

PLAIN TALK

By BILL PERKINS

During Open House at Marie Foundations last Wednesday, Mayor Ed Lander received the following telegram from C. A. Bracht and Max Stein of Sears, Roebuck and Co. in Chicago:

"Today you and your city are hosts to Sears people at the grand opening of Marie Foundations. We could not have made a better choice. Congratulations are in order to the people of McLean for their faith in your city and to Cal Fraser for opening his plant. We are happy, too, for our small contribution to your community."

The part we particularly like and agree with wholeheartedly is "We could not have made a better choice."

We thought we were having interference from outer space right here in the News office Monday when the water pump of our cooling system began running with the electricity turned off.

The cooling unit had not been used for more than a month and the water had been disconnected, the unit covered with a tarpaulin, and the electric switch had been thrown off for more than two weeks.

Suddenly Monday afternoon the water pump motor began running again.

To add to our confusion, our cold water faucet at the wash basin in the back began dispensing HOT water.

The water faucet also spouted out electric current along with water.

We thought there must be some connection between the Tan up on the roof running without electricity and the electrified hot water coming out of the cold water faucet, but since there was no water connected to the fan it made it even more baffling.

Larry Fuller and Jimmie Don Morris of Southwestern Public Service investigated and advised us to get it fixed or have our insurance doubled.

They took out a fuse in the master switch Monday night until we could get an electrician the next morning.

It all seemed very simple in the end.

The electrician found that the fan had been wired incorrectly when it was installed several years ago. With the recent dampness the lead wire was shorting out and grounding against the water pipe.

Although wired incorrectly, the fan operated perfectly during the drought years, but all the moisture this year has affected it as it has everything else around here.

FOLKS and FACTS

BY BILLIE PERKINS

Earl and Black Stubblefield returned home Monday night from a pheasant hunt at Platte, S. D. Four inches of snow was on the ground but the men got their limit of pheasants. They reported a very nice trip. Black lives in Amarillo. . . . Bonnie Bidwell had quite an experience recently while on her way to town. She ran over a rattlesnake in the road and it got caught in the mechanism of her car. Mrs. Greenhouse drove up but the two ladies were unable to get the snake from under the car. Mrs. Greenhouse drove back to the Phillips plant and an employee at the plant came down and removed the snake. It was quite an afternoon and Mrs. Bidwell was delayed somewhat in getting to town. . . . The Boyd Meadors are getting a new roof and putting sheetrock on the inside of their home. . . . We were sorry to hear about Charles Cousins undergoing surgery Tuesday morning. We hope he has a quick recovery and will be back at work soon. . . . The P-TA variety show posters are about the cutest things we have seen. Have you noticed the one at the bank about the birds and bees? There is a cute one in the post office, also. The variety show is tonight (Thursday) and the program sounds very good. . . . The Cub Scout achievements are in several stores in town this week. Stop by and see some of the work the Cub Scouts are doing. . . . Billy and Becky Orriek are sick with flu this week. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Kid McCoy are planning a trip to Honolulu. They will leave December 6 by boat and be gone over two months. They will visit their son, Dr. Kid McCoy, and family there.

Canadian came from behind to take a District 2-A decision from McLean Friday night, 38-14.

In a wild scoring first half the Canadian Wildcats got two touchdowns in the first quarter and McLean came back with two in the second period for a 14-13 advantage. But the winners moved for another pair before halftime for a 26-14 lead. Two more TD's in the third stanza led the cake for Canadian.

Kenny Abraham ran 67 and 59 yards for the two long Canadian scores, and Johnny Gift did the short run duty with tally runs of 6, 7 and 9 for three TD's and he added two extra points.

David Crockett scored the two McLean touchdowns on a run of 26 yards and a 70-yard punt return.

ELEVEN AREA RANCHERS PLAN COYOTE AND BOB CAT CONTROL

Eleven Donley County ranchers have gone together and formed a coyote and bob cat control program for the next six months, says County Agent H. M. Breedlove.

