Our contribution to the "you-can-remember" fad: If you can remember when "shoot the moon" meant domino's instead of Canaveral, then man, you probably don't dig rock 'n roll either.

Maybe there's nothing new under the sun, but there'll be something new orbiting around.

If we Texas don't shut up about the admission of Alaska the Eskimos are liable to divide the thing up and then we'll be the third largest state.

As I see it, about the only hope for us little people is some how to slip the word to politician on both sides of the curtain that in the next world-wide hostilities nobody's gonna get to sit behind the front lines.

Nowadays you can't park with in a half a dozen blocks of high school. The only people the cops' have cars are the teachers.

Golf is a game where a little white ball is chased around by men that are to old to chase much of anything else.

If the present trend continues, I predict that within 20 years there will be more traveling insurance salesmen than people.

And in the next 50 years, the art of conversation will be as dead as Sanskrit. The only hope for its salvation is longer TV commercials.

Life is too long to play chess.

D. E. Scott, our Crossroads Report neighbor from Wellington, was over Monday night to talk to the Methodist Men.

He talks with the same dry wit that characterizes his columns (which appear in 11 different papers in the southwest). Although witty, Scott had a serious subject—putting religion back in churches. He thought this might be accomplished by a little de-emphasis on attendance contests, building programs, conventions, and the like.

Told the story of a fellow he used to know who got a good dose of religion. The oldtimer, a rancher—promptly went about setting straight his past misdeeds. Down the road he dropped in on a neighboring rancher and offered to pay for a few calves he had promiscuously slapped his brand on in the days before he was able to afford religion.

"Well," says the neighbor who was now able to afford religion himself, "let's just call it even on that calf branding count."

Dan Mize, McLean's new city manager, arrived the first of the week. The former Jacksonville man has had plenty of experience in town building, and over at our house we are betting that Dan Mize and McLean will be going places.

W. H. Brown, brewer of Hickman's Golden Spread coffee, and other concoctions of questionable origin, was thwarted in a clandestine coup Tuesday.

"It was all a mistake," he sheepishly claimed after Victor Cliett overtook him on the way to the Lions Club in Cliett's Chevrolet.

Hickman's plot failed when Mrs. Cliett spied him rounding the corner in her car.

The middle-aged druggist mumbled some pitiful story about thinking he was borrowing Exie Edwards' Chevrolet and getting in the wrong car by mistake.

The Photo Shop in McLean announced this week the purchase of a new "photo cop," machine which will produce copies of documents, letters, other papers in a matter of minutes. J. M. Payne, owner, said that all copies of important papers heretofore had to be done by a photographic process which was expensive and time consuming. Now, however, the copies will be available almost instantly and at less than half the cost of the photographic process. The new device is a Cormac photo copy machine.

LIBRARY OPEN HOUSE

Open house will be held at the Lovett Memorial Library Sunday, April 12, from 3 to 5 p. m. The public is invited to make plans to attend.

Crossroads Philosopher Addresses McLean Men

Speaking with the dry wit that has made his "Crossroads Report" famous throughout this area, D. E. Scott of Wellington spoke to the Methodist Men's Fellowship here Monday night.

Scott proposed the organization of a new club to be known as the SFPBIC club—Society for Putting Religion Back in Churches.

"Sometimes there are two or three nights a month when we don't have somewhere to go . . . so you can see there is a great need for another club," he said. "Of course, we may run into opposition on this—probably from a lot of preachers—because it'll interfere with attendance contests, building campaigns and all those activities."

Scott said if the churches demodernized and discontinued trying to "keep up with the church down the street," then it might be possible to . . . get in a salvation sermon now and then.

"It might also restore a little reverence by getting rid of the casual, indulgent attitude God. We might have as much reverence as, say, when President Eisenhower or Elvis Presley speaks."

Since television and movies have come into their own, it has become big business to get people to come to church, the veteran newspaperman told his audience.

"I can't say as I blame preachers too much for soft-pedaling religion. After all, they've got to eat just like the rest of us."

"It might be a good idea," Scott concluded, "if we started bringing a little religion to church with us on Sunday and get it re-

PRODUCTION TO BE GIVEN BOTH MATINEE AND EVENING

McLean High School's seniors will present their annual play tomorrow, giving a matinee and evening performance.

