

PLAIN TALK

By BILL PERKINS

We always try to give credit where credit is due and sometimes we slip up. That happened just last week in The News when we had a story about eight business men treating the coaches and the Tiger football team to a dinner and movie in Amarillo. Faris Hess, who was one of the eight making the trip, told us the other night that many others besides the eight we mentioned had a hand in helping pay the expenses. He was right and had we known about it at the time we certainly would have had it in the paper. That dinner, along with good hard playing and coaching, seemed to pay off handsomely too, after witnessing last Friday night's game.

We saw our first snow in the Panhandle Monday and early that morning the temperature dipped to the low 20's. Every since we can remember folks back in East Texas where we came from would tell about the terrible weather up here around Amarillo. So far, we say it's just not so. Twenty degrees up here with little moisture is not nearly as cold as those damp 40 degree temperatures down in the low section of the state.

Christmas is in the air and McLean merchants are displaying their merchandise for everyone to see. It may be a little early to begin thinking about it, but December 25 will be here before you know it. Some of our friends have told us that they have already purchased most of their gifts. Especially with the grown folks the time will speed right by, but the little fellows who are counting the days will probably think it will never get here.

We'll be watching our mail closely from now on and try to catch any letters to Santa that the young folks send his way. We would like to print all the letters to Santa that we can get our hands on in our December 22 Christmas issue.

At Home—

THOSE WHO DIED FOR FREEDOM

Thirty-seven years ago tomorrow, at eleven a. m., the first World War came to a grinding stop. Europe had been fighting since 1914 and America had been in war for only about 18 months but had suffered terrible casualties. So, the day was one for great rejoicing and celebration.

Since that November 11, 1918, America has fought two more wars and has safely passed thru the worst economic crisis that ever plagued any nation. Today, America is the greatest nation of the modern world in every respect. America has led in every effort to arrange world affairs so that a long and lasting peace for all nations will be the usual rather than the unusual state of affairs. Doesn't that make you glad that you are an American? America is great because it has tremendous resources. America is great because it is founded on basically Christian principles. America is great because it has ever championed the "under dog." But America is great because of its people, people whose ancestry has fought for freedom of religion and ideals in Europe and finding that such a fight was almost impossible, migrated to the North American continent. Here, they fought the same tyrants that had prevailed in their homelands and won for themselves the beginning of this great nation. After the nation was founded, they continued to fight, fought the Indians, the storms, the wild beasts, droughts and floods. They fought to keep this nation undivided—another war was fought for principles. As a result of this continuous "war" for better things, witness the first ten amendments to our constitution. Yes, America is great, has kept its greatness by a continual war against those forces that would destroy the very things that are daily taken for granted. Mr. and Mrs. America, keep your guard up, keep this the greatest nation in the world. We salute those who gave their lives that we might remain free!

Felton Webb Practices Soil Conservation

By Ronald Waters

Stretching across the Panhandle Plains, the old Webb Ranch once covered 30 and three-fourths sections of rolling country. Today a part of that ranch, 16 miles north of McLean, is operated by Felton Webb, who is vice chairman of the Gray County SCD board of supervisors. He has served on the board for 1½ years, and has been a cooperater since the district was organized in 1948. Felton's ranch covers 7¼ sections, with the quarter section located in Kellerville. This 5,000 acres of grazing land joins the Wheeler County line. Usually running between 200 and 225 head of Hereford cattle, an average of between 25 and 30 head graze on each section.

"Soil capability is one thing I firmly believe in; it's a big thing and something that's been often overlooked," Felton says. He explains, "What a place is able to produce in beef and crops and still leave enough there for future generations... each piece of land is capable of doing so much, and soil conservation practices are a big factor in what it is doing today."

Webb believes that a section of land is capable of supporting only so many cows, and the determining factors are the slope

Tigers Beat Broncs 26-13 Friday Night

By NEAL SHULL

A classy array of McLean lads, running behind a great blocking line was too much for the Clarendon Bronchos last Friday night and the McLean Tigers rolled to a 26-13 victory on Duncan Field for their first District 1-A win of the season.

The Tigers' attack was led by Paul Garvin, a fine running back, and by Tailback Morris Wells.