This program is in cooperation with the department of the interior which will furnish the trapper. The ranchers believe that damage to livestock make this six months program a must in holding down damage to the calf crop and causing damage to price of the animals affected.

The cost is $98 per ranch for the six months program. W. J. Lewis, Jr., is treasurer for the program.

The ranches in Donley County that will take part in this program and where the trapper will work, are RO ranch, Head & Knorr ranch, F. J. Hommel ranch, Griffin ranch, T. L. Roach ranch, J. H. McMurtry ranch, J. L. McMurtry ranch, E. L. Sitter ranch, W. H. Cooke, Jr., ranch, M. T. Johnson ranch, and the JA ranch.

E. G. Pope of the department of the interior is supervisor of the work in Donley County, and work is now under way on the ranches.

From the State Capitol HIGHLIGHTS AND SIDELIGHTS

By Vern Sanford
Texas Press Association

Two Special Sessions

Days of old seem to have dawned over Texas lawmakers. They ended their first called session this week and launched into number two.

It's the first time in more than a decade that a governor has convened a legislature in two rapid-fire special sessions.

Main topic for the second session is a bill to authorize closing of public schools threatened by occupation by federal troops.

Gov. Price Daniel issued the second call when it became apparent that this issue couldn't be squeezed into the final days of the first session.

House and Senate had difficulty coming to an agreement on details of the first session's five-point program: water planning, lobby control, crime study, practice before state agencies, and money for an insurance department building.

Delay Spotlights
Senate investigating committee is continuing its drive to establish whether the Insurance Commission dilly-dallied with reports of irregularities in a Dallas firm.

Former Insurance Department Examiner Wayne Tinkler told the committee that he began an examination of Preferred Life last March. He ran into difficulties, and asked for help from the department's legal counsel. He didn't get it, said Tinkler, and finally turned in a report in June. His audit indicated that Preferred's president owed the company some $194,000 due to stock manipulations, Tinkler reported. "But no action was taken in the department until September, when a brief conference was held."

Bond Program Launched

At least one phase of Texas water conservation program now has the official go-ahead.

By approving a constitutional amendment, voters cleared the way for issuance of $200,000,000 in bonds to finance local water projects.

Though only about one-tenth of the electorate (185,000) turned out, all three proposed amendments received approximately 3-to-1 majorities.

Other two will provide increased retirement benefits for state employees and authorize higher old age pensions.

Who Foots the Bills

Texans depend on severance taxes, mainly on oil and gas, for nearly one out of three state tax dollars.

Tax Analyst John F. Sly of Princeton said this reliance on natural resource taxes has been increasing over the years. Sly, in addressing a meeting of the Texas Research League in Austin, gave what may be a preview of the searching study of Texas' tax structure being undertaken by the league.

Some Sly statistics: State taxes increased from $123,000,000 in 1940 to $625,000,000 in 1957. Severance taxes jumped from 16% to 30% of the total in that period. Texas' state and local taxes are $130 per capita compared to the national average of $158.

Embarrassment of Riches

Combination of late spring rains and early fall rains has caught many Texas farmers in a squeeze.

There wasn't enough time in between to raise a crop and get it out of the fields. Agricultural agents in North Texas reported that farmers there stood to lose millions from ruined cotton.

Some ranchers, according to the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, have "a very unusual situation—more grass than stock to eat it." This time last year those same ranchers were selling off stock at a sacrifice because they had no feed.

CLARK GABLE CO-STAR WITH YVONNE DeCARLO in "Band of Angels," the feature attraction at the Avalon Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday. The film is in beautiful WarnerColor.

Small grain and winter legume prospects are extremely good, says USDA, though dry weather is needed for additional planting.

Cotton Acreage Tussle

For the third-straight year East Texas and West Texas cotton farmers are at odds over acreage allotments.

State and county allotments are to be announced by USDA before Dec. 14 when cotton farmers will vote on whether they want a market quota program for 1958.

West Texas farmers contend that their area has been penalized. They say an undue portion of the state's cotton acreage is allotted to the older cotton growing counties of East and Central Texas. One group of West Texans went to federal court last year to try to get the allotments changed.

