

PLAIN TALK

By BILL PERKINS

Kid McCoy's weeping love grass is in the news again.

Wednesday morning Bill Rhew, KGNC-TV photographer, and Hal Mayfield of the Farm and Ranch department, were at McCoy's place east of McLean taking a sound-on-film motion picture report to be presented on Cotton John's weekend television show.

Right now McCoy's love grass is supposed to be the greenest thing on the Golden Spread. At least, that is the report that Cotton John had received when he told us over the telephone early Wednesday that the boys were coming down.

We were still asleep enjoying "the best part of a Golden Spread day" in our usual way when the early morning call came. After waking up, it really was a beautiful day and we got to the office before 8 o'clock for the first time in months.

"F-F-N-M, F-F-N-M." No, this isn't a new cigarette commercial.

According to W. C. Bowen, administrative officer of Internal Revenue Service, "F-F-N-M" stands for the four common mistakes made by the American taxpayer in filing his 1956 income tax. (It's due and payable on or before April 15, you know.)

The four errors most common and costly to Uncle Sam as well as to his nephews and nieces are: (1) Failure to print or write legibly, (2) Forgetting to sign returns, (3) Not reporting all income, and (4) Mistakes in arithmetic.

"On the matter of forgetting to sign a return, more than 5,000 were returned for signature in this district last year," Bowen revealed.

If you, as a taxpayer, are troubled with the "F-F-N-M," revenue suggests a closer reading of the instructions accompanying your mailed tax forms, plus earlier filing. IRS has the figures to show that taxpayers who wait until the last minute are more apt to make costly mistakes.

VILLAGE

GOSSIP (More or Less)

Mr. and Mrs. Kid McCoy received a letter Wednesday from their son, Dr. Kid McCoy of Lihue Kauai, Hawaii, saying their home had not been damaged in the recent tidal wave. Dr. McCoy, his wife, Nona, and their two children went up on a hill at 7:00 o'clock when they received the tidal wave warning and at 8:00 the wave hit the island. They saw four big fishing boats that didn't have time to get out of the harbor wreck and sink. The waves were as high as 40 feet. Between 20 and 30 homes and several big bridges were destroyed. The McCoy's live on the south side of the island and all of the damage was done on the north side. There were no casualties from the tidal wave.

Mrs. Back's Spellers Bring Home Honors From Spelling Bee

Four girls from the McLean Elementary School brought home honors from the county spelling bee held in Pampa Tuesday morning.

Winnie Martindale won second place in a heated contest against Sue Collins from Pampa Junior High. Winnie held her own for over an hour but finally went down when she interchanged the vowels in "fiend." Sue spelled "fiend," then went on to spell "glossary" to win the bee and the right to enter the regional contest at Amarillo in April. Both girls are in the eighth grade.

Marilyn McIlroy won fourth place in the county and second in the junior division. The word "compliment" was missed by Marilyn and spelled correctly by Amy Earhart of Lefors. Both girls are in the sixth grade.

Judy Wyatt, another eighth grade student from McLean, placed sixth in the county; and Joyce Beasley, a fifth grade student, showed great promise of making a future winner by staying up a number of rounds before tripping on "blossom."

County Superintendent Bert Nuckels presented a ball point pen to Judy Wyatt for having won the spelling bee in McLean schools, and also gave ribbons to her and the three other McLean winners. Ribbons were sent to the following students who were eliminated in the local bee but who worked hard before going down: Butch Dorsey, Paul Lee, Linda Gull, Pat Vineyard, and Carolyn Parker.

The McLean spellers were accompanied to Pampa by Vera F. Back, language arts teacher in McLean Junior High.

DON'T KISS RAILROADS GOOD-BY!

The railroads have been carrying on their passenger business at a deficit. There are various ways of figuring out how big the deficit is, and various totals result, but in any case, it is a very serious one. And some have come to the conclusion that it is just a matter of time before railroad passenger service becomes largely extinct.

This caused the New York Herald Tribune to say: "But before anybody kisses the railroads good-by, it would be well to think about how New York City and the metropolitan region would manage without this part of mass transportation. To dump several hundred thousand extra travelers on the highways each day would be disastrous, both to personal convenience and to general prosperity. . . . What the metropolitan region needs is more mass transportation, not less." The paper then emphasized that this problem is not confined to the huge cities, saying: "In this every community, and not New York City alone, has a vital interest."

There is no denying that. Railroad passenger service is a very important asset to the smaller towns of the country. Not everyone, by any means, wants to drive a car on a trip of any distance, in these days of congested roads and soaring accident rates. Not everyone, by any means, wants to fly. On top of that, the big commercial aircraft can be accommodated at only a comparatively few centers, which possess the huge fields and the wealth of complex and costly equipment required.

The railroad passenger problem isn't susceptible to an easy or pat solution. But everyone with an interest in this country's welfare will wish the best of luck to those who are seeking solutions.

THE TEEN-AGE MARKET

Some novel advice to retailers was given by speakers at a recent convention of the National Retail Dry Goods Association.