To single out one McLean player and give him credit for the win would be a fatal mistake. It was teamwork on the part of all of the linemen with all the back field men that paid off.

The Tigers actually used a minimum number of different plays. But it was simply hard playing, good clean blocking and tackling, and running plays which made the difference.

Robert Adamson New Assistant Agent For Gray County

Robert Adamson, 23, was appointed assistant Gray County agent, effective November 1, it was announced this week.

Adamson had been assistant county agent in training in Crosbyton for the last four months. Prior to that time he had served in the Army for 22 months, 10 months of which time was spent in Germany.

Born in Post in 1932, he finished high school in 1949. He graduated from Texas Tech in 1953, receiving a degree in agricultural education.

Adamson stated that he was looking forward to his work in Gray County with Ralph Thomas and the other extension agencies. He is especially interested in 4-H Club work.

Amarillo Daily News Names

VINEYARD PLAYER OF WEEK

By Eddie Mullens

Dependable Charlie Vineyard, the line anchor and captain of the McLean Tigers, a team with only one triumph this year, that being a startling 26-13 upset of Clarendon last week, has been chosen as The Daily News' Class A "Player of the Week."

Vineyard is the strapping 175 pounder, stacked six feet in the air, who has been one of the better blockers and defensive warriors on the youthful Tiger club this year.

Charlie was a regular on the fine 1954 team which won the District 1-A banner and the bi-district engagement with Dimmitt before being halted by Sunday in the regional playoffs.

Although the Tigers have a not-so-impressive 1-7 season mark, Charlie has more than once this year chilled the opposing ball carriers with his pile-driving tackles.

Charlie is a three-year letterman and one of two returning lettermen which Coach Hap Rogers had to rebuild this year's club around.

The McLean flash's outstanding performance against the Clarendon Bronchos earned him the honor this week. He has the sear-knack of smelling out the opponents' offensive maneuvers and was in on a large share of his team's tackles.

So great was his defensive play last week against Clarendon, someone remarked that the Bronchos should letter Charlie since he was in their backfield so much.

Charlie either plays end, tackle or line backer on defense. Against the Bronchos last week, Coach Rogers used him at a tackle post. His aggressive play and hard charging of the enemy lines kept the Bronchos alert at all times and on a few occasions he caused the ball carriers to fumble.

One such Clarendon fumble, on the three yard line, set up a Tiger touchdown.

At one time in the game Charlie returned a kickoff back of 20 yards. Coach Rogers plays Charlie deep to give his ball carriers downfield blocking.

Charlie's work last Friday beat out several other top notch Panhandle athletes for the honor, including Teammate Paul Garvin, George Bodey of Stinnett, Jimmy Carver of Hale Center, and Rex Loftis of Springlake.

Paul Garvin carried the ball 18 times for 207 yards and scored two touchdowns to pace the sear-knack of the McLean Tigers.

Schools Dismissed for Veterans' Day—

TIGERS GO TO WHEELER

Coach Hap Rogers' fighting McLean Tigers go to Wheeler tomorrow afternoon to meet the Wheeler Mustangs at 2:00 o'clock.

The Mustang will be seeking revenge since last year's Tigers downed them, 40-7. Although this is a non-conference game, a large holiday crowd is expected to be in attendance.

Superintendent Freeman Melton, Jr., announced that tomorrow would be a holiday in the McLean school system in observance of Veterans' Day.

Many local football fans are expected to attend the Tiger-Mustang game in the afternoon and catch the Lefors-Wellington game at Wellington tomorrow night. Both games promise plenty of excitement.

Popular Dessert is Low in Calories

If you've been a fugitive from sweet desserts and sauces in an attempt to shed a few unwanted pounds, here's good news. This old-fashioned baked custard, topped with maple sauce, was developed especially for weight-watchers. Without sacrificing any sweetness, calories have been shaved down to a minimum through the use of Sucaryl, the newly improved non-caloric sweetener. And no one, except the cook, would ever guess that this wonderful tasting, fully sweetened custard contains no sugar whatsoever.

But what about that rich-looking sauce? Help yourself. It's almost calorie-free, and, thanks to Sucaryl, it too is sweet as sweet can be.