Opposing them is the Old Cotton Belt Association which has announced it will fight new efforts to wrest acreage from its area.

Speed Law Questioned

Governor Daniel has been requested to ask the Legislature to re-write the automobile speed limit law.

A recent opinion from the Court of Criminal Appeals called the law "vague and indefinite and therefore invalid." Involved was a conviction for driving 90 miles an hour.

If this law is too shaky for court tests, the Harris County district attorney told the governor in effect, a new and stronger one should be written immediately.

Engineers Urge Water Plan

Texas Society of Professional Engineers has added its voice to those urging an extensive, long-range water program.

Importance of water to Texas' future justifies an annual expenditure of $100,000,000, in the opinion of TSPS's special water study committee.

TSPS's report recommended: (1) adoption of the governor's proposed legislation, (2) salary increases for the water board members, (3) planning on the lowest level possible to allow proper development of an overall program, (4) sale of water storage acquired by the state in federal reservoirs to any qualified political subdivision, as quickly as possible.

School Work Okayed

Improvements have been authorized by the State Board for Hospitals and Special Schools for nine schools and hospitals. Included are state schools at Abilene and Austin, state hospitals at San Antonio, Kerrville and Harlingen, the Austin State School Farm Colony and the Confederate Home for Men. Costs will total $261,000.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Gunn and daughter, Ray Diane, of Texas Tech in Lubbock visited his mother, Mrs. Odessa Gunn, over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Rice returned home last Thursday after a week's visit with relatives in Baird and Abilene.

First look at a smart performer

TODAY we're proudly displaying the 1958 GMC Money-Maker. And we think you'll find it the handsomest hustler you ever handled.

An eager 200 horsepower swings a top load like a cargo of feathers. Turning ease is like power steering's.

A fast-ratio cruising axle gives you an overdrive's road pace and gas savings. Foam-rubber seats cradle you in a roomy cab. Boulevard styling carries out the feeling of luxury.

But this beauty is built like a pocket battleship. You'll see that in its massive spring hangers. In rear springs with the highest deflection rate of all light-duties.

You can sit solidly on an unhooked end of its tail gate—and you can't crinkle the roof or door panels with a smack of your hand.

You'll get the same quality instrument panel as on the big, $10,000 GMC heavy-duties. A radiator mounted on a bulkhead integral with the frame. A steering column braced like a mast.

These and more tell the inside story of GMC stamina. Come in and see for yourself. Why not do it today?

REAL SECURITY LIES IN THE QUEST FOR FREEDOM

Social security has become firmly rooted in our government and social structure. But our only real security, in life, or the nearest approach thereto, is the eternal quest for freedom and independence that is the glory of the American way of life.

Fire Policeman, a fraternal publication of Lancaster, Pa., eloquently says of our way of life: "Let those who complain of it point to a better one. Be it nations or individuals, those who look to others for their security are chasing rainbows. They will find not security but slavery. Whatever of security there is, lies only in ourselves."

If everyone would realize this and govern himself accordingly, millions would soon find themselves infinitely better off.

IF YOU HAD NO RAILROADS

America's railroads have no intention of ripping up their tracks and going out of business overnight—but here's what would happen, according to the August issue of Railway Progress:

Unemployment across the nation would immediately increase by 30%, because some 1,000,000 railroad employees would be thrown out of work.

As a result, consumer buying power would drop by $5.3 billion—the amount now paid each year in wages to railroad employees—and small shops across the land would have to close their doors.

Your tax rates would go up sharply—because federal, state and local treasuries would lose the $1.22 billion a year the railroads now pay in taxes. That's $20 apiece for 60,000,000 wage-earners.

More than 25,000 companies in 48 states would lose

$2.8 billion worth of business a year, because they would no longer be able to sell the 200,000 different items the railroads now buy from them.

The steel industry alone, which last year sold 5.8% of its output to the railroads, would lose $920 million worth of business a year.

