. Onion juice, dry mustard and sweet brown sugar give this loaf all the fine flavor of the Easter ham itself.

Variety is the keynote of effective meal planning. That means variety in shape and type of foods served, as well as variety of flavors. Ham Noodle Loaf with mustard or horseradish sauce adds that all-important variety to your menus.

Serve Ham Noodle Loaf on a platter with golden pineapple slices and crisp curly endive or lettuce leaves. Cooked, buttered asparagus spears add important vitamins and minerals. Crusty hard rolls with butter or margarine give interesting texture contrast. Strawberry shortcake for dessert ends a meal that will demand many repeat appearances during the spring and summer.

You'll find Ham Noodle Loaf very simple to make. Bake it slowly for an hour to allow those enticing flavors to blend into a perfect harmony. And when you total the abundant nutrients found in Ham Noodle Loaf, you'll have another very good reason for serving it often.

The variety of shapes available in macaroni foods helps you introduce eye-appealing variety into your family meals. Smart homemakers these days are never without a good supply of macaroni, spaghetti and noodles on their kitchen shelves. Nothing does so much for leftovers as macaroni foods. Their mild, wheaty flavor points up the heartier flavors of every other food they're teamed with.

it's Karo for me, the best-tasting waffle syrup of 'em all"

Yes, indeed... biscuits go like hot cakes when you pour on plenty of delicious Karo waffle syrup. There's nothing like it for good eating. Satisfyin' flavor. ## To Be April 5— FEEDER'S DAY AT SPUR Farmers, ranchers, and others interested in wintering and fattening cattle are cordially invited to attend a feeder's day April 5 at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Spur.

The main features of the day will include results of feeding trials with terramycin and diethylstilbestrol (new hormone) when fed with rations high in roughage and low in grain to long yearling steers. Marketing data for steers fed diethylstilbestrol 60 to 100 days will be presented, while steers fed 140 days will be shown in the lots. Other features will include feeding and wintering trials with steer calves, heifers and spayed heifers on different rations. A summary of wintering trials with calves on native grass, wheat stalk fields, and in the feed lot over a 15-year period will be discussed.

A tour of the station will also be made to view studies on soil and water conservation, brush control, reseeding pastures, grazing trials and other related work. The program will start at 9 o'clock in the morning.

Gray County Agent Ralph Thomas says that a number of cattlemen have already expressed their interest in attending this field day. He suggests that anyone interested in attending contact him so that transportation can be arranged.

Thomas says that since the publication of reports that sound like fantastic gains on steers fed stilbestrol, stockmen have shown a great interest in this hormone, and will, no doubt, want to hear of the results first hand and see some of the cattle.

Visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Back over the week-end were Mary Ann Back, Pat Burgess, and Donna Mountjoy of Abilene, and Dorothy Back of Dumas.

WAITING HOPEFULLY

A TENTATIVE DATE to announce the report on the outcome of the Salk polio vaccine tests has been set, and the world is awaiting the report. Let us hope that the report will be what the research scientists believe—that the vaccine will truly be the weapon to fight the crippling disease of polio.

Throughout the years, since the March of Dimes was started by the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, you have been contributing to an organization known as the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. A great deal of this money which you and your neighbors have contributed has been spent in aiding those stricken with polio in an attempt to restore these people to their rightful place in our society.

But also, a great deal of this money has been spent on research. Out of this research came gamma globulin. This serum has been found helpful, in that it will give temporary immunity to polio in most cases.

Now out of this research has come the already well-known Salk vaccine.

But let us remember—even if the vaccine should prove to be helpful, even if it should prove to be a definite preventive for polio, the length of this immunity to the disease still will not be definitely known. It will likely take several years to prove the formula definitely.

Furthermore, it will take several years for the pharmaceutical houses to provide the vaccine in sufficient quantities for everyone who wants the shots to receive them. Estimates have been made that at least two years will be required to meet the demand, and quite possibly more than this minimum of two years.

In the meantime, while our thoughts dwell on the Salk vaccine, let us hope and pray that the reports forthcoming within a very few days will be most favorable.

LES TALK By LESTER

Notice on the Avalon show calendar for April that the Derby Drive-in will open come May 1. And the drive-in will be equipped with the new wide screen to accommodate CinemaScope and VistaVision.

The theater business is making a serious comeback after giving up some customers to television. Better pictures are being made—that seems to be the main reason for people returning to the theaters. And also the theaters are offering much clearer and larger pictures through this CinemaScope, etc.