J. M. Payne, owner, said that all copies of important papers heretofore had to be done by a photographic process which was expensive and time consuming. Entitled, "We Dude It," the play is a farce comedy, to be given in three acts. The afternoon performance will be given at 2:30 p. m. and the evening will start at 7:30 p. m. For the matinee admission will be 35 cents for students. Night admission will be 35c for students, 50c for adults, and 75c for reserved seats.

LOCAL GIRL PLAYS WITH 'DOLLS' TEAM

Two girls were playing on the Dowell's "Dolls" girls basketball team of Amarillo when they met the famous Wayland Flying Queens in Tulsa Tuesday night.

On the "Dolls" roster were Laura Mae Switzer of McLean and Mary Ann Freeman of White Deer. Although it was the first time the Dolls had played together, they made a tough fight of it all the way and lost by a 31-48 margin to the experienced Flying Queens.

Local teams are preparing for the Women's National AAU basketball tournament which will start March 29 at St. Joseph, Mo.

The Dolls, sponsored by Bob Dowell of Amarillo, are chosen from outstanding senior girls who have completed their high school eligibility in basketball.

Laura Mae is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Switzer of McLean and the niece of Miss Eunice Stratton, also of McLean.

Attending the game Tuesday night were Mr. and Mrs. Switzer and Glenda, Miss Stratton, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack R. Riley and Stephanie.

Others present were Mesdames Roy McCracken, Homer Wilson, C. B. Ivabody, Ellen Wilson, Alice Wilson, C. M. Carpenter and J. A. Sparks.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Gilson and children of Olton were Sunday guests of Mrs. Howard Gilson and children.

McLean's First City Manager In Office

Speaker to Present Bible in Pictures

Mid McKnight who will be holding the series of gospel settings which begin at the Church of Christ in McLean on Sunday night of next week is an outstanding Evangelist. He used the Bible lanes in 1954 and has a thousand colored slides of that country. Many of these slides are used in connection with the lectures. He gives each evening as he takes us on a journey through the Bible. Four nights are spent in lecturing on the Old Testament and four nights on the New Testament with the illustrations on a large screen for each of the lectures.

He has delivered over 277 lectures in 22 months and thousands of people have heard him in these lectures. Almost without exception they have been delivered to full houses wherever he has gone. He has presented them twice in his home town of Plainview, Texas and each time the building there has been filled to capacity.

The public is cordially invited to attend these lectures. There is no admission charge and no collection will be taken.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Elliott and children of Lefors visited with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Brad Kiser, Monday.

McLean's first city manager took office Wednesday. Dan Mize, formerly of Jacksonville, moved to McLean the first of the week and after a couple of days in the "moving in" process got down to business Wednesday morning.

For the past 16 years he has served as director of general services in Jacksonville.

"I'm here to cooperate with the council and any group to promote the best interests of McLean," Mize said.

He got his first taste of city government here Monday night at a called meeting of the city council.

"My main function is to carry out policies and plans of the council to the best of my ability. If my experience will help in formulating any of these policies then I am more than glad to help."

Politically speaking, Dan says he is neither a conservative nor a liberal, but " . . . conservative to the point of not sacrificing quality."

The Mizes—Dan and Dell—moved into a house just brought into town by Jim Hathaway and located north and west of the West Wind Motel. They have no children.

The Mizes are members of the Presbyterian church, and Dan has already joined the Lions Club. "What impresses me most is the friendly people of the Panhandle," says the handsome city manager. "I think the whole area is a progressive place to live."

Dorothy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Miro Pagan. She has served as drum major of the McLean High band.

TWO-BY-FOUR SITUATION—Tom Wingfield (played by Keith Goodman), finds his home life so cramped by constant nagging from his mother (Peggy Sharp) that he feels he is in a "two-by-four situation" from which he must escape. Holding a record in the background is Tom's sister, Laura Wingfield, played by Elizabeth Boston. The action comes from Keith Wolfe's production of "The Glass Menagerie" by Tennessee Williams. The McLean High players will enter this in the Interscholastic League One-Act Play Contest.

Dress Rehearsal For McLean Contest Drama Slated Monday

"I give you truth in the pleasant disguise of illusion," says Keith Goodman—one of the principal actors in McLean high's entry in the Interscholastic League one-act play contest.

The line comes from Tennessee Williams' shadowy, soft-lighted "Glass Menagerie"—a famous and emotion-packed drama directed here by Keith Wolfe, MH S speech instructor.