It was urged that retailers give special attention to teen-agers and the teen-age market. This was buttressed with some surprising figures. There are 16 million teen-agers in the country today and their income—from earnings and allowances—comes to a whopping $9 billion a year. By 1965, it is estimated, there will be 24 million teen-agers commanding $14 billion in purchasing power. In addition to all this, teen-agers exert a major influence on the shopping habits of adult members of the family.

Specific suggestions—which can be followed by small stores and large—were given as to how to effectively reach this market. They included these: "You can plan a series of ads especially designed to sell your store to the teens. You can make sure that first of all you carefully select the merchandise that's to be featured in these ads. You can reach out to this group in your ads with headlines that select teen-agers from the passing parade of reader traffic moving through the page of the newspaper."

"Retailing and the markets it serves are forever changing in this country—as the economic rise of the teen-agers graphically demonstrates.

Roseburg, Oreg., News-Review: "It takes a difference of opinion, difference of policy and political theory to make good government. The best government is obtainable when the division between major schools of thought is nearly equal."

Manchester, Tenn., Times: "You can always spot a well-informed man when he talks—his views are the same as yours."

American Bank Nationalizes

This week's issue of The News carries the announcement of the American National Bank as a successor to the American State Bank, the conversion of the bank into a national institution having been authorized by the Treasury Department of the United States through a certificate of authority received Monday.

In making this change the officers and directors of the bank announce that they have done so primarily for the purpose of availing themselves of the advantages offered by the operation of the Federal Reserve Act, which was designed to safeguard the financial institutions under its protection and provide ample resources for maintaining their solvency and effectiveness, regardless of untoward disturbance in the commercial and financial world.

The capital stock of the institution remains the same, as do the officers and directors, the only difference being the forfeiting of their state charter and commencing business under and by the authority of the United States Treasury Department.

Cemetery Meeting

A number of citizens are interesting themselves in the matter of taking over the city cemetery and making some effort towards placing it on a business footing in order that it might receive the proper care and attention in the future. This plot which was set aside at the establishing of the town for a cemetery is still the property of the townspeople, and as they are non-residents and receive no compensation for the sale of lots, it has been allowed to get into bad repair.

A mass meeting has been called for Saturday, March 17, at which time it is hoped some kind of organization can be perfected that will have for its business the furthering of this proposition. Every citizen interested in the matter should bear this date in mind and attend this important meeting.

The Yearling' Is Avalon Attraction Friday, Saturday

Every once in a while there comes out of Hollywood a motion picture so eloquently conceived, so beautifully true to life as to remain forever etched on one's memory. Such a picture is "The Yearling," filmization of the Pulitzer prize-winning novel by Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings, showing at the Avalon Theatre Friday and Saturday.

With Gregory Peck and Jane Wyman cast as Penny and Ma Baxter, and with Claude Jarman, Jr., as the lovable Jody, the film faithfully transcribes in Technicolor the story of this courageous hard-working family who encounter both happiness and tragedy in their struggle to eke out a living from their small plot in Florida's dense scrub country.

All the high points of the Rawlings novel are here—the hunt for the marauding bear, Slewfoot; the pulsating episode in which Penny is bitten by a deadly rattlesnake, the free-for-all village brawl of the roistering Forresters, Jody's adoption of his little fawn, the tragic results which ensue when the gambling deacons the young corn shoots and tramples down the tobacco crop rising to the climax of an embittered Jody running away from home only to return later and take his place as a man in the Baxter household.

Gregory Peck and Jane Wyman give the screen two of its most memorable performances as Penny and Ma Baxter, Claude Jarman, Jr., has terrific appeal as Jody and other fine portrayals are contributed by Henry Travers as the genial storekeeper, Joan Wells as Eulalie, Chill Willis as the hard-drinking next door neighbor, Clem Bevans and Margaret Wyche as Pa and Ma Forrester, and Forrest Tucker as Lem.

BIBLE TALK

(1 Pet. 4:11)

And she shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call his name JESUS: for he shall save his people from their sins." (Matt. 1:21) When Christ came ALL responsible were lost. (Rom. 3:23) His mission was to save man. (Matt. 18:11) Was salvation to be conditional, or unconditional?

If unconditional, then salvation would be universal. (Acts 10:34-35) If conditional, the conditions were and are exactly the same to ALL, since God does NOT respect persons.

If salvation is conditional, then we MUST know the conditions before we can meet them. We sincerely believe a few questions are in order that we may proceed intelligently. (1) Who has authority in the salvation of man? (2) What are the conditions of salvation, if any? (3) When does the Lord save man? (4) Where does the Lord save man? (5) Can man be lost eternally once he has been saved? In answer to the first question Jesus said, "All authority is given me in heaven and upon the earth." (Matt. 28:18) Then he gave the conditions of salvation as recorded in Matt. 28:18-20 (Mk. 16:15-16) and (Lk. 24:46-47) Read these. The authority of Jesus is contained in his word, the N. T. scriptures. If all would abide by his word they would be united in one spiritual body. (Jno. 17:21) This is possible for Jesus prayed that it be so.