Amos Page says that the local theater suffered under the novelty of television last year, but that business is now improving again. I am most glad to hear that. And it's rather unusual, for more and more people are getting TV sets here, and the reception is getting much better.

But to sit through a show on TV, you are forced to also sit through a great number of commercials. And some people do not care much for the commercials. Furthermore, TV reception is still not without its faults, even where normal reception is supposedly perfect. Besides all that, you can't buy popcorn or candy or cold drinks or hot dogs at home.

Frankly, I don't think that TV is about to put the picture show people out of business. When radio came along with its advertising, some thought that newspaper advertising would be a thing of the past in a short while. When TV came along, some thought both radio and newspaper advertising would be things of the past. Yet newspaper advertising, nationally speaking, continues to be on the upgrade. The same thing will no doubt apply to the motion picture business. When the novelty of TV is erased, theater goers will again be theater goers.

I also notice that the motion picture industry and the television industry are now cooperating wonderfully well—each is helping the other, so to speak. Many motion picture stars are making comebacks via the TV route, and when they again make pictures, no doubt they will be good box-office drawing cards. And new stars, who got their start on TV, are going into pictures, and the public will want to see them on their theater screens.

So, it appears that these two forms of entertainment are going to manage to live together; and possibly in the not-too-distant future, both will be living better than ever before.

A woman riding on a trolley car was anxious not to pass her destination. She poked the conductor with her umbrella. "Is that the First National Bank?" "No, mum," replied the conductor, "that's my stomach."

If I had the money (which Clifford Allison can assure you I have not), I could leave Saturday on a tour of ten countries of Europe, the tour being sponsored by the National Editorial Association.

The all-expense cost of such a trip would be $1,410, which, if I had the money, sounds very reasonable.

I would be leaving New York City via Trans World Airlines at 12 noon Saturday, and arrive in Lisbon the next morning at 8:30. From Lisbon I would go to Madrid, and then to Barcelona, seeing among other things the Ramblas, Parliament, City Hall, Gothic Fortress, etc.

The trip, if I had the money, would take me to Sorrento and then to Rome where I would include a trip to Vatican Museum. From Rome, I would be going to Florence, and from Florence to Venice—the place where I would ride in a gondola and see the sights.

And then to Milan and Lausanne, and from there I would go, if I had the money, to Freiburg and Heidelberg, and Wiesbaden, and Cologne and Amsterdam and Brussels. And then Gay Paree. I would spend three full days in Paris and see the Rue de la this and the Rue de la that.

London would be my next stop, if I had the money for the trip. Perhaps I wouldn't have the opportunity to see Winston, but I could see Buckingham Palace and the Changing of the Guard and No. 10 Downing Street.

Then after a visit in other parts of England and Scotland, I would leave London at 10:45 the next night on May 13 and be back in New York at 10:45 the next morning.

If I had the money, I would make the trip. However, I might as well admit it—if I should arrive back in New York on the morning of May 14, I wouldn't even have enough money to get back home from there. And that's a powerful long way to try hitch-hiking.

One can dream, though, can't one?

WORLD'S GREATEST WIFE SAVER AN ELECTRIC CLOTHES DRYER

"MY ELECTRIC CLOTHES DRYER IRONED OUT MY IRONING PROBLEMS!"

says Mrs. C. T. Shropshire, 4503 West Third, Amarillo, Texas

"The dryer changed my method of buying clothes for my five children. Now, I just buy the kind of materials which need no ironing."

"I remove the clothes from the dryer before they are completely dried out, and hang them on a hanger. They need no ironing, as all the wrinkles fall right out."

Any time you can save ironing time is a good time, especially when you have five children, and want to spend as much time with them as you can. Try the convenience of electric clothes drying and reap the dividend Mrs. Shropshire enjoys—more time with her family.

The world's greatest wife saver—that's an electric clothes dryer. Stops lifting and lugging, cuts ironing time in half. See a demonstration at your Reddy Kilowatt Dealer.

16 to Graduate

Students of the high school and members of the faculty are busily engaged these days in rounding out the final preparations for the closing exercises of the school, which will take place Friday, April 16. The last week of the school will be devoted entirely to the final examinations and to other work of finishing up the season, and on Thursday, the graduating exercises will be held at the school auditorium.

On Thursday evening the pupils of the graduating class will render a play entitled "The Sweet Girl Graduate," to which a small admission fee will be charged.

On Sunday, the 18th, at the regular morning hour, Rev. J. T. Howell will preach the baccalaureate sermon at the Methodist church, to which the public will be cordially invited.

We have not been furnished with the program of the graduating exercises nor the play, but they will likely appear later.

