

Agreement Over Danzig May Be Reached Soon

Hitler May Compromise For Less Than Demands, Are Reports

WARSAW, Mar. 29 (AP)—Foreign diplomatic circles expressed belief today Poland and Germany might reach an agreement over Danzig following Nazi assurance Adolf Hitler wished peace with this country.

Hitler was said to have indicated to Poland that he wanted complete annexation of the Free City of Danzig, a German-controlled motor road connecting Germany with East Prussia across the Polish corridor, and a broad "economic understanding" with Warsaw.

It was believed, however, the fuhrer may have caused these maximum demands to be circulated in order later to compromise for less.

A French-British proposal for a paper agreement with Poland to bar further German expansion in Europe, meanwhile, was reported on the verge of failure because of a Polish belief such a step might provoke Germany to action.

The French-Polish military alliance of 1921, it was pointed out, is valid only in the event of a direct attack on Poland.

An authoritative German admission that Poland turn a deaf ear to "foreign sirens" was regarded in some Polish quarters today as the signal of an approaching change in relations with Germany.

Warsaw morning papers published the full text of the admiral's article carried yesterday in Deutsche Diplomatie—Politische Korrespondenz, mouthpiece of the Berlin foreign office.

Many Poles regard the article as a hint of German intentions regarding the Polish corridor and Danzig free city, former German territory which now constitute Poland's outlets on the Baltic.

Message Interpreted
In Berlin it was believed by "foreign sirens" Korrespondenz meant Britain and France in their overtures to Poland to join an "anti-aggressor" bloc of nations to deal with German expansion.

Uncertainty over Germany's intentions despite formal assurances.

Control Of All Spain Claimed By Franco

Surrender of Valencia, Republican Port, Announced

BURGOS, Mar. 29 (AP)—Control of all Spain's 52 provinces was claimed by Nationalist headquarters today—32 months after start of the savage civil war which split the nation.

Headquarters of Generalissimo Franco's armies formally announced the end of the civil war, declaring only police operations remained to be carried out.

Organized republican resistance to the Nationalist conquest collapsed on the heels of yesterday's surrender of Madrid and today's capitulation of Valencia, greatest port of Republican Spain.

Albacete was the last of the republican provincial capitals to surrender. And at almost the same time radio advices to the headquarters of Generalissimo Franco told of the surrender of Cartagena, the republican naval base.

SIGHT OF FOOD IS JOYFUL TO BESIEGED

By JOHN P. M'KNIGHT

MADRID, Mar. 29 (AP)—Church bells rang joyfully today to signal nationalist Generalissimo Francisco Franco's bloodless conquest in coastal and inland cities and towns where republican Spain made its last hopeless stand.

Madrid's hungry inhabitants, after months of near-starvation, rejoiced in the peace and food

ALGIERS, Algeria, Mar. 29 (AP)—General Jose Miaja and his staff, fleeing from Generalissimo Franco's conquest of Spain, arrived today by airplane from Valencia at La Senia airport, near Oran.

Aboard Miaja's plane were a colonel and a major, his personal staff.

Thirteen additional planes carried other members of his military staff as well as ranking civilian officials of the national defense council, governing body of republican Spain for the last three weeks of the war. Miaja was his head.

The will to fight that sustained republicans during 32 months of civil strife ended with Madrid's submission. Nationalist soldiers moved post-haste to complete occupation of the remainder of enemy soil. Nationalist authorities formal.

FUGITIVE FOR 17 YEARS, ARRESTED

NORRISTOWN, Pa., March 29

(AP)—A truck driver, happily married and the father of two children, was held today as a 17-year fugitive from a Texas penitentiary.

Jail Warden Herbert R. Fluck said Robert Dreher, 40, of Schuylkill Haven, Pa., had admitted he was John Dreher, who Texas officials say plunged into a river at Huntsville, Texas, where he was serving a 17-year sentence for hold-up, and floated downstream to freedom February 19, 1922. Dreher declares he will fight extradition.

A routine fingerprint checkup with the Federal Bureau of Investigation disclosed Dreher's identity, the warden said. Dreher served a sentence for driving an overloaded truck.

FIVE CONVICTED IN POLITICAL CASE

SANTA FE, N. M., March 29

(AP)—A Federal Court jury today found a county Democratic chairman and four co-defendants guilty of charges of exacting political tribute from "poor devils" of WPA workers, and with manipulating the Mora County WPA for political purposes.

Federal Judge Colin Nebbett deferred sentence, carrying a maximum penalty of $2,000 fine and two years' imprisonment, and immediately ordered to trial two more defendants on WPA code violation charges.

WEST APPOINTMENT HEADED FOR APPARENT SPEEDY SENATE CONFIRMATION

AUSTIN, Mar. 29 (AP)—The third appointment of Governor W. Lee O'Daniel to the important chairmanship of the state highway commission—J. M. West, one of the southwest's richest men—apparently headed today for quick senate confirmation.

Appointment of the capitalist, oil man, lumberman and rancher had been awaited with interest because the position is important, in that the commission spends more than $40,000,000 a year, and previous choices by the governor had failed due to opposition in the upper legislative branch.

Confirmation of Carr P. Collins of Dallas, the governor's close friend, was refused ostensibly because of Collins' residence. Another

Little Damage Results From Cold Snap

Low of 36 Recorded Here; Heavy Rains In Northeast Texas

Budding vegetation took a new lease on life today as a late March cold snap apparently had abated just short of freezing temperatures in the Big Spring territory.

While Big Spring was recording minimum temperatures of 34 degrees at the U. S. Experiment Farm and 36 degrees at the D.O.C. weather bureau at the airport, points north of here came in for sniping weather.

Amarillo reported a low of 36 degrees and the freeze extended south as far as Lubbock. Forecast of partly cloudy weather and moderating temperatures brought relief in this area where frost prospects were best since 1933.

Heavy rainfall and damaging twister struck in Northeast Texas late yesterday.

The tail end of the cold wave was expected to bring cooler weather to the coast and Rio Grande Valley tonight. Near freezing temperatures were expected only in Northwest Texas.

Only minor damage from the cold was expected to materialize in the Amarillo area because the dampness protected fruit trees.

The weather bureau reported a little sleet at Lubbock early today but fruit buds in blossom were believed damaged little if any.

The mercury dropped to 36 degrees last night at Wichita Falls and to 37 at San Angelo where no lamb or goat losses had yet been reported. Smudges had been placed in the San Angelo area to protect orchards if the temperature fell to freezing.

Low temperature readings last night included: Dallas 42; Sherman 42; Corsicana 45; Austin 48; El Paso 42; Houston 64; Palestine 62; Paris 45.

Twisting winds struck Detroit, Texas, not far from the birthplace of Vice President John N. Garner, and did an estimated $25,000 damage in wrecking buildings. A store was demolished a minute after a group of school children fled from it and found safety in a nearby ditch as debris fell about them. None was injured.

The Red River county community reported a rainfall of from three to four inches.

Compromise Form Of Reorganization Bill Is Approved

WASHINGTON, Mar. 29 (AP)—

Congress granted President Roosevelt broad authority to consolidate governmental agencies and eliminate their overlapping functions when the house approved a compromise reorganization bill today and sent it to the White House.

It ended Mr. Roosevelt's two year controversy with congress over reorganization legislation.

It was not as complete a triumph as the administration would have desired, however, since congress wrote numerous restrictions into the bill and deleted most of the points around which greatest strife had centered in the last session.

LABOR WAR HINDERS WORK, SAYS PERKINS

WASHINGTON, Mar. 29 (AP)—

Secretary Perkins contends the CIO-AFL controversy handicaps virtually every function of the labor department.

She told a house appropriations subcommittee in testimony made public today that the department maintained "a very fine balance" between the two groups even though one frequently accuses it of favoring the other.

"I would like to say that (the controversy) is one of the most difficult things we have to deal with because it complicates every single thing we do," she said.

Weather

WEST TEXAS — Partly cloudy, somewhat warmer in north portion tonight and Thursday.

EAST TEXAS — Cloudy, cooler on the coast and in the Rio Grande valley tonight; Thursday partly cloudy, somewhat warmer in north portion. Moderate northerly winds on the coast.

RELIEF ESTIMATE OF FDR DISREGARDED

WPA Voted But $100,000,000; Farm Parity Bill Is Ousted By House

WASHINGTON, Mar. 29 (AP)—The house appropriations committee disregarded President Roosevelt's estimate of relief needs today, voting $100,000,000 to run WPA until July 1. The president had asked $150,000,000.

Referring to the chief executive's request, the committee said in a report criticizing some WPA operations that "it feels that its proposal is on the side of liberality."

The $100,000,000, it said, would make the total available for WPA in the present fiscal year $2,163,968,406, compared with $1,427,701,994 in the preceding year and $1,833,456,971 in the year before.