Undoubtedly, it is one of the best performances people of this area will have the opportunity to witness in several years. The public is invited to a dress rehearsal Monday night at 8 p. m. in the high school auditorium.

Besides Keith Goodman, there are only two other characters in the play—Peggy Sharp as Amanda Wingfield and Elizabeth Boston as Laura Wingfield.

The McLean players are to enter Williams' imaginative production in the Interscholastic League contest to be held Tuesday in the District XI 2-A contest in Lefors.

The playwright's first Broadway hit, "Menagerie," has enjoyed numerous revivals throughout the country by both amateur and professional theatre groups. Jane Wyman, Arthur Kennedy, and the late Gertrude Lawrence starred in a noteworthy film adaptation.

"The play is memory," explains Tom, the narrator (played by Keith Goodman), at the outset of the drama, as he recalls the cramped "two-by-four situation" he has fled. This involves himself, his mother Amanda (Peggy Sharp), and his crippled sister, Laura (Elizabeth Boston). All three living in close quarters in a shabby tenement in St. Louis during the depression thirties. Amanda Wingfield has been everything her daughter is not— (Continued on back page)

"ARBITRARY, DISCRIMINATORY, UNREASONABLE AND UNFAIR"

Some time ago the Internal Revenue Service ruled that the cost of institutional advertising placed by utility companies in opposition to socialization of this industry was not deductible in computing federal income taxes. It thus ruled, in effect, that the advertising was not a legitimate business expense.

This attitude, it is important to note, did not meet with the favor of the National Association of Railroads and Utilities Commissioners—the organization which represents the state regulatory bodies. In a formal resolution, it denounced the ruling as "arbitrary, discriminatory, unreasonable and unfair," adding that it "represents a serious disservice to the state and federal agencies engaged in regulating the charges of such companies. . . . It then resolved that the ruling should immediately be rescinded and annulled.

Various individual state commissions have also protested. For instance, the Delaware commission in a letter to the Federal Power Commission, defended, among other things, the right of utilities to use advertising "to seek support for the preservation and maintenance of the private enterprise system. . . ."

Internal Revenue seeks censorship of opinion on pain of heavy tax penalties. It is heartening that defenders of the right to speak one's mind are rallying to the cause.

TOWARD BETTER COMMUNITY RELATIONSHIPS

Nine supermarket managers have just been given awards by Justice Tom Clark of the United States Supreme Court. They were earned for "outstanding achievement in promoting better community relationships," an dresulted from an unique nation-wide contest designed to encourage active participation in community affairs.

This is an annual program, sponsored by a food chain association. A special jury composed of distinguished men outside the retail industry, is the arbiter. A questionnaire prepared by the Teachers College of Columbia University is used to select the winners of local awards from which the national winners are finally chosen. Queries concern such matters as membership in community governmental bodies, activity in behalf of local welfare campaigns, participation in civic and church affairs, and so on.

The winners deserve the acclaim they have been given. Beyond that, this program signifies the deep and increasing interest chain stores of all kinds, along with other retailers have in community betterment and progress. If any business is to succeed, the town as a whole must succeed, in all the facets of town life. Intelligent business people know that and act accordingly.

A SECOND INCOME

Just about everyone would like a second source of income, aside from that which comes from their jobs and crafts and professions. And a good many millions of people now have that second income. It arrives thru the mail, and it represents dividends paid on common stocks, or interest on bonds.

The New York Exchange has now issued, for free distribution, a basic guide for common stock investment, entitled, "Dividends Over the Years." It tells about the functions of the Exchange and of the services offered by its member firms. It lists some 365 stocks which have paid a cash dividend every year for 25 years to more than a solid century. And it describes the popular MIP—meaning Monthly Investment Plan—whereby one can buy stocks of one's choice out of income in amounts ranging from $40 a quarter to $1,000 a month.

Basically, the reason for the Exchange's issuance of this booklet is to try to persuade investors, large and small, to get the facts before they commit their money. The worst possible way to invest is on the strength of tips and rumors—or, most fatal of all, in answer to the blandishments of boiler shop operators who use high-powered phone and wire solicitations to dupe the unwary. There's no such thing as a sure-fire profit in you sign to buy a new car, the money order you purchase at the bank or post office, or the traveler's checks you take with you on a trip instead of cash, all are negotiable instruments.

