

Footprints In The Sand Hills

If you noticed all the "Hooray for Tommy Walker, Rick Pezdirtz, Red Cross and Think by Wally Turesdell" stuff in the paper today, don't think we're crazy. I told the boys in the news office at Pampa that we would take anything in the way of an ad so long as it wasn't libelous. They called my bluff and bought themselves a little back-patting space.

"Fun Night is on its way to McLean and will arrive here on Friday, July 25, courtesy of the McLean Lions Club.

We can hardly wait. Don't know how much fun it will be for the guys running the booths but I'll bet everyone else has a good time.

"Fun Night" for all the candidates in the election will come the next night when all this campaigning and support-soliciting will come to a head as the votes are counted.

Someone said there are so many fine fellows in the commissioner's race that they hated to vote AGAINST anyone. They will have to vote FOR someone, though, and the McLean News is expecting a large turnout at the polls.

One fellow said he didn't think he was going to vote so he wouldn't have to decide which one to vote for. Hope we don't hear any more of that kind of talk. EVERYBODY should get out and vote. Texas and the rest of the United States stand right up and say that you can if you want to and pay your poll tax. I hope every single person who is qualified to vote does. If you don't vote then you could hardly gripe about anything the officeholders are doing, could you?

The cotton farmers around here have had bad luck again. For about the third time this year, the cotton has been virtually destroyed around McLean. Saturday's hail and wind did the trick this time.

Our cotton farmers have plenty of courage. They got most of their crops ruined last year. If they can make it to planting again for next year, we'll know they have what it takes to dig a living out of the Gray County sand hills. We really must salute them for what they are doing. Coming back again and again in the fight against Mother Nature.

Creed Lamb is one of McLean's most energetic young men. He is anxious to see "Our Town" grow, too.

The honeymoon is over when she says, "I can't stand to drive with you; you make me nervous."

Dale Parvin got his summer softball league off and running this week as part of the local Summer Recreation Program. Parvin says there still is room for more players and more teams, either or both, in the program and would like to see everyone who wants to play get a chance to do so.

The Lions Club has purchased a very fine trophy which will be presented to the league winner at the end of the season.

The McLean News will have a blackboard out front on election night to let you know how the voting is going. Charles drew the right to run the blackboard that night, making changes in the figures as results become known.

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Miller made a business trip to Amarillo Monday.

HAIL DESTROYS CROPS IN THE McLEAN VICINITY

Last Saturday's high winds and hail destroyed "most of the cotton crop in the McLean area," according to Ralph Thomas, Gray County agricultural agent.

Thomas said he had heard estimates that there was not over ten per cent of the crop in this area undamaged.

Saturday's weather made the third time this year cotton farmers in this area have suffered weather damage to their crops. About June 10, hail, hard rain and wind did considerable damage, and then later in the month, the crops were damaged by wind alone.

"Many of the farmers who suffered hail damages to their crops are the same ones who lost crops to the weather last year," Thomas said.

Progress Made In Local Housing Plan

More progress was made toward gaining new home units for McLean Wednesday morning when a government representative met with the Housing Authority concerning the next steps to be taken.

Hank Davis, of Fort Worth, a housing project planner, discussed with Bill Reeves, McLean Housing Authority president, the necessary action which remains before actual construction can begin.

Plans will now be made by the local authority to select a site for the project, and arrange for an architectural firm to design the structures.

The next immediate step which must be taken is a survey of the city itself, which will be the determining factor in the exact number of units to be constructed, their capacity, etc. This survey will either be made by a government team or by local persons.

In preliminary arrangements, Mrs. Stella Lee was named secretary for the McLean Authority, and will handle the reports throughout the entire project.

After a site has been selected and approved, it will be purchased through a loan from the government, and following confirmation on the number of units, actual construction will begin. The building will be done on a low bid basis.

Davis stated that the main requirements for the site would be its accessibility to schools, water, lights, gas, etc.

Although the next move will be the town survey, no date was established as yet for this to take place.

New Senate Hand Aided Democrats

When William A. Blakley was appointed to the U. S. Senate in 1957, he was a political unknown in Texas. But Washington awaited his arrival with great interest. So close was the party balance in the Senate that Blakley's vote was the difference between Democratic and Republican control.

True to his Democratic tradition, Bill Blakley voted with his fellow Democrats. They have been in control ever since.