The petroleum products industry, which sold 3.4% of its output to the railroads in 1956 (including 14.6% of all distillate oil produced in the U. S.) would lose $445 million worth of business.

The forests products industry would lose $155 million worth of business; the electrical materials industry, $139 million.

In turn, these businesses would be faced with the prospect of having to fire 315,000 employees—the number it took in 1956 to furnish the 600 million man-hours of production required to turn out supplies for the railroads.

Consumer prices would rise sharply—for these prices directly reflect the cost of transporting both raw materials and finished products, and no other transportation system in the world can move goods more cheaply than the railroads of the United States.

The railroads can move a mile-long freight train weighing 5,000 tons with 4,000 horsepower and a crew of five men, with the same horsepower 20 trucks manned by 20 or more men can move only 400 tons.

A railroad, for one dollar's worth of fuel, can move a 40-ton freight car 151 miles. With the same amount of fuel, two 20-ton trucks will move less than 12 miles on the same highway.

Thus the railroads, in 1956, moved 2.7 billion tons of freight that eventually found its way into every American household—in the form of food, furniture, clothing, etc.—at an average cost to the shipper of only 1.384 per mile.

Warns Against Veneered Hay

The United States Department of Agriculture urges buyers of baled hay to make certain that they do not buy veneered or faced bales as high grade hay. Veneered bales contain high grade hay on the outside while the center is packed with cheaper grades. The National Hay Association is opposed to the practice, and has asked the department to assist in eliminating it.

CITY STATE

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

By VERN SANFORD

It was bluebird weather when duck season got under way this year. Nevertheless many hunters shot their limits . . . from the Red River to the Gulf.

Then came a good norther. And now the weather is better for duck and goose shooting.

This type of hunting is about the hardest and most difficult gunning in Texas. So much depends, not on what is done in Texas, but on conditions in Canada throughout the early part of the spring and summer.

If conditions are right north of the border and there is a big hatch, Canada will send more ducks down the various flyways into the United States. Many will stop before they get to Texas. But countless numbers have wintered on the Texas coast for so long that it is family tradition for them to return to the Lone Star State. And here they head.

More and more ducks remain in Texas water every year, in order to produce their families in the South.

However, they represent but a small amount of the total duck population. And this number is reduced considerably after the first few days of shooting.

Good Shooting Is Everywhere

Most duck and goose hunters think of the Texas coast as the best hunting place in the state. That isn't necessarily true. There are thousands of ducks killed each year on the streams and farm tanks of Texas. Excellent hunting exists on all the major impoundments in the state and in the grain fields of the Texas Panhandle.

Grain field hunting is about the easiest on the hunter. He hides behind a shock of grain or in a hurriedly-thrown-up blind.

Duck hunting under most conditions is hard work. Usually the worse the weather the better the shooting. It usually takes a cold drizzle to get the ducks and the old honkers to come down close to the ground. That is, close enough to reach them with a blast from the shotgun.

Of course, the ammunition manufacturers have learned to load the standard length shells with a little more powder and shot. But, the ducks and geese are smart, too. They just fly a little higher.

No Motor Boat Hunting

Most waterfowl shooting is done on water. For this reason it is necessary to have a good boat and/or waders.

Boat hunters can use outboard motors to take them to blinds or bring them back to the shore. They can also be used to pick up lead ducks, providing the gun isn't used. But, the law is strict on the use of any kind of power boat for hunting ducks.

There was a time when most hunters had well trained dogs to retrieve their birds. But the growth of cities has slowed down the raising of good duck retrievers. Now it's largely a do-it-yourself job.

Duck hunters have to get up early, as the season opens a half-hour before sunrise. Usually a hunter will want to have his decoys spread out on the water a half-hour earlier than that. Then he crawls into his blind and starts tooting on a duck call.

Frankly, more ducks are frightened off by callers than ever come in. However, many won't believe this.

There are a few hunters who can really talk to the ducks on these wooden callers. Too many of us, however don't have the proper ear. We have not been around ducks long enough to know their language or to understand them.