Baked Custard With Maple Sauce

Ingredients:
 2 teaspoons Sucaryl solution or 16 tablets, crushed
 3 eggs, beaten
 1/2 cup milk
 1/2 cup sugar
 1/2 cup vanilla
 2 cups skim milk
 1 teaspoon maple flavoring or vanilla

Directions:
 Add Sucaryl to milk and scald in top of double boiler. Pour over beaten eggs. Stir in flavoring. Strain into 4 custard cups. Set cups in a pan of hot water. Bake in a slow oven (300° F.) for 1 hour, or until a knife inserted near center comes out clean. Serve cold with warm Maple Sauce spooned over top.

Maple Sauce:
 2 teaspoons Sucaryl solution or 16 Sucaryl tablets
 1 cup water
 1-1/2 teaspoons maple flavoring
 2 tablespoons cornstarch
 1/4 teaspoon salt

Mix Sucaryl with water and maple flavoring. Mix a small amount of the liquid with cornstarch and salt in top of a double boiler; then add rest of liquid. Cook and stir over boiling water until thickened. Makes 16 tablespoons of sauce. Each tablespoon contains 3 CALORIES; 0 grams protein; 0 grams fat; 0.8 grams carbohydrate. If made with sugar, each tablespoon would contain 28 CALORIES.

Tempting Finale for a Turkey Dinner

THANKSGIVING SPICE CAKE is a luscious dessert for your holiday dinner. Made with superfine cake flour, the tenderness of the cake is further assured by the use of buttermilk. Deep chocolate layers set off the tawny light tan of the Sea Foam Frosting—on top, a delightful garnish of dainty "fans," made with strips of dates. A fitting finale for Thanksgiving feasts.

"QUITE A COMBINATION"

Sylvia Porter, the syndicated financial columnist, forecasts "with little fear of error" that Christmas retail sales this year will run well ahead of last year for another all-time record. She cites various economic forces—rising employment, big paychecks, and so on—which she feels makes this inevitable. She says the retailers are "determined to use every device and promotion they can dream up to pull us into the stores." She then adds: "Eager customers, lots of cash around, alert merchandisers—it's quite a combination of bullish forces indeed."

We have here one more instance of the amazing vigor of the American economy. And we have something more—a testimonial to how competition at the retail level makes that system click. If, for example, a retailer had a nice tight little monopoly, he wouldn't have to worry about advertising and promoting trade. The buying public would have to come to him, for want of any other place to go. And the situation would be much the same under a system where government rationed and fixed the prices of goods—there would be no effective way for one retailer to offer greater attractions than another. Under free competition, on the other hand, every retailer is at liberty to offer any inducement he can think of, and the one who does the best job gets the most trade.

This, of course, has a great bearing on profits and prices. Competition forces merchants to pare prices to the limit in order to make a reasonable over-all profit through big volume at very small unit profits. Actually, competition is so stiff that many merchants find that their net profits are less now than in days when their sales were nowhere near as big.

HELPING "THE LITTLE FELLOW"

There is much talk to the effect that if federal income taxes are reduced next year the emphasis should be on helping "the little fellow"—rather than people of larger means or business enterprises.

Henry Hazlitt, in one of his Newsweek columns, made an apt comment on that idea. He pointed out that it takes an investment of about $12,500 to create a job in American industry, and said, "This tremendous investment . . . is the main if not the sole reason why the American worker's productivity is greater than that of any other worker in the world, and why his wages are correspondingly greater." He then summed up in these words: "By all odds the best way to 'help the little fellow' is to encourage the profits, savings, and investments that make his job and his income possible."

NOTHING VENTURED, NOTHING GAINED

The TV program, "The $64,000 Question," has dramatized how drastic our income taxes really are. The winner of the $64,000 question pays $23,000 more in income tax than does the $32,000 winner. For this reason most $32,000 winners have declined to try for the top prize.

The same discouragement in risk-taking ventures occurs in business. Tax rules dictate "no" answers every day from businessmen, investors and professional men. And New York's First National City Bank says it doesn't stop there, for "the injury is not only to the opportunities of people but also to the tax collections since risk-taking enterprise affords the richest source of government revenues."

