doctor does. But we don't often realize that this self-sacrifice isn't just a matter of missing a night's sleep now and then or letting a poor man's bill go unpaid. Very frequently the doctor actually has to risk his own life.

This is made clear by the illness of Dr. Walter Blair Stewart Jr., children's specialist at Atlantic City, N. J.

Dr. Stewart has been in charge of infantile paralysis cases at an Atlantic City municipal hospital. For weeks he has been working day and night in an effort to bring his child patients through the disease without the crippling after-effects so common among sufferers from that malady.

Overwork and physical weariness weakened his resistance, and last night Dr. Stewart himself has been stricken with infantile paralysis and his own two children have contracted it.

We laymen always take care to give a very wide berth to any case of contagious disease. We have to be protected by a serum are, unfortunately, few in number. Some of the deadliest of them can be avoided only by steering clear of people who suffer from them.

Quarantine laws and other health regulations help us in that regard. But we usually forget that the doctor can't avoid himself of that protection.

We can stay at home and dodge germs; the doctor has to go right to the spot where the chances of infection are greatest, and do it over and over again.

The most malignant organisms in existence have a chance to attack him, and, trust to his own physical sturdiness and such meager prophylactic measures as may be available that he will not be harmed.

Usually he gets away with it. But not always. Dr. Stewart, contracting infantile paralysis because of his devoted efforts to save a group of suffering children, shows what can happen to a doctor whose luck is out.

And that risk, by the way, is one item that never appears on your doctor's bill.

Entertains For Out Of Town Guest

Miss Eric Brown entertained friends with a bridge party recently at the home of her aunt, Mrs. J. L. Rush, 1906 Seury street, honoring Miss Pauline Pryor of Fort Stockton, who is visiting her this week.

The house was attractively decorated with yellow cosmos and chrysanthemums and a shock of maize with pumpkins at its base. Halloween effects were also carried out in the refreshments.

After a few games of bridge, Miss Underwood was presented with an old-fashioned English makeup box for high score; Miss Culwell, a pair of candlestick holders made of Mexican pottery for low score; and the honoree, with a beautiful novelty hand mirror.

Refreshments of black and yellow sandwiches representing jack o' lanterns, individual pumpkin and pecan pies and coffee were served to the following: Mmes. Alvin Blessingame, Joe Clere, Claudia Duncan, J. L. Rush, Roy Percyfield, Misses Hazel Underwood, Ann Culwell, Pauline Hubbard, Lois Howie, Margaret Moore, Inez Frizzell, La Juan Gilmore and the honoree.

Texas Tuberculosis Association Announced School Essay Contest

AUSTIN—Through the generosity of a member of its board of directors, the Texas Tuberculosis Association announces an essay writing contest for school children.

Two groups of prizes will be given for the best essays on tuberculosis. Prizes of fifteen, ten and five dollars will be awarded to winners of first, second and third places, respectively, in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades, and prizes in like amounts will go to winners in the ninth, tenth, eleventh and twelfth grades.

The subject of the essays will be "What Should a Grade Pupils Know About Tuberculosis?" The contest is open to all pupils from the sixth grade through high school in public, private and parochial schools of the state, except those living in the five largest cities. Local associations affiliated with the state association direct the tuberculosis work in those cities.

Judges for each county in the state will be appointed by the county superintendent of schools, by the county council of parents-teacher associations, and the best essays from each of the two grades groups in the county will be sent to the Texas Tuberculosis Association for final judging. Value of information in the essay will count for 75%, and English and style writing for 25%. The contest will close March 1st, 1933.

Contestants may obtain information on the subject of tuberculosis from the Texas Tuberculosis Association, or the State Tuberculosis Sanatorium, Sanatorium, Texas.

Sing Sing Grid Machine Wins And Cools Six Cops

OSSINING, N. Y. (UP).—Criminals coached by John Law so thoroughly routed the police on Lower field that the happy football enthusiasts of Sing Sing are singing a new alma mater song, "Six Cops Down And Five To Go."