Easter Services

There will be Easter services at the Presbyterian church Sunday evening, beginning at 7:30 promptly, given by the members of the Presbyterian Sunday School. The program consists of special songs and recitations by the little tots and a beautiful missionary program, showing how missions have girdled the globe. A large map, 9x12, has been drawn for this purpose. One of the prettiest features of the program will be a pantomime by Miss Etta Storck.

The church will be appropriately decorated for the occasion, showing Easter lilies in profusion. A cordial invitation is extended to the public. The contribution for the evening will go to foreign missions.

Mothers Club to Serve Dinner

The ladies of the Mothers Club announce that they will serve a dinner on the first Monday at the Christian-Cousins Hall. The ladies find themselves about $50 in debt, a balance being due on books and the sheds. It is their intention to raise this amount before the close of this school term, and to this end they earnestly ask your support. Every lady in the district is expected to contribute something toward the dinner and all who possibly can are invited to be present and help with it.

Twenty-five cents will be charged and you are assured of all the good things you can eat.

Junior Missionary Society
The Junior Missionary Society met Sunday afternoon at the M. E. Church under the supervision of Mrs. Robert Ashby.

Our total enrollment is 34. We enjoyed a nice little program, and as it was the closing of our first quarter, each member brought his mite box. The collection was $2.42 which was sent by our superintendent to help support two Wesley houses where little foreign children are cared for during the day while their parents are working in the mines or factories to support their families. The children are also taught to speak English, and best of all they are taught about our dear Savior.

The infant class collection was $2.83, which helps to support a kindergarten school in China.

We extend a hearty invitation to all children to come join our little band of workers and let's save our pennies and work in all the ways we can to help the children more unfortunate than we, that they may know the love of Jesus who said, "Suffer little children to come unto me."

Our monthly meeting is every fourth Sunday.

Study Club Entertains

On Friday afternoon of last week the beautiful home of Mrs. D. B. Veatch was the scene of a very enjoyable gathering, the occasion being the second open meeting of the Study Club, to which meeting a number of guests had been invited. An excellent program furnished an hour's entertainment. This was followed by a social hour, during which time a dainty luncheon was served. About 30 ladies were present.

The club regrets the continued absence of Mrs. W. M. Massay, owing to the serious illness of her little son.

Mesdames Gething, Watkins, and Upham were missed from our number Friday.

SPEAKING & CARDS

DIABOLO

If you like both puzzles and cards, here's a combination for you.

Take out a deck of cards while you're waiting for a date or a 'phone call or the delivery boy. Remove and shuffle the four Kings, Queens, Jacks and three of the Aces. You won't need the rest of the pack. Lay the 15 cards out in three rows of four each, and a bottom row of three cards. For instance, you might get:

A J A K
K Q Q J
A J Q K
K O J

There's one space left and the point is to move one card at a time into an empty space so as to re-arrange the pattern and end up:

K K K K
Q Q Q Q
J J J J
A A A

You can move your cards up, down or across, but not diagonally. Once you've become pretty good at this, there's a variation that's much more of a challenge—and more fun.

This way the Queen of Spades will be below the King of Spades, and the Jack of Spades below the Queen. And so on.

Probably your real trouble will come with the bottom row of Aces—just when you thought you had it made! But there's always that space to save you.

Fish 'n' Chips . . . New Style

Seafood restaurants all over the country feature "fish 'n' chips," that tasty combination of crisp fried fish and French fried potatoes. But somehow "fish 'n' chips" get neglected at home. Housewives object to the bother . . . or to the odor . . . of fish cookery. And, thereby, miss out on a delectable dish.

But now with Birds Eye quick-frozen fish sticks and French fried potatoes ready and waiting for you at your local store, you can serve a new-style "fish 'n' chips" dinner at home with no bother and no tell-tale odors. Both the fish sticks and the potatoes are pre-cooked—you simply heat them until golden brown and crisp. Good "go-withs" are a crunchy cole slaw salad and this tangy Creole Sauce.

Creole Sauce

- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1/4 cup finely chopped green pepper
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- 1/2 cup canned tomatoes
- 1/2 teaspoon sugar (optional)
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1/2 teaspoon Tabasco sauce

Melt butter in saucepan. Add green pepper and onion and sauté until almost tender, stirring occasionally. Then add tomatoes, breaking up pieces with a fork. Add remaining ingredients and mix well. Cover and simmer 20 minutes. Serve with fish sticks. Makes about 1/2 cup sauce, or enough for 3 servings.