When are we going to respect the law of diminishing returns and encourage risk-taking ventures rather than discourage them?

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

GIBBON, NEBR., REPORTER: "A government bureau is where the taxpayer's shirt is kept."

SANDERSVILLE, GA., PROGRESS: "Some merchants think they have to do something offensive before they will lose a customer. Taint so, according to the National Retail Grocers Association. Of every 100 customers put on the books of any store in any one year . . . only 19 of the original customers remained after 10 years . . . merchants who believe 'everyone knows where my store is' might ponder these figures and seek more new customers through planned newspaper advertising in the home town newspaper."

GREAT FALLS, MONT., LEADER: "Those who invented the absurd assertion . . . a few years ago that 'the national debt doesn't matter because we owe it to ourselves' should ponder these figures, says the Los Angeles Times. They mean that every man, woman and child in the United States paid out $42.18 just for the carrying charge on the debt, which does not reduce the debt itself. And interest rates are rising so that per capita interest charges in the future will be more."

Give Thanks for Frozen Vegetables

WHEN IT COMES TIME TO PREPARE HOLIDAY MEALS, all of us are grateful for time-savers. The bountiful Thanksgiving dinner used to take hours . . . even days . . . to prepare. But nowadays, thanks to quick-frozen foods, the vegetables, at least, can be prepared quickly. Perhaps you'll serve asparagus spears, arranged in bundles and garnished with a strip of pimento, or green peas cooked with mint, and this creamy corn pudding, easily made with Birds Eye golden sweet corn.

CREAMY CORN PUDDING
1 tablespoon butter 1 1/2 cups milk (part cream, if desired)
1 1/2 tablespoons flour 1 teaspoon grated onion
1 1/2 teaspoons salt 2 eggs, slightly beaten
1/2 teaspoon sugar 1 box (10 ounces) quick-frozen golden sweet corn, thawed
1/2 teaspoon pepper 1 tablespoon chopped pimento

Melt butter. Add flour, salt, sugar and pepper, mixing well to blend. Add milk gradually, stirring until smooth. Cook and stir over medium heat until thickened. Remove from heat, add onion, eggs, and corn, and mix well. Then carefully stir in the pimento. Spoon into 1-quart baking dish. Place in pan of hot water and bake, uncovered, in moderate oven (350° F.) 1 hour, or until firm. Makes 4 servings. (ANS) says Mr. Roland Champion, 808 S. Plains Park Drive, Roswell, N. M.

Wiring — good wiring — is an investment that never depreciates. And good wiring never costs less than it does when you build.
As H. D. Danenberg, who wired the Champion's home, points out: "With their present system, they won't have any expensive additions in the future."
Whether you build or remodel, be sure that wiring is part of your plan — if you plan to live the modern way.

The lifeline of modern living is your home electrical wiring system. When it's up-to-date, you're up-to-date.
Mr. and Mrs. Roland Champion of Roswell know the pleasures of modern electric living, for their home is wired for today — and the future.
Mr. Champion says: "With our home wired for our needs, we live very comfortably, and certainly conveniently."

Mrs. Champion gets right down to cases. "Our wiring lets us have an electric range. I wouldn't have any other kind. The outlets in the kitchen are so handy, and in the living room they're just right for the arrangement of furniture. Our wiring serves us from daylight to dark, right around the clock."
For pleasant living — electric living — wire ahead in your home now.

News For Veterans

VETERAN'S DAY
NOVEMBER 11th:

Citizens of the most prosperous, most powerful nation in all history will interrupt their work November 11th to honor those whose sacrifices made possible the greatest freedom known to man. There will be Veterans' Day ceremonies of various kinds in towns and cities and in the country churchyards everywhere as the people acknowledge their great debt for this freedom and this prosperity. But the eyes of most of the Americans will be turned toward Arlington by television, radio, and the newspapers.

Arlington National Cemetery, perhaps above all other American shrines, belongs to America's present and future as well as the past. Here lie the famous and the forgotten heroes of the Revolutionary War. Here, overlooking the Potomac and beyond it, the nation's capitol, stands the yellow mansion in which Robert E. Lee made his painful decision to stand or fall with his native south.