One of the most disconcerting things that can happen is for the man in the next blind to blast away on his duck call when a flock is coming down to your decoys. They take to wing and that's the last you ever see of them.

FOURTH BEEF WEEK IN TEXAS PROCLAIMED . . . Governor Price Daniel this week proclaimed December 1-7 as Beef Week in Texas and urged Texans to salute the state's oldest and largest industry. Officers of the Texas Beef Council: J. D. Sartwell, Houston, first vice president (center) and Leo Welder, Victoria, president, receive the proclamation.

It may be helpful for a hunter, on a large body of water, to have a call. But only if he uses it in a very limited manner. Just one or two quick quacks will be heard by the flying ducks. If they are interested in the decoys no more calling is necessary. On the other hand, many hunters achieve the same results by whistling or by barking like a dog. This is a common practice on the coast.

Care of the Gun

It must be remembered that duck hunting usually is hard on the gun, too. Especially is this true when hunting around salt water. It doesn't do much good to carry a gun onto the water in a soft lined case, then let the gun get wet and put it back into the case. That salt water remains and the gun is soon covered with rust.

Perhaps one of the simplest ways is to use one of those plastic bags that your cleaning comes in, nowadays. You can haul your gun onto the water and bring it back in this plastic bag, and then throw the bag away. Then, as soon as you can, wipe the gun off with some good rust inhibitor or oil. In that way you can keep from having a badly pitted gun. Tell your wife to save these plastic bags for you. You can use them to save your feathers in when you return from a hunt. Then make some nice feather pillows.

Another way to do yourself a good turn is to keep a record of the ducks you kill. Then send the information to the Game & Fish Commission. Also be sure and send in any bands you find on the birds you kill. These bands provide valuable information. They help the boys in the commission office select the season dates next year.

Fishing Is Good, Too!

Just because it is duck season you don't have to neglect fishing. Fast of the matter is that some of the finest string of fish are caught by duck hunters after the flight has gone on for the day.

If you have your waders along, try some in-the-water fishing. You may find a new thrill there that you have been overlooking.

From a PASTOR'S STUDY

By J. R. Lawson, Pastor First Baptist Church, Killebrew

For the kingdom of Heaven is as a man traveling into a far country, who called his own servants, and delivered unto them his goods. And unto one he gave five talents, to another two, and to another one; to every man according to his several ability; and straightway took his journey. Then he that had received the five talents went and traded with the same, and made them other five talents. And likewise he that had received two, he also gained other two. But he that had received one went and digged in the earth, and hid his Lord's money.—Matthew 25:14-18.

This parable is rich in suggestiveness. Taken as a whole it represents one phase of the kingdom of God. Broken into parts it casts its light upon many objects. Our suggestions will be grouped around the man who failed.

Who was this man? He was the one talent man. He was not an idiot, nor a genius, he had some ability, some responsibility, some measure of success dormant in him. Had he not possessed this he could not have been blamed. He was spokesman for the rank and file of humanity. The average man is the one talent man, but the average man has the possibilities of an expert in him. If this one talent were developed it holds the keys of success. The failure of the multitude is not for lack of ability, but for lack of development of what they do possess.

Why did he fail? He failed for lack of vision. He underestimated the worth of his one talent. Vision is always the forerunner of progress and success. There can be no advancement until vision has paved the way. He failed for lack of initiative. He said he was afraid. He lacked courage, he was filled with fear, he was whipped before he started. He saw imaginary difficulties everywhere. He failed because he was filled with suspicion. He knew in advance he could not get a square deal, afraid of his master, expected to be tricked. This leads to self pity, it makes a man misinterpret the actions and words of others; he reads trouble into every circumstance.

He failed because he was anxious about his pay. What could one talent bring a man? He lived for one thing only, self, and what he could get out of the world, with no thought of service and help which he might render.

He failed for lack of ambition, he was satisfied to have just one talent. Had it lest he might lose it. He lived from hand to mouth. He brought nothing into the world and could take nothing out of the world, so why worry about having anything.