"This expense should not be building up," the committee said, "however, recognizing that time is the essence just now because of the pressing need, however brought about, to project administrative procedure for the remainder of the fiscal year, the committee, therefore, has pursued a more liberal policy than a searching inquiry probably would justify."

Congressional economy leaders opposed an support of disappointed farm belt members in their reports to hold down the WPA appropriation to some figure less than $150,000,000, when the measure reaches the floors of the house and senate.

The house threw out a $250,000,000 farm parity fund by a 204 to 191 vote last night, after having approved it tentatively a few hours earlier, 175 to 171. Many senators, however, predicted its restoration when the agriculture department appropriation bill is considered in their chamber.

The house committee said that WPA should be able to make administrative economies which will make unnecessary expenditure of the entire additional $100,000,000. It said administrative expenses of the WPA were "unjustifiably high," that it felt there could be "no possible justification" for an average expenditure of about $500,000 a month for travel and subsistence and $150,000 for communications.

Tax Program For Pensions Gains Speed

House Still Shy Of Needed 100 Votes On Amendment Plan

AUSTIN, Mar. 29 (AP)—In a series of lightning like thrusts the senate today sped toward formulation of a combined sales, service and natural resources taxing program. The newest developments in which it removed food from the sales impost and wiped out a feature providing for reduction of state property taxes.

House in Debate
The upper chamber was considering a resolution submitting a constitutional amendment for financing old age assistance and other social services.

Meanwhile, the House resumed debate on a combined sales, service and natural resources amendment pending before it, but no action was taken prior to the noon recess.

So far the House had been unable to muster sufficient votes—100 are necessary—to pass the measure finally.

The House seemed to be preparing to speed its constitutional amendment proposal to the House and a vote on final passage was expected soon.

Exemption of food in the Senate resolution came as a distinct surprise for the action reversed a vote taken yesterday.

With a minimum of debate, the upper chamber made these decisions which were subject to change before a final vote was reached.

It rejected a feature whereby excess funds from the new taxes would be applied toward abolishing the Confederate pension tax and gradual reduction of the state school property tax.

It stipulated the taxes would expire Jan. 1, 1948, unless the constitutional amendment to be submitted this summer was again approved in a referendum in the general election of 1942.

It voted down an attempt to (See Senate, Page 8, Column 4)

GOVERNOR'S VETO ON PRISON PROBE UPHELD BY HOUSE

AUSTIN, Mar. 29 (AP)—The house today upheld Governor W. Lee O'Daniel's veto of a resolution calling for an investigation of the prison system.

The motion to override the veto received a vote of 78 to 59, far short of the two-thirds majority needed for its adoption.

O'Daniel's disapproval of the prison investigation resolution was his first veto of an important proposal.

The vote sustaining the governor was preceded by hot debate in which he was alternately praised and attacked.

NATIONAL GUARD ARMORY BOARD ACT IS UPHELD

AUSTIN, March 29 (AP)—The Supreme Court today upheld the constitutionality of an act of the 44th Legislature creating the Texas National Guard Armory Board but sustained the attorney general's department in its refusal to approve a proposed bond issue of $4,500,000 to finance construction of armories.

The decision was from a divided court as Associate Justice Richard C. Critt dissented from the majority opinion. Critt maintained the whole act should fail because of the provision of life terms for board members unless they resigned, died or were removed from office or malfeasance.

Hundred-dollar saddles will go to three-day winners of calf roping and cow milking while a $125 saddle will go to the best sponsor. BRITISH ARMY IS DOUBLED

Chamberlain Says 340,000 Men To Be In Uniform

LONDON, Mar. 29 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain announced in commons today the strength of the British territorial field army would be doubled, giving it a total of 340,000 men.

The prime minister indicated, however, that the government would not introduce legislation to bring the territorial army corresponding to the United States' national guard-up to this figure.

Announcing this new move to prepare Britain for a leading role in efforts to unite nations against expansion of the dictators, Chamberlain said:

"We believe we can demonstrate the possibilities of voluntary service to meet all our needs."

Chamberlain's announcement came shortly after a cabinet meeting which considered conscription and other measures to fit Britain to take the lead in efforts to unite several nations against Nazi German expansion.

Previously Chamberlain had told the house that compulsory national service in Britain had been discussed with French leaders during President Albert Lebrun's state visit.

The territorial army is a volunteer force corresponding to the national guard in the United States.

New Factor
The fall of Madrid to Generalissimo Franco, ally of the authoritarian leaders of Germany and Italy, was a new factor confronting the cabinet.

Prime Minister Chamberlain, in reply to a question, told commons compulsory national service in Britain was discussed with French officials during President Albert Lebrun's recent state visit, but added, "I cannot divulge what took place at a private conversation."

Diplomatic circles said the prime minister in those conversations indicated he personally favored some form of conscription but had to consider domestic obstacles, such as the attitude of trade unions.

Chamberlain's veto was announced by Conservative Robert Boothby for assurance the government would "maintain the closest contact and co-operation with the government of the soviet union."

Chamberlain replied London was "in touch" with Moscow. He was expected to make a fuller statement on government policies later today.

The ministers assembled amid growing clamor for action to rally other countries for an anti-Hitler front, with corresponding compulsory military measures to fit Britain for leadership of such a bloc.

SCREEN JUVENILE IS NEAR DEATH AFTER ATTACK

HOLLYWOOD, Mar. 29 (AP)—A dark-haired, 17-year-old screen juvenile, Della Bogard, lay near death in General hospital today, her skull apparently fractured by an attacker who struck her down with a two-foot piece of timber, then fled when she screamed.

More than a score of radio patrol cars were ordered into a search for her assailant, as investigators expressed the belief he might be the same man who killed blonde Anya Sosyeva, beautiful Russian dancer, on Los Angeles City College campus Feb. 25.

The girl's father Harry Bogard described her as an accomplished singer and dancer, who had appeared in vaudeville and in several film productions, including a role as "Tomboy Taylor" in a "Mickey McGuire" series with Mickey Rooney, and a recently-completed part in "What a Life," with Jackie Cooper.

She was conscious long enough to give police an incoherent description of what occurred.

Radio Patrolmen E. M. Rinehart and W. R. Harley, who found the girl after a resident had called to report hearing screams early today, said she told them she was walking home from a movie when the man stepped from behind a building and struck her. She slumped on a lawn.

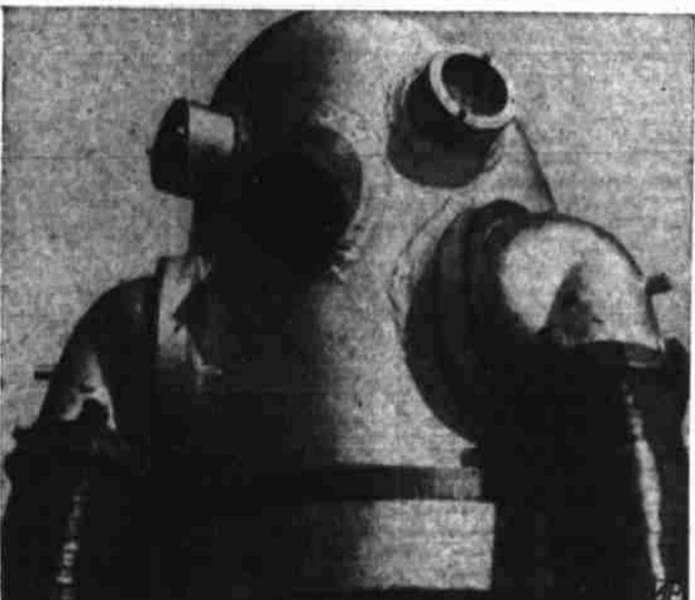

Beside her was a piece of timber, which the police described as similar to that used by Miss Sosyeva's attacker.

Hospital attendants said a preliminary investigation indicated the girl had not been sexually attacked. Neither was Miss Sosyeva, an autopsy surgeon reported.

Search was renewed for a man with streaming blonde hair, reported seen fleeing from the scene of Miss Sosyeva's beating.

STARTING AT THE TOP and working down, Cyril von Baumann (inside the suit) tests a new diving outfit at Toms River, N. J. The suit, which has a total weight of 1,100 pounds, was designed by Capt. TO SEE THE SEA at depths not previously reached by divers, Capt. Tom Connolly of Jersey City designed this diving suit, recently tested by Cyril von Baumann at Toms River, N. J. The suit, in which a combination of oxygen and helium is used, is a self-contained unit made of cast manganese bronze covered with sheet chromium steel. It claims unofficial tests at 571 feet.