Here, towering above the surrounding trees, rises the mast of the Battleship Maine, a memorial to the crew that went down in the sea with her. Here is the monument, presented by the Canadian government, to the Americans who were killed while serving in the Canadian forces during World War I. And here, in these same hallowed Virginia hills, America's fighting men are daily being put to rest.

And it is then that the past and the present fuse into one. One common denominator rises above all differences of rank, race, or creed. All these men, regardless of where they lived, served their country in time of need. In a sense, however, Arlington—more than just a burial place for American fighting men—is in itself a tribute to its clay-surrounded heroes. These gently rolling hills and stately trees give an air of peaceful solitude to Arlington. Even the endless rows of simple dignified grave markers add to the air.

So it is fitting that the men who have spent so much time of their lives in the crashing turmoil of warfare, many of whom died with the battle noise ringing in their ears, should now rest in the quietness of Arlington, and our private cemeteries.

The quietness, however, does not give an impression of morbidity; rather an air of pride. It seems to say: "Here are Americans, buried in the American soil they fought to protect. Here death was not in vain; it is an atmosphere which induces dedi-

THINGS TO TALK ABOUT

BY FRANKLIN J. MEINE

In 1954, American farmers paid the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation $23,000,000 in premiums, but they got back $28,000,000 for losses! (Half of these occurred to wheat.)

ation.

This atmosphere is most noticeable at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. It rests, a stark white block of marble, at the top of a hill with wide, shaded steps leading up to it. Its only inscription reads: "HERE RESTS IN HONORED GLORY AN AMERICAN SOLDIER KNOWN BUT TO GOD."

The theme here, too, is simplicity and dignity, as a perpetual guard is maintained at the tomb, made up of crack soldiers of the 3rd "Old Guard" Infantry Regiment. The routine of the guard is as dignified and dramatic as the tomb itself. The sentry is erect, precise, and alert. The clicking of hundreds of cameras every day to bother him as he marches past the tomb. His eyes are straight ahead. When he halts he clicks his heels and brings down his rifle with resounding slaps. After a pause he faces, shoulders his rifle and marches past the tomb again.

THE UNKNOWN SOLDIER WILL NEVER BE MOLESTED AGAIN.

Gardening

If you have not already dug your bulbs, tubers, corms, etc., now that we have had a killing frost and freeze, this is the time to do so. This includes gladioli, dahlias, tuberous begonia, caladium, tube roses, etc. If the winter is mild, some of these bulbs will remain safely in the ground but if the winter is severe (and it has started that way) one runs the risk of losing valuable plants.

As long as the plant lives it is feeding the bulb, but now that the freeze has killed the plant it is ready to be removed from the ground. After digging, allow the bulb to dry in the sun if the temperature is above freezing. The clinging soil will dry and shake off easily. Remove the tops and store in a cool, dry place. Do not pile bulbs but place where air can circulate around them. To ward off thrips and other pests coat bulbs with a 5% DDT dust. Peat moss or vermiculite will admit air and absorb moisture, for this reason they are excellent mediums in which to pack the bulbs for storing.

Canna bulbs if allowed to remain in the ground should be protected. The fallen plant is a good protection for these bulbs if allowed to remain on the ground above the bulbs. If it is not allowed to remain over the bulbs then they should be dug and stored as other bulbs.

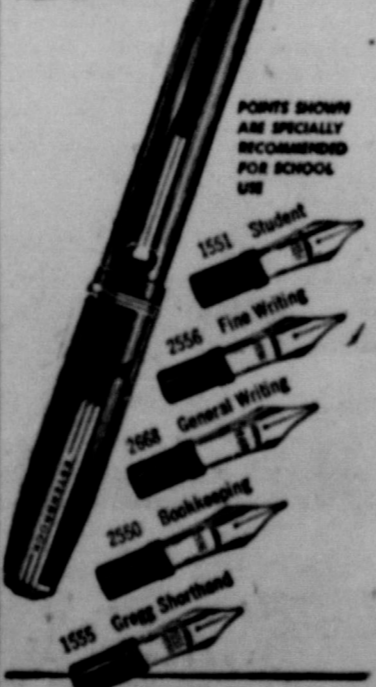

It is wise to inspect the bulbs occasionally during the winter. Any that are showing decay or diseases should be discarded to prevent spreading to all the stored bulbs.