It's a rollicking, booming song, dedicated to a double triumph, the flattening of six coppers and a 7-0 victory by the Big House varsity over the Port Jervis police eleven.

John Law, former Notre Dame captain, is almost as elated over the affair as if he were an inmate, because, aided and abetted by his coaching, the big green and white "stir" squad avenged last year's 13-0 beating by the police. Warden Lewis E. Lawes is equally delighted.

However, Jumbo "Power House" Morano doesn't know whether to be glad or sad. He's the husky, swarthy chap whose deeds of heroism yesterday largely inspired the new song, and he'll be graduated Thursday—right at the peak of his grid career.

Jumbo led the assault on the police, and every time stretcher bearers rushed out to a prostrate orange clad copper, the 2,300 inmates yelled themselves hoarse. More than 1,600 visitors saw the game.

The convicts got the draw on the expert pattery.

SPORTS ON PARADE

By CURTIS BISHOP

Every third year since 1924, the Big Spring Steers have defeated the Sweetwater Mustangs. This is a third year.

In 1924 and 1925 the Ponies won by scores of 13 to 7 and 6 to 6. Then in 1926, one of those third years, the Mustangs were defeated 6 to 0. In 1927 and 1928 the Sweetwater club emerged victorious by scores of 14 to 13 and 6 to 6. Nineteen twenty-nine, Big Spring's year, found the Bovines winning by a score of 14 to 0, the most one-sided triumph registered by either school in more than a decade of competition.

In 1930 Sweetwater won 19 to 7, dedicating the new Big Spring stadium. In 1931 the Mustangs were also successful, a 7 to 0 victory crushing district championship hopes of the Longhorns.

This is the year for Big Spring to win if precedent holds out.

Dope, as you probably know, predicts a one-sided victory for the Mustangs. Members of the Bovine squad differ.

The slight rain that fell Friday will probably have little effect upon the playing field. The Steers are hoping for a dry turf. A wet surface would of course handicap the fleet Sheridan, but on the other hand it would mean that whenever offensive tactics the Bovines could produce would be unopposed.

ing seriously the presence of Sam Baugh in the lineup this afternoon. We were assured in Sweetwater last week that Baugh would be in no condition to play for weeks at least, that a combination of injuries and illness had rendered him physically unfit for many days to come. Sheridan's runs are thrilling ones, not the usual variety of spinners, plunges, etc.

On the other hand Olin Bristow must resort to the spectacular if he expects to be successful. We, of course, are not at liberty to disclose the system of offense and defense that the Steers mentors have been teaching for the past two weeks, but we expect you may rest assured that the Bovines will finish with some excitement if nothing else. There will be at least six different kinds of formations on the offense, and probably many as four on the defense.

Bristow has discarded the eight man line which was used with success against Aguirre. That type of defense would hardly be suited for Sweetwater's wide, running attack. It remains to be seen just what combination the Steers will employ.

A week of strenuous, long practice brought only two injuries to members of the squad, and neither are serious. Both Kobertz and Reid turned in hard Wednesday afternoon. Whether Harris will be in the starting lineup was still unsettled.

An interesting angle to today's pep squad, as color was carried by Big Spring will be represented by the first time this season, and we understand that an entire set of new uniforms will be purchased in the near future. The suits will be issued and returned when the season is over.

An addition to the press box is being temporarily hung up to take care of the pack of Sweetwater who will be here for the first time this season, and we never complain at the publicity service of the Sweetwater Reporter and No. 3 County News. The Reporter has a staff of three to cover each contest and C. S. Boyles Jr. of the No. 3 County News prints all of their stuff and adds some of his own.

Three predictions for District play this weekend: Big Spring 6, Sweetwater 0, Colorado 13, Midland 0, San Angelo 10, McCaskey 0.

Circus To Be Here Saturday

Harrington's nickel plate circus will exhibit here Saturday, with two performances at Third and Bell streets.