OIL OPERATORS' ATTENTION DRAWN TO TEXAS PROBLEM OF APR. CRUDE ALLOWABLE

By ALFRED WALL
TULSA, Okla., March 29 (AP)—All other problems were shunted aside at least temporarily today while operators in almost every phase of the petroleum industry bent their attention to the unsettling problem of Texas' April crude allowable.

Oil men wondered: 1. Whether the Texas Railroad Commission would heed Col. E. O. Thompson's suggestion to rescind its order opening the state's wells three Saturdays in April.

2. Whether the crude market would hold if the order went through and nearly 4,000,000 barrels were added to the nation's total April production.

3. Whether the announced intention of Louisiana's Governor Richard W. Leche to put his state in the interstate oil compact by executive order would influence Texas to withhold its increased April allowable.

"This whole thing started," said a well-informed observer here who asked not to be named, "in East Texas where certain interests were unable to get oil at home because of proration laws or because the supply was tightly held by other interests. They went into Louisiana and Arkansas and developed fine sources of supply at great expense.

"Rancor and dissension developed. East Texas producers were angered because they felt Louisiana, operating without proration, was taking their crude markets. There were many attenuating circumstances, politics played a part. The new flow of Illinois oil into the national market aggravated the situation.

Hopeful Sign
"Texas' action is a culmination of a fight on Illinois and Louisiana oils. Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky crudes all have been cutting in on the Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Louisiana markets.

"Now Governor Leche's action is a hopeful sign. If Louisiana's entrance into the compact could bring in California and Arkansas and induce Illinois to continue a member, there's always a chance that reasonable men around a conference table can exchange views to keep them from cutting their own throats.

"Most oil men dislike the idea of federal control but it'll come if this isn't adjusted."

Crude men here were inclined to agree with Col. Thompson's statement Monday that "uncertainty prevailing in the industry" did not justify additional production in Texas.

They feared the crude market could not stand the strain of added production during April, always a shaky month.

Until the Texas allowable situation came up the week's reports were all to the good. The bureau of mines report showing stocks of crude at 273,345,000 barrels as of March 18, up 493,000 barrels, was considered not unfavorable.

ADVENTUROUS VIOLIN TEACHER IS SAFE

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 29 (AP)—Police Inspector Clegg Richards said he received word today from the sheriff at Helena, Ark., that Miss Hope Brewster, missing since Monday and believed to be paddling down the Mississippi in a $2 skiff, had been found safe.

At Helena, the clerk at the Gregg hotel said Miss Brewster registered there yesterday after arriving about 9 a. m.

The beautiful brunette, a 24-year-old violin teacher, ate breakfast shortly after reaching Helena.

Persons who talked with her said that except for "getting wet," she suffered no hardships on her 90-mile, open boat trip from Memphis Monday afternoon and night.

A Southwestern College (of Memphis) honor graduate, Miss Brewster set off down the flood-swollen Mississippi River after buying the boat from Russell Hardwick of the Memphis Yacht Club. She said she was "going to New Orleans."

A NEW VERSION

FRANKFORT, Ind., Mar. 28 (AP)—It seems there was an almost-minded clothing merchant. Oscar Laverty's men's shop was crowded when lunch time came. Laverty put on his coat and he walked out the front door—and turned and locked it. The imprisoned customers finally found a clerk who had a key.

Eighty-two out of every 100 persons under 60 years of age, and 7 of every 100 under 20 years of age, have defective eyesight, studies reveal.

New Italian Troops Report For Service

ROME, Mar. 29 (AP)—Young fascist conscripts of a new army class reported for their regular military service today carrying placards inscribed "Tunis, Djibouti, Suas" as Italians awaited a French reply to Italy's claims.

The new troops, most of whom showed up in fascist uniforms, are mostly 20 years old.

The government has called all born in 1918 and those born in the first four months of 1919. They are expected to add more than 250,000 to the army. (Italy's army at home and abroad totaled 450,000 men in 1938.)

That Straw Didn't Break Patience of the Judge

CHICAGO, March 29 (AP)—Joseph Dieter was arraigned before Municipal Judge Erwin J. Haaton on a charge of delivering a load of hay without a weigh master's certificate.

"Has this man been out on bail since his arrest?" the court asked the prosecutor.

"Yes," was the quick reply, "on his own bail."

"That," said the judge, "is the last straw. I suspend the fine of $25 I was going to assess him."

DEVELOPMENT OF JUNIOR COLLEGES

How could state aid be developed to help in forming junior colleges? Well, the state could turn over the first two years of college to the local secondary schools divorcing them from the state university and other 4-year colleges. The extremely fast growth of the university is going to make this necessary sooner or later.

When the student gets around to this third college year he is far more ready to avail himself of university educational facilities. By that time he has settled on a career and is ready to earnestly pursue an educational course. He is able to handle himself in campus life and obtain more of the benefits of the college social structure.

Instead of worrying about providing more 4-year colleges, why not attempt to find ways and means for bringing state aid to the local junior colleges? The development of these educational units in connection with the high schools would solve many of the higher education worries of the average family in a practical way.

Writer Turns Hollywood 'Horror Man' For A Day And Finds The Job Is A Real Terror

Robbin Coons, AP Hollywood reporter, has known for years just about everything there is to know about Hollywood—except how it feels to be a monster. And now, with monsters so important to Hollywood, he's found out that, too. He tells you here.

By ROBBIN COONS (AP Feature Service Writer) HOLLYWOOD — There's nothing quite like understanding how the other fellow feels. There's nothing quite like getting into his shoes—or behind his face—and feeling the pinch. (Faces pinch, too, as I've just learned.)

Take me, for instance. Or leave me alone and take Monsters. In either case you're taking me. Because I've just been a monster—and take my word for it, it's not much fun.

"You, too, can be a monster," Max Factor, Jr., tells me, with the authority of a famed cosmeticsman's son who recently inherited his father's factory.

lape—and right then I don't feel so well. "Gives the lids a horrendous droop," says a glib voice. All it gives me is a sensation that the lids are weighted with two-pound flatirons.

In a jolly twinkling—the other guy seems to be having fun at any rate—my face is smeared with a plastic wax material and forehead, eyebrows and eyelids are being "mull up." It's to be a Frankenstein monster's forehead, too. Next step is painless, although it's a wound. He's giving me that scar, just gouging out the plastic stuff. Later he paints this with sweet-smelling blood.

Now the fun begins in fact. It's greasepaint. Special greasepaint—for monsters! It's green, a horrible, dull, sticky green. "Foundation color," the executioner whispers. I squint in the mirror and I think maybe I won't have any lunch today.

An hour later he's got me fixed up to scare. He's spread shadows around, along the cheeks to make them gaunter, under the eyes to make them baggier.

He has put a pierced section of hard rubber tubing into each nostril to play it and give the nose a charming contour like old friends, Mr. Hyde and the Werewolf of London. This hurts, but I remain manfully silent because I can't escape anyhow, because I don't know how to get the mess off. The wig—it's one such as the late Lon Chaney used in the "Phantom of the Opera"—is painless by way of compensation.

who's doing all this to me, "you'd have a set that really fit—then you could talk." "Uh, glib," say I, which means "No-thanks-let-me-out-of-here."

"Okay." And then it's fun in reverse. There's a sort of gentle tearing off of this and that, and a scraping off of greasepaint, and a ripping of eye tabs and adhesives, and the discovery that spirit gum has a way of sticking until pulled hard. Then there's half an hour more of wiping and cold-creaming and finally washing with soap and water and three hours after I came in—here I am, a reformed monster, but mightily shaken by the experience.

The Hall of Fashion will contain all that is dear to woman in her costume and the things that go with it. Hats, jewels, furs and handbags will occupy an important part of the exhibition.

On The Record

By Dorothy Thompson

(Miss Thompson's column is published as an informational and news feature. Her views are personal and are not to be construed as necessarily reflecting the editorial opinion of The Herald.—Editor's Note).

THE WORLD AND ADOLF HITLER

What is going on now in Europe has a curious phantasmagoric character. What we are seeing is collapse, with no sketch yet, of the shape of things to come. That Adolf Hitler moves from victory to victory is also dramatic. For he is only collapsing forward and on a larger scale than any one else. As the Great Destroyer, he is playing an historic role. But what he is accomplishing by blackmail and terror, is formless.

Without any concept of government, except rule by Gestapo, concentration camp, Star Chamber trial, without any philosophy of history, except the fanaticism of Germany as the Chosen People, the Master Folk, to rule over slaves; in utter disregard of the integration, amalgamation and mediation, necessary even to a real imperial idea; propagating, instead, an idea of chaotic, atomizing and exploded; without even the understanding and support of the people of his own nation for what he is doing, this "inspired somnambulist"—to quote his own words about himself—is, indeed, no longer walking, but whirling in his sleep, mad now with the sense of his own miraculousness.