Now Bill Blakley seeks his first elective term in the U. S. Senate. A vote for Blakley is a vote for sound, Democratic government.

Serve Sweet Potatoes With Sausage Patties

BY DOROTHY MADDOX

In a kettle of boiling, salted water cook the sweet potatoes until tender. Drain, peel, halve and place them on a shallow dish. Sprinkle the combined lemon juice, brown sugar and nutmeg over the sweet potatoes.

In an electric or heavy skillet cook the patties over medium heat until browned on one side. Turn and then add the halved sweet potatoes. Brown the patties on the other side and the halved sweet potatoes. Turn the sweet potatoes occasionally. Serve.

Pea and Potato Chowder (4 servings)

Four tablespoons ham fat, butter or margarine, 1 large onion, sliced; 1 No. 2 can peas, 2 cups diced potatoes, 3 cups milk, 1

Sure-footed Man Serves Texas

The colorful language of the ranch and trail seems to fit Bill Blakley, who made his start in life as a working cowhand. He still rides and ropes with the hands on his ranch at roundup time.

Speaking of Blakley's service as U. S. Senator in 1957, the Dallas News said: "... If he was as unassuming as an old boot, it was nevertheless a well polished boot that never wobbled or wandered from its purposeful path. For this man Blakley is a sure-footed man who knows exactly where he stands and what he believes."

Texas will vote to return William A. Blakley to the Senate on July 26 because he truly represents the spirit, traditions and views of all Texas.

SORRY IF YOU'RE INCONVENIENCED!

But regardless of the falling boards, flying hammers and other obstacles, we will remain open as always—and are anxious to serve you.

So we ask your patience during the present state of disorder until our remodeling is complete—which won't be long.

Thank you,

LAVENDER FLU

Your grandfather probably knew this cure. Flowers of lavender quilted in a hat were supposed to ward off "stuffed-up" noses and head colds. Pleasant treatment—but certainly not a sure cure. Today, thanks to medical science, we have numerous effective vaccines ... against flu, whooping cough and other respiratory diseases ... to immunize and protect us from the discomforts of infections. So, why suffer needlessly. Ask your physician about them. Let him prescribe the medication that is most effective for your needs. Then come to us for prescription service.

New Flavor Accent For Popular Potato-Sausage Salad

No matter what the thermometer says, this delicious new potato salad makes a welcome addition to your menus, since it can be served cold with summer meals, or hot when the weather cools off. Washington State potato growers, who developed this recipe, point out that this salad makes wonderful eating now when their freshly harvested Long White potatoes are abundant in the markets at reasonable, in-season prices. Washington State Long Whites are a choice, all-purpose variety so you can use them in all your favorite potato dishes.

VIENNA POTATO SALAD

5 medium Washington State Long White potatoes 1/2 cup finely chopped onion
1 4-oz. cans Vienna sausages 2 tps. finely chopped parsley
Salt and pepper to taste 1 cup commercial sour cream
1/2 cup chopped dill pickle 1/4 cup dill pickle juice

Cook potatoes in jackets in boiling salted water until tender. Drain. Meanwhile, slice sausages into rounds and brown slightly. Peel and dice potatoes. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Combine pickle, onion, sausage slices and parsley. Add to potatoes and toss lightly. Mix sour cream and pickle juice and add to potatoes, again tossing lightly to blend. Garnish with additional sausages, if desired. Serve hot or cold. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Boyd Meador

will appreciate your vote and influence in the July 26 Democratic primary. He is seeking election to the office of Gray County Commissioner, Precinct 4.

This is an open letter to voting citizens of this area. Johnny Campbell is running for the State Legislature. Two statements seem very pertinent to his candidacy.

The FIRST is that governments are only as good as the people selected to legislate. Therefore a candidate should be selected on the basis of proved abilities and proved political beliefs. His proved qualities should include the art of getting along with people, and the ability to convey ideas and hold to ideals. He should have a good educational background, but more important, the ability of proper application of that background. He should be humble. He should adhere to those fundamental principles that have made our country prosperous and free: FAITH IN GOD, CONSTITUTIONAL GOVERNMENT, AND FREE ENTERPRISE BUSINESS SYSTEM. Those who know Johnny will assert that he qualifies in each of these respects and more.