About 500 persons lined to the Liberty Park show grounds by the call of blaring trumpets attended three performances of the Harrington show yesterday afternoon and last night. Spectators crowded the grounds for the first night show and only were turned away to await the second night attraction. In addition to circus line of active jokers, clowns and monkeys, acrobatic stunts, horseback riding, a new innovation in shows in this section was seen in the circus. Lambis performed for the troupe.

Annual Mum Show

Flowers That Can Be Grown Out Of Doors In West Texas To Be Shown At Ribble's

The aristocrats of the chrysanthemum family will make their bow to the public at the annual Mum Show conducted by E. B. Ribble, commencing Sunday and lasting throughout the following Sunday.

Guides will be on hand to show visitors through the grounds and a very cordial invitation is extended to the public by Mr. and Mrs. Ribble.

Mr. Ribble has never grown more magnificent mums than he has this year. The plants are all in the open and in spite of that they equal in size and beauty any hot house flowers in the east. They are in the most popular colors, lavender, yellow, rose, and white with a faint lavender blush.

In size they measure 6 to 7 inches across in the bud and will be larger than 8 inches across when in full bloom. Their circumference is 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 inches—no small size for a West Texas flower.

The big mums are the hardest flowers to grow, said Mr. Ribble, because they require constant attention. Buds have to be pinched off, almost daily, and the plants must be constantly watched and watered. One of the most interesting features of the show is a bed of common small yellow chrysanthemums which Mr. Ribble planted to show the public the difference between the flowers when the bush is allowed to flower as much as it will.

The big yellow mums come from the same stock as the little yellow, he said. The difference in size was due mainly to the fact that only one, two, or three flowers is allowed to grow on each bush.

Mr. Ribble expects to have chrysanthemums in bloom until December 10.

Other flowers on exhibit are the poinsettias, some of which are already six feet tall and showing a red tinge. In the center of each bed, said Mr. Ribble, was a small cup of honey as pure as any found in a bee hive.

One of Mr. Ribble's odd lots is a forcing house in which he can grow snapdragons and sweet peas all winter through. The snapdragons are beginning to bloom and the sweet peas to come.

Flowers will also be shown the autumn buds which is far more interesting than it appears to be. In it Mr. Ribble has accomplished something that florists have long declared could not be done in Central Texas. He has grown and cut carnations every month of the year. In October he sold 100 carnations in the first 100 days.

The soil in which these carnations grow is enriched by a ton of soil shipped from Germany at Mr. Ribble's request. It sounds very expensive but he said that the price of the soil and the shipment to Houston cost him less than the freight from Houston to Big Spring. This soil has just the ingredients he wanted for growing carnations the year round.

Everybody in Big Spring is given an invitation to drop by and get through the grounds with no obligation to buy.

and all Sweetwater is proud of their record. We are proud of this group of youngsters who believe in fair play, clean tactics and a determined spirit to win. The Mustangs, though, are good losers and considerate winners . . . and glad to have on their schedule the Big Spring team. It takes two teams like the Steers and Mustangs to make football the grand game it is. We're for the Mustangs, and glad of the privilege of playing the Steer team.

CALL of the WEST

BY R. G. MONTGOMERY

CHAPTER XXVII

Asper Delo waited impatiently for Dona to return with news from the posse. He was impatient because he feared that even though the bandit was surrounded, he might escape. When she did not come Asper tried to stand up and found that he was much more able to walk than he had thought.

About 4 o'clock Dunay came riding across the clearing. He looked as fresh as though he had just stepped out of a barber shop. Asper glared angrily at him as he swung down from his horse.

"What's going up there? Where is Dona?" Asper spat out the questions. It was relief to take his impatience out on someone.

"The men are milling around but they haven't captured or killed anyone yet!" Dudley flicked a spot of dust from his trousers. "I haven't seen Dona. I should think she stays in camp. This is a man's business."