And the world outside waits and watches, paralyzed by the very spectacle. As long as the world perceives what it has in its midst, and thinks, with a certain optimism, that this thing will not last, because there is in it no toughness of endurance, no building power. It is not, however, ordained by nature that the western world must live in order. It is not ordained by nature that civilization itself may not utterly collapse before barbarism. It has happened before. It is within the sphere of possibility that what we are seeing is not analogous to Napoleonism, but resembles, rather, the great collapse of the Roman Empire, which was followed by bandit rule for centuries.

In the breakdown of the classical civilization, the same optimism ruled; the Romans—the English today—believed that the might and power of Rome were, in the long run, impregnable. The invasions of the Visigoths, Ostrogoths, and Huns were repeatedly repelled; in the breakdown of the classical civilization there were a number of rallies. But finally the Empire of the East was overrun by the armies of Attila, and the Emperor Theodosius II feebly and futilely attempted to buy them off with ever-increasing payments of tribute.

The vandals did not build a new state in the place of Rome. They destroyed the unity of civilization and brought on the dark ages. The situation of Europe today is, in the opinion of this column, much worse than it was in September, 1918. Then there was a crisis, about a clear-cut issue; whether France was to support an alliance with Czechoslovakia and save that state, or not. The issue then could be solved one way or another. The first way—resistance—might have meant war. It is by no means certain that it would have, had it been positive and unequivocal.

The operation, even, might as operations need to be, with skillful surgery, proper antiseptics, and careful sutures. But that is not the way Adolf Hitler operates. It was performed with a dirty butcher's knife, and the result has been a rapid spreading of septicemia. That Germany itself is a sthly ill is no guarantee that the rest of Europe—even Europe west of the Rhine—will be healthy.

On the contrary, the years since the war have proved that a free, strong, prosperous Germany is essential to the well-being of Europe. And it is this double realization that paralyzes Europe. First, that it cannot live in the same world with Hitler, and second, that Germany must be restored to complete health. Nobody knows how to crush Hitler without crushing Germany; everybody knows that Hitler himself is crushing Germany. The weakness of England and France occupied and plundered.

The German people are appalled, terrified, and, since September utterly discouraged. Every victory is followed by a new higher tax, and by more paper money. The thousand years of the Third Reich are being spun off in days, not years, and are careening toward a terrible rendezvous with destiny. But it may be that they will not keep that terrible rendezvous alone, but that western civilization will join with them to it. The only encouraging thing in the picture is the final awareness of reality, which seems even to have reached Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Bonnet. It has reached the British people since. It has reached some of the French people, despite the efforts of the Daladier-Bonnet government to make them think that Hitler was really a nice man. Europe now knows that the issue is: Europe or Hitler? Civilization or barbarism? That is something, but that is all there is to date, and the time passes, and the poison spreads.

Old Home Week Murder

By Phoebe Atwood Taylor

Chapter 22 AN UNMARRIED ESCUTCHEON

Madame Meaux herself was no more fully clothed than any of the other women, but somehow she seemed dressed for the occasion. She wore no curlers like Eloise, or cap like Sara, nor was her hair mussed like Jane's. A hairdresser might just have finished with her. Her satin negligee was a rather too vivid shade of orange, but it was unwrinkled and shining.

"One thing about my business," she said, "it teaches you to be smart about emergencies. Now if this had been a fire, Sister Brinley would clutch the pillows in her arms and take them carefully downstairs, and then toss the glassware out closed windows. I know. I've often wished that thirty-six weeks on the Chautauqua circuit was compulsory for all women—look, don't you want that note?"

She passed over a crumpled piece of paper. "Mail me all the money you've got to the West P. O. General Dely. There's been a murder and I'm in a spot. Mike. P. S. Don't say anything. You'll get your money back." Asey frowned. "The fool—no wonder—look, how'd Bessie Brinley get hold of this? What happened?"

"As far as I can make out," Madame Meaux said, "the Brinleys moved out of their bedroom and turned it over to me, and then they moved to their guest room. Mike climbed up outside and flipped this in the top of the window. It hit toots there in the face. He didn't know about the room switching. She blew into my room and blew up. I got her into the car and over here to you. I thought it was a job for you to handle. Besides, at the rate she was going, all the town would have been up in a few more minutes, and I got the impression that whatever was going on, you wanted to keep it quiet."

"Thank heaven you did," Asey said. "What a mess, what a mess!" "You may think so," the soprano said, "but you haven't been driven by Bessie in a sweat, and I have, and it has aged me horribly. She wouldn't let me touch the car, because Arthur never lets strangers drive it. The angels nearly had the wheel the last mile. Look, let's stop this din, what do you say? I'll cope with Eloise. That isn't hysterics now. It's temperament. I is that the statesmanship in both countries is, and has been, lamentable. The people, especially in France, have been confused by contradictory statements and contradictory policies. The universal distrust is widespread—the Eastern countries no longer trusting Britain or France, while, at the same time, they are terrified of Germany; nobody trusts Soviet Russia, while desperately needing her support; and the policy of the United States moves according to Gallup polls, advancing and then retreating. Nowhere, among statesmen in power is there any clear idea of what it is they want to construct, once they have stopped Hitler.

"Thus we live in a world of universal mistrust, paralysis and betrayal. Nobody wants to reconstruct the Versailles system, which was shattered before Hitler came to power. The post-war system of a divided Europe of small, independent states, kept apart by hostility, a welter of currencies and customs barriers, theoretically equal members of the League of Nations, but actually satellites of Britain and France, and sustained by treaties and loans, while Germany, a country which by the sheer force of its energy and the weight of its size, should naturally play a leading role on the Continent, was artificially suppressed—that system was doomed from its inception, and no one believed in it even before Hitler toppled it over like a deck of cards.

The Hitler system, of turning all Europe into "protectorates" or "associated powers" of Germany, held together by nothing except force and terror, the associated powers (Italy and Hungary today, and who else tomorrow?) directed from Berlin, and the weaker powers exploited although they were African colonies, and ruled either by local puppets like Dr. Tiao in Slovakia, or by strays of the grand mogul, like the governors of Moravia, Bohemia, and Austria, can only be held by more force and more terror, by appalling suppressions, by slave labor, by the wilful extinction of whole populations, and by the plunder and enslavement of the German people themselves. Germany today is not governed. It is occupied, just as Austria, and former Czechoslovakia are. Occupied by paid party mercenaries. Occupied and plundered. The German people are appalled, terrified, and, since September utterly discouraged. Every victory is followed by a new higher tax, and by more paper money. The thousand years of the Third Reich are being spun off in days, not years, and are careening toward a terrible rendezvous with destiny. But it may be that they will not keep that terrible rendezvous alone, but that western civilization will join with them to it.

know all about temperament." "Go to it," Asey said. "I'll fix Slade. In fact, I just got the wherewithal out in the kitchen—"

He pulled a piece of laundry soap from his pocket and stroled over to the still shouting Mike. "Gimme your handkerchief, Zeb. Or one? Finer." As Slade opened his mouth for a good bit of oratory, Asey inserted the soap, and then tied the handkerchief so that the soap would stay in place.

"There. That's the old-fashioned treatment for small boys, Slade, an' you d'assure it. How—whe!" "Bristling With Undercurrents" Madame Meaux had crossed over to the couch; she watched Eloise dispassionately for a moment, and then leaned over and slapped her face. It was a resounding slap, and it made Eloise blink.

"Another peep out of you, and you get another," Madame Meaux announced. "And then some. No wonder you lead a single life if you act like this very often." She returned to her arm chair and lighted another cigarette. The silence was electric, bristling with undercurrents. "Well, really," Mrs. Brinley said. "I never saw anything quite so brutal—"

"But how effective!" Asey said, "how effective! Kay, is that coffee? Sara, feed your guests, an'—ah, there's the doc." They got Eloise upstairs. "I'll look after her," Cummings said. "I don't know what's going on down there, but it looks as though you were needed, Asey. Why must some woman be like this? Her digestion'll be all shot for a week, and it's none too good anyway. I've told her a thousand times to lay off that medicated hay and straw. What she stuffs into her stomach in the guise of food would leave anyone itching for hysterics, just for sheer relief."

Asey went back to the living room. He had a task before him, and he didn't look forward to it. He went straight to the point. "Mrs. Brinley," he tried to make his voice solemn, "you an' your husband have been the victims of a plot." Mrs. Brinley squealed and looked around her anxiously, as though something on the order of an octopus was about to pounce on her from a corner. "Slade," Asey pointed to the figure on the floor. "I was telling your husband about it when you came. Slade wanted to get you two all worked up for the publicity. That's why Weston asked me to come over here. To forestall anything like this. Now," he turned to the trooper, "do you know anything about any murder? You don't, do you?"