It was all started by merchants who had to send large sums of gold or currency between cities or nations. They worked out a way to exchange money, or the value of money, by written messages, much of the time through a third party like a broker or bank. But when you deal in pieces of negotiable paper instead of hard money, there have to be certain standards and safeguards or the paper could lose its value.

IT'S THE LAW IN TEXAS

Nonnegotiable Instruments

The average person does not often use the term "negotiable instruments" in his everyday conversation, and the words may not mean much to him. Usually, it is just a mouth-filling term used in law to describe certain important pieces of paper that we normally call by simpler names. Even though we seldom use the words, we deal with negotiable instruments all the time. Every check we write to pay the gas bill is a negotiable instrument, and so is your pay check or pension check. The note

Consequently, there developed a whole system of laws within nations and between nations upon which all our business rests. Through the courts, if necessary, the terms of negotiable instruments may enforce the terms written on the paper.

In the United States things used to be confusing sometimes because of different state laws, but by 1904 all 48 states had adopted a uniform negotiable instrument law which sets up the same rules nationwide. Since so-called negotiable instruments are so important, since they are ordinarily just like money in many ways; since they often are used like money, or are sold to other persons or companies, and since there are special laws defining the ins-and-outs of negotiable instruments which we wouldn't ordinarily have any reason to know about, there are one or two simple rules we should follow:

We should make certain we read what's on the paper, that we know what the words mean, and that the penalties and dangers may be BEFORE signing our name.

Remember, you are the only person in the world with that signature, and the courts, as a rule, must take your signed promises at their face value.

The Sabine Lumber Company attests to the truck's ability to take it: "Chevrolet makes the best truck for our type of operation"

Out where a truck is known for the beating it can take, Chevy's making friends fast. Truckers like the way these toughies hold up; the way they wade right in, take their lumps, yet stay in shape.

Today, it's grit that Chevy's showing the trucking industry. Real toughness that pays off in long after-job dependability . . . in ability to get work done at least expense. You can match Chevy muscle against any tough light, medium- or heavy-duty job and know you've got it beat!

Your Chevrolet dealer's ready right now to meet your special work requirements. Stop by and get him soon.

No job's too tough for a Chevrolet truck!

Area Observations

Over in Canadian where the former editor, Ben Ezzell, is again engaged in a hot editorial battle with the opposition weekly concerning city government, he nonetheless finds international politics a bit dull.

Quoth the editor: "The news on the international front, anyhow . . . is like a boarding school."

the same yesterday, today and forever. Until somebody pushes the wrong button, anyhow."

Max Wade, editor of the Groom News, tells this on one of his best small fry. "I don't want to scare you," said the third-grader to his teacher, "but my daddy says if I don't get better grades on my next report card, somebody's gonna get a spanking."

"And the reason you can't take it with you," Max says, "is because you didn't bring it."

From the wistful pen of Matador Tribune Editor Douglas Meador comes this bit: "The dreamer is heir to solitude; the seion of loneliness and sublime tranquility."

Mrs. Carroll Koch, Quanah Tribune-Chief publisher: "Middle age is when our tripping becomes less high and more fantastic."

In a round-about way (through the Tullia Herald) comes another Ernest I. Joiner story. Joiner, editor of the Rails Banner, has gained considerable notoriety for his uninhibited, nay blunt, expressions of unorthodox views. In Youngster Hit by Car After Church Sunday Injured But Slightly Editor Pat Bennett really shouldn't quarrel with me for dropping the editorial 'we,' especially when he can't even spell the word 'butt.'"

The second was a big two column headline on front page of the Rails Banner which read as follows: Contract Offered County Farmers for Gowing 423 Acres of Vegetables.

A search of Webster's New International Dictionary (Second Edition) failed to unearth either 'couny' or 'gowing.' Reluctantly, we came to the conclusion that Ern had published Errors.

It would seem that Ernest I. is reading The Review better than he is The Banner. We can only congratulate him on his excellent taste and admit, in all modesty, that The Review is the best place to find out what has happened."