The SECOND statement is that one man in government can do more than 100 outside government. We believe that ratio will be greater in Johnny's case, because his influence and service will be for the good of all the people. Every person who has been associated with Johnny will testify to his ability to organize a job and get it done well.

We believe the people of this area have a great opportunity to send a man to represent us in Austin who has so many proved abilities and who is so eager and energetic in serving other people. For these reasons we urge all voters in Collingsworth, Gray and Wheeler counties to not only vote for Johnny F. Campbell, but also to persuade others to do the same.

ONE MORE STEP NEEDED

A news photo shows a huge quantity of 4-cent stamps being carted into a post office. This is symbolic of the fact that next August 1 first-class mail postage goes up a cent. So do the rates for other post office services with one exception—fourth-class matter, or parcel post.

The higher rates were approved reluctantly by Congress. But the post office deficit had gotten out of hand, and was passing the $700 billion a year mark. On top of that, post office workers have been given a general pay boost which almost everyone believes is well-deserved. It obviously was essential to increase post office revenues.

The parcel post exception is the black spot in the picture now. It has long been a creator of heavy direct and indirect deficits, and has thus been taxpayer-subsidized. That will continue to be the case so long as its structure of charges is left unchanged.

To make matters worse, parcel post is the only post office service which is a direct competitor of taxpaying private enterprise. Private carriers operate on a national, regional and local basis, providing service by rail, truck and plane. Subsidized parcel post service under these circumstances is manifestly unfair—as well as needlessly costly to the public at large which must make up the deficit.

So one more step needs to be taken in postal rate revision—to put parcel post on a self-sustaining basis of operation.

LARGER SALES—SMALLER PROFITS

A high level of sales by a business doesn't necessarily mean a high level of profits.

An editorial in Chain Store Age provides a concrete example of this. According to the 1957 annual reports of some 60 chain systems, operating about 200,000 stores, there was a gain in sales volume—and at the same time there was a decline in net profits per dollar of sales. The only exception was the food chains. They did manage to show an increase in the ratio of net profits to sales, but the improvement was very slight compared to the gain in volume.

So, Chain Store Age states: "Operating economies have always been a prime objective in chain store operation, but right now they are more necessary than ever." A survey made by the magazine's editors finds that there are actually 144 ways in which various chains have made cuts in operating costs.

The current situation points up to a fact that deserves much more recognition than it generally gets—that retail profits are much smaller than most people realize. Leading food stores commonly have little more than a cent left out of each dollar of sales after the bills are paid. Other kinds of stores earn only two or three cents on the dollar. When a profit margin is this small, it could turn into a loss in a hurry unless strict standards of operating economy are imposed and maintained.

What keeps profits so low? The answer, of course, is competition. It guarantees that the consumer gets the best possible deal for his money.

FAVORABLE CLIMATE ESSENTIAL FOR ABUNDANCE

A healthy interest in the welfare of American enterprise is necessary to promote jobs and better living.

The spark plug of American industry has been the man with vision, and workmen with the determination, to accomplish the seemingly impossible. A good example is found in the oil industry. Only one hundred years ago this country had to depend on whale oil and tallow for its lamps. Now, oil fuels the family transportation, powers farm machinery, is indispensable to national defense, the railroads, ocean shipping, and a thousand other every day activities.

To pioneer for oil involves risk—tremendous risk. It is found in pockets thousands of feet deep in the earth and under the sea. Not one person in a thousand has the courage to risk his savings in "wildcatting" for oil, even today. It is constantly becoming more difficult and costly to find new oil reserves to replace those that become exhausted.

BUMPY ROAD!

Vegetation only thrives where the climate is favorable to productivity. The productivity of American enterprise is also dependent on an economic climate conducive to growth. The oil industry will produce more jobs and better living in an atmosphere of more nourishment rather than less. This is why a healthy interest in it, as well as other industry, is a necessary ingredient to ample production.

VETERANS INFORMATION

Q—I am eligible for War Orphans Education, but I have just enlisted in the army. Could I go to school under the program while I am in service?

A—No. Under the law, eligible persons in military service may not receive War Orphans schooling. You will have to wait until you are discharged before you enroll under the program.

Q—Premiums on my World War II GI term insurance policy are under waiver, since I am totally and permanently disabled. Would I still have the right to convert a permanent plan of GI insurance?

A—Yes. You may convert to any permanent plan other than an endowment policy, without a medical examination, even though you are totally disabled.