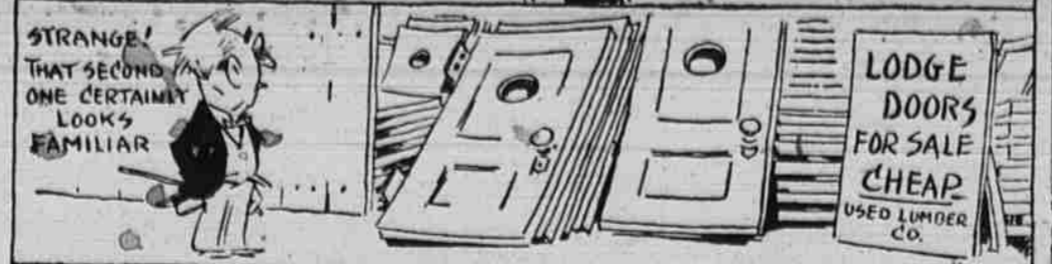

Asper exploded with a roar. "You take it pretty smooth, don't you? You don't seem much worried about her. You'd better be looking around and making sure she's safe!" Dudley backed up a few steps before his broadside was stopped. He can be in danger, he argued.

"You can't be in danger," Asper said. "You can't be in danger." Asper exploded with a roar. "You take it pretty smooth, don't you? You don't seem much worried about her. You'd better be looking around and making sure she's safe!" Dudley backed up a few steps before his broadside was stopped. He can be in danger, he argued.

"I'll ride right out and fetch her in," Asper promised. He was about to reach for the saddle horn when Swergin came thundering around the corner of the clearing.

"What's the matter now?" Asper asked. "Your wife's home, the man."

ALL OF THE WEST—

a fool," the doctor snapped. Asper looked the medical man over with a baleful glare. He seemed on the point of flinging his spurs and riding over the slender medic. At last he held from the middle and growled deeply. "Get it done in a hurry."

The doctor bandaged the arm and shoulder tightly. He said nothing but it was plain that he thought his boss the most irresponsible lunatic he had ever attended.

Asper pulled his wool shirt back over the bandages and mounted without asking for an, advice from the doctor. He faced the men and gave some orders. "Then after me!" With those words he struck out at a gallop in the direction of Pass Creek.

Swergin rode at his side in grim silence. He had been in the saddle the better part of the day but he was still untired and he looked as grim as Asper himself.

They rode on into the timber in a zig-zag course. It was Asper's plan to pick up Ball's trail and to pick up Ball's trail and to track him to his hiding place. He forged ahead at a killing pace, the steep slope cutting the wind of his horse and dropping out two of the less powerful saddlers. The others were streaked with lather when he finally called a halt. Not a sign of a fresh track had they crossed though they had ranged from the lowest ravine to the rim of Polly Mountain.

Swergin sat on his horse with a grim smile on his lips. "You ought to be satisfied now that you can't pick up that bird's trail. You just have to waylay him."

"We have to locate his hiding place," Asper's voice was weak from the strain of riding.

"You'll never do it this way," Swergin was squinting into the sunset as though figuring the house of light they had left.

"How will we do it then?" Asper was desperate.

"Let the men spread out and each go after that $1000 by himself. You ride back to camp and take a rest for an hour," Swergin slapped the neck of his trembling horse.

"There ain't no animal living can stand climbing on a run. You'll just kill all of our best horses." Asper knew the timber boss was right. He nodded his head, admitting defeat, and turned his horse down the slope. "Go after him and get him! My offer still stands."

The men spread out and each took a different direction. Asper didn't look at Swergin. He rode away with a dejected droop of his shoulders. This was the breaking straw. Ball had taken toll that was beyond his powers to meet. He would gladly have surrendered on any terms the cowboy offered had Ball been able to talk to him at that moment.

Swergin doubled back down the trail. He rode slowly and in a manner that showed he knew where he was going. He kept along the rim in a downward direction. After riding for perhaps a mile he dismounted and examined the ground in a dense growth of aspens. With a grunt he straightened up and squinted at the sun. He had found the track she sought but the light was fading fast. He would have to take up the trail in the morning. It would still lead where he wanted to go.