RETURN FROM GERMANY

Capt. and Mrs. Harvey Craig and daughters, Pat and Nancy, arrived home last week from Munich, Germany, after three years service duty. They are en route to White Sands, N. M., where Capt. Craig is to be stationed. Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Harlan, parents of Mrs. Craig, honored them with a dinner the night of their homecoming. Attending were Capt. Craig's parents, Rev. and Mrs. S. T. Greenwood, and Mrs. Celestia D. Harlan of Alameda, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Harlan and daughter Kathy of McLean. The Craigs brought with them a 17-month-old boy to his foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. McDonald of Albuquerque, N. M. The child met his parents for the first time Saturday at the Amarillo airport. The adoption process had taken over a year, and even though the McDonalds had had pictures, it was their first glimpse of their new son. Though the child neither speaks nor understands the English language, he makes friends with everyone and seems to be adjusting himself quickly to the change. Pat and Nancy Craig visited the high school Monday and talked with the students about the activities of students in Germany. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gibson and family and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Graham and son spent the week-end visiting in Muleshoe with Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Gibson. Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Smith returned Thursday from a two-weeks visit in Farmington, N. M. and Bayfield, Colo. Mr. and Mrs. Ted Street and Harold McColum are visiting in Bayfield, Colo., this week. Washingtonians Have Troubles, Too

By Congressman Walter Rogers

Wildlife
The age-old East Texas debate of open or closed season on squirrels seems to have spread east of the Mississippi and right smack into the White House. It seems that the turt on the President's putting green was being disrupted by some type of vandal. A hurried investigation (without the benefit of a Congressional investigating committee) resulted in the finger of scorn being pointed at the squirrels. Although immediate defenses were set up, some delay was occasioned in dealing with the culprits. It could not be determined whether such vandalism should carry the death penalty or banishment to the rural wooded areas. Word got around that the latter was decided upon which took some of those who were preparing to raise a great hue and cry about squirrel murderers. However, this setback was only temporary because it was conceded that banishment of a city squirrel to a rural area without proper identification would result in the country squirrels not being able to recognize the inability of city squirrel to cope with the ways of nature, he having been fed with a silver spoon so many years; with the end result that the country squirrel would get all of the food and the city squirrel would starve to death. This divided the camp between the anti-squirrels and the pro-squirrels. The pro-squirrels claim that this was inhuman and was indirect squirrel murder. The tempo of the battle increases. The possibility of settlement presently appears to be just about as remote as the open and closed season debate that started in East Texas shortly after the Lone Star Flag was first lofted above our great domain. Squirrel troubles are not the only animal troubles plaguing our President. It seems that he has pigeon trouble on his Pennsylvania farm. It is reported that he got out his shotgun and went to work on them. This made me feel a little bit better about what I had been doing where I live in Washington. For some unknown reason the pigeons seem to love the Rogers family. It might be the wide eaves on our house. In any event, they proceeded to wake us about 5 a. m. until I got a B-B gun and went to work on them. Actually, I was ashamed to be out shooting at them and always waited until dusk or early in the morning when I might not be identified in the shadows. However, since the President has set the pattern, I have come out in the open. The pigeons don't seem to be much more disturbed than they were in the first place. When this operation first began, the pigeons would fly off as soon as I came out with the B-B gun. They soon learned that I had to cock the gun, so from then on, they waited for that performance. I was able to slip up on them once or twice, and they were the victims of a sample of my shooting. The result of that was that now they don't fly when I come out of the house with a gun, they don't fly when I cock the gun, and they don't fly when I shoot at them. I may have to call in the President for some advice on the subject or borrow his shotgun.

The Gas Hearings
The House Interstate and Foreign Commerce committee has finally commenced the hearings on several gas bills pending before Congress. From the standpoint of basic democratic government, this will be one of the most important issues, if not the most important issue, in several decades. Many people think it involves only the question of the use of gas. This is not true. The issue is whether or not this country will continue to operate under the dual sovereign theory of a federal government and a state government, or whether these two will be fused into one all-powerful federal centralized bureaucracy. Few people realize the impact that the recent Supreme Court decision can have on the democratic form of government if it is not corrected by this Congress. The expansion of the jurisdiction of the federal government can be effected quicker, easier, and more completely through the medium of interstate commerce than any other way. The invasion of and encroachment upon states' rights through the commerce clause of the Federal Constitution is one of the greatest dangers faced by the individuals of this generation. It must be continually guarded against.