"No, sir!" "Zeb? No. Jeff, if there had been a murder, you'd know about it, wouldn't you?" "Good gracious!" Jeff said in his best McGuffey's statesman manner, "who brought the matter up! It's preposterous! Murders, indeed! Was that what Slade has been saying? Why, the idea!" Aunt Sara swallowed hard. "Now, Miss Thayer, you're a reporter. Have you heard of any reports about a murder?" "If I had a whole fat murder story staring me in the face," Kay said with utter truthfulness, "I should not be here. I promise you that."

"Ruthless Publicity Seeker!" "There," Asey said, "see! It's a horrible thing. Mrs. Brinley, but you see, you an' your husband is influential, an' Slade knew if he could start a story through you, people would believe it. It's—uh—exploitin'. The—uh—rich, I mean, the influential folks always gets this sort of thing, in any community. You was bein' exploited by a ruthless publicity seeker, that's what."

Chapter 22

He talked on until he was tired, and then Sara came to his rescue. She had never in the past been very cordial to Mrs. Brinley, but she made up for it.

At last the Brinleys gave in. To save Billingsgate, to leave unmarrred the escutcheon of Billingsgate and Old Home Week, they would forget their personal feelings. They would leave everything to Asey. They would never mention the affair. Never whisper about it. Zeb drove them home in Asey's roadster. Madame Meaux, who had also allowed herself to be persuaded to save the town, winked at Asey as she left.

"What an M.C.," she said, "show business lost in you! I'll lay it on some more for you when they get back." "Finally Cummings got Eloise to sleep, and Asey got the rest of the household off to bed. "What are you going to do with him?" the doctor pointed to Slade. "Film an' me is goin' to have a little seance out in the barn. Help us take him out, doc. There's been enough to-do in this house for one night."

After Slade had been deposited on the barn floor, Asey turned to the trooper. "Go on back an' see none of them folks decide to come help us after all," he said. "If they don't get to sleep right away, they'll probably decide to lumber out an' assist." He removed the handkerchief and the piece of soap from Slade's mouth and stood back to await the torrent of abuse he fully expected would issue forth. But Slade just lay there sullenly and never uttered a word.

Asey looked at him thoughtfully. He could see how someone like Jane would fall for a fellow like that. Slade was no moving picture idol; his nose was too long and his mouth too wide, but his dark hair had the sort of crinkly wave in it that women seemed to like, and his black eyes had probably made any number of conquests. About thirty-five, Asey decided. Younger than he had at first thought. And even bound hand and foot, there was a tremendous vigor about him. "Hub," he said. "I can see where you would make Zeb Chase look like skin milk. An' I see why Sara give you a chance. Slade, what's the big idea?" (Copyright, 1936.) Continued tomorrow.

The Making Of A Monster

1. ROBBIN COONS, HIMSELF, Hollywood columnist, looked like this before he let curiosity about movie monsters get the better of him. Nice chap, don't you think? 2. FRANKENSTEIN eyelids are quickly fixed up by the make-up man after the skull cap is glued on. Adhesive strips make the eyes droop. 3. THE MR. HYDE influence appears in the nostrils, distended by rubber tubing. Forehead scar has been gouged out of plastic wax. 4. THE PERFECT MONSTER emerges after several hours' work. Nice monster, don't you think? But being one, says Coons, makes you feel like the devil.

The Sports Parade

By HANK HART

That little matter of who's who on the Pampa baseball club has finally been threshed out which accounts for the dispatch of the franchise forfeit check of $550 to W. G. Bramham, minor league czar.

Grover Seitz will handle the field managerial reins but the business end will fall to Harold Miller, semi-pro leader of other seasons who formerly was the straw boss of the Pampa Road-Runners. Miller, you know, was the monkey wrench that threatened to do a bit of flying and strip the gears of the whole organization. It seems he held all rights to the baseball park, refused to step aside.

For a while it appeared that Seitz might lead a drive to build a new plant, and what a shame that would have been since the Pampa park will be the best in the league, but the warring factions finally got together and agreed to agree.

So now everything is jake. Carpentering on the Amarillo and Abilene parks is practically complete and the Lamesa plant is well along. All managers are busily engaged in lining up ball clubs and all teams will probably be in spring training by April 5.

And speaking of Seitz, now touring the countryside for ivory, did you know he was a pitcher as well as an outfielder back in '29 when he was with the Big Spring West Texas league club? Well, he took the mound at least once that year, fanning Coahoma in an exhibition, 9-5, allowing but six hits and striking out seven men.

Many of this sector's fans would like to see the abolishment of the Shaughnessy playoff, the return of the split seasons era. However, the Shaughnessy system is too profitable to the league as a whole to abandon. It was the salvation of the national game back at the turn of the decade.

The old West Texas league played a split season back in '29 with Coleman and Midland winning the respective first and second half seasons. The championship playoff was never completed.

And here's something maybe you didn't know. Lynch, a Hallinger boy, paced the circuit in stolen sacks with 52 pilfers during the long season. That compares favorably with Bobby Decker's high of 67 last year but Decker did not play as many games as did Lynch.

Two, Robin swiped at least ten sacks in last year's campaign that did not go into the official records. Had it not been for mistakes of the league's official scorers and a series of injuries that kept the New Yorker out of action for about 15 games, it is believed the Baron keystone would have accounted for at least 55 steals.

Neal Babe's Amarillo club has been named the Gold Sox.

Local club officials may try to encourage an independent city league operated on the order of the one back in 1929-30 when Big Spring was occasioned to see some good baseball.

R. L. Cook, club president, indicated recently that the West Fifth and San Antonio streets park would be available to such a league.

Co-Op Gin may sponsor a team this season and Ben Daniel is sure to be active in the game again. Are there any others?

In 1930, the year after professional baseball left here, the municipal league was at its height in popularity. The circuit was composed of six teams—Richardson Re-

CAMP BRIEFS—Grove To Get Test In Tilt With Reds

By the Associated Press
SARASOTA, Fla.—The answer to the biggest question about the Boston Red Sox pennant chances—Lefty Grove's arm—may be had by dusk tonight. Grove is to receive his first real test against the Cincinnati Reds.

MAJOR LEAGUE BEGINNING TO WONDER ABOUT NAGEL
LAKE CHARLES, La.—The Philadelphia Athletics not only are a bit discouraged after the 20-9 licking from the New Orleans Pelicans, to which they contributed six errors themselves, but they're beginning to wonder about Bill Nagel, their rookie third baseman. Nagel made three of the misplays, but also slammed out the A's only homer of the day.

BONURA WORKS DOUBLY HARD IN RAIN IN DALLAS
DALLAS.—A rainy day doesn't mean a day of rest for Zeke Bonura of the New York Giants—not in Dallas. He used to play here when he was voted the most popular player in the Texas League. All he had to do was rush all over town with a reception committee, stop at a hotel kitchen to have his picture taken, "cook" a mess of spaghetti, make two radio talks and greet approximately a million friends.

BROWNS SEEK EIGHTH WIN OVER PHILLIES
CUIERO, Tex.—The St. Louis Browns are a cinch to wind up in, or not far away from, the American League cellar. But down in the grapefruit league, they're the champions—the Phillies. In eight starts against the futility National leaguers, the Browns have seven victories and one tie. They tangle again today, with Johnny Marcum and Ed Cole going for the St. Louis club.

CLEVELAND SECOND BASE JOB IS STILL OPEN
LAKE CHARLES, La.—Sammy Hale reported today his weak throwing arm feels better than for several seasons, so Manager Oscar Vitt is going to give "Bad News" a chance at second base for the Cleveland Indians against the Athletics. This was definite evidence that the second base job still is wide open, regardless of how Rookie Jim Shilling and Oscar Grimes feel about it.

PHILLIES NEED HITTER AND KEYSTONER, SAYS PROTHRO
CUIERO, Tex.—Help wanted: Young man who can hit a baseball a long distance with a bat, and doesn't object to playing with the Phillies. Apply, Manager Doc Prothro, before April 18. In brief, that's Prothro's prescription for his ball club's crying need. "We want a guy who can hit triples and homers; also a good second-sacker," he says. "But, my, it's a tough job."

LOU GEHRIG MAY BE DOWN BUT HE'S PUNCHING
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Lou Gehrig may be through, but Lou Gehrig doesn't know it. "They've been burying me all spring," he announced today, "but no one has sent me illies yet." Then he took his turn in batting practice and belted three straight pitches over the right field wall. His two singles in yesterday's game weren't exactly powder-puff batting, either.

In addition to the $20 prize, the Corpus Christi Caller-Times is to give Roberts a year's subscription to the newspaper for being the guide to bring in a paying party with the first tarpon.