Cellars or basements are excellent places for storing bulbs as the temperature remains cool and even, otherwise they may be stored under the house or other buildings. Just keep in mind that they should be kept cool and dry.

Dahlia tubers should be lifted gently from the ground to prevent breaking from the old stalk.

Esterbrook FOUNTAIN PEN

Choose... the right point for the way you write... by number

Cut off stalk about one inch from tuber, then they should be turned upside down to permit any moisture to drain from the stalk away from the tubers. Allow them to dry in the sun for a few hours then divide clump with knife. Each tuber should include portion of stalk from which buds will arise in the spring. A moistened indelible pencil is good to mark the name of variety on each tuber. Dust with sulphur and store in cool place, around 50 degrees. Unlike other bulbs, they like high humidity. Sawdust or wood shavings are good mediums for storing dahlias.

Postmaster General Sees Need for Rate Increase on Mail

"No business man would seriously believe it possible for any business to absorb seven major increases in the expenses which account for over 90 per cent of a business' total cost without compensating increases in prices," Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield said in commenting on the proposed postal rate increase.

"This is the situation the Post Office Department faces—and since rate increases have not kept pace with costs, this huge business within government is losing money at the rate of over a million dollars every working day.

"Postage rates on first-class letters are the same today—three cents for the first ounce—as they were in 1932. Meanwhile, Congress has voted wage increases to postal workers on five different occasions since then.

"Two increases in the rates paid the railroads for carrying the mails have also been approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission, in 1951 and 1954.

"These two major costs—wages and transportation—account for over 90 per cent of total Post Office Department costs.

"Not only has the Post Office Department faced these increases in costs without compensating increases in income, but it has been forced to serve an ever-increasing and shifting population.

"The number of householders in the United States has increased almost two-thirds since letter rates were last changed, and new communities requiring postal service have mushroomed in the areas adjacent to our towns and cities.

"These are some of the basic reasons why the Post Office Department believes a reasonable increase in first-class letter rates—from 3 cents to 4 cents for the first ounce—is well justified. Since the volume of letter mail handled in this country is so large, this moderate increase would yield revenues that would go a long way toward balancing the postal deficit."

Postmaster Johnnie Back echoed the opinions of Summerfield and said he would like to know how the people of McLean feel about it.

HOUSEWIVES ARE WARNED:

Falsely Labeled 'Wools' Make Thriving Business

SALT LAKE CITY—A smoothly operating band of door-to-door salesmen who sell cheap substitute fabrics as "all-wool" are cheating the nation's housewives out of hundreds of thousands of dollars each year, the American Wool Council has warned here.

The swiftly spreading racket, which foils local authorities in most communities, has reached as far West as Southern California and as far East as Hartford, Conn., according to the Better Business Bureau in New York. In most cases, victims are persons who can ill afford to be swindled.

Fast-talking and fast-moving, members of the organization hit with greatest frequency in rural America. Here their way is paved by reputable, well-established firms which have made door-to-door selling a respected form of distribution. And here, in smaller towns with few stores, these sleekly polished gypsies can reach the heart of the nation's budget-conscious, home-sewing market.

Particularly affected by the activities of the gang have been thousands of young women of high school and college age who each year enter the "Make It Yourself With Wool" contest in 15 western states. In many instances, girls have completed their entries in the contest only to find that the fabric which they thought was wool is, in reality, a cheap substitute.

Telling a story of personal hard luck, the itinerant salesman offers what are described as luxury wool fabrics at sacrifice prices, victims of the racket report.

Authentic-looking labels identifying the fabrics as "all-wool" play a big part in clinching most sales, they add.

Only after the salesman has sped away in his high-powered car do both the salesman's story and fabric prove to be synthetic. "For every one of the hundreds of local incidents reported each year thousands of sales unquestionably go unreported," says W. H. Steiwer, the American Wool Council's president.