Enforcement - Not Repeal

PONDER THIS

"New York—The Great White Way, Fifth Avenue, Broadway, a million people are doing something—but not one telling or selling intoxicating liquor. NOT ONE. From the Gulf of Mexico to San Francisco, from the Atlantic to the Pacific—upon thirty-five thousand miles of public highways, not a single bill board, displaying a single picture, sentence or word, advertising intoxicating liquor. NOT ONE. Millions of young people all over the United States know nothing at all through advertisements of this or that brand of liquor. The return of beer would open the flood gates of modern advertising to the liquor interests." Weekly World News, Santa Ana, California.

"WE WILL RESIST EVERY STEP TO REPEAL"

The nation waited to hear what the Woman's Christian Temperance Union had to say about the various proposals to "restore temperance" by setting up liquor sales. The nation was not disappointed. Came the slogan "We will resist every step to repeal." People began to look up the process of repeal. Here are the steps: Step I. A wet amendment can not pass without the votes of two-thirds of both Houses of Congress. Step II. After that a wet amendment cannot become law until it has been ratified by 36 State Legislatures or 36 State Conventions. Learn these steps. Concentrate on essentials. Forget the personalities of candidates or candidates' wives. Measures, not men; principles, not party! —B.L.B.

THE LINE SHALL NOT BREAK WHERE I STAND

By Laura D. Whitmore

(Tune: "Not Half Has Ever Been Told.") I will stand in the pathway of duty For a cause which shall never retreat; 'Tis with God-given strength I shall conquer And the foe in the conflict defeat. I will stand 'gainst a great host of darkness And list' to the Master's command Hurl'd down from heavenly portals— "The line must not break where you stand." Chorus The line shall not break where I stand, For I'll answer the Master's demand, And shout with God's armor around me. "The line must not break where you stand."

I will stand in one pathway of duty. Though the dark clouds of sin o'er me roll, For with prayer and the sword of the Spirit Despair shall not enter my soul. I will fight against Satan, the tempter, Despoiler of laws of my land. By the sign of the cross I'll be victor— "The line shall not break where I stand." (Contributed by the local chapter W.C.T.U.)

tinguished business symbols—the Checkerboard of Purina Mills—a familiar design that for nearly 40 years has so prominently identified every bag of livestock and poultry feed manufactured by this international concern, and so familiar to those who visit Big Spring Feed & Seed Company.

Known from coast to coast, the Checkerboard trademark traces its origin to a small country store in southeast Missouri. Here, in this store—his father's store—worked Will Danforth, the lad who was destined later to become founder and president of Purina Mills. Even at an early age young Danforth showed he had the instincts of a business man. He liked to keep store. Whenever a farmer drove up with the family he would see to it that with dispatch and courtesy, they were supplied with all their needs.

In those days, farm women made the clothes for the family. They bought their calico by the bolt instead of by the yard. Each family had a bolt of an individual pattern. Shirts for the boys and dresses for the girls all came from the same bolt, making it easy to identify the members of any one family by the pattern of the cloth that made up their clothes. It was quite like the Highland clans of Scotland and their plaids.

Each spring and fall, new supplied at the store, and always the farm women hurried to town anxious for first choice. Young Danforth observed how favored were the checkerboard patterns. The largest and brightest checkerboards were always first out of stock. He noted, too, how prominent and distinguishable was this pattern, how attractive.

And so it happened that a few years later when Wm. H. Danforth founded Purina Mills, his memory carried him back to boyhood days and his country store experience, as he sought a trademark to distinguish Purina products. He recalled the checkerboard calico, its vividness, popularity, snap, and four-square-ness. Even though several years had elapsed, the checkerboard design still stood out so strongly in his mind that, as he says, it seemed only natural to choose that symbol to distinguish the profit producing feeds and supplements made by Purina Mills. Now, thirty seven years later, the Purina Checkerboard and Checkerboard feeds are known everywhere. Such is the story back of the Checkerboard on the bags of feeds and supplements at Big Spring Feed & Seed Co.

gelo and Midland-Big Spring affairs.