TEXAS GRADS SCRAP FOR POSITIONS ON IMPROVED ST. LOUIS BROWN CLUB

Berardino And Gryksa Infield Possibilities

SAN ANTONIO, Mar. 29 (AP)—Perennial second division ball clubs have a knack for seeping optimism in spring's sunshine—but there's something about the St. Louis Browns that makes you think maybe they're not just whistling in the cemetery this time.

Genial Fred Haney, a baseball-fellow who is the third Brownie manager in as many seasons, just unconsciously leaves the impression something big is going to happen.

Cautiously he has started reshaping the Browns—from fundamentals to attitude. He has them bunting by the hours; sliding into a sand pit that makes hip strawberries and elbow bruises as common as balls and bats in the camp. "Bunts and stolen bases can win a few ball games, you know," quipped Haney. "Why there were some fellows on this squad who had never slid into a bag before. Imagine it. Pitchers, of course, but they've got to learn, too."

Haney will never get into trouble for talking too much, for he comes under a definite conservative hearing. He's already well into his exhibition game schedule, but still won't talk about his starting lineup.

"Attitudes in the Brown camp in the past have been more singular than plural," mused Haney. "The boys themselves have told me they feel like they are better than they have shown—and I believe it myself. They're just about ready to go, I believe."

Power on the Brownie team is unquestioned; they finished second in club batting in the American loop last year.

"But," said Haney, "you can sum the whole thing up and you always get back to the same thing—pitching."

Right now Haney is fairly well pleased with his pitchers, after squinting at them in exhibition games. He counts Buck Newsom, a 20-game winner last year; Howard Mills, southpaw; Johnny Marcum, Russ Van Aita and Ed Cole definitely in his mound plans.

He has a raft of hurlers, but the ones impressing are Jackie Kramer, who won 26 for San Antonio last year; big Bill Trotter, a 22-game winner with the same club; and two left-handers from the Pacific Coast league, Ewald Pyle of Oakland and Louis Toet of Hollywood.

McQuinn, Cliff Set
Two infielders are set. George McQuinn, who clouted 324 from his first base position last year, and Harland Cliff, home run rapping third sacker. But there are five hot prospects for the other two posts. Rookie Johnnie Berardino, who hit .309 for San Antonio last year and was the prize second sacker of the Texas loop, may be in there on opening day but veteran Don Herffner is due back. Red Kress, who year, has Big Gryksa, another San Antonio farmhand, to scrap at shortstop. Utility man Roy Hughes, a good hitter, has been showing his reliable form.

Haney is toying with the thought of making a utility man of Catcher Billy Sullivan, who can also play third and first base. Meanwhile, two sluggers, Harold Spindel of Seattle, who caught the famed rookie Freddie Hutchinson last year, and Joe Glenn, one-time understudy of the Yankee's Bill Dickey, are hot after the catching job. The outfield is fairly well set with Beau Bell, Roy Almonde and Merrill Hoar, obtained from the

LITTLE, BEST MATCH PLAYER, CAN'T WIN IN MEDAL PLAY

By GAYLE TALBOT
AUGUSTA, Ga., Mar. 29 (AP)—It doesn't seem possible that it soon will be four years since I last saw Lawson Little moving down the Johnnie Bulls out near Liverpool.

Then Lawson was a gigantic figure in golf. When he had won his second straight British amateur, vanquishing Dr. William Tweddell in the final, some of the gallery were willing to compare him with Bobby Jones, which in England and Scotland is even a greater compliment than in this land, whether you believe or not.

Over there they fairly worship "Wee Bobby." They don't even mention their own great players, like Vardon and Brad and Taylor, in the same breath with Jones. Yet, when I last saw Lawson Little they were laughing.

Yes, Lawson was a tremendous golfer four years ago, come this summer. In the final of the British amateur, the previous year at Prestwick, Scotland, I watched him slaughter an honorable Scot named Wallace by some such outlandish score as 14 and 13, with Wallace all the time shooting nearly par golf.

Yes, I claim there's never been a greater golfer than Little in those maybe Jones was the finer, more consistent golfer. But he nor any other man who ever lived could have stopped Little in the period I'm talking about.

So, that was the last time I saw Lawson Little, up to yesterday. This time I ran into him on the 13th green of the Augusta national course here, where he and some others of the country's leading shooters are smoothing their shots in preparations for tomorrow's sixth annual "Masters" tournament.

Lawson hasn't been doing so good since he turned professional. I told him I had been waiting all this time for him to win the national open and show them the kind of golfer I knew him to be.

"I've been trying," Lawson said, "but there are too many of these fellows with the same idea. I guess I'm still a match player. I come in with a 71 and feel pretty good until a while later somebody posts a 68. I always feel that I wish I were out there matching that fellow stroke for stroke during his round."

Little announced here three years ago today he was turning pro. Since then he has won only the Canadian open and the San Francisco match play tournament, to my knowledge. There's something about medal play that stops him, but he's still the man-for-man golf champion for his money.

Lawson now has signed up as teaching professional at the Bretton Woods, N. H., course, after three years of messing about the country giving exhibitions. It will be some five more years before he is eligible to compete in the Professional Golfers' association championship, which is match play, but after that he will find him hard to handle.

TO REVIEW HOPFULS
SAN JOSE, Calif., March 29 (AP)—Glenn Bobbery (Pop) Warner, who quit football's big time when he resigned as coach at Temple University last December, then accepted an advisory coach's job at San Jose State College, will review his new charges today when the starters start spring practice.

Co. Tennis Meet To Begin Friday

Coahoma Bulldogs Are Threats In Senior Play; Parker Is Returning

Play in the Howard county tennis tournament will get underway on the Munny park courts Friday with finals scheduled for Saturday afternoon, Lloyd Devan, county athletic director, announced.

Champions will be decided in senior boys' singles and doubles, senior girls' singles and doubles, junior high boys' singles and doubles, junior high girls' singles and doubles, grade school boys' singles and doubles and grade school girls' singles and doubles.

None of last year's senior boys' champions have returned for competition but Coahoma's Bulldogs, who won a major portion of both senior boys' and senior girls' play, is returning with a strong team.

Leldon Dunn replaces Champion Ralph Marshall as the Coahoma singles hope, while Roy Collins and Laurence Robinson will bear the Bulldogs' colors in doubles competition.

The Thomas twins, R. C. and R. V., smashed through to gain top honors in senior boys' doubles play last year. The pair graduated last May and the Billies are not expected to send an outstanding threat in either division of play.

A major singles threat, however, is Hollis Parker, Forsan star, who lost to Marshall in the singles' finals last year. Other Forsan candidates are Bill Rucker, Ken Butler, Elton Neely and J. H. Craig.

Winners in preliminary will be decided in the best two of three sets. In senior boys' singles and doubles' play the best three of five matches will be required to decide the winners.

BOWLERS PLAY IN LUBBOCK MEET FRIDAY

The Casadena Club's bowling team that will represent Big Spring at the statewide meet in Ft. Worth next month goes to Lubbock Friday where they will compete in a three-team tournament along with teams of Lubbock and Amarillo.

J. C. Lopez, Stanley Wheeler, Harry Hoockendorff, Ward Hall and D. Ausmus will make the trip.

JOHN DOEG IS UPSET VICTIM IN RIVER OAKS NET TOURNAY

HOUSTON, Texas, March 29 (AP)—Sixteen-year-old Earl Bartlett, whose tennis playing yesterday downed the seasoned Johnny Doeg, met another veteran, Frank Guernsey, today in the ninth annual River Oaks Tennis tournament.

Guernsey, Rice Institute junior who won the national intercollegiate championship last summer, was favored to turn back the New Orleans high school boy who won over Doeg 7-5, 6-3, in a second-round match.

Doeg, who won the national championship in 1930, has been practically no tournament competitor since then.

Frank Kovacs, Oakland, Calif., clashed with Eddie Holden today. Kovacs eliminated Jack Rogers, Rice Institute freshman from Knox ville, Tenn., 6-2, 6-1. Holden, of Houston, beat Sterling Williams, Austin, 9-7, 6-4.

"Betsy" Grant, Atlanta, who ousted Tommy Higgins, Edmond, Okla., college player 6-2, 6-4, yesterday, was matched with Bobby Curtis, Houston. Curtis downed Hardy Fowler, Temple, 6-2, 6-2.