Where salesmen are apprehended, they are usually ordered to leave the locality immediately.

"The job of putting an end to this vast operation is a challenge to both national and local law enforcement bodies," Mr. Steiwer continued. "The individual citizen, however, can play his part in the task in two ways:

"First, by asking to see the credentials of all door-to-door salesmen, and buying fabrics and apparel only from persons showing proper credentials or in retail stores, and

"Second, by reporting immediately to local police and Better Business Bureaus any person selling from door-to-door under suspicious circumstances."

Added Publicity Needed
The main problem in coping with the fast-spreading operations is the lack of public awareness of their nature, most state and local police leaders say. Only recently has any significant attention been accorded to the problem, with the publication of a comprehensive report in the Sunday magazine supplement, Parade.

"Members of the gang have been caught in the act probably hundreds of times, yet the combined bungling of their victims and the law has let them escape justice," the magazine feature stated. "For at least 40 years, they have thumbed their noses at police, courts, Better Business Bureaus, the American Wool Council, the Federal Trade Commission, even the F.B.I."

Wool Labels Affixed
Low-grade yard goods are shipped to various points across the country where phony labels are affixed identifying the goods as "Virgin Wool" or "Pure Imported Wool."

On the next play, Garvin crashed center for pay dirt, then went through the middle for the extra point—20-13. On the first play Wells carried for no gain. Garvin crashed through the middle for seven yards. Then he again went through the center three yards for pay dirt. The extra point was no good—26-13.

Mr. Hill to Speak At McLean Church

The public has a cordial invitation to hear Roy Hill tell of his trip to the Holy Land next Wednesday night at the Pentecostal Holiness Church.

Mr. Hill, a plumber by trade, is a long-time resident of Amarillo, and in recent years had his greatest desire satisfied with an opportunity to visit the Holy Land. One of the many places he visited was the carpenter shop where Jesus and Joseph worked.

Mr. Hill was invited here by the Alanreed and McLean Pentecostal Holiness Churches, and the story will be heard at the McLean church Wednesday evening, beginning at 7:45 o'clock. The church is located one block south of the cotton gin.

Mr. Hill will also show some pictures of the Holy Land. Admittance is free, but an offering will be received to pay Mr. Hill's expenses.

Webb--

"One thing I'm a firm believer in is plenty of water for these cattle," Felton states. This is evidenced by 13 windmills and 28 stock water tanks and dams.

Other evidences of soil conservation on the huge, rolling, and colorful ranch are: deferred pastures, terrace work, 174 acres of seeded weeping love grass, erosion control dams, brush control on about 900 acres, and five miles of cross fences.

Felton was born 32 years ago on the Webb Ranch; he attended Jeffers High School and one year at Texas Tech College. For 26 months he was stationed with the U. S. Marines, and saw duty on "good old Midway" for six months. While stationed near Santa Ana, Calif., he met a Bostonian, Miss Thelma Burns, who was working with him at a riding stable for marine personnel. They now have two children—both boys—William (Billy), 5, and Kirk (Kirby), 3. A member of the American Legion at McLean, Felton is past master of the Masonic lodge.

Incidentally, there are 22 producing oil wells and five water wells on one section of the ranch. All in all, there are about 60 oil wells in operation, scattered over the seven sections. These mean little to Felton, believe-it-or-not, because his first love is (and always has been) cattle grazing on well-planned pastures.

The world's largest cotton plantation is in Mississippi.

Supporting Your Town

Merchants who do not advertise are invited to read the following from the American Bankers Magazine, as it might give you a new slant on business, your own business, as well as the matter of building your town.

"No business man in any town should allow a newspaper published in his town to go without his name and business being mentioned somewhere in its columns. This does not mean you should have a whole, half, or even a quarter page ad in each issue of the paper, but your name and business should be mentioned, if you do not use more than a two-line space.

"A stranger picking up a newspaper should be able to tell what business is represented in a town by looking at the paper. This is the best possible town advertising. The man who does not advertise his business does an injustice to himself and the town. The man who insists on sharing the business that comes to town, but refuses to advertise his own, is not a valuable addition to any town. The life of a town depends on the live, wide-awake and liberal advertising business man."