Q—My husband died of a service-connected condition, and I am drawing death compensation payments from VA. Does the size of my income have any bearing on my compensation?

A—No. Your income has no effect on your eligibility for death compensation. However, income limitations do apply to death pensions based on deaths not connected with military service.

Q—Does a Spanish-American War veteran have to be disabled in order to draw a VA pension?

A—Not necessarily. VA pensions are payable to Spanish-American War veterans over 62 years of age, even though they may not be disabled.

But rather seek ye the kingdom of God, and all these things shall be added unto you.—(St. Luke 12, 31.)

Those who love God with all their hearts and souls, who surrender their will to His and trust Him completely, will find that all their just and good needs are met abundantly. There is always more at the Fount than we can absorb.

Congressman Rogers Reports—

TO THE PEOPLE

Atomic Research And Development

It looked for a while as though many state universities and schools would not be permitted to participate in atomic energy research and development. This was due to some provisions contained in the Atomic Energy Act of 1954, as amended in 1957. The act requires the proper licensing of those organizations desiring to operate a nuclear reactor. The amendment of 1957 provided, in effect, that an organization could not get a license unless it met certain requirements with regard to waiving any immunity from liability it might have as a state and to meet certain other requirements in the nature of indemnity agreements, and the purchase and maintaining of liability insurance. All of this was intended to protect the public and interested parties and organizations were so advised. However, the states, state universities and other state schools probably did not realize the situation in which they would be placed. The University of the State of Texas would be barred from operating a nuclear reactor. This was because the Constitution of the State of Texas in Article 3, Section 50, provides as follows:

"The Legislature shall have no power to give or lend, or to authorize the giving or lending, of the credit of the state in aid of, or to any person, association or corporation, whether municipal or other, to pledge the credit of the state in any manner whatsoever, for the payment of the liabilities, present or prospective, of any individual, association of individuals, municipal or other corporations whatsoever." This meant that if the University of Texas and other state schools in many other states in this country were to be able to operate nuclear reactors and engage in research and development in the atomic energy field, something had to be done. Either the state constitution and statutory laws had to be changed or the federal law had to be changed. To change the state constitutions and laws, in order to meet these licensing requirements, could and probably would open a virtual Pandora's box of confusion and trouble in many other activities of the states. Such action would also add to further encroachment by the federal government toward tearing down state constitutions and laws, a practice to which I am violently opposed. Under the circumstances several of us, who realized the tremendous contributions that could be made in the research and development programs in the atomic energy field, proposed an amendment to the law which would exempt nonprofit educational institutions under certain circumstances from these burdensome requirements. These bills were introduced by four members of the House of Representatives — Congressman Melvin Price of Illinois, who is a member of the joint committee on atomic energy, myself, and Congressmen Maulder of Missouri and Matthews of Florida. Although we are in the late days of this session it is my feeling that these bills will pass both the House and Senate and be signed by the President.

The Unsolved Problem

The age-old but never solved, problem is the old age problem. True, great strides have been made during recent years toward partial solution; however, we are still a long way from the proper answer. It was thought that the Social Security program would be the perfect solution. It has been a solution in many cases, but it has not and cannot provide for the needs of so very many of our aged citizens who find themselves in extreme economic difficulties in the late years of their lives. Many of them are unwanted, have no loved ones, and no one to care for them. They are, in many instances, tragic figures of ill health susceptible, by reason of their frailties, to crippling diseases and maladies. Many of them have depended on such as disabled children who are either mentally or physically crippled, and remain dependent on their aged mother or father. It would be impossible to put into words the feeling of complete despair that must engulf these tragic figures when they discover that many of the basic laws under which they have lived all of their lives are discarded and cast aside in determining their eligibility for participation in the social security program. I have reference to several particular occasions in which the social security administration has actually repealed the community property laws of the State of Texas and replaced them by a bureaucratic directive in order to deny eligibility of a disabled child to participate in the social security program. In other words, they are wholly disregarding the basic property laws of many of the states and thereby resolving any doubt against a mentally or physically disabled child in order to deny contributions that were intended to go to the child. How crass can you get?

I wish I had the space to tell you more about this situation. I can tell you that I intend to try to do something about it.