AUTOMATED MAIL—Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield poses beside a short portion of conveyor belts in the modernized Washington, D.C., city post office building. Here are some chores performed by various machines in the highly mechanized system: letters are sorted and directed to any of some 300 locations at a rate of 18,000 pieces per hour; stamps are canceled so fast that letters move past cancellation machine in a "white blur"; sorting of large parcel post packages is semiautomatic. Something the machines won't do: read Uncle Bill's hen-scratched addresses on his all-but-illegible letters.

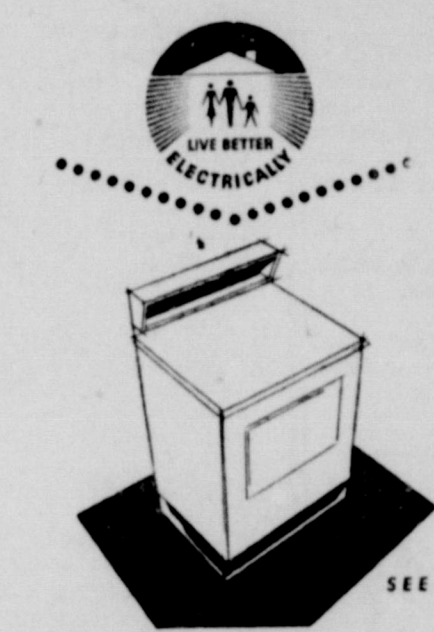

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lee Howard and daughters, Jeanene and Cecile, of Amarillo visited with relatives here Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Meacham and son, Joel, and grandson, Charlie Don Vineyard of Shamrock, visited relatives in Turkey Sunday.

"... next to me I like blankets dried ELECTRICALLY!"

"I'm really a great guy — I can tell the way Mommy and Daddy gurgle over me — and the way their eyes sort of get misty when they pick me up and hold me. Of course, I have to give some credit to my blankets — they're dried in an electric dryer — which means they're so soft and fluffy that they don't scratch me. Makes a big difference in a baby's comfort and disposition. Makes me a really great guy!"

"PATIENCE"

By Jesse Leonard, Pastor, First Baptist Church

In the book of Hebrews, 10th chapter and the 36th verse the statement is made, "You have need of patience." In our language of today it has been said, "We are living in an age where we hurry up and wait." Patience has been defined as a cat waiting to catch a mouse. Waiting calmly, in faith, and without worry until the opportunity comes. Is not this our need of today when we are going at an "Atomic Pace." In days gone by our ancestors would miss a stage coach and wait until the next week for one without any confusion. Today if we miss a slot in a revolving door we get ulcers from the delay.

Let us all pray the prayer as follows:

Slow me down, Lord! SLOW ME DOWN!
 Ease the pounding of my heart by the quieting of my mind.
 Steady my hurried pace with a vision of the eternal realities of time.
 Slow me down, Lord!
 Give me, amidst the confusion of my day, the calmness of the everlasting hills. Break the tension of my nerves and muscles with the soothing music of the singing streams that live in my memory.
 Help me know the magic restoring power of sleep and faith in God. Teach me the art of taking minute vacations . . . of slowing down to look at a flower, to chat with a friend, to pat a dog, to read a few lines of the Good Book.
 Slow me down, Lord!
 Remind me each day of the fable of the hare and the tortoise that I may know that the race is not always to the swift; that there is more to life than increasing its speed.
 Slow me down, Lord!
 Let me look upward into the branches of the towering oak and know that it grew because it grew slowly and well.
 Slow me down, Lord!
 And inspire me to send my roots deep into the soil of life's enduring values that I may grow toward the stars of a greater destiny.
 Slow me down, Lord! Amen.

Christian Chorus Sings in McLean

The 60 member chorus of the Lubbock Christian College presented a special hour of a cappella singing at the Church of Christ Monday night. Their presentation of hymns and sermons-in-song was well received by a fine audience of local people and visitors from surrounding communities.

Lubbock Christian College is only in its second year of operation, but has a student body of over 300, nearly all of whom are taking music of some form or other. One of the outstanding things about the choral group is that there are no tryouts and every student who desires and has ability is permitted to sing with the group. There were about 30 members who did not make the trip to McLean. The chorus is under the direction of Wayne Tinds, who received his training at West Texas State.

The Remarkable Story of Wide-Track Wheel Design

*How It Started • How It Works
 What This Highly Successful
 Pontiac Achievement Means to You*

It all started, as most innovations do, with a problem to be solved.

The problem was that when you turned a corner or rounded a curve your car swayed and everybody aboard leaned with the force of the turn.