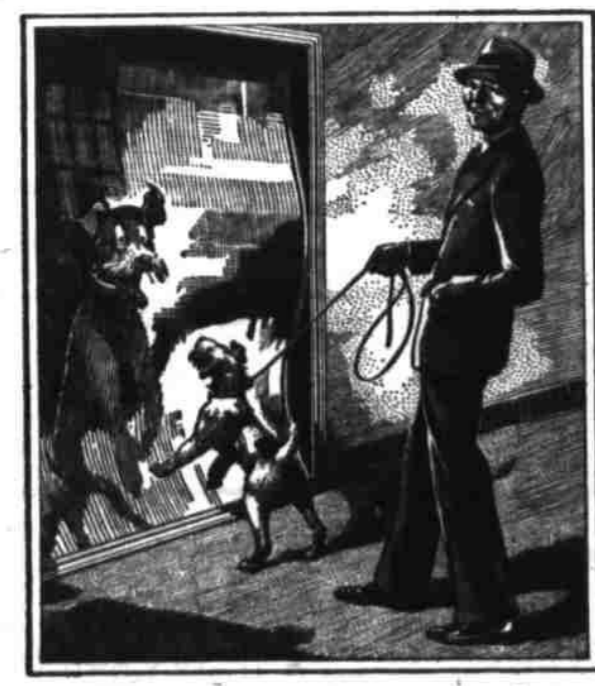

Wilbur Hess, who won the intercollegiate title in 1935 as a Rice player, beat Fred Purnell, University of Texas, 6-1, 4-6, 6-0. Today Hess played Hal Surface, Kansas City, who defeated Kendall Gram, New Orleans, 6-3, 6-1.

Jack Hess faced Ernest Sutter, who was a finalist last year.

Bobby Kamrath, number 1 player of the University of Texas, engaged Wilbur Coen, Kansas City.

Man-O-War Is 22 Years Old

LExINGTON, Ky., Mar. 29 (AP)—Jan O'War, gladiator boy of American thoroughbreds, was 22 years old today.

WHI Harbut, burly negro groom who took over his job of nurse maid to the great stallion nine years ago, fed him apples and carrots for breakfast and "jes let 'em take it easy all day 'cept his morning gallop under saddle 'o five miles."

That was the extent of the birthday celebration in contrast to the big cake, brass band and speaking of last year. It was as Harbut wanted it.

But let the dark complexioned Boswell of the "mos" greatest and mos' grandest hos evah" have his say:

"He weighs 1,575 pounds and we don't let him get no fatter, we cut down on his feed when he gets eatin' too much.

Brink Shades Canzoneri

NEW YORK, Mar. 29 (AP)—There's more of the "fox" and less of the "tiger" in little Tony Canzoneri these days, but the one isn't enough to offset lack of the other.

That fact stood out today from the close decision the former light-weight champion dropped to Irish Eddie Brink of Scranton, Pa., a distinct underdog, before a crowd of 3,869 which paid $8,725.50 to see the charity show at the Hippodrome last night.

A far cry from the little fellow once ranked as the greatest battler in the world for his weight and inches, Canzoneri fought only in flurries while Brink was swinging from bell to bell. Through the seventh round, it appeared Tony could take his man any time he wanted, but the Pennsylvanian, who weighed 139 3/4 to Canzoneri's 141 3/4, kept right on tossing punches to pull out in front and gain revenge for the eight-round setback the ex-lightweight 'ing handed him a few weeks ago.

Border Loop And T. Tech Are At Odds
ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Mar. 29 (AP)—Speculation over future status of Texas Tech in the Border Athletic Conference arose today with admission by a conference official that the Lubbock school was "in difficulty" with the rest of the loop over its athletic program.

Dean S. P. Nannings of New Mexico University, conference chairman, said last night the entire matter would be threshed out at the loop's next meeting, scheduled May 13-14 at Tucson, Ariz.

The Phoenix Gazette yesterday quoted Dr. Emil L. Larson, conference commissioner, as saying Texas Tech has been given until April 1 to explain use of two allegedly ineligible football players in non-conference games last fall.

Dr. Nannings declined to answer all questions concerning the two disputed players, saying it was entirely a matter to be decided by the whole conference.

After discussions here yesterday with President C. B. Jones of Texas Tech, and W. L. Stangel, chairman of the Tech athletic council, Nannings, however, issued a statement in which he said Tech was "in difficulty with the Border Conference in connection with its athletic program, which covers a period of approximately two years."

He said the Tech officials came here to meet with him, not because he had entered an individual protest, but to receive his advice as conference chairman.

firmation would be forthcoming soon. Sen. Allan Shivers of Port Arthur, chairman of the governor's nominating committee, said the group would meet shortly and predicted its approval of West.

The governor, in an interview, said he had known West for some time and that the capitalist made no application for the post.

"I went to him and was most happy to obtain his acceptance of the nomination," the governor said.

"I have been impressed with the personality of the man and the great success he has achieved in the business world. He has all the qualifications necessary for the position and the state is indeed fortunate to obtain the services of a man of his ability and experience."

Although West's name had not been mentioned in speculation, the appointment came as no great surprise.

West came to Texas as a young boy, was educated in schools of this state and in early manhood entered the lumber business in East Texas. He is a native of Mississippi.

He has been prominent in civic and business circles in Houston where he has resided since 1905. He recently sold some ranch and all property for a consideration estimated at $40,000,000.

and fear Germany might turn next to Polish spheres of influence have brought about a drive for "psychological mobilization" in Poland.

Poles were uneasily aware at the same time of internal difficulties revolving about demands for cabinet revision to put up an all-party front in mapping Poland's future course.

Frequent calls by foreign diplomats at the foreign office and recurring consultations between President Ignace Moscicki and Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz tended to highlight these difficulties.

Most Warsaw papers printed Deutsche Diplomatisch - Politische Korrespondenz' article without comment. However, Warsavsky Dziennik Narodowy, organ of the national democrats, said:

"The Demarche of the German organ close to the reich's foreign office without doubt is the first signal announcing a change in Polish-German relations."

Activity Methods

The editorial characterized as "invented versions of persecution" German reports that Germans were mistreated in Poland. Korrespondenz, referring to such reports, said the German press had shown "caution," hoping they were only "a temporary wave of chauvinism."

In the opinion of the Warsaw newspaper, Korrespondenz' article was "an introduction, well known in Poland, to methods of German activity."

"These activities will land Germany in an entirely different position."

"Why should Germany really intend to change her attitude toward Poland?" the editorial concluded. "We may assure that country that it will find us prepared for any change."

Only yesterday Poland was assuaged by Germany's envoy she had nothing to fear from the reich. But those assurances brought no pause in the nation's determination to put her military machine in order.

The diplomatic position of Poland was to keep intact non-aggression pacts with Germany and Soviet Russia, to avoid open declaration against aggression, and continue to improve her military machine while endeavoring to stir a strong feeling of patriotism among the people.

by took over Valencia this morning without meeting resistance.

Madrid started the second day of celebrating heartened by the sight of long lines of social auxiliary trucks loaded with foodstuffs filing into the city.

Medical sources estimated more than 200 persons had died monthly of malnutrition in the latter stages of the siege that began 875 days ago.

Rafael Henche, socialist mayor of Madrid, was reported arrested. It was understood he had tried to get an automobile to take him to Valencia, but, unsuccessful in that, had stayed here and surrendered.

Practically Over

Except for the cleanup, the war was over.

Thousands of Spaniards, Moors and Italians under the red and gold banners of Franco, generalissimo of the nationalist armies and caudillo (chieftain) of the new authoritarian government, were garrisoned in Madrid.

Until yesterday, the 964th day of the Spanish civil war and the 872nd of Madrid's siege, the metropolis was the principal citadel and symbol of republican resistance.

A nationalist spokesman said capture of 40,000 republican soldiers in the collapse of defense lines in the Madrid, Toledo and Cordoba zones had boosted to nearly half a million the number of prisoners taken by Franco since the war started.

An estimated 200,000 nationalists already were in or near Madrid. By last midnight 23,000 had entered the city—hysterically welcomed by 1,000,000 persons tired of war.

The clenched fist unfolded into a flat-palmed fascist salute.

Franco's cleanup squads, aided by sympathizers caught in Madrid by the outbreak of the war, began tracking down republicans wanted for "crimes against the state."

In this category, the charge of having helped prolong the war ranked high as an offense.

Ahead of the nationalist cleanup in Madrid and along the road eastward to Valencia there was a stream of refugees who chose the slight chance of escape from Spain to remaining in Madrid to face Franco's administration justice.

Senate

provide for equal and uniformed payments of old age grants. (As the measure stands the state would make payments necessary to supplement recipients income to $9 a month.)

An attempt to exempt farm machinery from the sales levy failed.

The Senate added a 2 per cent levy on the charges of pipeline companies.

The successful move to strike out property tax reduction and abolition was directed by Sen. Joe Hill of Henderson, who said he thought it unwise in principle for a constitutional amendment directed primarily at pension financing to get involved in ad valorem levies or a "wholesale reconstruction of the Constitution."

His colleagues rejected, 11 to 16, a motion to table Hill's amendment and then approved his measure by voice vote.