"I was a secretary at the Public Service Company and I used to overhear the Home Service Advisors tell about electric home freezers—how they saved money—how you could get better meals—how you could preserve the garden-freshness of vegetables—how a freezer could save a housewife lots of time. What they said made sense to me but the words just can't equal the actual experiences of owning your own home freezer. PANHANDLE OUTDOOR LIFE

By STARKEY WHITEHORN

Dove Season

In less than two months the dove season will be open. Sep. 1 is the usual opening date and probably it will open the same time this year as in the past. Large flocks of doves have been observed in many parts of the Panhandle this summer, which should add up to a bumper crop of young doves hatched. The hatching season is in full swing at the time and will continue until August and then taper off. There will be hundreds of doves hatched after Sept. 1, however.

Mourning doves are usually quite particular, same as most birds, in the location of their nesting area. Doves prefer an area that consists of small trees and clean terrain underneath. Cemeteries have long been recognized by field men as choice nesting areas. A clean, quiet, secluded well-kept area, with trees that have overhanging limbs from five to ten feet in height, near good feeding and watering grounds, is the perfect setup for a colony of doves to begin house-keeping. Such areas as this are not in large supply on the High Plains, so many times doves will nest in almost any place they can find. Many doves nest on the ground in wheat fields, stubble or on the prairies. The government shelterbelts have been the nesting locations for tens of thousands of these birds every since they were planted during the dust bowl days.

There is one shelterbelt (tree row) east of Pampa a few miles that has furnished wildlife biologists and game wardens hundreds of young doves for banding purposes. (Each year Game Department personnel attempt to band as many doves as possible. Wildlife Biologist A. S. Jackson and Warden Jack Woodford have each banded more than 500 mourning doves in this particular area.

The Ochiltree County cemetery was, for a long time, my favorite banding area. Another cemetery just east and north of Gruver is usually good for four to eight doves on each trip.

If a person filled a pocket full of bands and started out cross country with the idea in mind to band all young doves that could be found, the chances are there wouldn't be many bands placed upon the legs of doves in a day's time. However, searching in the key areas will add up to a successful day of dove banding. I know some banders who have utilized more than a hundred bands in less than half a day. In fact, in my opinion, Jack Woodford has banded more doves for the last few years than have any two wardens in the state. This fact exists because of the previously mentioned tree row in Gray County that is almost a dove factory. It is without difficulty that 100 birds can be banded in a few hours time at this particular area.

Quail Progress

I have contended for some time now that there will be the largest quail crop of bob whites in the Panhandle that we have had since 1951. It was interesting to know that someone else thought along the same lines. Jack Woodford, game warden for Gray Carson, and Roberts counties, said that it appears as though the bob whites will really be in huge supply in his district, come this fall. He will "not be caught with his plans down," considering the fact that he will have two high-powered bird dogs to shoot over this coming season. He has one pointer female by the immortal "Warhoop Jake," a nine-time champion (the best record of any living dog), and out of "Highland's Texas Dyana," a female for which the owner refused $500. This bitch was raised by Sibley Jines of Perryton. Jack also has a setter female that is the tops of the Carl Duffield breeding, which is highly recognized in the national circles, together with nine setter pups.

The Wet Panhandle

For the last ten months or more the rains have been almost perfect. slow soaking rains that have penetrated the soil instead of washing the countryside away. Very few areas in the Panhandle have been washed out this year.

There is not a great supply of stock water in the earthen tanks since the rains came slow, but the grass and hillsides are green. This has added up to near the ideal condition for wildlife in the Panhandle. There is a vast supply of insects for young birds and a huge supply of weeds for the antelope and the browse is more than bountiful for the deer population. Fact is, the young bucks will be putting on layers of fat as a result of the green range that they will browse this summer and fall and will be in

The typical American story is of the poor boy who made good through his own efforts. This is the story of Bill Blakley, born in a covered wagon while his parents were on their way to homestead in Oklahoma territory. He has come a long way in 59 years. Said the Austin American-Statesman, when William A. Blakley announced for the Senate: "He was a top-hand cowboy; he was a crackerjack bank clerk; he was an exceptionally good accountant and lawyer. Bible Comment:

Man's Cooperation With God a Must For a Happy Life

What is the nature of God's covenant with man? Is it some edict of privilege and grace pertaining to certain individuals or to a particular time? Men have tried to limit it to that but God's covenant with man is as large as it is permanent.