Over the past few years car body widths have been increased to give you more passenger room and comfort. But widths between the wheels have not increased proportionately. This between-wheel width is called the "track".

A wide body without a wide track is top-heavy, lacks balance, looks awkward. It's a little like a husky football player, wearing wide-shoulder pads and dainty ballet slippers, running with his feet close together.

THE SOLUTION

The answer was simply to widen the track to match the body. We moved the wheels five inches farther apart. This widened the stance, but not the car. This was the birth of Wide-Track Wheel design.

You use the same principle and feel a similar effect when you stand erect with your feet spread wide apart. You're braced and steady.

LEAN AND SWAY REDUCED
 Our first road tests showed how significantly we had reduced lean and sway. The car held to the turns and hugged the curves as had no other car we had ever driven, except for sport cars which of course are not designed primarily for passenger comfort.

This greater stability gave the driver a noticeably improved feeling of security, control and confidence. All passengers, back and front, rode with less fatigue, more comfort.

IMMEDIATE PUBLIC ACCEPTANCE
 It usually takes car owners a little time and many miles to be convinced of the merits of many automobile engineering improvements. That's because some gay, vivacious, courted. Such charms not availing, Amanda fell for a scowling telephone man who, in turn, "fell in love with long distance" and abandoned her.

While Tom is struggling to support the family on a $65-a-month job, Amanda devotes her inexhaustible energies to Laura's future. A business career is rejected when Amanda discovers that her daughter has dropped out of business college after becoming ill one day in class. "But," reasons the indomitable mother, "some let's do marry"; whereupon she resolves to find a husband for Laura and starts selling magazine subscriptions "to feather the nest and plume the bird."

Tom, meanwhile, is wearying of his mother's endless harangues and "projects." The two quarrel; Tom tries to make mother face facts; he succeeds only in upsetting the table bearing Laura's cherished collection of glass animals—"the glass menagerie."

This, and her father's worn-out phonograph records, are Laura's refuge from the outer world—Tom's workaday world of long hours and low wages, which he seeks to escape at the double-feature movies he attends night after night. It is after sitting through one of these and watching the added attraction of a music show, that Tom comes home drunk—roaring drunk, but sober enough to size up his "two-by-four situation."

"It don't take much intelligence to get yourself into a nailed-up coffin," he mumbles to Laura as she tries to quiet him. "But who ever got himself out of one without removing one nail?"

On this questioning note, Director Wolfe has concluded his cutting. But the Wingers are not the sort of people for whom things turn out happily. The play's tragic conclusions are foregone: when Laura's "gentleman caller" does finally appear, he will, of course, be engaged to another girl; Amanda, blaming Tom for everything, will inevitably drive him away from home; and Laura, just as surely, will have to give up her glass menagerie, her candlelit world of reverie.

"Blow out your candles, Laura," Tom admonishes in his final speech, "for nowadays the improvements are far removed from the car owner's everyday driving experience.

Not so with Wide-Track Wheels. There was an immediate understanding of what we had done and a fast and favorable response to its advantages.

From the first week our dealers began demonstrating the 1959 Pontiac, we knew Wide-Track Wheel design was every bit the accomplishment we had hoped for. People who drove the car told us it was the finest, easiest handling automobile they'd ever been in.

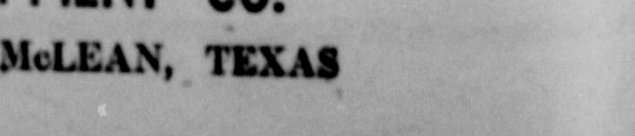

WHO'S BUYING ALL THE NEW PONTIACS?

Pontiac sales, we are happy to report, have confirmed public opinion. This car has apparently captured the imagination of tasteful people who were looking for clean, uncluttered styling. People attracted by the quality of workmanship and attention to detail we give every single Pontiac we build. And, of course, people quick to grasp the remarkable story of Wide-Track Wheel design.

YOUR NEW PONTIAC

Investing in a brand-spanking new automobile, fresh, sweet-smelling and totally different is a wonderful thing to happen to a family in the spring. Wouldn't it do your morale good to become the owner of a gorgeous new Wide-Track Pontiac within the next few weeks?

We are confident it is an automobile in which you will take great pride and from which you will reap much personal satisfaction and enjoyment.