Yes sir, Big Spring and Sweetwater set 'em a pattern last year. Dope this year says the two teams are not so evenly matched. Dope says the Mustangs are supposed to beat the 'Horns this afternoon. Dope said Christy Columbus wouldn't discover America, too.

Anyway all the boys and girls are going to be over today from Sweetwater. John Hendrix had a party for some old cowman planned for today around Sweetwater's famous chuck wagon and when they went and changed the date for the game from tomorrow to today. So he's afraid he won't be over here. If he comes over we can promise him a quiet, peaceful vantage point from which to witness the scrap. Since Dr. Ellington got Bill Olson to lengthen the press box 12 feet.

There'll be plenty of room in the press box for once. Now if they'll put in steam heat, hot and cold water, a radio, Morris chairs, chairs, a first aid kit and a brass rail maybe the boys will feel at home when the Steers play.

All right lets up and at 'em women and gentlemen, up an' at 'em.

ould most of the coming year be expended for right-of-way for the road.

The oil companies represent 10 per cent of valuations of the county and in 1932 paid 75 per cent of taxes that were actually paid. I believe the service clubs of Big Spring have overlooked the most important thing that they might have set as an objective in that they were not working long ago to have this road improved. I believe it is the best thing next to the paving of the two state highways that you could do for the town. Le Fever continued.

five drives to the head in the fifth. Moore's second drive the towel in as the going sounded for the sixth.

However interesting the main fight might have been, more education was manifested in the scrub which culminated Alabama's rank's state of seven wins. For Adams in good condition, won a decision over the Cuban. The Herd's score sheet showed a draw with a slight edge to Adams but decisions are not won on score sheets. Adams took the decision with great ease, jumping about the ings like a happy frog. Alabama, taken down by an untimely defeat, challenged the victor to another scrap two weeks hence.

Admitted he was somewhat dubious about wading into T. Jimenez after his seconds told him how tough Jimenez was. Bud Holland confided his easy victory over the Mexican was the biggest "act up" he had encountered. Holland had a clear advantage in the first two of a three round fight. Jimenez was going strong in the fore part of the third round to gain a small edge in one round. Holland was too smart to fall victim to the Mexican's tricks.

Kenneth Patton likewise took the first two of a three round fight over Pee Wee Moore to gain an edge. It was hip and luck in the third with the fastest action of the evening shown.

Moore Jackson was too much for Touhy Freeman in a kid boxing match. Little Freeman was almost too cautious and stopped so many punches with his head and face.

In a moral mission the soul and its salvation, sin, death, judgment, hell, the mercy of God and kindred subjects are chiefly dealt with in the evening discourses.

The mission that opens tomorrow will be of the dogmatic type. The speakers and he decided to give the dogmatic kind to which he is especially partial.

Miss Imogene Runyan
Hostess To Idle-Art

The members of the Idle Art Bridge club were entertained by Miss Imogene Runyan Thursday evening with a lovely raffle on party.

The guests of the occasion were: Misses Theo Fuller, Emma Louise Freeman, Mary Alice Wilke, Florine Read and Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Fauchier.

Miss Robinson made a high card game. Mrs. Moore made a visitor's high and received a vanity set. Miss Bailey made the lucky cut and was favored with a deck of cards.

The members were: Misses Veda Robinson, Margaret Bettle, Lena Kake, Polly Webb, Lennah Rose Black, Annie Barley, Mmes. Cecil McDonald, Harold Lytle and Tommy Jordan Jr.

Miss Robinson will be the next hostess.

G. L. A. MEET
The members of the G. L. A. met at the Woodman Hall for matters of routine business.

Only five members were present. They were: Mrs. M. Schwartz, Mrs. Max Wiesen, Lillian Smith, Clara Vin and A. B. Walls.

Don't miss the fun at the Lions Club Jam and night at Municipal Auditorium.