It is an agreement for man's welfare and enrichment. The Bible in almost all its passages proclaims the economy of abundance and prosperity. These are associated with peace and righteousness. But in the ancient world as in our modern world, too often prosperity led to forgetfulness of God and the betrayal of man.

The false use of prosperity, however, should not blind us to the true and solid ideas of human welfare. Only we ought to remember that there is no true human welfare unless all have an opportunity to share in it.

God's covenant is represented as having its token in the rainbow. This may be an ancient phenomenon which science now explains, but this doesn't alter the significance of the token.

The rainbow is possible because of sun and moisture, and both are a part of that covenant with man that God has made in His eternal laws. The gist is that if man will do his part, God will cooperate to insure man a happy and prosperous life.

It is the failure on man's part to recognize the covenant that is at the bottom of so much human misery. Alike in nature and in grace, God has made rich provision for human life. Will man some day learn to fulfill his part of the agreement?

WHITHER THOU GOEST

Vacations bring change and adventure, renewing weary hearts and tired hands, and re-creating fresh spirits. New sounds press upon our ears; new horizons unfold to eye and camera. Our feet search out new paths; our hands greet new friends.

Possibly the old and familiar are revisited; the far-away in miles beckons us to return and live again in the land of our fondest memories.

Wherever we go, we are impressed by the sure hand of God, through whom, heaven and earth remain constant and sure. He is the unchanging One. If heaven and earth were to pass away, behold, He is still God! In mountains and over prairies; on oceans and islands; in cathedral and village church; over every man at work or away, we see His hand.

Henry Van Dyke wrote these lines:

"All thy works with joy surround Thee,
Earth and heaven reflect Thy rays,
Stars and angels sing around Thee,
Center of unbroken praise.
Field and forest, vale and mountain,
Flowery meadow, flashing sea,
Chanting bird and flowing fountain,
Call us to rejoice in Thee."

Truly, this is our Father's world!

And because this is His world, and we are His children, God calls us to be just as unchanging in our faithfulness to Him. Much has been given to our care. We are Christian stewards of all the gifts of life. We are the witnesses of God's great work in the world. We are called to be part of the Church which worships the Trinity and works toward the end that the Kingdom of Heaven may be found in the world. The one great unalterable fact of our faith is that this relationship to God never changes. Scenery may change; time may pass; old things may vanish away; but this remains—He is God, and we are His children.

Each day, at home or away,
Draw aside and pray,
And voice praise to Him,
And listen for a moment there,
For the voice that calleth thee,
"Come—follow me."
For the God of Home and hearth,
Is also Lord of Heaven and earth.

Soil Conservation

By Tony Welker

Heavy Stubble, Good or Bad?

A field of heavy stubble is hard to work and is sometimes burned off for this reason, but when saved and properly worked into the soil is one of our greatest blessings in disguise. It would take a book to explain all of the things that come about when the stubble is properly used, but in a nutshell, here is what happens:

Organic matter will be added to the soil with the following results that last for many years: (1) Allowing more water penetration and less runoff; (2) increasing the water holding capacity of the soil; (3) allowing more air to reach plant roots; (4) allowing better root penetration; (5) allowing for easier tilling; (6) permitting more nitrogen to be stored in the soil for a long period of time.

In this part of the country where water is the limiting factor in crop production, it is important that the best use be made of all the moisture that falls. Stubble in the ground and on the surface retards runoff, keeps the ground surface cooler and cuts down evaporation.

A secondary limiting factor is root penetration into the heavy subsoil soils of the High Plains. Plowing will open the soil for the roots but trash and other organic matter will keep it open for long periods of time. This will permit plant roots to penetrate deeper and thus keep the plants growing during some drought periods that would kill shallow-rooted plants.

Another limiting factor which is more complex is the amount of available nitrogen in the soil for growing plants. It is true that decaying stubble will not immediately release nitrogen to growing plants and will also remove some of the available nitrogen that is already in the soil, but this is not lost for it remains in the soil for future years. In fact, in organic matter is the only significant way that nitrogen can be stored in the soil. If ample moisture is present a noticeable yellowing of crops following heavy stubble will be noticed. This is easily offset by the application of nitrogen fertilizer to the field. Ordinarily, fertilizing will not pay on dryland farming on the High Plains, but this is the exception if care is taken not to apply too much and if the weather does not turn out too dry. Even for short dry spells, the large amount of organic matter incorporated into the ground from a heavy stubble will not act as a buffer to absorb some excess nitrogen during the shorter dry spells.