STORY NO. 11—in a series of articles on Duval County by Frederick Hodgson and Franz Rosenwald. New York newspaper and magazine writers who visited Duval County and wrote the series exclusively for Texas readers.

TPA's Anti-Secrecy Legislation Will Help Prevent Another "Duval County"

By-FREDERICK HODGSON SAN DIEGO, Tex.—Texas law requires certain officers and political subdivisions to publish financial statements in the newspapers.

prosecute malefactors outside their own sewed-up counties. It happened that the conclusions tallied with those of the Texas Press Association, which for several legislative sessions has asked for laws to strengthen the people's right to know what is going on in government.

There are provisions, too, for stopping the flow of State funds to school districts and other political subdivisions which fail to file and publish financial statements to law. According to Sheppard, misappropriation of funds in Duval County was so rife that it didn't stop immediately when the State moved in.

Such a law would keep crime and punishment apart from local politics. This "outside indictment" is already provided by law in rape cases, so it isn't new.

Another proposed law would require District or County Attorneys to file suit for recovery of misappropriated funds in any political subdivision of the state within their jurisdiction, with or without the permission of the governing body.

An anti-secrecy bill is included in the bunch, requiring that all meetings of official bodies be open to the press and public except as now otherwise provided by law.

When the South Texan said, "No," one of these South Texans said, "more laws wouldn't have stopped George Parr. With or without laws, he would have been Duke of Duval."

"The Fifth Amendment is a guarantee that a person does not have to incriminate himself in a criminal proceeding. It was never intended to shield bad officeholders from just criticism or to keep unworthy men in office. Such a distortion of its use is not consistent with the honor of public service."

When the South Texan said, "No," one of these South Texans said, "more laws wouldn't have stopped George Parr. With or without laws, he would have been Duke of Duval."

'Teenage Rebel' Tells Of Problems Facing Youthful Society

In the midst of current newspaper, film and educational warfare trained on the American "phenomenon," the teenager, 20th Century-Fox has developed a sensitive, tender hearted approach to the problems that beset one of this youthful society in a delightfully entertaining film, "Teenage Rebel," showing at the Avalon Theatre Wednesday and Thursday.

Ginger Rogers and Michael Rennie, with three up and coming youngsters, Betty Lou Keim, Warren Berlinger and Diane Jergens, bring it off with flying colors.

Based on the Broadway hit play, "A Roomful of Roses," the CinemaScope production broadens its theme of a mother and daughter separated in understanding by the rulings of a divorce court with the confusions, humor and heartbreaks that throb in a world of rock 'n' roll youngsters. The screen writer-producer team, Walter Reisch and Charles Brackett, have underlined Edith Sommer's play with a modern tempo found in teenage activities that range from juke box fascination to hair-raising auto "drag" races. In the film story a young girl is sent by her father to the home of the mother she has not seen since early childhood—a mother for whom she has been allowed to nurture a strong hatred as the woman who left home for another man. In this new surrounding and experiences the lonely, troubled girl learns for the first time what it is to love someone and to be loved in return.

Ginger Rogers, as the mother, and Betty Lou Keim, the daughter, make a sensitive team and play their scenes with great poignancy, while Michael Rennie, the stepfather, plays with sincerity and understanding. Betty Lou is a real find, certain to be one of the "stars of the future" as Twentieth Century Fox has billed her.

'The Girl He Left Behind' Coming To Avalon Theatre

"The Girl He Left Behind," starring the romantic team of Tab Hunter and Natalie Wood, will be at the Avalon Theatre Sunday and Monday.

Marion Hargrove, who brought laughter to many millions with his World War II novel, "See Here, Private Hargrove," wrote the original story of "The Girl He Left Behind" from material he compiled at Ford Ord while posing as a trainee without revealing his identity to the other men in the company.

The film deals with Uncle Sam's peacetime army and its trainees who learn their soldiering under the new "Treat 'em polite" policy and the romantic problems of one draftee and the girl he left behind, but not far.

Also seen in support of the Hunter-Wood duo are Jesse Royce Landis, Jim Backus, Henry Jones and Alan King, as well as officers and men of the regular training companies at Fort Ord.

Wheeler Expresses Appreciation for Use of McLean Gym

Supt. Freeman Melton has received the following letter from the superintendent of schools in Wheeler:

Dear Mr. Melton:
On behalf of our boys basketball team, coach, and the people of Wheeler, I wish to express appreciation to you, your school, and the McLean people, for the use of your school gymnasium on the night of February 25 for our bi-district game with Samnorwood.

We enjoyed your excellent facilities and the efficient manner with which your people handled the affair. Please convey our thanks to all your school officials and personnel, and especially to Hap Rogers, Harold Bunch, your janitor, and the gentlemen who operated the scoreboard.

The use of your facilities for this game, and for our bi-district football game with Groom last November leaves us greatly indebted to you and your fine town and school. I trust we will be able to return the favor to some extent in the future.

Sincerely,
A. E. Brown, Supt.