He had gained nothing, but he had not lost anything, so why worry? He did no good, but he did no harm, so he contented. He had no crops, but he had no weeds. He had no friends, but he had no enemies, so he could strike a balance and be happy. Such philosophy of life always ends in defeat and failure. Such negative conceptions of living always end in emptiness.

A FREE PRESS... and CENSORSHIP

America is at peace. While we have men in uniform stationed over the world, we are not at war. In every way, we are working to preserve our peaceful relations with other peoples whose ideologies and aspirations differ from ours.

Figuring largely in that huge undertaking is America's Free Press. Even during the peaceful years, it has become necessary that certain information regarding discoveries and inventions be protected. Security has become big business.

"Keep this out of the newspaper," are fighting words to any newspaper editor who is a conscientious craftsman. Yet editors of all newspapers, large and small, realize the responsibilities facing them, to help preserve the securities that are so important to all of us.

Government, the military, and the scientific fields, receive full cooperation from the men and women who, by training, are accustomed to dig out and know the news... and who, by instinct, strive to keep the people fully informed.

Americans have a right to expect that full freedom of the press be preserved, within the bounds drawn by these securities.

For a completely free press is the only safe foundation on which government of the people can build all other freedoms.

Senator Yarborough's WASHINGTON REPORT:

Dear Fellow Texans:

Despite the opposition of Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson, at last the funds to rebuild wind and flood damaged farmlands will soon be trickling into Texas.

Jack Bradshaw, acting state administrative officer for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, told me this week that $27,500 has been approved in Washington for rebuilding Bowie County soil damaged by Red River floods last spring.

This is not much of the $20 million appropriation, but it is only one county and is enough to get the work started. Farmland damage in Bowie County has been appraised at $492,923, and Mr. Bradshaw says that consideration will be given to allocation of more funds for that county in January.

Meanwhile, applications from Brazos and Kaufman counties for these soil rebuilding funds are now being processed and other Texas counties should soon be receiving this flood and wind erosion disaster help.

Mr. Bradshaw has asked me for a breakdown of the acres of flood and wind erosion damage in each Texas county, and it is being prepared.

The State ASC administrator plans to resurvey the entire state with particular emphasis on these areas where considerable soil damage has been reported. Thus, farmers and ranchers will be given new information on how to work with their local agriculture officials to make application for these funds.

Soil conservation authorities tell me that if Texas farmers do not rebuild their damaged farmlands, it will be many years before the Texas farm economy can return to normal. I worked on this $20 million appropriation to help get Texas farmlands back in condition. Those whose land has been damaged should ask their local ASC representative or county agriculture agent about making application under the program.

Tax-Man Sam Sez:

A lot of folks who work at one place and live at another have trouble with Internal Revenue over where their home is. A man who has voted in Wise County during all of his adult 50 years is rather surprised to find out that his tax home is in Fort Worth, when he has a full-time permanent job in Fort Worth. Generally speaking, for tax paying purposes, and especially for computing travel expense, your tax home is where you work, not where Mom and the kids stay.

Tops in Crops, Entomology

Top state honors were won by two 4-H'ers for outstanding records in field crops and entomology, according to the State Extension Service. They will be among the Texas delegates to attend the annual 4-H Club Congress in Chicago during the week of Dec. 15.

More than a good crop was in store for Bobbie Cator, 18, of Moore County, who won the state 4-H Field Crops award for his exceptional project work. Bobbie, a versatile seven-year 4-H'er, repeated as state champ but in another category. He was winner in Grain Marketing in 1956.

This lad has an impressive collection of medals, trophies, championship banners and ribbons to show for his work in 4-H. Wheat has been a specialty crop for the Sunray high school senior.

David's interest began when he discovered that insects caused many problems in other 4-H Club projects. Whether it was squash bugs or chicken lice, he set out to learn ways of controlling pests and insects.

4-H Girls Rate High in State

Two Texas girls won expense paid trips to the 36th annual 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, Dec. 15. They are Janie Hott, 15, of Cooke county, and Glenda Hensley, 17, of Harris county.