Your heavy stubble is valuable for many years to come; make the best use of it.

COAT HANGER HOOKS HIDDEN MIKE—Lloyd B. Furr, private detective working for Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine, shows how he hooked a hidden microphone with a bent coat hanger under a door in Washington's Sheraton-Carlton Hotel. Baron I. Shacklette, chief investigator of the House influence-investigating subcommittee, was caught as he planted the mike in the room adjoining Goldfine's. The discovery upset a midnight press conference in Goldfine's suite. Shacklette claimed he was told by committee Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.) to check out reports that committee members' telephones were being tapped. Harris, however, said that Shacklette hadn't been assigned to the Goldfine case.

Dear Friend:

Water development and potentialities of the State of Texas are the subject of a report prepared at my request by the Corps of Engineers, the Bureau of Reclamation, and the Soil Conservation Service, in collaboration with the Texas Board of Water Engineers. The report, released this week, represents a long step toward meeting the Number One problem of Texas.

That problem in the conservation, control and development of our water resources, it is a problem that becomes more serious its available supplies of water. Growth is already being limited to some extent, and the limitation will continue and become intensified unless and until an adequate statewide program for control and use of the State's water resources is developed.

An important beginning has now been made toward development of such a program. This new water report was not designed to put forward an overall statewide water development plan. But it does show how we can reach the objective of bringing such a plan into existence.

The report points the way toward preparation of a state program to control floods in Texas and to meet the water supply needs of the future.

It establishes a pattern for determining what the controlling elements of a long-range Texas water program should be.

It sets out a plan of action each year as a result of our State growth in population, industry and agriculture.

The future growth and progress of Texas will be limited only by for reaching a realistic and effective solution of the Texas water problem.

It presents a comprehensive inventory of the water resources of Texas

It gives full recognition to the sovereignty of the state over its water resources and establishes that the Federal agencies can make major contributions to the evolution of a plan to control fully and to develop fully these resources.

The goal is to make adequate supplies of water accessible when and where required. That goal can be reached only by statewide planning. Basic responsibility for planning leadership rests with and must be exercised by the State. For the state owns the waters and determines the use to which they will be put.

The great accomplishment of this comprehensive report is that it creates an avenue for the establishment of a statewide water plan. In doing so, it gives us a vision of a time when the recurrent cycle of flood and drought in Texas will not be the unmitigated disaster it has so often been in the past.

That in the vision we must work to realize.

Gray County To Get $1,016,000 In Highway Work

Gray County is on schedule for $1,016,000 in state highway construction during the next two years, according to Charles (Chli) W. Smith, Texas Highway Department district engineer of Amarillo.

On July 1, the State Highway Commission approved the 1959-1960 Consolidated Highway Program which covers the proposed construction work for the next two years on the Federal Aid Primary and Secondary Systems. Interstate Highways and Farm-to-Market roads were not included in this program.

The improvements authorized by the Highway Commission in Gray County are as follows:

Reconstruct and widen base and surfacing on State Highway 152 from Laketon to the Wheeler County line at an estimated cost of $335,000.

Widen, recondition and resurface State Highway 273 from US Highway 66 at McLean north 8.5 miles at an estimated cost of $335,000.

Reconditioning and surfacing of 1.5 miles and grading, structures and surfacing on 4.2 miles of State Highway 273 from 0.5 miles north of Fort Worth & Denver underpass west to State Highway 70 at an estimated cost of $346,000.

Funds for the purchase of right of way on this section of State Highway 273 were approved on a previous program.

Panhandle Fishing
 This is a horse of another color. Quite frequently I am asked, "Where can a person go and really catch a lot of fish around here?" Perhaps some think that since I am the game warden for several counties in the Panhandle I should know.

The bald-face truth about the matter is that I do know enough about the fishing in these parts to understand that the general fishing prospects are slim, that is if a fellow wishes to fill a deep freeze. Some few fishermen nearly always have good luck on trips, but on the average the trip could be placed in the recreation category. This doesn't mean that there isn't a barrel of fun available at all of the Panhandle lakes. Very few anglers will derive more genuine pleasure from a trip than will a boy who has been pulling out bluegill by the dozen for hours and has them all strung on a stringer. The bluegill are more than plentiful.

Not long ago a fisherman said that if bluegill (ptch) were