The pipeline levy was also a reversal of form. It came after the Senate rejected by a one-vote majority a 3 per cent tax on all common carriers—pipelines, railroads, trucks, buses and airplanes—offered by Sen. Gordon Burns of Huntsville. Then by a vote of 15 to 13 it voted to reconsider and finally accepted the levy on pipelines, rejecting other common carriers.

Sen. Wilburme Collier of Eastland initiated the unsuccessful amendment providing uniform pension payments. His measure lost, 12 to 17, after he had argued it would cost only $12,000,000 additional to make grants under his plan.

By a vote of 9 to 26 the upper chamber, killed Sen. G. H. Nelson's move to lift farm machinery from the sales impost. The Laborer's party argued that item was a large expense to farmers in his section of the state and the tax on machinery would be high.

Pending when the House quit for lunch was a proposal providing that in event the people voted this summer for the constitutional amendment they could vote again on the question in November, 1932.

The House rejected an amendment which would have permitted the Legislature to straighten out difficulties if the Federal Government should refuse to approve the new pension plan.

Debate in the House on the main question was delayed by argument as to whether further consideration of the constitutional resolution should be postponed until next week. Rep. S. J. Isaacks of El Paso said the special committee attempting to compose differences of opinion in the House unanimously favored such a postponement.

from destruction."

"I know these words," he added, "will find a fraternal echo in friendly nations throughout Europe and also across the channel and beyond the Atlantic."

"In the name of my country," he said, "I invite all the powers which think as we do and which, like us, are ready to persevere in the ways of peace but which would unite in the face of aggression, to confident collaboration."

Greene Returns From N. M. Road Session

J. H. Greene, local chamber of commerce manager, and Judge C. E. Story, Martin county judge, returned Tuesday evening from Santa Fe, N. M., where they joined with Eunice, N. M., representatives in asking for a New Mexico highway designation from the Texas line through Eunice to Carlsbad.

The New Mexico highway commission made no commitments on the proposition but did grant a request by Greene that U. S. 80 (Broadway of America) be widened between Lordsburg and Las Cruces. Structures will be installed in the strip.

JURY DELIBERATES BRINKLEY'S CASE

DEL RIO, Mar. 29 (AP)—A jury of West Texas ranchers and business men retired today to deliberate the $250,000 suit of Dr. John H. Brinkley against Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The case went to the jury after Federal Judge R. J. McMillan delivered a lengthy charge in which he discussed the evidence and pointed out to the jurors the Texas laws on libel.

At one point in his charge, Judge McMillan said:

"There is no doubt that this plaintiff has been the subject of trouble in several places in this country. The question of his right to practice medicine has been raised several times."

Rescues Effected After Fire Envelopes Stairs

DALLAS, Mar. 29 (AP)—A negro porter was burned to death and several persons injured in a three-alarm fire which swept through the top two floors of the six-story North Texas building here today.

Tenants said the fire started when a movie projector in a movie company office on the fifth floor exploded just before noon.

Firemen erected ladders to the fifth floor to rescue those who could not reach fire escapes and others overcome by smoke.

One man leaped from the fifth floor to an adjoining building. An explosion was heard as the fire broke out just before noon. A cord of fire equipment was thrown around the section in an effort to prevent spread to adjoining buildings.

MARKETS

Wall Street

NEW YORK, Mar. 29 (AP)—The stock market showed an inclination to move forward today but had difficulty getting started.

An early upturn, which recouped minor initial losses, stalled as many traders withdrew to await the afternoon address of Premier Daladier of France.

While many shares were up fractions to more than a point on the rally, these gains were pared later as the list encountered opposition on the upside.

Bonds also manifested an urge to rise following a hesitant start but moved cautiously.

Gentry

doing graduate work in the teachers college, specializing in school administration and making a study of curriculum work.

When Thomas E. Pierce, supervisor of elementary education, resigned his post to become an instructor at Texas Women's college at Denton, a revision in the set-up was made and Gentry became assistant superintendent in charge of instruction.

His work in Big Spring has by no means been confined to his school activities. In 1932 Gentry served as president of the Kiwanis club. For five years he was chairman of the Big Spring district for Boy Scouts in the Buffalo Trail council. An active church worker, he has been superintendent of the Sunday school at the First Baptist church. Besides association with many other organizations, Gentry has been the local athletic representative on the district committee for years where he militantly contended for Big Spring interests and the elimination of athletic subsidization among high school players.

JR. COLLEGE BILL IS SHOVED ASIDE

AUSTIN, Mar. 29 (AP)—The bill to elevate two junior colleges—John Tarleton and North Texas Agricultural colleges—to full, four-year status, was beaten into the background for at least four weeks by the house yesterday.

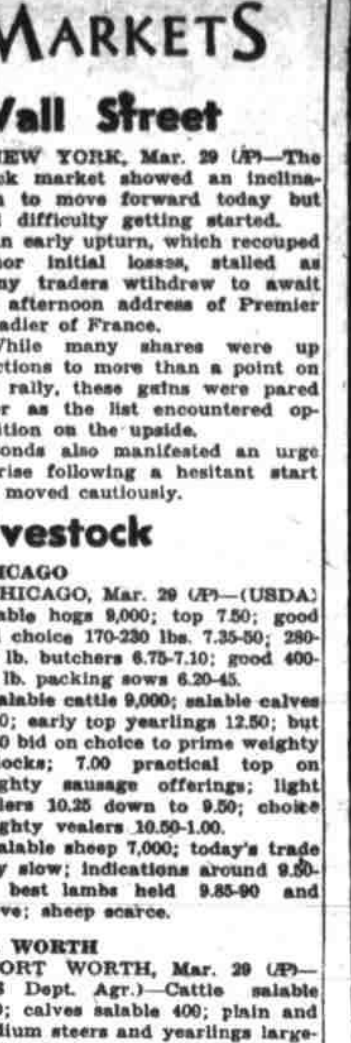

By a 66 to 56 vote, the lower body voted to keep the bill off the calendar until April 24, postponing final action until that date after close votes in both houses had previously approved the plan.

Forces who argued for the long postponement of consideration said much time would be needed to determine what extent the creation of four-year colleges would hike the state's higher educational costs.

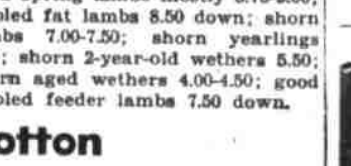

ROAD PROGRAM

AUSTIN, Mar. 29 (AP)—The highway department today announced a farm-to-market road construction program, starting July 1 and including 44 projects to cost $1,568,126.

The United States consumes roughly half the world's annual production of rubber, largely because of intensive development of the automotive industry.

500 HUMAN BOMBS STOP CHARGE OF JAPS, IS REPORT

SHANGHAI, Mar. 29 (AP)—Chinese newspapers printed heroic accounts today of 500 Chinese soldiers who offered their lives to stop Japanese tank charges by strapping explosives to their bodies and hurling themselves at the machines, like living bombs.

Squadrons of heavy tanks plunged relentlessly through Chinese fire and armaments at Manchang, Kiangsi provincial capital, on Saturday, the newspapers related.

The Chinese commander called for volunteers. Five hundred responded, bound dynamite and bombs around their bodies and, when the invaders charged again, threw themselves before the approaching tanks.

"All the tanks were destroyed," the Chinese accounts said, "at the sacrifice of the lives of these fearless soldiers."

SCHOOLS WILL HAVE TO DO WHIMDPH THIS BOOK

CLEVELAND, Mar. 29 (AP)—School officials ordered a bonfire today for 100 copies of "Louisiana the Finest," a 216-page brochure advertising the state. They said the book was entirely too alluring.

The books, which bear the imprimatur of the Louisiana department of agriculture and immigration, were sent here for a recent convention of school administrators. Left over, they were gathered up by Cleveland school employees. Officials decided to place one in each school library.

By chance a school board employee took one from the stack before they were delivered.

He discovered:

On page 34, a comely blonde, dressed simply in a few stalks of Louisiana Sweetness.

On page 59, a brunette with scant costume strung from rice grains and the title "Louisiana's Rice Makes Them Perfect."

On page 58, a girl garbed in tobacco leaves and a smile: "You Have to Smoke Up to Bet This."

On page 98, a feminine lesson in Spanish moss.

Charles H. Lake, superintendent of schools, threw up his hands and ordered the books burned without further ado.

LAST LARGE CITY YIELDS TO FRANCO

BURGOS, Spain, March 29 (AP)—Nationalist headquarters announced today radio advices had reported Cartagena, naval base and the last large city remaining in republican hands, had abandoned resistance to Generalissimo Franco's conquest of Spain.

Shortly before Cartagena's capitulation, the nationalists announced the ending of republican control of Albacete, last remaining provincial capital in the hands of Franco's enemies.

Nationalist sympathizers within the city simply rose up and took over Albacete.

The end of the civil war had come as far as any real resistance was concerned.