Joyce Dickinson And Billy F. Harlan United in Marriage

Nuptial vows were exchanged by Miss Joyce Jo Dickinson and Billy Frank Harlan in a single-ring ceremony the afternoon of March 20 at 2 o'clock in the sanctuary of the Center Street Methodist Church in Tucumcari, N. M. The ceremony was read by Rev. Curtis Dickinson of Amarillo, brother of the bride. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Dickinson of Tucumcari, N. M., and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harlan of Shamrock, formerly of McLean.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a street-length frock designed with a fitted bodice and a bouffant skirt. It was fashioned of pink lace over taffeta. With it she wore pink pumps, a white shoulder-length veil of illusion, fastened to a velvet hat, trimmed with pearls, and white elbow-length nylon mitts trimmed with rhinestones. Her nosegay was made of sweetheart pink roses and stephanotis, tied with pink satin ribbon with long streamers. For something old she wore a necklace belonging to Mrs. Lily Dellinger; her dress was new; she wore a blue garter; and the veil was borrowed. Gail Dickinson, a niece of the bride, was bridesmaid. She wore a light blue embossed cotton street-length dress with a fitted bodice and full skirt. Her accessories were blue, and her nosegay was of pink ranunculus. Gifford Nolan of Shamrock, a brother-in-law of the groom, was best man, and ushers were Jim Tom Dickinson, nephew of the bride, and John (Wif) Miles of Las Cruces. Bobbie Srote and Nancy Pate were candlelighters, and Dolores Dickinson, niece of the bride, registered the guests at the church.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Lowell Potter, soloist, accompanied by Mrs. V. L. McVey, organist, sang "Always" and "I Love You Truly." Mrs. McVey played the traditional wedding marches for the processional and recessional. Mrs. Dickinson chose to wear to the wedding a navy blue crepe dress trimmed with medallions of lace, accessorized in navy and pink, and a corsage of tallman roses. Mrs. Harlan wore a beige suit with black and pink accessories, and a pink rosebud corsage. A reception was held in the rural home of Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Dickinson. The bride's chosen colors of pink and white were used in the theme for the reception.

The bride was graduated from Tucumcari High School with the class of 1952. She was desk clerk at the Conchas Hotel for one and one-half years, and for the past year has been bookkeeper for the Tucumcari Oil company.

Mr. Harlan was graduated from McLean High School with the class of 1950, and attended New Mexico A. and M. College in Las Cruces for two years. He owns a ranch about 40 miles from Bueyeros, N. M., where the couple will reside. After the reception, the newlyweds left on a honeymoon trip to Las Vegas, Nev., after which they will be at home at the ranch.

Friday evening, Mrs. Harlan was feted with a miscellaneous shower in the home of Mrs. Fred Pearson. Mrs. Bob Sanders, and Misses Nancy Pate, Bobbie Srote, Gina Thaxton, and Gail Dickinson were co-hostesses. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harlan and son Billy Frank were hosts at a rehearsal dinner at the Conchas Hotel Coffee Shop Saturday evening. The immediate families and the bridal party were guests. Mr. and Mrs. Grover Dickinson held a luncheon in their home at 12 o'clock Sunday.

Rabies Control Now Ineffective

Rabies control measures currently in force in Texas are ineffective, the State Department of Health said this week.

The department said a study concluded by Bureau of Laboratory officials reveals "current control measures have proved ineffectual in eliminating rabies from the state's dog population. "But," the department added, "morbidity statistics indicate those controls have been effective in preventing human cases of the disease. Only 29 human deaths have been recorded in the period between 1944 and 1955."

Rabies abatement work in Texas should be in the hands of local authorities, the health agency pointed out.

"Although there has been considerable fluctuation in the number of rabid dogs from year to year, the overall state level of infection has remained consistently high. "Remedial measures have not been uniformly or consistently applied. Under the stimulus of a sharp increase of animal rabies, most cities have enforced existing ordinances providing for compulsory vaccination and the collection of stray animals. But with a decline in incidence, municipal ordinances have frequently been only perfunctorily enforced."

The effectiveness of a control program in a given city is limited without county-wide cooperation, the department said.

Complicating factors in dog rabies control have been the marked increase of rabies in wild animals, particularly foxes and skunks. "Only three rabid foxes were received by the department in 1954, and they were all from a single county. In contrast, 100 rabid foxes were submitted from 33 counties last year."

The department said it felt the solution to the problem of wildlife rabies is the "employment, on a permanent basis, of skilled predatory animal trappers by either state or federal government to insure that fox and skunk populations are kept below the level necessary to support rabies in epidemic form."

A bill passed during the special legislative session last year authorized commissioner courts in counties of over 800,000 population to regulate dog numbers outside the boundaries of incorporated cities during rabies epidemics.