Sharing in the production of nutritious fruits and vegetables guided Janie to greater knowledge of healthful living and won for her the state 4-H Garden award. Her trip to Club Congress is provided by Allis Chalmers Mfg., Tractor Group.

Glenda's face brightens at the very thought of the many things she learned and the awards she has won in her 4-H Club work. Dress Revue and queen honors are among the highlights in Glenda's busy life. She has a long array of ribbons won from her 4-H demonstrations and exhibits.

Both 4-H programs are directed by the Cooperative Extension Service.

GREAT PLAINS CONSERVATION PROGRAM APPROVED FOR STATE

Texas has been given the go ahead signal for its role in the Great Plains conservation program, the drive to stabilize agriculture in the vast Plains area where drought is a constant hazard.

The approval means the big program can start moving in the 64 West Texas counties which have been designated for the program.

Next step is for county program committees in the designated counties to select applicable practices from the state list and work out cost share rates based on average costs in each county.

The federal government, with $10 million appropriated for the current year and $150 million for a 10-year period, is to pay up to 80% of the installation cost of eligible practices.

Smith pointed out that the foundation of the program, for which 221 counties in the 10 states of the Great Plains have been designated, is a complete conservation plan for the entire farm or ranch operating unit.

"This program is an effort to solve the difficult long-term land use and conservation problems on the farms and ranches of the Great Plains," Smith explained. "It will help a farmer or rancher plan his operations so that he can minimize the hazards of our Plains weather. He can establish needed soil and water conservation measures with the help of federal cost-shares that are guaranteed for a long period, up to 10 years."

Smith pointed out that the Great Plains conservation program does not replace any other going program, but that it is designed to complement other programs and speed up any needed shifts in land use or operations on a farm or ranch.

The approved list of practices for Texas with cost share percentages is as follows: Establishing permanent vegetative cover, 80; field strip-cropping, 80; contour strip-cropping, 80; reseeding of range land, 80; planting trees or shrubs for windbreaks, shelterbelts, erosion diversion terraces, ditches or dikes to intercept runoff and improve water penetration, 70; Erosion control detention or sediment retention dams, 70; channel lining, chutes, drop spill-ways, etc., for the protection of outlets and channels discharging of excess water, 80; spreader ditches or dikes, 70; reorganization irrigation systems, 50; leveling land for more efficient use, 50; constructing, enlarging, deepening or lining dams, pits or ponds for irrigation water, 50; lining irrigation ditches, 50; constructing wells for livestock water to protect vegetative cover, 50.

Health Officer Says Children's Diseases Due to Increase

Austin.—Now that school days are routine and winter is starting to push fall aside, there will probably be the usual increase in communicable diseases common to children.

Thousands of unnecessary cases of communicable diseases—and deaths—could be prevented every year in Texas, if all parents would only realize the danger of the common cold.

Colds, especially a child's cold, should never be neglected. But how many times have you heard a parent mention that Junior or Susie "have the sniffles" but they "seemed" well enough to go to school?

And what's more, they will continue to go to school as long as they're able to walk, and only when they become seriously ill does the careless parent call the family physician.

But by that time a good many children in Junior's or Susie's classroom have become exposed, thus setting up a chain of sickness and time lost from school.

And with the threat of the Asian flu hanging over the state, the common sense protection of keeping a child home when he or she is not feeling up to par makes more sense than ever.

A child who is sent to school feeling tired, perhaps because of inadequate meals, is handicapped. He not only lacks the aptitude for learning, but he is running the chance of falling prey to disease germs.

A youngster who is allowed to go to school suffering from a cold or the flu, runs the risks of serious complications. These troubles may develop into pneumonia, or if his resistance is low, signs of tuberculosis may appear. However, when a slight illness is promptly and properly cared for, the child is usually well in a day or so.

The teacher can also be alert to notice if a child isn't feeling well. Of course, she is not expected to diagnose disease, nor is it her province to give health examinations, but she can recognize the common signs of pallor, a cold, and fever.

For his own protection and of other children in the classroom, a sick child should not be allowed to stay in school.
